ident Eisenhower's order for non-discrimination in the employment policies of the agencies. Committee members (l to r) Archibald J. Carey, vice chairman who presided over the meeting, Dr. Ross Clinchy, executive director and W. Arthur McCoy met with the Rev. J. A. McDaniel (r), Mem-

PROBLEMS FOUND IN SCHOOL PROBE IN D. C. NOT RACIAL

Committee Retracing Ground On Integration Inquiry

By LOUIS LAUTIER

Washington Correspondent, Atlanta Daily World and NNPA News Service

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(NNPA)—The House District of Columbia subcommittee, which is seeking to prove that integration in the local public schools lessened the educational opportunity of white children, is going over virtually the same ground it covered on the first day of its public hearings.

Testimony so far tends to show only that school children are school children, regardless of color and that school problems are individual and educational—and not racial.

FACT STILL STANDS

As the second day of the hearings ended Thursday, the fact still stood out that the changeover from a segregated to a nonsegregated public school system had been accomplished in the District of Columbia in an orderly manner.

President Eisenhower was quoted Thursday as having said that the investigation cannot impair desegregation in the District of Columbia of the good sense people here have shown in the manner of accomplishing desegregation.

A telegram from Gerald Morgan, special counsel to the President, to Eugene Davidson, president of the Washington NAACP, said: "Arrangements by congressional subcommittees to hold hearings are wholly independent of the Executive branch and are not subject to the desires of the President. President convinced that no hearings of the subcommittee can impair either desegregation in the District of Columbia or the good sense citizens of the District have shown in their manner of accomplishing desegregation."

The telegram was sent in reply to one sent to the President by Mr. Davidson saying that evidence indicated that "the subcommittee would make a scurrilous attack on colored people of the District of Columbia and the process of desegregation which Mr. Eisenhower and the Commissioners of the District set in motion."

Mr. Davidson told the President that it was important that voters of the country not conclude that the Republican party was indifferent "to this planned attack" and the "attempt to reverse the splendid progress of desegregation in the Nation."

At the morning session Thursday only two members of the six-member special subcommittee showed up. They were Representatives James C. Davis of Georgia and John Bell Williams of Mississippi, both Democrats and speechmakers to White Citizens Councils in the

at the Greater Mt. Zion Baptist Church at an inspirational program sponsored by the Hyde Park-Hollywood Civic Club.

Dr. Jones, president of the famed Piney Wood (Mrs.) Country Life School told the audience in spring story of his life's work in building the school. School Children Restroom Needs To Be Studied Junior had better invent some new schoolroom "excuses" this fall. His usual alibi for being excused momentarily from class may soon be obsolete.

Stanford University has launched a nationwide research project to learn how often Junior needs to raise his hand for permission to perform restroom routines. The project is being sponsored by the Plumbing Fixture Manufacturers Association.

Dr. James D. MacConnell, director of the university's school planning laboratory, plans to catalog the frequency of students' needs by area, economic status, sex and age. The purpose is to establish a guide for the number and types of restroom facilities and fixtures needed in elementary, junior and senior high schools, and universities.

At present, builders and school officials use guesswork or follow tables supplied by local building codes (also based on guesswork) when deciding the number and type of facilities to install in school restrooms.

Consequently, there is wide disagreement as to what would be adequate for children. One toilet per 25 students is deemed satisfactory in some areas, while one toilet per 100 students is acceptable in other localities.

The Stanford project will be completed before the end of the year, according to PFMA. All data will be released to school groups, government agencies, builders, and members of the plumbing industry.

Montgomery Bus Protest Heroine To Speak Oct. 17th

Her Arrest Led To Protest Movement

MRS. ROSA PARKS, BUS PROTEST PRINCIPAL, DUE HERE OCT. 17TH

MRS. ROSA PARKS, heroine of the Montgomery (Ala.) bus protest move which started after her arrest for refusing to give up her seat, will speak in Memphis Sunday, Oct. 7, 3 p.m. for the Woman's Day observance of the Mt. Olive CME Cathedral.

Mrs. Rosa Parks, the Montgomery Ala., seamstress whose refusal to give up her seat in the "white" section of a Montgomery bus, and whose arrest led to the now world known Montgomery bus protest movement is slated to speak here on Oct. 7.

Mrs. Parks is scheduled to be principal speaker for the Woman's Day program of the Mt. Olive CME Cathedral, Linden and Lauderdale, the Rev. H. C. Bunton, minister.

