Atlanta Students March, City School Is Dynamited

Mayor Blames "Outhouse Crowd" For Retaliation

By United Press International An estimated 1,000 Negroes marched through downtown Atlanta in an orderly protest against segregation Sunday...

Hours later a dynamite blast wrecked the auditorium and several classrooms of the English Avenue Elementary School in Northwest Atlanta...

Mayor William B. Hartsfield blamed the "outhouse crowd" and the silence of the State Capitol for bombing, while Dr. John W. Letson, Superintendent of Schools, and Dr. Rufus E. Clement, School Board member and president of Atlanta University, expressed regret...

The student demonstration in Atlanta began with sunrise services in Atlanta University's Herndon Stadium where some 2,000 Negroes stood in a chilling rain to pray for integration.

After the services, a group of some 400 persons rode in cars to Plaza Park in downtown Atlanta while another group of some 1,000 marched the mile and a half to the park.

The smaller group sang hymns and heard student leader Lonnie King urge a continuance of protests against downtown Atlanta merchants operating segregated lunch counters...

Minutes later, the marchers, two abreast and heeding traffic signals, arrived at the park. They left shortly after real estate man Curtis Clark told them it was in their interests to continue the economic protest.

PICKETING CONTINUES Negro picketing of "target" stores in downtown Atlanta continue Saturday and Sunday...

Police at Macon said the three Negroes, a youth and two girls, were en-route from Atlanta to Jacksonville, Fla., and got into the line at the white cafeteria when the bus made a lunch stop at Macon.

Police took the group to the Macon police station and their bus left without them. The Negroes were released later to catch another bus to Jacksonville and Mayor Ed Wilson said no charges were filed against them and "as far as I'm concerned the case is closed."

City Commissioners, Trustees Refuse Restroom Desegregation

City Commissioners and Trustees of Memphis Public Libraries after having voluntarily desegregated the city libraries several months ago, have refused to desegregate restroom facilities in these same libraries.

The city officials have asked Federal Judge William E. Miller of Nashville, presiding over the case, for permission to enter a new defense, which would force the court to act on the constitutionality of the city ordinance which requires segregated restroom facilities.

Negro attorneys Mrs. Constance Motley, member of the NAACP legal staff in New York, H. T. Lookard, Russell B. Sugarman, Jr., and A. W. Wallis, Jr., of Memphis, are demanding that desegregation take place within the libraries as well.

Politicians Speculate Successor To Dawson

CHICAGO — (ANP) — Who will succeed William L. Dawson if he should become the first Negro member of the federal cabinet by being named postmaster general?

So much speculation has centered around the exciting possibility of his appointment that few, other than politicians here, have considered the consequences of such an appointment and his acceptance of it.

First of all, he would have to resign the seat he has held in Congress for more than 16 years. WOULD USE POWER IN HOUSE

Secondly, he would lose the power and influence he now enjoys as chairman of the House committee on government operations.

It would mean that with the promotion of Adam Clayton Powell, Jr., to the chairmanship of the House labor and education committee, a Negro would still head only one instead of two congressional committees.

Powell would also become the dean of the Negro congressional corps.

WHAT ABOUT CHICAGO? But the speculation that fascinates politicians here is what would happen in Chicago.

Mainly, they wonder who would take over Dawson's job as representative from the first congressional district of Illinois, the state's wealthiest and economically most important because it includes Chicago's loop.

WOULD STILL HAVE CHICAGO POWER Those interested in taking over Dawson's congressional seat are well aware that they would not be replacing Dawson as a political power in Chicago.

Church Council Asks Louisiana To Obey The Law

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — The National Council of Churches' general assembly passed a resolution calling on New Orleans and the State of Louisiana to bring their policies and practices into accord with the dictates of Christian conscience and the laws of the land.

The Council is the largest religious body in America with 40 million members. Its head, J. I. Miller of Columbus, Ind., said on racial discrimination:

"God shows no partiality. We ought to take those words literally and act accordingly."

All congregations in every community were requested to work together to bring about a change in the belief that it would "bring many hesitant people in New Orleans to work openly for school desegregation."

BALUBA BATTLE POLICE

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo — (UPI)—An estimated 2,000 rampaging Baluba tribesmen battled gendarmes in this high country near Kingolo, in Katanga Province Saturday, and at least 10 policemen were killed in the bloody fight, dispatches said.

A report from Elisabethville, the Katanga capital, said another 10 gendarmes were injured in the battle, second in three days in the area.

U. S. Consul Is Flown To Stanleyville

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo — (UPI) — U. S. Consul Robert McIlvain flew to Stanleyville Saturday to aid any Americans threatened with slaughter in a leftist reign of terror in the Patrice Lumumba stronghold.

As a deadline for bloodshed passed, there was nothing to indicate that Stanleyville strongman Bernard Salumu, a former secretary of jailed ex-premier Lumumba, had carried out his threat to behead Belgian nationals unless Lumumba was freed.

