

EISENHOWER HOPEFUL TROOPS CAN BE REMOVED

Little Rock School Crisis Called Big Problem Of Year

By RUTH MONTGOMERY

WASHINGTON, D. C. — (INS) — The continuing Little Rock integration crisis is just one of the big problems weighing heavily on the brow of the President of the United States.

Expressing a devout hope Wednesday that the Little Rock problem will be alleviated if not solved by the removal of all troops from Central High School, President Eisenhower realized that this seems to be "one of those falls" when he has been confronted with crisis after crisis.

Finding out loud for a vacation, he said he can recall no single day since the Egyptians seized the Suez Canal 15 months ago that a critical problem has not been laid on his desk.

NO VACATION
Asked whether this situation has been sapping his physical and mental strength, Ike replied that it is a bit wearing, but endurable if you have his faith in America.

Looking fit and full of vigor, the President reminded that he has usually managed a week's respite on the Augusta, Ga., golf links in November.

This year, he added, he is afraid he will have to forego that pleasure despite the fact that his Newport vacation was frequently interrupted by business trips to the White House and world-shaking decisions of state.

FACES LITTLE ROCK

Two of them are an all-important meeting early in December of bi-partisan congressional leaders from both houses, and a personal trip to the Paris NATO conference later that month.

Between times, he is faced with the continuing Little Rock integration crisis, the mounting cast of living, and the task of winning congressional support for relaxation of our security laws governing atomic information.

On the latter count, Ike told the Wednesday news conference that we are in the curious position of keeping secret from our friends (allies) information that is already known to our enemies.

Several members of the joint congressional atomic energy committee have already indicated that they will oppose any easing of the atomic McMahon Act because they do not trust Britain's security measures.

ANOTHER WILSON

For this reason, it will be vital for the President to do a big selling job with congressional leaders before going to the NATO meeting. Otherwise, he could find himself in the position of President Woodrow Wilson after the League of Nations, when a recalcitrant Senate blocked our entry into the League that he himself had master-minded. The resultant heartbreak ruined Wilson's health and his further usefulness as President.

WITNESS ADMITS PART IN KLAN ATTACK

William Rogers Praised As Able Successor To Atty.-Gen. Brownell

Man Was Beaten And Slashed In Ku Klux Klan Hut

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — (INS) — A witness testified Tuesday that he participated in the abduction of a Birmingham man who was sexually molested by Ku Klux Klansmen as an "example" to integration-minded Negroes.

John N. Griffin said he drove the car when Judge Aaron, 34-year-old handy-man was picked up at random from a Birmingham street and beaten and slashed in a lonely Ku Klux Klan hut. Griffin said he stood guard outside.

LOCAL CROWD

The surprise witness for the state said the attack on Aaron was a "detail" to test B. A. Floyd for promotion. He said Joe P. Pritchett, identified as Exalted Cyclops of the local Klan group, directed the seizure after his men were unable to find a white man whom Pritchett first sought because he had been "giving him trouble."

Griffin identified other participants in the assault as Floyd, William J. Miller, Grover McCullough and Jesse Mabry, a former editor of a White Citizens Council publication, was fined in 1956 for disorderly conduct for participating in the Birmingham Auditorium attack on singer Nat "King" Cole. Aaron Tuesday identified Pritchett as the leader of his attackers. He pointed to the defendant and said: "That's the man—that's him."

LONELY SHACK

Aaron told the jury how six white men, wearing Ku Klux Klan robes and masks, butchered him in a lonely shack, then tossed him out of a car so he would not bleed to death at the "Klan lair," a meeting place.

Dramatically, after women were excused from the courtroom, Aaron stood before the 12-man all-white jury, lowered his trousers and displayed the scars of the assault. The handy-man said his assailants.

Ike Expresses Regret To Justice Department Chief

By LOUIS LAUTIER

WASHINGTON, D. C. — (NNPA) — Federal law enforcement will continue to be in good hands when Deputy Attorney General William P. Rogers moves up to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Attorney General Herbert Brownell, Jr.

Mr. Brownell resigned Wednesday and President Eisenhower chose Mr. Rogers, No. 2 man in the Justice Department, to succeed him.

The White House, in announcing the change, said it will take place in about two weeks.

The exchange of letters between the President and Mr. Brownell disclosed that the Attorney General had discussed with Mr. Eisenhower his desire to return to private law practice in August.

But before plans were completed for turning over his duties to his successor, Mr. Brownell stated in his letter to the President, "the Little Rock matter intervened, requiring urgent legal action in the Federal courts."

"Since the Federal Government's legal position in this case has now been clearly defined, it seems an appropriate time for me to fulfill my desire to resume private practice as counsel to the firm in New York City from which I resigned."

GRATIFIED BY CHOICE

In his letter to the President, Mr. Brownell said the choice of Mr. Rogers as his successor gave him "great personal satisfaction. He and I have

Hampton President Says Work Of Ga. Group Hurts Democracy

HAMPTON, Va. — The president of Hampton Institute here has flatly denied all of the charges reportedly made by the Georgia Commission on Education that he associated with an alleged communist group during the past Labor Day weekend.

President Alonzo G. Moron, in a letter to Gov. Marvin Griffin Monday answering a "cowardly attempt at character assassination," said he hoped the Georgia governor would be encouraged "to reflect on the considerable harm you and your Commission are doing to the basic tenets of our democracy to the prestige of the United States of America and to the tranquility of order with out which he cannot hope to fulfill the destiny of our nation or of its people."

BASED ON ARTICLE

Dr. Moron's criticism of the Commission was based on an article which appeared in the Newport News (Va.) Times Herald on Oct. 24, under the headline: "Georgia Probers Report Dr. Moron at a Meeting Held in 'Red' School, Hampton Institute President Panelist at Montevalle, Tenn."

He said the information in the news story was supplied by T. V. Williams, Jr., executive secretary of the Georgia Commission on Education. Immediately following the meeting at Montevalle, it was disclosed that the Commission had a special investigator there who reportedly brought back the charges of communism.

Attached to Dr. Moron's letter was a statement he made to his student body on October 27, four days after the Times Herald printed its story. He requested Gov. Griffin make his letter and statement a part of the Oct. 4, meeting of the commission and use them in any printed material in which his name is used. Moron also declared he was prepared to meet with the Commission.

The letter concluded: "An elementary sense of fairness and common decency would encourage you to receive and act favorably upon."

DOUGLASS HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

BY GERALDINE BELL

Editor's Note: Geraldine Bell, is guest columnist for today.

TALENT SHOW

The 8-1 class under the direction of Mrs. Brisco presented a talent show, Oct. 28, in the school auditorium. The feature attraction was Miss Doris Thomas (Miss Douglas) who sang "Standing in the Doorway Crying" and Miss Virginia Owens who sang "You Send Me" and "Summertime". Other participants were Susan Neal, Parrish Twins and Janna Fay Anderson.

STAR DOUGLASSITES

Today we have two star Douglassites. The first one is Geraldine Bell. This is a surprise to her, because she would not have given me the consent. Miss Bell is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stafford Bell of 1468 Sydney. She is a member of the St. James A.M.E. Church, and is secretary of the Junior Church, president of Junior Chpjr, president of Junior Missionary, the vice president of the local chapter of The Richard Allen Youth Council.

Around School, Geraldine is one of the most outstanding students. This can easily be understood because she was recently selected "Most Popular Girl" of the senior class. Gerry is Editor of the Maroonette (school paper), columnist of the Memphis World, literary editor of the annual state treasurer of the N. H. A. state president of the Tennessee Confederation of Girl's Clubs, a member of the D. O. D. Glee Club, Jr. Red Cross, Secretary of Student Aid of Student Council and Y-Teens.

Our star is also one of the brainy students. She made the honor roll the first six weeks and was selected Miss English.

When asked about steady dating, Miss Bell said "It is all right as long as it is not taken to the extreme."

After graduation, Miss Hayes plans to attend Howard University in Washington where she will major in political science.

Our second star Douglassite for this week is Theresa Hayes. Theresa is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hayes of 3039 Mt. Olive. She is an active member of the St. Paul Baptist Church, where she is a member of the Jr. Choir and YWCA (Young Women's Auxiliary).

At School Miss Hayes is a member of the D. O. D. Y. Teens and member of the Senior Class. She was recently chosen most loquacious of the senior class.