Mrs. Parks will speak at 3 p.m. She has been speaking on the West Coast in the interest of the Montgomery Improvement Association, to give the feminine point of view of the Mass. protest and her personal view in being arrested. She also has made tours in Cleveland, Ohio and Baltimore, Md.

She is an active member of the St. Paul A. M. E. Church, serving on the Stewards Board. Secretary of Montgomery Branch NAACP and Advisor to their Youth Council. Organized the Youth Council in 1953. Member of the Executive Board Improvement Association in Montgomery, Ala.

The public is invited.

Company Head And Employees Say Policeman Mistreated Man

A local police officer was accused of entering a Memphis manufacturing plant and of using brutality in arresting a Negro employee.

The accusation was made Saturday by Louis Boroff, president of the Mari Metal Co., which operates a furniture manufacturing plant at 250 E. Bodley.

The accused officer is Frank Guthrie, and the employee alleged to have been brutalized by the officer is James Thomas Wilkes, 21, of 1608 Pillow.

Police Chief MacDonald, whom it is reported has received a call relating to the incident from Mr. Boroff, is said to have stated that he will "investigate" the matter

SPEDING CAR

According to testimony given in Traffic Court, Officers J. E. Bramlett and Guthrie said that while cruising on S. Third Friday, a car passed them going at an excessively high rate of speed.

In giving chase, they reached speeds of 90 and 95 miles an hour while in pursuit and without catching up with the car, the officers said.

The fleeing car almost collided with another on an intersection the officers further stated.

The officers said that they finally caught up with the car after it pulled up to the Mari Plant, and that the driver had already gone. (Continued On Page Six)

URGES NEGRO VOTE FOR IKE—Archibald Carey, former U. N. Alternate, now vice chairman of the President's Committee on Government Employment Policy, asserted that Negroes have a "tremendous" responsibility to vote for the re-election of President Eisenhower because Eisenhower "has done more to advance the cause of human rights since Abraham Lincoln" in an address to a local Republican sponsored rally here. Negroes Have A 'Tremendous' Obligation To Vote For Ike, Archibald Carey Says

BY RAYMOND E. TISBY

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (SNS)

"Negro Americans have a tremendous responsibility to hold up the arms" of President Eisenhower in the coming November elections because Eisenhower has done "more to advance the cause of human rights since Abraham Lincoln" than any other President since Abraham Lincoln, avowed Archibald J. Carey, former U. N. alternate delegate and vice chairman of the President's Committee on Government Employment Policy, in a speech here.

The Negro, Carey felt, would be an "ingrate" if he failed to vote for Eisenhower "who has spelled out Freedom in big letters."

"No one serves the cause of freedom more fervently and efficiently than Eisenhower," Carey declared, adding, "while the Democrats talked about civil rights Eisenhower did something about it."

Eisenhower's record of civil rights accomplishments will cost him some votes Carey believed and reasoned "there must be a measurable degree of increased support" from Negro voters to offset this.

The former Chicago alderman cited Eisenhower's removal of 150 years of Southern tradition in the nation's capital and making it the "showplace" of American democracy.

"The status of the Negro today is higher than ever before because of President Eisenhower," Carey asserted, pointing to such history making appointments as J. Ernest Wilkins, assistant secretary of labor; Scovell Richardson, chairman of the U. S. parole board, the naming of a Negro as Washington, D. C. chairman of public utilities, etc. His talk here was his first speech making engagement since returning from a 39-day trip to the Middle East and while explaining that he was out of the country during the recent national conventions and could not make his views known at that time, Carey criticized Negro Congressman (D. Ill.) William Dawson's stand on civil rights during the national Democratic convention as "treacherous and shameful."

He cautioned against voting for President Eisenhower and a Democrat Congress and felt that "Eisenhower will write a still better record for human rights, but it is important that he has a Republican Congress."

He pointed out that the election of a Republican Congress would strip many pro-segregation Southern Congressmen of their now held important committee chairmanships.

The "Peace, Prosperity and Progress" GOP campaign theme "is not a slogan, but a record of real accomplishments," Carey contended as he urged a full voter turnout for both President Eisenhower and a Republican Congress.

Carey was in Memphis to preside over the President's Committee on Government Employment Policy meeting with the heads of Memphis federal agencies and later addressed the rally sponsored by the Tennessee Republican Minority Groups division.

Lt. George W. Lee of Memphis, division state chairman is working to swing 85 per cent of the 100,000 Tennessee race voters into the GOP column.

Carey, who spoke at Clayborn A.M.E. Temple, was introduced by Atty. Herbert Harper, GOP candidate for the ninth district U. S. Congress seat now held by Democrat Cliff Davis.

