MAN TRACKED DOWN, KILLED AFTER DANCE

2 Held In Gun Death

Memphis' 44th murder of the year was chalked up early Sunday when 21-year-old Jesse Lee Jones of 903 Edith died at John Gaston Hospital of gunshot wounds in the back of the head.

He was shot to death after he allegedly carried another man's wife to a dance.

Charged with the murder of young Mr. Jones is 18-year-old LeRoy Milam of 1136 Patton who accused Jones of escorting Mrs. Milam to a dance.

Harry Ryan, 18, of 821 Alida, reported with Milam at the time of the fatal shooting, was charged with murder as an accomplice.

A third man was being questioned by police.

Investigating officers quoted witnesses as saying that after Milam discovered Jones had taken his wife to a dance he and Ryan armed themselves with a .22 caliber rifle and went looking for Jones.

The third suspect was also said to have been with them when they found Jones.

Police said Milam did the shooting, which took place at 734 Woodland.

A Saturday funeral was being planned for Mr. Jones with Mid-South Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

The deceased was the husband of Mrs. Ora Jones and father of Demetric Jones. He was the son of Mrs. Lillian Boykin.

Negroes Should Save And Invest More, Lee Says

LOS ANGELES, Calif. — "We should do more with what we have got in hand," declared George W. Lee of Memphis last Sunday in an address to the Improved, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks of the World convening here at the Statler-Hilton Hotel.

Mr. Lee, the Elks' Grand Commissioner of Education, was addressing the fraternal order's National Educational Forum.

"There must also be a stepped-up effort on the part of the Negro himself to overcome barriers deliberately placed in his path," declared the Memphis businessman.

Baptists Are Rebuked By Moderator Calvin Mims Over Owen Merger Plan!

Baptists advocating the merger of Owen and LeMoyné colleges were rebuked last week by the moderator of the Baptist General Association during the 98th annual session of the church organization.

Moderator Calvin Mims, pastor of Castalia Baptist Church, was highly critical of the proposed merger in his annual address to the Association.

Trustees of Owen, a young Baptist-supported junior college, proposed the merger earlier this year after destroyed one of the major buildings on the Owen campus. The two-year college also is facing financial difficulties.

LeMoyné, a four-year liberal arts college, was founded in 1870 by the American Missionary Association and is affiliated with the United Church of Christ.

Moderator Mims said the proposed merger "is a serious indictment against the Baptist Church."

Referring to Baptist leaders who advocate the merger, Rev. Mr. Mims said "I can't understand their language."

"A few years ago, with no money at all, they were saying we can buy that property (the Owen site), and we did, paying $375,000 for it. Yet today, our clergymen and our leaders are saying, with $230,000 on hand, and the property paid for, that it is better to merge."

LeMoyné, a four-year liberal arts college, was founded in 1870 by the American Missionary As-

Moderator Mims pointed out that the school is now "free of debt" and hinted that the three- and one-half million Baptists in Tennessee could and should support Owen.

Owen became debt-free and showed a surplus of $230,000 after the campus fire this year. Insurance money collected after the blaze enabled the college to pay off all debts and bank the $230,000.

"To me, we have lost the joy of our heritage and the hope of building for the future. To me, to merge is a lick below the belt of the Baptists," declared Rev. M. Mims.

"Some of us worked hard to pay for Owen," he continued. "Many have studied there and take pride in her. There, you are nurtured and trained in the arms of the Baptists."

"We have the resources and talents to keep it alive," he added.

Hinting that there is division within the Baptist family, Rev. Mr. Mims said "We can get no more divided and opposing one another."

"Owen College is a good school," he declared. "What is happening is based on an old sore festering. There are too many classes among the Negro clergymen. We have too many chieftains and not enough butlers."

Patterson And Hunt Win Nod

All is now well in the political camps of State Representative J. O. Patterson Jr. and businessman E. T. Hunt, both candidates in the Oct. 5 primary for seats on the new City Council.

The two men were not exactly happy over the weekend because their right to run for office was challenged last Saturday.

But, the Election Commission met Monday and, by unanimous vote, ruled that Patterson and Hunt are eligible to run, both from District 7.

There had been some doubt about the number of years Mr. Patterson had voted in city elections, and some opponents of Mr. Hunt had charged he did not maintain an official residence in District 7.

Meanwhile, the Shelby County

Omnibus Club came out Monday night with its endorsements.

State Representative A. W. Willis, only Negro in the Mayor's race, was endorsed by the club.

The Board of Education race, the club endorsed Joseph Tagg Jr. from Position 1, Mrs. Lawrence Coe from Position 3, and the Rev. James M. Lawson Jr. from Position 5. The Club passed over Position 2 in which a Negro, the Rev. E. W. Williamson, is running and Position 4.

In the City Council race, the club came out for Charles F. Morris Sr. in District 7, Cuba S. Johnson in District 6, Fred Davis in District 4, and the Rev. Alexander Gladney in District 1, all Negroes.

'Upward Bound' Is Paying Off!

The summer session of the Government-sponsored Upward Bound Project at LeMoyné College ended on a colorful note. The 75 teenagers enrolled in the eight-week program signed off with a highly entertaining talent show that drew rounds of applause from an audience of several hundred.

The show spotlighted the talents of Upward Bound youngsters and was given an extra boost by professional performers such as pianist-singer Delores Macklin of LeMoyné and the popular Falcons.

A similar show was produced and staged last year at the close of the first summer session.

Upward Bound is the pre-college academic guidance and tutorial program designed to motivate poor-achievers to aspire to post-secondary education.

The UB project at LeMoyné began June 15, 1966 with 50 11th graders from Carver and Booker T. Washington high schools.

The program this summer was increased to 75 students. The entire project was integrated.

During the summer session, UB students spent five days on campus, Monday through Fridays, 8:30 a. m. They were provided three free meals a day and received $10 a week spending money. Transportation to and from the campus also was available for the students.

During the regular school season, UB students report to the campus every Saturday where they spend a half day with teachers, tutors and counselors. They also enjoy a free meal and receive $5 a week spending money during this period.

The curriculum during the past summer included mathematics, communication skills, physical science, biological science, art, music and recreational activities.

The UB students also were carried on several field trips. They visited the Pink Palace, First National Bank, Chucalissa Indian Village and the Art Academy. They were treated to a dog show when they visited Armour Training Center.

They spent some time at the 10th National Park and Plewick Dam. Several movies were made available to them, too.

The Upward Bound program is a part of the war against poverty effort. It is financed by the Office of Economic Opportunity and participating colleges and universities.

Administration of the program, however, is under auspices of Educational Associates, Inc., consultants to OEO for Upward Bound, with headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Activities of the project are checked periodically through the use of site-visitors sent out by OEO. Site-visitors review the strengths and weaknesses of the programs. Feedback from reports submitted relative to the LeMoyné UB project has been most favorable.

After two eight-week sessions and one academic-year program, I can see a definite change in our students," said Willie E. Johnson, director of LeMoyné's Upward Bound project. "They are showing more self-esteem, self-confidence and poise."

"Many of the excuses that children give for poor achievement are eliminated in this program," Mr. Johnson said. "We place the responsibility directly where it should be, squarely on the shoulders of the individual student. It's all voluntary and there is no real pressure applied other than one's own conscience."