After graduation our star Douglassite plans to attend Los Angeles Jr. College and later transfer to Y. C. L. A.

Her reply to the question of steady dating was "positively no, because I feel that's a too greater step for teenagers."

LeMoyné To Present Memphis Sinfonietta Saturday, November 2

LeMoyné College will present the Memphis Sinfonietta in concert as the first event of its cultural series on Saturday, November 2 at 8:30 p. m. in Bruce Hall.

The concert by the "Little Symphony," under the direction of Vincent de Frank will provide an opportunity for Memphians to hear fine orchestral music played by professional musicians of this area.

Since 1952, when the Young Artists' Bureau realized there was an interest in orchestral concerts through out the mid-south area, and organized a group of local musicians with Vincent de Frank as conductor, the group has been playing to symphony lovers of Memphis and, at the same time providing the city with an important cultural asset.

During its few years of existence the Sinfonietta although small has maintained a high standard of performance, as attested by visiting soloists and guests alike.

Last year, to encourage instrumental music in schools and to furnish a kind of opportunity never before had by Memphis young people, the Sinfonietta played a series of concerts in the city schools.

In its concert at LeMoyné, on November 2, Miss Majorie Fulton, violinist, will be the guest soloist.

The other attractions of the cultural series are the presentation of "Romeo and Juliet" by Players Incorporated on February 1, and a concert on April 2, by William Warfield, famed baritone of international acclaim and star of "Show Boat."

Tickets for all performances are on sale at the college business office and Goldsmith's Central Ticket Office.

A series ticket for the three above performances—Memphis Sinfonietta, November 2; "Romeo and Juliet," February 1, and William Warfield, April 2.

BEOUWOLF (MELROSE) AND GRENDL (BTW) TO COLLIDE TONIGHT AT HEOROT (MELROSE STADIUM)

The powerful Melrose Golden Wildcats take on the BTW Warriors tonight at the huge Melrose Stadium. Both of these prep league leaders are undefeated and untied, and both have very good teams. The warriors who have been plagued seven years by "bad luck" will attempt to become city-wide champs tonight.

Where on the other hand, Melrose have always disappointed the eager warriors and sent them home defeated and disgusted seven straight years. VIVIAN WEAVER CAPTIVATES MEMPHIS AUDIENCE

Memphis Fine Arts Club Presents Harpist... The legend of good company, good viands and good entertainment, was applied Sunday evening when presented, the popular Vivian Weaver, harpist. She captivated her audience, for the second time, in the auditorium of the C. Arthur Bruce Hall where the recital was held.

All the traditional glitter and excitement of a "First Night" in a theatre filled the auditorium with the added thrill of a famed tenor, Charles Tomlin who came to Memphis from Cleveland with Miss Weaver... doing several numbers with the petite artist accompaniment.

Glamorous touches were added by powerful lights that showed off Miss Weaver's exquisite gowns... one a white beaded sheath short frock... and the other a ball gown that keeps the eyes right on her.

Mr. Tomlin gave an eloquent performance as Miss Weaver's musical partner... Overwhelming applause followed Clair de Lune and Ave Marie.

Miss Weaver, a graduate from Howard University, received a masters degree and since that time has taught in the public schools of Cleveland... The artist, who appeared here several years ago, will do a concert in New York City with the June Taylor Dancers, next week-end.

Both Miss Weaver and Mr. Tomlin were the house guests of Dr. and Mrs. N. M. Watson at their Walker Avenue home, LeMuel.

Dr. and Mrs. Leland Atkins, long time friends to Miss Weaver, were gracious as host and hostess to the artist during their spare time in Memphis at their lovely Arkansas Street home.

Rabb Urges Minority Youth To Use Every Opportunity

RALEIGH, N. C. — Honorable Maxwell M. Rabb, secretary to President Eisenhower's cabinet, told Shaw University students Monday, October 21, that "This is a time of breathtaking advantages. We are surging ahead in America."

The President, he claimed, is doing everything in his power to rectify man's inhumanity to man. He termed this nation as one with a moral conscience, a blessed land of rich resources with freedom of human spirit.

"With one hundred sixty million heterogeneous individuals, we have made this a unified country," Rabb declared. "As you enter the main stream of our economy of advancing technology, you should have a picture of what it looks like. Today we should think in terms of electrical, civil engineers, business executives, operators and sales clerks. Ten million workers are needed to staff our schools, hospitals and armed forces and we are failing to train skilled workers in the United States. For example in 1951 there were eight and one-half million skilled craftsmen and in 1956 the same number with a four million increase of plants. He warned that the communistic threat is increasing as well as our standards of living.

NEED QUALIFIED PERSONS
The speaker pointed out the importance of having leaders of tomorrow who will have the breadth to give them understanding of the machines which they must operate. Opportunities exist in these areas but there are barriers set up in relation to the Negro. He mentioned that one of the major problems of the committee on governmental contracts is getting qualified individuals for these job opportunities. He stressed youth to train for jobs for which they have aptitudes and inclinations. We cannot train for 1957 jobs, he said, with 1951 cliches.

The speaker claimed that many jobs are open to Negroes which cannot be filled because of the lack of training. The cause for this he attributed to the secondary school system, relationship at home (past experiences of parents have discouraged children in preparing themselves for new areas). He placed the re-

Labor Leader Gets Hoey Award From Catholic Council

NEW YORK — George Meany, AFL-CIO president, declared Sunday that the American labor movement believes that interracial justice "can be achieved in our time," as he accepted the James J. Hoey Award for Interracial Justice, presented by the Catholic Interracial Council.

William Collins, AFL-CIO regional director in New York, accepted the award in the name of Mr. Meany and read Mr. Meany's remarks. The ceremony was in the auditorium of the Cathedral High School, 51 Street and Madison Avenue, New York City.

"The need of the day is a concerted drive for civil responsibility, in which every segment of our government, our voluntary institutions and individual citizens must share. For it is civil responsibility that is the key to the realization of human justice in a free society," Mr. Meany said.

"Governments cannot grant human rights; they must guarantee them," Mr. Meany asserted. "These rights are natural rights. They are not man-made; they are God-given."

AID TO YOUNG NATIONS URGED

In Chicago, Ill., Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell urged the American industrial community to help young nations abroad establish their selves along democratic lines.

"If we do not now shoulder our responsibility to lift economic conditions and encourage free enterprise throughout the world, we may lose the opportunity forever," Mr. Mitchell said.

Addressing the Conference on Freedom and Responsibility in the Industrial Community, at Northwestern University, Secretary Mitchell declared:

"Where we invest our money, we must also invest our good will and share our knowledge. We must apply the resources of private capital toward the assistance of the countries in which we invest. We will share our techniques with them; we will help them to train their people to new skills; we will help them to establish industry and a sound economy."

have that however great their faults, they are welcome to this table if they come with true repentance and with a desire for holiness." No human being, partaking of this ceremony in this reverent spirit, can fail to gain a new inspiration for a higher life and to leave with a stronger determination to make religious ideals actualities in life.

SELF-EXAMINATION

The individual's participation should be conducive to an honest self-examination, an appraisal of life, its responsibilities, and how well they are being met. Thoughts of gratitude and thankfulness for the never-fading love and all-embracing mercy of God should kindle an effective desire to become more worthy. Remembering the great gift to mankind, one should seek opportunities of service, whereby appreciation would take tangible form of expression. Reflection upon the perfect life commemorated and the high ideals of conduct it exemplified, one should realize defects and imperfections, resolving to improve them, in the hope of more nearly approaching the divine standard of living.

A quiet and reverent administration of the Lord's Supper is necessary for the participant to experience these spiritual benefits. Unless the heart is completely cold and callous remembering the sacrifice of Christ will strengthen one's faith, quicken one's gratitude and move one to good works.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE SPIRIT OF CHRISTIAN WORSHIP

International Sunday School Lesson for November 3rd, 1957. MEMORY SELECTION: "But let a man examine himself, and so let him eat of that bread, and drink of that cup." -- I Corinthians 11:28. LESSON TEXT: I Corinthians 11: 20-34.

Continuing our study of Paul's letter to the young church at Corinth, we find that certain pagan customs, which had been practiced before they accepted Christ, had crept into their formal worship services. It seems that the church had a "church meal" before their observance of the Lord's Supper. This was all right in itself, but the common meal was made such some even became drunk, and it was not possible to observe the Lord's Supper with any semblance of meaning and worship.

