Southwestern at Memphis

43rd Year

MEMPHIS, TENNESSEE, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1961

Vol. 43, No. 11

As Delegates S-W Students Lead At Aix

Aix-en-Provence, November 9—Miss Betsy Breytspreek and Mr. Jack Brown of Southwestern-at-Memphis have recently been elected to membership in the Student Council of the Institute for American Universities, Aix-en-Provence, France. Mr. Brown and Miss Breytspreek are a part of six Southwestern students participating in the Junior Year Abroad Program. Other students from Southwestern are Mary Caldwell, Mary Lou Jones, Cissy Means, and Robert Morris.

Miss Breytspreek, in her capacity as Religious Commissioner not only informs her fellow students of the programs offered by the various churches of Aix and Marseilles, but is organizing a student choir to prepare Christmas music for television. Mr. Brown is Publications Commissioner and is presently hard at work with the Year Book staff.

The Council represents a student body of ninety and is particularly interested in providing opportunities for students to take advantage of the many cultural, academic and social resources available in the eighteenth century city of Aix and the surrounding areas of Provence. The Council also interests itself in establishing rapport between the American and French students of the University of Aix-Marseilles.

Mr. Brown and Miss Breytspreek are following in the footsteps of former students from Southwestern-at-Memphis who have been represented on Council for the past three years.

Life at Aix

From my perch atop the heater I hope my fingers will thaw out enough to permit me to jot down a few of the wonderful memories

Be sure to attend the Jazz Concert tomorrow, December 2, in the Adult Education Center from 3:00-5:00 p.m. The concert is featuring a local group the Maestros. Women students may wear slacks to the performance. Admission is $1.00, and there are only 300 tickets.

S.T.A.B. Presents Diane McCullough

This week S.T.A.B. Intersorority announced its fourth new member of the year, Miss Diane McCullough, Kappa Delta sorority. Miss McCullough is a senior soloist with the Southwestern Singers, and is a member of the orchestra and pep band. She has served as music chairman of her sorority, and is currently music critic for The Sou'wester. This year she is director of the Madrigal Singers, and is also a member of Pi Kappa Lambda, honorary music fraternity.

To Present Recital

The Music Department of Southwestern will present Miss McCullough, soprano, in a senior recital next Tuesday evening, Dec. 5, at 8:30 p.m. at Bohlmann Hall, 1822 Overton Park Ave.

Preregistration for the second semester will be held from Dec. 6—Dec. 13, 1961. All students are asked to report to their faculty adviser who will have the appropriate forms and schedules.

One new course to be offered next semester will be "Folklore" (English 27), taught by Dr. J. Q. Wolfe. This class will meet once a week for an hour and will examine major types of folklore, with special emphasis on the tales of this section of the country. The folklore of story and song will be fully explored and possibly field work will be included in the studies.

S-W's USNSA Membership Reappraised With Discussions, Debates, Referendum

The Student Council voted Tuesday night to hold a referendum of the student body concerning membership in the United States National Student Association on Dec. 13. This action was based largely upon the report of official observers sent to the 14th National Student Congress last August. The representatives felt that in last year's referendum, which resulted in Southwestern's withdrawal from USNSA, all of the aspects of the Association and Southwestern's membership in it were not clearly brought forth.

There is to be great opportunity for debate and discussion on the matter. It is hoped that members of the student body will strive to take a hard look at the N.S.A., conscientiously evaluate the issues, and at least take a position of some kind.

Extensive Discussion

In student assembly on Wednesday, Dec. 6, there will be an opportunity for one speaker "for membership" and one "against Southwestern's rejoining NSA." Two debates or forums will be held in the Adult Education Center, one on Wednesday, Dec. 6, and the other on Tuesday, Dec. 12, both to begin at 7:30 p.m. Dormitory discussions will be held on Monday, Dec. 11.

There are many aspects of the National Student Association to be considered. Information will be available to prepare students for factual (rather than emotional) discussions. Anyone interested in participation in the planned debates or discussions, either affirmatively or negatively, is asked to contact Cyril Hollingsworth, who is in charge of preparations for the referendum.

Fifteen Outstanding Seniors Selected For Annals Of American "Who's Who"

Fifteen outstanding seniors at Southwestern have been chosen for listing in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. Selections were made by a committee of the Student Council and approved by a faculty committee on the basis of students leadership and scholarship. The following students have been honored for their participation in a variety of activities during their years at the college:

Edwin Willard Albright was president of the Sigma Nu pledge class and president of the freshman class in 1958. He has served as social chairman of Sigma Nu and has headed the Student Center Committee. For the past three years he has been a member of the faculty-student Development Committee. Mr. Albright has led discussion groups for Freshman Orientation Seminar programs and Religious Evaluation Week, and is now president of the IFC.