Mr. Johnson said "One of the best courses that we have offered in my opinion is the communications skills project." Articulation, through organization and logic are the areas of concentration. Dr. Juanita Williamson, linguistic specialist at LeMoyné, assisted the UB staff in the preparation of this particular program.

Mrs. Mose Yvonne Hooks, a Douglas High School teacher, and Mrs. Victoria Hagen, a member of LeMoyné's faculty, taught the course.

As a result of this course, the UB students now are more careful

Roy Wilkins Urges Fair Housing Bill In Senate Testimony

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Any program to prevent future violence and chaos must include passage of a national fair housing law, the Executive Director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People told a Senate Subcommittee here.

Appearing before the Housing Subcommittee of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, Aug. 21, Roy Wilkins declared that housing segregation is "one of the burning frustrations, Negro residents carry with them in city ghettos... the knowledge that even if they went to and have the means to do so, very often they cannot get out."

Before the committee is a bill sponsored by Walter P. Mondale, Minnesota Democrat, that is identical to President Johnson's omnibus civil rights bill which seeks to end discrimination in housing in three stages.

Mr. Wilkins, who also represented the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights — a coalition of 112 civil rights, labor, church, fraternal, professional and civic organizations — called for passage of the pending bill with one major revision.

The three-stage timetable, Mr. Wilkins testified, is too slow.

He urged that the bill be passed with an amendment putting total coverage in effect upon passage of the bill.

Racial developments since the bill was introduced, Mr. Wilkins added, "have created a crisis situation that demands immediate action."

Mr. Wilkins said that although a national fair housing bill would not cure all of the ills of the ghetto, "this bill raises the basic question of the good faith of America. Will it continue to allow second-class status to be imposed upon millions of its citizens by refusing to provide a legal means of escape from residential segregation? Or will it provide a method under the Constitution for those entrapped in the ghetto to move out when conditions make it possible and they desire to do so?"

The Mondale bill, expected to receive strong opposition from Southern Democrats and few Republicans, led by Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, would end housing discrimination by January 1, 1959. It is estimated that 65 million housing units would be covered by the bill.

Two Cabinet officers, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development Robert C. Weaver and Attorney General Ramsey Clark, told the Subcommittee that pressures on the ghetto would continue to mount until Negroes were assured the legal right to purchase housing in the suburbs.

Murphy, associate professor of psychiatry, and Mary Breckenridge, research assistant, alcoholic problems arise from high incidence of juvenile delinquency and inadequate home life of the Negroes. Total abstinence in a sample study of 222 Negro men born and brought up in a metropolis was virtually absent.

However, according to the researchers, those few Negroes who in childhood lived like middle-class white children had no few drinking problems later on as the average white.

Four Washington University professors will lead discussions at the American Sociological Society convention including Lee Robinson, Nicholas Demerouti, Lee Robins and Rodney M. Coos.

In addition to the study on drinking six other papers are being presented by Washington University staffers. The authors and their topics follow:

"Social Planning and Social Action," Robert Boguslaw, professor of sociology.

"The Family and Its Kinship and Friendship Network," Jerome S. Stronberg, research associate.

"The Norm of Illegitimacy," Irving Horowitz, professor of sociology.

"The Management Factor in Population Control," Nicholas J. Demerouti, professor of sociology.

"Crops and Magic," James Henslen, graduate student.

"Ethnomethods and Phenomenology," George Mathis, professor of sociology.

ASCS PROGRAM HELPS FARMER GAIN SUCCESS

A FARMING SUCCESS — While many small farmers are failing, Alvin Rice of Freeman, Va., is succeeding on his 163-acre farm partly as a result of assistance from the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Top left, Mr. Rice points out to his ASCS county office manager, Rawleigh G. Clary, part of the 70 acres of trees growing on his farm as an erosion control measure and a long-term cash crop. Last year he planted 18 acres more with cost-share aid from the Agricultural Conservation Program of ASCS.

Mr. Rice began farming 11 years ago after he became tired of commuting 97 miles each way to and from the Portsmouth Navy yard where he was a machinist's helper. But farming was not new to him. He was reared on a farm where he and his brothers helped their parents with the crops.

Starting out mostly with rented land and 30 acres he had saved up to buy, he and his family have gradually increased their holdings to 163 acres. This year he planted 28 acres of wheat, 15 acres of soybeans, 85 of tobacco, 12 of milk, and 45 of corn.

In addition, Mr. Rice has 30 acres in pastures for his hogs and cattle, and nearly 70 acres in trees. Last year he planted 18 acres of pines on the more hilly areas of his farm with cost-share aid from the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP), an activity of ASCS.

Also, he has obtained cost-share assistance in building a 1-acre pond for watering his cattle and irrigating his tobacco, as well as help in developing 14 acres of improved pastures, and in establishing terraces and sod waterways as erosion control measures.

This year, ASCS made Mr. Rice a loan to help buy and install a 1-700-bushel grain bin for storing his feed grains for his livestock, including feeder hogs. He usually sells annually about 60 hogs and around 10 to 12 calves.

"I don't know what I would have done without this bin," said Mr. Rice a few weeks ago. "I used to store my grain in store my grain in town for my livestock, but the place burned last spring." He can also use the bin to store his wheat or soybeans under price support. By next spring, he plans to have another bin.

Standing near his bin, looking at the prelayers working on the new home for himself, his school teacher wife and their three children, Mr. Rice said, "Once a farmer finds out about all the available help from agencies, with hard work, things are not as tough as they seem."

Lurleen Wallace Returns Sept. 10 To Hospital

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — UPI — Gov. Lurleen B. Wallace will return to Houston Sept. 10 for an examination and possible precautionary X-ray treatment as a follow-up to her cancer operation last month, her office announced Monday.

Doctors said at the time of the operation that she would have to come back, but no date was announced then.

The governor has been conducting state business from the mansions here and in Gulf Shores since her return from Houston, but plans to spend some time in her Capitol office before she flies to Texas.

"The governor has been seeing her personal physicians in Montgomery on a regular basis during her convalescence," a spokesman said. "They report complete satisfaction with her post-operative recovery."

Mrs. Wallace underwent abdominal surgery July 10 at the M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Clinic in Houston. Doctors removed several tumors, with the primary malignancy lodged in a coil of the sigmoid colon. A portion of the colon was removed.

Mrs. Wallace was treated for cancer in 1955 and Dr. R. Lee Clark of Anderson hospital said the tumors removed last month apparently came from tiny cells that were missed earlier. Her return trip is to prevent this from occurring again.

"This is nothing to be concerned about," Clark said when he announced plans for the return trip at the time of the operation. "It is simply a precautionary measure. Any malignant microscopic cells remaining can be easily destroyed by X-rays."

Mrs. Wallace, 40, is Alabama's first woman governor. She succeeded her husband, George Wallace, in January because the state constitution prohibited him from succeeding himself.

tion date in Virginia approaches. However, he is a nominee for reelection.

Mr. Rice effectively has used the assistance and other ASCS programs, advises his ASCS county committee on local farm conditions, recommends measures likely to obtain the best farm program results, and helps to elect county committees.

His first one-year term as a county committeeman is nearing its end as the September 19 election date in Virginia approaches.