In order to instruct the Corinthian Christians about the proper observance of the Supper, Paul tells them of the revelation he received from the Lord as to its institution and meaning.

On the night of his betrayal, Jesus instituted a memorial, which Christians from that day on have observed. Bread was used to symbolize his body, and the cup was used to symbolize his blood. Both the bread and the wine represent Christ's self-giving on the Cross, his sufferings for the salvation of the world. Therefore, the elements used in the Supper declare the sacred truths related to the atonement for sin. We are saved by partaking through faith of the benefits of Christ's sacrifice.

The observance of the Lord's Supper or Holy Communion as it is called in some churches, is the most sacred ritual of the church. It is a universal reminder of the Savior. "Wherever bread is eaten," said Rev. J. G. Greenbough, "and wherever men may take some simple drink to allay their thirst, and that is much the same as to say, wherever human beings live, there the materials for this highest religious service are found, and there the memory is helped to recall and realize once more the divine sufferings which were endured for human sin, and the pitiful dying love which brought the world salvation."

Another thought is suggested by the same author; "Besides this, there must have been another thought in the Savior's mind to show us that the humblest scenes and the commonest extractions of life may be made holy, may be made even sublime. When he gave thanks for that bread and consecrated it by an act of blessing, and made it a memorial of something infinitely lovely he meant it to be a type or model of the Christian life throughout. He meant that all things may be done in some measure after this pattern, that the lowest things may be touched with the same glory."

GREAT DIFFERENCE

There have been, and are, great differences of opinion about this ordinance, churches differing in their viewpoints. The significance of such controversies, says Dr. Lynn H. Hough, "lay in the difference between religion as magic and religion as an ethical experience. If you view the sacrament as the bearer of miraculous grace through physical means, the whole conception of religion is inevitably lowered. If you view the Lord's Supper as a spiritual opportunity of meeting a living Lord in ethical relationships, the most sacred sanctions of religion are conserved. We should not think more of the sacrament than of the Lord of the sacrament, and it is most important that the sacrament be viewed as the instrument of ethical relationship and not as the substitute for it."

The Lord's Supper as a means of grace to all sincere Christians, honestly repentant of their misdeeds and consciously desirous of living better in the future, more in keeping with the ideals and teachings of Jesus. One does not have to be perfect to approach the sacred table. "Many persons fear that their conscious unworthiness makes them unfit to approach it," says Prof. Charles R. Erdman, "All should be-

IKE MEETS WITH COMMANDER ON CRISIS IN MIDDLE EAST

President Still Considering Trip To NATO Meeting

BY JAMES LEE
WASHINGTON — (INS) — President Eisenhower conferred on the Middle East crisis Monday with Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme Allied Commander in Europe, who declared the Western Allies would "respond forcefully and effectively" if Russia attacked Turkey.

The U. S. Air Force General who as Chief of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's Military Forces holds a job Mr. Eisenhower once held told newsmen there is "no question" but that NATO would move swiftly to Turkey's defense.

STILL UNANNOUNCED
The Chief Executive talked with the general for 45 minutes. Their discussion presumably included Mr. Eisenhower's still unannounced, but increasingly obvious intention to attend the NATO Council meeting in Paris in December.

Norstad said he thought it would be "a very good idea" for the President and the heads of Government of the other NATO nations to participate in the December meeting.

15-NATION SUMMIT
The 15-nation "summit" parley is an outgrowth of Mr. Eisenhower's talks last week with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. Official announcement is expected as soon as the necessary formalities are completed.

Norstad flew to Washington from Paris to address the Association of the United States Army. The White House said his conference with Mr. Eisenhower was arranged when the President learned of the NATO commander's presence in the capital.

The general told the association that NATO's powerful retaliatory forces make it "extremely difficult if not impossible for anyone to decide to start a third world war."

Norstad declared that any nation starting such a conflict would face destruction. He said this will be true for at least five years, and perhaps a decade, if NATO maintains its atomic capabilities.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army Chief of Staff, predicted in an address to the association that Russia will follow up its missile and satellite successes with "aggressive courses of action."

Taylor, as examples of what he called "Sputnik diplomacy," cited Russia's threats against Turkey, Khrushchev's charges the U. S. was plotting with the Turks to make war on Syria, and Soviet protests to Iran and Norway with respect to American bases in those countries.

Norstad said after his conversation with the President that the Western alliance is militarily stronger and better able to strike back at an aggressor than it has been at any time since World War II.

The general said, however, that NATO, sea and air forces still need "beefing up." A sharp increase in the atomic strength of Norstad's command is one of the prime objectives of the December meeting.

Norstad, repeating the blunt warning to Russia previously voiced by the President and Macmillan and other free world spokesmen, pointed out that the NATO pact binds the 15 member nations to go to the defense of any fellow member who is a victim of aggression.

Children Of Little Rock Encouraged By Robinson

NEW YORK — Seven of the nine Negro children of Little Rock, Ark., who braved the threats of a mob in their attempts to enter Little Rock's Central High School under federal court order received some encouraging words from Jackie Robinson last week.

The former baseball player and present national chairman of the NAACP's fund-raising campaign spoke to the seven children from this city by long distance telephone. Two children were ill and unable to participate in the conference call.

Speaking individually to the Little Rock children, Mr. Robinson praised their high courage in the face of the mob and told them of his sympathy with the hardships and fright they underwent before federal troops moved in to restore order in the mob-ridden town.

The conversation took place on Oct. 17. The children spoke from the home of Mrs. L. C. Bates, president of the Arkansas State NAACP. Two of the mothers also spoke to Mr. Robinson, who praised their refusal to give in to fears of what might happen to their children if they made the attempt to go to school.

South Seen Running Out Of Law-Evading Devices

NEW YORK — The refusal of the Supreme Court to review a lower federal court order requiring desegregation of the public schools in Norfolk and Newport News, Va., is seen by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People as an indication that the South is running out of so-called legal devices to circumvent the high court's anti-segregation ruling of May 17, 1954.

"Virginia's 'massive resistance' to school desegregation is apparently doomed," Dr. Channing H. Tobias, chairman of the NAACP Board of Directors, commented today. "The state's leadership of the southern revolt against integration does not appear to be gaining any constitutional sanction. Present indications are that Virginia is running out of devices to circumvent the law of the land."

The action of the Supreme Court on Oct. 21, in effect, left standing a decision by U. S. District Court Judge Walter E. Hoffman that the two cities had to begin integration of the schools despite the state's pupil placement act which he declared "unconstitutional on its face." Under this act, the power to assign pupils to particular schools is in the hands of a Pupil Placement Board appointed by the Governor. Another Virginia statute authorizes the Governor to close any public school which integrates.

In addition to Norfolk and Newport News, two other Virginia cities, Charlottesville and Arlington, are under court orders to desegregate their schools.

Montgomery Bus Boycott Praised By Chester Bowles

HARTFORD, Conn. — (ANP) — In the opinion of former U. S. Ambassador Chester Bowles, the recent Montgomery Bus Boycott by Negroes was a project that was beautiful in its execution.

The former envoy to India praised the effort, directed by the youthful Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., Montgomery minister, and compared it with the non-violent protest methods of the late Mohandas K. Gandhi, in a speech Thursday before the Hartford branch of the NAACP. The meeting was called to spark a membership drive. Bowles urged American Negroes to continue to use the non-violent technique. Referring to the Montgomery boycott, he said: "Here was at once its beauty and its strength."

HOW TO LIVE HAPPILY EVER AFTER

There are books on the subject: lectures been given, Rules laid down and all such. But the best way to live happily ever after is not to be wanting too much.

Dear Eleanor, I am a young lady twenty-two years of age and single. I have a great problem. I live with my parents, four brothers and one older sister who is expecting. Therefore my parents are very strict with me.

I have been going with a young man who is really a man although he does have one bad habit. In spite of his family background, I believe that he would make someone a very nice husband if given a chance.

My father and mother cannot see this; and my father has forbidden me to go out with him again.

I work seven days a week and help all I can at home financially and I do not ask my parents for anything but understanding. I know that I could disobey them and go on seeing him. But I always try to obey them.

I am wondering just how much longer will I have to sacrifice my happiness just to obey my parents. I don't want to be bad—I just want happiness.

I cannot talk to them and make them understand. Eleanor, please advise me.