Richard Keith Arman has been captain of the track and cross-country teams, has lettered in basketball, and is a member of the "S" Club. He has served Kappa Sigma as Grand Procurator. Mr. Arman is Commissioner of Athletics for the Student Council this year.

Charles Daniel Bowen was vice-president of the sophomore class in 1959 and was named to the Dean's List and Honor Roll both semesters of that year. In his sophomore year Mr. Bowen was corresponding secretary of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and was the recipient of the Seidman Award in Economics. As a junior Mr. Bowen was Commissioner of Social Activities for the Student Council and was elected to Omicron Delta Kappa, honorary leadership organization. He is presently president of ODK and has led discussion groups for FOS and REW.

William Van Davidson was president of his sophomore and junior class and is president of the Student Body this year. He was vice-president of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon pledge class. Mr. Davidson was selected Outstanding Sophomore by ODK and was elected to membership in that organization his junior year. He has lettered in tennis every year, has been captain of the team, and was voted most valuable player in 1960. In his junior year Mr. Davidson was a prince in the April Fool Court. In 1961 he became the youngest member of the board of directors of the Memphis Public Affairs Forum.

Robert Lynn Echols has been active in Southwestern athletics during his four years here. He is currently co-captain of the football team and captain of the baseball team. Mr. Echols has served as Eminent Archon of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and is a member of the "S" Club.

Thelma Lynn Finch has been a class representative to the Student Council for four years. In her junior year she was chairman of the High School Visitation program and president of Sans Souci. Miss Finch served as vice-president of Delta Delta Delta pledge class her freshman year and was voted most outstanding pledge. She has been a winner of the DDD Alliance scholarship and this year is president of DDD. She has been a Lynx favorite and was winner of the Marianna Gracey Foreign Study Award which enabled her to study at the Sorbonne last summer. Miss Finch is a member of Torch, is Hi-Pi, and president of Danforth this year. She has been a student counselor and a discussion leader for FOS and REW.

Jimmy Garrett Finley has been on the Dean's List and Honor Roll consistently during his four years at Southwestern. In his junior year Mr. Finley was Grand Master of Kappa Sigma and received that fraternity's national Good Citizenship Award in 1961. He is a member of Chi Beta Phi and ODK honorary societies. Mr. Finley is a senior representative to the Honor Council and is currently vice-president of the Study Body. He has led discussions for FOS and REW.

Virginia Ann Fumbanks has been a Lynx favorite twice and beauty during her career at Southwestern. She was chosen Rose of Kappa Alpha Order and queen of the April Fool Court in her junior year. As a senior Miss Fumbanks is secretary-treasurer of the Student Body, vice-president of Delta Delta Delta, a member of Pi Intersorority, and was queen of 1961 Homecoming.

Virginia Carolyn Haigler was president of the Delta Delta Delta pledge class and was elected the best pledge her freshman year. Miss Haigler was secretary-treasurer of the sophomore class. As a junior she was a representative to the Honor Council and was re-elected to this position her senior year. She was president of Delta Delta Delta last year and is currently chaplain of that group. This year Miss Haigler is a member of Torch, president of Westminster Fellowship, president of S.T.A.B. Intersorority, and resident head of Townsend Hall.

Jack D. Herbert has served on the Honor Council as class representative for three years, and was tapped for membership in OAK this fall. Mr. Herbert was chosen best pledge of Sigma Nu his freshman year, and held the office of Lt. Commander last year. He has also been active as a discussion leader for FOS and Fall REW. Mr. Herbert was co-chairman of SN's prize-winning Homecoming display and will be in charge of the PRC's Thanks-Thru-Giving drive this fall.

Lyn Mary Melvin is secretary-treasurer of the senior class. Miss Melvin was the "S" Club princess, the cheerleading captain last year and was chosen sweetheart of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Also last year she was chosen for membership in Pi Intersorority and Torch, and was a member of the April Fool Court. Miss Melvin has served her sorority, Chi Omega, as president of her pledge class, rush chairman, and pledge trainer.

Martha Graham Myatt is currently president of Chi Omega. She has been a Lynx favorite for two years, and was a Maid of Cotton finalist last year. Her junior year, Miss Myatt was chosen Football princess and a member of the April Fool Court, and served her sorority as rush chairman. A class representative to the Publications Board for two years, Miss Myatt is a member of S.T.A.B. Intersorority.

About Campus

by Diane Lobaugh

Welcome back; if I may be so hypocritical to say such a thing.

I heard that just before vacation the mental strain was so great, that one Frosh, in the process of studying for a "man" test shouted to her roommate, "For God's sake, who's J a H - WeH?"

Speaking of JaHWeH reminds me—do you suppose it's intentional that we have to undergo the tortures of utter hell (trying to check names on chapel boards) before we can get in to hear the REW speaker? While others may be crusading to put the Christ back in Xmas, I'd like to strive to take the hell out of Religious Evaluation Week. It would take a true martyr to endure the "togetherness" of the chapel board arena.