Other members of the 12-member Shelby County Republican slate for national and state office, including three Negro candidates for the state legislature, were present.

New Southland Dog Track Seen As Social Outlet

A "new social outlet" for the professional and business Negro leader and all racing fans is the description of the Southland Greyhound Park told to the Press by a spokesman for the West Memphis track. "At last the Memphis area Negro professional, business groups, and racing fans have a recreational outlet where they can take visiting peers for a worthwhile, wholesome social outing without fear of embarrassment," a spokesman for the Southland Greyhound Park told the Negro Press.

The spokesman pointed out that except for the separate seating area required by Arkansas state laws all facilities for white and Negro are duplicated and are of the best track accommodations offered anywhere.

While Negroes are at present required to sit in a 240 seat section all other facilities are equal to those provided for the whites.

Equal snack bar and rest room facilities (with a maid and porter) are provided for both white and race patrons.

"Except for complying with state laws that require separation all patrons are free to mingle on the track," the spokesman asserted. Present plans include increasing the number of seats in the "reserved" Negro section (depending on the Negro turnout) and the establishing of a patio for night club-restaurant type service.

The track is nearing the 15th-day mark in its 40 day 1956 first meeting. Ten races are run daily. Post time is 7:30 P. M. daily except Sunday. Patrons are urged to "form parties" and visit Southland for evenings of clean cut, wholesome recreation.

Since the opening of the track the attendance has continued to increase and the management is planning increased facilities depending on the response of the colored racing fans.

Dish Washers Alertness Causes Arrest Of Robber

Alert thinking on the part of a Colored dish washer aided police in apprehending a white man charged with robbery 4 minutes after the incident occurred here early Saturday morning.

Police reported that at approximately 3:56 A. M. a white man entered the Gridiron restaurant with his left hand in his coat pocket as if he had a pistol, and told Mrs. Muselle Rogers, night manager

"this is a hold up." After convincing her that he "wasn't kidding," Mrs. Rogers, as ordered, placed $140 on the counter, police said.

Witnessing the incident unseen by the alleged robber, the police report states, was Mrs. Georgia Bennett, 32, of 753 Saxon rear who was looking from the food window. Mrs. Bennett is dish washer at the restaurant.

The police report went on to say that Mrs. Bennett quietly "slipped" to the phone located in the rear and called the police.

Some two minutes later, Patrolmen Harlan and Weaver arrived after the robber had left, and taking Mrs. Bennett in the police car, patrolled the immediate area.

Memphis Fans To See First College Game Of Season

Memphis fans will get a chance to see their first college game of the season Saturday night at Melrose Stadium when the Lane College Dragons Jackson Tenn. meet the Mississippi Industrial College Tiers, Holly Springs Miss. in a regular conference game. Both teams are members of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

Memphis is well represented on both teams as several former Prep League players of Memphis are now enrolled and are making good as members of the teams. Elward Redditt, Lane halfback is well remembered in prep league circles.

Both schools have a large number of graduates here and active alumni associations. A large crowd is expected to witness the game between these two sister schools with hundreds of fans coming in from Mississippi as well as from West Tennessee.

Home games played at Rothrock Stadium are: Oct. 6, Alabama State College (night); Oct. 13, Rust College (night); Oct. 27, Miles College (Homecoming) (day); Nov. 16, Miss Vocational College (night); Games away are: Sept. 29, Miss Industrial College at Memphis (night); Nov. 3, Fisk University at Nashville, Tenn.; Nov. 10, Philander Smith College at Little Rock, Ark.; Carolina 20, 92, South Carolina, 11-0, 87, Tennessee, 14, 26, Virginia, 12, 16, 4.

Mid-South Schools To Receive Green Beans

Schools in the Mid-South and Southeast areas will receive 133,185 cases of canned green beans purchased during August by the U. S. Department of Agriculture for use in the school lunch programs.

The quantity is almost a third of the total of 436,945 cases of canned green beans purchased by USDA for nationwide distribution to schools participating in the program, according to Leo W. Smith of the Department's Food Distribution Division.

Nearly half of the Southeast shipment was bought in the Tellico Plains and Newport, Tenn., bean-producing areas, with most of the remainder coming from Salem, Oregon.