So unhappy
ANSWER: With a bad family background, plus another bad habit (drinking no doubt), I can readily understand your parents' protests. Love is blind but I see no reason why it should insist upon being deaf and dumb. If youth could only listen, so many pitfalls could be avoided. I know what it means to live in a small town where there are limited social possibilities. You want romance and love and there's nobody much around worth loving. So often that is the case. Ambitious people don't let situations and little towns circumscribe their lives. They seek cities that offer greater opportunities socially and otherwise. Each individual in the world owes it to himself to measure up to his best in every conceivable manner.

If you have relatives or friends of your family in some larger city, why not plan (with your parents consent) to visit during the holidays. Perhaps you can later arrange to live with one of your relatives elsewhere and find new happiness. As long as you live with your parents, you owe to them respect and regard for their wishes. Otherwise, there will always be friction and unhappiness.

I have enjoyed writing Pen Pals now for about six years. I will answer all mail. Please publish my name in your column as a Pen Pal. I wish to hear from young men and young ladies 20 to 30 years of age. Miss Nellie Riley, 2010 Wolfe St., Brunswick, Ga.

ANSWER: All who are interested in the correspondence write the young lady at the address above.

Wall-Paneling Pick-Up Bedroom
If your bedroom could use a visual "pick-up," why not try redecorating it with wall paneling applied so as to produce unusual patterned effects?

A smart and novel appearance of bold vertical stripes, 16 inches wide, can be created by alternating two colors of prefinished hardwood planks, for example. This fresh design approach can be used in other rooms, but the bedroom is especially suitable for such individual expression.

The broad-stripe motif can easily be carried out with pleasing results with a selection from 10 "combination colors," styled by Raymond Loewy Associates, which are available in Marlite planks.

Planned to provide a variety of harmonious combinations, the colors include dusty pink, light aqua, smoke, mist grey, sage green, foam green, parchment, sunlight yellow and polar white. They offer many choices for intermixing two tones of one color or pairs of different colors.

The predecorated colors of Marlite planks, sold at lumber yards, have character and yet art muted so that one can "live with them" for years. This long-life feature has hands in hand with the durability which a protective baked plastic finish gives the planks.

Highly resistant to soil and wear, the panels are kept by occasional damp-wiping, thus avoiding periodic redecorating. A soft-luster finish adds to the predecorated hardwood planks' suitability for bedrooms, as well as living rooms and dens.

With blocks of the same paneling, a checkerboard pattern of alternating colors can be laid out to accent one wall. Other variations can be devised with wood grain patterns, with one wall of blocks in basket-weave design and other walls in planks.

Beans, Dressing Changes Salad

Instead of serving hot green beans tonight for dinner why not make a slight bow to the warm weather and serve them chilled and tossed with a zippy jiffy dill dressing.

You may have a favorite type you prefer, but the canned tiny green beans are especially nice fixed this way. You'll want to get them in the refrigerator well in advance of mealtime because they are at their best when thoroughly chilled.

The jiffy dill dressing actually is jiffy. It's made with a vinegar, oil and evaporated milk base which you shake together with the seasonings in an ordinary pint jar with a cover. The result is creamy and smoothly blended. Either dill seeds or dill weed can be used for the herb flavor.

GREEN BEAN SALAD WITH JIFFY DILL DRESSING

- 1-4 cup salad oil
 - 1-2 teaspoon dill seeds or dill weed
 - 1-4 teaspoon salt
 - Few grains pepper
 - 1-4 teaspoon dry mustard or 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, if desired
 - 2 tablespoons cider vinegar
 - 1 can tiny whole green beans, chilled
- Put all ingredients except beans into a pint jar with a tight-fitting cover. Cover and shake vigorously until smooth and well blended. Chill thoroughly. When ready to serve, drain chilled beans thoroughly. Add dressing and toss beans lightly to coat. Serve on lettuce leaves. Garnish with pimiento, if desired. Makes 4 servings.

Magic Lemon Petal Tarts For Teen-Ager Treats

WITH THE OPENING OF SCHOOL even the resourceful mother is sometimes put to it to provide refreshments for the youngsters' treats and parties. Bite-size lemon meringue tarts with sweetened condensed milk filling are sure to win the approval of even the most critical teen-ager and from the mother's point of view, they are a real treat, too. The sweetened condensed milk filling needs no cooking and is always magically smooth and creamy.

To add eye appeal to the tarts, make the shells in your small-est muffin or cup cake pans like little cups of petals. Top with meringue or whipped cream.

MAGIC LEMON MERINGUE TARTS
1 package pastry mix
1/4 cups sweetened condensed milk
1/2 cup lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind or 1/2 teaspoon lemon extract
2 egg yolks

Stir sweetened condensed milk, lemon juice, lemon rind or lemon extract and egg yolks until mixture thickens. Pour filling into chilled baked tart shells. Top each with a fluff of meringue or whipped cream.

For petal shells, roll pastry out 1/8 inch thick. Cut pastry circle for bottom of each muffin or cup-cake pan and put in pans. For petals, cut circle pattern of stiff paper of pastry for each tart pan, plus 1/2 inch, and cut five rounds of pastry the right size. If you have a round cookie cutter approximately the right size, use it instead of the paper pattern. Place circles around sides of each muffin pan, overlapping for petal effect. To hold together, brush with unbeaten egg white where surfaces touch. Bake in hot oven (450°F.) 10 to 12 minutes. Cool and remove from pans.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

By MME. VA VIVE SKIN NEEDS SPECIAL CARE IN THE THIRTIES

It is a sad but inescapable fact that, no matter how beautiful a woman's skin may be in her twenties, unless she gives it special care signs of age will begin to appear, mostly in the form of dryness, by the time she's in her early thirties. It's hard for some young women to believe this. They glance in their mirrors, notice that their complexion is better than average and think they haven't a thing in the world about which to worry. Actually, this is the time when they should start — not to worry, because that never helped anyone — but to take precautions so that they'll not have to worry in the future.

Most skin authorities agree that the drying process in skin, because of gradual loss of natural moisture and oils, begins as early as 25 even though it may not show up in the form of flakiness, wrinkles or crow's feet until later. Others give a gal up to 30 without showing the evidences of time. But all agree that one should not wait until the dryness begins to show. Prevention, they contend, will prevent it. And prevention lies in the use of plenty of lubricants.

Nightly "creaming" with a rich emollient is a "must." And, if you are so unfortunate as to have neglected this precaution, remember that it's never too late. If you've reached middle age and are beginning to despair of a creepy neck, lines about the eyes and mouth and other evidences of excessive skin dryness, make a resolution to get busy NOW. Go out and purchase a good quality lubricating cream immediately and make it a point, every night from now on, to use it immediately after your cleansing. Massage it well over your throat, up along the jaw line and then over the rest of the face. Do your massaging gently. Heavy rubbing will only contribute to sagging muscles. When the cream has practically disappeared into your parched skin, leave it there for at least a half an hour; then, again gently, tissue any excess away, and leave the balance on for the night.

Originally discovered by dermatologists as a treatment for severe skin irritations, polyunsaturates proved to have an amazing instant healing action on the hands through its properties of moisturizing the skin and speeding up the rebuilding of new tissue.

"Small Miracle" For Chapped Hands

A kind of "small miracle" has recently occurred that makes a woman feel as if Modern Science is striving just for her. For Coty, Inc. has come out with a product that says goodbye to the era of aging, detergent-dry hands for the housewife, and of red, raw, chapped hands for the whole family. Called Polysil, it is the first hand lotion to contain the much talked-of medical ingredient, polyunsaturates.

Originally discovered by dermatologists as a treatment for severe skin irritations, polyunsaturates proved to have an amazing instant healing action on the hands through its properties of moisturizing the skin and speeding up the rebuilding of new tissue.

Taking the new medical findings from there, the scientists in Coty's cosmetic laboratories devised a way to compound the magical new polyunsaturates into a hand lotion for everyday use — not only among the glamour aids on the dressing table, but right there on the shelf above the kitchen sink, to be a constant shield and defender against the harmful skin effects of harsh detergents by supplying deep-penetrating moisture and replenishing essential elements which detergent soap powders rob from the skin. Housework's bangs and scratches need hold no beauty hazards, either, for Polysil not only protects and heals the hands after irritation and exposure, but its healing action begins the moment it is spread on the skin, keeping the natural skin moisture "in balance" and forming an invisible protective and water-repellent film over the entire surface. Polysil, unlike the average hand lotion, almost instantly vanishes into the skin, leaving no sticky or greasy residue on the surface. It has a pleasing and unobtrusive fragrance — far different from unpleasant "medicinal" odors.