More than 100 Europeans, mostly Belgians, spent the night at a schoolhouse guarded by a detachment of the 1,800-man Ethiopian U.N. force in Oriental Province.

McIlvain was ordered to Stanleyville from Leopoldville to care for the interests of Americans in Oriental Province. A number of American missionaries are believed to be in the area.

By MARION E. JACKSON
ATLANTA, Ga.—(SNS)—
The 100 Per Cent Wrong Club Rating Committee of the Atlanta Daily World has selected Southern University of Baton Rouge, La., of the Southwestern Athletic Conference, as winner of the W. A. Scott Memorial Trophy, emblematic of the Negro National Champions.

The nationally-famous Atlanta, Ga., sportsmen picked the Jaguar Cats of Coach A. W. Mumford on the basis of schedule, games won and lost and the Dickerson Rating System.

IN THE SWING

By MORRIS WEBB and BERNARD BATES

Hello Everyone—
Your roving pals are back in the swing of things and have gathered some information we think will interest you. Before we use up all our time with this needless chatter, we will break into the latest news.

LATEST DOPE AND DATA:
Florida Gray and Willie Ward are strolling hand in hand. Rosie Hunter has room in her heart for no one but Robert Earl Edwards. Joy Reeves has decided to put down Isaac Young and now is digging Albert Higgins. Dorothy Sausberg was upset when George Jones' name appeared in the paper with Willie Wells. Mary Watts has brought herself a class ring, and telling her friends that her sweetheart gave it to her.

QUESTIONS OF THE WEEK:
Why Isaac Young retain his top positions for the remainder of the year? Why is M. G. trying to fool someone with his falaises? Why has B. S. been spreading propaganda around BTW this year? Why do some people beg for publicity? Why are Lena Darden and Mattie Campbell still trying to start a riot when they have tried to be peaceful?

NOTICE
Lena Darden, you can tell Mattie Campbell she is doing anything but pouring kerosene on a blaze. We realize that you have to do some thing to gain readers and make your column interesting. The trouble is that you are not ready to accept the responsibility of being reporters and keeping your noses out of other people's business. So will you please let this year pass peacefully and quietly. You make good examples of someone digging a ditch and someone is going behind him filling it up.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
Don't hurt yourself while trying to hurt someone else. Don't try to walk in darkness with a blindfold over your eyes and expect to see. There is a light in everyone's life when he must give in and admit that he was or has been wrong. So don't get caught in your own web.

TOP GIRLS:
June Matthews, Freddie Brooks, Johnnie Lurkin, Carlean Pearson, Betty Cunigan, Kay Frances Jay, Ruby Hardy, Brenda Harrell, Della Smith, Gloria Lewers.

TDP BOYS:
Eugene Davis, Cranford Scott, Eddie James, Samuel Love, Walter London, Bishop Trotter, Cuba Johnson, Edward Johnson, Edward Harris, John Sanders.

CLUB NEWS:
The Sequela Social Club is already in the swing and has given its first "Get Acquainted Party" which was held at 684 South Parkway. The young ladies were clad in white sweaters, green shoes, green skirts and green stockings. Along with them their sweetheart, Mr. Oble Howard, wore a green suit and white sweater. Washingtonians, Hamiltonians, College students, co-eds and many others were present.

The officers are:

Cats, paid tribute to Mumford's more than a quarter of a century service as a head football coach at Jarvis Christian and Texas Colleges, as well as his present tenure at Southern University.

Southern, Grambling, and Prairie View played almost identical conference schedules. The difference was that the Jaguar Cats defeated the defending national champion of Florida A & M University 14-0 and dangerous Tennessee State champions of the Midwestern Athletic Conference 7-6 and Kentucky State of MWA 34-0. Florida A&M won the SIAC championship.

Southern, Grambling and Prairie View share three-way honors in the Southwestern Athletic Conference. Grambling defeated Tennessee State 20-0 and Prairie View turned back the Nashville institution 21-0. Yet, neither Grambling or Prairie View played Florida A&M.

The Dickerson Rating System gives six first division victories to the Jaguar Cats which allows 30 points for winning from a first divisional team and 20 points for losing to first divisional team.

The 100 Per Cent Wrong Club was unanimous in selecting the Jaguar Cats to win the W. A. Scott Memorial Trophy, which is donated by the Coca-Cola Company of Atlanta, Ga., through the Moss H. Kendrick Organization, public relations consultants of Washington, D. C.

Langston University played only two all-Negro colleges defeating Texas College 47-0 and Lincoln (Mo.) 6-0.

The W. A. Scott Memorial National Championship Trophy is awarded on a basis of regular season play. It honors the memory of the late founder of the Atlanta Daily World, who was an all-American quarterback at Morehouse College. The trophy will be awarded at the annual jamboree at the Atlanta Club, January 26-27.

Clark Panthers Rips S. C. State Bulldogs, 72-64

BY ALFRED R. JOHNSON

ATLANTA, Ga.—(SNS)—
The Clark College Panthers opened their 1980-81 basketball season by polishing-off the South Carolina State College Bulldogs, 72-64, Saturday night, at the Job Louis Gymnasium.

