Gibson, Grider Challenge Le Moyne Grads

Le Moyne's 90 graduates and hundreds of baccalaureate and commencement viewers heard challenging addresses delivered last weekend by two prominent citizens, Dr. Walter W. Gibson, Sr., and former Congressman George W. Grider.

Dr. Gibson, chairman of Le Moyne's natural science division, was given the responsibility of delivering a baccalaureate address that tied in with the dedication of the college's half-million-dollar Alma C. Hanson Memorial Student Center.

Speaking of the late Miss Hanson, who was a member of the Le Moyne family for 41 years, Dr. Gibson, said: "Miss Hanson lived a life of dedication and devotion to a cause... that all men be helped to realize the full potential with which they were endowed by their Creator."

"To the best of my knowledge," Dr. Gibson said, "Miss Hanson never once conducted a formal class at Le Moyne, yet I sincerely believe that no teacher contributed more to the education of Le Moyne students, during her day, than did this great lady."

"Although she possessed a well-earned reputation for collecting every penny owed the college in her capacity as treasurer, little known is the fact that on innumerable occasions, when students could not meet their payment deadline because of reasons beyond their control, she gladly paid the money out of her own pocket," Dr. Gibson pointed out.

In his commencement address, Attorney Grider, now a businessman in Niagara Falls, N. Y., advised the graduates: "Keep moving. Don't be too successful, and do not be selfish with yourself. "Your generation," he said, "has awakened us all to a new aware-

NAACP Refuses To Back Up In Melrose Hassle

Branch of the NAACP this week said the local civil rights organization has no intention of withdrawing itself from the hassle that developed when the Memphis Board of Education ordered 85 Melrose students to retake a Spanish test on which they made the highest scores in the nation.

The NAACP has even threatened court action.

The Board of Education has the support of the principal of Melrose, Floyd Campbell, and the Melrose PTA, headed by Mrs. Thomas Jackson of 2397 Saratoga.

Several of the 85 students have gone to the Board and taken the test. The Board is holding up report cards until the students take the test a second time.

The NAACP contends the Board's demand is an insult to the Melrose students.

The Board says it was impossible for all of the first-year Spanish students at Melrose to score in the 88 and 99 percentile on the standardized test.

A quiet investigation is underway and probes are working on the theory that students may have been in possession of the test questions in advance.

A statement released by Mrs. Madeline A. Smith, executive secretary of the local NAACP, reads:

"Members of the NAACP Youth Council, along with Memphis Branch NAACP members picketed Melrose High School as students went to receive their report cards on Thursday, June 4. This demonstration was held in protest of the Memphis Board of Education's demand that three classes of students at Melrose who had taken a standardized Spanish test be re-tested.

"The NAACP has received information in several other instances in which Board officials have required Negro classes to retake tests when they have scored higher than white classes. The Negro community is protesting this practice.

Carla Captures D. C.

Last week, a pert Memphis songstress, Carla Thomas, accomplished during the course of seven days what no well-trained army has been able to bring about since The War Of 1812... the complete capture of Washington, D. C.

Carla's one-woman caper, resulting from her sellout appearance at Washington's prestigious Bohemian Caverns, soon made it the official consensus that this was Carla Thomas Week in the Nation's Capital.

The week's festivities were kicked off by Carla's presentation of a special gold record of the Stax "King And Queen" album jacket to United States Senator Howard H. Baker Jr., of Tennessee, who wrote the liner notes for the top-selling album.

Carla was joined for the presentation by Volt recording artist Otis Redding who is featured with her on the album. A large delegation of Stax-Volt executives from Memphis were on hand to witness the ceremony. Carla and Otis made the presentation to Senator Baker on behalf of all the Stax-Volt "Memphis Sound" recording artists.

Later that evening, a capacity crowd at The Bohemian Caverns were treated to a special "by invitation only" performance by Their Majesties - the King and Queen of SOUL - Otis Redding and Carla Thomas. In attendance were numerous government officials including representatives of Vice

Miss. Civil Rights Leader Fights Bias Draft Board

JACKSON, Miss. — (UPI) — Civil rights leader Charles Evers June 2 called on young Negroes of draft age in Mississippi to refuse induction until members of their race are placed on state selective service boards.

Evers said 29 of the state's 82 counties are predominantly Negro, but there is not a single Negro on any of the state's approximately 90 selective service boards.

"We take the position that no white man in Mississippi would allow his son to be sent to war by a biased Negro board," said Evers, who is state field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

Evers had warned last month Negroes across the state would refuse to report for induction unless draft boards were desegregated by June 1. He charged then that the state's draft boards were "white" and accused them of

Approve Bill Against Mutilating U.S. Flag

WASHINGTON—(UPI)—A House judiciary subcommittee Monday approved, 6 to 1, a bill to make it a federal crime to burn, mutilate or defile the U. S. flag.

Violators would be subject to penalties of up to $1,000 and one year in prison.

The full House Judiciary Committee is expected to approve the bill Tuesday and have it ready for House passage on June 14 — Flag Day.

Chairman Byron G. Rogers, D-Calif., said the subcommittee felt the bill had been tightened up to overcome all objections on constitutional grounds.

The one vote against the measure was cast by Rep. John Conyers Jr., D-Mich. He said that while he considered recent incidents of defacing the flag "distasteful and obnoxious," he considered them symbolic acts of expression protected by the constitutional guarantee of free speech.

Newest Astronaut Killed In Auto, 2 Others Injured

Police said the car carrying Givens and two other Air Force officers slammed into a dry ditch about five feet deep. The other two men were injured, one critically.

Givens was the first astronaut to die while off duty. Six others have been killed in connection with their space agency work — three in airplane crashes and three in the Jan. 27 Apollo fire at Cape Kennedy.

The other two officers in the car with Givens were identified as Lt. Col. Francis Dellorto, 45, of Chicago and Maj. William S. Hall, 41, of Meadville, Pa. Police said Givens was driving the car.

Officials at Houston's South east Memorial Baptist Hospital said Dellorto was in critical condition with rib and hip fractures, and had undergone emergency surgery. They said Hall was in fair condition with a skull fracture.

Hall and Dellorto, both Air Force reservists, had been temporarily assigned to Ellington Air Force Base near Houston Space Center for training.

Givens, 37, was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital at 12:45 a. m. CDT. Hospital authorities said he died from chest and internal injuries.

Givens was a member of the most recently chosen group of astronauts, the 19 named in April of 1966.

Despite this, he had an important part in the Apollo program as one of the three astronauts picked as a support crew for the prime and backup crews for America's first manned Apollo flight. The flight is set for early next year.

A SUPER DOG?
 Mulderdriift, South Africa — Dr. Dean Marais has been trying for thirteen years to breed the world's super dog. After 800 dogs, he has aimed for a monomoth watchdog and hunter with super canine intelligence, strong and brave enough to tackle a leopard.

The three officers were returning from Houston where they had attended a meeting of the Quiet Birdmen, a nation wide fraternal organization of aviators, a spokesman for the space center said.

Givens is survived by his widow, three children — Catherine, 4; Ed, which held up agreement on the case file order. They remain to be worked out later by the Council.

The United States had opposed an Arab demand, backed by India and the Soviet Union, that all forces withdraw to positions held last Sunday. This would, Goldberg and other supporters of Israel argued, have given legal blessing to the Arab blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba against vital Israeli traffic.

Their proposals suggested that both sides withdraw to the demarcation lines laid down in the 1949 armistice agreements. This also would have deprived Israel of some territory it now holds.

Arab delegates indicated they would not oppose the Council's cease fire order but insisted they would not accept a demand for withdrawal of forces beyond positions requiring them to abandon the Strait of Tiran blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba.

Israel Foreign Minister Abba S. Eban arrived late Tuesday and was whisked into the Security Council chamber close behind Fedorenko. Eban, expected to accept the cease fire agreement, looked buoyant. Fedorenko looked — and admitted he was — tired.

