April Fool Carnival To Be Held Next Saturday

"The Devil To Pay" Will Be Played In Hardie Auditorium

Starr Is Author of Royal Production

Festivities of the 1951 April Fool Carnival will get underway at 7:30 p.m. next Saturday with the presentation of a three act comedy, "The Devil To Pay," which was written especially for the carnival by Bob Starr.

Starr's play was chosen over one other manuscript submitted in competition by a judging committee composed of Prof. John Q. Wolf, Bob Whiteside and Nancy Hill.

The play treats the matriculation of Lucifer, the son of the Devil, at a small liberal arts college in a Southern city and the trials and tribulations he encounters in college life. The first act is laid in Hell and the second two on the campus of the college.

The author will be recognized by Toby Bunn and Anne Caldwell, king and queen of the April Fool Court during a special ceremony at the dance which will be held in Fargason immediately after the final curtain of the play. Starr will receive a check for 25 dollars for writing and producing the comedy.

Starr is a junior and is editor of The Sou'wester, a member of Alpha Theta Phi, Alpha Psi Omega, the Stylus Club and the Taurist Club.

Toby Bunn Is Most Popular

Toby Bunn, president of the student body, was named "Most Popular Boy" in Wednesday's popularity voting and was the only candidate to gain a majority. A second run-off ballot will be cast in chapel this morning to determine winner in the other five categories.

Three names were placed on the ballot for each position in Wednesday's balloting. Of these Bill Crisamore and Ted Fox will be candidates for Best All-Around Boy, Charlie Ping and Ed Wills will be opponents for the title of Most Handsome Man, Anne Caldwell will oppose Nancy Hill for a role as Miss Southwestern, Marilyn Mitchell and Patty Smith are candidates for Most Attractive Co-ed and Jen Covington opposes Marzette Smith for Most Stylish Co-ed in today's election.

The newly elected Most Popular Boy, in addition to his office as student president, will be King of next week's April Fool Carnival, is a member of ODK, was named outstanding sophomore by that organization two years ago, was president of the International Relations Club during his sophomore and junior years, was president of his sophomore class and vice-president as a freshman. He is listed in the current edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges.

Strickler Is Named Arranger By CLA

Dr. Robert Strickler, professor of Greek, is assisting as chairman of the local arrangements committee of the Classical Languages Association of the Middle West and Mid-South which is holding a meeting this week end.

The conference is being held in the Georgian Room of the Peabody Hotel with Southwestern and Memphis State cooperating with officers of the association at the meeting.

This afternoon delegates to the convention will be honored with a tea held at the Brooks Memorial Art Gallery sponsored by Southwestern and Memphis State.

Men's Pan Council To Sponsor Student Party

A party for the entire student body will be sponsored by the Men's Pan-Hellenic Council Tuesday in Fargason Field House from 4:30 p.m. till 7.

A night club atmosphere will prevail with dancing, music and entertainment. Refreshments will be sold by members of the council.

The party is being held in order to stimulate student relationships and give the student a chance to mix informally and get to know each other, according to John Austin, Pan president.

The 1951 April Fool Carnival will be climaxed with a dance in Fargason Field House to the music of Johnny Long and his Orchestra. Highlight of the affair will be the presentation of the April Fool Court at 10:30 p.m. The dance will begin directly after the April Fool play in Hardie.

Entrance of the royal court will be announced by a fanfare, blown by members of the orchestra and the royal pages, Sue and Nancy Carrell. The Cavaliers will lead the entrance

IRC Plans Film Forum On Bomb

The Southwestern International Relations Club will swing into its second semester of activities by sponsoring a film forum on the atomic bomb and its potentialities April 12, according to Jimmie James, president.

On that date will be shown two brief films, "One World or None," and "Way of Peace." A poll of persons attending these showings will be taken to ascertain student opinion concerning possible use of the atomic bomb.

Other features of the IRC April agenda are a talk by W. R. Herstein, director of the Memphis International Center on Latin America. Mr. Herstein recently returned from a trip to Colombia. This address is scheduled for April 19.

At this meeting Mary Rush, vice-president of the club, will make a report on the South Atlantic Conference which she attended at Harrogate, Tennessee March 2 and 3.

The club will sponsor a 45 minute movie on the Soviet Union April 26. On May 4 Caffey Robertson, Memphis cotton man and civic leader, has been engaged to tell of his recent trip to the Orient.

A grand march of all dancers past the court will follow in order that the court may judge the best costumes and make awards. Prizes will be given to the best-costumed couple and individual awards will be made to the boy and girl with the most original dress. Nancy Hill is in charge of costumes.