The number of cases to be distributed for school lunch use among southeastern states is as follows: Alabama 11,952; Florida 13,386; Georgia 16,486; Kentucky 11,074; Mississippi 8,368; North

Along The Sports Trail

BY SAM BROWN

The football season is upon us and the Monday morning quarterbacks are attempting to take the spotlight from the second guessers and street corner masterminds of baseball, but because of the keen interest in the pennant race in the National League, and the individual performance of players of the American League, the football enthusiasts are having trouble trying to take over.

This is the time of year when the seasonal sports come to a conflict of interest in their programs, when the beginning of one comes on before the end of the other goes. In other words, football finds itself coming into the stage when baseball is enjoying one of its greatest responses or receptions in years.

It is the time when the curtain is supposed to come down on baseball as it leaves the stage, and then rises on football coming in from the other end of the stage with interest shifting from the one to the other. It so happens that interest in the fading days of baseball has reached such a pitch for fans to break off from their devotion and fondness for baseball with the pennant race as close as it is in the National League.

There have been years and not too distant when two teams came down to the wire neck and neck, and even ended the season in a tie with a play-off being necessary. We refer to the Brooklyn - St. Louis tie of a few years ago, and the Cleveland - Boston Red Sox, both cases necessitating a play-off for the championship, two of three games in the National, and a single do or die game for the title in the American League.

As this is written, the Dodgers and Braves are practically tied for first place with the Dodgers leading by two percentage points, and the Cincinnati Redlegs are only two games back and still in a good position to capture the title, take second place, or end it in a three-way tie, something unprecedented in league play. So, one can readily see that the fans interest in the pennant race is at fever heat, and football or nothing else can diminish it.

The died-in-the-wool Brooklyn fans are still hoping that the Dodgers will put on a winning streak and sew up the pennant in the next few games.

while the supporters of the Braves are hoping the same thing for their favorites. Still the supporters of the Dark Horse Redlegs are just as hopeful for their team to take it all, and we admit, although we picked the Dodgers last spring, that there is a possibility of any of them taking it.

Over in the American League, the almost one man domination of most of the offensive departments by Mickey Mantle of the Yankees, who have already sewed up the pennant race in the American League, Mantle's drive to tie the record of 60 home runs set by Babe Ruth in 1927, his battle for the batting crown of the league, the runs batted in, title, the total bases title, all are helping to fold the fans' attention.

The neck and neck race for the batting title between Mantle and Ted Williams of the Red Sox, the RBI race between Mantle and Al Kaline of the Tigers, the close batting race in the National League where Hank Aaron of the Braves is being pressed by Bill Virdon of the Pirates, Stan Musial of the Cardinals and several other players not too far behind.

With another rich World Series coming up and any one of three teams in the National League could win the pennant, along with the many other details of the game that are holding the fans' interest, there is no wonder that football is having a hard time in trying to push baseball out of the spotlight of the fans' attention. One thing for sure, the whole thing is exciting to the sports-minded fans.

Tennessee State Tigers To Play Langston Lions

By EARL S. CLANTON, III
NASHVILLE — Coach Howard Gentry will take the wraps off his Tennessee State University Tigers before homefolks as the Tiger-eleven open their 1956 season against the Langston University - eleven Saturday night.

Smarting to avenge last season's 0-3 drubbing at the hands of Felton "Zip" Gayles' Oklahomas, Gentry, the Tigers' brand new pilot will field the smallest Tiger squad in recent time for the nine-game season's campaign.

"We started pre-season training with the fewest number of potentials in the school's history," Head Coach Gentry complained, "but they are a good bunch of boys. If I had a better line, our chances would look a lot better for the season." Gentry continued.

For the opening contest, Gentry's main concern has been shifting the sands to replace All-American guard Charles Patton and five other first string veteran linemen lost through graduation. The Tiger back field is a veteran one with Tennessee's touchdown Twins, halfback Percy Hines (Mr. Outside) and last season's leading ground-gainer Memphis-born sophomore halfback Jessie Wilburn (Mr. Outside).

Alternating with the paydirt pair is all-conference (MWAA) and leading scorer Fay Mitchell and Tiger number two yard marcher Lee "Chattanooga Choo Choo" Derricks. Calling the plays will be Robert "Fancy Dan" Crawford.

Coach Gentry, although glum about his forward wall, is building his reserve offensive punch around two Tennessee prep school gridders. Freshmen Andy Earthman, sixty-lb Memphis Melrose High School halfback and Chattanooga Howard High School's Dave Knowles are bright spots in the Tiger squad.

Captained by Kansas City's James Buford, 198-pound guard, the 75-man Tiger juggernaut is composed of 29 veterans of which six are seniors and eighteen lettermen.

