Honorary Degrees To Be Awarded At Graduation

Editors of the two Memphis newspapers, Frank R. Ahlgren of The Commercial Appeal and Edward J. Meeman of The Memphis Press-Scimitar, will receive honorary Doctor of Civil Law degrees at Southwestern's commencement June 7.

Peter Taylor, noted Memphis author who attended Southwestern as an undergraduate, will receive a Doctor of Letters; the commencement speaker, Dr. Edgar Finley Shannon, Jr., president of the University of Virginia, a Doctor of Laws; and two ministers will receive Doctor of Divinity degrees—Dr. Robert Spencer Hough, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Memphis who will move soon to Chattanooga, and Dr. J. Moody McDill of Jackson, Miss.

Mr. Ahlgren, a native of Superior, Wis., attended the University of Wisconsin and Wisconsin State College. He has been editor of The Commercial Appeal since 1936.

Mr. Meeman's career in journalism began immediately after high school. He took a job on the Evansville, Ind., Press, his home town newspaper, to earn money for college. But he became so fascinated with newspaper work that he never gave it up to go back to college, but instead went on to become managing editor there, to help establish what is now the Knoxville, Tenn., News Sentinel, and to move to Memphis in 1931 as editor of The Memphis Press-Scimitar.

Mr. Taylor, a native of Memphis and Trenton, Tenn., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hillsman Taylor of Memphis and professor of English at Ohio State University, dividing his time about equally between teaching and writing.

He was graduated from Central High School, attended Southwestern and Vanderbilt, and was graduated from Kenyon College. In 1950 he was awarded a Guggenheim Fellowship; in 1955 he was a lecturer at the Seminar in American Studies at University College, Oxford, England; he spent one year in France on a Fulbright Grant; and he recently received a Ford Foundation grant for a year's work with the Royal Court Theatre in London.

Met Presents Two Operas at Ellis; Italian Class to Attend En Masse

When Giordano's opera, "Andrea Chenier," unfolds its story of love and revolution in Memphis next week, members of Dr. Jared Wenger's first-year Italian class will sit together in the audience. They will be well prepared to hear it, too.

As part of the second semester's work, the students have translated the libretti of both operas to be brought here this year by the Metropolitan Opera Association. Also, they have undergone several painfully searching examinations by Dr. Wenger about the words, plots and dramatic highlights of the two works.

The translation of the words of Giuseppe Verdi's "Il Trovatore" and of "Andrea" has been of particular interest to the class. All the members except one language student are music majors.

"Il Trovatore" will be staged at Ellis Auditorium Wednesday and members of the class will attend individually. However, when "Andrea Chenier" is put on the follow-

Graduate Fellowships Won by SW Seniors

Several Southwestern seniors have recently won fellowships for graduate study in different schools and in varied fields.

Jo Lynn Palmer received a $1,750 scholarship to study at Vanderbilt University. Jo Lynn has merited scholastic acknowledgment by being on the Dean's List three times and on the Honor Roll two times, and she was tapped for Phi Beta Kappa membership. Winning the third year Spencer Greek Prize is another of her honors.

A Fulbright Scholarship to study French literature and language at the University of Lyon in France was awarded to Charlotte Hogsett. This member of ZTA sorority was recognized in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Torch, women's honorary fraternity, and Phi Beta Kappa both claim her as a member.

Carolyn Shettlesworth won a Southern Fellowship Fund Scholarship for three years of graduate study. It allows $1,200 for the first year, $1,500 for the second year, (Continued on page 3)

Dr. Shannon became last year, at the age of 40, the youngest president that the university has ever had and one of the youngest university presidents in the nation. His wife is the former Miss Eleanor Bosworth of Memphis. They have two young daughters.

Dr. Shannon is a native of Lexington, Va., and a Washington and Lee graduate. He received his M.A. degree from Duke University in 1941 and served as a naval officer in the Pacific theater during World War II. Afterwards he undertook at Harvard intensive studies of Alfred Lord Tennyson which earned him another M.A. degree and led to his becoming a widely recognized authority on Tennyson. He received a Ph.D. degree from Oxford University, England, in 1949.

His published works include several books, articles, and reviews, and he is currently working on two books.

