Exciting Play Promised By Lynx Team This Fall

Barring injuries to key men, Southwestern's current football team should be the best since big-time ball was abandoned in 1941. Beginning September 1, Coaches Rick Mays, Oscar Wright, Bill Maybry, student coach Reg Germany, and volunteer coach Jack Caskey, a senior at Vanderbilt who played under Mays at Central, have been conditioning the squad and teaching them the Mays version of the "T."

The squad is a little thin in places, and overall depth is needed, but the quality is highly pleasing to the coaches. A substantial nucleus of men from the squad of last year and an unusually promising crop of freshmen provide the reason for optimism. In an intra-squad game on September 11 the new men edged the veterans by one touchdown.

Among the veterans are Captain Tom Tosh, Huntington, Tennessee, and Jim Edens, Okolona, Mississippi, ends; Earl Browne, New Orleans, and Jim Breazeale, Crenshaw, Mississippi, centers; Gerald Smith, Sumner, Mississippi, Jim Brankstone, Whitehaven, Tennessee, and Roxie Lee, Spring Hill, Alabama, guards; Jim Gillis, Whitehaven, Tennessee, and Jim Jones, Lucy, Tennessee, tackles; Jim Turner, Memphis, and Crawford Street, Whitehaven, quarterbacks; George Harmon, Memphis, Harry Heidelberg, Memphis, Jim Higgason, Pine Bluff, Arkansas, Rick King, Memphis, Gene Maddux, Nashville, Tennessee, and Smoky Russell, Memphis, halfbacks; George Gracey, Covington, Tennessee, and John Lawhorn, Lebanon, Kentucky, fullbacks.

Several locally well-known players are numbered among the newcomers. Halfback Johnny Martin was an all-Memphis, all-Tennessee, and all-America back at Central High; Bobby Rose was all-city end at South Side last year; and Billy Young was Treadwell's all-city quarterback.

A number of others are on a parity with these and probably will contribute as much to the team. At end are John Dunlap, Memphis Central; and Sammy Shaifer, Leland, Mississippi. Tackles are John Kopsinis, Memphis CBC; David Simpson, Memphis Central; Charlie Sullivan, Tunica; and Buck Wade, Batesville, Mississippi. The only guard is Bob Templeton, Memphis Treadwell.

The squad was seriously handicapped by injuries during the first month of practice.

Coach Mays is making no prediction about the success of his team. "We may lose every game," he says. "But we will play good football."

John Pierre LeCoq

Faculty Is Augmented By Ten New Professors

Ten new professors are now teaching in the College, some of whom are additions necessitated by the increased size of the student body and by new fields of study now offered for the first time.

John Pierre LeCoq, a native of France, joins the Department of Romance Languages as John Hay Whitney Foundation Visiting Professor.

The Whitney Foundation selects certain professors of national prominence who have recently retired but whose health is good and whose intellectual vigor is unabated, and sends them, salaries paid, to a small selected group of colleges. This is only the third year in which the Whitney plan has been in effect. Southwestern is very fortunate in being one of seven liberal arts colleges chosen for this honor during the academic year of 1954-55.

Mr. LeCoq was educated in France, at Rennes and the University of Paris. He joined the faculty at Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa, in 1918 and was for many years and until his recent retirement, head of the Department of Romance Languages in that university. He is the author of a number of publications in linguistics and philology.

Dr. Perry D. Scrivner has been named Associate Professor of Education. He comes to Southwestern from Arlington State College, Arlington, Texas, where he had been

Mallory Gymnasium To Be Dedicated On Dec. 10

The campus is looking forward to the dedication of the Neely Mallory Memorial Gymnasium, which will take place on the evening of Friday, December 10. The highlights of the occasion are (1) an address by Mr. Edwin Foster Blair, a fellow student at Yale and long time friend of Neely Mallory, and (2) a basketball game between Sewanee and Southwestern. The public is invited to attend without charge.

On the evening following the dedication ceremonies, Southwestern will continue its celebration by meeting Ole Miss in a basketball game and Davidson College will be pitted against Sewanee.

