DR. WILLIAM O. SHEWMAKER

THEME AND DEDICATION

In a period when traditions and values count for so little, when sentiment and ideals are discounted, it is our wish to show that these still hold their place at Southwestern despite conditions in the outside world.

Here, each day still begins with morning worship; academic life is balanced with recreation; firm, lasting friendships are established, and fields for opinion are unlimited.

Southwestern's atmosphere is reflected in James Hilton's "Mr. Chips." The book has the same cloistered setting, the same activity and a Mr. Chips like our own. "Chippie" gave a great deal to his students - - time, appreciation, devotion, and instruction. Grateful for the same lasting values, we dedicate this book to Dr. Shewmaker because he is the symbol of our theme.

"Ye are wondrous strong, yet lovely in your strength."--Byron.

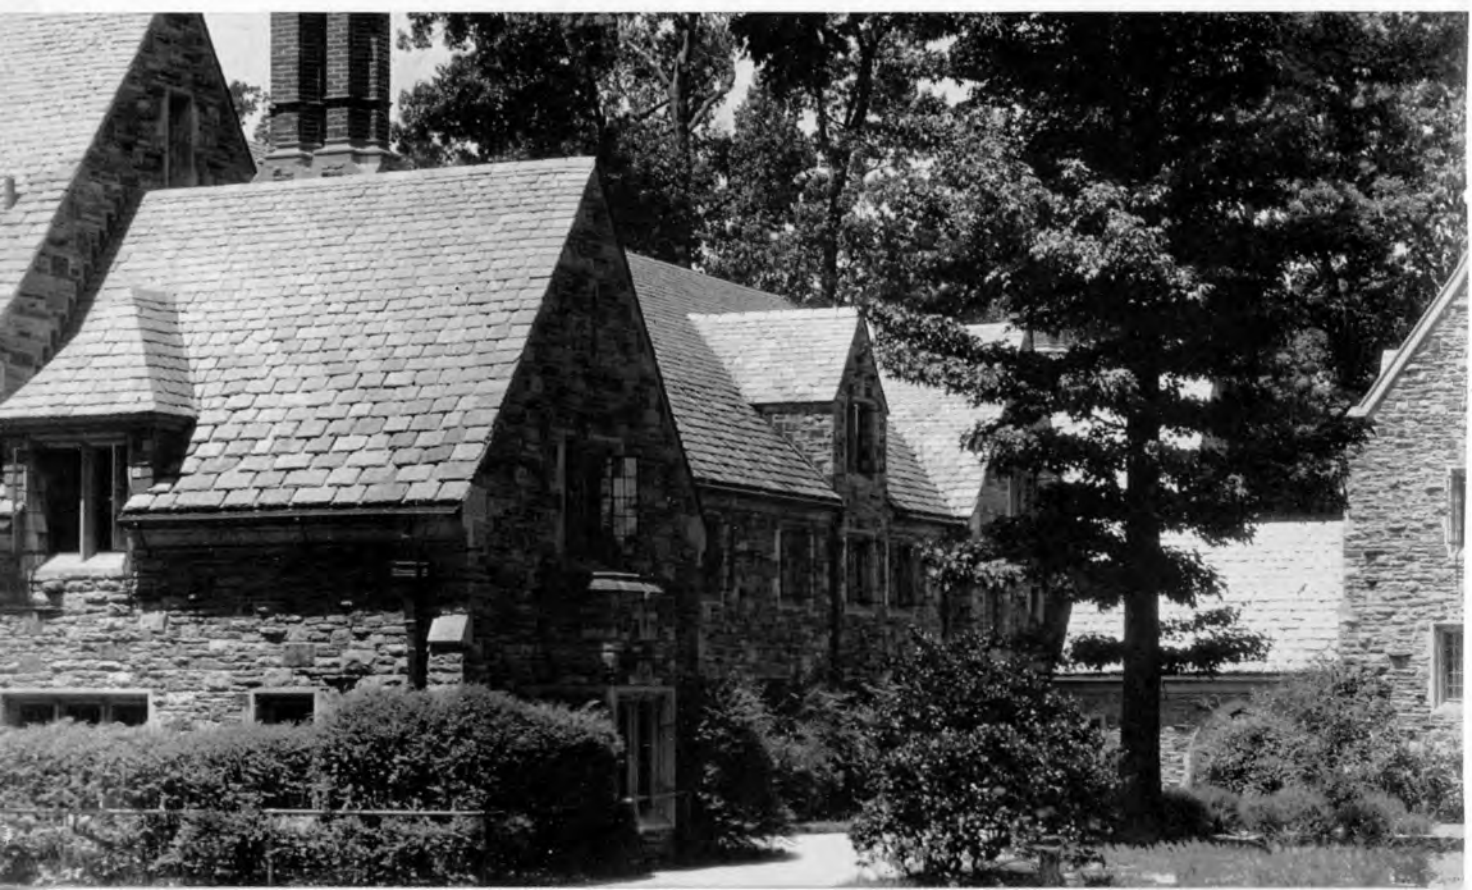
MRS. CHARLES E. DIEHL

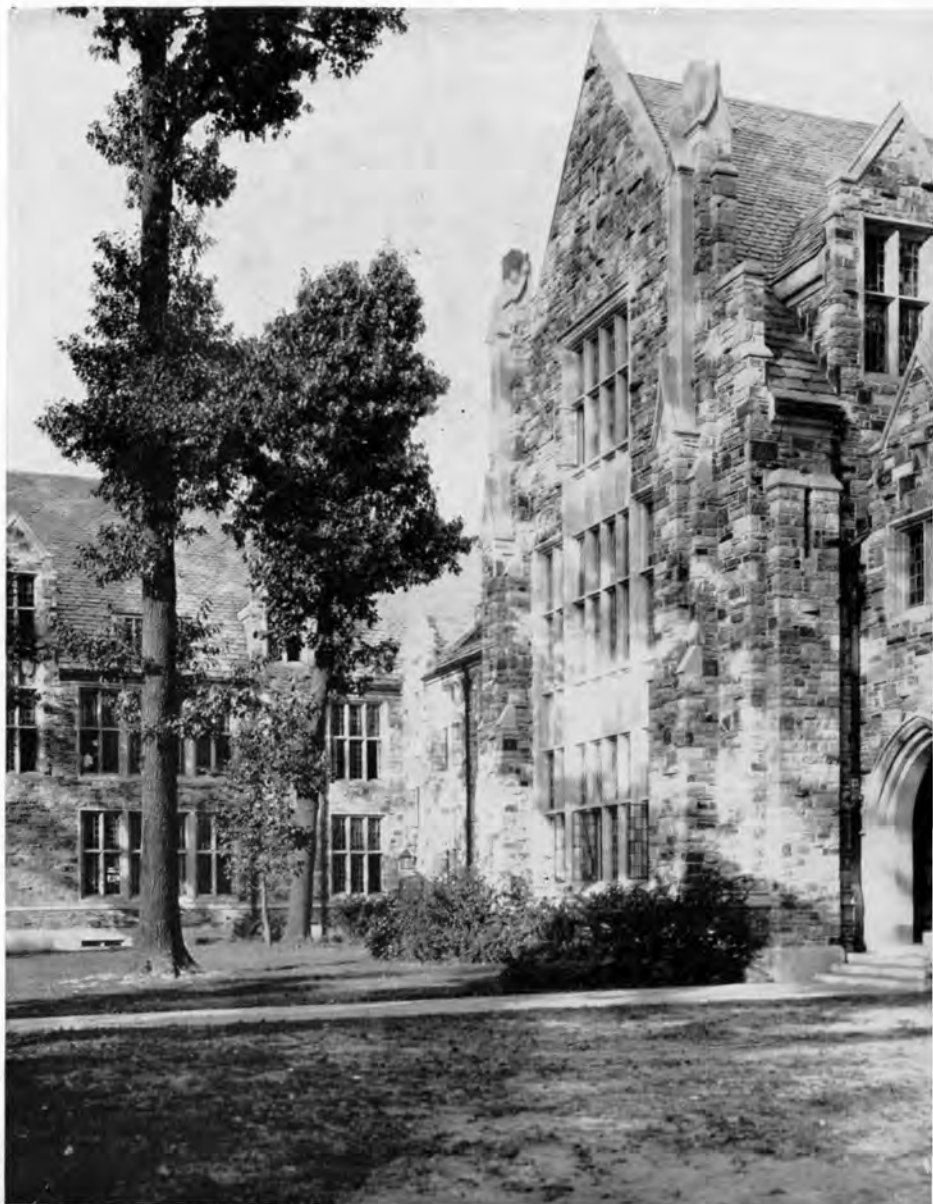
"Still achieving, still pursuing."--Longfellow.

