Public Relations Meetings Held In Little Rock, Ark.

On Friday, October 13, the Mid-South Chapter of the Public Relations Society of America conducted a one-day "Seminar on Public Relations" for college students who may presently be considering careers in public relations. The Seminar was held in the Auditorium of the University of Arkansas Medical Center in Little Rock from ten until three.

Twenty-three colleges and universities in the states of Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi, and Louisiana were contacted to send students to the PR Seminar. The speakers included such PR notables as Ed Lipscomb, Memphis, Director of Public Relations, National Cotton Council and past president of the Public Relations Society of America and the International Public Relations Association; J. Robert Massey, Public Relations Manager for the Memphis Works of the International Harvester Company; C. Ramon Greenwood, Director of Public Relations, the Crossett Company and Member, Board of Directors, Public Relations Society of America. Subjects that were discussed covered a wide range of PR topics: Community relations, Industrial relations, Customer relations, Stockholder relations, Employee relations, educating yourself for a PR career, Tools needed to do the PR job, Media relations, and corporate vs. agency PR.

Representing Southwestern at the PR Seminar were Bill Davidson, Lynn Finch, Beth Poe, and Susan Hunter.

Senior Meeting, 10:00 a.m., Saturday, Oct. 14, in 101 Science, for discussion of chapel privileges.

Chairman's Chapel Report—

Dean Jones Outlines, Clarifies Motives In SW's Chapel-Convocation Program

From: Dean Jameson M. Jones, Chairman, Faculty Committee on Administration

To: Seniors requesting that we acknowledge their maturity by letting their attendance at chapels and convocations be voluntary rather than required.

You asked that we give our reasons along with our answer to your petition. While I cannot hope to lay bare all the roots of a collected judgment, I will try to state the main points.

I. WHY DO WE HAVE CHAPELS AND CONVOCATIONS FOR THE COLLEGE AS A WHOLE?

These regular meetings are an essential part of the total educational perform four important functions which, if left to everybody's individual responsibility, might become nobody's responsibility and might in time cease to be performed at all.

(1) They relate the college to the world outside the college.

People in general will, unless they are forced to raise their eyes occasionally to wider horizons, limit their concern to their own immediate interests, their own little family, their own social group, their own business or professional world. The academic community, because of its emphasis on theory and because of the youthfulness of the majority of its members, is especially liable to the illusion that it is a "world of its own."

The Student Council's choice of Clarence Streit's UNION NOW as a subject for freshmen discussion

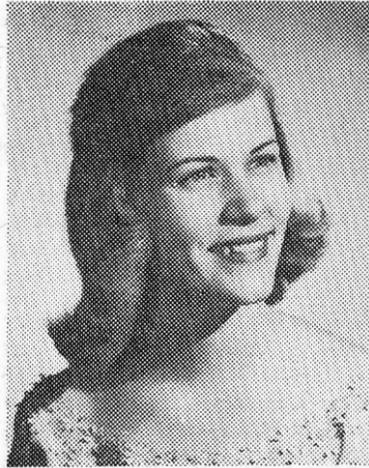

Danforth Works For Community

The Danforth Organization headed by Lynn Finch and Steve Richardson is one of the most hard-working, and one of the least publicized organizations on campus. It was started eight years ago when Mr. Danforth gave a grant to the school, part of which was to be explicitly used for the purpose of forming this group. Now Danforth is a functioning and highly organized group of workers.

For two hours each week about forty participants spend time with the illiterate, crippled children, underprivileged children and even problem children. "Danforth gives a student a chance to link himself with the outside world, so he is not merely a member of the academic community, but also of the city community," said Lynn Finch about the work and workers of Danforth.

The first semester of each year, there are no new Freshman members for Danforth. During their first semester, it is felt that Freshmen may assume too many extracurricular activities, and not get to come back for second semester. At the beginning of second semester, the Freshmen who want to volunteer are trained for six weeks in the kind of work they choose to do. However, if a student is interested in literacy teaching, he must train for three months.

During this time workers come from hospitals, Sunday Schools, and neighborhood houses for the underprivileged. This organization is one Southwestern is proud of, and with good reason. It needs good workers, but does not take away from studies.

Kappa Sigma Names A New Sweetheart

At its open house last Friday night, Phi Chapter of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity announced Rita Haas Edington as Sweetheart for the 1961-62 college year.