Acceptance Rests Upon Acceptability

EDITOR'S NOTE: The article below and titled as above appeared in the Wesleyan Christian Advocate some months ago. It is written by the president of LaGrange College. Because of the truth and soundness of it and also the timeliness, it is reprinted here for the consideration of our readers.

By WAIGHTS G. HENRY, JR.

The only evolutions really worth fighting are those inside of people. This does not mean that external circumstances are to be repugnant. They are. It is only right that men, irrespective of the accident of birth, should have a reasonably fair opportunity to achieve their ambitions that are fair to all concerned.

The issue is not necessarily racial. Nor even American. We hear the clamor and see the protests here, and they are basically racial. In England, France, and Germany all men do not have equal opportunities either culturally or economically. It is known and rather blandly acknowledged.

Acceptance is the point at issue. Never before have the doors of opportunity swung so wide for Negroes. An Alabama Negro college president is looking for white professors. He gives as reason the fact that he can't retain Negro professors. As soon as one signs a contract with the school, the Negro professor is bombarded with offers by white universities, corporations, and government departments that are seeking competent Negro personnel. There are all too few Negroes of ability and training to fill the spots open to them.

Acceptance is an intangible thing. As Negroes prove their worth in the professions and in economic competition they will find themselves increasingly welcome in areas of social communication.

Much of the rioting is in the hands of those whose acceptance will be constantly resisted by whites, by the power structure, or whatever other epithet they wish to use in naming the people who have established this nation's community and economic structure.

Most of the citizens of this nation are people of good will. They are willing to accept those who have earned the privilege to be anywhere and do anything. They do not oppose or condemn those who engage in responsible dissent. They do dislike rock-throwing, pilage, and rioting by adults, teenagers, and children shouting "Burn, baby, burn." The stolen clothing and TV sets will not improve the lot of the rioters.

Acceptance rests upon acceptability. This is why the revolution must be in all cases a one-man revolution, a personal revolution, a revolution inside of the man. All of the Constitutional guarantees of freedom and rights fall flat if the individual himself is not geared to the disciplines and motivations that make one free and equal. There is a great need for violent upheavals, but these should be primarily on the inside—in the mind and heart. The rest will follow, surely if not swiftly.

Get Them Ready For School

So the last of summer days are around the corner; little fellows from the ole swimmin' hole will soon be making tracks back to school. They have had a friendly summer; they got their portion of watermelon and peaches; they spent what little change they made for bubble gum and soft drinks, now they head for the old stamping ground—once more and broke again.

The school is the plighted of the nation. Here our future citizens are being molded. Many of them love the school, some do not, still the bell will soon ring and it would be nothing out of place to find "an apple for the teacher." She told you last term, her teachers made A, that they gave her B, and that all she was putting out was C.

So, get ready to "go and take it." This summer there have been noted here and there getting ready for school. Some of the buildings have been refreshed with paint, new seats and more wholesome grounds; some children will go to schools which are brand new and most modern.

But things will take normal shape by the time the new roll is made up and it is hoped and believed that every boy and girl will find a place. May they make good and prove worthy of the tax monies being expended and may the teachers find pleasure in this new adjustment.

NEGROES SHOULD

Mr. Lee, a well known author and speaker is manager of the Memphis branch of Atlanta Life Insurance Co. He is also a national vice president of the insurance firm and an official of Tri-State Bank of Memphis.

In his address, Mr. Lee said: "During these crucial days in America the Negro cannot afford to become apathetic or complacent. He must become involved in the vast struggle for equality, freedom and human dignity upon this globe."

Whether we like it or not all of us are involved in this great American tragedy.

"The improvement in the life of the Negro, his social, economic and political status, have shown progress, but life still seems to lead uneasily with blacks and whites. Improvement in the life of the Negro of this generation has been clouded by the displacement of Negro from work in the South. Mechanical cotton pickers have driven them from the southern farms and the northern cities to become police and welfare statistics, and to add to the nightmare of civil disorders.

Structures from the bureau of labor show the kind of heavy burden that segregation has placed upon the back of Negro people.

In addition to working at Goodwill Industries, he attends Area Vocational School two nights a week. Radio and TV repair are his hobbies. Mr. and Mrs. Terry are the parents of a daughter, 8, and 2 sons, 7 and 5.

Awards services especially honoring outstanding Goodwill handicapped workers were held Monday of this week in the Goodwill Chapel, 94 N. Second. The public was invited.

"Goodwill - Worker" Terry received monetary awards from Marvin L. McPherson, executive director of Goodwill Industries, and from Eugene Lewis, president of the Goodwill Sunshine Club. Mrs. Frap Hilliard, representing Mayor William B. Ingram, presented Mr. Terry with a key to the city of Memphis.

The 28-year-old Mr. Terry is considered one of the most skillful persons in the use of an artificial hook. At the Memphis Goodwill, he is considered a most diligent, cheerful worker and most worthy of the title.

The Upward Bound project will resume Sept. 16 when all students will return for orientation and briefing. They will attend classes on Saturdays, 9 a. m. to 1:30 p. m.

There are 51 high school seniors in the program this year. "We will concentrate on motivating them to go to college," Mr. Johnson declared.

race, the club gave its endorsement to the Rev. Samuel B. Kyles in Position 5, passing over another Negro candidate, James I. Taylor. The political group ignored Luke J. Weathers, another Negro candidate, and threw its support to Frank White in the Position 4 race.

The upcoming City Election took on added interest at deadline time Saturday when civil rights leader Rev. Lawson, pastor of Centenary Methodist Church, filed for Position 5 of the Memphis Board of Education. He will oppose the present chairman of the board, Hugh H. Bosworth.

Two other men are seeking Bosworth's seat, Roy M. Goff of 5162 Judy Lynn and E. B. Fox Jr. of 1839 Overton Park.

The big spotlight is still on the Mayor's race which is featuring a Negro candidate for the first time in the history of the city. Three Negro politicians are running At Large for City Council seats, Luke J. Weathers from Position 4, and the Rev. Samuel B. Kyles and James I. Taylor from Position 5.

There is much interest in the City Council race from various districts, especially in 7, 6 and 4.

Charles F. Morris Sr., O. W. Pickett, Eules T. Hunt, James L. Cotter, F. N. Nobles J. O. Patterson Jr. and Nelson E. Shroat are campaigning from District 7. Rev. James L. Netters, Cuba S. Johnson Sr., D. J. Thomas, Rev. John W. Beck, Roscoe Dixon, J. B. Trotter III, Mrs. Josephine Terrell and Atty. I. H. Murphy from District 6, and Lonnie F. Briscoe, Fred L. Davis, Alton L. Arnold, Henry L. Boyd Sr., Elmer B. Vaughn, Gerald W. Benefield, we need to do some soul searching and face our own short comings and faults as Negroes - that we should concentrate on self-improvement - work as hard to improve ourselves as we do for civil rights. While there must be a continued emphasis on blacks to improve their economic condition and to withdraw economic support from discriminating firms, we must not lose sight of the fact that the large economic problems confronting the Negro can only be solved by a Marshall plan involving federal programs which will require billions of dollars.

"In short, the Negro problem cannot be fully eliminated until the Jim Crow curtains have been torn down and the feeling that put them up is erased from every American heart.