Esso Increases College Fund Gift From $25,000 To $50,000

The Esso Education Foundation has made a grant of $50,000 to the United Negro College Fund for distribution to its 31 member institutions. It was announced this week by Dr. F. D. Patterson, College Fund president.

"The grant represents a 100 per cent increase over the Esso Foundation's 1956 contribution of $25,000," Dr. Patterson said. "Esso has been a supporter of the College Fund since it was organized in 1944."

The $50,000 grant to the United Negro College Fund was one of 345 financial grants totaling $1,332,760 made to institutions of higher learning by the Esso Education Foundation for the academic year 1957-1958. This brings the total grants made by the Foundation in its three-year existence to more than $3,000,000.

The Foundation was established in 1955 by Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) and a group of domestic affiliates to assist privately supported colleges and universities in the United States. Contributors to the Foundation, in addition to the Jersey company, are: Esso Standard Oil Company, Esso Research and Engineering Company, Esso Export Corporation, Interstate Oil Pipe Line Company and The Carter Oil Company.

The grants represent an increase of 48 over the 297 made to educational institutions last year.

HOW OLD ARE THE GOSPELS?

By Rev. Edmond D. Benard, Ph.D., Catholic University of America

When we open the New Testament, we are more certain that we hold in our hands the history of Christ as it was originally written — than we are in the case of any other figure in ancient history.

OUR MAIN historical sources for the life of Christ are the four Gospels. They are by no means the only sources, but they are the principal ones. And here is what the historian has to work with when he inquires into the life of Christ.

There are more than 2,600 Greek manuscripts of the Gospels. Over forty of them are more than a thousand years old. We have complete manuscripts of the Gospels going back to about the year 350 A.D.

THE OLDEST Gospel text in scholars' possession is a papyrus fragment from St. John's Gospel (Chapter 18, verses 31-33 and 37-38). Written in Greek, it was found in the early part of this century in middle Egypt. The experts on ancient writings say that the text was written about 150 A.D.

And in 1956, 108 pages of a well preserved Greek manuscript were found in Egypt containing fourteen of the twenty-one chapters of the Book of John. Experts estimate that this portion of manuscript could date as early as the middle of the second century.

WE HAVE fifteen different translations of the Gospels into ancient languages—translations made from manuscripts in the original Greek even older than the Greek manuscripts that have survived. The Gospels were translated into Syriac and Latin, for instance, around the year 150 A.D.; and into Egyptian only fifty years later.

And if all the manuscripts and translations of the Gospels had been lost, we could still reconstruct the Gospels simply out of the thousands of quotations in the works of the early Christian writers.

A GERMAN scholar was able to reconstruct the New Testament from the Gospel texts contained in the writings of Tertullian (born 160 A.D.). And there are more than 29,000 texts from the New Testament in the works of St. Augustine (born 354 A.D.).

The Gospel record has constantly been checked against, and constantly confirmed by, archeological discoveries. It has been carefully compared with the other records we have of the general history of the times, and found to be in complete accord with it.

AS A RESULT of this overpowering mass of material, worked over by scholars for centuries, we can be sure that our documents on the life and teachings of Christ carry us back to those years of the first century—shortly after the death of Christ—when His life was first written.

THAT 'STRANGE SMELL,' AS YOU CALL IT, IS FRESH AIR!

All winter long you dreamed of taking it easy this summer... of having fun outdoors. Now that the bright, sunny days are here, are you making that dream come true? Are you being really practical about doing less housework? For on porch or terrace without chasing the insects that crawl wherever food is spread?

How To Hang Out An Unwelcome Sign For Those Uninvited Guests

Here's how to hang out that "not-welcome" sign, and spend less time on your housework! Give your porch or terrace a long lasting shine with Freewax, the same liquid self-polishing wax you use on all floors indoors. The pretty green can with the built in sput holds a bonus to make your summer days easier. It is the only liquid floor wax with a controlled insecticide that is death to all crawling insects. It puts an invisible stop-sign on door sills and steps. Yet, it is safe to use where children and pets like to crawl and play.

Suppose you're eating by sea or stream. Your picnic hamper, full of goodies, is a target for crawling insects while you sun and swim, also while you eat. Freewax the outside of your basket before you start. This will preserve its beauty while barring insects.

So, plan a picnic every week of this wonderful summer for family and friends. Let up on your housework. Take every short cut you can. Remember that people are more important than things, and the children will say, "Oh, Mom, this is the most wonderful summer we ever had!"

Prep League Title On Line Tonight At Melrose Stadium

Along The Sports Trail

BY SAM BROWN

The outcome of the game Friday night will have a direct bearing on the Prep League championship, with the Melrose Golden Wildcats boasting a 3-0 league record going against the rejuvenated Booker T. Washington Warriors, (4-0) in league play, the winners can take home the league title.

The game will be the final game of each team and the loyal supporters of both will be out in large numbers rooting for their favorites to win. The Warriors have turned back Father Bertrand, Douglass, and Father Bertrand. Although they dropped their first game of the season to Manassas, it does not figure in the record, having been ruled no contest, because of some intelligence players used by Manassas.

As the outcome of the game has been predicted along the Trail, it could likely develop into a contest that will be the highlight of the season. As we see it from our point of view, the Trail, it is anybody's game, and with both teams primed for a do-or-die finish, plenty of fireworks will be witnessed by the fans.

NURSERY BOWL

The Nursery Bowl Game sponsored annually by the Orange Mound Civic Club to raise funds for the support of the Orange Mound Day Nursery will be played Wednesday night November 13. The game was originally scheduled for Friday night November 15, but has been rescheduled for the 13th. The change was brought about to avoid conflict with the city-wide Christmas Parade scheduled for Friday night.

The participating teams will be announced in a few days, although the Melrose Golden Wildcats will likely be one of the teams. Robert Wright, popular sportsman, businessman, civic leader and prime mover of the annual game and his associates are working hard to make this year's game, the tenth in the history of the promotion, the biggest yet.

In addition to a game between worthy opponents, several attendance prizes will be given away. The proceeds from the game go to the Orange Mound Nursery which cares for the under school age children of the Nursery. For many years the Nursery has made a great contribution to the welfare of the citizens in the Orange Mound Community. It is deserving of the support of all the citizens of Memphis.

THE ALL-MEMPHIS TEAM

Nominations are being sent our way for selections for the All-Memphis Prep League Team. Because of the large number of outstanding players in the league this year, who have been great at their respective positions, the judges will have a tough time in making their selections.

Announcement of the All-Memphis Team will be made shortly after the end of the league season. Names from all the team have been submitted with other suggestions coming in daily. The Memphis World will make its own All-Memphis selection based on the observation of the World's sports department.

BROOKS NAMED L. A. DODGERS

LOS ANGELES—(INS)—The Brooklyn Dodgers were officially rechristened the Los Angeles Dodgers Tuesday in an atmosphere reminiscent of world series excitement.

Casey Stengel a friendly enemy did the honors.

The occasion was a civic luncheon attended by some 1,100 persons, including top Dodger Brass, officials of the city of Los Angeles, a handful of baseball "greats" and a number of ordinary fans.

Stengel who makes his home at neighboring Glendale when he's not engineering the New York Yankees in a pennant drive, acted as official name-changer and said:

"This is your new home—and we welcome you not only to Los Angeles and for Los Angeles, but for my City of Glendale and all the other cities and towns in Southern California.

"The Dodgers' coming here is a tremendous thing not only for Los Angeles and Glendale, but for a hundred other communities and all the citizens."

In approximately lyrical tones, the grizzled Stengel concluded: "Everybody will be happier and a little more prosperous because of this wonderful move of this fine baseball club to my native city."

Then there was the parade of introductions of celebrities by comedian Joe E. Brown, an old ball player himself who was named "Lord Mayor of baseball for Los Angeles" by Mayor Norris Poulson.

Ball players present included Duke Snider, a native Southern Californian, Pee Wee Reese, Roy Campanella and Gil Hodges.

