HAITI'S PRESIDENT MAGLOIRE PRAISES IKE FOR FIGHT AGAINST COMMUNISM

ALSO LAUDS IKE FOR EFFORTS TO ELIMINATE PREJUDICES

BY LOUIS LAUTIER

WASHINGTON, D. C. — (NNPA) — President Paul E. Magloire of Haiti Thursday praised President Eisenhower not only for his fight against international communism but also for his "personal efforts" to eliminate prejudices which handicap relations in the Western Hemisphere.

Mr. Magloire addressed a joint session of the Senate and House. The session in the House chamber was attended by members of the Supreme Court and Mr. Eisenhower's Cabinet, in addition to Senators and Representatives.

Members of the Supreme Court, who occupied seats in the front row, included Chief Justice Earl Warren and Associate Justices Stanley F. Reed, Felix Frankfurter, William O. Douglas, Harold H. Burton and Sherman Minton.

Also occupying front seats were Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare and Deputy Attorney General William P. Rogers.

Madame Magloire, the President's wife, occupied a seat in the diplomatic gallery.

Touching briefly upon Haiti's fight for independence, Mr. Magloire pointed out that Abraham Lincoln was the first President to recognize his country as a free nation.

"Since that time Haiti has continued to stride forward and has endeavored by every means at its disposal to forge political and economic future worthy of its proud proud people," he said.

President Magloire spoke in French. After delivery of a few sentences, his remarks were translated in English. A few members of the Senate and House were able to follow his speech in French, among them Senator Allen J. Ellender, Democrat, of Louisiana, who has visited Haiti.

President Magloire said "relations of cordiality and fraternity" really developed after President Franklin D. Roosevelt took office. Mr. Roosevelt was Assistant Secretary of the Navy when United States forces in July, 1915, landed at Port au Prince, occupied the country, and restored order after President Sam took refuge in the French legation and 167 political prisoners had been massacred in jail. The American occupation continued until August 14, 1934.

Brown's Service Station And Hall's Home Destroyed

By RAYMOND F. TISBY
Two fires within a two-day span and within the same neighborhood completely raked a service station and a residence when Monday, January 31, a gasoline fire, allegedly started when a stove exploded, demolished Brown's Service Station at 2110 Chelsea and Tuesday, February 1, when a fire of undetermined origin razed the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Hall of 1105 White.

The fire at the Hall home occurred shortly after 3 p. m. Tuesday when both Mrs. Hall (Bessie), a nurse at the Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat Hospital, and Mr. Hall, an employee of Delta C. and S. Airlines, were away at work.

All of the Hall's possessions were destroyed. The service station fire which began around 11 a. m. Monday, started, according to David M. Parrish, a gasoline truck driver who was unloading fuel into the station's underground tank and whose truck was destroyed by the fire, when a gas heater exploded.

The station owned by Mr. and Mrs. Brown Locke, was totally destroyed, also the living quarters of the Lockes. Nothing was salvaged from the station, which was not insured, and only a television set was saved in the living quarters when Henry Love, a part-time employee at the station rushed in and pulled it out.

A 1952 Kaiser Deluxe, owned by W. L. Williams of 1208-C Tunica, which was parked near the station was also destroyed.

Story Of Mau Mau Told By Kenyan College President

(A Book Review)
The People of Kenya Speak for themselves by Bbiyi Koinange. 120 pp., 25c. Kenya Publication Fund, 600 Woodward Ave., Detroit 26, Mich.

The story behind "Mau Mau" is told for the first time in this little book, "The People of Kenya Speak for Themselves," by Bbiyi Koinange. The author, the son of an ex-senior chief, is the President of Kenya Teachers College. In 1951 he was sent by his people to make known the truth of what they think, feel and want to the people outside East Africa. This booklet carries out that mission. Mr. Koinange stakes his reputation that he can bring about a cease-fire in Kenya. "I can do that within four weeks of my arrival in Kenya. Here now before the people of Kenya, of Britain, of the United States and of the whole civilized world I declare that further bloodshed is useless."

Today in Kenya, a British colony on the East Coast of Africa, over 8,000 men, women and children have been killed. A lot of people think these Africans are backward and going "back to the bush." Mr. Koinange says: "I have seen the Government Operations Committee where he served as chairman of the International Operation Subcommittee and the Public Works Committee where he was a member of the Public Roads and Public Building Subcommittee. The RE-PORTER magazine in an article by William Hessler in the December 8, 1953, issue said of him: "Brownson will probably become better known for the simple reason that findings of investigations he conducted in 1952, he was given the largest majority ever recorded for the Congressional office in Indiana when he defeated his Democratic opponent 51,627 votes in the 83rd Congress.

Universal Life Stock Holders Meet; Walker Cites Company's Progress

Stockholders of Universal Life Insurance Company met January 28, in the Assembly Room of the Company's Home Office, for their 32nd annual meeting. The highlight of the meeting was President A. M. Walker's annual address, the topic of which was "We Willing To Pay the Price?"

The pointed and very factual address focused on some of the ways which the Company must pay the price for increased progress. He stated that, "Thirty-two years ago our founding fathers, J. E. Walker and A. W. Willis, later calling in M. W. Bonner, sat down to discuss the development of a new life insurance company. They dedicated themselves to the tremendous task of uplifting the Negro race and the human race. They knew there would be heartaches and days of unceasing toil and struggle. They knew there would be moments of almost bleak despair, but their courage never wavered because they were willing to pay the price."

The President gave words of encouragement to the young men and junior officers of the organization. Knowing that these would be the leaders of tomorrow, he urged them to take advantage of their opportunities. He urged them not to fall into the habit of the weak; making excuses for his or her own conscience, but to pull their thought level up to a real philosophy of life, rather than pull a real philosophy of life down to a poor misshapen thought level.

Mr. Walker's annual address noted the progress of the Company for the year 1954, as revealed in the several areas of operations. "During the year our total assets increased by $1,181,368," he stated. "Our unassigned funds - or surplus - (Continued on Page Eight)

Nixon Says Posters To Be Distributed On Employment

WASHINGTON, D. C. — (NNPA) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell Tuesday made public the first of 5,000 posters to be distributed to over 350 cities in a national campaign for the Federal Equal Job Opportunity program.