You've got to admit it's hard even for the seniors to be mature under such conditions! Well, I leave you martyrs sweltering on the boards.

I have new anecdotes from the elementary school world for you this week.

I was reading some poetry to a group of fifth graders, and in an effort to further distinguish poetry, I asked, "Does anyone know what prose is?"

"Yeah," piped one of the children, "it's when you're real good in something."

A Tennessee second-grade teacher tells of her unique experience when one of her pupils asked her to spell rat. Although she was quite surprised at the question, she carefully spelled out r-a-t. But, her student, impatiently replied, "Not that rat, anyone knows that. I mean the rat that's in a sentence like, 'I'll do it rat now.'"

Before I get on to the campus news, let me remind you, that if you want news about you or your group to appear in this column, please get it to me by Wednesday noon. I'm not able to snoop everywhere every week equally well!

Congratulations to Mary Lou Carwile and Jimmy Finley, and to Sandra Sanders and John Ashcroft who are pinned and to Kathy Johnson who is pinned to a Sigma Nu at Stanford.

The Thursday before Thanksgiving the KD's held a turkey dinner in honor of their visiting national officer, Miss Barbara Barret.

Your Student Council

by Margaret Johnson

Serving as presiding officer of the November 28th meeting of the Student Council, Jimmy Finley called for reports from the council. First was Ed Albright, IFC representative. Ed, president of the Interfraternity Council announced that open rush for fraternities begins December 6. Further plans will be announced later.

Commissioner of Publications released plans for a journalism clinic to be held as a prerequisite for members of the newspaper staff.

Jazz Concert

The JAZZ CONCERT that we've been hearing so much about will become an actuality tomorrow, Saturday, from 3 to 5 in the Adult Education Center. The Maestro's, a well-known, local ensemble will provide the music. "Everybody who is anybody" will certainly be there as those not in attendance will be missing good entertainment. Admission is only $1.00. Tickets, which are being sold in the dorms and in Palmer, will go only to the first 300 purchasers. (Girls may wear slacks to the concert.)

Also on the Social Calendar are scheduled the Fraternity Christmas Parties for Friday night, December 8. The school party will be December 15, in the cafeteria as usual.

The Women's Undergraduate Board held a meeting Thursday evening to plan a series of lectures it sponsors biannually. Plans for the annual dormitory Christmas party were also discussed.

Social Rules

An appointed committee made up of Perry White, Ed Albright, and Joe Duncan are going to present a revision to the social rules to the Student Welfare Committee. The proposed rule, which concerns drinking at Southwestern social functions, reads to exclude alcoholic beverages from exclusive events. Exclusive events are those events put on the calendar which exclude any other event being held at the same time.

UNSA Referendum

The council voted to hold a referendum concerning our membership in the National Student Association on December 13. Cyril Hollingsworth is in charge of plans for the referendum, which include more publicizing of arguments for and against this organization and a general movement to inform the campus of NSA, what it is and what it stands for. Watch this paper for articles pertinent to the forthcoming referendum. It is important that you are informed so that you may take a stand for or against NSA, as you will be deciding whether Southwestern rejoins or stays out!

A pupil of Prof. Neumon Leighton, Miss McCullough was a winner last year in both the West Tenn. National Association of Teachers of Singing and the Tenn. National Federation of Music Clubs vocal competitions. She is a member of the Young Artists' Group of the Beethoven Club of Memphis and is soprano soloist at Lindsay Memorial Presbyterian Church.

Assisted by pianist Charles Phillips, Miss McCullough will sing works by Vivaldi, Bach, Handel, Brahms, and Dvorak. She is a candidate for the Bachelor of Music degree with major in church music and Christian education.

REW's Ritschl Draws Many To Talks On Man, Salvation

Dr. Dietrich Ritschl of Austin, Tex., has, as REW speaker, presented Eastern and Western theological concepts of man and salvation in three lectures this week.

On Tuesday Dr. Ritschl outlined the Eastern viewpoints as seen in the writings of early Christian theologians. Ignatius said "I want to be with Jesus, to leave the world." Justin Martyr, a second century stoic, believed that there was a tiny spark of the divine in every man through which he can attain salvation. Origen, the first Christian scholar, was the co-founder of gnosticism, and maintained that "God became what we are so we may become what he is."

There are 50 million church members in Russia today who attend services regularly. "They believe," said Dr. Ritschl, "that man's future, not his present situation, is what matters to gain salvation. They look forward to unification with Christ, as opposed to the Western practice of looking backward to find Christ."

In the Tuesday session, Dr. Ritschl pointed out that the Roman Church fathers portrayed the Christian gospel by their own structure or rules and laws. Man was sober, realistic, pragmatic, concerned with honor, the structure of society, and the principals of Roman culture. Ritschl classified the western center of Christian thinking around the concept of forgiveness of sins, as contrasted to the eastern concept of immortality.