"As half in shade, and half in sun, this world along its path advances."--Moore.



"Its...paths of joy and woe with cautious steps we'll tread."--Cotton.

"The life of mortal men beneath thy sway is held."--Homer.



Characters

In every book some characters are more important than others; some leaving a lasting impression, others being more or less transient.

There are two opposed schools of thought on the question of whether it is the faculty or the students that make a college. We are fortunate in having a good selection of both to serve as the characters of this book.

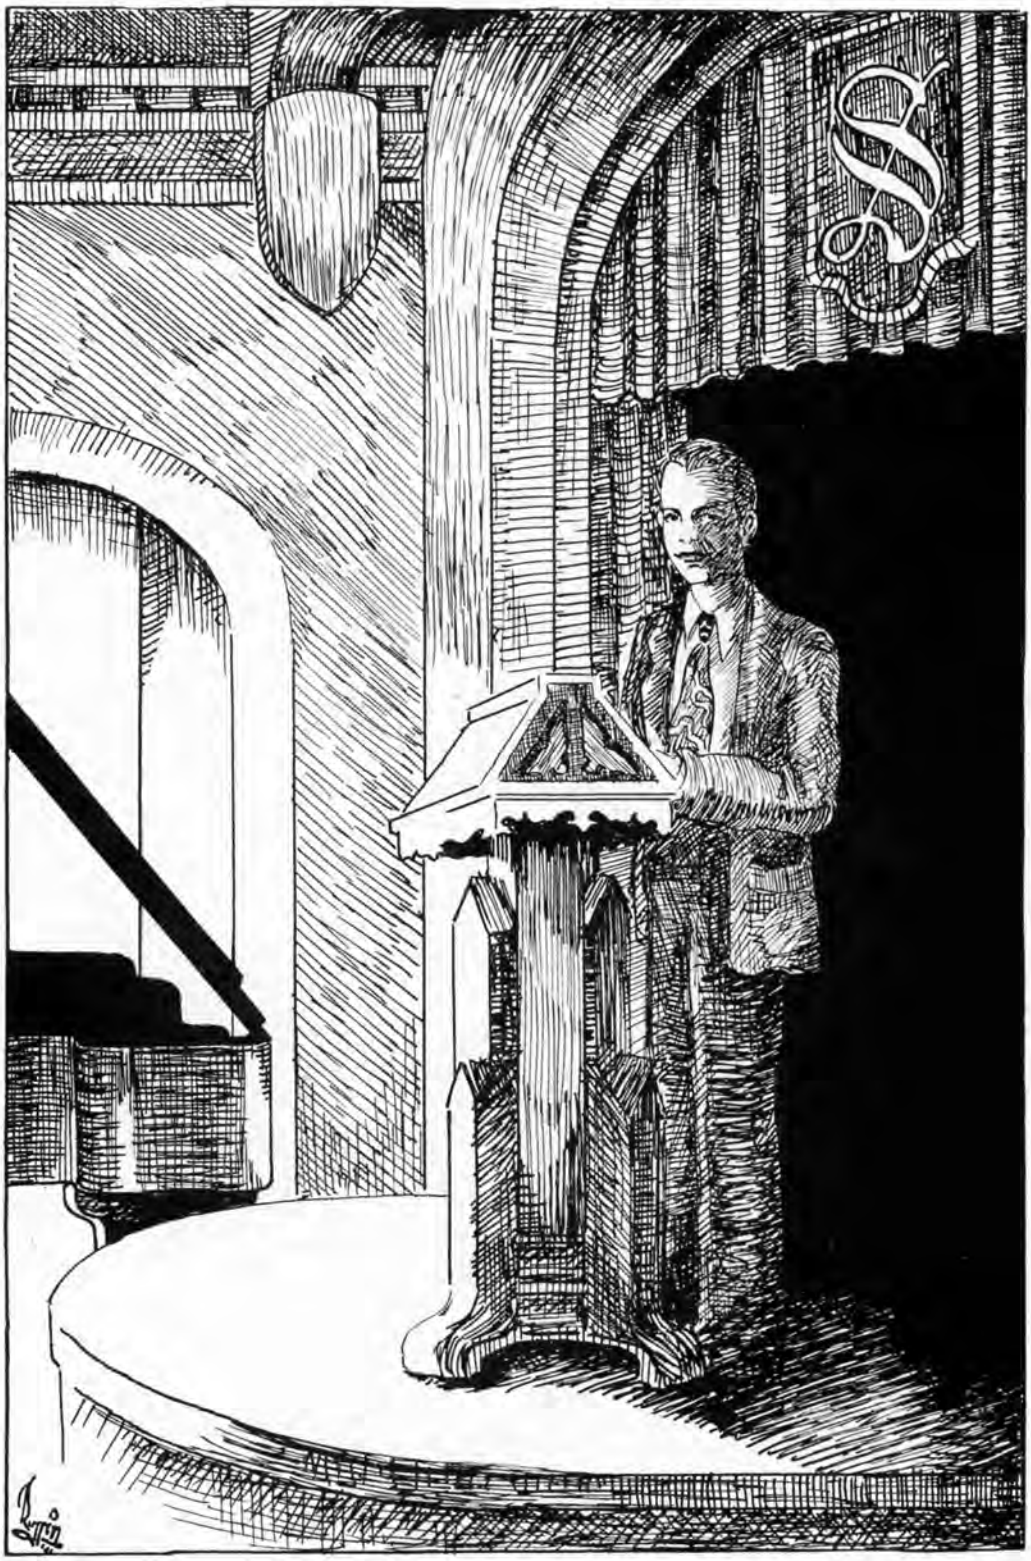
Plot

There are three types of collegiate honorary societies: those which recognize merit, those which bring good fellows together, and those which merely cater to the ego of the individual. Southwestern is blessed with a number of all three types. Since the founding of the college these societies have existed under various names and for various purposes. The good-fellowship societies have more recently been edged out numerically by organizations recognizing merit.

The honorary societies perform one very worth-while function at Southwestern. They provide opportunity for students to become better acquainted with each other and promote more interest between upper and lower classmen since their membership depends upon the selection of new men and women by the outgoing members. The associations and friendships formed in honoraries are every bit as pleasant and lasting as those in dormitory and fraternity activity.



THE INDISPENSABLES

Part of the tradition at Southwestern for friendliness and helpfulness is the "Staff." Pictured here are Mr. John Rollow, Supervisor of Property; Miss Mary Marsh, Librarian; Mr. C. L. Springfield, Bursar; Miss Erma Reese, Secretary to the President; Mrs. Edward Turner, Assistant Alumni Secretary; Mrs. R. B. Bright, Assistant to the Bursar; Mr. Warren D. Howell, Bookkeeper; Miss Annie Beth Gary, Registrar; Mrs. James Stewart, Assistant Registrar; Miss Mary Pond, Alumni Secretary; and Miss Ireys Martin, Cashier.

