News Careers Offer Growing

the reporting and editing staffs of the lot is dated 1940.

This is a major conclusion of a report by Alvin E. Austin, who took a year's leave from his post as head of North Dakota University's journalism department, to in. likely to spark enthusiasm. Much of it springs from the U.S. De-partment of Labor, which has the partment of Labor, which has the newspaper business tabbed as a declining industry, mainly because there are fewer dailles and week-lies than in the 1920's. one of his surveys, of 135 large and small daily papers, disclosed that over 67% consider "shortage if new manpower" to be one of the control ing justified by the big increase in totals of employes, payrolls, circulations.

Should the young person aiming at a news career go to a college journalism school? The report notes that debate on this point still rages among newspaper ex-ecutives. Of 128 managing editors questioned, 91 would definitely hire journalism school graduates ahead of general tollege grads; 29 firm-ly favored the latter over the forer: just eight had no preferences.

BURST OF INTEREST Professor Austin argues that the question is perhaps less crucial than it might seem, since newspapers agree that most of all they want young people with a broad liberal education, and this is obtainable either in or out of journalism, schools nalism schools

In any case, the papers can not currently fill all their manpower nreds from the journalism schools whose enrollment has dropped more than 30% within a decade. Therefore, he contends, they must enlarge their recruitment from the staffs of college papers on campuses lacking formal journalism courses.

More and more newspapers have recently initiated their own training programs for young members of their news staffs, the report shows. A spot check during the course of the Austin study turned up 35 of them in 28 states and the District of Columbia.

Currently, there is a burst of interest in the idea that newspapers, like baseball teams, could benefit from "farm" systems where rookies could be trained and exhibit their worth. One newspaper chain has recently acquired two Florida weeklies with this objec-

TO RAISE HELL

The Austin report admits that its numerous surveys could not compile statistics on some of the greatest attractions of a career on good newspaper. To sample these, the report quotes individ-uals who are in the profession and love it. Here are three of them:

"No two days are alike. Work is raimulating, creative, and every situation is different. Boredom is impossible! The people themselves are exciting and congenial, too Everyone seems to be closely knit and working for a common goal."

It's Increase, But "Bad Publicity" Hurts - Butler

Booker T. Washington stadium to witness the local high school pigskin parade for the current season it was learned this week. W. O. "Barney" Butler, co-ordinator of Negro athletics for the board veteran continued. "And we have never had a major incident, in a stadium where high school students are concerned."

Following are the attendance figure represented an increase over 1957 of about 1000.

1957 of about 1,000.

The Manassas High School Tigers were the biggest gate attraction, drawing some 15,206 fans.
Melrose's Golden Wildcats, city champions, were second with 13.
948. More persons witnessed the Manassas-Melrose contest than any other. This tilt attracted 4 316 any other: This tilt attracted 4,316 grid enthusiasts.
"BAD PUBLICITY HURT"

But Co-ordinator Butler indi-cated he and other board officials were not too content with the at-tendance figures. "We need more adult participation and attendance at these games," Mr. Butler said. "Citizens should take more interest in football. We have some of the country's best high school teams right here in Memphis. We have some good stadia for football. I don't know of any other southern city with two big stadia at Negro high schools."

The Board official added that "bad publicity during or after football games has not helped to increase attendance at the games." The publicity resulted from acts of violence that occurred following some of the tilts. Following the Douglass-Hamilton contest of the night of September 12, hoodlums night of September 12, noodings started a riot on a Memphis Street Transit bus headed north on Park-way. The incident was blown up in the daily press and distorted to the effect that students from the effect that students from Hamilton and Douglass created the disturbance.

This is not true at all," Butler "This is not true at all," Butter said. "An investigation by the school board revealed that the fight occurred on a regular street car which was not chartered by the board." He added: "Nor did the board." He added: "Nor did the school board have any control over the persons involved in the fight, because the incident hap-pened after school hours and off of school property. We were fold that boys started the fight on the bus over a cigarette lighter and that it spread into a free-for-all." COMMENTS ON ALDRIDGE'S STABBING Butler commented on the death

Butler commented on the death of John Aldridge, a former Book-er T. Washington football captain who was stabled to death follow-ing the Fr. Bertrand-Washington game and whose killer has yet to be apprehended. "The incident of

An Effective Approach To This Bombing Mania

That illfamed pattern of the underworld which takes on the sympton of bombing as a disguised pastime in perditious. practices, met a stern answer before a Birmingham jury a few days ago when an admitted member of the Ku Klux Klan was found guilty and given ten years for the bombing of a Negro

He was one of the trio charged with bombing the home of one of the residents in the "dynamiting sections" of Birmingham where Negroes are buying homes formerly occupied by white persons.

Surely those who lean toward such an illicit reprisal, got a set-back in this surprising verdict.