Rita was born in Mobile, Alabama, lived in Memphis for a few years, and now makes her home in Kerrville, Texas. Her father is President of Schreiner Institute in Kerrville. She attended Tivy High School in Kerrville and was a cheerleader, member of the Student Council, and a school favorite.

As a sophomore this year, Rita is majoring in Christian Education. She is a member of the Delta Delta Delta sorority, and is a cheerleader and member of the Pep Club.

Mrs. Haener, patron saint of the present Less Less Infirmary, announces to the faculty and the entire student body that a flu epidemic is headed toward the United States. To protect the health of the present run-down student bodies, immunization shots are available in the Infirmary for 60c.

tend chapel, that worship to have religious worth must be done freely. I thoroughly agree that the act of worship must be free; however, I think a person may be required to attend and still engage freely in worship. Let me ask you a question about fraternity life. I feel sure that you would agree that true friendship, like worship, must be freely entered. Should pledges be required to attend the pledge meetings? Should active members, in order to remain active, be required to attend a reasonable number of meetings?

(3) They relate the academic departments to each other through relating them to the educational life of the college as a whole.

If your discussion with the faculty committee you paid tribute to the high challenge of the course of study at Southwestern. The faculty member's most immediate responsibility is to see that in his field the library holdings and laboratory equipment, the required and elective courses, assignments, lectures, discussions are "up to the bet and better than the rest."

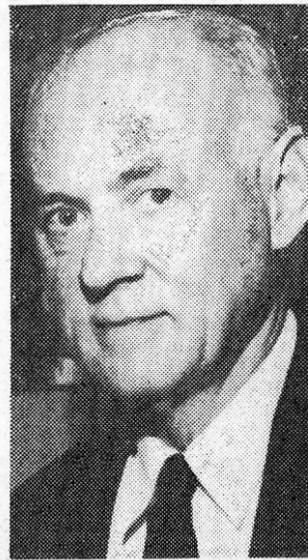

The various fields are, however, also related to each other. A liberal education comes to focus finally in the judgments a person makes. Some of these judgments base themselves on specialized knowledge of one field only. Others, and

Atlantic Unionist Streit Lecturer Next Tuesday

"Union Now" AUTHOR TO ADDRESS STUDENTS ON NATO FEDERATION PROPOSAL, ANSWER QUESTIONS

Mr. Clarence K. Streit, author and lecturer, is renowned the world over for his active role in the Atlantic Union movement. Mr. Streit, favoring a federation of the N.A.T.O. republics, will visit Southwestern Tuesday, October 17 in conjunction with the Freshman Seminar program. He will address the entire student body at assembly in the gymnasium.

Mr. Clarence Streit

George E. Downing To Dedicate Bellingrath

George E. Downing of Mobile will give the dedicatory address at the dedication October 18 of the new Bellingrath Hall at Southwestern at Memphis which is named for the late Walter D. Bellingrath, Mobile businessman and founder of the world famous gardens.

Thirty Southwestern students from the Mobile area and a number of friends and associates of Mr. Bellingrath will be present for the ceremonies at 5:30 p.m. in the courtyard of the men's residence quadrangle.

Dr. Peyton N. Rhodes, president of the college, will preside and others on the program will be A. Van Pritchard, chairman of the board; Dr. Jameson M. Jones, dean; Charles I. Diehl, dean of men; and Dr. W. J. Millard, the board's first vice president.

The new residence hall housing 106 men students, is built like all Southwestern's buildings in collegiate Gothic style of stone with Vermont slate roof. One of its distinguishing features is a tiny prayer room designed like a miniature chapel.

The dedication will be of special interest to 30 students from the Mobile area now attending Southwestern. Mobile men living in Bellingrath Hall this fall are Billy Potts, Howard Edington, Bill Bodie, Jimmy Dumas, Jack Aldridge, Garret Van Antwerp, Greg Luce, Ronnie Allen, Owen Middleton, and Dennis Spiers.

Mr. Bellingrath was a long time friend of the college, visited the campus several times and was awarded an honorary degree of Doctor of Humanities here in 1951. Southwestern is one of three colleges and two churches which share annually in proceeds from the Bellingrath-Morse Foundation.