The senior class this year numbers 118, most of whom will receive their degrees at commencement. Some will complete their degree requirements during the summer session.

Their Baccalaureate Sermon will be at 11 a.m. on Sunday, June 5, at Second Presbyterian Church. Guest minister will be Dr. Richard A. About Campus

by Susie Bracewell

No doubt if Shelley had been here for this momentous occasion he would say (as his pleasant and cheerful companion Mary Godwin sat quietly by writing a Frankenstein story) "Oh, weep for volume 41, for this is the last issue." Now don't you think Shelley would have said something like that?

Anyway there are only twenty happy days left till we will have to tear ourselves away from this little golden isle of happiness and sadly depart for summer vacations. Doesn't that make you have a big lump in your throat. Summer of course, may be spent at our own discretion but fall will come etiam (etiam is a Latin word meaning indeed, it isn't translated, you just stick it in when you feel like it, or think it looks good or need another syllable or something. That is for the benefit of any of you who ever intend to write any Latin where you might want to stick in an indeed). And as MacArthur is always saying for same reason, "we shall return."

Of course by the time we get back next year the slowly disappearing Ivy will all have been taken away leaving only bare Arkansas sand stone and then dear ole S.W. will be just like any other college anywhere, as the expression goes.

Then there is always the who gets pinned part. Now I know what would really be interesting, informative and enlightening, would be a report on who has broken up and had fights. However this is not in line with the editorial policy of this paper. So I shall limit myself to the brighter side of it all. Congratulations to Joy Clark and Ralph Parks, who are pinned, to Betty Winn and Bill Greer of Oak Ridge who are engaged, to Elizabeth Ann Wilson and Charles Phillips who are engaged, and to Gwynne Salmon and Gene McKen-

Commencement Activities Fill Graduation Week

Graduation activities for the more than one hundred Southwestern seniors will begin Saturday, June 4, with Alumni Day. At 12:00 noon on that day the Southwestern Men of Memphis will be hosts for the Alumni luncheon in the Catherine Burrow Refectory. The men of the graduation class will be honored guests at the luncheon. The day will be closed by a supper on the south lawn of the campus, to which the seniors and their families are invited. As many as a hundred Alumni usually attend this function.

Following the Baccalaureate service on Sunday, the President of the College and Mrs. Rhodes will act as hosts at the traditional Senior Dinner, which will begin at 7:00 p.m. in the refectory.

Activities on Monday, June 6, will begin at 4:00 with the Garden Party sponsored by the Southwestern Women of Memphis. At 5:45 the class will hold its dedication service, during which it will plant a tree somewhere on the college lawn and will present its parting gift to the college. The faculty will receive the members of the graduating class at 8:30 p.m. on the terrace in front of Palmer, and at 10:00 p.m. the traditional Senior Class ceremony will take place in Hardie Auditorium.

zies, who will be married on May 22.

At this point there is always some introductory comment which invariably leads into the sorority and fraternity news. However this week I do not wish to write the sorority and fraternity so if you don't already know what's happening ask some one else and I suppose that will do just as well.

Your Student Council

By Jenny Yates

The third meeting of the Student Council was held Tuesday night at 6:30 in Science Hall. After the meeting was called to order by Jerry Duncan, Lela Garner led in a word of prayer. The minutes were read by Mary Elizabeth McCharen.

Mary Elizabeth presented Jerry with his gavel for 1960-61. It was decided that the new officers would be in charge of gifts for the old officers.

Wes Busbee, Athletics Commissioner, reported that he had talked to Dr. Patterson about having a Spring Sports Day in assembly. The tentative date for the program has been set for Tuesday. Wes also talked to Dr. Patterson about having four thirty-minute pep rallies next year during football season. Wes also said that the committee composed of Bill, Wes, Jenny, and Lou had worked out the plans for the Boosters Club. They talked to all of the Greek groups and all seemed very enthusiastic. The Executive Council has been appointed. It is composed of all the cheerleaders and of one delegate from each fraternity and sorority not represented on the cheerleading squad. An Executive Council meeting was called for 8:00 p.m. Thursday night in Palmer Hall.