Alpha Theta Phi is the local honorary scholastic fraternity. It has membership requirements similar to those of Phi Beta Kappa. Only upper-classmen with an average of 3.4 or above are eligible. The offices of the group automatically go to the three students with the highest averages. Alpha Theta Phi presents awards at graduation to the members of the four classes who have the highest scholastic averages for the past year.

The purpose of Stylus Club is to recognize and encourage literary ability. The present club was formed by a merger of the men's and women's literary organizations, Sigma Upsilon and the Bluestockings. New members are chosen through invitation to submit papers in competition, the best of which are chosen for membership. The club works in co-operation with the Journal, the campus literary publication, and offers awards for the best manuscripts submitted. Professor Falk is faculty advisor.

THE SOUTHWESTERN PLAYERS

The Players constitute the dramatics organization on the campus. Under their sponsorship are given the Fall, Spring, and Commencement Plays.

Only members of this group, under the direction of the speech professors, Mr. Russell Archer and Mr. Barrett Davis, are eligible for participation in the stage productions. Membership is open to all students for the first two weeks of each semester, but is then closed until the next semester.

The three productions this year were "The Night of January Sixteenth," "The Royal Family," and "The Rivals." Some scenes from "The Royal Family" are shown below. A few of the technical workers are pictured constructing part of a set, and also some "candid" shots of one of our juvenile lead players practicing a love scene with a "friend," and then a picture of the scene during the play.

The intramural board under the direction of Coach Murel Nemechek is in charge of intramural activities. This group looks after the necessary recreational activities of the student, and under their capable direction a very thorough program has been developed. The different groups compete in softball, football, basketball, volleyball, golf, track, tennis, horseshoes, badminton, ping pong, tug-of-war, wrestling, boxing, and similar sports. Awards are made to the winning teams and to the final winners for the entire sports year. Coach Nemechek has also developed a series of individual tournaments and sponsors contests between Southwestern intramural teams with those from off the campus. Intramurals offer a chance to all students in an all-round sports program.

The Changed Athletic Policy
Summary of Basketball
The Football Season

(Editor's Note: The editors appreciate Mr. Stewart's efforts in writing this article and are grateful for the fact that he finished it only ten days after our deadline.)

Step closer, ladies and gentlemen. Please do not obstruct the view of late arrivals, for all of you are about to witness a feat unparalleled in all the history of animal husbandry. Yes, ladies and gentlemen, we are about to lay an egg on a typewriter.

Of course, you may not see the thing at all. It may arrive on the editor's desk too late. Hurrah. The spasm was supposed to see the light of afternoon several eons ago, but the cross currents of life have run at cross purposes. Mr. Jac Ruffin, a most persistent bloke, rallied round in the dim past and asked us to write something for this pillar of collegiate fire and (having mislaid the word "No") we said: "Yes." This landed us squarely between the dock and the boat, for Mr. Ruffin has been a part of our design for living since that date.

We find him emerging from the breakfast food to scream: "How about that epic?" He lies in wait behind potted palms—waits beside our midnight pallet and spoils things no end. A master of communication, he has dispatched messages by telephone, telegraph, carrier pigeon, pony express and word of mouth—the latter by the ton.

So (hope having fled to a happier land) we plunge into the confusion of it all. What was that, Jac? Oh, you want the 1940 athletic history of Southwestern and you'd like to spill over into 1941? If you want our No. 1 personal thrill, it came in the Lynx gym when the student body rose to boo us for jarring minutes. Honestly, we didn't think we had that many readers in the entire Mid-South. A wilting ego never encountered stiffer starch.

Well, Southwestern went off the pigskin standard. That was the biggest slice of Lynx news. We were personally disappointed by this move, but the fellows in the athletic office know a great deal more about it. From this point forward, Lynx football teams will be made up of students who will be helped into a pair of football shoes and put on their own. No more room and board on the school—no more recruiting.

This follows a rising sports trend in which the smaller schools sheer away from the big leagues. This is largely as it should be. The little fellows have been punching bags long enough and it's about time they withdrew into their proper sphere. A squad of 20 men has no business matching beef with five-team hordes which can produce it by the solid ton.