Interested students and Memphis citizens will meet in the Adult Education Center Tuesday evening at 8:00 p.m. to hear Mr. Streit's further comments and to ask questions. The author of Freedom's Frontier—Atlantic Union Now, Mr. Streit will leave the United States within the month to attend the Atlantic Convention; Southwestern students recognize the importance to the campus of his timely visit.

Freshmen and transfer students will meet in Hardie Auditorium Wednesday, October 18, to divide into groups in order to discuss the ideas and proposals made by Mr. Streit in his address and in his book. It is important that each student be in the auditorium at 7:00 p.m. with his own copy of Freedom's Frontier—Atlantic Union Now. Any upperclassmen who would like to purchase a copy of the book in order better to understand Mr. Streit's remarks, may secure one through the Student Council.

STAB Names Blond Of Year

STAB intersorority announced Wednesday its "Blond of the Year", June Johnston of Delta Delta Delta sorority. STAB's first new member for this school year, June is a senior, majoring in economics. She has served her sorority as historian, house chairman, pledge trainer, and currently as marshal. June served on the dormitory governing board her first three years at Southwestern, and as president of Evergreen board the first semester of her junior year. She has been on the Dean's List, and is currently assistant Resident Head in Voorhies.

The Honor Council wishes to remind the freshmen of their election or representatives tomorrow morning at ten o'clock in Hardie Auditorium.

About Campus by Diane Lobaugh

The Faculty Committee on Administration with Dean Jones as its Chairman deserves a sincere commendation for the time and thought they spent on the Senior petition requesting exemption from Chapel. I urge you all to read Dean Jones' letter to the seniors which is printed in this issue of the Sou'wester.

Notice, it says YES! But before you run off rejoicing, look again! It's a qualified yes. We of the class of 1962 do not have to attend Chapel, but we now have a bigger responsibility than we had when we were required to go. We are an experiment. We claimed that we were mature enough to choose the Chapel programs that we would attend. This maturity does not mean (I hope) that we will choose none! We do have a choice, let's use it wisely. Let's show the administration that we are what we claim, mature college men and women. The Chapel programs are varied enough so that I'm sure each one of us will want to attend several of them. Remember, it depends upon us, each one of us, whether the future seniors of Southwestern will have "Voluntary Chapel." Let's don't let them down, and let's don't let ourselves down. Let's enjoy our "freedom", but let's remember that with this freedom we also have a big responsibility! Come on gang, we can do it!

The Kappa Sig's had a huge crowd at their Open House Friday night when they announced their new sweetheart, Rita Edington. Congratulations, Rita.

ATO will entertain with an Open House this Friday night from 6-8. Y'all go!

On Monday night AOPi had Kappa Sig for desert, the DDD's entertained the ATO's, the Chi Omega's had the Sigma Nus, and ZTA entertained the SAEs.

The ZTAs will celebrate their Founder's Day on Wednesday, October 18.

Congrats to Nina, Pinta, and Santa Maria for "making the scene" 469 years ago yesterday!

The Sigma Nu Pledge officers are as follows: President: Smitty Smith, Secretary: Kenny Brunson, Treasurer: Tommy Durff, Chaplain: Sid Selvidge.

"Out, out brief candle" was the most popular saying at a certain dessert Monday night.

Trio Concertante Featured Here

The opening program of the Chamber Music Series will feature the Trio Concertante. The personnel, all members of Concert Artists of Pittsburgh, consists of Derry Deane, violinist, Roger Drinkall, cellist, and Malcolm Bilson, pianist. All are in residence at the University of Illinois.

The trio will present a program of trios by Beethoven and Schubert, and a duo for violin and cello by opaly.

Derry Deane, a former member of the Southwestern faculty, is well remembered for her work with the Memphis Symphony and her solo appearance in Memphis and the Mid-South.

Frosh Set To Elect Man And Woman To Honor Council

Two freshmen will have the opportunity to participate fully in the Honor Council when elections of freshman representatives are held. The decision is slated for this Saturday, October 14, in Hardie Auditorium, at 10 a.m.

To prepare for the coming event, the Council held a meeting of all freshmen last Saturday. Jimmy Thomas, president of the group, delivered an address on the qualifications of membership. Then nominations of qualifying freshmen were made from the floor.