The campaign is being carried on by the President's Government Contracts Committee in cooperation with the Advertising Council of America.

Each poster bears the message: "There are no closed doors when you apply for a job with a Government contractor. Jobs must be filled on the basis of qualifications, not race, religion or national origin. This is the policy of your Government."

Ralph S. Allen, manager of the Washington office of Philbin and Coine, representing the Advertising Council and 350 transit systems cooperating in the campaign, received the first copy of the poster.

The poster was prepared by Fairfax, Inc., the voluntary agency assigned to the campaign by the Advertising Council.

Mr. Nixon and Mr. Mitchell are the chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the Government Contracts Committee which is enforcing the enforcement of the anti-discrimination clauses in standard Government contracts.

TO DENY REQUEST

In another development, the committee announced Thursday that its January monthly meeting it voted unanimously to deny the request of the Indian Affairs Bureau in the Interior Department for an exemption from inserting the non-discrimination clauses in a contract it is trying to negotiate with the State of Mississippi.

The bureau is seeking to negotiate a contract to have Mississippi State College provide agricultural extension services to the Indians at Choctaw Reservation in Mississippi. The State has refused to sign the proposed contract unless the anti-discrimination clause is eliminated.

The bureau requested the committee to grant it an exemption. The order issued by President Eisenhower authorizes the committee to grant exemptions to meet special

New Taxation Measure To Finance Dual Program

JACKSON, Miss. — (ANP) — What it will cost Mississippi to maintain a segregated public school system under a new legislative setup, was indicated in frightening figures last week as the legislature wrestled with the problem of raising at least $30 million a year in taxes to underwrite the costs of financing separate but equal schools for Negro and white children.

The legislators are meeting in a special session called by Gov. Hugh White to write a series of taxation measures to finance the state-wide dual system.

In addition, the body has before it an amendment of the State Constitution, approved by the predominantly white voters last Dec. 21, permitting abolition of public school system by legislative action.

However, the legislation seems in no hurry to discard the present school system in favor of the widely publicized "private schools."

On the other hand, some observers are saying that the legislature is certain to approve the amendment but without implementation teeth. They feel that the abolition action will be used only as a last resort in the event Negroes reject the dual program. On this score, some politicians are reportedly saying they have "reason" to believe the Negroes will accept the Jim Crow system. However, so far, Negroes have been cold to the move.

The whole thing started after the U. S. Supreme Court, in an historic ruling last May 17, banned segregation in public school system. The decision touched off a wave of resentment on the part of diehard Southern segregationists, notably in Mississippi, South Carolina and Georgia, the three states advocating abolition of the public school system rather than how to the ruling.

In Mississippi various means were sought to circumvent the high court ruling, such as the forming of Citizens Councils, and the applying of economic sanctions against Negroes supporting integration.

However the highpoint in the attempt to disobey the court came last December when pro-segregationist politicians got the voters to approve the Constitutional Amendment.

But, in the third week of the special session, no effort has been made to push the abolition of schools. Instead, the legislators are puzzled over the prospect of raising the money to support a segregated but vulnerable Jim-Crow school setup.

Midway Violated Earlier Navy Policy, NAACP Says

WASHINGTON — The visit of the Carrier Midway to Capetown, South Africa, was a violation of a policy established by the late Secretary of Navy, Francis P. Matthews, the NAACP Washington bureau has charged.

Clarence Mitchell, director of the bureau, this week called attention to the Matthews' policy which was issued on August 4, 1950. It was an outgrowth of a controversy that arose when the USS Missouri visited Halifax, Nova Scotia, and colored crew members received an invitation to attend events for colored only.

At that time, Secretary Matthews said acceptance of the special invitation was not intended to promote segregation but he also directed that:

"The Navy will not officially participate in any events by endorsing, sanctioning, promoting, or subsidizing affairs or local sponsors in extending hospitality which involves or implies restriction, segregation or discrimination of racial or other groups."

Mr. Mitchell said that, since the Navy had officially collaborated with the Government of South Africa in getting colored crew members to accept racial segregation, it had reversed the Matthews' policy.

"The Navy made a terrible mistake by bowing to South Africa racial laws," he stated, "and now it is giving out stories which give the false impression that the Midway visit to Capetown was a big success for democracy."

"No matter what the Navy or anyone else says," Mr. Mitchell stated, "the visit to Capetown was a surrender to a guttersnipe government and those who arranged it should be thoroughly ashamed of themselves."

Home Curing Of Hams Proves Good Sideline For Farmers

SPRINGFIELD, Tenn. — Home curing and marketing 300 tasty hams a year has proved an excellent sideline enterprise for Harvey Pitt, Sr., and his son Harvey, Jr., who operate a 140-acre diversified farm near Springfield, Tenn., says Tennessee's Assistant State Extension Agent W. H. Williamson in a report to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The father and son team got started right after World War II when Harvey, Jr., returned from a four-year tour of duty in the Army. They have a written understanding which sets forth the details of their 50-50 agreement.

By their own special process, the Pitts cure 300 to 400 hams during the winter months and sell part of them to grocery stores in Springfield and Nashville, and the rest to individual customers in areas as far away as Oregon. Their best hams bring more than a dollar per pound.

The Pitts cure nearly half of their hams from their own carefully raised hog crop. The others are purchased from neighbors during hog-killing time and cured. Their hams have won a number of prizes at agricultural fairs.

In addition to selling $2,000 to $3,000 worth of hams a year, Messrs Pitts also sell whole milk from their four cows, and hay, oats, and dark air-cured tobacco.

The elder Pitt lives in the same house in which he was born. But he modernized it considerably, including the installation of hot and cold running water and a complete bathroom. He and his son did most of the work themselves.