The general theme of the carnival will be that of a circus and costumes are expected to follow the theme. The gym will be decorated as a circus tent with all the trappings. Mary Woods is in charge of decorations, assisted by Bob Crumby and Al Braver. Any students who wish to help with decorations are encouraged to contact one of these three.

Royal jesters will be Tommy Cunningham and John McGettrick.

Ed Wills is in charge of ticket sales for both the play and the dance and Jeanne Roberds is handling arrangement for the awarding of prizes.

New Chair Of English Studies Is Founded

The Charles R. Glover Chair of English Studies will be established at Southwestern by a $200,000 trust fund which Mrs. Charles Glover named to Southwestern last week in memory of her husband.

Mr. Glover was an official of the Pure Carbonic Company and was deeply interested in the study of the English language. Shortly before his death he established this trust fund and Mrs. Glover has named Southwestern as the beneficiary. Mrs. Glover visited the college in the spring of 1950 and was impressed by the sense of excellence which characterizes the college.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING Time To Let Loose

There was a time when it was said that the only time Southwestern let loose was during the April Fool Carnival. How true that is, we do not know, for we have only been here a few years, but we do feel that if there is a time for letting loose, this should be it.

Members of the Student Council and several others have put a great deal of work into this year's carnival and there is no obvious reason why it should not be a great success. However, we are inclined to take a dim view after seeing student participation in a couple of carnivals of years past. However, this does not preclude that this year's affair will not be top-notch. Judging from the plans we have seen being laid for it, it should be of first caliber. But, here again, it can be no more than you, the students, make it.

If you haven't already got a job doing something for the carnival, get one. You can always enjoy something better if you have a part in it. If you haven't the time or the talent to help, the least you can do is to get a date for the event. Let's make sure that this year there are no girls left out of the festivities because they couldn't get a date while half a hundred boys come stag. Work on your costumes if nothing else, for there will be prizes for the best costumes. Get into the act and you'll have a good time.

Get In The Act

In the above editorial, we mention getting into the act in order to enjoy yourself. This was applied to the April Fool Carnival but it is equally applicable to other campus activities. We will wager our collective fortunes that not one of the persons who busy themselves in the various campus organizations finds Southwestern a boring place.

Granted that it may seem so on the surface, but, for a parallel, a movie theater would have nothing to offer if one did not watch the movie. (Of course, we realize we are laying ourselves wide open here, for movie theaters, particularly the drive-in kind, have been otherwise utilized.) So is the Southwestern scene dull for those who are not aware of what is going on.

There are enough organizations here of a wide enough variety of interests to reach every student who attends here. It is only up to the student to find the one he is interested in and make himself a home there. To get close to home, we would be bored if we did not have this newspaper to occupy our spare moments. Some would be bored if it were not for athletics, others could muster no interest if it were not for social events. So it goes. But there is something going on all the time. A great amount of interest in the various plays put on by the Players could be generated if more people had taken part in dramatics. It follows in the same vein right down the line. If you are bored, throw yourself into some activity. Take it from us, the activities need you and you can certainly get rid of your boredom if you don't have time to be bored.

Cheers For Stunt Night

The most overheard phrase at last Wednesday night's AOPi Stunt Night program went something like this. "If everyone got interested in everything like they get interested in this, this place would have a reputation for being the liveliest college in the country instead of one of the deadest."

And it's true to a degree. This place isn't dead in some respects, academically, for instance, but when it comes down to just having a down-right good time, the occasions are altogether too few and far between. The AOPi's and all the fraternities and sororities participating get our vote of thanks for one of the most pleasurable evenings we have spent in many a moon. Anyone who missed Stunt Night missed it, that's all there is to it, and it's a shame that Hardie is so small that it couldn't accommodate the crowd that wanted to get in.

One further thought. Someone could give this college a world of good publicity if they organized three or four of the best Stunt Night acts and went around presenting them on various high school assemblies around the city. It would get rid of our straight-laced reputation in a double quick hurry.

A Statement From The Student Council Concerning The Spotlight At Voorhies Hall

First of all, the Student Council wishes to express its disapproval of any acts, except through proper channels, intended to influence the administration to remove the light at Voorhies and the destruction of school property resulting from these acts.

Members of the administration gave Student Council representatives the following reasons for the installation of the light:

1. Such a light was requested by some of the women in Voorhies.
2. Illuminating the building would discourage prowlers.
3. It would light the walk between Palmer and Voorhies for the safety of the women returning from the library at night.
4. It would light the drive and reduce the danger of auto accidents.
5. The particular placement of the light was the result of expenses involved since the construction of a street light was too costly to consider.