Here it is shown that Birmingham finds no occasion for pride in something which detracts from its powerful possibilities and is daily rendering her insurance reputation and good relations a disservice.

Not only insurance companies and industries frown upon such a liability to their security, but all of those citizens who are laboring day in and out at great sacrifice for better relations that the possibilities and fortunes of all our people might be enhanced.

Cities menaced with this peril would do well to take a leaf from Birmingham, who, tired of being on the bombing list, is taking proper measures to eliminate the bombers.

After all this is the most positive way in handling this bombing contagion and we commend the officials for their

Lowndes unsuspecting white voters by politicians, as well as the politicians of the politicians o Those students of this circumventive plan, fed so freely to ians themselves, find another road-block thrown in the path of the private school plan.

Despite all these obvious obstructions, openly admitted by some, both Georgia Senators Richard B. Russell and Herman Talmadge would insist before their constituencies that the private school plan is still something that can be profitably tried out.

How many more road-blocks will be needed to stop this! baseless thinking?

Dying Principles?

IRS thus takes the position that it is entitled to decide what a private business can and cannot say in its advertising if it is to be treated as a business expense. And that simply means that IRS has taken over a basic, vital and pure management function.

The ruling is not yet in force - due, no doubt, to the huge tide of criticism that it has brought on. And what Fortune terms "the utilities' neatest rebuttal so far" has come from a leading utility afficial. He said: "Advertising expense is most frequently incurred to assist in meeting competition and such advertising is held to be a proper by siness expense . . . It should make no difference whether the competition is from other business enterprises or from the federal government."

How any agency can honestly dispute that is impossible to see. If the utilities, or any other business, have to pay a heavy tax penalty in order to explain their competitive problems to the American people, freedom of expression and freedom of the press are dying principles in this country.

EMORY O. JACKSON

MONTGOMERY, Ala. - (SNS) Five simple tests may be used to determine both racial discrimination in the Alabama voter-regis-tration process and the progress toward improved political suffrage, it seems to me.

Teel one could be based upon the relationship of the Negro vote to the total vote. Secondly, a look should be made into the percentage of the Negro vote to the potential Negro vote. Thirdly, check the gap between the actual and potential Negro vote and compare the finding with the gap between the actual and potential white vote. Fourth, determine whether it is as easy for a Negro applicant to become a voter as a white applicant with similar qualifications.

Finally, examine the influence of he while Clitzens Councils which have for one of their objectives the abolition of Negro voting power. In a state where the strong, and where politicians have embraced its ide-ology and objec-tives. Negro votology and objectives. Negro voting is likely to suffer or be endangered.

Special Report by the Southern Regional Council Atlanta, Ga.

Atlanta, Ga. on "The Negro Voter in the South - 1958" is being referred to by some sources to try to justify the racial disfranchisement system in the South. What has gone unsaid is that only in recent years has there been anything .. like a scientific investigation of political suffrage in the South The full story is not carried in the SRC report, which account nevertheless is port, which account nevertheless is a valuable summary.

SRC estimates the Alabama Negro votes at 53,366. The Summit Meeting of Negro Leaders (May 12-13, 1958) put the Negro vote potential at 540,000. Alabama voterregistration experts have used a higher figure. At best, the Negro group in Alabama are only token approximately 34 per cent of the Alabama population. What the justifiers of low-voting and racial disfranchisment fail toand racial distranchisment land or explain is how is it that in Lowndes County and Wilcox County there are no Negro voters. In 1955, Lowndes had 2057 white persons 21 years and older and 2252 white voters, according to Hugh W. Sparrow, writing May 20, 1956 in The Birmingham News, He listed no Ne-gro voters. At the same time, ac-registered voter.

Wilcox County had 8.213 Negro persons of voting age with a single Negro voter. A: the same time. Sparrow listed Wilcox with 3.055 white persons of voting age with 2877 white voters.

2.877 white voters.

There can be no effective voting by the Negro group in Alahama until Negro citizens in Lowndes and Wilcox have free and unfettered access to the ballot box. As long as the Negro group is denied the op-portunity to vote in the Black Belt counties so long will the Negro group in Jefferson Mobile, Mont-gomery, and Etowah counties have their voting power reduced. The their voting power reduced. The political process in America starts with registering to vote and con-tinues through serving in elective and appointive public office.

added "I believe this is a new era for Negro voters. I challenge this club to know and register every Negro of voting age in this precinct. When new neighbors move in, go to them and see if they are registered voters."

Atty. S. A. Wilbun predicted "our destiny to a large extent is what we do ourselves in politics. It is necessary to participate in politics for our own protection." Frank Kilpatrick, also a member on the Democratic club, told the members "it is more necessary to take an active part in local elections than it is on the national level."