Harvey, Jr., lives a quarter of a mile closer to town in a new, six-room brick rambler with a full basement. The kitchen is completely modern, and the living room has among its attractive furniture a television set. The county farm

USDA To Hold Meeting On Assignment On Wool Payments

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The U. S. Department of Agriculture today advised the wool industry that USDA representatives will be available to discuss the advisability of permitting assignments of wool payments by producers as collateral for loans or advances under the National Wool Act of 1954. The meeting will be at 10 a. m. Friday, Feb. 18, 1955, in room 218A, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

USDA officials stated that this meeting will give interested persons an opportunity to present their views on this subject. Those who desire may submit their suggestions in writing prior to the date of the meeting. Written suggestions will be given full consideration and should be addressed to the Director, Livestock and Dairy Division, Commodity Stabilization Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

If the assignment of prospective wool payments as collateral for loans or advances is permitted, officials stated that certain safeguards would be required to protect growers' interests.

The Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy has announced it would undertake an inquiry covering every phase of the "development, growth and state" of the atomic energy industry.

To Give 50th Anniversary Address To National Body

HOT SPRINGS, Ark.—(ANP)—Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, United Nations under-secretary, has been invited to give the 50th Anniversary address at the National Sunday School and Baptist Training Union Congress Golden Jubilee. The Nobel Prize winner was slated to speak on Booker T. Washington night July 1.

A series of colorful historical and inspiring events and commemorations for the Congress to be held in Atlantic City June 27 through July 3, were outlined to Dr. W. H. Jernagin, Washington, D. C., president, at the Mid Winter Board Meeting here last week. Much pagantry will be unfolded in the celebration on the famous board walk. It was revealed by Dr. E. C. Estell, Dallas, Texas, director general and chairman of the Jubilee Convention Committee.

Dean A. Franklin Fisher, Atlanta, Ga., reported that preparations are being made for 8,000 in the more than 100 classes to be held in the Atlantic City Senior and Junior High Schools. The preacher seminars and the laboratory school, skill shop and youth workshop are expected to attract record enrollments.

Dr. John R. Stanford, general chairman, and Rev. M. E. Nell, chairman of the entertainment committee, disclosed that the mayor and convention bureau of the resort site have been working to accommodate the more than 17,000 expected. Rev. Nell reported that rooms for two will rent for $4.00 a night in private homes and from $5.00 to $11.00 a night in hotels.

The general theme of the 1955 Congress will be "The Church Fostering Personal Christian Faith in a New World Community." Speeches and events will be centered on the history of the organization, which was organized from a Chautauqua in 1905 and now is the world's largest Christian Youth training organization meeting annually, representing more than two million youths and thousands of church instructors and administrators.

Citations, awards and scrolls will be presented to distinguished honorees during the session. Among those who will be honored is Sel. Maxson Johnson, of Brooklyn, N. Y. The former Korean prisoner of war defied Red captors at the risk of his life by refusing to tear up a Holy Bible to use its pages for cigarette papers.

State conventions, led by their presidents, will each choose the outstanding Sunday School and BTU worker of their state to receive citations. Each convention will also submit the name of their choice for Achievement Award recognition. All these selections must be in the office of Director General Estell at St. John Baptist Church, Dallas, by March 1.

Youth Rally Day, June 30, will be a highlight occasion. A boardwalk parade will be presented during the day, while a historical pageant, "These Golden Years," will be presented in the huge convention hall at night. Pauline J. Campbell of Detroit will again be in charge of these events.

A special Golden Jubilee Moment to Booker T. was presented messengers as a souvenir.

White Asks Probe Of Miss. Agents
NEW YORK — The White House has asked Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson to investigate the charges of racial discrimination made against two of its Mississippi agents in affidavits transmitted to Washington by Roy Wilkins, administrator of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

A letter to Mr. Wilkins from Maxwell M. Rabb, presidential aide said that Secretary Benson had been asked to look into the charges. Affidavits from Mississippi submitted to the White House accused Walter E. Strider and S. O'Neal of the Lexington, Miss., office of the Farmers Home Administration of coercing government loans to qualified Negro applicants.

MET THE 'PHANTOM'—Police, FBI agents and Secret Service men are pondering over the nicest mystery they've ever tried to solve, namely: trying to learn the identity of the "Phantom Philanthropist" who has already given away $650 to Chicagoans who "believe in God." Nathaniel Patterson (above), a broker, deflected ex-GI, got a windfall of $250 recently from a man who asked only: "Do you believe in God?" To the affirmative, Patterson was handed five, crisp $50 bills. (Newspress Photo)

News of GEORGIA FEDERATED CLUB WOMEN

FEDERATED CLUB
The undisputed Club of the Week is Ullis Matronea Club of Albany which group recently presented the Albany Federation with a check for more than $400.00 to be applied to the organization's fund set aside for the building of a Clubhouse. All of the city's twelve clubs make an annual contribution toward this project. Construction on the building will begin soon. The land plot was purchased and paid for several years ago.

A city wide bazaar has been planned for Friday, February 25 by the Albany Clubs. The project will also aid the building fund (Clubhouse). The sale will feature bake goods, children's clothes, needlework novelties and handmade art objects.

Many of the clubs are to be congratulated on the generous contributions which they have made to the annual Infantile Paralysis drive. These are in excess to many individual contributions as well as concerted efforts such as the "Mothers March." Please keep records for permanent reference.

Our sympathy goes out to Dr. and Mrs. R. Stillman Smith of Macon in the loss of their mother, Mrs. Mollie D. Smith of Americus. The deceased has passed her 95th birthday. Funeral rites and interment took place on Sunday, January 23 in Americus amid many relatives and friends.

This is the season for the garden charm in our club activities to get busy with plans for encouraging the beautification of home surroundings. We will then be ready for spring and summer home and garden tours which have meant so much in the way of stimulating community improvement.

We congratulate Mrs. Hattie Green of Atlanta, who finds so much time to devote to organizational activities. Besides her club work, she is Associate Editor of The Mouthpiece, official organ of the Auxiliary to the National Medical Association. The latest copy is a credit indeed to the organization and its Editorial Staff.

Manley Sues Labor Party Official In Wake Of Election

KINGSTON, Jamaica (ANP)—The first after-smoke of the recent Jamaican election campaign came this week with a writ for libel filed against the executive chairman of Bustamante's Labor party, Madam Rose Leon, by Norman Manley, the island's new chief minister.