Tabor postponed the Tuesday council meeting from 11:30 a. m. EDT until evening, telling delegates privately that a "new idea" had emerged from the Goldberg Fedorenko talks.

MEMPHIANS FORMAL BALL WAS SENSATIONAL

The Memphis ball (has over a period of years) become one of Memphis' top social events and one of the most brilliant in the whole South. Held this year in the Skyway of Hotel Peabody, the ball featured a Spring theme with flower decorations seen in heavy urns. A high point of the ball was the presentation of members and their wives with every man presenting long-stemmed roses to his spouse. They were introduced by Mr. John Arnold.

Spring gowns were beautiful but even so most of the emphasis was placed on getting together and this is just what the group of party goers did. Memphians were all seen chatting around among their friends and families.

Among the many out-of-town guests noticed during the evening were first those seen in the table where I sat with Mr. and Mrs. George Isabel who invited me and they were the Isabels' son-in-law and daughter, Dr. and Mrs. LeRoy Thompson who came down from Nashville for the ball, another daughter, Dr. Josephine Isabel, one of the two Negro women doctors in Memphis and their son and his spouse, Mr. and Mrs. George Isabel, Jr.

With Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Hobson, who invited me to sit with them and I did until I ran into my hostess, were their brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lavender who also came in from Nashville. Seated with the John Outlaws, were Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Gibson, and their house guests, Dean and Mrs. A. A. Branch of Tougaloo College. Also noticed at the table with the Outlaws were Mr. and Mrs. Peter Jones. With Miss Erma Laws was the most attractive and charming Mrs. Walter (Val) Minor of Houston who is wife of a renowned Houston surgeon. They were seated with Miss Velma Lois Jones and her date, and all smiles were Mr. and Mrs. Caffrey Bartholomew who had with them their son and daughter, Captain "Bill" Bartholomew just back from Vietnam and Mrs. Ann Bartholomew Harris who is a member of the Knoxville College faculty and with the past president and his wife Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Jackson were their brother and sister-in-law Dr. and Mrs. Seaton Jackson of Terrell, Texas.

The very first to be seen was the chairman of the 14th Anniversary Dance, Mr. William Fitzgerald and his charming wife, (Mae) Mr. and Mrs. "Bill" Weathers and the Isabels (he the new president of the Memphians).

Other members and their spouses were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Newman, Mr. and Mrs. John Outlaw, Mr. and Mrs. John Arnold and their young son and his pretty young bride, Mr. and Mrs. John Arnold, III (Twiffle), Mr. John Davis and his date, Mr. and Mrs. Charley Tarpley, Mr. and Mrs. Ural Adams, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Claiborne Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Hawkins and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hayes.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Hobson, Mr. and Mrs. Oznie Horne, Mr. and

Mrs. H. L. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe McWilliams, Mr. and Mrs. Hannibal Parks, Dr. and Mrs. Fred A. MRS. GLADYS MARTIN GREENE GIVES BEAUTIFUL COCKTAIL DINNER PARTY

A pretty Cocktail Dinner party was the one given Saturday evening by Mrs. Gladys Greene Martin when she entertained members of the Just-a-Mere Club and a few friends at her beautiful (and the word beautiful does not really describe the home with beauty even on the outside. The cute and petite little Gladys was looking good in a chiffon leopard hosiery frock and she was assisted in receiving part of the time by her stately mother, Mrs. E. H. Douglas, Mrs. Kathryn Perry Thomas and Mrs. Oscar Simpson.

Again hors d'oeuvres were passed through the crowd by Mrs. U. Jones and her staff of caterers. Mrs. Simpson was at the bar in the back family room. Food was the most.

Members attending were Mrs. M. Woods, Mrs. B. Olive, Mrs. Mary Collier, Mrs. Margaret Goodlow, Mrs. Gladys Sharpe who will soon move back to her home in Texas ... Mrs. Doris Boden, Mrs. Callie Stevens, Mrs. Myrtle White, Mrs. Eddie Rideout and Mrs. Elizabeth Plaxico.

Other Members of the evening found each other and chatted were Mrs. Marian Pride, Mrs. William Owen, Mrs. Natales Horne Banks, Mrs. Edwina Fields, cousin to the hostess ... Dr. Clara Brawner Mrs. Ruth Parker, Mrs. Mary Collier, Mrs. Ethel Perkins, Miss Ramona Eddins, Mrs. Maceo Walker Mrs. Johnetta Kelso, Mrs. H. A. Gilliam, Mrs. Alma Booth, Mrs. Addie Jones, Mrs. Floyd Campbell, Dr. Clara Brawner, and "Your Columnist."

We in Memphis were shocked to hear last week of the sudden passing of DR. WILLIAM THOMPSON in Los Angeles where the family moved a number of years ago. It was just last week that Dr. Thompson was cited as one of LeMoynes' best who had received a Ph.D. Degree in Hospital Administration. Wm. was the brother of Ann Thompson Coleman, often in Memphis.

MRS. JOHNETTA KELSO IS BACK HOME after visiting friends Mrs. Lois Howell and her sister Mrs. Viola Borders of Ft. Worth and Portland in Alexandria, Louisiana where Dr. and Mrs. Kelso first lived before he came to Memphis to practice.

MRS. WALTER MINOR (Val) one of Texas' prominent civic and social leader who came to Memphis for the Co-Eds Dinner. Incidentally Mrs. Minor directs the Houston Co-Eds and with her are her pretty young daughter and several girls who came up for the event.

Mrs. Minor, who is visiting, makes wonderful company and makes herself at home in any situation. In Miss Laws' house guest ... Pointing her here were long time Houston friends, Dr. and Mrs. Boyden, the Dr. Dorothy Ford, an eye specialist in her own right who drove down from Nashville where they are on the staff of the Meharry Medical College.

The Boldens spent much of their time with Dr. and Mrs. Fred Rivers. Incidentally Mrs. Rivers and Mrs. Bolden were roommates at Risk U. and were also in medical school together. Mrs. Rivers is a Dental Technician.

MRS. ANN REBA TWIGG DIRECTS ANOTHER HIT

Due to the bad weather and the tornado warnings, I was a bit late getting to the play written and directed Friday evening of last week by Mrs. Ann Reba Twigg for the closing of school at A. B. Hill School but was given in the Lincoln Junior High School Auditorium. However, the part that I was excellent and the youngsters did do some good acting.

The acting, singing dancing and the costumes all blended together to make a smashing hit. The manner in which the director, Ann Reba, had written the play, made it a meaningful educational activity. As I watched the children perform like trained professionals, my mind drifted to the A.K.A. Plays of the past. Again, we understand that Memphis is about to enjoy the same type of cultural activity and this is just what I thought as I watched only this time through children.

Later I called to congratulate Mrs. Twigg for having done such a grand job and she immediately reminded me that she could not have done any of it alone. She assured me that she had wholehearted support from all of the "activity members and strong backing from both principals, Mrs. George Clark and Mr. Oliver Johnson, Jr.

This was a school wide activity she said and I quote: "All of the teachers worked hard and long at their various duties." The production dedicated to the principal, Mr. Clark, definitely showed a great deal of team work. A. B. Hill School is to be congratulated and the public shall look forward to their presenting more plays of this nature. It was set to music by the tunes of "My Fair Lady and "The Sound of Music."

MRS. MACEO WALKER was Woman's Day Speaker at the Mississippi Avenue Christian Church Sunday of last week at which time her young daughter, Mrs. Harold Shaw (the former Miss Pat Walker) was general chairman of the event raising over nineteen hundred dollars. It was Mrs. Johnetta Kelso, another member of the Walker family who introduced the guests and the church was filled with members and guests.