"There must also be a stepped-up effort on the part of the Negro himself to overcome barriers deliberately placed in his path. We should do more with what we have got in hand. With an earning power of 30 million dollars a year we should do more with this to make our presence felt, by investments in business ventures, by bringing pressure through selective buying for more jobs; we should come to understand that the latent energy of American dollars is far more powerful than brick bats; and we must be made to realize that we have got to put more of our earnings in the bank than on Cadillac, Buicks, and Mustangs.

"There's nothing wrong in the Negro having a little scotch, a shot of gin, a television or a car, but having them at the cost of sacrificing the essential elements of our process is something else. In a multi-racial society we cannot make it alone. The white man needs the Negro, and the Negro needs the white man. We must find the community fellowship that represents the best in each racial group - where the genius of the black man will not be sealed up and made infertile by prejudice, but where each can make his own particular and peculiar contribution to the creation of a kindly but vigorous democracy in which all our problems can be solved in the brilliant sunshine of an American tomorrow."

"There are those who claim that

Southerners Still Attack Enforced Desegregation

NASHVILLE, Tenn. - Southern critics of the federal government's efforts to enforce school desegregation continued to attack the Department of Health, Education and Welfare as the beginning of another school year approached, according to Southern Education Reporting Service.

In addition, a heavy blow came from a three-judge federal court which enjoined HEW from stopping federal aid to an Alabama school district operating under court orders. The court said the executive department was powerless to cut off federal funds to the Lanett City district for alleged failure to meet HEW guidelines and to comply with an earlier court order.

The U. S. Office of Education responded to a Southern complaint of previous years and sought to recruit educators and administrators from the South to serve on compliance teams this summer. Commissioner of Education Harold Howe II asked for recommendations by state superintendents of education but of the names submitted, only one Southerner was hired. Some declined for personal reasons, some did not answer, and others did not meet the requirements, an HEW spokesman said.

One Southern governor, Robert E. McNeil of South Carolina, spoke favorably of his relationships with federal officials. "I believe that

ed. "In light of the fact that only Negroes are generally gunned down by police officers, supposedly in performance of their duty, we question whether members of our police force are expected to, or trained to, have the same respect for the lives of Negro citizens as for white citizens.

"The recent acquittal of the four police officers by our Civil Service Commission, despite overwhelming evidence to the contrary; the refusal to indict these same officers by the Shelby County Grand Jury which brought a threat of resignation by four Negro members; the apparent inability of many police officers to question, arrest, or apprehend Negro suspects without cursing, beating, or killing them lead to suspicion and doubt by the Negro community of our entire system of law and government.

"We feel that the Negro citizens, including those suspected of committing a crime, deserve the same respect and treatment from our law enforcement officers, our Civil Service Commission and our Grand Jury as that afforded white citizens, including those who are suspected of criminal acts. We call upon you, our city officials, to see that each and every citizen of this community is accorded equal protection of the law and fair administration of justice."

BRIEF COMMENT

Hard work hasn't killed nearly as many people in this country as one might suppose.

People who extend liberal support to the churches seldom worry about what they get in return.

The average youngster can tell his, or her, parents, how life should be lived, and then some.

Few people study to discover the truth; most of us seek to confirm our errors and perpetuate our prejudices.

Candidates for admission must be nominated by a Congressman or Senator, but appointments are made on the basis of candidates' competitive standing within the state from which nominated. Competitive standing is determined by College Board Examination Scores, high school rank in class, and subjective evaluation of candidates' leadership potential and motivation.

Men desiring admission to the Academy with the class entering in August 1968 should request nomination by a Senator or Congressman as early as possible beginning September 1, 1967, and not later than January 31, 1968.

FOOD PRICES UP

The cost of living was pushed up in June as a result of the food prices. The Labor Department said living costs rose three-tenths of one per cent in June and reports for July indicate prices are still rising.

When I make contact and push a guy back, I'm still going to try to get by him. So, I think you would have to say finesse is the best thing for any defensive player.

FOOTBALL PHILOSOPHY

BU GRANT, Minnesota Coach: "Mental discipline is simply this: you don't make a mistake. Or if you do you understand exactly why you made it and you don't make it again. We pay a lot of attention to small things — like the chin strap (the chin strap must always be fastened on playing coaches with the chin strap). The following who is conditioned to pay attention to these kind of things is not likely to overlook small things on the field. Or conversely, if a fellow forgets little details off the field, I have to think he's likely to forget them on the field."

STRENGTH OR FINESSE? Buck Buchanan, Kansas City's 6-foot-4, 237-pound defensive tackle, talks finesse over strength as the most important asset on a defender's balance sheet.

"It's a combination of power and finesse," Buchanan says. "Lots of times, you have to show the other man how strong you are. But even

Eagles Clashed With Bills Friday In Buffalo, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y. — The Philadelphia Eagles, fresh from an impressive victory in their first encounter with an American Football League team, tried to make it two in a row this past (Friday) night when they engaged the Buffalo Bills in their fourth pre-season game.

The Eagles possess a 2-1 record thus far in the warm-up period, having defeated the AFL New York Jets, 34-19, last Saturday at Cincinnati, Ohio in their initial inter-league game. The Eagles previously scored a 28-13 victory over the Cleveland Browns and were handed a 34-0 setback by the Minnesota Vikings.

After a poor offensive effort against the Vikings, the Eagles' attack moved into high gear in the Jets game. Being guided by the

Is Your Home Full Of Booby Traps?

Homes have more danger spots than battle grounds of equal area statistics show. The Accident Prevention Council's survey on accidents over 1965; a million disabling injuries in 1966; cost totals $1.5 billion for home accidents.

Consider this: falls caused more than two-fifths of home deaths; fires and burns over one-fifth; all other accidents scored one-third of home fatalities.

Disturbed over these high home accidents, the Accident Prevention Council a part of the Construction Research Bureau, national clearing house for home building information prepared the following check list of common and unusual household booby traps.

SPECIAL WARNINGS: 1. Don't climb stepadders, work over hot stoves with boiling liquids, slushing fats after taking tranquilizers, barbiturates, antihistamines. They dull the natural preformed under such conditions prove as lethal as driving a car drunk or drugged.

2. Floors can be dangerous especially if waxed too much and too often. The safest flooring is the resilient type that requires no waxing or very little. This vinyl asbestos tile surface has a non-skidding textured finish, so important in preventing accidents. Incidentally, the more vinyl floors are buffed and polished the harder, dryer and less slipper is their surface.

3. Don't mix cleaners! Poisonous gases can be released from the combination of two or more cleaning agents commonly found in every household. These gases upon inhalation have caused death. Read all labels carefully, following manufacturer's directions closely. Never mix these bleach agents with other cleaners: ammonia, lye, rust remover, oven cleaner.

4. Always wash separately draperies, curtains, etc. made of fiberglass. They glass fibers may break off and cling to other items which will come in contact with the skin. These tiny fibers can cause a rash and it's a thoroughly rinse machine or tub after washing fiberglass items.

Falcons Take Browns In Camp 34-31 In Pre-Season Contest

ATLANTA, Ga. — (SNS) — Second-year quarterback Randy Johnson put on a precision passing performance Friday, Aug. 24 to lead the Atlanta Falcons to a surprise 34-31 exhibition victory over the Cleveland Browns, who are favored to win their division title in regular season play.