The gymnasium has for some time been completed and has been in use by the football squad since practice started September 1. Classes in physical education for both men and women are in full swing. The coaches have been ensconced in their new offices since early summer, and equipment rooms have for weeks been bulging with gear.

The college is very proud of its splendid new gymnasium, and only a leisurely tour through it reveals its many points of excellence. In addition to the usual rooms and equipment found in gymnasiums it has a number of interesting features, such as the fifty-bed sleeping quarters for visiting teams and two handball courts which the students are already using and enjoying.

The basketball court is maximum size, and on either side are roll-away bleachers which seat some 1500 people. The balcony seats an additional 700.

Prominently displayed in the lobby are two large tablets, a dedicatory one of bronze briefly summarizing the major services of Neely Mallory in behalf of alma mater, his city and community, his country, and Southwestern; and a second tablet of aluminum giving the names of the Southwestern men who gave their lives in World War II.

The present structure is only two-thirds of the gymnasium as planned. The remaining third will be constructed as soon as funds are available. The administration is hoping that the necessary funds can be provided in the very near future. The projected third will house a swimming pool and gymnasium for women, who now share the use of the basketball floor with the men.

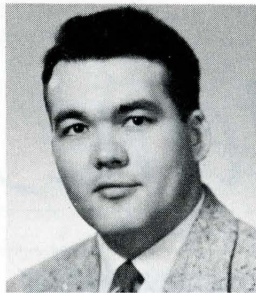

The new gymnasium fills one of Southwestern's greatest and most long felt needs, and students are already enjoying it very much. When cool weather arrives to stay for the winter, and the season for basketball, volleyball, indoor tennis, modern dance, and the like open, it will be one of the most used buildings on the campus.

Chairman of the Department of Education and Psychology.

Following his graduation from Birmingham-Southern College, where he was an English major, he went to Emory University and acquired a master of arts degree in religious education. He also took a master's degree at Yale in the philosophy of education. His Ph.D. is from the University of Texas, and his doctoral dissertation was on the early development of the idea of the common school in this country.

Scrivner

Dr. Myrtle Corliss Nash has been named Associate Professor of Psychology. She leaves Drake University to assume this position at Southwestern. Following her graduation from Swarthmore, she attended Bryn Mawr, which awarded her both master's and doctor's degrees. Her home is in Springfield Garden, New York.

James E. Roper, a Southwestern alumnus whose home is in Memphis, has been appointed to an assistant professorship in English. After his graduation in 1948 he won a Rhodes Scholarship and spent two years in Oxford, receiving the B.A. degree from Exeter College in 1950. During the next two years he held the Sterling Fellowship at Yale and received the master's degree from that institution in 1951.

He has now completed all academic requirements for the doctorate at Yale and expects to receive the degree upon the successful completion of his dissertation on William Blake and William Butler Yeats. He comes to Southwestern from Dickinson College in Pennsylvania.

Dr. Jack Unger Russell, of West Point, Mississippi, has been appointed to the mathematics department as Assistant Professor. His alma mater is the University of Mississippi, where he received his bachelor's degree in 1949 and his master's degree in 1950. While there he found time to play varsity football for the Rebels. He was awarded the doctor's degree by the University of Illinois in June of this year. He has taught at Ole Miss and Illinois.

Kenneth Pearce comes to the Physics Department from the University of Virginia. He holds degrees from Wittenberg College, Springfield, Ohio, and the University of Akron. He is a candidate for the degree of doctor of philosophy at Virginia as of next June. At Southwestern he is assistant professor.

Jack Elwood Dodson, who hails from Fort Worth, has succeeded Olive Westbrooke Quinn, resigned, as Assistant Professor of Sociology.

He received his undergraduate education at North Texas State College and McMurry College in Abilene, Texas. He then entered the University of Texas, took his M.A. there in 1951, and has now completed requirements for the Ph.D. He is a candidate for that degree as of February 1955.