Henry Clark, at-around floorman and playmaker from Chicago, started the Panthers rolling early in the contest with one of his traditional "jump shots." The Panthers pulled away for a ten-point lead, then the Bulldogs started hitting to close up the gap to 17-15, at 11:20 of the first half.

Henry Clark, Walter Simpson of New York City and Robert Watkins, another Chicago kid, continued to drop in shots for Clark; while Lindberg Moody, David Boyd and Ronald Myles kept South Carolina State right on their heels.

The Panthers left the floor with a 39-30 lead at half-time and went on to increase the lead to 11 points early in the second half. The Bulldogs reduced the deficit to 63-51 with 11 minutes left to play, and the Panthers led 59-50 at the ten-minute mark. Clark maintained this margin and went on to take the South Carolina State hoopsters in camp.

A complete story and box will be published in Tuesday's Atlanta World.

KNOW YOUR LIBRARY

By MAUDEAN THOMPSON SEWARD

Two ladies have written a book for this week especially for young people who are on the threshold of adulthood in order to inspire high ideals and right standards of living in the home, at work and at play, in the conduct of friendships, and as citizens of America and of the world. It is the intention of the book to reveal opportunities for the practice of moral and spiritual values as they are encountered in all human relationships: getting along with the family; meeting and solving money problems; dating; marriage; earning; spending and saving; the daily routine of living; and participation in government. This includes the learning of much factual material; the development of skills, the development of problem-solving abilities and appreciation, but most important the development of ATTITUDES which make all these things worthwhile.

Each of the eleven chapters in this book deals with an area of living which constitutes a problem to be approached from the personal point of view, with the idea of learning to THINK, FEEL, and REACT in the most desirable way. Numerous opportunities are offered throughout the book for the stimulation and development of right attitudes in living through discussion, analysis and human relationships, creative role-acting, and thoughtful self-evaluation.

Some of the things you are reading about in this book are: Problems and pleasures in living — what are Yours? It's your life — what will you do with it? First aid for teen-age money problems. If you don't get along with your family — what can you do? Dating is a part of growing up; earn your living — and like it! To manage your money — you must manage yourself! Marriage means partnership in living. Make your house a home to live in. Citizens of America take care of your country. The pursuit of happiness. Film and filmstrips. YOU ASKED IT

By GRACE WILLIAMS

Dear Grace: I plan to make Christmas cookies and freeze them: Should I make the cookies and freeze the dough or is it better to freeze them after baking?

Answer: Most cookies can be frozen in dough or after they are baked. Those baked from dough are usually crisp than the pre-baked cookies and take less space during storage in the freezer. Macaroons and other meringue type cookies have poor texture when frozen, regardless of whether they are frozen before or after baking.

Dear Grace: Is oatmeal a whole grain cereal?

Answer: No, oatmeal is not really a whole grain — it does not represent the whole oat kernel, but it contains the germ. Nutritionally it is classed with the whole-grain cereals.

Dear Grace: Please give me a recipe for old-fashioned eggnog.

Answer: Rich Christmas Eggnog: 1-4 cup sugar 6 eggs yolks, beaten 4 cups milk, scalded 1-4 teaspoon salt 6 egg whites 1-4 cup sugar 2 cups cream, whipped 2 teaspoons vanilla Nutmeg Beat 1-4 cup sugar into egg yolks; stir in milk slowly. Cook over hot water until mixture coats spoon, stirring constantly. Chill. Add salt to egg whites and beat stiffly. While beating, add the other 1-4 cup sugar gradually. Fold egg whites and whipped cream into mixture separately. Add vanilla. Chill for several hours. Pour into cups and sprinkle with nutmeg. Makes about 29 half-cup portions. Favor and a higher food value than when cooked in water. For cooking in a double boiler or in HINT TO WIVES: Rice cooked in milk is creamy brick by brick" was taken less seriously since he has only about 600 gendarmes under his control. But they already have proven themselves strong enough to harass "the Hungarians."

There are about 1,000 whites in Stanleyville including 800 Belgians, and 200 Germans, French, Greeks, Portuguese and British. Some American missionaries who sent their wives home at the start of the Congo crisis are believed still there.

Dispatches Friday from Stanleyville said Salumu gendarmes began arresting Europeans indiscriminately Thursday night, terrifying the white populace and sending them streaming to a school building guarded by the Ethiopians.

U. N. SENDS GENERAL

The United Nations Friday dispatched Brig. Gen. Mendasha Y-

assou, Ethiopian chief of staff of the U. N. forces in the Congo, to Stanleyville to direct the 1,800 Ethiopian troops there. A U. N. spokesman said 73 women and children already were under U. N. protection.

Lumumba was deposed by Mobutu last fall and had been held in his closely guarded residence until he escaped two weeks ago and tried to reach Stanleyville. He was captured by Mobutu's troops, who flew him back to Leopoldville and manhandled him into an army stockade.