Manassas Falls To Golden Wildcats By 14-0 Margin

By BILL LITTLE
Memphis World Sports Writer
The exciting pace continues! Prep grid fans fired to fever pitch by opening grid tilts and with this feeling being enhanced by two stirring outings the past weekend will be looking for, and no doubt get, more of the same when the city and state champions Melrose Golden Wildcats meet the Hamilton Wildcats in play Thursday night at Melrose stadium.

The two games over the weekend furnished further proof that this year's football race is "wide open" as the highly touted Melrose eleven eked a hardwon victory over a surprisingly stubborn Manassas squad Thursday and again Friday night when the heretofore underrated St. Augustine Thunderbolts soundly trounced the supposedly superior Booker Washington Warriors.

The Golden Wildcats had their hands full while edging stubborn Manassas Thursday night at Melrose Stadium before approximately 4,000 fans.

Friday night at Washington Stadium a lack luster Washington team fell victim to a 14-0 whitewashing administered by the Thunderbolts of St. Augustine.

Manassas, exhibiting a jet propelled backfield and the all around play of little Billy Phillips, came within a whisker of pulling the season's biggest upset against Melrose.

The Tigers struck first with a spectacular 69 yard pass play that opened the scoring in the opening moments of the first quarter. The touchdown was nullified after Manassas was penalized for having 15 players on the field. The play went from Melvin Brown to Phillips who made a nice catch of the ball in front of the Melrose bench. Steve Harden had a shot at him but the elusive Phillips ducked from his grasp and scooting down the west sidelines.

It was a tough blow for the ambitious Tigers, but their reason for having too many players on the field was explainable when it was learned that the Manassas coach was rushing a player in with instructions to kick with fourth down and the ball on the Tiger's 31 yard strip.

Calvin Moore bucked over from the one to give Melrose a 3-0 lead at the start of the second period. Moore plunged for the important extra point.

Manassas, who was invincible between the 30 yard lines finally got across a tally when Albert Wilson fumbled a snap on a punt attempt. The Tigers took over on the nine. On the first play Phillips romped over, his conversion try from placement was blocked. In the second half Melrose's defensive unit bottled up Manassas with the two teams fighting to a scoreless third quarter. Most of the game's yardage was picked up from the inside.

Melrose kept up the contest late in the final period. The Golden Wildcats put together an 80 yard sustained march to push across their second TD. The drive was highlighted by 36 yard pass from Harden to Hicks. Robert Gentry made a desperate effort to intercept the aerial. With a clear field ahead of him Gentry tipped the ball in the air and into the eager hands of Hicks who scampered to the eight.

Aaron Hackett, who spearheaded the Melrose offense in the second half, drilled through the right side for the score. Moore went over the goal in an attempt to score the extra point however, the officials ruled his knees touched before he reached the end zone.

Washington failed to capitalize on three first half breaks and St. Augustine went on to shove across two touchdowns after taking advantage of gift opportunities in each of the final two periods.

The Warriors line held the Bolts until a fourth down incomplete pass was ruled completed on the nine in the third quarter. From the single-wing quarterback Grant Ward took a handoff from the tailback and lobbed a strike to end Steve Boone in the endzone.

Two penalties set-up the Bolts' only other TD in fourth quarter. A

LeMoyne Alumni Group Will Present Wm. Grant Nabors

LeMoyne College Alumni Association will present a rare piano talent, 14-year-old William Grant Nabors on November 9, at Bruce Hall. Young Nabors is the grandson of E. P. Nabors, an insurance executive of this city and an alumnus of LeMoyne College.

William Grant resides in Roanoke, Virginia with his parents. A few years ago the men of the ABC-Scharff YMCA presented the talented youngster in a piano recital at the YMCA. Many youngsters and adults who heard him then will anticipate seeing and hearing him again.

Recently, young Nabors appeared in recital at the A and I State University and was proclaimed a genius by the music professors of Nashville. It was also quite recent that he won a musical scholarship through competition with seven other students in Roanoke. His judges were: an instructor at Hollins College, the director of the Roanoke Symphony Orchestra and the chairman of fine arts for the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs.

The young pianist completely knows the popular tunes that favorites with most young people. Only classical works are music to him. He has made appearances on radio programs and television shows. Because of time that he has to put on his school work, he has to turn down many offers for appearances. He renders the difficult works of Chopin, Beethoven, Bach, Debussy and other like composers with ease and technical proficiency.

Mrs. Ann Hall is chairman of the project; T. R. McLemore, co-chairman; Mrs. Letitia Poston, ticket chairman; Mrs. Charles P. Roland, chairman of publicity.