Education Commissioner, Bobby Barret, announced that the first training for FOS leaders was last Thursday. He said that attendance was poor. Another meeting will be held one week from Thursday with Dr. Neal as the speaker.

Bill Reed announced that the election for Vice-President of the Junior class was held Saturday and Frank Weathersby was elected to the office.

Lela Garner announced that PRC officers for next year were elected. They are the following: Vice-President, Charles Inlow; Secretary, Dorothy Hicks; Treasurer, Roger Baldwin; Publicity, Janice Chapin; and Drive Chairman, Frank Weathersby. Another meeting of the PRC will be held May 18.

Social Commissioner Dan Bowen said the new social calendar is now being drafted. The Student Welfare Committee has suggested that there be no desserts next year but instead let the Greek groups have two date desserts and two open houses. This will have to pass the groups first.

Jenny Yates announced that the first meeting of the WUB will be held at five o'clock Thursday in the dining hall. At that time officers will be elected and Hazing will be evaluated.

The members of the Student Council made revisions in the SC Handbook for the next year. All other revisions must be turned in to Jenny before May 10th.

Jerry read a letter to Aller Reynolds from Dean Jones concerning the free day before exams. We will not have a free day this semester but we will have one next year. At this time it will only be an experiment to see how valuable it is. The meeting was adjourned.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

This letter in NO way pertains to last Monday's spectacular, but rather to matters occurring prior to the Easter Holidays, especially around the time of April Fool.

My purpose in writing this article is to encourage you and the entire student body to be true to itself. I wonder if you are as tired as I am of hearing the words Jesus, God, and the Holy Trinity dragged through the mud by the "enlightened" minds on our campus. Are you tired of hearing the Holy Trinity referred to as Daddyo, Laddyo, and Spook; of Jesus referred to as J. C., and God referred to as Big G? Are you at the point of nausea by hearing the words fruit, flyboy, fairy, and prude leveled at anyone who is the least bit different from the criticizer? Well, I am. I have listened to the sages and geniuses of our campus expound upon their theories of life, sex and marriage in a manner which to me seems twisted and perverse, and I can remain silent no longer.

Are we all fruits, virgins, and prudes because we try to pursue the teachings of Jesus Christ and the life that He taught us to live? There are many who think that there are reasonable limits to which they can go in their degradation of sex, marriage, love and religion and still be a good Christian. If these "enlightened" people and literary geniuses don't like a religious atmosphere, why don't they pack their bags and find the atmosphere in which their minds can best be happy? This IS a Christian college. Therefore let those of us who wish to have a Christian atmosphere return to the principles upon which this school was founded. But if the majority of students here wish to do away with the religious aspects of this college, let's dissolve the Bible department, chapel services, the PRC, and Religious Evaluation Week. Above all, let's be true to ourselves and stop being two-faced. If Christian, then be Christian. If hypocrite, hypocrite.

I am quite sure that there are many who will condemn what I have written and me for writing it, but I have said it and I mean it.

P.S.: Long live Monday!

SW Canterbury Club Elects New Officers

The 1960-61 officers for the Canterbury Club, campus Episcopalian youth group, are Katie Bartels, president; Nancy Archer, vice-president in charge of programs; Lloyd C. Calhoun and Charlda Thompson, vice-presidents in charge of food; Becky Lumpkin, secretary-treasurer; Susan Fullilove, P. R. C. representative.

The new officers will be in charge of the meeting this Sunday night, May 8, at 5:30 p.m. There will be supper and a short speech on church ritual by Dr. John Henry Davis who will afterwards lead a brainstorming session on the re-organization of the Canterbury Club.

To Whom it May Confirm:

Are you up on your Doctrine of Original Sin? You'd better be, for no matter where or when, everything seems to revert back to the first apple so ably plucked by Eve. The "sin" I'm referring to is only "original" to these Southwestern parts and depends on apples (not for its originality but for its symbolism).

It seems that a 20th Century Eve-Incorporated picked a bad barrel-full — or at least she thinks so — and now she wishes she'd left the apples on the tree. But they've been picked, and Eve, you've got to admit it was fun—I mean especially those green ones that you picked from the home tree and watched ripen under your very eyes. And those big, delicious red ones that your associates enjoyed. So much that they were prompted to give money to help you grow more. And the apple pot-pourri (better known as apple sauce) has been good too, don't you think? Of course there the very good apples helped compensate for the over-ripe or green ones, but as a whole it was palatable to everyone, no?