PBK Awards Oxford Books To Top-Ranking Scholars

Four potential Phi Beta Kappas were honored in a special assembly Wednesday, November 15. In recognition of their scholastic achievement, Dr. John Henry Davis presented the two men and women who were scholastically tops in the freshman and sophomore classes of last year with copies of the Oxford Book of English Verse.

Marilyn Meyers and Joe McCown are the two scholars from last year's freshman class. Marilyn, an AOPi from Memphis, is majoring in international studies. Joe, a Sigma Nu from Forrest City, Arkansas, is majoring in English.

The two top sophomores of last year were Susan Ramseur and Raney Ellis. Susan, chaplain of KD, is majoring in music. Greek is Raney's major. He is a Pike from Memphis.

O'Faolain Analyzes Brit. Lit., Outlines Guide To Pleasure Reading

On Nov. 27, Irish author Sean O'Faolain, visiting Phi Beta Kappa speaker, spoke to Southwestern audiences twice. At 10 a.m. in Hardie Auditorium, the man who looks and speaks rather like an Englishman commented on Britain's "Angry Young Men," i.e., John Osborne, Kingsley Amis, and John Brin. O'Faolain pointed out that these men are neither young nor angry, but that the literary movement which they represent is an outgrowth of feelings after World War II. Their works show a reaction against big universities, the established church, certain newspapers, the aristocracy, and big business. After the war living conditions were still painfully cramped.

The angry young men have acted as a "sanitation squad" for literature. The influence of these logical observers cleared up the "easy" 19th century language and literary forms. They represent a movement that insists on one's being committed to know how things are on the outside of an individual's world. A man must be involved politically and socially to get a peep at the outside.

"Trial by Pleasure"

At 8 p.m. Mr. O'Faolain told his audience that the test of a book should come from one's enjoyment of it, and that to criticize a work, one should analyze his own reactions, not the author's creation itself.

He gave a historical summary of the church fathers who were mainly responsible for the Roman doctrine. Tertullian, influenced by Stoicism, induced the western idea of faith, which consists in fulfilling the Christian commandments. Man's faith, supported by the Holy Spirit, leads to do good works. Suprian's thinking centered around the authority of the Church; and from the ideas of these two men, Ambrose builds a further legalistic doctrine. Probably the best-known western theologian of this time was Augustine. He started a new anthropology of man, which removed man's own free will as the creator of a blessed Christian life and attributed an abundant life to God's grace only.

From these early theologians the basic realism of western thought was inspired—a realism which concerned man in his culture and Biblical interpretation.

Observations

Thursday morning Dr. Ritschl departed from his text momentarily to intimate eight observations he had made of Southwestern students. He realized an amazing openness to outsiders while a lack of openness to fellow students exists. The students' ability to concentrate and listen to others greatly impressed him. But Dr. Ritschl also found us preoccupied with subjective thoughts, uninterested in the outside world and too overfed with books. Finally, he perceived a greater pursuance of a topic by women and a need for a student pastor.

Having made his off-the-cuff remarks, Dr. Ritschl launched into his lecture, "Modern Man's Festations of Historical Theological Differences."

"A Christian can have no private opinions without careful examination of others' opinions. Basically, (Continued on page 4)

Synnestvedt Tunes Fiddle In College Concert Tonite

Peter Synnestvedt of Southwestern's music family will be presented in a violoncello concert at 8:30 p.m. tonight at Bohlmann Hall, 1822 Overton Park Ave. He will be accompanied by Myron Myers on the piano.

The program will include works by Boccherini, Beethoven, Schumann, Schubert-Silva, and Samuel Barber.

Synnestvedt received his B.M. and M.M. degrees from Eastman School of Music. He is a member of the Southwestern orchestra and the Memphis Symphony.

Mr. O'Faolain stated that each reader possesses a built-in filter which hinders him from receiving the full benefit of an author-reader relationship. The reader should temporarily put aside his preconceived ideas and prejudices, or filters. This will enable him to experience the full impact of the work on his function in the reading contract. Some novels contain "alloys" or stilted situations, which the reader rejects as illogical. Books with few or no alloys Mr. O'Faolain considers good.

He concluded by indicating a number of novels which accord with the standard presented above. Some of these are: Torrents of Spring, The Red and the Black, Man's Fate, and Dangerous Relations.

James Albert Thomas III has been a member of the Honor Council for four years; he served as vice-president of that group his junior year and is currently president. Mr. Thomas was president of the Kappa Alpha pledge class. He is a member of Stylus literary society and of ODK.

Grady Franklin Tollison, Jr. is co-captain of the football team. He was given the "Most Valuable Player" and Lynx "Player of the Year" awards last year, and was chosen a member of the 1959 Little All-American Football Team. Mr. Tollison is a member of Alpha Tau Omega, the "S" Club, and was recently initiated into ODK.