Some of the pro-Lumumba forces in Stanleyville have fanned out to the borders of Oriental and Equatorial provinces and have fought a series of skirmishes with Mobutu troops down there to try to put down the rebellion.

Dag Warns That U.N. Will Fight Mass Murder Try

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — (UPI) — U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold Friday warned that U. N. forces in the Congo would fight any attempt by pro-Lumumba supporters to carry out their threat to behead Belgians in Stanleyville.

Rajeshwar Dayal of India, Chief U. N. representative in the Congo, immediately dispatched Ethiopian Brig. Gen. Mendasha Lyassa to Stanleyville to take command of the 1,800 Ethiopian troops in Oriental Province, which has been taken over by Bernard Salumu, former secretary of jailed ex-Premier Patrice Lumumba.

Hammarskjold moved to head off a bloodletting threatened by Salumu unless Lumumba is released from jail in Leopoldville Province where he is the captive of strongman Col. Joseph Mobutu.

The U. N. force will resist all acts of violence against individuals who request protection of the United Nations," Hammarskjold's report to the Security Council said.

"The necessary instructions to this effect have been communicated to the units of the force at present in Stanleyville."

U. N. refuge was provided in a commandeered school building for 500 of the estimated 1,600 to 2,000 whites in the province, Hammarskjold reported.

Arrests of Belgians are taking place both in Stanleyville and neighboring Aru, he said.

Hammarskjold said Salumu also had threatened to allow the Congolese to steal and pillage Belgian property and to battle any U. N. force that might seek to interfere.

Salumu was informed, Hammarskjold said, that the release of Lumumba was not within the province of the United Nations.

Churchmen Are Discussing So. Africa's Race Policy

By WILBUR G. LANDREY JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — South African international churchmen are meeting here in a week-long conference sponsored by the World Council of Churches to discuss the nation's segregationist racial policies.

But it is considered almost certain the delegates will be unable to agree on any common declaration in the discussions which will go on behind closed doors at Cotswold College until Dec. 14. The eight South African churches attending are themselves widely split on the subject.

The conference was organized by the world body is attending the conference, including Dr. W. A. Visser 't Hooft, general secretary of the organization, and Dr. Robert Bilheimer, associate general secretary, who organized the conference.

In addition there is a 10-man delegation from the South African churches. The churches are the Dutch Reformed Church of Transvaal, the Dutch Reformed Church of the Cape, the Hervormde Kerk, the Church of the Province of South Africa, Anglican, the Methodist Church, the Presbyterian Church of Southern Africa, the Bantu Presbyterian Church and the Congregational Union of Southern Africa.

The Dutch reformed churches are, like the National party and government, composed of African and South Africans as opposed to those of English descent. In the main they support the government's policy.

What adds significance to the conference is that the Dutch reformed churches probably occupy the most influential position of any Protestant church in the world, because of their closeness to the government.

The Anglican, Methodists, Congregationalists and Bantu Presbyterians, on the other hand, oppose segregation. The policy of the white Presbyterians is not clear.

Lawyer Turns Down $15,000 Judgeship For Council Post

CLEVELAND, Ohio — (ANP) — A 40-year-old attorney has turned down a $15,000 judgeship offered him by Gov. Mike DiSalle to retain his city council seat that pays only $5,000.

Atty. Leo Jackson, who would have been the fourth Negro judge, and the youngest in the city, explained:

"I have made this financial sacrifice to be a councilman, because I want to continue to push my program for first-class rights and privileges for my community.

"Progress has been extremely encouraging in the three years I have been in office. If I deserted now, all my efforts will have been for nothing," he said.

The Cleveland Press, Ohio's largest daily newspaper, called Jackson's decision a "major one."

He (Jackson) has been a councilman for only a few years, but he has made an impression of complete sincerity and anxiety to better housing, law enforcement and other conditions in his neighborhood," the editorial said.

"His constituents must be extremely pleased that he preferred to remain where he is serving them."

Governor DiSalle expressed regret at Jackson's decision and, in a letter to him wrote:

"It was with regret that I received your letter of November 5th. I am certain that you would have been a credit to the bench. However, I can understand your motivations in wanting to continue where you feel you can be of greatest service."

Jackson is a native of Orlando, Fla. and a graduate of Morehouse college and Atlanta university.

Ask Jury Trial In Bus Damage Suit

ATLANTA, Ga. — (SNS) — By JOHN BRITTON

The Southeastern Greyhound Lines, Inc., defendants in a $9 million civil damage suit, has filed a petition in federal court here demanding that the case be put to trial before a jury.

The demand for trial by jury was filed in U. S. District Court Thursday by attorneys for the bus company who are fighting against the multi-million dollar civil action pending against them in federal court here.

The suit was filed in Federal court by Miss Patricia Ann Shuttlesworth, a college coed and daughter of Birmingham, Ala. desegregation fighter the Rev. Fred L. Shuttlesworth. She filed the suit against the bus line on November 16.

A decision as to which judge will handle the case and the court order on the motions raised by the defendants is expected to be made shortly.