Campanella and Hodges were among Dodger players who took a dim view of the move from Brooklyn, but Hodges sheepishly told the crowd:

The way you people are treating us, "I'm afraid I'll have to learn to like this idea of playing in Los Angeles."

Campanella, the practical business man-catcher, said: "I'm house-hunting right now, and if any of you people have any suggestions I'm open to them."

Dodger President Walter O'Malley appeared almost overcome with emotion when he was called on and said:

"God love you—I don't know what to say. This welcome is so tremendous, it is overwhelming. I can't find the words to tell you how grateful all of us are. We had hopes you should like us, but no man could ever expect this."

Fred Hasey, a Hollywood resident who next season will be sending his world champion Milwaukee Braves against the Los Angeles Dodgers, declared:

"The fans in Brooklyn have grown blasé about baseball. I know what enthusiasm did for the Braves when they moved to Milwaukee. Now I know I must cope with the same kind of tremendous support from the fans here in Los Angeles, which will undoubtedly give Alton's club new impetus."

In reply, Dodger manager Walt Alton said:

"I hope you are right, Fred. I know enthusiasm helps a lot in baseball and believe me what I've seen so far here in L. A. I like."

Melrose And BTW Collide; Warriors Need Only A Tie

BY MELVIN GREER

There'll be plenty of tension on the old gridiron tonight (Friday) when old rivals Melrose and Booker T. Washington collide unbeaten at Melrose Stadium to decide which one of them will wear the Prep League crown for 1957.

Before going into details, however, here are the records for both squads and a record showing how they have fared against each other since 1951.

--- WASHINGTON ---
0..... Pine Bluff, Ark	0 (tie)
20..... Fr. Bertrand	7
7..... Douglass	6
18..... Hamilton	13
39..... Manassas	19
--- MELROSE ---
0..... Manassas	6
20..... Hamilton	0
21..... Fr. Bertrand	6
25..... Hot Spring, Ark.	13
26..... Douglass	7

--- RESULTS SINCE 1951 ---

1951--Washington 21, Melrose--13
1952--Washington 6, Melrose 6
1953--Melrose 33, Washington 0
1954--Melrose 68, Washington 0
1955--Melrose 9, Washington 0
1956--Melrose 33, Washington 6

The Warriors only need a tie for the prep championship. A deadlock with the Golden Wildcats would give them a league record of 4-0-1 with a percentage of 900. An impasse would drop the Melrose club into second place with a 3-0-1 league record and a percentage of 875.025 percentage points behind the Warriors. A loss would give the Warriors an 800 percentage and topple them into second place, slightly ahead of Manassas. A defeat for the Golden Wildcats would drop them into a second place deadlock with Manassas (should the Tigers win over Fr. Bertrand), and would give them a percentage of 750.

MELROSE TO BE SMOTHERED?

On the basis of improvement, it would seem to many observers that the Washington Warriors are going to smother the Melrose men tonight. The Washingtonians, who had to rally to squeeze past Douglass (7-6) and Hamilton (18-13), finally played like champions and downed an allegedly strong prep eleven in the Manassas Tigers, 39-9, a team which handed their opponents for tonight an unofficial 6-0 shutout earlier in the season.

In the game against Manassas, the Warriors' HB Jerry Harris came of age to rack up three long touchdowns. Also instrumental in BTW's offensive surges were QB Carroll Holman and fast-moving back Curtis Orr. Washington's defensive unit led by captain Walter Bailey, was no less effective against the Manassas gridders.

LAS TCHANCE

Warrior Head Coach Bill Fowler all out to win this game against the Golden Wildcats tonight. The Warriors will lose eighteen players to commencement this year, meaning that if Fewkes loses tonight, it would be dubious that he could field a championship club next year. The Warriors are fighting for their first league title in seven years. It would be a bit ironical if their philosophy and prestige if they were forced to stretch for seven-year jinx to eight years.

Joe Westbrook's Golden Wildcats probably can't bank on recent superiority over the Warriors in football for victory tonight. Even though they will be playing in their own back yard, the Melrose footballers might have to pay for that 68 to 0 walloping the '54 Melrose club inflicted on Booker T. Washington in the Warriors own stadium.

NOT AS IMPRESSIVE

Although Melrose has shown some improvement in its last few games, the Wildcats have yet to exhibit the power that the Warriors manifested in their outing with the Tigers. Backs James Westbrook, James Armour, Albert London, Albert Wilson and the rest of the backfield nucleus have proved that they have the ability, but don't appear to have the psychological determination of the rampaging Warriors. The Melrose line does not appear to be quite as strong as the Booker T. Washington forwards.

If Melrose should come out of its shroud, however and turn their terocity on their old hated rival Washington Warriors, it will make the Orange Mound school, more than ever, the winningest prep league team in a decade.

Kick-off is at 8 p. m.

Wisconsin's Sid Williams Asked For Scholarship Aid

MADISON, Wis.—(ANP)—Wisconsin's has the first regular tan quarterback in Big Ten football history. It came about because the athlete's parents, too poor to send their son to college, did not give up trying.

The young man is Sid Williams, a junior from Little Rock, Ark. His parents write the University of Wisconsin three years ago asking if a scholarship could be made available to Sid.

It was, and the Badgers are pleased that he came.

TOP RANKING STUDENT

Williams, studying chemical engineering, had won eight letters in high school in Little Rock. But his athletic achievement is but one facet of his attainment at Wisconsin. He is president of the student council, a member of a national council, a member of a national honor society and he maintains a 90 plus average in the tough engineering school.

As a freshman at Wisconsin, Williams played end. He was converted to quarterback in his sophomore season and eventually played more time -- 175 minutes -- than any one of the three other quarterbacks.

STANDOUT THIS YEAR

He was a standout in the last two games of the season against Illinois and Minnesota.

Here's the Badger coach Bill Bruhn appraising Williams:

"Sidney came to us like an unshined piece of granite. He has listened and he has learned. I think he has done one of the most remarkable jobs of any boy I have ever coached."

According to veteran observers in the Big Ten Williams is the first in a quarterback to attain regular status. Several years ago, Willie Throver was a reserve quarterback at Michigan State but saw little action.

Sid possesses an ideal build for a quarterback -- 6 feet, 2 inches in height and 192 pounds in weight.

1. Maryland State (3-0-1)

JACKSON COLLEGE MARKS FOUNDER'S DAY

A capacity crowd was on hand Wednesday morning, October 23, for the observance of Founder's Day at Jackson State College and heard the principal speaker, the Rev. T. B. Brown, Pastor of Mt. Bethel Baptist Church, Gulfport, Miss., urge them to "let your lives expand."

Relating some of the vast gains America has made in technology, agriculture, medicine and science, he told the audience that "It is fascinating to fathom what all of these can mean to our lives if they are viewed in the proper perspective and used rightly."

"The Rev. Brown, using as his theme: "Developing Social Balance," admonished his listeners to "Live more broadly, live more deeply let the balance of social life be disturbed." Continuing, he said: "We must move out, but we must also dig down." He called upon the audience, which included many Alumni, to find some truth to which they can tie their lives. He was introduced by a niece, Mrs. Hazel B. Kenny, also an Alumnus of the College.

Prior to the principal address, Student Council President Joe Jackson, had reminded the group that "Great things sometimes have humble beginnings" as he discussed the growth of the College as he spoke on the Occasion and brought greetings from the Student Body.

Another student, Nathaniel Owens, had characterized the late Dr. Hary Jones as "A truly civilized man" as he paid tribute to the noted Missionary to Africa. President J. L. Reddix also brought greeting and in the course of doing so paid tribute to Dr. B. B. Dansby who, due to illness, missed his first Founder's Day program at the College in 47 years.

Miss Doris Wilson presented courtesies to Mrs. J. L. Reddix and Mrs. T. B. Brown. Lee Williams, President of the National Alumni Association, presented a check to President Reddix for $1000 of which $150, contributed by the Coahoma-Jackson State Club, is earmarked for athletics. $286 for scholarship aid for two students and $664 for the Student Loan Fund. Others on the program were the Rev. A. L. Rice who gave the invocation and Mrs. Ethel Davis, Class of '56, who sang "Because." Music was furnished by the College Concert Band. Accompaniment for Mrs. Davis was by Mrs. Aurelia Young.

Additional Doses Of Polio Vaccine Issued In October

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Public Health Service announced this week that 1,014,997 cubic centimeters (doses) of poliovirus vaccine were released during the week ending October 25.