Taking the points in order it is the opinion of the Student Council that:

1. The women requesting the light, though sincere in their request, were a definite minority acting independently of the Dormitory Governing Board. The majority of the women it appears to us are opposed to the position of the light but are in favor of one that would satisfy the purposes for which the present one was designed.
2. The value of the light in discouraging prowlers is questionable since the sides and rear of the building remain in near darkness.
3. The light in its present location merely adds illumination to the area already lighted by the Voorhies' entrance light leaving the walk alongside Palmer in darkness.
4. The light is a hinderance rather than an aid to motorists as there have been complaints that north-bound traffic is partially blinded by the glare.
5. The light seems to be the causation rather than the elimination of expense. Bulbs and fixtures have had to be replaced, man hours have been vainly expended in an attempt to protect it, and the school has had to go to the expense of buying and installing blinds in the front rooms where the glare prevents sleep.

er than an aid to motorists as there have been complaints that north-bound traffic is partially blinded by the glare.

Since the light in its present location seems to fail completely or is only partially successful in fulfilling any of its purposes and since it has resulted in an unusual wave of resentment the Student Council requests the Administration to give the matter further consideration.

As possibilities the Student Council suggests that either one of the following might be at least a partial solution:

1. A closer examination of the costs involved in constructing an ornamental street light near the southwest corner of Voorhies. The expense of such might be justified.
2. A system of smaller, less expensive lights mounted on the corners of Voorhies, focused so as to light the areas now in darkness rather than throwing a blinding light on one spot and excluding all others.

The Missing Lynx

The telephone jangled insistently. A slender hand reached for the receiver.

"It's tonight," a gruff voice barked. "At 9:30 we pay him a little visit."

"Right. 9:30. Have you told the others?"

"Right. The car will pick you up at 8:45. Wear dark clothes so you won't be recognized."

* * *

The car was already full when they came for him. As he got in, he answered the curt greetings of his comrades. He tried to make out some of their faces in the darkness, and, after he had identified them all, he caught himself wondering how many of them could be trusted.

"It on Kearney Street," the driver said, "Just off Highland. We'll be there in a minute."

The latest arrival trembled. It was a horrible thing to do, he knew it, but it had to be done. This guy had gone too far this time. The organization had let him get by with some pretty smart talk in times past, but this time he had chipped his teeth in the wrong direction. Steps had to be taken.

"We'll get it over with quick," said the leader. "He'll never know what happened."

"Don't make him suffer too much," said one of the figures in the darkness. "I couldn't stand that."

"He won't suffer. It'll all be over in a few minutes."

The car turned into Kearney Street. They passed the number they were seeking, then backed up and parked several doors down the street. They got out of the car and milled on the sidewalk. Then they marched with resolve into the front yard. One of them knocked on the door.

His wife answered the knock. She was small and cute. Too bad. "He's in the bathroom," she said. "Won't you wait?"

The member who had knocked on the door went inside. His wife had not noticed the others milling around outside. Minutes passed. A cold wind of premonition swept from the west. The time was drawing near. Muffled voices were heard inside, and then, the man who had knocked on the door appeared on the porch with him.

Those who had remained outside lined up in military order. There was a moment of silence, then. . . .

"I was dancing with my darling to the Tennessee Waltz
When an old friend I happened to see . . ."

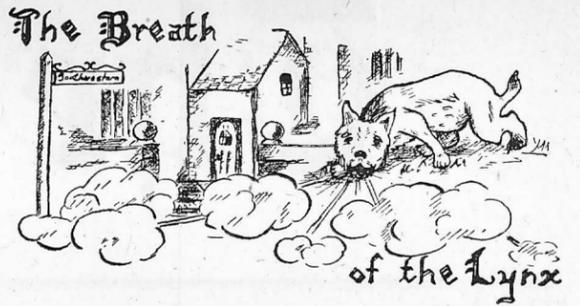

One of the group soloed in a clear tenor.

"Introduced him to my loved one
And while they were dancing"

And the whole group chorused in.

"My friend stole my sweetheart from me."

And Lydel Sims, for it was he, wrote in his Saturday's column:
"And while we're speaking of waltzes I must give a vote of thanks to the choir of sternly anonymous college lads. . . ."

"Like a fiend in a cloud,
With howling woe
After night I do crowd,
And with night will go;
I turn my back to the east
From which comforts have increased;
For light doth seize my brain
With frantic pain."

William Blake, 1783

And speaking of lights.