In the suit, Miss Shuttlesworth charged that an agent of the bus company, a bus driver, caused her to suffer humiliation when she was ordered to move from a seat she already occupied to a rear seat while she was at a rest stop in Gadsden, Ala., last August.

She charged that she was arrested and held in police custody illegally and that she had been damaged in the sum of $9 million.

Specifically, the suit involves an alleged illegal arrest as well as segregation on a bus moving in interstate commerce.

Southern Cats Hail W.A. Scott II Award

By BENNIE THOMAS

BATON ROUGE, La. — Southern University's rugged football schedule paid handsome dividends following the close of the '60 campaign—the Jaguars were named as winners of the W. A. Scott Memorial Trophy, emblematic of the National Negro Football Championship.

A. W. Mumford, Southern University head coach, visibly elated following the announcement via wire service, said that the designation was "the most pleasant surprise that I have enjoyed in many many years."

The honor came at the end of Mumford's 25th season as head football coach at Southern University.

Coach Mumford heaped praise on his Jaguar team which booted to a 9-1-0 record on the season, and included a slice of the SWAC championship, shared by the Jaguars, Grambling College and Prairie View. The Jaguars were defending conference champions.

"It is a fitting climax to a tremendous effort by a great bunch of players" said coach Mumford. "The season was rugged, the boys fought hard, and they deserve the honor," continued the head mentor.

The 100 Percent Wrong Club of Atlanta, Ga. made the selection. The club is the official rating committee of the Atlanta Daily World.

Justice Department Urges "Quick" Rule Against La. Bias Law

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Justice Department urged the Supreme Court Thursday to rule swiftly against Louisiana's anti-integration school laws and end "uncertainty and confusion being deliberately fostered" by the state legislature.

The department filed a memorandum with the court which said the Louisiana laws were "plainly unconstitutional."

It asked rapid action by the high tribunal to extricate the New Orleans School Board from "a serious predicament." The Legislature passed the laws in an effort to block admission of four Negro first graders into two city schools.

The department brief said any delay by the Supreme Court "might result in denial of the constitutional rights of the Negro children simply because of the board's inability to carry out its obligations and to continue to operate the schools."

The case was brought to the Supreme Court by Louisiana state authorities after a panel of three federal judges last week enjoined state officials from enforcing the anti-integration legislative "package."

Louisiana Attorney General Jack Gremlion asked the high court Wednesday to stay the lower court decision until a formal appeal can be heard here.

The Justice Department took strong issue with Gremlion's argument that the legislative "package" was soundly based on the doctrine of "interposition" which allows a state to interpose its sovereignty against a federal law or court order.

Kennedy Urged To Act On FEPC At Southeastern Meet

CHARLOTTE, N. C. — A six state Southeastern Regional Conference of leaders of the Negro lunch counter sit-in demonstrations, meeting in Charlotte, N. C., under the auspices of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, after hearing a report on racial discrimination in employment by the Association's Labor Secretary, Herbert Hill.

Mr. Hill told the student leaders that Negro workers have made few significant employment gains in new Southern industry and that Negroes are usually limited to unskilled and menial jobs. He stated that "NAACP investigations reveal that in the textile industry, still the basic industry of the South, Negroes remain in a most marginal position. Among the 400,000 textile workers in North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia, there is not a single Negro employed as a spinner, weaver of loom fixer."

The NAACP Labor Secretary reported that "according to state government statistics the number of textile workers employed in South Carolina in 1918 was 48,000 and 125,000 in 1960, while the percentage of Negroes in the textile labor force fell from 9 per cent to 4.8 per cent during the same period."

Vote 'Crusader' Arrested After Savannah Incident

SAVANNAH, Ga. — (UPI) — A young Negro, active in a Chatham County "crusade" to get other Negroes to vote, was held in jail Friday on charges filed by a county tax commissioner.

Nathaniel Wright, 22, a representative of the Chatham County Crusade for Voters, was arrested Thursday and charged with assault and battery and loitering.

He was apprehended on a warrant sworn out by J. Archie Johnson, Chatham County tax commissioner. Johnson said Wright made "unfriendly physical contact" with him and was "without visible means of sustenance."

The commissioner said the man blocked the doorway to his office and staged a protest when asked to move. Wright said he had accidentally bumped into Johnson and said to him, "Excuse me."

A bond of $500 was set for the man who for the past two weeks has been active in a campaign to boost Negro voter registration in the county.

Juvenile Delinquency Court Cases Increase

WASHINGTON — Juvenile delinquency court cases increased by 2 percent in 1959, the Children's Bureau reported Friday.

The Bureau noted, however, that last year's increase was the smallest reported during the past decade even though the juvenile delinquency rate has risen steadily for eleven consecutive years.

Contrary to trends in previous years, the increase in delinquency cases in 1959 did not exceed the rise in the child population, which went up by 5 percent among children of juvenile court age (10-17).

Juvenile delinquency data are compiled by the Children's Bureau with the cooperation of a representative sampling of juvenile courts throughout the Nation.