Doomed Killer Inflicted With Tuberculosis

CHICAGO — (ANP). — 22-year-old man, doomed to death in the electric chair as soon as the Illinois Supreme Court rules on his execution, was confirmed last Sunday in the County Jail tuberculosis tier on his 22nd birthday.

Charles Townsend, confessed killer of four men, received confirmation from the Rt. Rev. Gerald Francis Burrill, Episcopal bishop of Chicago.

Townsend is suffering from the dreaded TB disease that may claim him before the state does.

Townsend, a husky, pleasant-looking young man in cream slacks and lemon-yellow jacket, clutched a prayer book in his hand as the bishop anointed him with oil and took his head into his hands. Then the bishop confirmed him saying:

"Defend Thy child, until he come unto Thine Everlasting."

"Do you promise to follow Jesus Christ as your Lord and Saviour?" the bishop asked the doomed man. "I do," Townsend said softly.

SOUTHERN NAACP LEADERS MEET TO DISCUSS SEGREGATION PICTURE

ST. LOUIS — (INS) — Leaders of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People from Southern states met with National leaders in St. Louis yesterday to discuss the desegregation situation.

Also considered by the NAACP leaders was a court order obtained by the Attorney General of Texas aimed at putting the Negro organization out of business in that state.

Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of NAACP said the group is devising plans of action in both the school situation and the Texas court order.

Attending the meeting are state presidents from Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, West Virginia, Missouri and Delaware.

Negro Farm Youth Delegate Returns From Stay Abroad

Edward R. King, the fifth colored farm youth to have an opportunity of living and working with farm families abroad under the International Farm Youth Exchange program, returned here last week after a four-month stay in England and Wales.

"It was a wonderful experience and the people received me warmly," said Edward upon his arrival here in Washington. While abroad he lived and worked as a member of the family with 14 different families. This is customary in order to give the youthful ambassadors an opportunity to spread as much good will as possible, as well as to understand the attitudes and customs of a cross-section of the rural population.

Edward was in demand throughout his stay not only as a house guest, but also as a singer at church services, and as a speaker before local groups. He spoke before 48 different club and organization groups during his visit.

He said he was in demand, too, as a farm worker. "Sometimes we worked from eight in the morning until ten at night getting in hay ahead of expected rains," explained the farm youth delegate.

Back home in Whitaker, N. C., Edward will begin a speaking tour before 4-H clubs which will take him into 52 counties. This will prevent him from returning to Maryland State College this fall where he is a senior in general agriculture. But he plans to return for the second semester. After graduation, he will either go into dairy farming, or become a county agricultural agent.

Edward was one of six farm youths who made the trip to England and Wales. Altogether, 125 young men and women will live and work from four to six months this year with rural families in 45 countries. And 180 foreign youths will come to the United States for similar visits.

Since the IFYE program was started eight years ago, 630 U. S. youths have gone abroad under its sponsorship, and 659 foreign youths have come here. Among the U. S. delegations have been five Negro farm youths. These have come from Mississippi, Virginia and North Carolina.

IFYE is sponsored by the National 4-H Club Foundation and the Cooperative Extension Service. It is financed by contributions of 4-H clubs, civic and rural groups, business concerns, individuals, foundations, and others interested in world understanding. No Federal or State government funds are used to finance the actual exchanges.

M. V. C.-Jackson College Grid Tilt Slated Sat.

ITTA BENA — The fighting Delta Devils of Mississippi Vocational College began a firm gridiron practice for their oncoming encounter against their arch rival Jackson College at Magnolia Stadium this coming Saturday.

MVC's coaches seem to think that the game will be one of their biggest obstacles of the season. In previous years the Devils have always had a tough contest on hand when they met the Tigers from Jackson.

As the series stand, Jackson has won 2 games and Mississippi Vocational College 1. The opening game was played in 1953 with Jackson winning 7-6. The 1954 season saw MVC winning 19-8 and Jackson taking the rubber game in 1955 — 7-6. Head Coach McPherson and the Devils will be out to even the score.

The Jackson — MVC game has drawn a considerable crowd over the years and usually provide one of the most colorful games in this area. A tremendous crowd is expected to be on hand to witness the contest.

An interesting oddie about the contest is that Coach McPherson of MVC and Coach Merritt of Jackson are both from the same hometown, Louisville, Kentucky. They attended high school at Central before separating to go to college. McPherson attended Tennessee State and Merritt went to Kentucky State. When the two schools met on the gridiron both men were cited for their outstanding line play during the game. It's a small wonder why each contest between MVC and Jackson that the line play of and tangerine juice, 609,030 gallons, down 30 per cent.