Frank Douglas Weathersby was president of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon pledge class and voted the "Most Typical Freshman" in 1958. He has lettered in football, baseball, and track, and is a member of the "S" Club. Mr. Weathersby has been chaplain of SAE and Drive Chairman for the P.R.C. Thanks-Thru-Giving project. He was vice-president of the junior class, president of the German club, and elected to membership in ODK last year.

S-W Singers Carol Christmas Concert

The Southwestern Singers will present their annual Christmas Vespers concert at Evergreen Presbyterian Church at 4 p.m. Sunday, December 3.

Dr. Vernon H. Taylor, director, said the mixed choir will sing Arne's "Overture in the Masque of Comus" and Lewis Henry Horton's "Appalachian Nativity," a Christmas folk cantata, which includes the following hymns: 'Prelude', 'Ye Nations All', 'A Virgin Unspotted', 'His Parents Poor', 'As Shepherds in Jewry', 'When This Was Said', 'Hark the Herald Angels Sing', 'Then With Delight', 'Hail, Blessed Morn', 'The Shepherds then Returned', 'Praise the Saviour, All Ye Nations', 'Joy to the World'.

The concert will close with Handel's "Joy to the World", to be sung by the choir and congregation, accompanied by the Southwestern orchestra.

Soloists for the program are Diane McCullough, soprano; Patience Moore, soprano; Fred Ford, tenor; and Perry White, baritone. John McGinnis is organist and assistant director.

The AOPi actives treated the pledges to a ham dinner with all the trimmin's Tuesday night.

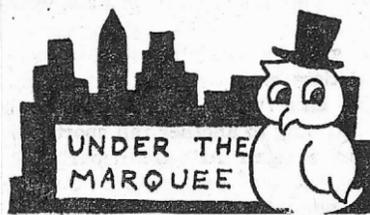

Gillett Burgess, evidently sick of hearing "purple," has come up with this latest quotable quip

"Ah, yes, I wrote 'The Purple Cow'—I'm sorry, now, I wrote it!

But, I can tell you anyhow, I'll kill you if you quote it!"

"Room Service" opens tonight at the Pink Palace as Memphis Little Theatre's second show of the season. The fast-moving comedy by John Murray and Allen Boretz is being directed by Juda Levie.

The wild and wacky plot concerns a Broadway producer (John Lovelady) whose main problem is keeping his cast and crew housed and fed until opening night. He descends with his entourage on a hotel owned by relative (Jack Agnew) and the hilarious hijinks began.

Al Gresham, Bill Warnoch, and Sam Sherrill play the other principal roles. Rounding out the cast are Carl House, Dixie Golladay, Sandra Walker, M. J. Vosse, Donald Rhodes, Charles O'Brien, Jim Schliebler, Eric Anderson, and Joe Short.

"Room Service" will play through next Friday. Curtain time: 8:30.

Pelvis on Parade

"Blue Hawaii" is a song-saturated, fun-filled film starring Pelvis Presley as chief hip-slinger, sand-slinger, and song-singer. It's at the Strand.

Pro-Pelvis people should relish this opportunity to see Mr. Quiver slither in and out of the waves at Waikiki, bursting into song at every possible moment, usually clad in a skin-tight swimsuit specially designed for him by Academy Award winning Edith Head. Paramount parades Pelvis dressed only in top-notch togs.

The plot? It's hard to find, for "Blue Hawaii" is merely another excuse to put Presley back before his adoring public. Private Pelvis returns from his army hitch to the pineapple plantation, but rebels against parental pressures. As a beach boy, he guides a man-hungry school teacher and her four teenage charges around the islands.

The dialogue is often loaded: Says the schoolmarm as she surveys Pelvis' physiognomy and physique, "Do you think you can satisfy a school teacher and four teenage girls?" (One assumes she means as a guide.) Pelvis grins and says, "Ah can try."

There's lots of slapstick, handled rather well by an accomplished cast of veterans including Angela Lansbury, Roland Winters, and John Archer. Artfully artless as the doting mother, Actress Lansbury provides the comical highlights. Joan Blackman pouts perfunctorily and pretties up the picture as Presley's prime paramour.

Elvis Presley must be congratulated for bringing back to the fore movie musicals, which had virtually disappeared from the screen scene since the high-stepping heydays of Doris Day and Betty Grable. He has again popularized the musical, and his most recent movies have indeed been enthusiastically-acted and entertaining, though in substance they are nothing but songs strung loosely together with dregs of dialogue.

The inevitable questions arise: can Presley act? and does he still have that tell-tale drawl? His recent musicals, this one included, really haven't given the young man much of a chance as an actor, though he performed more than adequately in "Loving You" and "King Creole." And the drawl is an indomitable part of the Presley personality that obstinately refuses to be curbed.