But there were some red apples, some green apples, and some red-green ones, Eve, that got tired of working to be succulent, or trying to be a good blind for applesauce, and their discontent was heard, for one night someone upset the apple cart and the apples had a "mixer."

Now, Eve, you think that perhaps it was some rotten apple left neglected so long that it was not only itself rotten through, but had rotted some of the rest, who in turn rotted the barrel and caused it to overturn.

Eve, check your apples. I think you'll find very few rotten to the core. And the barrels perhaps a bit odoriferous, but not severely damaged.

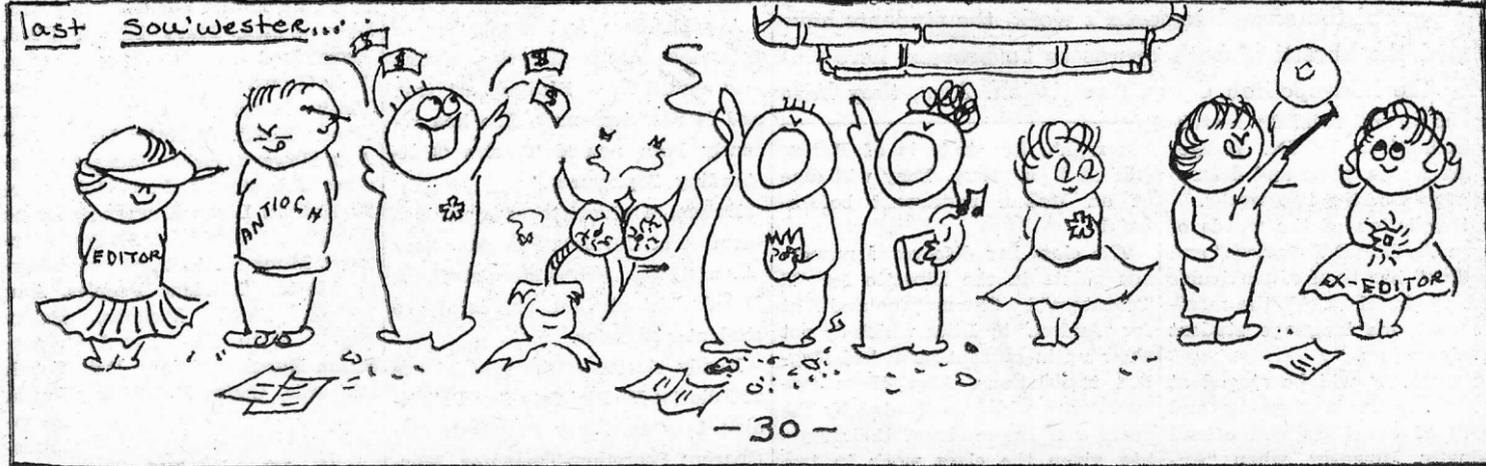

I'd say, "Don't fret, for such things happen to the best of gardeners," but I know you can't help but worry over a possible crop failure. If you'll excuse a hackneyed expression, "Don't put all your apples in one basket" (labeled "rotten"). Take a close look. Yes, some are a bit dusty and dirty. Polish them up. They're still red underneath. Some are still unripe, needing a loving green thumb. Some are, yes, sorely bruised and beginning to rot, but with the bad spots out, they'll make good applesauce, still, won't they?

You see, it wasn't a crop failure after all, just a way of nature. Maybe it seemed like a setback to you, but as a famous Roman once said, "Natura nihil agit frustra" (nature does nothing in vain). And if you don't go for Romans or their views, do me a favor, will you? Don't sit under the apple tree with anyone else but me and all S.W.C.!

Till then, here's to saucier apple sauce!