Johnson completed 20 of 28 passes for 193 yards and three touchdowns as he got the Falcons off to a 21-0 start by midway through the second period.

The Falcons, only 3-11 in their inaugural season of National Football League play last year, appeared set to run the Browns off the field on a muggy night before 52,240 partisan fans.

They struck for two touchdowns in the first period on long drives with Johnson throwing a one-yard touchdown pass to flanker Tom Moore and a seven-yard touchdown pass to split end Tar Anderson.

In the second period, Johnson, who hit on 14 of 18 passes in the first half, threw a 12-yard touchdown pass to Ron Smith.

The Browns finally came to life in the final minutes of the first half after a pass interception by Dale Lindsey. Veteran quarterback Frank Ryan got the Browns on the scoreboard with a little more than a minute to play with a 45-yard touchdown pass to Paul Warfield.

The Browns moved to catch up in the third period when they cut the gap to 21-17 on a five-yard touchdown pass from Ryan to Gary Collins and a 22-yard field goal by Lou Groza.

But, the Falcons came roaring back in the final period with a 35-yard touchdown run by Ron Rector and field goals of 20 and 26 yards by Wade Traynham.

The Browns made the score respectable when Leroy Kelly scored on touchdown runs of two and three yards in the final four and a half minutes.

The 34 points scored by the Falcons were the most Atlanta has ever made in eight exhibition and 14 regular season games since their debut last year. The Browns trounced Atlanta 43-7 in their exhibition meet here last August and beat the Falcons 40-17 in last year's regular season game.

The Falcons, playing with basically the same team as last year, tied the New York Giants 10-10 in the opening of the exhibition schedule and beat the Miami Dolphins of the American Football League 27-17 last week.

Johnson, who won the Falcons' quarterback job last year as a rookie fresh out of Texas A. & I. connected on eight straight passes Friday night before missing, and then after two overthrows came back with six more straight hits before going to the sidelines midway in the second half to give Terry Nofalinger a chance to show his wares.

Nofalinger connected on only one out of four passes and was unable to get the Falcons moving during the time that he was in play. Johnson went all the way at quarterback in the second half.

Summary: Falcons 34 — Browns 31. Downs 16. Yards Passing 159. Yards Rushing 105. Yards Penalized 71.

Scoring: Falcons (34) — Moore 1 yd. pass from Johnson. Traynham PAT. Anderson 7 yd. pass from Johnson. Eight PAT. Traynham 20 yd. field goal. Rector 35 yd. run. PAT by Parker. Traynham 25 yd. field goal.

South Viet Candidates Charge Ky With "Rigging" Election

SAIGON—(UPI)—Half of South Vietnam's senatorial candidates Thursday joined several civilian presidential candidates in charging that Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky's government is "rigging" the Sept. 3 elections.

A 60-man senate will be elected at the same time as the nation's president and vice president.

In a "joint communique," 24 of the 48 senate tickets accused Ky's government of issuing directives to "all administrative levels throughout the country" demanding that they produce votes for six senate tickets allied with Ky, the military vice presidential candidate, and Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu, the military presidential candidate.

Similar charges about election "rigging" and other incidents campaign malpractice have been previously made by at least five of the 10 civilian presidential candidates.

The communique demanded that the government stop "unconstitutional and undemocratic actions."

"The election must be organized in a free and fair manner without pressure and directives from the government," the communique said.

"We denounce before world opinion the election rigging being planned by this government. This plot will make the election a farce."

Government officials made no immediate comment on the charges. Meanwhile, the military candidates came under political fire from another direction.

Militant Buddhists, led by Thich Rev. Tri Quang, held a high-level "emergency session" to discuss means of opposing Thieu's official recognition of a more conservative Buddhist faction as the sole representatives of the church in South Vietnam.

They fired off telegrams to Pope Paul VI, U. N. Secretary General Thant and international Buddhist organizations charging that Thieu was "attempting to eradicate Buddhism" in South Vietnam and calling him a "malevolent follower of Catholicism" who was trying to church their religion.

Thieu is a nominal Roman Catholic.

SMITH TO SEEK END OF GA. "TAX ON TAX"

JEKYLL ISLAND—Georgia House Speaker George L. Smith says he will support legislation in the 1969 General Assembly to abolish the controversial "tax on tax" now imposed on gasoline, tires, cigarettes and other products which already bear federal excise taxes.

By executive order, the state began collecting a three per cent sales tax on federal excise taxes April 1, but Smith said here today "this isn't right."

"Legislation to remove the (collection) of state sales tax from federal excise taxes, will have my backing next year," Smith said flatly.

Speaking at a luncheon session during the Eighth Annual Convention of the Petroleum Council of Georgia, Smith noted that Gov. Maddox has said that he would not oppose such legislation.

"This is a matter of vital interest to you and other tax payers. The 'tax on tax' affects your industry and citizens generally," the speaker told the oil men.

"The way the 'tax on tax' works, a purchaser of gasoline, tires, automobiles and other things to which a federal excise tax applies is forced to pay sales tax on the additional amount the federal excise tax," said Smith. "That isn't right."

Noting that the state sales tax is collected in addition to the state gasoline tax and federal excise levies, the resolution said the "tax on tax" is "arbitrary, abusive and patently inequitable."

Revenue from the sales tax collected on gasoline goes into the state general fund, not for highways, the resolution pointed out.

Two Mobile Little League Teams Due In Atlanta Soon

Two Little League teams from Mobile, Ala., which happens to be "Hank" Aaron's old hometown, are expected to visit Atlanta soon.

Manager Louis Beck, of Mobile, told the Atlanta Braves about two weeks ago that he wanted to bring these two clubs to town to see the Atlanta Braves and also to play two Atlanta Little Leagues while in the city.

Negotiations are currently underway between Oscar J. Hurd, of East Point, and John Lemon, of the Joyland Cubs, which means that the two games may materialize.

No definite date was set by Manager Beck, but he indicated that they would like to play between Monday, August 28 and Saturday, September 2.

His junior team is made up of youngsters 13 and 15, and the senior team is made up of youngsters 16 and 17, both members of the Harmon Recreation League.

NEW ORLEANS SAINTS TOPS IN RACE PLAYERS

New Orleans Saints, 16th member team in the National Football League, boasted the largest pre-season contingent of Negro players of all clubs in the circuit. Tom Fears, former aide to Norb Hecker of the Atlanta Falcons, had 21 Negroes in fold when the team defeated the Pittsburgh Steelers, 20-17.

The New Orleans Saints with 21 Negro players is setting somewhat a record for a NFL expansion team. Among the dark-skinned riders who were in the Saints fold were Jerry Stemons, end; Bethune Coleman, John Douglas, Texas Southern University defensive back; Walter Roberts, San Jose State, flanker; Ray Mayo, Morgan State defensive back; Willie Walker, Tennessee State split end; Don McCall, USC, offensive back; Rhone Nixon, Southern University flanker; and John Gilliam, South Carolina State offensive back.