The same gestures are there, the raised eyebrow, the languid eyes, the wiggles and wriggles that make him look as if he just stepped out of a vibrator. As a result, it's a sure bet that box office lines at "Blue Hawaii" will be very, very long for a long, long time.

Presley's talent is certainly singular and a long list of unsuccessful imitators prove that the original can't be beaten. He is indeed a striking, even electrifying, performer, especially when seen live.

Perhaps his phenomenal success lies in the fact that he is a sort of twentieth century Abraham Lincoln, a poor boy who made good, showing that humble origins can be left behind and that Rolls-Royces and Cadillacs and Whitehaven homes can be acquired by the person who has the right talent at the right time. To quote an "angry young man" whom Sean O'Faolain says is neither angry nor young, there's always "room at the top." Presley has proved it.

TV Tune-In

"Broken Arrow," a recent feature film that tells of strained race relations (between reds and whites, not b's and w's), is WMCT-TV's feature at 8 tomorrow night on Channel 5. James Stewart and Debra Paget star and Jeff Chandler makes an imposing Cochise.

An offbeat drama of a psychopathic killer who terrorizes a college campus will unfold on "Lock-up" tomorrow night at 11 on Channel 5. Psychology majors are urged to tune in; it's rumored that profs Nash and Queener will quiz students Monday to see "whodunit" and why he did it.

Soprano Reiners Charms Crowd

Last Monday night, Nov. 27, the music department of Southwestern presented Miss Anne Reiners in a faculty recital at Bohlmann Hall. Assisted by John Wehlan, violinist, and Charles Phillips, pianist, Miss Reiners opened the program with a work by Mozart, in which she displayed both superb technique and expressive warmth.

In a group of German songs by Brahms and Richard Strauss, she effectively created a succession of moods, ranging from serious to light and gay.

Two operatic arias by Cilea and Puccini showed Miss Reiners' extensive range and fine vocal control.

The audience received a rare treat with the performance of five French songs by Felix Fondrain. Miss Reiners' excellent interpretation and beauty of tone made these songs truly a thrilling experience for the listeners.

A group of English songs closed the program, the most charming being "Deborah" by Gene Bone and Howard Fenton.

Miss Reiners' voice was smooth and beautiful at all times, and her singing was truly an artistic delight.

"HAPPINESS CAN'T BUY MONEY"

I have asked the makers of Marlboro—an enterprising and aggressive group of men; yet at the same time warm and lovable; though not without acumen, perspicacity, and drive; which does not, however, mask their essential great-heartedness; a quality evident to all who have ever enjoyed the beneficence of their wares; I refer, of course, to Marlboro Cigarettes, a smoke fashioned with such loving care and tipped with such an easy-drawing filter that these old eyes grow misty when I think upon it—I have asked, I say, the makers of Marlboro—that aggregate of shrewd but kindly tobaccoists, that cluster of hearty souls bound together by the profit motive and an unflagging determination to provide a cigarette forever flavorful and eternally pleasing—I have asked, I say, the makers of Marlboro whether I might use today's column to take up the controversial question. Should a coed share expenses on a date?

"Yes," said the makers simply. We all shook hands then and squeezed each other's shoulders and exchanged brave smiles, and if our eyes were a trifle moist, who can blame us?

To the topic then: Should a coed share expenses on a date? I think I can best answer the question by citing the following typical case:

Poseidon Nebenzal, a student at Oklahoma A and M, majoring in hides and tallow, fell wildly in love with Mary Ellen Flange, a flax weevil major at the same school. His love, he had reason to believe from Mary Ellen's sidelong glances and maidenly blushes, was not entirely unrequited, and by and by he mustered up enough courage to ask her the all-important question: "Will you wear my 4-H pin?"

"Oh, foolish reaper! Why have you not told me before?"

"Yes," she said simply. They shook hands then and squeezed each other's shoulders and exchanged brave smiles, and if their eyes were a trifle moist, who can blame them?

For a time things went swimmingly. Then a cloud appeared. Mary Ellen, it seems, was a rich girl and accustomed to costly pleasures. Poseidon was bone-poor and he quickly ran out of money. Unable to take Mary Ellen to the posh places she fancied and too proud to tell her the reason, he turned surly and full of melancholy. Soon their romance, so promising at the beginning, was headed for a breakup. But at the last moment, Poseidon managed to blurt out the truth.

"Oh, beloved agrarian!" cried Mary Ellen, grappling him close. "Oh, proud husbandman! Oh, foolish reaper! Why have you not told me before? I have plenty of money, and I will contribute according to my ability."

Poseidon, of course, protested, but she finally persuaded him of the wisdom of her course. From then on they split all expenses according to their incomes. Rather than embarrass Poseidon by handing him money in public, a joint bank account was set up to allow him to write checks. Into this account each week they faithfully deposited their respective allowances—35 cents from Poseidon; $2300 from Mary Ellen.