The service said that as of October 18 unshipped vaccine in the hands of manufacturers reached a total of 18,075,940 cc.

Additional amounts of vaccine are stocked by druggists, physicians, and health officers, the Service said. Keeping of an inventory on these supplies, however, was discontinued by the Service last week. These inventories had remained at about 10 million cc. for the past several weeks.

As of October 11, the date of the last complete inventory, the total amount of available vaccine was 27.0 million cc., including unshipped supplies in the hands of manufacturers.

The inventory was started last spring when demand for the vaccine exceeded supply. Now that manufacturers are able to fill all orders promptly, such information is no longer needed in planning vaccination programs, the Service said.

With the new lot released this week, a total of 89.7 million cc. of polio vaccine has been produced and released since January 1.

has any charity to give cannot rise to its place in the sun." He went on to explain that the Jaycees aided more than 4,000 children last Christmas.

He explained, "Negroes must accept the responsibilities of first class citizens. Until they are willing to do that then it is no use whining about being second class citizens."

He told the Jaycees that their charity project was "brotherly love" in action.

"Every woman and man in America would light one candle for kindness, what a wonderful world this would be. It is better to light one candle than to curse darkness," concluded Rawls.

O. O. Home, toastmaster, reasoned the Christmas project would serve a double need -- help the needy and attract new members to the organization.

He said that the first Christmas project of the Jaycees was held at the old Hippodrome where 1,100 children were served. He lauded the people who have made contributions over a period of time. He termed them "unsung heroes."

Louis Twigg, president of Union Protective Assurance Company, said, "Your organization has won the praises of everybody in Memphis for playing Santa Claus to little children, which is a great responsibility."

Sam Qualls, Jr., chairman of the project, lauded Radio Station WLCK and its manager, Eugene Weil, "for his contribution to our Christmas drive." Weil pledged his support this year while he spoke briefly.

The Jaycees raised more than $4,000 for the charity project last year.

The Chamber for the first time, will attempt to obtain new clothing for about 800 children said the chairman of the project. Names of needy children will be obtained from Shelby County Welfare department.

In the past, the Chamber has given "used" clothes and toys to children and clothes to adults but has discovered that "used clothing is not adequate."

Qualls said this year attempts will be made to obtain complete new outfits for needy children.

He said a victory celebration is being discussed for sometime in December after the drive is over.

The Truth Will Come Out

What came out in the wash of this integration wave and especially its crisis as relates to Little Rock, will be found much for remedial study as well as for diagnosis purposes of things often alleged and denied by the extremist State Righters.

One thing noticeable will be the quick afterthought denials of extravagant utterances and those gestures bordering on espionage, if not outright defiance.

One high sheriff in South Carolina was credited with having made some such statement relating to the purchase of nine sub-machine guns, allegedly intimidated, to be turned on federal troops if and when they were sent to his sector.

Currently there comes another denial from the governor of South Carolina relative to a speech he made in one of South Carolina's principal cities in which he was quoted as saying if integration troubles broke out in South Carolina he would see that the Ku Klux Klansmen got arms.

This of course is strong meat; too strong to be coming from the governor of a great state who took the oath to defend the Constitution of the United States. And we are glad to report that the governor denies this statement.

Possibly such a rash statement, or the having been given credit for it, was the occasion for the governor to reach another high in statements by going so far as to say he believes the Klan to be Communist-inspired.

At any rate in times like these it behooves all lovers of law and liberty, and especially those charged with the administration of the law, to never indulge in flippant statements and those ugly estimates reflecting discredit upon the agencies of the law.

A good criteria would be, to never make passion utterances, not sufficiently fortified with facts and that sanity which might cause one to regret having said them.

The Theodore Roosevelt Centennial

Beginning with his October 28th, birthday, there will follow one of the most epochal years in the life of this Republic, the 100th Anniversary of the birth of Theodore Roosevelt. This nation has always revered its men of note and their contributions; in measures that placed it in the forefront of those peace-loving nations that have made the world better by enhancing the properties of progress and peace.

The Roosevelt family, has made two distinct contributions in the last century in powerful leaders, each designed and timed for an era of transition affecting the whole world.

The pioneer Roosevelts were bankers and railroad developers; big Teddy came upon the scene as a political aristocrat.

Being a scion of wealth, he was trained at Harvard one of the leading universities in America and won his spurs for the "Rough Rider" ordeal in his young manhood on the Western cowboy ranges.

From Governor of New York, he was to go to the vice-presidency of the United States during the second and ill-fated term of President William McKinley, whom he succeeded after the President was mortally wounded on September 6th., 1901; a few months after his inauguration.

He was accordingly elected in his own right the ensuing election, with Charles Warren Fairbanks of Indiana, on the ticket for vice-president.

His contributions marked the beginning of an era of liberal administrators, an era of goodwill and the first important recognition of the Negro in high places in governmental service.

His was an administration of great importance; his personality is still one of the proud marks of this republic.

His centennial year will be a cavalcade of rich dramas of dynamic impulse, a wealth of utterances enlivening our annals of statesmanship and a re-living of those prosperous days when Democracy was in flower.

Wages And Prices

For many months, the government's cost-of-living index has been edging up, one primary reason being higher food costs. This trend has caused much concern, as it should. Inflation is the enemy of us all. At the same time, there are certain related factors which take some of the grimness out of the price picture.

The fact is that in many cases, the buying power of typical workers has outrun the price increases. Meat is a good example — it being something that practically everyone wants, buys and eats one or more each day. A recent factual compilation tells the story. As of last July, the typical worker could earn enough money to buy a pound of bacon with 24 minutes of work, as compared with 26 minutes in August, 1952, when bacon was 10 cents a pound cheaper. A pound of rib roast cost him 22 minutes of work as compared with 32 minutes in the earlier period. And leg of lamb at 73 cents a pound cost only 21 minutes, as compared with 31 minutes at the prior time. The situation is comparable in the case of other meat items as well.

What has happened is that wage boosts have commonly been larger than price boosts, hence the enhanced buying power. And the wage boosts, needless to say, have been responsible for many of the price boosts. That is true in the meat industry as in all other enterprise. But an excellent job has been done in holding price increases to the lowest percentages compatible with today's costs of doing business.

FOLLOWER CHRIST
If any man come after me let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily and follow me. (Luke 9:23)

Recently a Christian leader in Memphis said to me, "Thank God, I learned the difference between following Christ and following men! For five years after my adoption of Christianity, I did not have much satisfaction from my newly found religion because I was guided by some associates who, themselves, did not follow the Master."

This Memphis Christian's statement has served as a challenge to me. Am I guilty of committing either of the two sins which his confession presents. Is my life a stumbling block to some earnest seeker? Am I looking to some human being for my life's inspiration and direction instead of holding up the master himself as my example? Jesus said, for whoever would save his life will lose it; and whoever loses his life for my sake, he will save it. For what does it profit a man if he gains the whole world and loses or forfeits himself. For whoever is ashamed of me and of my words of him, will the son of man be ashamed when he comes in his glory and the glory of the Father and of the holy angels. But I tell you truly there are some standing here who will not taste of death before they see the kingdom of God."

O Lord, help me to look to Thee for guidance. In my human weakness, draw me nearer to Thee. Forgive me when I have tried to be a Christ-less Christian. In our great Redeemer's Take from us, O Master, the desire to condemn other folk. Give to us eyes to see the good in everyone we meet. Help us to learn more of the depth of the prayer Thou hast taught us: Our Father who art in heaven, Amen.

EXPLAINS INVITATION
Speaking at the evening Vesper Service on the Hampton campus Dr. Moron explained to the students and faculty that on Jan. 12, he was invited to participate in the 25th Anniversary Seminar of the Highlander Folk School at Monteagle, Tenn. The invitation was signed by Myles Horton, director of the school and Septima P. Clark, workshop director and graduate of Hampton Institute.

The Seminar was "designed to identify and analyze the major problems confronting the South today and to examine methods for dealing with these problems."

President Moron, a former resident of Atlanta, said he knew of "the good work the school had done to raise the standards of living of the white people of the Cumberland Mountains." He was also aware that Negroes had just recently been admitted to the school's workshops and seminars and that it "had become active in the area of Race Relations."

CLEVELAND, Ohio — (ANP) — In less than six years, the Prince Hall Masons have contributed well over $150,000 to the support and maintenance of the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund, according to a report from the Grand Masters Conference rendered at the end of Spring, 1957.