Mrs. Walker made a brilliant speech taking as her subject "Frustrations and how we grow in knowledge and faith through frustrations." She spoke of the poverty and the other seated emotional problems that cause frustrations but yet there are frustrations found in the lives of the rich and every one no matter what their achievements might be or what social circles we move in. She ended by saying that we must learn to live abundantly and tolerate disappointments and remember that we must give as much as we receive. Her address was that of a Christian and a deep thinker who has humility and thought of her fellow men. Also speaking was Dr. G. W. S. Th. Mrs. Walker's saintly father and a Little Rock surgeon who came to Memphis with Mrs. Ish for the program.

U.N. Security Council Calls For Israel, Arab To Cease-Fire

UNITED NATIONS—(UPI)—The Security Council Tuesday night unanimously called upon Israel and its Arab neighbors to "cease fire and stop military activities" in the Middle East. The Council made no mention of troop withdrawal by either side.

The cease fire order, agreement on which grew out of private talks earlier Tuesday among Council President Hans R. Tabor of Denmark, U. S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg and Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko, ended two days of marathon negotiations.

The resolution, presented to the Council by Tabor, "calls upon the governments concerned as a first step to take forthwith all measures for an immediate cease fire and for cessation of all military activities in the area."

The resolution asks Secretary General Thant to keep the 15 nation Council "promptly in formed" on the Middle East situation.

As soon as the Council voted unanimously for the cease fire call, Tabor asked Thant to transmit it to the warring countries and said: "I most urgently appeal to the parties to comply immediately with the provisions of this resolution."

The action left for further decision the question of a withdrawal, and if such were to be ordered, to what positions the combatant forces should be withdrawn. It also left unsettled the question of the Arab blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba against Israeli traffic.

The text of the cease fire order: "The Security Council, noting the oral report of the Secretary General in this situation, having heard the statements made in the Council, concerned at the outbreak of fighting and with the menacing situation in the Near East, 1. Calls upon the government concerned as a first step to take forthwith all measures for an immediate cease fire and for a cessation of all military activities in the area, 2. Requests the Secretary General to keep the Council promptly on the situation."

Agreement was reached after U. S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg and Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko conferred earlier Tuesday in the office of Council President Hans R. Tabor of Denmark. It was the first time the two had discussed the Middle East situation privately since the war started early Monday.

A resolution was being prepared for a Council meeting called by Tabor for Tuesday night. The key phrase, according to diplomats

The Drowning Season

The approach of swimming weather brings to mind the fact that each year thousands drown because sensible precautions are not followed.

The following rules are good ones to observe:

1. Use supervised pools with young children.
2. Stay ashore in heavy weather.
3. Keep children out of boats not equipped with life-preservers, or without swimmers aboard.
4. Teach children to swim early.
5. Use excessive caution when fishing from a boat after dark especially if in strange waters.
6. Always carry extra life-preservers in boats.
7. If you are deathly afraid of water, stay away from it.

Many people can float indefinitely without any effort if they will hold their head back so that only the nose is above water. The feet may extend downward almost vertically but if one will be careful to keep his head back, he can sometimes float for hours in this position. Try it, it may save your life this summer.

"A Sower Went Forth To Sow"

A story better told in the old Bible and later relayed down in gospel sermons and pithy paragraphs would fit in with those who are now, so distressed and bitter in their denunciations of the guide lines, the very heart of the civil rights program as relates to education.

These bitter political high priests, having not yet given up race-bait as a political fly-net, may now be touring the north where fine schools and well-paid teachers have labored for generations in schools not hedged in by segregated classes and schools in which the children received first class education.

Ex-Governor George Wallace of Alabama is one of these. He couldn't be rated as high as a diaphanous, because there is nothing now for which to die still he would survey even classic Boston with his phony philosophy of trying to separate guidelines from law enforcement and call himself not a segregationist as such, but one who raises issues for the sake of having them tested out by a run through the law wringers.

Mr. Wallace might have started out on a fox trail, but later took off at a crossing on a rabbit trail, to enter his finale by faking a few paces down the swamp on a squirrel trail to at last wind up on a rat trail.

"A sower went forth to sow"—some of the seed fell by the way—and the birds picked them up.

"Funny Girl" To Open '67 Theater Under The Stars

ATLANTA, Ga.—(SNS)—This year, Atlanta's Municipal Theater has assembled a grand total of 10 stars to light up the gleaming stage at Cl. Chastain Park during the 15th annual Theater Under The Stars season, slated to open July 11. Six hit musicals, several of them making their debuts on a Southeast stage, are planned.

The standout season opens with Sandra O'Neil's "The British Bombshell" in the Julia Stone, Bob Merrill hit, "Funny Girl," the life story of the immortal "Fanny Brice" and the show that made Barbara Streisand a legend in her own time. It is the musical from which the award winning song "People" was taken. Appearing as her husband, "Nicky LaRocca," is Ted Sorel, well remembered for his role in this year's Winter Play Season production of "Marat Sade," and roles in all 3 of last year's Fine Play Season.

Opening July 18 is Oklahoma's "Gaily," Gordon Macrae, in one of the world's best-loved musicals, "Kismet," the show that gave the world three all-time hits, "Stranger in Paradise," "This is My Beloved," and "Baubles, Bangles, and Beads." Gordon, no stranger to the Chastain Park Stage, will play "Haji," the wily rhyme-selling beggar who becomes the Wazir in one day of Trickery and Magic. Co-starring with Gordon is Beautiful, silver-haired, Carla Albergotti, whose name has become synonymous with that of "Lili," the wall of Carnival. Carla will play "Marsinah," the romantic daughter of "Haji," who captures the Caliph's heart.

Following "KISMET" is one of the most successful musicals in the Theater's history, on a clear day you can see across, starring in this country's favorite "Girl Next Door," Shirley Jones. Shirley will be seen as "Daisy Gamble," the kooky girl with extra-sensory perception, who remembers a life as a 17th Century lover. Playing opposite her is Bill Hayes, the man who gave us "The Ballad of Davy Crockett," starting a nation-wide craze for cowboy hats. Dates for Clear Day are July 25 through the 30th.

In a radical departure from the usual book show, Municipal Theater will present Robert Goulet in a Special, "The Robert Goulet Show," an evening of music taken from the British and Broadway stage.

Appearing with Mr. Goulet will be two special guest stars and an ensemble of over thirty. "The Robert Goulet Show" runs from Aug. 1 through the 6th.

Three of the most popular stars ever to appear in Atlanta will blend their talents to bring the most colorful piece of Americana ever to be produced on the stage. Allen Ludden, Betty White, and Danny Dayton star in "Guys and Dolls," the musical centered around Damon Runyon's Broadway story, "The Idylls of Miss Sarah Brown, 16 hit songs, Salvation Army Lassies, Crap Shooters, and Big-Time Gamblers in Guys and Dolls, the Broadway about Broadway that Broadway has loved for years. Guys and Dolls plays from Aug. 8 through 16th.