The 1959 findings roughly parallel data recently issued by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which showed a 4 percent increase in police arrests of juveniles in 1959 over 1958. Both juvenile court and police arrest data show that since 1948, juvenile arrests and court cases have more than doubled while the population of our young people has increased by less than one-half.

While the general picture of delinquents before the juvenile courts showed a 2 percent increase in 1959, there was a 2 percent decrease in the number of juveniles handled in urban areas while courts serving semirural and rural areas experienced increases of 7 and 15 percent respectively.

Californians Pay Hatcher Tribute

SAN FRANCISCO — (ANP) — Four hundred persons from the Bay Area gathered here last week to welcome home one of the two men from this city appointed by Pres.-elect John F. Kennedy to serve in the new administration.

Andrew T. Hatcher, associate press secretary designate and first Negro who will ever serve in this capacity at the White House, came home to an enthusiastic welcome by friends and fellow political workers.

The affair was a luncheon sponsored by the Democratic State Central Committee.

Dr. Dahle A. Collins, president of Fillmore Democratic Club, served as chairman.

Hatcher, who describes himself as a "political technician," thanked his audience for himself and Mrs. Ruth Hatcher, his wife, whom he thanked for the inspiration she has offered him in the past.

THE CRUCIFIXION OF 1960. NEW ORLEANS

Texts: "Thy cruelty to themselves, the Son of God atresh, and put him to open shame." — Heb. 6:6

"Verily I say unto you, inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." — Matt. 28:40

On a foul spot, Golgotha, they crucified Jesus Christ. He was railroaded to the cross as public enemy number one.

In the year of our Lord 1960, in the city of New Orleans, the rabid racists, a vociferous minority in our dear old Southland is railroading to a cross four little innocents, four little girls of six years old. Why? Because they are black skin because they dare live and act within the framework of the constitution, the Supreme Court of the land. Thus they crucify anew Jesus Christ and put Jesus to open shame. This mob spews out its dirty sputum like foul garbage because four little Negro girls went to school. Inasmuch as they do it to charming childhood they do it unto Jesus.

Far better that millstones be hanged about the necks of these rabid racists and they be drowned in the depths of God's ocean than to cause four little six-year-old girls of dear, Dixie, to stumble as they seek to find their way.

Yes, there are tensions and tantrums, frustrations and fears, hates and hypocrisies, but remember that though the mills of God grind slowly, they grind to powder and dust and, through His judgments have laden heels, they have iron hands. Except American reports, I tremble like an aspen leaf for America.

Remember, "truth crushed to earth will rise again." Yes, I tremble.

Change For Judge Duke Slater Rumored

CHICAGO — (ANP) — Chicago's highest ranking Negro judge, Fred "Duke" Slater is facing demotion, according to reports current here.

Slater, who has been under criticism for his decisions in Criminal Court where he has been presiding, is about to be shifted to Superior court where he will hear only civil cases, according to the report.

This is regarded as "demotion" in legal circles.

The report declared that Slater is being shifted by Mayor Richard J. Daley, head of the powerful Democratic organization here. The source said that Daley is taking the action because Slater's conduct on the bench has been a source of embarrassment to the party.

Slater is regarded as an important factor in all decisions by

A New Africa And A New Opportunity
Not many survive in this generation who can vividly recall the early movement of Bishop Henry M. Turner of the AME church to take the Negroes back to Africa.

However, the powerful missionary spirit of Bishop Turner caused many a family to break up and go back to Africa. Being an American Bishop, Turner was unable to follow through in detail his dream, which in time fell through as a massive measure to return the Negro back to the fatherland.

Since that time, Marcus Garvey, prince-like descendant of West Indies parents, started a more modern approach to a back to Africa movement. Garvey had a heavy dream, he saw the organization of big ship companies to effect the movement. For a time, it took on big proportions, so much like the stature of its founder, only to, in time fall through.

Now, with the recent contagion of freedom and African states being given their freedom, such spirits as President Tubman and other reliable enthusiasts might see a different approach back of a new African movement.

So far as we are concerned, the Negro in America is no immigrant; if ever there were a bonified American it is what is known in the parlance of racial identification and anthropologic acceptance, as the Negro.

But the Negro has a right to go and try out African industries and venture in the exploits of African development of mines and rubber. It is his to try, if he desires the opportunities being offered in that prolific and productive climate whose surface is unscratched.

Many a deserted and forgotten land has fallen under the boots of those who spilled over that area for new colonization. With the dry up of the rural, the squabble for jobs and the denial of equal opportunity because of a world shrinkage, it is time to look to the inviting atmospheres and prolific opportunities of a new Africa. Maybe not far in the dim distance there will be found an answer for much of what arise as questions to our current and disturbing problems.

TWO DAYS after the primary the Herald ran a bitter front-page editorial attacking Dan Callahan for swinging his support to Senator Alex S. Simon in the November election.

"We think" Keenan's editorial said, "that a man who has been accused of trying to bribe a judge should face criminal charges, and we believe the District Attorney has an obligation to prefer them. We seem to remember Callahan's having talked in the same vein once. Was it just campaign oratory? Or could it be that he hopes Senator Simon, if he becomes Governor Simon, will appoint him to the United States Senate?"