Others included Bobby Lee Smith, UCLA defensive back; Bruce Cortes, Parsons College, defensive back; Eli Strand, Iowa State, guard and Tom Morgan, defensive end. Jim Hester, North Dakota State, tight end; George Harvey, Kansas, guard; Herman Lee, Florida A. & M., tackle; Jim Battle, Southern University, tackle; Ben Hart, Oklahoma, defensive back; Elijah Newton, Clark College, flanker and safety.

OLD HAT: Quick now — who scored the first touchdown in AFL history? The answer is Boston defensive end Bob Dee, who recovered a fumble in the end zone, July 30, 1960, against Buffalo in a pre-season game — and oddly enough still is wearing the same helmet he used that day.

Probably one of the most protected pieces of equipment in pro football history, the helmet is in its eighth season and already has been used in more than 100 games. Dee gives this simple reason for not changing: "I have an odd-shaped head and I can't find another helmet that feels comfortable on me."

BERMAN LEE, an A. S. (Jake) Oaklander, American at Florida A. & M. University, with 11 years in the NFL is the oldest player in point of service on the New Orleans Saints roster. He was drafted in the 23rd round by the Chicago Bears in 1954, but he served two years in the U. S. Army before entering pro ball with the Pittsburgh Steelers on waivers, where he first played in 1956.

He was traded back to the Chicago Bears after one year with the Pittsburgh Steelers. He was obtained by the Saints on waiver with Doug Atkins on a trade for Don Croffcheck.

Birmingham Red Cross To Fill "Ditty" Bags

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — (SNS) — With just three weeks to go before Sept. 15 shipping date, the Birmingham Area Red Cross Chapter is working hard to fill 1500 Christmas "ditty" bags for American servicemen in Vietnam.

The Red Cross has asked the help of Birmingham area organizations and individuals in filling the bags with small gifts such as small decks of cards, pocket games for adults, paperback novels, ballpoint pens, stationery and mailing size voice tapes.

Many individuals and community groups are already sharing with Red Cross the costs of the program and the volunteer work it entails. Volunteers in the Bessemer and Blount County Red Cross branches of the Birmingham Chapter have made hundreds of the bags.

Organizations such as Eastern Star, American Legion Auxiliaries, Birmingham Council of Telephone Pioneers, American Women in Religion and Television, Shades Valley Women's Chamber of Commerce and others have contributed gifts or money — to help fill the bags. The cost of filling each bag is about $3.50. A card will be enclosed in each bag wishing the serviceman who receives it a Merry Christmas from the organization or individual who helped fill the bag and the Red Cross.

National Red Cross will send 850,000 Christmas bags, one for every American serviceman or woman in Vietnam. Two thousand of these bags will be packed especially for servicemen, containing items such as cosmetics, powder puffs, facial tissues, sewing kit, hand lotion and shower caps.

More than 1750 Red Cross chapters throughout the United States are participating in this project. Each chapter has been assigned APO and PRO numbers to ship designated quantities of the gift bags to Red Cross field directors in Vietnam, who will distribute them to personnel in the military units with which they work.

Last year, when 800,000 bags were sent to Vietnam, the Red Cross received hundreds of letters of thanks from service men in all branches of the service.

Community Council To Meet At Howard School

ATLANTA, Ga.—(SNS)—The Community Council for Social and Civic Improvement Inc. will hold its third meeting Sept. 6 at 3:30 p. m. in the library of David T. Howard High School, 551 Houston St., N. E. Discussed will be riot and crime control.

The following citizens pledged to attend the meeting, local city, county and state government officials, all branches of law enforcement agencies, ministers of all races and denominations, school officials, businessmen, parents and teachers groups. Grassroot residents of poor, from slum areas of Atlanta and Fulton county, E. O. A. workers.

These leading citizens will sit down together and listen to reports from people who have problems that cause riots and crime and then try to make plans to meet the needs of these poor people before the troubles start, said Wm. J. Farrell, Executive Director of the Council.

It will cost much less time and money to solve the cause of riots than it will cost us to restore the damage after crimes are committed. We must screen all law enforcement agencies and take all the bad eggs out of the police force, at the same time we must have all people to understand that they have a duty to obey law and order.

The police have a right to uphold and enforce the law to protect the rights, lives and property of all citizens and without law enforcement our communities would not be a safe place for any of us to live. I can not support any person or any group of people organization who teach race hate and disrespect for law and order.

Such acts will only cause trouble and break down good race relations, and it is time for all good fair-minded white and Negro citizens to stand up and be counted so to let these evil doers know that our lives and property must be protected.

At the same time we must do more to protect those underprivileged people who live on low income, over-crowded housing.

Be kindly affectioned one to another with brotherly love. —Romans 12:10.

Since the right to broadcast is granted by the FCC as agent for the American people, the LDF asserted that profit alone cannot be used as the criterion for what appears on television.

In its complaint to the FCC, the LDF, through its Director-Counsel Jack Greenberg, called for an investigation of the "possibility of racial bias in the production and broadcast of television commercials. As indicated in the report," he wrote, "this question not only relates to discrimination in employment by reason of color."

"It also intimately concerns the serious and widespread public interest in television exposure of unprejudiced commercials as well as program content," Mr. Greenberg concluded.

Negro Athletes Overlooked By Television Commercial

NEW YORK — Negro athletes are being overlooked by makers of the television commercials aired during sports events and related programs, according to a survey released here last week by the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, Inc. (LDF).

The LDF has asked the Federal Communications Commission to investigate.

The LDF drew the following conclusions about the appearance of Negroes in commercials during sports programs as a result of its survey: —The rate of Negro appearances is 5 per cent, or 1 commercial in 20.

—Half the appearances of Negroes consisted of momentary exposure as an "extra" in the scene.

—Of the eight commercials monitored which utilized Negroes for personal endorsements only one featured a Negro, Louis Armstrong.

—Beer companies used more Negroes than others.

—Banks, insurance and gasoline companies used no Negroes.

—There was not an appreciable difference in the use of Negroes in commercials aired nationally and locally.

Gustav Henningburg, assistant to the president of the LDF, stated that the way in which Negroes appear on television has become an important issue as the United States struggles to achieve new patterns of relationship between the races.

Because TV has great impact on its viewers, it is an important factor in forming opinions and shaping attitudes.

We selected sports programs, from the survey and findings released today, he added, because of the high incidence of Negro athletes and the predominantly male audience.

Our major purpose in the survey was to continue to obtain factual information about an important aspect of television which, heretofore, had not been systematically gathered, namely, the frequency and duration of Negro appearance on television commercials.

Only televised sports events and related programs (interviews, pregame programs, game highlights, etc.) were selected for monitoring.

More important, however, was our feeling that sports audiences might be more receptive to commercials featuring Negroes because of the importance of Negroes in professional sports.

Earl Wilson First 18-Game Winner In Majors

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—(UPI)—Earl Wilson, pitcher for the St. Louis Cardinals, today won his first 18-game victory over Detroit, a 5-2 victory over the Kansas City Athletics, enabling the fourth place Cards to creep within one game of first place.

The victory boosted Detroit's record to 21-74 with a .533 percentage in the tight American League race, leaving the club just one game behind the league-leading Boston Red Sox. Chicago is also one game back with a 70-56 record and a .556 percentage while Minnesota is one-half game behind at 71-55. Boston leads with a 73-56 mark.