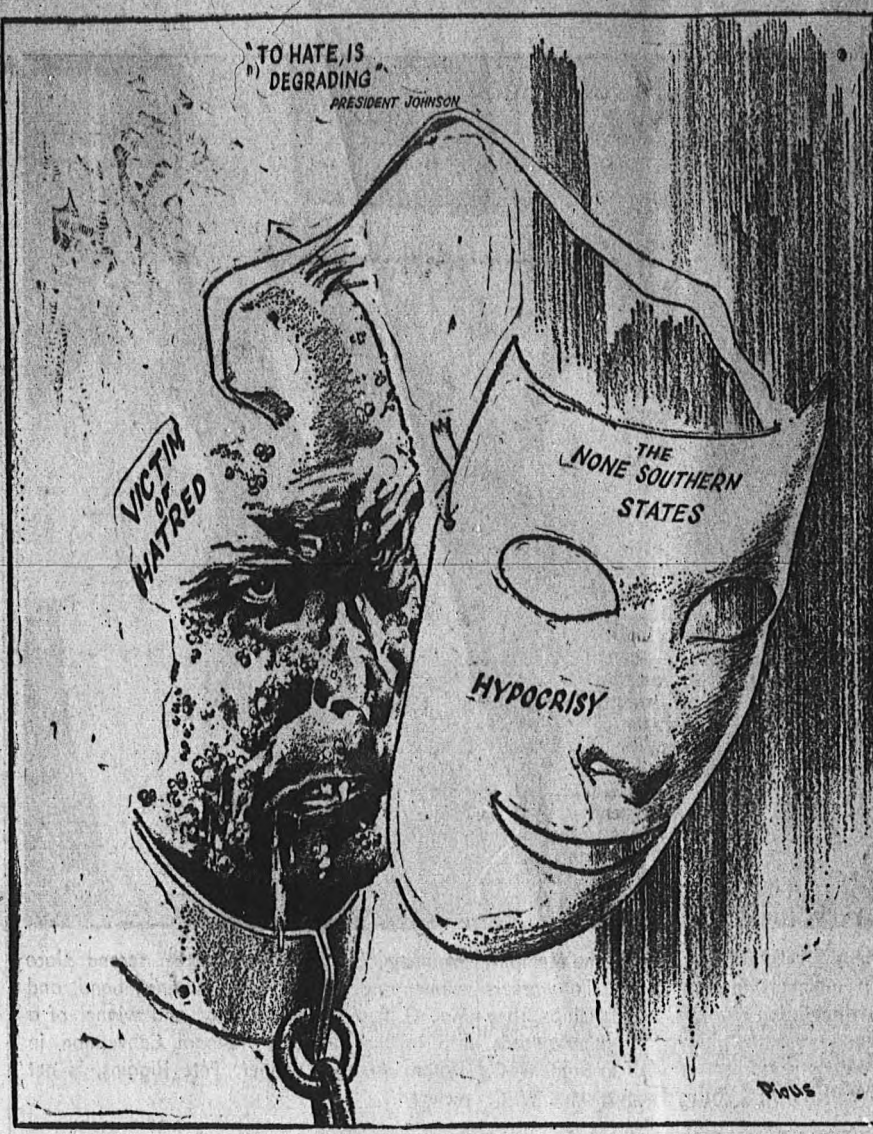

Closing the musical series is the bawdy and bright "This Was Burlesque," a collection of all the best bits from a half century of Burlesque and Vaudeville. The star and creator of Burlesque is the formidable Ann Corio, "The Girl With The Epic Epidermis." Baggy Pants Comedians, Chorus Cuties, Comic Skits, all rolled up in a hilarious evening of nostalgic comedy with a leer in every laugh. Burlesque opens Aug. 15 and runs through Aug. 20.

The following Grand Opera at the park season will be announced shortly.

NAACP Refuses

ly is tired of this type of insult which tends to indicate and perpetuate the erroneous idea that Negro students are inferior to and unable to achieve as white students.

"The NAACP is primarily concerned with the insulting insinuations that this retarding carries. The Association is not in the testing business, but we are concerned when the board requires Negro students to retake tests only when they perform better than whites and not when they score lower. "Unfortunately, our boards of education, locally and nationally, are the greatest perpetrators of racial discrimination in this country. It is rather strange that Mr. Eshimbert and the Board of Education can continuously imply that Negro students and teachers are dishonest, when public record reveals that they (the Boards of Education) have been in constant violation of the law and of rights of Negroes since 1964."

NAACP Published Integrated, Annotated School Book List

NEW YORK — Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, announces the publication of the Association's "Integrated School Books" listing which covers a range of 399 titles of pre-school and elementary subject textbooks and story books together with annotations indicating the extent of "integration" reflected in each publication.

This project represents a major factor in the accelerated NAACP campaign to make school curricula reflective of the racial diversity of American life and of the Negro's historical contributions to it.

As Francis Keppel, former United States Commissioner of Education, says in his Foreword "The nation has begun to learn how tragically blind we really were. Simply because we did not see the Negro, we left him out of our records — thereby distorting the black man's history and the white's as well. "Because we did not see the Negro, we did more than deny our past. As a people we compromised our ethical standards, and as a nation we placed a limit on our future. "But the schools have less reason than the rest of us, perhaps, to remain blind. Because of our past, we must ask our schools to be especially clear-sighted in children acquire a sense of their own dignity, therefore, the value of this listing of books by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is clear."

Mr. Wilkins says, "In the crucial effort to guarantee to all our children, white and black, a curriculum that makes sense in a multi-racial society, such a listing is long overdue. "We believe that publication of this bibliography and its conscientious use will not only meet an immediate need in scores of communities, but will help to accelerate the attainment everywhere of curriculum and materials adequate to the times."

Miss June Shagaloff, NAACP director for education program, who is directing the project, says the Association has two goals in mind in making this listing available. "First, we want to show school officials, parents and interested community groups that multi-ethnic texts are available. Second, we will urge that these books be used in both public and private school systems for whites as well as Negro children. "There is no longer any excuse for using the outmoded text-books which pretend that our country is entirely white when more realistic multi-racial books are available."

The listing covers the books of 58 publishers, with a brief description of each elementary book. It covers such subjects as Arithmetic, English, Health, History, Music, Science, Social Studies and Spelling as well as Readers and Story books. The listing is alphabetized by publisher and indicates either the grade or age level for which each book has been designated.

Miss Shagaloff feels that this study, believed to be the most comprehensive of its kind, will be most valuable in implementing Title II of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965. This Title authorizes the allotment of $100,000,000 to the States for school library resources, textbooks, and other instructional materials beyond their present budgets.

As stated in the Introduction, "Each title has been read and each entry includes a brief description and evaluation. Obviously, opinions will differ, and the judgments expressed are not offered as rigid or categorical. The presence of a book on this list does not mean its unqualified endorsement by the NAACP."

There will be a nationwide distribution to the approximately 1,500 branches, state conferences, youth councils and college chapters of the Association. Additional distribution will be made throughout the country to a selected listing of local superintendents of schools, local boards of education, professional teachers' organizations, state departments of education, state boards of education and public libraries.

Head Start program directors; to civic, religious and labor groups; and to local and state human relations agencies.

Periodically, supplementary listings will be distributed by the Association as newly published multi-racial textbooks are made available.

Copies of the "Integrated School Books" listing are available to the general public through the National Office of the NAACP. Single copies cost $1 each; 10-25 copies at 75c each; 25-50 copies at 60c each; and 50 or more copies at 50c.

Jobs Await 28 Mothers At End Of DPW Classes

Twenty-eight mothers, all heads of low-income families, have completed a course for home attendants and nursing aides, sponsored by the Department of Public Welfare. Graduation ceremonies were held Wednesday, May 31, at William Foote Homes Community Center.

The course, designed to help families become self-supporting, consists of classes in basic education, high school equivalency work, first aid, home safety, home economics, and home nursing, as well as on-the-job training as nursing aides.

Fifteen of the students have already been accepted for employment at local hospitals and nursing homes, and others expect to be employed in the near future. Six plan to take advanced training and become licensed practical nurses.

Under Title V of the Economic Opportunity Act, various types of training are being offered by the Department of Public Welfare to residents of 37 Tennessee counties. The courses are designed to help mothers receiving public assistance and unemployed fathers to receive basic education or to increase their scholastic standing enough to qualify for employment or further training. They also offer specific job experience. Most of the students have little formal education and lack the skills needed to find employment.

The Shelby County project was begun in June 1965. Since that time, 163 mothers who were receiving public assistance have graduated in six classes. Of these, 88 are employed full time, with a resultant savings of more than $5,000 per month in assistance costs.

Assistant Principal Walker set the tone of the banquet with an appropriate reading at the beginning of the program.

Dr. Hollis F. Price, president of LeMoine College, was the speaker. He emphasized the fact that humbly is an important part of learning; that many more Negro students with educational qualifications; that many scholars are now available to Negro students with good academic records, which were not available too long ago; that there is little need in our society for strong backs and weak minds; that a basic state of values and principles to live by are very important.

Miss Mickle thanked the principals for their thoughtfulness in sponsoring this type of recognition for academic achievement.