Calling a press conference as soon as he had read the editorial, Callahan blasted back with a hurriedly prepared statement: "Mr. Keenan can run his paper, but he can't run me. Even more to the point, it's clear he can't run Senator Simon either. So the battle lines are drawn. Is Mr. Keenan going to run this state or are the people going to run it?"

ON HAND for the Democratic Party Harmony Dinner were not only all Democratic candidates for state office but also all who had lost in the primary. Party officers and workers made up the rest of the three hundred people who were packed into that part of the Bagleyville High School gymnasium roped off for the serving of harmony cocktails before the dinner began.

Senator Alex S. Simon, flanked on one side by his pudgy tactician, Itchy Forst, and on the other by Dan Callahan was talking with the local county chairman who had organized the dinner. "Alex," the chairman said, "from the way you talked at the State Fair on Labor Day, I thought we'd have to get along without you tonight."

"If the truth was known, Shorty," Simon said, "back then I wasn't so sure. I was going to be the winner. But now that I am, I'm a hundred per cent for harmony. I've always made a rule to bury the hatchet, as long as I can bury it in the other man's head. Nevertheless, I continue to look forward to the day when this gabfest with the voters will be over. Although I love my constituents with a love that passeth all understanding — at least it passeth mine—I won't be sorry to get back to my carpet slippers. The voters can go their way and I'll go mine."

Simon chuckled. Then, suddenly, he shivered. "Is there a draft in here? I guess not. Funny, I feel kind of shaky. I've got the humbles, the humbles, and the humbles."

From the dais, long white tables stretched into the lunchroom like strips of adhesive tape. Eventually Artie Smith of Bagleyville, the master of ceremonies, introduced the Senator, who seemed to rise to his aplomb with difficulty and knocked over a glass of water in covering the few feet that separated him from the speaker's position. Once there, however, he grasped the lectern with a dogged resolve and grinned delightedly.

Hands shaking, Simon poured a glass of water. "However, it isn't about politics that I want to talk tonight. Anyhow, I don't think I'm giving away trade secrets when I tell you that a Republican vote counts for as much as a Democratic vote, so as long as we've got to have Republicans around, I'd just as soon have them around on my side. No, my good friends, tonight I'm not going to talk about politics. I'm going to talk about America."

Simon stared into space, furrowing memories. Almost a minute passed, and the crowd became restless and embarrassed. Forst whispered hoarsely, "Alex, you okay?"

Stirled, Simon nodded, as if he no longer knew quite where he was. "Oh, Itchy," he said with pathos and urgency, "life is a cycle of dimly remembered joys. Bear with me, boys, bear with me. I started out in a stone shanty and I got to the U.S. Senate. I've hewed a lot of wood and carried a lot of water, and I've seen history and the country grow, and it's been a glorious glorious thing. And, boys, oh, boys, I've personally known three Presidents. I've won a mouse-tail-biting contest, I've voted for a declaration of war."

Somebody at a rear table snickered as the incoherent soliloquy went on: "There isn't much of it I'd change if I had the chance to live it over, but oh, boys, boys, for the chance to do it again! Remember the days on the moss by the riverbank and the girls with their hair of gold? Remember the smells of haystacks and clover and the flowers they wore in that golden hair? Remember the seven-league boots we wore when we went out to conquer the world? Oh, boys, boys, life is a cycle of dimly remembered joys. Life is a search for the other side of the mountain, and you're never too old for the struggle."

He swayed back and forth; his wife, alarmed, pushed his pill bottle toward him, but he shook his head defiantly. The audience watched him with nervous solemnity, and Forst half-rose from his chair to catch him if he fell. Then Simon threw out his arms in a magnificent gesture of abandonment.

"Boys, life is a search for America, and America's a dream and a discovery, a land where the frontiers are always open, because, boys, the future has no frontiers. Oh, it's a wonderful, wild and stirring trip to take, and I've had more than seventy years of it; I'm still a wanderer and a searcher; and I still don't know it all, because it's a big country with magic names and magic places, a big country of panoramas and sunsets and roads which never end, and boys, boys, the frontiers are always..." He let out a piercing cry of pain, clutched his head, and fell forward over the lectern.

Callahan reached the Senator first. "Stand back!" he bellowed. To Forst he said, "Grab his feet, Itchy. I'll get his shoulders. We'll take him to that lounge across the hall."

Followed by Simon's hysterical wife, they torped their way through the surging crowd to the lounge where a doctor member of the audience joined them. They placed Simon on a couch and his wife, weeping and on her knees, leaned her head against his.

Crusted lips had closed in the time-lined face. Wing collar twisted, black string tie curling on the strapping bull chest, railroad's timepiece dangling on its long gold chain which lay across the stately paunch, a doughty old troubadour lay at rest.

The doctor shook his head as he adjusted his stethoscope. To Callahan and Forst he said, "Keep everybody out. And have them leave an aisle so that the ambulance attendants can get through."