We were mainly disappointed because the purge came on the heels of one of Southwestern's best freshman teams. Fellows like Kenny Holland and Bob McKinney lifted the first-year men into high southern headlines. We would have preferred one more swing around the circuit, but a great many things are for the best. Probably this one is, too.

Lynx officials were more than doubly fair with men who had come into school with athletic scholarships. These fellows will continue to wield them right on through the years remaining 'ere graduation. You can't ask more than that.

As for individual performance, George Blakemore stood out like Gargantua's thumb on Hedy Lamarr's left hand. George owned the sharpest basket eye we have seen in several centuries of press boxing. He scored from all positions including the horizontal. How he accomplished anything from this posture is quite beyond us (so many things are quite beyond us). But he did. It was more than a treat to watch him at this tactic.

Spread flat on his stomach—with two men standing on his back and another on his right wrist—he would flip the ball upward and inward. Another goal and Southwestern wasn't quite so far behind.

Southwestern and Memphis State staged three of the roughest battles since Sherman roamed through Georgia. We wouldn't call it basketball. If forced into a corner, we really wouldn't know what to call it. Mayhem is such a mild term. Slaughter leaves much to be desired. Call it anything you like and we won't carry it to the Supreme Court. It just wasn't basketball.

If it had been, State would have walked off with victories more lop-sided than a wrestler's skull. As a matter of historical fact, State won the first pair narrowly and fell upon the ear in the final. This final was by far the most startling of the lot. For the incomparable Blakemore went out on fouls on the very threshold of the second half. We were reaching for our hat (a truly natty relic) when Mr. Beryl Waller went slightly nuts and filled that State hoop until it overflowed and drowned five innocent bystanders.

We can't decide who was most thoroughly amazed—State or Stewart or Mr. Waller. But there's no use quarreling about that. There was enough amazement to go round the table twice and leave a full meal for the cat.

The Lynx played some grand and some terrible football. The weather was almost entirely terrible. Southwestern would disgorge a fine game—of the Mississippi State type. The populace would set aside the following Saturday and ring it in red. The skies would then ring the field with bog, morass and quagmire. Slothing through this with great determination, the opposition would ring the Lynx's eye with black.

The next week-end would almost always be fine and the Cats would win a game. Through the cycle once more. This emptied the war bags and was largely responsible for the death of athletic scholarships.

Southwestern took a few shocking beatings, but most of the ball was above reasonable reproach. Mississippi State was generally recognized as the Southeastern heavyweight champion, but the Cats frightened State fearfully. The score was 13 to 0 for the Bulldogs, but Southwestern was much better than that. Two touchdowns escaped by the skin of a gnat's fang and Bulldog shoulders were frequently pressed against that last white stripe. Coach Allyn McKeen admitted that the Lynx line was stronger than the forward wall of Auburn, a team which held Mississippi State to a tie.

Some of Southwestern's best football was played against Clemson. These Clemsons were stout enough to win the Southern Conference title, but the Lynx tied them 12 to 12—should have won. Clemson scored the score-knotter in the final 10 seconds after Abe Palmer had played one of the best fullbacking games Crump Stadium has ever seen. We always believed this stumpy fellow had a superb performance buried somewhere within him. And it boiled out against Clemson. He smothered Tiger runners beneath tons of tackle—ripped the line into fluttering ribbons and threw two passes that made the difference.

And that 1941 football Lynx is a dangerous looking critter. He's months away, but we can already hear a snarl rattling far back in his chest. Or is it merely Stewart shaking his head again? Look on these pages for the answer and the decision of the judges will be final.

Experiencing only a mediocre season as far as the won and lost column, the basketball team produced one of the South's outstanding stars in its captain, George Blakemore. In the inter-city contest with Memphis State, Southwestern lost the first two games by one and two point margins, but won the last game by a substantial margin. The team had four new men in its ranks, Small, Collier, Wellford, and Nall.