Mr. Springer closed the thoroughly enjoyable evening with a few brief remarks exhorting the students to continue along the path of academic achievement, and wished for the graduating members, continuing success.

Greek Victims' Family Given Aid

Residents of North Memphis sprang into action after three children were drowned in Cypress Creek on May 23. The children were members of the Owen family at 1218 Louisville St. Funeral services were held in Clarkdale, Ark., Sunday, May 28.

After an investigation by the 40th Ward Civic Club, Manassas High and Chicago Park PTA members, it was learned that the Owen family recently moved to Memphis from Clarkdale, Ark., and were in need of aid. The grandmother of the children is ill. The mother of 12 was working to support the family when the tragedy occurred.

A joint meeting was held at St. Mark Baptist Church to organize and combine efforts of the residents, civic clubs and PTA members. The sum of $122.15 was raised at the joint meeting on May 25 at St. Mark Baptist Church. Street marchers solicited $180.83, meeting at the home of Mrs. Alonzo Simmons, 1387 Decatur St. A committee then went to Commissioner Pete Sisson to seek protection for children of the New Chicago suburb.

The commissioner promised to fence in Cypress Creek and cover the ditch that runs through the Chicago Park Playground area. Mrs. Owen stated that it may keep other mothers from experiencing the tragedy that has been hers. She says she plans to return to work as soon as possible. The committee and Mrs. Owen thank the many churches, clubs and other organizations for their prayers, efforts and support in aiding her and her family. The sum of $437.40 was contributed through the committee. An account has been established at the Tri-State Bank for the Owen family.

Any church organization or citizen wishing to contribute funds or merchandise may get in touch with one of the committee members. They are: Matthew R. Davis, president of the 40th Ward Civic Club, phone 528-6968; J. A. Toole, 2nd vice president of the club, 525-0403; Mrs. Lucile Price, president of Manassas High School PTA, 528-4749 and Mrs. Jeanette Brantley, president of Chicago Park PTA, 523-1488.

MY WEEKLY SERMON

by REV. BLAIR T. HUNT
PASTOR, MISSISSIPPI RIVD CHRISTIAN CHURCH, MEMPHIS, TENN.

SUBJECT: "AN EVER PRESENT HELP"
TEXT: "Lo, I Am With You Always, Even to the End of the World." Matt. 28:20.

Among scenes most sacred and upon an occasion forever memorable Jesus spoke the words of this text. Jesus is now ready to ascend to the Father. His ministry in flesh was at an end.

Fanoppled with the Holy Spirit, in possession of the truth, with great facts to be believed, promises to be enjoyed and penalties to be avoided, the Disciples of Jesus Christ were promised the abiding presence of Jesus Christ.

With us, disciples of Jesus today traveling the steep ascent to Heaven, we too have the abiding promise of the everlasting presence of Christ Jesus. If we trust and obey, we climb the rugged heights of life not alone, but in Christ's strength and guided by the Holy Spirit.

We can't make it alone; the road is too long, too rough, too rocky. Our feet become entangled with briars. But Jesus will lift us and help us over. When we reach the last slope of life, the strong hands of Jesus will be beneath our arms to help us over the further slope.

Let me relate the story of a mountain climber by the name of Captain Jim as related by Dr. Johnson of St. Louis. Captain Jim came one evening to the half-way house on Mount Jung Frau. He was to spend the night there that he might start for the top of the mountain in the early morning. The half-way house was kept by a little hunch - back called "Hunchie."

That night as they sat around the fire, captain Jim said, "Hunchie, have you ever been to the top of Jung Frau?" and Hunchie said, "No, you know in my condition. I can't possibly climb mountains." Captain Jim said, "of course you can, be ready in the morning and you shall go to the top with us."

That night, little Hunchie could not sleep. He tossed all night over the thrill of being able, perhaps, to climb the mountain. But in the morning Hunchie said, "Captain Jim, I don't think I had better go. You know my condition. I can't climb the mountain. Captain Jim talked him out of it and as they made their start, what a thrill it was to this little hunch-back. When they were about halfway up, Hunchie was breathing hard and stopped and said, "Captain Jim, I simply can't go farther."

Captain Jim said: "of course, Hunchie, you can climb any you are going to the top." And this time as they started, Captain Jim put his hands under the armpits of little Hunchie, and as they came to the rough places he helped him over them, until finally breathing hard, they reached the top. Hunchie took one glance at the horizon and then fell on his knees and threw his arms around the legs of Captain Jim and said, "Captain Jim, if it hadn't been for you I couldn't have made it."

As we climb through peril, toll and pain we Christians have the abiding presence of Jesus Christ guided by the Holy Spirit. We will be lifted over the hard places for underneath us are His everlasting arms. When we reach the top and touch heaven, like little Hunchie we will throw ourselves at the feet of the captain of our salvation and exclaim, "Dear Jesus, if it hadn't been for you I couldn't have made it."

Survey Deems NAACP The Top Rights Group

NEW YORK — Again the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the nation's oldest and largest civil rights organization, has been rated by a nationwide survey of Negro opinion as the "group doing the most to help Negroes."

The findings of this latest survey, conducted by the University of California Survey Research Center under a grant from the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, were made public here, May 26, by Dore Schary, ADL national chairman.

According to the survey, "the NAACP received 79 per cent of the vote in metropolitan areas, 70 per cent in New York; 84 per cent in Chicago; 87 per cent in Atlanta; and 92 per cent in Birmingham."

In surveys conducted by various independent groups since 1957 the NAACP has been the consistent leader in the civil rights field. A poll by the Catholic Digest, 1957, revealed that better than 90 per cent of U. S. Negroes regarded the NAACP as the most effective civil rights organization.

These findings were later confirmed by two Louis Harris polls published in Newsweek in 1963 and 1965. A survey of Negro opinion in New York City by The New York Times in 1964 also rated the NAACP head and shoulders above the other organizations.

POLARIS AND POSEIDON—Full-scale mockups of the Polaris (left) and Poseidon submarine missiles are unveiled at Lockheed in Sunnyvale, Calif., for the first time. The Polaris, 31 feet long and 4 1/2 in diameter, has been with the fleet for some time. The new Poseidon, 34 feet long and 6 in diameter, carries double the Polaris payload, has twice the accuracy and is eight times more effective. It still is under tests.

NAACP Urges Construction Halt Until Bias Is Ended

NEW YORK — Herbert Hill, director for labor program of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, on June 1 called for a "moratorium on all public construction in the City of New York" until Negroes are admitted freely into the building trades unions. He noted that the report of the New York City Commission on Human Rights concludes that "a pattern of exclusion continues to exist" in the building trades unions.

Mr. Hill said that this report "confirms the NAACP's independent investigations regarding the persistence of anti-Negro practices by some of the 'old line' AFL craft unions in the building industry."

He further said that "the continued expenditure of public tax money to subsidize racial discrimination is unconscionable, immoral, and in violation of Federal, state and municipal civil rights laws and executive orders."

Mr. Hill, who testified at public hearings held by the City Commission on Human Rights on the exclusion of Negro workers from jobs and from union controlled apprenticeship training programs, also said that "the City Administration must do more than merely deplore these practices. Action, cutting off construction, is now required." He noted that the Federal government recently announced that it had ceased all construction on Federal projects in Cleveland, Ohio, until the racial discrimination by unions and contractors is eliminated.

"The immunity of the building trades unions from the enforcement of antidiscrimination laws must be ended once and for all," Mr. Hill declared. "And Negro workers must be permitted to enter into skilled craft construction occupations as journeymen and apprentices."

Nightsticks In Clearwater, Fla Slow Down Riot

CLEARWATER, Fla. — (UPI) — Police used nightsticks to put down a 45-minute riot early Sunday by rock-throwing Negroes who demolished a police wagon.

But officers said they would not put extra patrols into the Negro section Sunday night for fear the extra officers might trigger more violence.

Negro leaders suggested a curfew in the area, but City Manager James E. Stewart disagreed.