Added to the Department of Romance Languages is Dr. George Russell Raymond.

A native of Waterbury, Connecticut, which he still calls home, he began his higher education as a major in musical theory and composition at Yale's school of music. But during his years in the army he became interested in foreign languages, French in particular, and after his discharge from the armed forces he was graduated from the University of Indiana with a major in French.

He then took a master's degree at Middlebury College, Vermont, and during 1949 and 1950 spent about a year in Paris, studying at the Sorbonne and the Institute de Phonétique. Upon his return to this country he entered Yale University and last June was awarded the doctor's degree.

During these years of higher study he taught for a time at Union College, Schenectady, New York.

Dr. Almonte C. Howell, Jr. of Chapel Hill, N. C., joins the Department of Music as Assistant Professor of Music History and Church Music. He received a master's degree at Harvard and a Ph.D. from the University of North Carolina. He has also studied in France as a Fulbright scholar.

After an absence of two and a half years during which he served in the Marine Corps, Donald L. Warmack has returned to the faculty as teacher of violin.

A native of Arkansas, Mr. Warmack received his bachelor's degree at Hendrix College and later studied at the University of Southern California. He has also studied with Joseph Fuchs of the Juilliard School of Music.

Football Clinic For Memphis Boys Registers Big Success

The junior football clinic on the morning of September 4 for boys through junior high school was a huge success. Under the general direction of the Southwestern coaching staff and the especial direction of football coach Rick Mays, two hundred youngsters put in several hours learning the fundamentals of the game.

The teachers in the clinic were the head coaches of Memphis' nine high school teams. They, with the events they directed, are as follows:

- Punting—Ruffner Murray, Central
- Passing—Preacher Roberts, Messick
- Pass Catching—Jack Stribling, South Side
- Pass Defense—Rube Boyce, Humes
- Ball Handling—Bill Hofer, Catholic
- Blocking—Lloyd MacDougal, Treadwell
- Tackling—Norman Hodgins, CBC
- Ball Carrying—Kenny Holland, East
- Place Kicking—Roger Coggins, Tech

The coaches used the members of the Lynx squad to demonstrate the various phases of the game. Goodbar Morgan, alumni secretary, acted as registrar.

The boys were divided into two groups—grade and junior high—and competed in their respective divisions. Events held in the grade school group were passing for distance, punting for distance, and a sixty-yard dash. The junior high school boys competed in passing for distance, punting for distance, and an eighty-yard dash. New regulation footballs were awarded the winners in the six events.

Following the clinic the coaches had luncheon in Neely Hall, at which they laid plans for next year's clinic.

Coach Mays was delighted at the response to the clinic and at the enthusiastic cooperation of the coaches who acted as instructors.

Jennie Lee Davis, '54, Scores

Success In Summer Theatricals

Jennie Lee Davis, '54, who made a name for herself on the Southwestern stage and throughout Memphis with her outstanding performances in Oedipus Rex, Electra, Thornton Wilder's The Skin of Our Teeth, Christopher Fry's A Phoenix Too Frequent, and other plays, made quite a hit at the Barter Theatre, Arlington, Virginia, this summer.

Last June when she headed for her first experience in "stock," she hoped to win at least a couple of walk-in roles. Her first assignment was to handle props for Mister Roberts. Then came a small part in Heart of a City, after which an Abingdon newspaper critic compared her (unfavorably, unfortunately) with Edith Piaf.

Then came the big break. Readings were held for Macbeth and Jennie Lee won out over even the regular members of the company and was given the coveted role of Lady Macbeth. Not only this, but she also managed to win the role of the Princess in James Thurber's Thirteen Clocks. Best news of all was that these roles would be hers, not only for the summer, but when the company goes on tour in the fall.

As if these two breaks were not enough, Mary Chase personally selected her to take over when illness prevented one of the leading actresses from appearing in the premiere of Mrs. Chase's new play, Lolita. Jennie Lee was given the script on Saturday night and opened two nights later, letter perfect.