DISSERTATION UPON A ROTTEN APPLE

There are many kinds of apples: institutional apples, organizational apples, and individual apples, all of which are ... Proverbs 22:3 "Merrily I say unto you, one evil apple makes a damn mess out of the rest." Some people would take this proverb literally, but by subjective examination of an apple's personality, we find that there is unconscious evil. Therefore, a corrupt apple does not cause the corruption of neighboring apples, but merely surfaces the already present unconscious corruption. In common, everyday, analytic language the seemingly good apples see in the rotten apple (which is actually the father image) those qualities which they desire. So it is plain (especially to open-minded liberals) that when there is a case where an entire barrel of apples suddenly surface rottenness upon contact with an uninhibited rotten apple, they are not really good apples but a whole, tremendous, barrellfull of suppressed and repressed rottenness. Let us stop for a moment to discuss the problem of evil. It is possible to look upon the rotten apple as a thing of evil, yet it is also possible to see this rotten apple as a mere occurrence in the process of nature (Lucretius). Therefore, you have a choice between naming the phenomena of a rotten apple a thing of evil or a natural, Normal, HEALTHY, GOOD APPLE. By taking the latter view and with consideration of previous dissertation, I ask you the existential question: What's wrong with a barrellfull of rotten apples? In a good dissertation the writer draws a relevant conclusion to his work, however, as this is not a good dissertation, I give you an irrelevant conclusion: The dreams that old men dream are a far cry from the visions young men see.

The convention, concluding with a banquet tomorrow evening, is considering scientific papers presented by fraternity members, fraternity members, fraternity business, and future plans.

A closed dinner meeting at 5:30 in the Bell Room will precede Dr. Bigger's talk.

In Conclusion

by Gary L. Pagels

Since this is the last issue of the paper for this year, this article will make an abortive attempt to purge all hearts and souls of their prejudices, contempts, consternations, and external passions. Thus, when next September comes, we may place new wine into new bottles.

There seem to be so many issues climbing the ladders during this epoch that it would seem advantageous to the comfort of all minds for someone to set forth the true platform on which the vital issues and tissues of today stand.

As for politics, everyone has lost interest. No one at the present time here on this earth is interested in politics at all. Nixon, beyond any doubt, is the best candidate the Republican party has ever had; he is witty, intelligent, and has a face shaped like a Texas peon. Stevenson could not possibly win; he does not have an Englishman's chance.

Now, let us rid ourselves of the childish notions of birth control. No one at the present time is interested in the controlling of anything. Control nothing is the theory of today. If a child wishes to seek matriculation into the world, let it punch its own ticket, and not have to depend on a conductor, who merely interrupts the train of events.

Now let us take a look at the subject of sex. O.K. the show is over; drop in another penny or move on.

Now, we may consider religion, a likely force in the world today, full of sound and fury, calling the peoples of the world to pass through the eye of a rich man's needle.

Now, let us take the subject of people in general. I'm against them one-hundred percent and anything that resembles them. People are here on this earth, (here, at this place) living today in perfect peace when they should be preparing themselves for the greatest surprise of their lives. One over which certain people will become aglowed. Those of us who are devotees of good jazz will be capable of recognizing the sound of the trumpet; it will be progressive in so far as it will only blow twice. Too many blows will disturb those who have already retired for the evening.

Now a few words concerning the greatest man in the history of all mankind—Moses, he who walked softly and carried a big stick. This man spent most of his free hours

Singers, Orchestra, Children's Chorus Present Oratorio

The Southwestern Singers and Orchestra will present the "Children of God," oratorio on the brotherhood of man by the contemporary composer Normand Lockwood. Joining the singers will be a children's chorus from Evergreen Church. The oratorio, directed by Dr. Vernon Taylor, will begin at 4:30, Sunday, May 8, at Evergreen Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Clara Chassell Cooper of the psychology department of Berea College, Berea, Kentucky, selected the scriptural text from the Revised Standard Version of the Holy Scriptures. The college and the National Council of Churches' Department of Worship, commissioned this work.

Dr. Cooper will be present for Sunday's performance, as well as other representatives from Berea College. Following the concert, there will be a dinner for Dr. Cooper and friends from Berea in the dining hall. All students who wish to meet Dr. Cooper are urged to come. The supper will be "dutch" treat.

The Children of God was first performed at Berea College in 1957 with college singers and members of the Louisville Symphony Orchestra.