And it worked fine! They were happy—truly happy! And what's more, when they graduated they had a nice little nest egg—eight million dollars—with which to furnish a lovely apartment in Lubbock, Texas, where today they operate the local laundromat.

So you see? You too can salvage your failing romance if you will only adopt a healthy, sensible attitude toward money.

Lynx Cagers Battle L.R.U. In Season's Opener Sat.

The Southwestern basketball team will play Little Rock University here at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday night.

Little Rock presently has a 0-2 record. Arkansas College, rated one of the top three teams in the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference, nipped Little Rock for the University's loss. Little Rock also lost to Harding College.

Little Rock's 6'10" center puts the Lynx Cats, whose tallest man is 6'6", to a great disadvantage as far as height is concerned. Lack of height may prove to be a great handicap to the Cats this season.

Coach May says, "The team's attitude and hustle has been terrific." He expects that Saturday night will show a fine game, and he urges strong support on the part of Southwestern's student body.

The team's number was strengthened last week by the addition of Kenneth Gann, a freshman. The team's progress depends greatly upon its freshmen this year.

Southwestern's next game will be played Monday night at the same time against Birmingham Southern. Let's back up our team this year by attending its games.

Night Game Breaks Jinx: Lynx Out-Hop Kangaroos

Southwestern broke the jinx on its first home night game, Nov. 18, 1961 against the Austin Kangaroos 7-6. In the last four years Southwestern has lost to Austin, and also had lost their past four games.

The first half seemed to pass slowly but in the second half everything seemed much warmer, including the temperature and tempers. Jerry Manley returned the opening kickoff to the Southwestern 43 and eight plays later the Lynxcats scored. Vance Strange threw a beautiful pass to Robert Echols from the 4 yard line for the score. Muke Truscott made a perfect kick for the game winning point.

The Kangaroos made their score when Bill Harwood fumbled a punt and Austin recovered on Southwestern's 41. The Kangaroos drove slowly to the goal line and finally scored by recovering a fumble in the end zone. Although Austin had three tries, they failed to score the two point conversion.

The longest play of the game was in the fourth quarter when Austin's quarterback, Shaffer, hit Cameron for a 62-yard pass play. Robert Echols made a beautiful tackle even though he had a blocker in front of him to keep Cameron from going the distance. Southwestern ended its season with a 4-4 record.

Intramurals

Tuesday, November 21, 4:30 p.m., was the day for the annual intramural cross-country meet. Out of a field of thirty-four entrants, thirty-one finished. Each men's group was allowed seven entrants. Of these, five had to finish in order to constitute a team. Each entrant was required to run the 2.1 mile course five times prior to the day of the meet.

Mickey Powell (SAE) went ahead to stay after the first half mile and finished with a time of 13:47. Placing second was Harvey Caughey (ATO) in 14:17.

The team trophy went to SAE with 46 points. KS with 68 points and ATO with 69 points placed second and third respectively.

In Girls' sports, the women's intramural volleyball tournament is half over, with the Tri Deltas strongly defending their first place trophy of last year. With newcomers Judy Emery, Helen Bauman, and Louise Currie the team has found sound replacements for last year's senior players, now graduated.

Zeta and KD are competing for first place in the B-team league. It's anybody's guess as to who'll win, although the DDD B-team may very well be a "dark horse" candidate for the top spot.

Sorority standings are presently as follows:

A League
DDD	5 0
AOPI	4 1
KD	4 1
Ind.	4 4
XO	1 5
ZTA	1 5
B League
KD	2 0
ZTA	2 0
AOPI	0 1

Professor Prognosticator

Much of the interest that the country had stirred up about football has simmered down in the wake of the up and coming basketball season. However, there are several games of importance taking place this week end, and more than ever, the eyes of the country should be focused on the teams playing on December 1, 1961. This has been a year of upsets and disappointments for many coaches and teams across the country. Ole Miss shouldn't have lost to LSU, but they did; the same goes for Texas and TCU. Likewise there are some top teams in the nation playing this week who should prove their stuff, but they could also go down to defeat.

Colorado over Air Force. The Falcons have had a singular run of bad luck this year, Colorado has looked good even in defeat, so they should take this one by ten points.

Navy over Army. This, of course, is a terrifically hard game to pick, but the Middies should take it.

Alabama over Auburn. Probably 75,000-100,000 people will pack the streets and hotels of Birmingham for this spectacle. If there were ever any doubts in the minds of sportscasters about the fortitude of Alabama, Bear Bryant's Crimson Tide should create a Tide-al wave over the Auburn Tigers who have been spasmodic at best all year.

Rice over Baylor. I haven't even looked at what the national sportscasters are predicting in this game, but it's time for a Rice blaze of glory to end the season. One touch-down.

Florida and Miami. Toss-up. Both teams have had a rugged season and it's hard to tell which team will come out on top.