Officers said 10 Negroes were jailed on various charges ranging from disobeying police to disorderly conduct and drunkenness.

The fight was apparently touched off when a white policeman went to the aid of a Negro police officer who was trying to break up a fistfight between two Negro men.

African Medic Returns To Meharry With Class Of '17

When 16-year-old Daniel Sharpe Malekebu told his parents he wanted to leave Nyasaland in Central Africa to come to the United States, they were frightened and cautioned him not to do so because, they said, "We may never see him again; he might be eaten by those people far away."

Young Malekebu did travel to America, however, and returned to become an important force for education, health care, and political independence for the people of Nyasaland, now Malawi, in Central Africa.

Fifty years after his graduation from Meharry Medical College, Dr. Malekebu is returning as one of the 34 graduates of the class of 1917 who will be given the President's 50th Year awards at Commencement, June 12. Totaled, their years of service in medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, and nursing represent 1700 years.

To come to the United States Dr. Malekebu had to walk 400 miles from his home in Chiradzula to the port of Beira in Portuguese East Africa. He slept in trees at night to avoid being eaten by the lions. After receiving his M. D. degree at Meharry, he continued his studies at the University of Pennsylvania and at Moody Bible Institute. After marrying a Spelman College graduate he returned to Nyasaland.

As spokesman for the Class of 1917 he is to receive the Chamber of Commerce Red Carpet and other citations while he is here. Members of the golden anniversary class will come from 14 states and Puerto Rico to receive their awards.

From Nashville, James L. League, M. D. and Theodore H. Bullard, M. D., are eligible for the 50th year awards. Dr. League, 91 still maintains his office in South Nashville. A former faculty member of Meharry, Dr. League is a native of DeKalb County.

Dr. Bullard, a general practitioner, has offices on North 7th St. Dr. Bullard has three children, one of whom is a surgeon in New York City.

Albany Graduates Urged To Get Involved In Inner City

ALBANY, Ga. — "Go into the inner cities and identify yourselves with the people there. Good teachers are needed in these cities." These were the remarks of Dr. Lawrence D. Reddick, executive director of Opportunities Industrialization Center, Inc., as he addressed the 24th annual Commencement here at Albany State College Saturday morning (June 3).

"Have them know that you have come to help that you believe in them as individuals," he said. Referring to OIC, Reddick said, "We need young college-trained people to go into these cities and set up OIC operations all over the country."

Reddick, filling in for Dr. Leon H. Sullivan, founder and chairman of the Philadelphia Opportunities Industrialization Center, addressed an audience of nearly 2,500 graduates, parents, alumni and friends. The well-known historian who formerly taught at Atlanta University and Alabama State College, congratulated the graduates on reaching this point in their career. "In spite of the obstacles and difficulties, you stuck it out so that here you are, you are receiving your baccalaureate degree."

"However," he cautioned, "realize that you did not do this alone. You had help economically and spiritually. For this you should have a sense of social responsibility." To repay that debt, Reddick told the grads, "you should go to the inner city."

Reddick, in his parting remarks to Albany State's largest class in the history of the school, said, "Remember, I am my brother's keeper for he helped me reach the place where I now stand. I reach out to him the hand of fellowship so that he may stand beside me. So arm around shoulder, we stand together facing the rising sun of a new day."

President Thomas Miller Jenkins, II, presiding over the college's twenty-fourth annual commencement in 1943, awarded degrees to 196. Two persons received terminal certificates and 196 baccalaureate degrees were awarded.

Dr. Reddick, a University of Chicago alumnus, accepted the college's highest individual honor, the Distinguished Service Award, for on a street.

Dr. Sullivan, the founder of OIC, Sullivan was unable to deliver the June 30. Senate: No action.

ECONOMIC

INCOME TAXES — President Johnson proposed a 6 per cent income and corporate tax increase effective July 1, to help pay Vietnam costs. This would provide $5.5 billion in revenue for fiscal 1968. No hearings scheduled.

DEBT — House acts this week on bill putting a "permanent" ceiling of $365 billion on national debt, replacing present "temporary" $336 billion limit.

SOCIAL SECURITY

President Johnson proposed a minimum 15 per cent increase an average 20 per cent boost in social security benefits for 23 million people. Package also includes liberalization of welfare programs, new dental aid for children, and Medicare for disabled persons under 65. In praising Sullivan, Reddick said, "Keep your eyes on him for here is an unusual man with a creative flair. He is on the threshold of his career. Before long he will be in a class with John F. Kennedy, A. Phillip Randolph and Martin Luther King, Jr."

Sullivan was awarded the Distinguished Service Award in recognition of his contributions to the advancement and welfare of the economy and humanity throughout the nation.

Erasmus Dent of Albany, Ga., and Sylvester Ashford* of Glennville, Ga., were given the college's Distinguished Alumni Award in recognition of their services to the college and their communities.

These three awards, to be given annually at Commencement, were the first awards given by the college and have been instituted by the college's president, Dr. Jenkins.

One of the degrees was presented to Mrs. Thomas Weston, Sr., mother of Thomas Weston, Jr., who completed the requirements for the B. S. degree in biology last summer. He was killed in action in Viet Nam two months ago.

LSD Cancer Triggers Epilepsy, U.S. Told

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The use of LSD-25 may trigger violent convulsions similar to grand mal seizures experienced by persons with epilepsy, the Epilepsy Foundation warned recently.

The Foundation said that recent research conducted by two scientists at UCLA and reported in Callista at UCLA, has confirmed what many researchers had previously suspected: that in some fashion not yet determined, LSD-25 may produce dangerously excessive discharges of electrical energy.

In the case reported by Doctors Duke D. Fisher and J. Thomas Ungerleider at UCLA, a 32-year-old graduate student who had no personal or family history of epilepsy suffered two grand mal seizures — one so violent that he fractured two vertebrae.

The UCLA scientists stated that "although this appears to be the first reported case of grand mal seizures associated with ingestion of LSD, it should be noted that many persons with complications of LSD are not seen by physicians."

"The mechanism by which LSD produced the seizure activity is not known. The drug may have reduced the seizure threshold."

The student's first experience with LSD took place about five months before he appeared at the school's neurology clinic. The first time he tried the drug he had a seizure within an hour. He was observed by a friend who was serving as his LSD "sitter," according to the report. He later complained of severe back pains, and X-rays showed fractures of two vertebrae.

Subsequently, the student tried LSD four more times, with no apparent ill effects. However, the sixth time he used the drug, he had a second seizure, observed by two friends.

Afraid that he might have more seizures even without the use of LSD, he finally went to the neurology clinic. The clinical investigation showed no history of seizures before the use of LSD, nor of birth trauma, recent infectious disease, or head injury. Results of general physical and neurological examinations were "entirely within normal limits."

A Foundation spokesman urged parents, doctors, and teachers to "make every effort to inform young people that the effects of LSD on a given individual are both dangerous and unpredictable."

"Suffer Little Children" (Abuse of Children)

Children who are assaulted by their own parents are not a new phenomenon in this country. But there has been a sudden increase in the brutality of the attacks mostly on the very young children and infants. Complete statistics on the extent of the battered child "syndrome" are lacking.

But an estimated 10,000 children a year are battered, maimed, burned, starved and broken in body, mind and spirit by the people who should care most for them. Clearly, this is a psychiatric as well as a legal problem.

The general criminal law already forbids such conduct; and a score of states including New York, also have laws requiring that cases of child abuse be reported by hospitals and doctors. Yet in the past six months, not one of the 175 cases of suspected abuse in New York State was reported by a doctor. Physicians and hospitals are reluctant to report suspicion of child abuse, for fear of legal action against them by the parents.

The children's Bureau is urging that additional legal safeguards be provided both for the battered child and for informants. But the more basic question of how to stop this horrible, incredible abuse remains unanswered.