Encouraging Bids For Two Parties in The South

Reams of paper have been spun in these brilliant theses around the fancy of two working parties in this South where people in large numbers either refuse or neglect to vote.

The efforts of local political enthusiasts to arouse interest in the line of one's duty to his country and his economic resource, fell on deaf ears until it was shown that votes turn to bread and opportunity; that a one-party regime must be occasionally watered with petty quarrels, race-baiting and almost any sundry emergency, however destructive, to keep on its feet.

The late streamline age following on the exit of the tenant crop system, itself an heir to one partyism, there was seen a complete revival of political interest among those who had to look beyond the fodder-stock and the ginhouse for a balanced economy. The new rural renaissance, met with the challenge upon the populace to acquaint itself with diversified food farming and cattle raising, had of itself also the challenge of rearing a voting populace to infuse life and governmental consideration in those necessities tangent to a permanent existence in a new day.

Up from a condition in which more votes were cast in many upstate New York counties than in the whole state of Georgia on election days, there is now envisioned from this new economic order a revival in voting. Thousands of those voters who were rocked to sleep in the one party, began to throw off their swaddling clothes of inertia and turn to voting in self defense.

Georgia's state Democratic chairman, John Sammons Bell in a statement issued a few days ago praising his one-party cycle, possibly did not realize that life in an opposition area enlivened new life at both points; that competition is the life of trade and that the same philosophies worshipped in a one-party regime were the same canorous infections that ate the vitals out of free government all over the old world, to leave the people stranded and with no option save swallow hook, line and sinker the spurious doctrines that led their people into the jaws of dictatorship.

It would seem strange that in a new economic order, dependent itself upon voting properties, there are those in many rural counties bent upon cutting down the vote by challenge and other methods of intimidation to keep registrants away from the polls.

In many sections of the South there is a noticeable interest toward a two-party system; local candidates for office are being groomed and there is a strong possibility of the entrance of candidates for Congress in several congressional districts.

In the Fifth Georgia District a strong candidate Randolph Thrower has been entered with the possibility of a strong challenge by the Republicans for the seat held by Democrat, Rep. James C. Davis.

Georgia's county unit and one-party philosophy both have contributed to a dryp of political interest, that is the why that when life would be infused a resort to race-baiting and personalities must be dragged into the equation. With a strong opposition party working on the front of challenge little or no time could be wasted on unsound issues which have been known to this state and others of the deep South.

The emergence of a strong two-party system would end much of this vote-challenge evil and cause both groups to vie with each other in getting the unregistered registered and voted instead of staging court fights to disqualify as incompetent professional men such as preachers, school teachers, physicians and land-owners, as was seen in the wash that came out of the disgraceful vote challenge down in Randolph County.

November is almost on the horizon; this will probably be one of the most important years in the life of this nation and those who activate their energies toward the end of settling vital issues around the forum of two working parties, instead of outright at tempts at evasion and spurious buffoonery, must realize that THIS is their inning.

Painful Progress

(From The New York Times)

The distressing events of the last several days in a handful of Southern communities, where mobs have tried to interfere with the enforcement of court orders for integrated schooling, have naturally received nation-wide attention. They are news, but it seems to us that an important thing to remember is that they are not the whole news.

While troops were upholding the law in the streets of Clinton, the first town in Tennessee to be required to open its state-supported high school to Negroes (as the result of a suit instituted several years ago), and while violence or threats of violence were reported from a few small and widely scattered settlements elsewhere, integration of school systems and school districts was going quietly ahead without fanfare and without difficulty in many states below the Mason-Dixon line. In Kentucky, for example, where an otherwise fine record has been marred by ugly incidents reported from one small town this week, almost 90 per cent of the counties of the state are now operating under integrated school systems. Louisville has joined other great Southern or border cities—including Baltimore, Washington and St. Louis—in ordering integration of schools.

The Southern Education Reporting Service, a focal point for such information, says that several score school districts are being newly integrated this year in the South, especially in Oklahoma and Texas as well as Kentucky and other border states. A plan of the city of Little Rock to begin desegregation next year has just been approved by the Federal court. Over a hundred institutions of higher learning in the South, formerly all-white, are now enrolling some 2,000 Negro students; and a few weeks ago it was reported in this newspaper that some 540 school districts had been desegregated during the past academic year. This is solid progress.