Georgia Tech over Georgia. A big rivalry game, but the Bulldogs are no match for the Yellow Jackets. There's always next year.

Notre Dame over Duke. This one could be a really rugged game, but the Irishmen should take it by ten points.

Ole Miss over Miss State. Watch this one. Mississippi State could make it plenty tough for the Rebels. North Carolina over Virginia. This may be a grudge meet, but if it is, Virginia will get no satisfaction this year. Ten points for the Tarheels.

Oklahoma over Oklahoma State. No contest.

TCU over SMU. Still gloating over their victory over Texas, ranked No. 1 at the time, the Horned Frogs should go all the way over the dead body of SMU.

Tennessee over Vanderbilt. Nolo contener.

The college football season will thus roar to a close with grudge games being played all over the country; these may well determine the national standings of the teams across the land.

From The Sidelines

As the last football helmet and jersey are hung up, the attention of sports enthusiasts turns to basketball and the winter sports. The football team has shown a great effort and has fulfilled the expectations of the Athletic Department. Though there were several games lost in season play, special attention should be given to the fact that Southwestern played some of the top teams in the nation and came out exceedingly well. Also the Lynx were playing under a severe handicap with the loss of several players due to pre-season and season play. As long as credit is being given, certainly special gratitude should be given to those who devoted their time to training the team. Such men as Head Coach Woody Johnson, Athletic Director Bill Maybry, Assistant Coach Winky May, Backfield Coach Ross Pritchard, and Line Coach Preacher Roberts spent untiring efforts in preparing the team for play. One final note of appreciation should be given to the students for their limitless enthusiasm in supporting the team from the stands.

Turning to another fall sport, the Southwestern Athletic department sent two men to the NCAA College Division Cross Country meet in Wheaton, Illinois. These men were Mallory Chamberlain and Dossett Foster who placed 63rd and 102nd respectively out of 130 participants. Although not as much attention is given to Cross Country as to other sports, it is one of greatest endurance. With one senior out of a sixteen-man squad the team should continue to be a leader in cross country in the South.

Ritschl

tolerance is not a Christian virtue, but it must be adapted and put to use with intelligence, interests, and imagination. Simplicity of theology is reached through thinking, not through lazy unintellectualism."

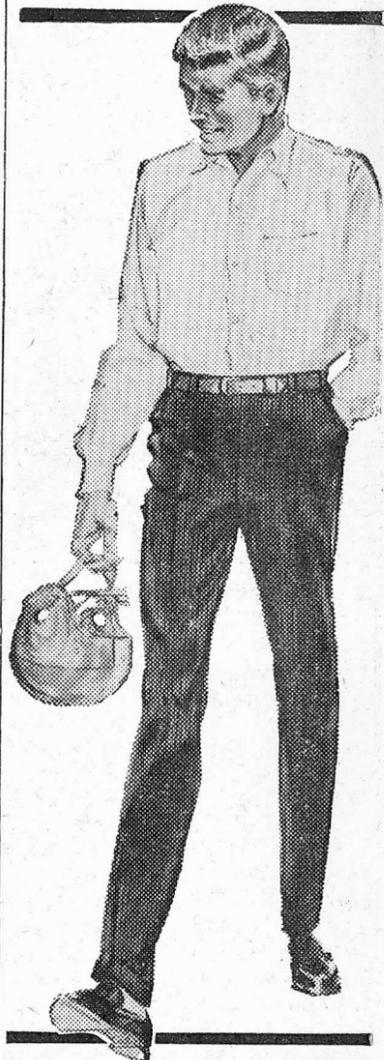

Dr. Ritschl tied his two previous lectures together by sketching the eastern and western concepts of Christ. The east views Christ as a divine man who is omnipresent while the west regards him as an agent of God, sacramentally present. Delving further into his characterization, Dr. Ritschl declared:

"Jesus was the man for whom God was waiting. Jesus is not afraid of the strong and happy people. He does what no man has done—he says yes to God. He is what I ought to be. He is man's sufficient reply to God. In Jesus, not only God, but man is revealed. And we often find it hard to be humble toward man."

Turning to the broader area of the Christian faith, the speaker emphasized, "Faith does not rest with the heart; grace does not rest within the soul; acceptance does not rest in wealth. It is impossible to be a Christian by working alone. But that very man without strength, beauty or qualifications is the beloved man. As soon as you blame one for not having faith, you deny that faith is a gift."

"Grace and humanism come to us from God; problems come to us from God; problems come to us from the world. The west has talked so much of man that the world is beginning to believe us. It is time for a call back to 'divine materialism.' Our talk is not to again make Christianity a world power, for even those who cannot accept Christianity are well-preserved, for they have been invited to be men. It is impossible to forget bad things, but we can remember and forgive. We must be solid and work with what we have. Blessed are those in the midst of difficulties. To sum up with Paul, 'When I am weak, I am strong.' God is on the weaker side."