From these suggestions, the Council plans to select three boys and three girls whom they will present for election. These new members will help the group "to foster a spirit of honor at Southwestern; and to investigate and act upon cases of cheating, stealing, and lying (in official matters) on the part of students in connection with academic work or campus life."

perhaps the most important ones, are judgments relating knowledge from various fields. It is these latter that only too few have the wit or courage to make well.

Only the free and creative imagination of the individual can unite scattered knowledge in judgments embodying wisdom. Still the college should somewhere in its program, exhibit its concern for and homage to this highest act of the mind. It is a tribute to our faculty's generosity of mind as well as intelligence that members are willing to speak out of their own disciplines. That this kind of program occurs and will continue to occur helps mightily to make Southwestern a

Your Student Council

Southwestern's representative to the National Student Association Congress, held this past summer at the University of Wisconsin, presented his report on the Congress to the Student Council Tuesday night at the regular meeting. Although Southwestern is no longer in membership of NSA, Cyril Hollighsworth was sent to the convention because it was felt that his attendance would benefit both Student Council and Student Body. Cyril's review was well received. In his summary of the transactions of the Congress, he brought out the fact that the importance of straightforwardness on the part of all present was stressed. The attendants were urged to express their ideas on all issues and debate vehemently for their side of the fence, whether it be conservatism or liberalism, segregation or integration, or whatever. Cyril felt that a sense of open-mindedness and fair play was observed throughout the ten day meeting.

It would be fortunate if each member of the Student Body could hear this NSA report to realize that we are not merely students of Southwestern, bound by the walls of this institution, but are students of the United States and the world, and are bound by our obligations to them.

The Student Council is in possession of Cyril's eight page typewritten report. Any interested persons are welcome to read this and other material concerning NSA.

Residence Hall discussions began this Wednesday night with "Desegregation" as the topic. Ten o'clock was the time and meetings were held on two floors of Bellingrath, in Robb, White, and Ellett social rooms, and in Voorhies, Townsend, and East Halls for women.

The announcement of Mr. Clarence Streit's appearance on campus is repeated. He will be here Tuesday, October 17, in Student Assembly and will also be available for discussion Tuesday evening. (This will be an approved night out for women.) The seminar on Mr. Streit's plan for Atlantic Federation, Freedom's Frontier: Atlantic Union Now, will be Wednesday, October 18.

The Elections Commission has recently elected Oliver Dickens, vice president, and Susan Horton, secretary. The commission is now in the process of changing its constitution, which will be presented to the council for approval in two weeks.

Next week Hazing reports and evaluation will be given at the Student Council meeting. Those of you who have suggestions and criticisms are urged to speak to Jimmy Finley or Margaret Johnson and also to come to the meeting.

college and not just a collection of schools.

(4) They nurture and give expression to the unity of the student body.

This function needs no defense and little elaboration. Not only do you students go gladly to student assemblies, but you are willing to take the walk to Mallory Gymnasium in order that the entire student body can meet together. Your attendance at these meetings symbolizes the fact that you do not pursue a solitary course towards individual ends, but rather that you walk with classmates and belong to each other in common goals.

II. IS IT RIGHT TO REQUIRE

Across The Desk Category: The Living Lie

It is appalling the number of times the Social Regulations of this college are willfully, wantonly violated. It is almost incomprehensible that an organization, more specifically a Greek Letter Organization, would condone and encourage the boycotting of "exclusive" campus events in favor of its own private social functions. It is not merely one organization which practices this custom; it appears to be the practice of nearly all the organizations.

The fact that the party is in the name of one of the members of the group does not make it any more right. The naked facts are that the groups in question have acquired a convenient loophole to be able to do as they please.

We could not conceive of a worse possible condition than the tight regimenting of the students on the Southwestern campus, nor would anyone in his right mind deny any personage the right to the freedom of association with his friends. A party for one's friends is one thing; wholesale disregard of common sense is another.

How could a responsible college administration ignore such conduct? Some of the Social Rules are indeed vague, but the regulations in question seem clear, and need no interpretation. We feel that it is superfluous to define what is or is not lady-like or gentlemanly conduct. A college student should have some concept of what he expects of not only himself, but of his associates, and live up to it, or down to it, whichever the case may be. There can be no genuine doubt as to what constitutes rowdiness, drunkenness, or improper conduct. If there is, the doubter should take out his dictionary or borrow one from a friend or go to the library and look up some definitions.