It does not mean, of course, that the road ahead will not be long and difficult. There has been no desegregation in eight states of the Deep South (except at the college level in three of them), and several of these states have been adopting legislation specifically designed to defeat the aims and purposes of the Supreme Court's decision of May, 1954. It would be whistling in the dark to pretend that resistance to this decision is on the wane, much less broken, in large areas of the South, just as it is not yet completely broken in many parts of the North. Furthermore, the activities of such agitators as those who incited the trouble in Clinton, Tenn., constitute an additional menace to law and order. But the fact remains that, with all the difficulties, progress is being made. It is gradual, as it must be. Ultimately its victory over unreason and prejudice will be complete.

MY WEEKLY SERMON

REV. BLAIR T. HUNT, PASTOR MISSISSIPPI BLVD. CHRISTIAN CHURCH, MEMPHIS

TEXT: "We went to the place of prayer." Acts 16:16.
The place of prayer was, dear to the Christians of the first century. Sometimes it was in the Temple, at other times in the home, and at still other times, by the sea-side or river-side. When they prayed something always happened. Truly man is at his best on bended knees talking to his God.

To the Christians it was always just this "The place of power. Today the place of prayer is the place of power. Pentecost came with its tide of spiritual power after they had tarried in the place of prayer. Ever afterwards whenever the disciples needed power to do in the Master's service, what they could not do unaided, they turned to the place of prayer. If we have no access to do the Master's will, it is because we know little or nothing about the place of prayer.

Have we a place of prayer, of power, of vision, a path to service, and a place of victory?
We have a telephone booth or some nook or corner for our telephone where we may dial the number of our friend and then talk to that friend.

Let us have a nook, a corner, or some place where we may dial God. The Father, God The Son, and God The Holy Ghost.

CLAIMS MISTREATMENT

Upon being questioned in court Wilkes said, "I don't think he had any right to treat me the way he did. I didn't resist."
Wilkes also disclosed during later questioning that Guthrie grabbed him from behind, rammed a pistol barrel in his back several times with such force that it hurt him, and struck him on the side of the head several times.

COURTS DECIDE

The courts are the places to punish people and police officers have no right to conduct themselves as the accused police officer did. Mr. Boffoff went on to say.

DID 'ROUGH' HIM UP

Other Guthrie, upon being questioned by a reporter, said, "I did rough him up a little after he tried to break away from me." The accused officer said that he did not threaten or curse Wilkes.

RESISTANCE DISMISSED

Wilkes was fined $51 by Judge Colton and held to state on a reckless driving charge. The resisting of arrest charge was dismissed.

GATOR DISRUPTS GAME

FORT PIERCE, Fla. — When a 5-foot alligator waddled onto the diamond during a boys' Pony League baseball game, there was an immediate uproar which subsided only after a team manager, Ken Gordy, managed to lasso and tie the alligator and turned his over to police.

CHAPTER 19
PRISCILLA sparked at the chance. Not as Peggy sparked — Priscilla was not as exuberant and effervescent—but it was a quiet sparkle that drew attention. More than one guest asked the identity of the attractive girl in the flame-colored velvet, with the page-boy haircut.

"Well," Priscilla's voice was light, "if you want to waste your time like that... But I'm not very susceptible to pretty speeches. Flirtations have always seemed a little pointless to me. Let's keep it on a friendly basis."

Pete said, "Like Dick?"
"Lots," Priscilla admitted frankly.
"I thought so. Maybe you like him enough to want to hear that it's mutual."
"You're imagining that."
"I'm not, he said so himself. And then, I can tell. Want to do something for me?"

and did not realize the degree of enthusiasm in his voice.
"Don't tell me I'm going to lose you both at the same time."
"Would you care?"
Not at all, disturbed, Peggy said, "Well, I could survive it, I suppose."
"Which one of us would you rather lose?"

Maryland, in boycotting the hearings.
The first witness called Thursday morning was Arthur Storey, principal of McFarland Junior High School, which has an enrollment of about 1300 pupils. The racial breakdown last October was about 50-50 white and colored. He estimates it now to be between 60 and 70 per cent colored.

The slain Denny's father, Willard Denny, Chicago District Manager of a paper mill, said his son just finished attending the University of Nebraska and planned to work as a sales assistant for a Skokie firm.

Walter Carlson, 53, proprietor of the tavern where the holdup was attempted told police the two men sat drinking for 20 minutes before one of them stood up and shouted:
"—This is a stickup! Everybody get down on the floor! I mean it. Get down on the floor!"