Most satisfying of all to Jennie Lee personally were all the kind words lavished upon her for these three performances by the same critic who had, only a matter of weeks before, panned her Barter Theatre debut.

"I know I'm going to fall flat on my face one of these days, but it's certainly wonderful while it lasts." That is how Jennie Lee looks upon all the breaks which have come her way since she began her apprenticeship at the Barter Theatre last June.

Book Festival Set For Nov. 4-6

Dr. Jay Stein, librarian, is deep in plans for a novel kind of celebration—novel at least in these parts—a book festival. In store for all who are interested, from noon Thursday, Nov. 4, to noon Saturday, Nov. 6, at Southwestern's Burrow Library will be a gala festival in honor of books and print.

It will not be necessary for anyone to take the three days off and pitch his tent in order to enjoy the benefits of this event. All one needs to do is visit the library exhibits of new, used, and early books; publications by alumni and Memphis authors; and displays on the freedom of the press and the history of printing.

Visitors can also add books and pamphlets to their personal collections at very small expense by purchasing at the library Book Bazaar. They will be invited to attend showings of movies on the history and manufacture of books.

The public is invited to add to the displays of old books or alumni writings, or to make other suggestions for honoring what has done so much toward revolutionizing the lives of us all—the humble book.

Enrollment Is Up Over 1953

For the third year in succession the enrollment at Southwestern shows an increase. The number of regular students stands at 510, against 486 for last year. In addition there are 16 special students and 67 nurses from the Methodist Hospital taking certain academic courses, making a total of 593.

As was true last year, the dormitories are filled, and some boarding men have had to find rooms off the campus. All space in the dormitories had been reserved by early summer and many applications had to be declined. There is, however, still room for day students.

There is every reason to believe that the increase in enrollment will continue. This being so, high school seniors hoping to enter Southwestern should make reservations early. Applications are already being received for the session of 1955, and it is altogether possible that by spring no more rooms will be available for out-of-town students.

Fraternity Open Houses—after the game until 6:00 p.m.

Alumni-Student Dance—8:00-12:00. Neely Memorial Gymnasium.

Palmer Shines On Frisco Menus

Southwestern alumni from Kansas and Oklahoma to Florida who patronize the dining cars of the Frisco Railroad have been pleasantly surprised during recent weeks.

Prominently displayed on front of the Frisco menu is a picture of Palmer Hall, set off by symbolical representations in pen and ink of the torch, the mortar, the parchment, the pen, and the female figure of the Genius of Learning, whose scroll covers the globe.

The menu backs a 250-word descriptive and historical sketch of the institution from its founding in Clarksville in 1848 as Montgomery Masonic College, to the present.

From: President, Class of 1953 Alums
Subject: Order of Battle with the enemy (i.e. Class of 1952)

In a recent conference between Roscoe Feild and Allen Cooke at an undisclosed coffee house in Memphis, a contest was initiated between the Classes of 1952 and 1953 to determine which class could get the greater number of its members to participate in the Southwestern Alumni Fund. It seems that Roscoe, who had had several cups of coffee, was boasting of the excellent record his Class of 1952 had made this past year, and in a fit of exuberance challenged our class through Allen.

Needless to say, the fight is on, as you probably noticed in the Southwestern News. Also, as you doubtless noticed, the battle is going in our favor, as the score listed in the News was as follows:

Class of 1953.....9.3%
Class of 1952.....4.2%

The purpose of this letter is to urge you to stop now, put a dollar (or more) in an envelope addressed to Goodbar Morgan, Alumni Secretary, Southwestern at Memphis, and mail it at once so that we may get 100% participation. Remember, all such gifts are deductible from income tax (if that means anything).

As a noted Second Lieutenant of the Navy's Marine Corps, Charles McAllister, probably once said, "Never underestimate the power of your opponent." So don't let's consider our fortress impregnable and slack off, assuming everybody else will do the job. We need your dollar!