The doubter can logically go only so far without offending the good taste and sensitivity of his fellow classmates, and the administration with his conduct.

When this happens, either the habits must go, the rest of the inhabitants must go, or the doubting Thomas must go. If the regulations on what is and what is not permissible by an organization need clarification, then, "So let it be written: so let it be done." But common sense would indicate that this view is straining at a gnat to swallow a camel, to coin a hackneyed expression.

To make a touchy situation worse, there are individuals in high positions representing the Student Body who either condone these actions, encourage them, or both. Is it any wonder that the Administration questions our maturity? How can we consider ourselves as mature adults when we blatantly allow all sense of logic to completely evade us?

The college regulations state that no intoxicants are to be served at any organizational function, nor are they to be brought on campus. If these regulations are offensive, the way to do away with them is not to violate them; this course of action would seem only to bring tighter restrictions. Criticism of what is bad in the world in itself, never did away with the evil, nor will a regulation which is unpalatable to some persons, groups of persons, or organizations, go away simply by its violation. Eventually there must either be an elimination of the ruling, or a crack down by the administration. The latter seems to be the inevitable. When constructive views and sensible alternatives are presented, perhaps those "creatures in the dark" may be brought to the light.

ATTENDANCE AT CHAPELS AND CONVOCATIONS?

My answer to this question is simply yes. If the exercise of authority is necessary to insure that these experiences form a part of a student's total educational experience, then I favor exercising the authority.

To make clear its position for succeeding years, the Committee on Administration has instructed the Registrar to include in the next published catalogue the simple policy: All Southwestern students are required to attend regularly the chapels and convocations. The size of the student body and the adequacy of meeting places may occasion from time to time adjustments in the manner of administering this policy. The important point is to have the basic position clearly stated.

III. WHAT ABOUT THE CLAIM OF THE CLASS OF 1962 THAT I IS MATURE TO THE EXTENT THAT IT DOES NOT NEED TO BE REQUIRED?

The Committee recognizes that some members have this maturity. What about the class as a whole? We are prepared to enter into an experiment, if you are. From the statement of basic policy in the preceding paragraph and from the traditional practice at Southwestern it is fair obvious that we have not considered past senior classes to have reached this level of maturity. But maybe we have something to learn from the Class of 1962. We suggest therefore an experiment in self-knowledge for the Class of 1962 as follows:

No member of the Class of 1962 will be in any way penalized for non-attendance at chapels and convocations. On the other hand, members who do attend will check their names on the roll whenever they do attend. We will compile statistics at the end of each semester on senior class attendance and report the resulting figures to the senior class and to the student body as a whole.

We consider this experiment a means of getting a valuable insight into the exercises of freedom, into the sense of responsibility, of the Class of 1962. If you wish to engage in this experiment in self-knowledge, you are invited to communicate your agreement with me.

Jameson M. Jones, Dean

A prominent, pedantic Memphis minister is back on his bombastic bandwagon, ranting, raving and rabble-rousing in a manner that should gain him the title of patron saint of censorship.

Many of his ideas and ideals are worthwhile; his means to his ends are questionable.

It all started last spring when said minister read a newspaper review of the film "Go Naked in the World," which the reviewer said glorified prostitution. I know not whether the minister saw the film. I only know his reaction of passionate pulpit pounding.

As a result of his colorful condemnation, the theatre where the film was playing showed a startling rise in ticket sales, whereas it had been doing less-than-average business. Its popularity in Memphis soared.

I had not seen the picture in question, so I hurried to investigate the cause of the raucous ruckus. "Go Naked in the World" is in bad taste. No strong feats of acting redeem it. Its director is no Fellini.

As for the film glorifying prostitution, that's just one reviewer's opinion; can a bloated body on an Acapulco beach be construed as glamorous? This is the condition of the film's heroine at the outset, and even at the onset she is a thoroughly wretched and miserable individual.

That was the beginning of the hullabaloo. And the boxoffice receipts for "Go Naked in the World" were greater, percentage-wise, in Memphis than in any other city of comparable size in the United States! It would seem that the caustic clergyman has defeated his purpose.

And now the local Judeo-Christian Council for Decency has proposed that their representatives be given special screenings of all film releases. The answer to this request was a thumbs-down by the Motion Picture Association of America.