Norm Cash's single tripled a three-run rally in the third inning and the veteran first baseman then summed a 430-foot solo homer off loser Jim Caufish Hunter in the fifth inning to give the Tigers a 4-0 lead. The drive was only the 12th one to clear the outer right-field wall in Kansas City.

Cash's two-put single in the third was the first hit off Hunter. Dick McAuliffe followed with a single and Al Kaline then rapped a two-run double and rode home on Ed Matthews' single to right.

A walk to Ramon Webster, Joe Nossok's single and back-to-back two-out singles by Bert Campaneris and John Donaldson produced the A's runs.

Lennie Green singled home the final Tiger run in the seventh off reliever Tony Pierce after Ray Oger walked and advanced on Wilson's sacrifice. Hunter has now suffered 13 losses in 24 decisions.

Mike McCormick First 18-Game Winner In N L

SAN FRANCISCO — (UPI)—Lefty Mike McCormick achieved his second consecutive shutout and became the first National League pitcher to win 18 games this season when he hurled the San Francisco Giants to a 2-0 victory over the Atlanta Braves Sunday in the opener of a doubleheader.

In his previous start, McCormick had blanked the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals on five innings.

Now 18-6, McCormick struck out seven, allowed five hits and walked three men as he went the distance for the 11th time and notched his fifth shutout of the campaign.

The Giants broke a scoreless tussle in the sixth when they tallied both of their runs on three singles and a walk after loser Clay Carroll 5-9 had retired the first two batters.

Willie McCovey opened the rally with a single, Steve Garber followed with a single and catcher Bob Uecker's throwing error. After Jim Hurt walked, Ollie Brown smashed a bad-hop single past third baseman Mike de la Hoz to score McCormick. The Hal Lanier's single through the box brought Hart across.

Atlanta Falcons Cut Roster Down To 49 Players

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn.—(UPI)—The Atlanta Falcons have cut down to 49 players by trimming six men from the squad — including top draft choice Leo Carroll and one armed placekicker Bob Hight.

Carroll, who suffered a serious knee injury in last Friday's game with the Cleveland Browns, was placed on "waived injured" list and the Falcons hope no other team will grab off the 250-pound rookie defensive end from San Diego State before they can reclaim him.

Hight, also blind in one eye, earlier was picked up by the Dallas Cowboys.

The other four Falcons cut were defensive back George Satter who came to Atlanta from the University of Virginia via the New Orleans Saints, Sonny Redders, a first year man who earlier tried out with the Green Bay Packers; defensive back Tommy Tolson, formerly of the University of Alabama; and linebacker Roger Pettee of the University of Florida.

The Falcons must cut down to 48 players by 1 p. m. next Monday.

C. The team is coached by Tom Fears, former aide to Norb Hecker of the Atlanta Falcons.

NO OTHER SAINTS since official lore have come marching into competition with the "deaf" of the Fears-coached Crescent City organization which is the most integrated team in professional ball.

THE 21 NEGRO PLAYERS on the pre-season roster makes it a hallmark of distinction, but that isn't all to the unique situation. Alford, the former Tuskegee Institute and Nevada quarterback, has been an assistant coach while awaiting sporting chores in The Southeastern orbit.

There is also Negro ownership since a New Orleans publisher and educator have bought stock in the club.

At every level of management there is Negro participation, and the equipment managers are Atlanta natives, Charlie Sheppard, a David T. Howard High School product is equipment manager and he brought along an Atlanta chum as his assistant.

THERE ARE NEGROES in the front office as secretaries and the level effect is that participation has extended to the cheerleaders, ushers, ticket sellers, etc.

MY GOD, VIEWING ALL OF THIS, I cried "The New Orleans Saints have out done the Atlanta Falcons" but I could cry no more, this football situation is something else: NFL football-wise, it seems, the Negro came to his own and they received him not.

Man can not live by bread alone! THERE ARE FEW MIRACLE CLUBS. You can't build a chimney from the top. Neither can you develop a team without competent personnel. Coaches may have the greatest intellectual genius in the world, but it takes responsible material to build a team.

The old adage of cooperation, cohesiveness, compulsion and competency are the dynamics of a winning operation. Individualism may be a trademark of free enterprise, it is not the bulwark of limited victory.

Experience keeps a dear school, as Benjamin Franklin lamented in "Poor Richard's Almanac," but a fool will learn in no other. The Saints when regular season play gets underway will be going against "experience" and there magnificent pre-season exercises may have been a gesture in futility.

In '66, the Atlanta Falcons were 1-11 for the National Football League campaign. If great expectations was the flowering fruit of conquest the Atlantans surpassed their expansion counterparts, Dallas Cowboys and the Minnesota Vikings, in the win column.

THE HOLY SAINTS defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 23-14 before 38,300 spectators. Then Tom Fears guided the team to a 23-14 win over the Pittsburgh Steelers and then came the Saints' 24-10 conquest of the San Francisco 49ers.

THE LONE DEFEAT was an opening NFL defeat at the hands of the Los Angeles Rams, 16-7 and even the Saints gave a good account of themselves. The Saints will be trying to make it four straight when they play the Miami Dolphins in Charleston's Ragood Stadium, which ordinarily is the home of the Citadel University Bulldogs.

THE GRADERS PICKED ON the NFL's football team will be active in NFL's game. They are: Elton Neri, a graduate of Fayetteville High School, Birmingham, Ala. but in Jefferson County and Tony Gilliam of South Carolina State College.

THE SAINTS who further conquered the records with a smashing 24-10 upset of the San Francisco 49ers last Thursday night in Portland, Oregon, will probably be cast in the favorite's role for the first time in their short history in their first contest with 49 ATLANS.

However, if Coach Fears warns to his squad are successful, there is no chance that the hard-fighting Saints will be caught off guard by the Dolphins, who undoubtedly will be on hand in left. They were their first victory in two years against a National Football League team.

The Dolphins, who earlier beat Denver, 20-2, and Buffalo, 10-7, and then lost to San Diego, 20-19, in AFL pre-season action, also lost to the Atlanta Falcons, in a "friendly" match two weeks ago. However, the Dolphins did score 17 points in a 17-10 game to score a hard-earned victory.

"I don't want another home-verse situation," Fears told his squad, in obvious reference to the ominous fact that the usually lowly Broncos have upset both Detroit and Minnesota in inter-league play. "We can beat the Dolphins

100 Birmingham Area Youths To Be Aided By U. S. Steel

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—(SWS)—More than 100 Birmingham area youths will get a head start toward choosing a career in a new program which United States Steel's Fairfield Works is sponsoring this year through the Birmingham Area Boy Scout Council.

The 14 through 18-year-olds will be members of three Explorer posts which will provide them with leadership and opportunities to do just what the name implies—explore! J. Arthur Jordan, veteran professional scout leader, said that a number of Boy Scouts under his supervision will participate in the choice-of-a-career project.

As members of two engineering posts and one metallurgy post, they will receive classroom instruction, see motion pictures, make field trips and visit plant operations to learn many of the engineering aspects of steel making, and related fields such as safety.

Fairfield Works General Superintendent Haran W. Bullard, who initiated the three Explorer posts, explained that exploring can not only be fun, but it is also an important step in building for the future.