Most legislation on the books is merely punitive. Unless laws are accompanied by provision for preventive and rehabilitative services — that the community will pay for and support — all society is doing is to jail the parents. That is not likely to contribute much to human happiness or to the protection of defenseless children.

(This article was an editorial published in the New York Times, March 5, 1965).

Your children are not your children. They are the sons and daughters of Life's longing for itself. They come through you but not from you, and though they argue with you yet they belong not to you.

You may give them your love but not your thoughts. For they have their own thoughts. You may house their bodies but not their souls. For their souls dwell in the house of tomorrow, which you cannot visit, not even in your dreams. You may strive to be like them, but seek not to make them like you. For life goes not backward, nor tarries with yesterday. (From "The Prophet" by Kahill Gilbran)

Floyd Patterson, Jerry Quarry To Fight, June 9th

NEW YORK (UPI) - Former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson risks his chance to win the vacant title when he meets promising young Jerry Quarry in a 10-round bout Friday June 9th at the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Patterson is considered one of the leading contenders to fill the Heavyweight crown that was taken away from Cassius Clay recently for his refusal to be inducted into the Army. Quarry also is listed among the top 10 heavyweights with only one loss to mark his rather impressive record.

Quarry will be facing his most formidable opponent in Patterson, who held the heavyweight title twice and has a record of 44 victories in 49 pro fights.

Birmingham Students Win Knoxville Posts

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (May 6, 1967) - Four Knoxville College students from Birmingham, Ala., recently won Student Union offices. They are Alphonso Asberry, junior, president; Willie May, junior, vice-president; Alonzo Cockrell, sophomore, treasurer; and Tommy Wright, sophomore, parliamentarian.

Knoxville Mayor Leonard Rogers was speaker for the installation services in McMillan Chapel. Music was by the Concert Choir, conducted by Nathan Carter.

After installing the new Student Union Officers outgoing President Roy Teague, a graduation senior from Selma, Ala., presented to Mrs. Lois N. Clark, head librarian, a $988.20 check for library books. Students sacrificed breakfast to raise the money.

Porterfield (Pete) Bradby, director of public relations, received a plaque from the yearbook staff for his "dedicated guidance and leadership" as an advisor.

Gene Kiniski, Lou Thesz Meet In Title Match

Promoter-matchmaker Paul Jones will officiate the world heavyweight championship between titleholder Gene Kiniski and challenger Lou Thesz, Friday night, June 9th at the City Auditorium.

Wrestling will return to the downtown arena following an absence of several weeks and the biggest card of the late spring season has been booked.

In addition to the championship encounter between Kiniski and Thesz, there will be the world championship tag team match in which Enrique and Ramon Torres will defend against challengers Stan and Burcher Vachon.

Ray Gunkel will take on Mighty and Perry were reportedly stolen in Kentucky. Munroe was being held in Macon awaiting transfer to Bibb County authorities. Leverett said federal charges would probably be filed against Munroe.

Authorities were unable to determine if Munroe had an accomplice.

The saga of Gary Nolan reads like fiction. Just one year ago he was pitching for Oroville (Col.) High School. The Reds took him to spring training this spring but he wasn't on the parent club's roster and nobody, except this exceptional 18-year-old young man, (he turned 19 on May 21) gave any thought to his pitching in the National League in 1967.

He earned three victories without a loss, appeared in 19-innings in which he surrendered a mere 10 hits, struck out 25 and walked only 10. He headed North with an eye-popping ERA of 1.42. To use the old baseball expression - he pitched his way onto the club and was named to a major-league contract on April 10.

As of May 30, he owned four victories in five decisions, had allowed 47 hits in 58-innings, had struck out 44.

Herein lies the third matchup supporting attraction.

In the six-man tag team match, Buddy Fuller, Timmy Geophagen and the masked Mr. Wrestling will oppose Alex Perez, Black Jack and Ed McNeil.

Dr. Jerry Graham will meet Dennis Hall and Bad Boy Hines will be the foe for Mr. Kojima.

TURNER'S TOP GRIDDERS - Much of the credit for Turner High's 6-2 record last football season would have to be given to this trio of stars who were among other individual players feled this week at the Wolves' annual grid banquet. Loyal Lamar (L) was voted most outstanding linesman; Aaron Spivey (C) most valuable player, and Larry Slaton, the most outstanding back. Lamar and Spivey will return to the Wolves' next season, but Slaton is Morris Brown College bound. (Photo by Perry)

Young Pitchers Early Season Talk Of The National League

ATLANTA, Ga. (SNS) - Wade Blasingame... Fergie Jenkins... Ken Holtzman... Rich Nye... Joe Niekro... Billy McCool... Gary Nolan... Larry Dierker... Don Wilson... Chris Zachary... Alan Foster...

What do these names have in common? Easy, you say! They are National League pitchers.

True! But have something else in common. None has ever voted for President of the United States.

They all were too young to cast a ballot in the last presidential election.

Veteran baseball men are at a loss to recall a season in which such a plethora of talented young pitchers wore N. L. uniforms as the number who enjoyed that distinction this year when the race passed the Memorial Day pole.

In addition to the above, all of whom are 23 or younger, National League rosters list the following who must be classified as still of a "tender age" when you consider the baseball axiom that pitchers mature late.

John Ugham (25), Cubs; Darrell Osteen (24) and Mel Queen (25), Reds; Danny Schneider (24) and Carol Sembers (25), Astros; Grant Jackson (24), Phillies; Woody Fryman (24), Steve Blass, Dennis Ribaunt and Tom Sisk (all 25), Pirates; Nelson Briles (23) and Ron Willis (23), Cardinals.

In the youngest group, those who have attracted the greatest amount of raw notices in the early season going are the Reds' Gary Nolan, the Mets' Tom Seaver, Houston's Larry Dierker and the Cubs' Ken Holtzman, although the latter left on May 22 for a six-month tour of military service.

His final record during the training season was unimpressive but deceiving. His ERA was a lofty 5.28 but came as the result of one bad outing. In a game with the Tigers, he was reined in for nine earned runs in 2-2-3 innings. Exclusive of that contest, he yielded just 10 hits, five walks and one earned run in 14-innings. His overall performance earned him a spot in the Mets' starting rotation.

On May 30 he won - lost record was 4-2 and his ERA a sparkling 2.53. On May 29 he turned in a rookie - going 5-2 win over the Dodgers allowing only five hits.

Other unheralded pitchers, who have been early season sensations, are the Cardinals' Dick Hensley and the Reds' Mel Queen. Hughes, though 29, qualified as a "rookie" but Queen does not although he must be regarded as a "rookie" as a pitcher.

The converted outfielder became a full-fledged pitcher only this year and has elicited praise and amazement from every opposing club he has faced. As the season moved into June, he stood 5-3 and boasted a remarkable ERA of 1.63. He had pitched 58-innings, allowed 34 hits, struck out 48 and walked only nine.

Hensley did not make his starting debut until May 25 but turned in two successive scintillating performances. He shutout the Braves 5-0 on two hits while striking out nine and walking none. On May 30 he suffered a heart-breaking 2-1 loss to the Reds after pitching seven perfect innings. In that game he allowed three hits in eight-innings, struck out 13 and walked only one. That shows a total of 17-innings, five hits, two runs, 22 strikeouts and one walk.

The average age of the 32 youngsters mentioned previously (exclusive of Hughes) is 22-1/2.

Navy's Top Flyers Give Account Of Plagued Bomber

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Navy's top aviator, after personally flying the plane, has given Congress its first glowing report on the Navy version of the trouble-plagued F111 fighter-bomber.

Vice Adm. T. F. Connolly promised a House appropriations subcommittee in April that if the plane did not land on a carrier "we a lady," he would come back and apologize to everyone.

Developers of the aircraft are striving to bring down the weight of the aircraft so that it will be able to touch down on a carrier deck.

Connolly's praise for the F111B - the Navy version of the previously designated TEX came at a closed hearing of the defense appropriations subcommittee. A censored transcript was made public Thursday.