An assistant bailiff of the Kingston resident magistrate court called on Mrs. Leon at the ministry of health and housing while she was in conference with a team of U. S. medical experts. The bailiff waited for the conference's end, and then served the writ which charged libel, contained in an article said to have been written by Mrs. Leon and published in the Daily Gleaner newspaper last January 8 — four days short of the island's general election, in which Manley emerged victorious over Bustamante. Manley is also claiming damages for a speech made by the defendant and published in the Gleaner on the same date.

Madam Leon, during the past two years, was minister of health and housing in Bustamante's cabinet. She is considered the most forceful debater in the JLP and has been more than responsible for the present existence of the JLP, as during the past five years, the party's members reportedly ceased supporting the organization.

Disliked by the opposition because of her tantalizing criticisms of the PNP, she once clashed in the city council with PNP member Will O. Isaacs. Isaacs, at that time, actually walked across the council floor to slap her, but was intercepted by the 300 pound clerk of committees, Rushie Hollar.

Hear Negroes Not Getting Fair Share Of School Funds

JACKSON, Miss.—(ANP)—The local white Clarion-Lodge newspaper came out with an editorial last week in which it strongly denounced as dishonest, certain school officials who the paper claimed have mishandled and withheld funds for Negro education under a new Minimum Foundation Program. The monies are being allocated in accordance with what the paper termed "a sincere effort" on the part of Gov. Hugh White and the legislature "to provide equal but separate school facilities . . . for Negro and white children."

The state has traditionally maintained a segregated school system, but the latest move to retain the custom stems from last year's Supreme court's decision which banned segregation in public schools. Since then, state authorities, led by the governor, have repeatedly expressed their determination to maintain the system, and have succeeded in getting the voters to give the legislature the power to abolish the public schools.

However, according to the Clarion, while the governor and the legislature were wrestling with the segregation problem, some school officials and teachers have been dishonestly administering funds intended for Negro schools and teachers.

The paper said that in many counties, superintendents have spent thousands of dollars purchasing new school buses which are given to white children, while the old, and in many instances, worn out buses were given to Negro children. The Negroes, meanwhile, are murmuring that no Negro child has ever ridden in a new school bus.

School officials have been equally dishonest about funds allocated for salary and the purchasing of materials, the paper charged. Under the law, $270 per teacher is allowed for the purchase of tentorial services and supplies. But Negro teachers complain that they have received very little instructional supplies.

Their funds have been so regulated, that in one case a Negro principal was called to sign a receipt for five cartons of toilet paper, but only got one.

Funds Will Be Asked For Bond Monument

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(NNPA)—Congress will be asked to appropriate funds for the erection in Arkansas of a monument to the memory of the late Scott Bond, who was the largest colored cotton farmer in the United States. NNPA learned Saturday.

Representative E. C. Gathings, Democrat, of Arkansas, will be asked to sponsor the bill. Mr. Gathings represents the district in which Mr. Bond lived.

Mr. Bond owned over 10,000 acres of land. James P. Davis of the Commodity Stabilization Service, United States Agriculture Department, said Mr. Bond accomplished more for colored farmers than any other colored person.

During his career Mr. Bond was largely interested in Tuskegee Institute and supported its founder and first president, Dr. Booker T. Washington, in every way.

Of the amount received, $1,477,000 will go to the fund's capital operating expenses of member colleges.

Sunday School Lesson

THE GRACE OF GOD
International Sunday School Lesson for February 6, 1955.

MEMORY SELECTION: "Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins."
— 1 John 4:10.

LESSON TEXT: 1 John 4: 10; Ephesians 2: 4-9; Titus 2: 11-14.

Sometimes, we who are teachers of God's word, use words and phrases, the meaning of which we presume our pupils know but, oftentimes, they fail to understand. Just such a word is "grace." Just what does the word, as applied to God, mean?

Dr. Charles L. Allen, of Atlanta, says that in the Bible there are three distinct meanings of the word "grace." It means the mercy and active love of God; it means the strength of God to overcome; it means the winsome attractiveness of God. Paul, however, more often refers to the "grace of our Lord Jesus Christ" than to the "grace of God."

It is necessary that all Christians come to a full understanding of the term, "God's Grace" because Christianity is wholly based upon this grace. Webster's New International Dictionary defines this definition of the word "grace," among others: "Divine favor unmerited by man; the mercy of God, as distinguished from justice."

Through this definition we can see the whole plan of God in salvation. God, the Creator, loved his creatures so much that, even though they were steeped in sin and ungodly living, which separated them from God, God was willing to do everything possible, to save them from the consequences of their sinful living and to bring them back into harmony with himself.

John the Apostle declared, "Herein is love, not that we loved God, but He loved us and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins." The necessity for propitiation grows out of two facts: first, God's nature of love and righteousness; second, man's nature of corruptness and sin. Christ's death was a substitution, a judgment, a redemption, a reconciliation, a mediation of grace. Paul declared, "God was in Christ reconciling the world unto himself, not imputing their trespasses unto them." II Cor. 5: 19a.

In the passage given for our consideration in Ephesians, Paul tells us that the Grace of God is the love of God in action. He declared, "God, who is rich in mercy, for his great love wherewith he loved us, even when we were dead in sins, he had quickened us together with Christ, for by grace are ye saved." It was this great statement of Paul's to the believers at Ephesus (Eph. 2: 8-9) that had such a profound effect on the life of the great Martin Luther — "For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God; not of works, lest any man should boast." Luther had been taught that, through penance, through gifts through works and through indulgences, could he "buy" his way into Heaven. Now, he came to see that salvation can never be bought. Salvation comes to an individual as a gift of grace from a loving God.

Defense secretary Charles E. Wilson recently directed the Army to offer the 48-year-old widow a "non-sensitive" position similar to the one held before her second suspension. Memphis NAACP's New President (Adapted From Birmingham World) Atty. H. T. Lockard, youthful lawyer, has been installed as president of the Memphis branch National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

REV. R. W. HAYDEN

The advocates of freedom and first class citizenship will be admired long after the defenders of stagnant doctrines have been forgotten. We congratulate Attorney Lockard upon the great honor which has come to him and which carries a serious responsibility.

More and more, it seems to us, the local NAACP leadership should call attention to the fact that the association is an interracial organization. The branch leadership is local leadership but dedicated to making democracy work.

The NAACP has never advocated or tolerated trying to evade, defy or disrespect the constitution of the United States and the decisions of the United States Supreme Court.