Soloists for the Southwestern performance Sunday, will be Sandra Sholder, Sumer Ertur, Diane McCullough, Fred Ford, and Billy Jon Woods. David Ramsey will be organist.

N.S.A. Regional Assembly Held This Week at Fisk

The Spring Regional Assembly of N.S.A. will be held this year at Fisk University in Nashville. The dates for the assembly are Friday and Saturday, May 6 and 7. Again the regional office is making an appeal for cooperation by member schools.

The Regional Executive Committee anticipates this as one of the most successful assemblies had hereabouts for quite some time.

Educational Issues to be discussed at the assembly are as follows:

1. In the Kentucky legislature the House voted to increase basic salaries of qualified teachers an average of $900 for 1960 and $1100 for '61-'62.

2. Another bill before the house is "to create a commission on public education as an independent agency and prescribe membership thereon; direct the commission to study problems and evaluate programs of public education.

3. At least nine colleges have come forth in favor of Rep. Reuss's bill proposing a Point Four Youth Corps as an alternative to military service. Queen's College, New York, The Universities of Colorado, Utah, Pennsylvania, and Minnesota, Oberlin, Antioch, Tufts, and Lehigh colleges all are openly favorable to this idea as evidenced in statements such as the following: "... the Point Four Plan would be valuable both to the individual involved and the nation as a whole."

Member student bodies at: Belarmine, Berea, Carson Newman, Centre, Fisk, Georgetown, King, Kentucky State, Le Moyne, Maryville, Nazareth, Peabody, Pikeville, Southwestern, Siena, Transylvania, Vanderbilt, Tennessee Wesleyan will be represented.

LYNX END SEASON HERE AGAINST HOWARD MONDAY

by Birt Waite

The Southwestern tennis team took opening day lead in search of their fifth consecutive TIAC championship at Chattanooga Thursday. The team downed rival Sewanee 7-2 in a pre-tourney warm-up Wednesday.

The Sewanee victory left the Lynx with a splendid 13-3 record, losing only to Ole Miss twice and Howard. Howard will furnish opposition for the Lynx' season finale Monday on South-

As a result of Thursday's two rounds of play, Southwestern leads the large TIAC aggregation with 12 points, followed by the University of Chattanooga with 10 and Sewanee with 7. Semi-final and final action take place Friday.

Whole Team Advances

In first round play all six Lynx netters emerged victorious. Bill Davidson—undefeated in sixteen matches this year—and teammates Tommy White, Bill McLean, and Donnie Cross picked up second round victories.

Doubles play saw Mike Truscott combine with George Crabb to defeat a pair from Chattanooga U. 7-5, 6-3. Davidson and White teamed up to down a Sewanee pair, 6-1, 8-6, 6-3.

The team of McLean and Cross did not compete Thursday, will play two matches today providing they survive the first one.

Unbeatable Davidson

Only team captain George Crabb failed in singles competition against Sewanee Wednesday. First man Truscott took the measure of Sewanee's best, 4-6, 6-1, 6-3. The unbeatable Davidson racked up a 6-2, 3-6, 6-4 victory.

Fourth man White eased to a 6-4, 6-love win, followed by McLean winning 8-6, 6-2, and Cross in a 6-3, 5-7, 6-3 triumph.

In doubles play the teams of Davidson-White and McLean-Cross each picked up a point while the first team fell to the hosts, 6-1, 6-1.

Intramurals

Long-knocking Brady Puryear combined rounds of 36 and 38 to edge out teammate Harry Lawson for the individual trophy and lead Sigma Nu to its second straight intramural golf championship. Lawson, the defending champ, lost to Puryear by a single stroke, missing a match-tying putt on the last green by a fraction of an inch.

Lawson and Puryear were joined by Dick Brown and Ed Albright on the winning team. A Kappa Alpha team of Warren Nance, Bill McIntosh, Lee Mixon, and Robert Bassham placed second.

Intramural Softball

Undefeated Sigma Nu moved to its third consecutive Intramural Softball Championship this week by downing PIKA, 10-5 in the decisive game of the season. The Snakes used steady pitching by John Hixon and a consistent hitting attack to take its sixth victory of the season.

Sigma Nu jumped to an early 6-0 lead in the first inning by taking advantage of seven bases on balls and two infield outs to take a comfortable lead.