REPORT TO TENNESSEE

Almost unnoticed in the sensational news around the riots and their aftermath, the Federal Bureau of Investigation has issued a most disturbing report that the increase in serious crime in the United States the first three months of this year was the sharpest recorded since the publication of quarterly reports began in 1958.

The report showed that serious crime—murder, rape, armed robbery, arson, grand larceny, burglary and the like—increased 20 percent compared to the same period in 1966.

In our concern over the more immediate and dramatic demonstrations of lawlessness seen in the riots, we cannot ignore this more widespread national law enforcement crisis. The FBI report indicates that the upward trend is not limited to a single area but is quite even in all geographic areas, large and small cities, suburban and rural areas.

But as urgent as it is, we cannot rush headlong into this problem and create for ourselves even more serious long-range problems.

The Administration sent a bill over to Congress which would have done just that

Howard H. Baker, Jr., United States Senator

The bill contained the usual Great Society formula to pump in federal money with all of its accompanying strings. The measure would have stifled local initiative and direction and would have placed maximum federal control over local law enforcement in the hands of the attorney general.

Law enforcement is a basic and prime responsibility of local—not national—government. It is one of the few remaining areas in which the local governments still maintain a maximum of autonomy. But there is no question, in the face of this crime crisis, that local governments need some help.

House Republicans seeing this problem, drastically wrote the administration bill to make it more palatable to our traditional division of responsibility between national and local government.

Under the House-passed version of the Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice Assistance Act, states will have control over the expenditures of anti-crime funds instead of the Attorney General. It provides for judicial review in cases where the Attorney General cuts off funds; it establishes congressional oversight on the operation of the data bank; it eliminates the open-end authorization, thereby insuring essential legislative review of the Act; it bans direct federal payment of police salaries.

It is obvious that money alone is not going to solve a national breakdown in law and order. But we have here a starting point toward improving our local enforcement agencies and we must move ahead quickly but cautiously in this vital area.

Polio Immunization Programs Should Be Continued, U. S. Says

Poliovirus immunization programs for infants and children should be actively continued and special efforts made to reach segments of the population with low immunization rates, the Public Health Service Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices recommended recently.

The committee in a report recently pointed out that following the introduction of poliovirus vaccine in 1955, the number of paralytic poliovirus cases declined from 16,308 in 1954 to a low of 81 cases in 1965.

The committee in a report recently pointed out that following the introduction of poliovirus vaccine in 1955, the number of paralytic poliovirus cases declined from 16,308 in 1954 to a low of 81 cases in 1965. However, there was an increase in paralytic cases. During 1966, a total of 100 cases were reported in the U.S. and Puerto Rico, most of them in unimmunized children less than a year of age in South Texas.

The full text of the committee's recommendations appears in the Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report for the week ending August 19 and published today.

Immunization for infants should begin at 9 to 12 weeks of age, and children and adolescents through the level of high school should be immunized if they have not received vaccine previously, the committee said. However, the group pointed out that routine poliovirus immunization for adults residing in the continental United States is not currently necessary because of the extreme unlikelihood of exposure.

Immunization was recommended for unimmunized adults who may be in contact with a known case or who may travel to epidemic or endemic areas. In addition, persons employed in hospitals, medical laboratories, and sanitation facilities might also be considered for the immunization series, especially if poliovirus is occurring in the area.

Oral poliovirus vaccine is more widely used in this country than is the inactivated poliovirus vaccine (given by injection) because it is easier to administer and produces an immune response which appears to be similar to that induced by natural poliovirus infection, the committee said. Trivalent oral vaccine (containing all three types of poliovirus) has largely replaced the monovalent form (containing only one of the polioviruses) because of simplicity in scheduling and in record keeping. The group pointed out, however, that an epidemic of poliovirus can be controlled by an emergency oral vaccine immunization program and that the monovalent vaccine is preferable in such instances.

3 Poverty Workers Charged Violating Sedition Laws

LEXINGTON, Ky.—A special U. S. court will decide whether Kentucky's sedition law can be used to prosecute three poverty workers in Pike County.

U. S. District Judge Bernard Moymahon has granted a request for a three-judge court to pass on the validity of the law as soon as visits and a discussion of the Fairfield Works engineering organization, reading, movies on engineering projects, social and outdoor activities and service and citizenship activities.

"We feel this is a valuable contribution to the youth of the Birmingham area which augments the already strong program being carried on by the Birmingham Area Boy Scout Council," Bullard declared. "Every boy who thinks he may be interested in an engineering career is invited to contact us about this program," he added.

There are 63 other Explorer posts in the Birmingham Area Council with a membership totaling around 900, according to J. Thomas Ford, scout executive for the Birmingham Area Council.

possible. Decisions from such a court are appealed directly to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Alan and Margaret McSurely and Joseph Mulloy were arrested in Pikeville, Ky., and accused of plotting to help the poor people take over the government. They were charged with having and distributing seditious literature.

The three petitioned federal court after the McSurelys were refused a reduction in bail by the Pike County Circuit Court. Joining in the petition were the Southern Conference Educational Fund (SCEF), the National Conference for New Politics (NCNP), and Vietnam Summer. The McSurelys are organizers for SCEF and NCNP and the outcome of the U. S. court action. The McSurelys were then freed under a total of $7,000 in bail supplied by SCEF. Mulloy, a field director for the Appalachian Volunteers, had been freed under bond soon after his arrest.

All three face action by the Pike County grand jury on Sept. 5. The prosecuting attorney is Thomas Ratliff, who is the Republican candidate for lieutenant governor of Kentucky in the November election.

The McSurelys and Mulloy charged that Ratliff started the prosecution to help get himself elected. Ratliff denied this. Two defense attorneys, Dan Jack Combs and William M. Kunstler, declared that strip-mine operators are also behind the prosecution. The people in Pike County have been engaged in a fight with the operators over the stripping of steep mountains to get coal.

Shirley Temple Seeks Seat In Congress As GOP

By DONALD B. THACKREY
SAN MATEO, Calif.—UPI—Shirley Temple, whose dimples and curls once won the heart of the nation, asked voters Tuesday to send her to Congress.

In announcing her candidacy, Shirley quickly sought to sequel the image of the movie moppet who a generation ago ruled as the brightest star in Hollywood with pictures such as "Only You" and her hit song "The Good Ship Lollipop."

Now a brunette matron of 39, Shirley is Mrs. Charles Black, mother of three children. She will run as a Republican in a special election Nov. 14 for the congressional seat vacated by the death of Rep. J. Arthur Younger. Nine men already have entered the race.

"This is a step I did not take lightly," Shirley said. "I will campaign for Congress."

Her announcement came at a jammed news conference in a swank restaurant. More than 100 newsmen were present as Shirley appeared before television cameras and microphones.

Shirley said she had not discussed her candidacy with Reagan and

Sen. George Murphy. Neither Reagan nor Murphy ever came close to the acclaim movie fans lavished on Shirley when she outranked even such all-time greats as Clark Gable and Joan Crawford with a succession of hit films that included "Little Miss Marker."

"The Littlest Rebel," "Bright Eyes," "Heidi," "The Little Colonel," and "Captain January."

She said Reagan and Murphy would have been leaders no matter what work they took up. And she said no one in the House of Representatives was from the motion picture industry.
