

FILM SCREENING

Q&A with producer Mark London and reception to follow the screening

Shark Loves the Amazon

Mark London offers a realistic perspective of Brazilians in the Amazon in “Shark Loves the Amazon”- a documentary he produced after three decades of extensive travels and two books he wrote about the region with journalist Brian Kelly.

The film depicts the hard realities of a region attempting to find the path to a sustainable model of development that promotes economic activity while preserving Earth’s last great forest and its unparalleled concentration of biodiversity.

Sponsored by: Environmental Studies and Sciences Program and the Office of External Programs

Tuesday, February 21, 2012 • 7:00 p.m.
Blount Auditorium
Free and open to the public