Somebody, or someone, or something, doesn't like our little source of illumination, and they don't like it rabidly enough to do something about it. Get your cold icy fingers off my neck, Mr. Rollow, it warent I.

No sireeee!! It wuzn't me, but I wish it wuz. Somebody else is getting ideas around this morgue. Somebody who would give the cops fits if he went into it professionally. Because . . . according to a source of information close to my little ears, this somebody sneaked said light off the wall of Palmer Hall and politely returned it to its source. Cf. The office of John Arch Rollow, college engineer. All this right under the noses of the Southwestern MKVD and Gestapo Society which had detailed operatives to guard the precious illuminating factor during the short hours of a long night.

Oh, the Student Council was in a stew, and the Voorhies Lover's Organization went berserk. Various and sundry rifle shots were fired, rocks were thrown, and resolutions were made. Oh, to have been in on it all. But me, I got a steady girl over to Evergreen where they don't need their morals legislated and the front steps are still dark enough for an enterprising soul to steal a sly smooch without the gallery looking on.

Starrgazing

If I get raving about AOPi's Stunt Night, stop me before I go wild, but let me talk a little while.

Point A, I've never seen Hardie Auditorium so crowded since Stunt Night last year. I've never seen the Southwestern student body act as much like a college student body as they did last Wednesday night and I've never had so much fun in my life.

Myself, I liked the idea of reserving seats because, being a late arriver by habit, I got stuck out in the aisle on my foundations the last two years and, what with people jumping up to cheer every two or three seconds, I never got to see much of the program. This year I saw it all and I have but one comment. It oughta be run more than one night. It was great, the best thing that's happened around here this year and it should happen more often.

Some of the high points I will never forget, such as Al Braver in short pants for Kappa Sig, Hattie Edens' "Ego amo te" as Caesar, Billy Brazelton as the proud papa for the SAE's. Nor will I chase Bob Whiteside as the Schoolmaster, nor the Chi O Chorus' dancing of the Charleston into my subconscious at an early date. I still get shivers thinking about Woody Morriss as Buddha for the ATO's and I laugh again at Denny and Hutchinson as the minstrel comics for PiKA. Zeta's revived vaudeville in memorable fashion and the Kappa Delta's number would fit into a Broadway stage production as well as some of the other skits.

As a matter of fact several of the skits were full scale productions, most notably the Tri-Delts' act and that of the ATO's. Sigma Nu's Ladies in Hades had some classic lines in it and the young ladies put them over well. I never did find out who was Jezebel, but she was great. Jessy herself couldn't have done it better and then there was Hobart Davis as Eve. Oh, Satan, you should have seen her Wednesday night.

I wouldn't have liked to have judged the thing. The competition was too close. The acts, all of them, were too good. And I, along with just about everybody who showed up for the show, will be waiting eagerly for next year. Although it seems impossible for this year's performance to be topped, I thought the same thing last year, and they did it.

Sportsman's Corner

By Bob Whiteside

We saw Bill Mabry out wheezing up and down the tennis court the other day behind that big roller contraption of his. So despite bashful robins and an adverse weather man, "The storms are over, the winter is past and the voice of the turtle is heard through the land." Don't think we remembered that quotation correctly but this looks like a good place for it so we will let it stand.

And it seems the Spring sport enthusiasts agree with Mr. Mabry. (Also in agreement are the not-so-enthusiastics who have the Spring Fever alibi for natural laziness.) But baseball, tennis, golf, and softball are all officially under way.

Then there seems to be an unofficial sport gaining popularity by combining the finer points of baseball, basketball, and hide-and-seek, which has to do with a light in the area of Voorhies. As we understand it though there is some drawback in the time element of the sport since the duration depends on the patience of Mr. Rollow and the durability of the light bulb. If the parties concerned would call a truce instead of calling names perhaps we could draw up some ground rules.

We have been giving the matter some serious thought and are of the opinion that Coach Clemens might do some scouting. The accuracy and distance of that throw with a rock requires the arm of an outfielder and the accuracy of a pitcher. We do not know who was detailed to watch the light the night the entire fixture was removed but we are of the opinion that boy has the makings of a great umpire. Handled properly this little misunderstanding might have some good in it after all.

In the rocks and roses department we congratulate the golf team on their 16-2 victory over Wabash. To them goes the honor of winning the first varsity athletic event of the year. Keep it up and you might even have spectators following around the course.

WAA Will Sponsor Program Of Sports

The Women's Intramurals department will parade its wares in a Sports Go Bang Monday night in the gymnasium under the sponsorship of the WAA. The event, in which students participating will give demonstrations of skills learned, will begin at 7 p.m.