Bertrand Homers

Back-to-back hits by Jim Webb and Bill Lawrence cut the lead to 6-2 in the second inning, but Ashcraft's two-run single again opened up a six-run lead in the third. The lead was widened to eight in the fourth inning when Ashcraft picked up his second hit and Fred Bertrand blasted his first homer of the season deep into left-center field.

PIKA staged its most serious rally in the final inning as Jim Reviere, Dick Diamond, Bill Lawrence, and Ed Smith hit safely to cut the Sigma Nu lead to 10-5. However, center-fielder Rainey Ellis fled to right field to end the threat.

Kappa Alpha absorbed a late season loss to Sigma Nu, but easily won its remaining games to capture the runner-up spot.

Intramural Ping-Pong

Sigma Nu placed 42 men in the winner's column in first round competition to move far ahead as intramural ping-pong hit its stride this week. The Snakes picked up an unofficial 210 points to build a comfortable 150 point lead over KA and ATO.

Strong SAE picked up an unofficial 21 victories but lost 70 points in forfeits. Kappa Sigma placed a number of entrants in the first round winner's column to keep in the thick of the race. PIKA sported a number of first round winners, but lost most of the chief threats in early second-round competition.

Cross Defends Title

Despite Sigma Nu's being favored as a team, ATO or SAE is expected to produce the individual winner. Defending champion Donnie Cross will be gunning for his second championship for ATO. Also George Crabb, John Daniel, Harry Swinney, and John Rice are predicted to be strong in the late round competition.

SAE will bank its title hopes on last year's runner-up, Shannon Curtis. Following Curtis will be Mike Truscott, who is already in late rounds, and Tommy White.

climbing volcanic mountains, until one day one of them laid the law down on him. He staggered from a burning bush which had caught fire from the eruption and ran down the mountain, telling the people at the bottom ten rules, all of which no one has completely paid any attention to.

around John Hixon, Jim Peterson, Gene Botsford, and Bob Chaney. Bill Burge and Morris McCastlain are already in late-round competition for the Snakes.

Kappa Alpha moved into a tie for second place after the first round with an unofficial 60 points. KA will have a limited number of entrants in the late rounds, but will make a strong drive for the individual championship with three strong competitors in David Lindsey, Stewart Thames, and John Turley.

PIKA gained a number of first round winners but will center its attack around Bill Holmes and Bob Orr in the late rounds.

Intramural Badminton

Kappa Alpha appears a certain double winner as Intramural Badminton moves into the finals this week. Tournament favorite Ray Zbinden and hustling Lee Mixon combined to sweep through early round competition and move to the finals this week.

The KA-dominated tournament is also certain to produce an overall KA team championship.

Zbinden breezed through preliminary action with little trouble to gain the finals. Mixon, the surprise of the tournament, moved to the semi-finals with little trouble and then downed Sigma Nu's John Hixon, a tourney favorite, to gain the finals.

Intramural Track

Defending champion SAE will be out this week end to defend its intramural track championship, but the defending champs are not the tournament favorites. Sigma Nu with a versatile veteran team and Kappa Alpha with a strong dash team will be co-favored to take the gruelling meet.

The high light of the meet is expected in the dashes and relays where all organizations will present fleet-footed teams. SAE's hopes in the dashes will ride with Shannon Curtis, David Watts, and Billy Johns.

In the favorite roles, KA will probably send Owen Middleton, Warren Nance, Fred Ford, and Lee Mixon against Sigma Nu's John Hixon, Richard Sauers, John Ashcraft, and Jim Gay. ATO will present a chief threat in fleet-footed Bill Claytor, John Rice, and George Stone. Kappa Sigma will rely heavily on Jimmy Finley and Jim Cloud in their drive.

Williams Favored in Shot

KA veteran Roger Baldwin and Sigma Nu Veteran Fred Bertrand are expected to share the limelight in the 120-yard low hurdles, while Sigma Nu's Glenn Williams is a heavy favorite in the shot.