Global Portraits

Global Portraits salutes Dan Tyler Moore, one of the nation's great leaders who as Director General of the International Platform Association has piloted the organization's membership role into the thousands, and also a most outstanding author whose latest book, "Widows and Orphans" is sky-rocketing into the "Best" Seller group.

We take our hats off to Dan Tyler Moore for his expose of the lives of con men, cardsharps, swindlers and rogues in his book. His experiences as former chief of O.S.S. spy-catching apparatus in Cairo, Egypt, the spy capital of the world, surely held him to bring hundreds of fraudulent operators to the forefront in his book.

The list of rules found in the book are indeed good for protecting oneself against the rackets of con men.

The reading in Wolves, Widows and Orphans is spely, delightful, informational and interesting. Each story becomes more and more intriguing, fantastic, and incredible though it may seem, each is a true account of some of the most ingenious frauds and swindles of the times. Readers who might find themselves victims of the "confidence game" would be wise to take these stories as warnings.

Vividly recounted are the recent and much publicized gold-for-seawater scandal; the case of the "Stop-Loss Order" - one man's uniquely contrived method of de-fusing the stock market; and the seemingly petty fraudulent acts of Egypt's late King Farouk, a notorious pickpocket who, because of the disappearance of a watch, once found himself facing the wrath of a highly disturbed Winston Churchill.

Klan Jeered In Walk Through Negro Area

By ANN MOHR
ATLANTA, Ga. (UPI) - White robed and hooded Ku Klux Klansmen marched to a tempo of jeers through an Atlanta Negro neighborhood Sunday to show their support for the Vietnam war and contempt for "anti-Christ, Communist sympathizers."

Nearly 400 Klansmen, more than half of them in robes, marched to city hall and ran into a counter demonstration by about 40 "doxes."

There were no incidents during the jarring or at city hall. The Klan procession strung out over three city blocks. Clusters of Negro youths gathered on street corners to harass and jeer the solemn Klansmen who remained silent during the long walk from Grant Park to city hall.

"Hey, boy, don't you look funny," the Negroes shouted. "What I got to do to join the Klan?" About 75 Klan security guards dressed in steel gray uniforms and carrying clubs patrolled the parade route. Dozens of Atlanta police were also in the area. Most of the parade route was through the Negro neighborhood.

The Klansmen carried United States and Confederate flags. Their placards said, "The KKK supports Our Fighting Men in Vietnam."

Georgia Grand Dragon Calvin Craig said "The Communists have marched long enough. It is time for Americans to march."

He said the march was "in support of our troops in Vietnam and against the betrayal of our fighting forces by anti-Christ, Communist sympathizers here in America."

An integrated group of anti-war demonstrators met the Klansmen at city hall.

They carried signs stating "Racist Hands Off Vietnam," "Support Our Boys in Vietnam - They Want To Come Home," and "Support Gassius Clay and Dr. Martin Luther King."

They also carried pictures of children they said were burned to death during U. S. napalm attacks.

old child died several hours later and Marge succumbed Monday.

Plant Manager Hubert Padgett said the cause of the explosion was not known. An investigation was underway, he said.

The goal is to produce homes for as little as $8,000 for a three-bedroom unit, not counting the land. At the heart of the system is a modular construction technique with components produced off-site. While the grant will pay for research and production of 17 prototype homes, the Archdiocese expects to build 500 more if the prototype are successful. Construction is scheduled to begin this summer.

Spearheaded by PNAC, a non-profit corporation, and assisted by the Archdiocese, the effort has set a new standard for neighborhood participation and involvement in making better housing available to disadvantaged citizens.

Plans have been completed for the building of 17 low-cost homes to be sold to local citizens. The U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development has approved a grant of $300,000 to the Archdiocese for the development of a new construction system designed to mass-produce homes, the 10-man board.

NAACP Team To Probe Mississippi Hunger

NEW YORK — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will send investigators into the Delta counties of Mississippi to make an on-the-spot probe of widespread charges of hunger and malnutrition among Negroes.

The two-week investigation, Mr. Wilkins said, will be headed by veteran social workers Alex Waites and Rollie Eubanks, president and secretary, respectively, of the NAACP's Department of Welfare Branch in New York City.

Earlier this year thousands of Mississippi Negroes were eliminated from a Federal food assistance program that had helped sustain more than 400,000 of the state's poor.

The Senate voted May 31 to extend for three years and expand the Federal food stamp program. Families with the lowest incomes pay about $2 for coupons worth $10 a person.

Most of the poverty-stricken families, however, are unable to pay for the food coupons.

A Senate subcommittee headed by Senator Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) held a series of hearings in Jackson, Miss., in April and reported "substantial evidence of malnutrition and hunger."

Kenneth Dean, director of the Mississippi Council on Human Relations, filed a report with the subcommittee in which he described "a widespread problem of poverty that could, at any given moment, turn into acute hunger or a slow starvation if Federal programs are not upgraded."

The NAACP investigators, who will report their findings to the Association's National Office here in New York City on June 24, are going into the Delta area "to ascertain the needs of the people and to develop a program whereby the NAACP can be of service in the State of Mississippi and other places where hunger and malnutrition exist," Mr. Wilkins said.

Nearly 157,000 Needy Georgians Get USDA Aid

The U. S. Department of Agriculture's Consumer and Marketing Service reports that 156,794 needy Georgians received food aid during April through its commodity distribution and food stamp programs.

This was 2,654 persons more than the number that took part in the two programs during March.

The commodity distribution program is administered by the Georgia Department of Education, and the food stamp program is administered by the Georgia Department of Family and Children Services.

These persons in Georgia receiving USDA food assistance during April included 140,387 persons in 65 counties who received donated foods and 16,427 persons in 21 counties who took part in the food stamp program for low-income families.

The Consumer and Marketing Service offers available foods to any state that has a commodity distribution program. USDA pays for processing, packaging and transporting the foods to receive points chosen by the state agency.

The food stamp program operates through normal trade channels. Families exchange the amount of money they could normally be expected to spend for food for coupons worth more. Then, the families use the coupons to buy food at any authorized retail store at existing prices.

The 21 food stamp counties issued a total of 237,064 worth of food coupons during April to low-income families. The families paid $138,490 for the food coupons and then received $98,584 worth of free, bonus coupons to help them buy more and better food at any of the 883 stores in Georgia authorized to accept food stamp coupons.

Sunday School Lesson

SALVATION FOR ALL MEN International Sunday School Lesson for June 11, 1967

MEMORY SELECTION: "God our Saviour... will have all men to be saved, and to come unto the knowledge of the truth." (1 Timothy 2:3-4)

Peter's telling ministry is the subject of today's lesson. Peter, like Paul, believed that there were no boundaries of religion, creed or distinction between true believers in Christ.

The Apostles, while not actively involved with the spreading of God's word to the Gentiles, recognized the accomplishment of others; those devout Jews — who clung to their laws — were outraged!

Peter was criticized for eating with the "Uncircumcised"; he had — in the eyes of those Jews who clung tenaciously to ceremonial cleanliness and the material concepts of the Jewish religion — violated a tradition. This was a cardinal sin in the eyes of those whose actions and lives were governed by ritual.

It is a matter of Biblical record that Peter was reluctant to perform this task, for it was necessary for him to experience this vision on three separate occasions.

We must realize, however, that the vision came to Peter not as a means to change his attitude towards the regimented laws of religious beliefs, but — rather — to change his attitude towards mankind.

Peter went to answer the call of a man who longed for salvation, and because of this unhesitating response, Cornelius and other Gentiles found the joys of salvation.

The underscoring truth in this incidence is the fact that the Holy Spirit can see no difference in persons; repentance (true repentance) brings with it the gift of salvation! Christ — those thousands of years ago — commissioned his followers to "make disciples of all nations". Today — centuries later — He still accompanies us on our program of world evangelism.

Are we — like Peter — willing to dare preconceived notions of what is right, and what is wrong, if that defiance will further God's work?