This newspaper wishes for Atty. Lockard a successful administration. We hope he will be able to get the widest backing for the NAACP. Much NAACP work can be done in this city.

AME Church Backs NAACP Mississippi Aid Project

NEW YORK—The African Methodist Episcopal Church this week took steps to back up the NAACP campaign to expand credit opportunities for Negro farmers, homeowners business and professional men in Mississippi who, if they oppose segregation, are being denied credit by white lending institutions in that state.

In a telegram to NAACP Administrator Roy Wilkins, Bishop D. Ward Nichols, chairman of the AME Church's department of pensions, said that he was "recommending the immediate transfer of $10,000 to the Tri-State Bank of Memphis" to be deposited for the purpose of expanding the bank's lending capacity to aid the Mississippi victims.

Further, Bishop Nichols informed the NAACP administrator, "I am recommending the bishops of the church that all departments having reserve funds follow suit." The AME prelate, who is a vice president of the National Council of Churches, said that through the council he would call upon other denominational groups to join "in this battle against economic strangulation. We must not only pray for full freedom, but we must pay for it as well."

Others who have joined the battle and deposited funds in the Tri-State Bank include the North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company, Durham, $10,000; the Supreme Liberty Life Insurance Company, $6,000; Mrs. Ernest Alexander and Mrs. Amy Spingarn, both members of the NAACP Board of Directors, $1,000 each; and Morris Novik, head of radio station WLIB, New York City, $500.

Previously $40,000 had been deposited in the bank in response to an NAACP appeal for funds to facilitate credit for members of the organization and others in Mississippi who demand their civil rights and call for desegregation of the public schools in compliance with the Supreme Court ruling of May 17, 1954 in an effort to silence Negroes so-called White Citizens Councils, established in many Mississippi counties, have organized to foreclose mortgages of and deny credit and refuse jobs to militant Negroes.

Vagabond

By GUS KENDRICK

There are some youngsters who go through their adolescent years without becoming a problem. These youngsters are always a joy to their parents. Unfortunately today, as in the past, we have our wavering youth.

The younger son said to his father, "Give me the share of your property that is due me!" Then he got everything together and went off to a far country. LUKE 15:12.

Recently our difficulties with adolescents have been greatly accentuated by a prolonged war.

Most of our boys have entered some branch of the service, and this means they have influence and been cut off from direct parental control. In some instances the results have proved disastrous.

Meantime most girls in the later adolescent years have become secretly apprehensive about their chances of marriage, and dangerously willing to consider any offer of marriage that come along.

Many hasty and unfortunate weddings have been the result.

No matter what happens, the family must be kept united. When a boy or girl has learned the hard way, and when he or she takes the long and embarrassing road home, I believe it is the parents duty to maintain a home for them.

Incidentally I have been a wavering boy, and I know what it means to have a home to come back to.

I wrote the following poem when I was a teen-ager away from home. I am a vagabond it is true—thinking what is the best to do, Over the country I have roamed—but still I have not found a home.

Sometime I feel very sad—as for a chance I haven't had. But no matter how rough the way may get I'll never live a life of regret.

A rolling stone gathers no moss I've heard— But to sit and build arcades is absurd. So I'll work, watch and pray— And trust God to lead the way.

Where there is a will there's a way some one said— To tackle the impossible—I'm not afraid. So I will do the things others dare not— By the help of God—I'll reach—the top.

Memphian Fetes Fellow Soldier In Germany

NURNBERG, Germany.—(Special to World)—Corporal Marzell Edwards, a cook assigned to the Consolidated Messhall at William O. Darby Kaserne, Nurnberg, Germany, whose home address is 2619 Warren Avenue, Dallas, Texas, was treated to a surprise birthday party Thursday night by his friend and fellow worker, Pfc. Willie Gatewood, whose hometown is 1138 Captain St., Memphis, Tenn.

The party was held at the home of M-Sgt. and Mrs. Bessie B. Simmons, Apt. A-1, 5 Fronmueller St., Fourth, Germany. The Simmons assisted Gatewood in planning the celebration and served as host and hostess.

A small group of Edwards' friends were on hand to join in the celebration. They began arriving at 8:00 P. M. and after toasting Edwards with birthday felicitations, indulged in a variety of entertainment, including dancing, card games and refreshments.

At 11:00 P. M. the traditional candle-blowing ceremony was held. Edwards was unable to extinguish the flame in one puff-puff.

Among the many persons on hand were the following who worked to insure the party being a success: Mrs. Marguerite (Chick) Battle Simmons, Anniston, Ala.; Mrs. Lois Johnson, Pasadena, Calif.; Miss Lotte Bosie, Nurnberg, Germany; Miss Hilma Wolf, Fourth, Germany; 1st Lt. Jesse Johnson, Buffalo, N. Y.; M-Sgt. Bessie B. Simmons, Hopewell, Va.; Sgt. Willie Jones, San Francisco, Calif.; Cpl. Marzell Edwards, Dallas, Texas and Pfc. Willie Gatewood, Memphis, Tenn.

Along The Sports Trail

By SAM BROWN

Since the announcement of the proposed All-Memphis Vs. the All-Atlanta football game to be played here next December, we have received many favorable comments in regards to the game, which was suggested by the known as the WORLD BOWL GAME, as the Memphis World and the Atlanta Daily World co-operate with the sponsoring committee.

Included among the comments received expressing themselves in approval of the proposed game are Dr. Ralph Tracy, popular sports loving pharmacist at the Central Prescription Shop; Herman Davenport, our talkative barber friend at the M-Y Barber Shop, and Russell Eddins, one of the umpires of the Semi-Pro Baseball League and perhaps the most avid sports enthusiast in the city.

The idea met the approval of many of the coaches and football officials of the city when it was mentioned to them individually, although their organization has not yet announced its approval or approval. However, we hope to have some kind of official announcement from the Coaches and Officials Association in the near future.

At any rate, the committee is being organized who will handle the game in Memphis and it is hoped that a booster's club can be organized to help make the idea a reality and the promotion a success. We hope to be able to pass on to you the reactions of the Atlanta fans in the near future. The Sports Department of the World would like to hear from more fans in regards to the idea.