Nautically yours,
George W. Wilson (Class President)

"Keep the Fleet to Keep the Peace"

Ed Francisco, '52, Takes Alarm

Dear Classmates of 1952—

Do you realize that we are behind in the Alumni Fund contest with the Class of 1953? Unbelievable as they may be, the standings here before me show that our class is not in first place at this moment.

Perhaps, since we were the winners last year, you have decided with the attitude of a champion that this was something you could tend to later. I'll confess that I postponed sending my check until today, when I realized how far behind we are and how close is the deadline. We just can't let these youngsters beat us. The standings show that some of you have put off sending your check until the last minute, just as I did, but we can win if you do your part today.

We are asked for only $1.00. Please send your dollar right away to Goodbar Morgan, Alumni Secretary, Southwestern at Memphis.

Good luck to each of you. Hope to see you at Alumni Day next year. Why don't you drop Goodbar a few lines about what you are doing and where you are, so that we can keep up with you?

Yours sincerely,
Ed Francisco, President

Men-of-Memphis Sing Praises Of Ed Thompson As Chef

The Southwestern Men of Memphis barbecue on Saturday afternoon, August 21, was more than a success—it was one of the most enjoyable get-togethers this group has held in some time. The barbecue has now become an annual affair and is always looked forward to with a great deal of interest.

Approximately sixty Southwestern men spent the afternoon engaged in horseshoe pitching, badminton, ping pong, checkers, and genuine good fellowship at the beautiful country home of Ed Thompson on Holmes Road. Late in the afternoon a delicious barbecue supper was served. Ed's homestyle barbecue, baked beans, slaw, and all the trimmings will long remain a pleasant memory. His reputation as a connoisseur of barbecue is even more firmly established than heretofore.

After several hours of heated competition in the horseshoe, badminton, and checkers tournaments, Hank Springer emerged victorious in horseshoe pitching, Bedford Dunavant copped the badminton championship; and Lee McLean walked off with the checkers title. "Handsome" trophies from Woolworth's bargain counter were awarded to the winners by Dr. Peyton N. Rhodes.

Hank Springer, chairman of the Barbecue Committee, was ably assisted by Billy Hughes, Lee McLean, and Bill Haynes. The officers of the Southwestern Men of Memphis, who assisted in making the barbecue such an enjoyable and highly successful get-together are: Ira Pyron, Jr., president; Malcolm Perry, vice-president; Bill Haynes, Secretary, and Sam Mays, Treasurer.

Men-of-Memphis Party On Nov. 12

An elaborate dinner-dance is being planned by the Southwestern Men of Memphis on the night of November 12 at the University Club. Southwestern will play Sewanee in a football game the following day on Fargason Field. All Southwestern alumni in Memphis and the Memphis area are urged to keep this date in mind, and make plans now to attend this function. Further details will be sent to the alumni later.

Class Notes

CLASS OF 1878

Judge John W. Green, Fountain City, Tennessee, gave the principal address at the dedication of the new six-story Supreme Court Building, in Knoxville, Tennessee, on May 20, 1954.

CLASS OF 1900

Dr. and Mrs. William Monroe Clark, 920 Maxwell Avenue, Orlando, Florida, visited the campus a few hours in June. Dr. and Mrs. Clark were en route to their home after a visit with their daughter in Arlington, Texas.

CLASS OF 1917

Dr. Robert M. McGehee, of Baker, Louisiana, has been selected by the Progressive Farmer and the Town and Country School of Emory University as Louisiana's Rural Minister of the Year. Dr. McGehee is pastor of the Presbyterian church in Baker, and under his leadership the church has built a six-room manse, made repairs and improvements on the church and is helping to build a better, friendlier community.

CLASS OF 1921

Dr. William Crowe, Jr., has left the Wilmington, North Carolina, Presbyterian Church to become the leader of the historic Presbyterian church at Roswell, Georgia. He had served as pastor of the Wilmington church since 1942. Dr. Crowe, one of the outstanding clergymen of the Southern Presbyterian Church, resigned the pastorate of a 1,200 member church to become the leader of a small church because he feels that a small congregation presents a unique challenge for the Christian ministry. He is married and has three daughters.

