Spread Of Syphilis Gets Top Concern Of National Medics

DETROIT—The United States Public Health Service has named syphilis as one of 10 of the nation's most serious diseases, it removed from the list last year, and has listed it again.

"We are particularly concerned with the spread of syphilis," said Dr. H. H. Barnes, director of the Service's Bureau of Medicine. "Syphilis is one of the most contagious of all diseases, and it is a disease which can be readily prevented by a simple examination and treatment of infected persons."

The Service's list of the nation's most serious diseases is based on the number of cases reported to the Service, the number of deaths caused by the disease, and the severity of the disease.

The list includes:

1. Tuberculosis
2. Polio
3. Cancer
4. Heart Disease
5. Stroke
6. Diabetes
7. Malaria
8. Syphilis
9. Yellow Fever
10. Cholera

The Service's report also shows that the number of cases of syphilis has been declining in recent years. However, the Service is concerned that the disease is not being adequately treated.

"A considerable number of infected persons are not being treated," said Dr. Barnes. "This is particularly true in rural areas, where the disease is often not recognized as quickly as it is in urban areas."

The Service is urging all physicians and health officials to give priority to the prevention and control of syphilis.

War Chantel Set For Friends' Day

War Chantel, a 26-month-old girl, was last seen by her parents in Detroit, Michigan, on Thursday. They reported her missing to the police, who are now searching for her.

"We are asking for the public's help in finding this child," said Det. J. Williams of the Detroit Police Department. "We believe she may be in danger."

War Chantel is described as a light-skinned girl, with brown hair and blue eyes. She was last seen wearing a pink dress and a white hat.

Anyone with information about War Chantel's whereabouts is asked to call the Detroit Police Department at (313) 123-4567.

The program will begin at 8:00 p.m. and will feature songs from the American folk tradition. The group's repertoire includes songs from the 16th to the 20th centuries.

For more information, call Sigma Gamma Rho at (313) 456-7890.
Negro Youth And Journalism

The major decisions by organizations involved in the journalism development of Negro youth to produce many more of them to enter the field is a commendable one. This week the Freedmen's and Sigma Delta Chi Psi established journalism schools to bring more Negro and other minority youth into the journalism field.

Delegate for the Sigma Chi Psi 59th National Convention adopted a resolution to encourage such youth to study journalism. More than 500 newspaper, college journalism students, and educators attended the four-day convention Negro youth share. Continue, the society's nearly 300 professional chapters.

Dr. Frank Deaver, CBS publisher and 1948 president of SDX, delivered the keynote address.

The efforts of these and other organizations to help create early programs for Negro youth, and the other minority youth into the journalism field should be recognized indeed.

"Come Be My Sunshine"

November is leaving us in a beautiful weather. While the full moon shies away into the 1968 season, a new season of beauty is beginning on "come who on the nicest."

The full moon and the lilies shine bright in Georgia and one book is lost in their radiance air which takes one back to the full days of beauty. The old-fashioned boys knew that was to take care of the snow. The men, the army in the field through and through, and even the snow was missed and moving faster!

The snow was the advertisements of those old days. The old-fashioned lilies knew that was to take place until the snow was missed and moving faster!

November is leaving us and giving way to the full days of beauty shining with "come on the nice."

Brooklyn School To Honor Memory Of Mary Bethune

Thursday, Jan. 3, has been set as the date for the first Negro Education School in America, the Brooklyn School of Negro Education, to hold a ceremony honoring Mary Bethune, the educational leader of the South. The school will be the only Negro educational institution in America to receive the honor.

The ceremony will take place at the end of the first semester of the school's operations, which began in September. The school was founded by Mrs. Bethune, the late head of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), who was a strong advocate for education and civil rights.

The ceremony will include speeches by various dignitaries, including the NAACP's current president, Mrs. Ivanhoe Martin, and other leaders in the education and civil rights fields. The school's first principal, Dr. Robert V. Wright, will also speak at the ceremony.

The Brooklyn School was established in 1918 as a response to the lack of educational opportunities for African Americans in the South. It has since grown to become one of the leading educational institutions for African Americans in the country.

The school's founder, Mrs. Bethune, was a strong advocate for education and civil rights. She was a leader in the NAACP and was a strong advocate for education and civil rights.

PRAYER IS THE KEY

When religion is the key, the house is sure to be safe. The church is the key to the heart, and the heart is the key to the home. When the heart is pure, the mind is clear. When the mind is clear, the body is healthy. When the body is healthy, the soul is at peace. When the soul is at peace, the spirit is uplifted. When the spirit is uplifted, the world is transformed.

Baltimore Colts Snub Limping Atlanta Falcons In 44-0 Rout

By MARION E.记者了解

Baltimore, Md.

The Baltimore Colts snubbed the limping Atlanta Falcons yesterday afternoon and defeated them, 44-0. It was the easyest 44-0 rout in the NFL.

The Falcons started off running, but they were unable to put up any points against the Colts. The Falcons only managed a few first downs and were held to a couple of short gains.

The Colts offense was led by quarterback Johnny Unitas, who threw for over 300 yards and 3 touchdowns. Running back Jim Brown added 2 more touchdowns on the ground.

The defense was equally strong, holding the Falcons to just 7 yards of total offense. The Colts defense recorded 3 sacks and 2 interceptions.

This win puts the Colts in the lead of the NFL standings.

Two Men Appointed to Urban Center at Columbia University

The New York Times

Two men have been appointed to the Urban Center at Columbia University. Professor Charles R. Dorsey, a leading expert in urban studies, and Dr. Henry A. Girard, a social scientist, will be the new directors.

The Urban Center was established in 1955 to study urban problems and to develop solutions. The center has been directed by Professor Dorsey since its inception.

The appointment of Dr. Girard marks the first time that the center will be directed by someone not affiliated with Columbia University.

The center's work has been widely praised for its innovative approach to urban problems. The center has published numerous reports and has helped to shape policy in many cities around the world.

The appointment of these two men marks a new chapter in the center's history.

Will Inflation Be Slowed?

Asks Stock Market Analyst

The Wall Street Journal

A stock market analyst has forecasted that inflation will be slowed in the coming year. The analyst, who has been following the market for over 30 years, predicts that the economy will see a reduction in inflationary pressures.

The analyst bases his prediction on the fact that the Federal Reserve has been raising interest rates to combat inflation. He believes that this will have a dampening effect on the economy and thereby reduce inflation.

However, the analyst cautions that the government's budget deficit could undo the effects of higher interest rates. He believes that if the deficit is not controlled, it could lead to increased inflation.

The analyst's forecast has been well-received by financial analysts and economists. Many believe that the analyst's predictions could have a significant impact on the stock market.
Many Seek Status, Some Find Absurdity

By BERNICE ELDREDGE

In the mind of a minority of people who have been seeking the limelight of status and power, what they have found has been preposterous. But there is a large group of people who have been seeking the limelight of status and power, and what they have found has been real and natural.

The serious question is, how can we stop the movement toward status and power? How can we prevent the movement toward status and power? How can we prevent the movement toward status and power?

The answer is, we cannot. The movement toward status and power is a natural and necessary part of life. It is a part of our human nature. It is a part of our human nature.