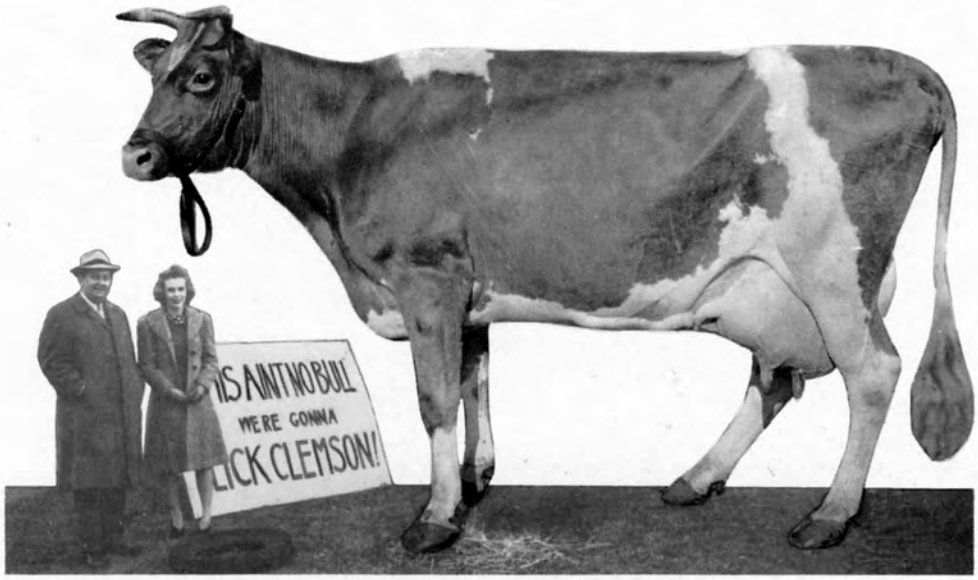
WILLIAM WOOTEN ROBERT McCRARY ROBERT STITES, Captain ROBERT McKINNEY

Under the direction of Dr. Jacob Meadow the golf team experienced only an average year. Winning from Lambuth College, the quartet lost to Sewanee, Ole Miss, and Spring Hill. The team is composed of three veterans and one freshman, McKinney. They are entered in the approaching Dixie Conference Meet.



ADVERTISEMENTS AND SNAPSHOTS

THE Buyword OF A NATION

SEARS used to be just the name of a small-town railroad station agent up in Minnesota. Today it's the buy-word of a Nation. Such is the power of an idea!

Richard W. Sears had a sixth sense. Instinctively he visioned the possibilities of mass manufacture and mass distribution much as Franklin must have sensed the possibilities of electricity when he drew the lightning down from the sky with a kite string—or Watt must have seen the future of steam when his teakettle lid whistled.

Mixed with his vision of faith. He knew that if he gave the people better goods for less money, they wouldn't let him down.

Nor was the unspoken covenant of faith one-sided. To make the thing work, the public had to believe in Sears, just as devoutly as Sears believed in the public.

Fifty-five years have rolled by since Dick Sears sold his first watch. Since then America has been setting its watch by Sears' promise to give more and charge less.

Because that promise has never been violated "Sears" has become the buyword of a Nation.

A CITY WITH A FUTURE

The future of any city and its surrounding territory depends upon the men and women it raises up to direct it.

We, Memphis Food Brokers, are confident of the continued prosperity and well being of our section because we know that SOUTHWESTERN is today training its leaders of tomorrow.

These Food Brokers compliment Southwestern on its service to Memphis.

SOUTHWESTERN

MEMPHIS, TENNESSEE

A Standard College of Arts and Sciences
A College of High Ideals and Personal Attention

The greatest thing about a college is the character and ability of its instructors. A grateful pride is felt in the faculty of Southwestern. The greatest care has been used in the selection of these men. They are all Christian men of sound scholarship and they are great teachers.

The architecture is of the collegiate Gothic type and the plant is entirely modern, beautiful and enduring.

Nothing has been spared that contributes to the highest good and efficiency of the individual student, and as a result Southwestern offers unusual advantages.