The Semi-Pro Baseball League had a very encouraging meeting Tuesday night at the Foote Home Auditorium. Most of the league teams had a representative present and all expressed themselves as looking forward to another good season. J. D. Williams, one of the organizers of the league was master of ceremonies with his recording machine which recorded everything the speakers said, to be reproduced at a later meeting.

Larry Brown, former Memphis Red Sox outstanding catcher and manager was guest speaker for the meeting and thrilled those present with the accounts of his many years as a catcher. He mentioned the players of his time and said that most of them would have been able to make the major leagues.

He added that during his 29 years as a catcher that he was never a great shake as a hitter, but was able to catch with the best. That he was put out of a game only once in his long career, and that was in Nashville when he was catching for the Chicago American Giants, and his pitcher Willie Foster asked for a new ball and because the umpire, Fred McCraery refused to give it to him, that he (Larry) threw the old ball over the grandstand.

Another incident he mentioned took place in Pittsburgh. He was asked the question "Whether it was true that he never dropped a pop foul?" He said "One, and behind that one the opposing team scored ten runs." He said he was happy to see so many young players taking to baseball and that there is a great future in the game for players today. He encouraged them to continue to apply themselves, as the Jackie Robinsons, Larry Dobs, Roy Campanellas and the rest are getting so far as baseball is concerned, and the major leagues are looking

The Y-Goat Trotters Coached by H. M. Carnes, the Physical Director of the Abe Scharff Branch Y. M. C. A., are running a hot box now as they are having one of their best seasons at the present time the Y-boys have won 21 and lost 1 game. The Goal Trotters won 16 straight before losing any, the only game they lost was to Wonder High of West Memphis, a close one, 35 to 33 in the Wonder High Gym.

The Trotters won over Wonder High in the Y-Gym 64 to 32, but after the lost the Trotters came back very hot to defeat Walker High School from Cold Water, Miss. 95 to 27.

The first five of the trotters was very hot as Capt. Willie Williams scored 22 points and his mates following him as follows: Earl Garmon 18 points, Co-Capt. Ernest Williams, 17 points, Hose Bennett 14 points, and Herman Rembert 10 points. T. Johnson scored 4 points as a substitute the same night.

The Y-Girls lost to the Cold Water Girls 21 to 13. The key man in the Trotters line-up has been center Williams who in the last 5 games has scored 88 points, he is toping his mates in high scoring.

In the High-Y-League BTW is leading the league with 4 wins and no defeats; Hamilton has won 3 and lost 1; Melrose has won 2 and lost 2; Douglas has won none and lost 4.

He also, offered them any assistance or advice he might be able to give them if they felt that he could be of any service to them to just call on him. He stated he would be willing to work with them in any capacity that he was able and give them benefit of his long experience.

He was introduced by the writer, who referred to him as being the greatest defensive catcher the game has produced, and mentioned the time that John McGraw, great manager of the New York Giants at that time, wanted him to go to Cuba, learn to speak Spanish to be passed as a Cuban and sign to play with the Giants. The introduction also, mentioned that many baseball fans always said, "When Larry is catching, there is no such thing as a passed ball, it may be a wild pitch, but no passed ball." And concluded with the expression that "Larry was born thirty years too soon."

HAMILTON BIGGEST THREAT

The Prep league moved into the home stretch as the high school quintets started the second half of its schedule Tuesday night.

The fighting Melrose Golden Wildcats started the second half the same as they started the season by thumping the St. Augustine Thunderbolts 46-33 in the Hunt Gym.

Melrose had to come from behind to down the Catholics after leading at halftime facing a 20-23 deficit. Washington, still leads the circuit with 5-0 record. The Warriors have all but clinched the preprace. They are two games ahead of challenging Hamilton who has lost two games including a 15 point trouncing by the Warriors. Winless St. Augustine remain the cellar dweller.

Despite three out of league losses by the prep league competitions, Washington beat Pearl of Nashville and dropped an encounter with Clarksville last week.

Andrew Yates, who won out in the 95 lb. paper weight in the novice division is hoping to find a fight at Montgomery which has not yet been arranged in his class. Yates has yet to lose a fight in four years of fighting, he is 15 1-2 years of age and weighs 95 lbs. It has been hard to find a fight for him each year.

Aaron Hackett, who won his last fight in the A. A. U. at Jackson by a second round knock-out, was looking sharper than ever and in the top shape for the rest of the way. Ernest Burford and Rochester Gates also won by knock outs along with Yates. All these fighters should go all of the way, says Coaches Harris and Carnes.

Some of Aaron Hackett, Brown McGhee, Alfred Moore, Ernest Burford, all four are in the open division; others are Gerald Moore and Rochester Gates. All winners in Montgomery's open will go to

Why Ancient Age can say:
"If you can find a better bourbon ... buy it!"

For many, many years we've believed so devoutly in straight Kentucky whiskey that we've distilled nothing but!

We comb sun-dappled fields for the choicest ripened grains. We use bright, clear Kentucky spring water. We wait patiently through the years while Ancient Age reaches rich maturity. We seal and bottle the incomparable result only at the distillery where it is born (important for quality and uniformity). And whiskey experts have always agreed with us that there is no better bourbon.

More than six years ago extra stocks of Ancient Age were carefully laid away in anticipation of the overwhelming acceptance of this incomparable whiskey. The result is that today, practically everyone can enjoy Ancient Age. It's a welcome choice for those who refuse less than the best.

Tonight would be an excellent time for you to taste Ancient Age. You'll see why we can say: "If you can find a better bourbon... buy it!" Reason? There is no better bourbon.

A Noteworthy Birthday

We salute the Boy Scouts of America on its 45th birthday, to be observed during Boy Scout Week, February 6 to 12.

Since its founding in 1910 the organization has enriched the lives of over 22,750,000 boys and adult leaders. Truly Scouting represents a living cross section of American life.

Boys of every race, religion and economic background are attracted to Scouting. Today we find 2,700,000 boys in its ranks. Add to that impressive figure the 960,000 adults of good character who give generously of their time and talents to serve as leaders of units, Merit Badge Counselors and in many other capacities.