This sum, officials state, surpasses any other organizational contribution on record for the purpose of "disseminating information concerning Civil Rights so that violations of these rights may be better recognized and proper steps taken to correct them," according to the report to the Prince Hall Masons' Legal Research Department.

Continuing its report on the activities of the department's extensive coverage it states: "Up until recently our work has been directed almost exclusively to securing for Negro citizens rights long denied, although originally guaranteed in the 13th, 14th and 15th Amendments of our Constitution. This litigation created a new and distinct field of law — Civil Rights — which took its place along with older fields and specialized branches of Constitutional law."

NEARER EQUALITY GOAL
"Litigation of 'Jim Crow' practices has been, primarily the chief burden of the case load of the Legal Research Department and has nevertheless, brought the Negro nearer the goal of equality under the law."

Laws have been passed in Southern states seeking to regulate the NAACP, the Legal Defense Fund, and the Urban League out of existence. To offset this action the Prince Hall Masons for the past five and one-half years have given financial support to maintain the "powerful arm of resistance through litigation" by contributing to the NAACP Legal Defense Fund. This department has almost been an exclusive "ward" of the Masonic distribution.

Leading the list of states making the heaviest support is Georgia from whence almost $27,000 has come from Prince Hall Masons to maintain this Legal Defense work. In fact, since 1951 when it was established, only three states — Georgia, Louisiana, and Oklahoma — have a continuous record of unbroken contributions to the NAACP Legal Defense Fund from Prince Hall Masonic Lodges, according to the report. The $24,000 of Louisiana takes second place and these are the only states in the Union where the amounts have gone into the "five figure" class.

SUNDAY MASS MEET
Cleveland Prince Hall Masons will attempt to increase Ohio's total contribution by the sum of $2,500 comes Sunday, November 3, when they present Thurgood Marshall at the Liberty Hill Baptist Church at 3:30 p. m., in a "Fight For Freedom" mass meeting for the Fund.

An event that has aroused much interest among the legal profession, Civil Rights, Labor and other civic groups is the appearance of Mr. Marshall, who today was called by one news service, "the greatest constitutional lawyer in the nation today with a record of 21 wins out of 23 cases tried before the United States Supreme Court."

READY FOR COURT ACTION
"I read the Thursday story very carefully to see if the references to me were libelous, for I would consider any printed charge that I was a Communist as libelous, and I stand ready to call into court any person who makes such an accusation, with full faith and confidence that no such charge can be substantiated," he said.

He charged the "demagogue" of Georgia with attempting to infect Virginia "with the totalitarian poison that seems to be flowing into Arkansas, into Tennessee," and said beliefs in the democratic process, Christian religion, and the dignity of man "are inconsistent with the totalitarianism of Russia and Georgia and with the atavism of the Kremlin and the Georgia Commission on Education."

REVIEWED STATEMENTS
Dr. Moron reviewed some of his statements at the Monteagle meetings, one of which was "that the real objection to public school integration was based on the realization that if discrimination and segregation were abolished in the public schools, all other forms of discrimination and segregation would come to be seen as even more ridiculous and unnecessary than they are now."

Closing his addresses at Monteagle and to the Hampton students, Dr. Moron expressed hope that "this period of stress and strain through which we are passing would hasten the day when we would live in the way that Christ would have us live as Children of God, made in His own image and obedient to His will."

YOU CAN DIE LAUGHING

By A.A. FAIR (ERLE STANLEY GARDNER)

CHAPTER 28
I GOT in the agency car and drove to the Atlas Service Station. I had the car serviced and I told the fellow I was expecting a call on rather an important matter and wanted to stick around for a while. He told me to make myself at home and I cooled my heels for nearly an hour. Then the phone rang. It was Elsie Brand, my secretary. "Hello, Donald?" "Yes." "Corning's gone. About two minutes ago." "You don't know where?" "No. He came down in the elevator and crossed the lobby. He had the garage attendant bring his car to the door a minute or two before he showed up. He climbed in it and took off." "How did he act?" I asked. "Excited?" "Excited!" she said. "Boy! He fairly ran across the lobby of the hotel, made a flying leap for the car, and got out into traffic as though he was going to a fire." "Okay, Elsie. Thanks a lot." "What do I do now?" "Go back to the office," I said, "and try to keep Bertha from blowing a gasket. I'll be in there after a while. Tell Bertha to tell anyone who phones that I'll be in." "Is that wise, Donald?" she asked. "They're trying to serve papers on you." "I know," I told her. "They can serve them now." "All right by me," she said. "I know that you know what you're doing." I hung up the phone, got in the car and drove out to the Wells place. I parked the car right in front of the house, went up the steps and rang the bell. Wanda Warren came to the door. "Hi," she said. "Hi," I told her. "I'm selling brushes. Can I interest you?" "Sure," she said. "I need a good strong one to give characters the brush-off." "What sort of characters?" "Mrs. Raleigh, for one." "You've been talking with her?" "I'll say I've been talking with her. She's been trying to pump me. You know something?" "What?" "I think we're going to have visitors." "How come?" "I'd swear from the way that woman acted she has been paid to tip off somebody if I showed up here. Donald, do you suppose it's the police?" "Frightened?" I asked. "Not particularly," she said. "I don't mind publicity, but I want to avoid notoriety. When you come down to it, well—well, you know a newspaper could make quite a story of it: MAN HIRES REDHEADED MODEL TO POSE AS WIFE and all that sort of stuff." "Relax," I told her. "What do we do now?" "Go out and get in my car. Just before you get in my car, I want you to appear to hesitate. Let me sell you on an idea." "Okay," she said. "I suppose you know what you're doing." "You have the key?" "Yes." "All right," I said. "Lock up. I just want to be sure that Mrs. Raleigh gets a real good, long look at us." Just before we got in the car, I turned to her and started talking at a great rate, moving my hands as though trying to explain something. "You see, the point is," I said to her, "it isn't as though you were signing away your whole life. Why don't you be a sport and loosen up and give me a million dollars?" She hesitated and said, "Well, if you want to put it that way, Donald, it does seem a shame for me to have all of that and not be willing to give you anything." "Well, that's the way I feel about it." Her eyes were laughing into mine. "Well, of course, charity does begin at home, Donald." "Come closer," I said. She stood very close to me, the tendrils of her hair brushing against my cheek. "That's good," I said. "Now jump in the car and we're going places." "Let's go," she said. I drove her up to the office. We came walking in, and Bertha's door banged open explosively. She started to say something, then took a good look at Wanda Warren and stopped. The door behind me opened. A little man glided into the room, said all in one breath, "Donald Lam, will you look here for a moment?" I turned. He shoved some papers at me and said, "Copy of Summons and Complaint in the case of Wells vs. Cool & Lam. Your copy as an individual, your copy as a partner. Good-bye."

COST OF LIVING CONTINUES UPWARD, GOVERNMENT REPORTS

BY HUGH MORRIS
WASHINGTON, — (INS) — The Government reported Friday that the cost of living rose in September for the 13th straight month with no firm indication of a decline until January. Labor statistics commissioner Ewan Clague said it will be "nip and tuck" for consumers through December but he anticipates a seasonal downturn after the first of the year when stores have sales to get rid of inventories. USUAL INCREASE However, for September, the Labor Department's consumer price index moved upward one-tenth of one per cent. This was less than the usual increase over August and was the smallest advance in 11 months. But at 121.1 per cent of the 1947-49 average, the index was 3.4 per cent higher than in September, 1956. Clague characterized the present period as one of "relative stability with ups and downs." The latest advance will mean wage increases for nearly one and one-half million workers with union contracts which have escalator clauses tied to the consumer-price index. ABOUT 500,000 More than one million railroad workers will get five cents more an hour, and two-cent increases will go to about 500,000 others in aircraft electrical, chemical and metal industries. The department said the average factory employee's wage was 32 cents a week higher in September than in August and $75.63 for a worker with three dependents and $68.22 for a single person. However, the factory worker's buying power still was two per cent less than a year ago, according to the report. Higher prices for housing, clothes and most other goods and services more than offset drops in food costs in September. Food, which comprises one-third of the index, was off eight-tenths of one per cent with fall harvests of fresh fruits and vegetables. Meats, poultry and fish were lower costwise.