CLASS OF 1926

James A. "Jack" Thompson, 1029 East Three Notch Court, Andalusia, Alabama, was a visitor on the campus in July.

CLASS OF 1928

Mary Jewel Barden and Lynn J. Binford, both of Brownsville, Tennessee, were married May 15, 1954, at First Baptist Church in Tupelo, Mississippi. They are living at Nut Bush, Tennessee, where Lynn has business and farming interests.

CLASS OF 1929

Dr. Moore Moore, Jr., Memphis orthopedic surgeon, is spending a month in Tokyo and Korea. A civilian consultant to the Surgeon General, Moore will inspect work done in Army hospitals.

Wilson Mount, program manager of WMCT, Memphis television station, was named president-elect of the National Shrine Chanters Association at the recent Shrine Imperial Council convention in Atlantic City. He will take office in July, 1955. Wilson is married and has one son.

Edward F. Thompson, assistant vice-president of Union Planters National Bank, has been elected president of the Harvard Club of Memphis.

CLASS OF 1930

L. Palmer Brown, III, 345 Roseland, Memphis, has been named chairman of the national American Red Cross convention to be held next June in Atlantic City. Palmer has long been active in Red Cross work, having been chairman of the Memphis and Shelby County Chapter. He is director of the Family Service, the Sunshine Home, the Community Chest, the Cancer Society and the Methodist Hospital, a trustee of the Leath Orphanage and a steward in St. John's Methodist Church. He and Mrs. Brown have a daughter, Axson, 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Heidelberg have moved to 326 Stonewall, Memphis, from Huntsville, Alabama. Fritz is on the staff of the National Cotton Council. The Heidelberg children are: Harry, sophomore at Southwestern, Gay, 15, and Aleesa, 6.

Dr. and Mrs. William F. Yost (Margaret McKinstry) have moved back to their home at 5901 Hawthorne Road, Little Rock, Arkansas. They had been living in Waynesville, Missouri, while Dr. Yost was in the service. He is now once more in his dental office, and Margaret is reference librarian for the Arkansas Library Commission.

CLASS OF 1931

Frances Arthur and Dr. Malcolm Lorimer MacLeod, both of Gainesville, Florida, were married May 14, 1954, by Dr. U. S. Gordon, '15, in his study at the First Presbyterian Church of Gainesville. Dr. and Mrs. MacLeod will spend the summer in Charlottesville, Virginia, and in Canada. They will make their home in Gainesville, where Dr. MacLeod is an Associate Professor of English at University of Florida.

CLASS OF 1932

Oliver P. Cobb, Jr., Whitehaven, Tennessee, is the new president of the Tennessee Society of Certified Public Accountants.

Mr. and Mrs. Dabney Crump, Jr., 4160 Tuckahoe Lane, Memphis, are the parents of a son, Dabney Hull, III, born June 2, 1954. The Crumps have three other children, Carol, 11, Bobby 9, and Pam, 7.

Dr. and Mrs. James G. Hughes (Jane Barker), 175 Chickasaw Parkway West, Memphis, are the parents of a daughter, Anne, born July 20, 1954. Jane and Jimmy also have two other daughters, Jane and Sally, and a son, Allen. Jimmy has been appointed civilian consultant in pediatrics for the Army in the European Theater and left the last of August to spend five or six weeks visiting Army hospitals.

Colonel George M. Jones, operations officer for the Ninth Corps, has been decorated "for meritorious service" by South Korean President Syngman Rhee. He was awarded the Ulchi Medal for Meritorious Service in ceremonies at Seoul the first week of May.

Dr. Paul Tudor Jones, Jr., has accepted the call to be pastor of Idlewild Presbyterian Church, in Memphis. Dr. Jones was pastor of the Grace Covenant Presbyterian Church at Richmond, Virginia. He and his wife, the former Anna Hudson, and their three children, George, Huddy, and Paul, Jr., moved to Memphis September 1.