Dr. Arthur A. Schuck, the Chief Scout Executive, a leader in the organization since 1913, feels that it is of vital importance to train the boys of today to be ready for positions of leadership as they grow to manhood.

"Strong character, participating citizenship and physical fitness," he says, are needs of our boys and young men who are served by the program of Scouting in cooperation with the home, the school, the church, and all other community institutions actively interested in training our future citizens.

Scouting's purpose, stated in the Federal Charter granted by Congress in 1916, is to promote the "ability of boys to do things for themselves and others, to train them in Scoutcraft, and to teach them patriotism, courage, self-reliance and kindred virtues."

Every member of the nation's 95,000 Scouting Units is indeed "having some kind of experience that is adding to his equipment to meet the problems of adult life."

It is that training that we heartily endorse on this noteworthy birthday.

Tremendous Trifle

BY GILBERT LOVE

This is published in the interest of Brotherhood Week, February 20-27, sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Wax angels, sold in the stores as decorative candles, now come with black faces as well as white.

Some persons may see only slight significance in that fact. Some may hold that the idea of projecting racial differences into the world to come is a disservice to the cause of brotherhood on this planet.

However, in the present state of the human mind, people tend to give their own characteristics to heavenly beings. A mural in a Danish mission church near the North Pole pictures Christ in heavy garments. In an antique religious painting done in Eastern Pennsylvania, the Bible characters are unmistakably Pennsylvania Dutch.

So the dark angels should give some deep-down satisfaction to Negroes, who always have had to use Caucasian figures in their decorating. They should help to foster the spirit of "oneness" among others who use them.

This may be a very small matter, but it's a milestone because it shows progress in understanding. Some manufacturer had the idea that all angels aren't necessarily white, and a great many retailers and their customers have agreed with him by buying the little figurines.

A Salute To The 'YM And YWCA's

To most of us one hundred years is a long time. It depends, however, on the point of view. To the historian one hundred years could be an inch of type in a history book, to a geologist, a hair's breadth in earth's record; to an astronomer, no more than a whisper in space; but to an individual, or an organization composed of individuals, to be a century old is considered a real achievement.

The Young Women's and Young Men's Christian Associations are one-hundred years old this year. Their members in this country and the people of each of the communities in the United States, fortunate enough to have a YM or YWCA, can point with pride in this Centennial year to a solid record of achievement — a century of service.

We are happy to salute these fine organizations on the occasion of their world Centennial. We are glad to pay homage to them for their practical contribution of helping to build better citizens in our democracy. We are sure the community will join with us in saying, "Happy One Hundredth Birthday to the YM and YWCA and best wishes for another century of even greater growth and service to our own community, our nation and the world."

The Case For Restraint

Despite varying degrees of opinions and the various strong beliefs of so many citizens on the question of our foreign relations, the problem of dealing with the Communists boils down to two propositions. The first is a policy of action — blunt relations with the Communists which they deserve on the basis of their record — and a determination to have our way in disputes with them.

The second course of action is that of restraint and is perhaps the hardest course for us to follow. The President of the United States favors this course, while many of the top officials in his own party, and in Congress, favor the former course. The American people are sometimes confused by this situation.

The policy President Eisenhower is attempting to follow at the moment is more complicated. It is one which takes into consideration the long-term interests of this country, the question of conserving our strength and using our military strength at the right place at the right time, and of avoiding another major war if at all possible. It appears that the President is willing to make some compromises and even minor sacrifices (but not of principle) to avoid an atomic war.

Who is to answer the question what price is a good price for the prevention of another war? Who is certain that the President's efforts in this direction will fail and that they will cause a bigger war when it comes? Who is certain that the United States, for example, can run the Communists out of China? Who knows how many million casualties such a major war with China, which would leave Russia strong and untouched, would cause?

These questions show that the man faced with the tremendous responsibilities of making foreign policy is the man who must try to answer these questions. He is the one on whose shoulders the responsibility will rest if he precipitates an unnecessary major war.

The Inheritors

By JANE ABBOTT

CHAPTER ONE THIS day in late May promised to be dull for Wickford Middleton, Killbuck's only lawyer. There were no appointments on his memo pad, nothing coming up in the courts in Malone that concerned him. He opened a drawer in his desk that was filled with old books. Not books on law but a collection of 19th-century writers—Thackeray, Austen, Dickens, Wilkie Collins, Trollope. He kept them out of sight. He chose Trollope's "Ralph, the Heir," settled comfortably back in his swivel chair.

His door opened and an old man came in. "Morning, Wick." Wick closed his book. "Well, well, Josh! Glad to see you! Sit down." Though less than half the old man's age, he knew Jehosphat Trevett well, as did everyone in Killbuck. He assumed this was merely a friendly call. "What's the news, Josh?"

"The old man sat down. 'Want you to write a will for me, Wick. I've got it all in my mind but I don't know the hifalutin words to put it down in.'"

"Planning to die, young fellow like you?" Wick said, genially. "Got to go some time. Eighty-eight years old tomorrow, May twenty-first. Though spare and muscled, a healthy red under the skin of his face, he did not look that way. He sat on the edge of the bed, looking at his feet. "Ought to get things way I want 'em to be. I've been pondering it this winter."

Wick nodded his head. "That's sensible, Josh. He took a sheet of paper from a drawer, picked up a pen. 'Tell me the way you want it, and I'll write it out.' It would not take more than 10 minutes or so, he thought, for he doubted that Jehosphat had more than his farm to will. 'Your place there—near to 400 acres, isn't it? Which of your kin do you think of leaving that to?'"

Jehosphat said: "My notion is to parcel it among 'em. I've two nieces, Hester and Jennie, and a nephew Tom. Haven't laid eyes on one of them since they were young 'uns and come here two summers. All I know about 'em is what Hester writes me, once in a blue moon. Hester's married, lives in Buffalo, in New York state. Jennie's never wed. Lives in a girls' school in Cleveland, Ohio. 'They are your nearest of kin?'"

"Nearest and all." Wick Middleton suddenly recalled a long-ago summer day when he had gone up to the Trevelt place to fish and had run into three children there. One a skinny little girl with long dark braids and frightened eyes. Curiously, he could remember her more clearly than the other two, that he had felt sorry for her, with the bigger girl picking on her all the time. He said, "Josh, why not leave it to them?"