SAE's 6'5" Aubrey Smith is an established favorite in the high jump and KA's Truman Smith will be out to gain his second championship in the softball throw. Sigma Nu's Richard Sauers is a heavy favorite in the 440-yard dash, but will have to overcome Jim Cloud of Kappa Sigma and Zbinden of Kappa Alpha. John Hixon of Sigma Nu appears to be the chief threat in the broad jump.

The Sou'wester will sponsor a Pep Band next year. The paper would relish suggestions and volunteers are welcome. Interested parties should leave a note to that effect in the Sou'wester box in the faculty mail room.

Lynx Thinclads Vie For TIAC Title; Need Lone Win For Undefeated Mark

The Southwestern track team, winding up one of its most successful years, journeyed to Cookeville today for the TIAC.

Keith Arman and Mallory Chamberlin are the entrants for the running events scheduled Saturday.

Don Pollard and Wes Busbee will enter weight events today with Busbee throwing the shot, discus, and javelin, and Pollard concentrating on the discus and javelin. This outstanding quartet will be competing against every Tennessee team except Vanderbilt and U. T. Coach Marr hasn't designated the events which the two runners will enter but plans to base his attack around the runners' conditions as the meet progresses.

Howard Meet

The following Saturday, Southwestern will meet Howard in the all-important final battle of the season. If the Lynx should capture the wreath it would be the first undefeated track season in the school's history. It has already been one of the best with the team setting three new records. Chamberlin broke the school record for the 880 and one mile and Busbee set a new mark for the javelin.

The Howard meet to be run on Fargason Field will feature the field events beginning at 10:00 with the running at 2:00. The Birmingham club team boasts the toughest competition the Lynx have encountered. In the Howard Invitational, Howard took second only a few points behind Southwestern.

Busbee will be dueling with Rich Davis, one of the strongest shot putters he has faced. Both men hit about 45 feet with never more than one or two inches difference. Busbee was credited with his third consecutive triple win last week over Florence State and Lambuth, and will be giving his all to top Davis.

Taylor, Frist

Bill Taylor will also have a battle on his hands. The Howard high jumper topped him by one inch in the Invitational. Johnny Frist tied for first in the Invitational but beat the Howard entry. He'll be pushing to hold the lead despite his back injury.

Chamberlin won the 880 and mile and placed second in the two mile last week. Arman and he will both carry a lot of responsibility for the Lynx next week.

The two teams are pretty evenly balanced and the injuries sustained by Clinton and Bill Harwood will make this a real battle.

Good luck toward an undefeated season!

FLORENCE STATE BOWS TO GOLFERS

Southwestern's golfsters squeezed out a narrow 10-8 victory over Florence State before falling 16-2 to Mississippi's powerful Rebels on their march toward the best golf season in Southwestern's history.

Stewart Thames and Jim Stowers led the Southwesterners in both matches, pacing the Lynx with 74s against Florence State and 78s against Ole Miss.

Charlie Morris was the top man for Florence State with a 71, beating Thames 2-1, while Floyd Davis' 73 was tops for the Rebels.

Delta State Next

Delta State provides the opposition for Southwestern Monday in the season finale. Then the Lynx fly to Chattanooga for the TIAC tourney. Southwestern is a high rated darkhorse against favored Chattanooga and Middle Tennessee State, but any of the top four Lynx golfers have excellent chances at an individual trophy.

Captain Bill Harris has been hitting real well for the last three or four matches, and his past few performances have been the best in his career at Southwestern.

Stewart Thames, the Lynx' No. 1 man for the past three years is still sharp, though his record is not as good this year because of a step-up in the competition.

Stowers Improves

Jim Stowers is in his third year and showing terrific improvement. His scores have been out of the 70s only three times in the twelve matches played to date.

Charlie Rich has gone beyond the "promising freshman" stage. His 8-3-1 won-loss record is tops for the Lynx.

The golf team has also received a lot of support from several boys not in the lineup. Doug Janss has played in six matches and has helped considerably as the No. 5 man. Mike Rowland, Fred Ford, and Ruffin Craig round out the squad.

"It's been the best season ever. We lose only one man, Harris, and we're hopeful for several promising freshmen, so we should have a good season next year," said Coach Mayberry.

NOTICE: May 16-18 are the only three days that P.E. locker deposits will be returned. If they are not returned on these dates they will not be returned.