Taking part in the demonstrations will be all girls now registered in physical education classes. Sue Pingree will act as Mistress of Ceremonies.

The program will begin with a grand march in which all participants will enter in formation. The girls will then disperse and demonstrations in various activities will take place singly.

Exhibitions will be given in fencing, volleyball, basketball, badminton, tap dance, modern dance and square dance. June Beasley, WAA president, will referee the athletic contests and Miss Suzzane Wills, assistant physical education director will call the square dance. Miss Wills and Mrs. Betty Jane Calandrucchio, director of women's phys. ed., are in charge of the program.

The modern dance class will do a number to "Deep Purple."

Others initiated were Patsy Braswell, Patti Canada, Nancy Cunningham, Peggy Fitch, Mary Ann Hackleman, Nancy McKinstry, Janet Redden, Bette Burk Rucker, and Bettie Worthington.

Spring Sports Open Season; Golfers In First Varsity Win

Birth Of A Premiere

By Jack Worthington

(The Second of a Series)

The members of the cast of "Mr. Gillie," the projected production of the Southwestern Players, threw away their scripts over ten days ago and began their "Uh-uh-just a minute; I'll get it-uh-uh" phase of the rehearsal. Everyone of them will swear quite honestly that he knew his lines not five minutes before he went on stage.

The words come slowly, haltingly, and only after many soulful looks from the director and whispered encouragements from the prompter. The spectator at this stage of the work has a great deal of trouble trying to make sense of the drama, and after spending forty-five minutes watching what will take less than fifteen in the finished product he gives it up as hopeless.

Now the play has come to the point where the actors can be pretty well depended upon for their lines but haven't yet fully realized what they mean. If the play were to be presented to the public at this point, it would, of course, fall flat. But as the words begin to flow "trippingly from the tongue," they will become nature for the actor.

Soon you will see before you on the stage not Jim Lapsley and Lucy Hay, but a Scotch schoolmaster and his wife; and so with the other players, who have already begun to lose their identities under the lights.

The Players still haven't heard the student body's sentiment concerning a formal opening night for the play. What do you say about it?

Queener Talks On Culture

Dr. E. L. Queener will deliver the third in his series of lectures on personality and culture tonight in Room 101 Science at 8 p.m.

The Southwestern linksmen won an easy 16-2 victory over the touring Wabash golfers Monday afternoon at Memphis Country Club to inaugurate a busy spring athletic season for the Lynx.

Jack Hudgins, Omar Smith, Hugh Francis, and Ted Fox made up the Lynx team, and each won his individual match without too much difficulty. Results were as follows:

Hudgins defeated Carl Dickerson, 2½-½; Smith defeated Bill Robinson, 2-1; Hudgins and Smith defeated Dickerson and Robinson, 3-0; Francis defeated Cotton Weaver, 3-0; Fox defeated Don Partridge, 3-0; Francis and Fox defeated Weaver and Partridge, 2½-½.

The next golf match for Southwestern will be on Thursday, April 5, with the course as yet undecided. Memphis State will furnish the opposition.

The tennis team was scheduled to get into action yesterday against the travelling netmen from Western Michigan on the Southwestern courts.

Coach Bill Mabry nominated the following six men to battle the Northerners, though he declined to name the order in which they would play: Ted Fox, John Austin, Jimmie James, Ed Wills, Burton Henry, and Jim Lapsley.

This meet has excellent prospects, for Western Michigan has brought two strong squads to Memphis in the last two years, the Lynx splitting a pair of 5-4 decisions with the invaders.

The Lynx netters will take on Memphis state in their second meet of the year, as they engage the Tigers on the latter's courts on Tuesday, April 3.

The baseball situation is still uncertain, the weather and Easter holidays having prevented any team workouts in the last week.

In order to prep for the opening with Memphis State next Wednesday, Coach Al Clemens has arranged for some practice tilts with local high schools so as to give his charges some game experience before taking on the Tigers.

The Lynx will be decked out in style this season, as new uniforms are expected to arrive over the weekend. Coach Clemens will not decide until at least then, possibly later, who will be on the travelling squad.

AOPi Entertains ATO's With Lodge Supper

AOPi sorority entertained members of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity with a supper in their lodge Monday night. Veal cutlets, salad, rolls and ice cream were served.

Edwall Reads Paper

Prof. Harry Edwall read a paper on "Some Famous Musicians on the Memphis Concert Stage, 1945-1860" to a meeting of the West Tennessee Historical Society held March 20 in Science Hall.

Four Sororities Name New Officers For Coming School Year