"Mebbe it won't. Way I want you to write is that if any of 'em die before me, the ones who belong to them, got to come here, first summer, live on the place for three months. If one of them refuses, ner share goes to the other two. Or if two of 'em refuse, the one that don't gets their parcel. . . . Seems as though out of the three there'd be one who'd like the old place. But if none of 'em come, I want it all to go to Gary Norbeck, the young fellow up there with me."

Wick knew this young Norbeck, but only by sight; he doubted anyone in Killbuck knew him any better than that. Though he came into the town frequently to buy provisions, he never said more to anyone than "Good morning," or "Good afternoon." It was generally supposed he was up at the Trevelt place to help old Josh with the work. But Josh had given up farming the land and it was plain to everyone that the young fellow was not the usual type of farmhand, so there had been considerable curiosity over him.

"Just what is this young man to you, Josh?" Jehosphat said warmly. "Same as a son, guess you might say. He come to the door one night, October it was, three years ago. He was taking a walking trip and got caught in a heavy rainstorm back in the hills. He was a mighty sick boy—I heated blankets and made him get to bed and he didn't get out of that bed for two weeks. Pneumonia likely it was. I kept on poultices on him. He was pretty weak when he did move round and I'd grown used to having him with me—so I asked him to stay."

Wick said, "But Josh, your heirs can contest the will on that clause alone." Jehosphat said, "If my kin are too ciftied to want it, why can't I say 'whoi'll have it?'" Before Wick could answer that, he went on, in a milder tone: "Forgo to mention that I want the south woods acre to go to Gary, outright. Has the creek run'n' through it—don't doubt 'n'll let you fish in it, same as you've done since you were knee-high."

"And where in this plan of yours would he live?" "He's built himself a shack up in the woods. Nice snug place, too. Goes up there to paint pictures and right pretty ones they are." Wick asked, "Does Norbeck know of the plan of yours?" Jehosphat laughed. "He hasn't an inkling of it. If you're thinking he's influencing me to it, put it out of your head, Wick. Gary'll be as surprised as anyone. But he loves that land."

"That's it," thought Wick. "The old man wants someone living there who loves his land. And this was within his comprehension hadn't he himself chosen to practice nerf in Killbuck where he had lived his 41 years, and his folks as far back as the first settling of the valley? This understanding stalled the advice he intended to give Jehosphat. He drew the blank sheet toward him, wrote a date at its top.

Jehosphat said, "Guess you've got my idea. Wick—you write it out. He took a roll of heavy paper from his pocket. Here's a sort of map I made of the land—and I've marked the three shares—and that acre for Gary." He put it on the desk, found another paper in another pocket. "Here's their addresses; Hester's and Jennie's and the one Hester sent me that was Tom's, then, and likely'd reach him. I've some errands to do, long as I'm in town, and I'll bring me in, say, an hour. I'll bring some witnesses to see me sign it, all proper like."

"You haven't named an executor, Josh." "That's so." The old man scratched his head. "Why not you, Wick? You could handle it best." "Okay," Wick's voice barely concealed a groan. Jehosphat went out and Wick picked up his pen again. (To Be Continued)

ALTERNATE MELODIES!

BY GRACE WILLIAMS

It's a shame that our lives are so accelerated that many of us miss the better things in life. This time when we say better things, we are referring to the freshness and cleanliness of the early dawn, and the many other miracles that nature unveils during the "wee hours" of the morning.

The high speed with which we live cheats many of us out of a good breakfast every morning and what a shame! Going without breakfast shouldn't happen to a dog and I bet it doesn't happen to your automobile.

It would just say "no gas, no go." That would be final. You would just have to feed it.

Although, your body may get up and go for you every morning without food it has its way of rebelling. This usually shows up in your mental outlook on life. Are you grouchy in the morning? Do you try to avoid your neighbors to avoid greeting them in the morning? How do you feel about 10:00 a. m. — is the boss getting on your nerves?

A breakfast you should eat from 1-4 to 1-3 of the food you need for the day. The pattern we suggest would be like this: First, eat some fruit. We are partial to citrus fruits for breakfast, because then we know that you will get a large portion of our daily need of vitamin C. We rely strongly on oranges, grapefruit, tangerines and their juices for this vitamin.

Second, Cereal and or toast. Be sure to buy wheat or enriched cereals and bread. Whether you eat both cereal and bread will depend largely on the type of work you do. If you do manual work you will need both to furnish the large amount of energy you need. If you are an office worker you will need to eat only one of the two.

Third, a glass of milk or hot cocoa. Remember, milk is good home insurance. Here's another good reason, too. Studies show that proteins are used to better advantage when milk is included in the breakfast.

First, second, third, those are the three breakfast foods we consider a must. You may add other things as you like. Egg cooked to your taste; ham, sausage, bacon, pancakes, waffles, French toast—you name it. All of these will make up the 1-4 to 1-3 of your daily food needs.

Don't live at such high speed that you miss all the marvels of nature in the early morning and another of the better things in life—a good breakfast. February is Good Breakfast Month, therefore, a good time to start having a good morning every morning with breakfast. May

Wars Come From Within

By MRS. EVA LITTLE Wars come from within, not from without. Why then should we pine, and cease to pray, sing and shout? The cause is envy, strife and sin. If it weren't for satan, we would have had peace within. He tore the heavens apart and wrecked his airplane, with greed and lust, with his sinful pride. God is pure and holy and satan didn't want to be there to do God's command and help others to reach the promised land. Satan rather fool people with his witchcraft and bribe.

BROTHERHOOD WEEK

Dear Editor: Brotherhood Week will be observed February 20-27, 1955. It is a week that has become established as one of our great educational and spiritual institutions.

With your help we can accomplish these goals: to encourage more people to accept and practice the tenets of brotherhood; to make brotherhood a part of their everyday lives; to strengthen the structure upon which we, as free, democratic people live.

Your Newspaper Committee for Brotherhood Week sends you this kit of materials and hopes you will use them freely. We urge you to get in touch with your local educational, civic, business and religious leaders and develop material that will reflect the Brotherhood activities in your community.

Sincerely, HAROLD FELLOWS.