SEEING and SAYING

Trying to Persuade A People
ATLANTA BUSINESSMAN J. E. JORDAN continues his perennial appeal to American Negroes to pool their dollars, literally their pennies, and establish great and modern business enterprises.

MR. JORDAN is not alone in his exhortations to people of color to control a greater part of their economy, the lifeblood of their total living. There have been other prophets and other disciples of the doctrine that we must not only produce the raw materials, but master the marketing of them, their processing and distribution; the manufacturing of the products desired and wanted by western civilization; the handling of securities, stocks and bonds on an insurance on a control level; an services themselves in the vast panorama of American enterprise. They contend, and reasonably so, that it can be done with planning and concerted interest.

AT TIMES THE AMERICAN NEGRO literally finds himself at odds with himself, because of the complexity of the civilization in which he lives and into which he finds difficulty of emerging as "first class." Many of those who have arrived at a point of comparative security find it hard to "sing in the same chorus" with rabid segregationists and hate-peddlers, because the yearning and pushing of those who want a place in the sun seems to be "possessed of a strange devil."

On the other hand, few Negroes have sought and been able to leave their race and kind, because we are bound together by God's mark and heart.

THUS, it is altogether fitting that Negroes learn to put together their pennies and operate businesses and industry, which could automatically eliminate many of the ironies that beset us. It is the prophecy of the sages that we must save ourselves and, in so doing, save America and the civilized world. The "meek" shall inherit the earth!

REAL ESTATE DIGEST
By JESSE L. WILLIAMS

"Fear them not therefore: for there is nothing covered, that shall not be revealed; and hid, that shall not be known."—St. Matthew 10:26.

In discussing the qualifications of Appraisers, it is necessary to assume that they reach independent conclusions. Many so-called appraisals are merely the confirmation of opinions of others. The independent appraiser should possess the following qualifications:

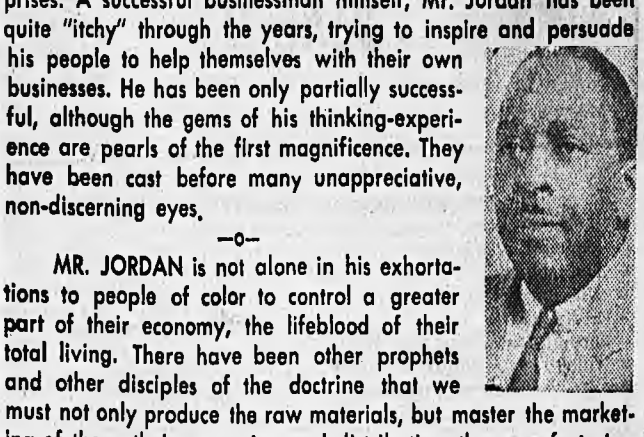

1. His basic education in economics, constructions standards, etc. should be supplemented by specific appraisal study, preferably that required to merit the use of the designation M. A. I.—member of the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers.

2. He should have the ability to collect pertinent facts about the job assigned to him, to analyze their significance, and draw conclusions therefrom. One of the compelling reasons for specific training of appraisers is their need to know what kinds of facts to collect and what to do with them after they are collected. By themselves facts are useful or useless. Many so-called head-headed business men abhor theory. Yet the only reason for their success is that they are good theorists. A theory, if sound, is a generalization from facts. If it is unsound, it is not good theory. Appraisers need to be theorists; they need to learn how to collect facts and to draw proper generalizations from them.

3. Judgment is a quality hard to define, but the absence of it may completely disqualify an appraiser. It means the capacity to separate the essential from the non-essential; to weigh, to compare, and to place emphasis where it belongs.

4. Since there is no royal road to a proper conclusion in any appraisal process, the path to be followed requires persistent efforts and meticulous care to make sure that all facts are collected and placed in their proper relationship.

5. The appraised must possess a high degree of intellectual honesty. Not only must he be honest in the sense that he would not knowingly cheat his employer. He must make sure that he will not cheat himself out of a decision by failing to observe all the rules with which he is acquainted.

In the small real estate office you are the editor of the house organ. You gather your material and thoughts and put them into a large or small pamphlet for mailing outside your firm. If it's printed your printer can help you iron out most of the technical details. He'll read your copy and help smooth it up with some penciled changes. He probably won't rewrite your copy. You write best in your own way. So don't be afraid of your own personal style of seeing things and describing them. Large companies often hire a special editor for a house organ.

You find him as a part-time employee who often works also on a regular newspaper. Or he can be a publicity man who needs an extra job to do.

The costs vary with the method of production. If the publication is run off by mimeograph in your own office, the costs are very nominal for paper, ink, stencils, and sometime's time to do it.

Stamps may not be necessary as it can be distributed personally. If the publication is to be printed outside it will cost more. Involved then is photography, commercial printing, plate costs, writing, and perhaps addressing and mailing. Some printed house organs run as low as one hundred dollars monthly. It is up to you to decide on the amount you can spend.