The MPAA's representative, Kenneth Clark, said with all justification: "There would be no end of it, obviously, if we set up

AEC Featuring New Group Talks

Southwestern students are invited to participate in an experimental discussion project being undertaken by the Adult Education Center. The project involves the comparison of three versions of Graham Greene's "The Power and the Glory."

On Sunday evening, October 29th, CBS Television will present Laurence Olivier and Julie Harris in a dramatization of the novel from 8:00 to 10:00 p.m. on WREC, Channel 3. On Monday, November 13 from 7:30 to 9:30 Professor Hill will lead a discussion comparing the novel and the teleplay at the Adult Education Center. On Monday, November 20th, a film version of the novel, "The Fugitive," directed by John Ford and featuring Henry Fonda, will be shown at the Adult Center at 3:30, 7:00 and 9:00. Then on Wednesday evening, November 29 a final discussion comparing the three versions will be held at the Adult Center.

There will be no cost to participants other than purchase of the book (available in paperback for $1.45) and admission to the film (50 cents for students). Students may view the TV program at the Center on October 29th. Any student interested in participating may register at the Adult Center office.

machinery for local previewing in Memphis. The idea would proliferate all over the country and would become a burden that we could not stand, nor should we be expected to stand it in view of our long-time cooperation with national organizations now rating pictures."

Mr. Clark has a point and a valid one: why can't Memphians use national ratings by such organizations as the National Legion of Decency and the National Education Association, who never hesitate to call a spade a spade?

Censorship of adult films such as "La Dolce Vita" and the artless "Go Naked in the World" must necessarily limit the audience to mature adults, for false conclusions and bad impressions can undoubtedly be drawn from such films by children and immature adults.

Vehement rabble-rousing is not the means by which such censorship can be accomplished, for the American public will not consent to be dictated to by a Memphis minister or anyone else. Reason, the ability to determine the difference between right and wrong and to act accordingly, is the answer.

Frank Montesi, prominent Catholic layman and a member of the Judeo-Christian Council for Decency, challenged Memphis Mayor Henry Loeb to clean up the "trash" under local marquees.

The mayor's reply was an expected one. Like the senate, Loeb seems to have power to advise and consent, not to prohibit or ban.

Montesi then ironically said, "The only thing that I see to be done is for each family head to maintain a close surveillance over his own family to make sure they see only good wholesome pictures." He unexpectedly hit on the solution to the pesky problem in his statement. Family or self-censorship is the only solution.

Pounding the pulpit brings nothing but calluses on the hands.

LOWELL AT LOEW'S

Lowell Thomas' "Seven Wonders of the World" opens tonight at Loew's Palace. It's big and beautiful and bold. The cinerama cameras swep around the globe and take in lots of lovely landscapes, skylines and seashores.

A closing motif showing California's redwood forests with a rousing stereo finale of "This is My Country" is impressive.

I do hope the Judeo-Christian Council of Decency members see this one. It proves that SOME movies are better than ever. Don't expect plot; it's a travelogue, and a good one.

SEASON OPENS AT MLT

Memphis Little Theatre opens its season tonight with "Farewell Farewell Eugene" a contemporary three-act comedy by John Vari and Rodney Ackland. It will run through Oct. 21.

In the cast are Rose Marie Barrasso, Marjorie Cherry, Kenneth Canestrari, Jeanne Rostaing, Barbara Evans, Ted Seymour, Eileen Taylor, Dorothy Goodrich and Don Rhodes.

Al Greshman is directing this story of a staid spinster who learns that she can't mold people to her own wants.

'BOUT TOWN

Eliza Kazan's "Splendor in the Grass" is at the Warner. With a screenplay by William Inge of "Picnic" and "Bus Stop" fame, it stars Natalie Wood and newcomer Warren Beatty.

Other features: Susan Hayward and John Garvin "Backstreet" at the Strand; Walt Disney's "Greyfriars Bobby" (that's a dog) at the Malco; and a double bill of "Season of Passion" and "The Great War" at Loew's State.

STAKED HEARTS

Expert cinematography by Claude Renoir makes "Blood and Roses" an artful attempt that should please horror-mongers. The blood is so richly red in Technicolor that it's more stomach-turning than Winfred May's painful pushup program.

The plot: Italian peasants back in the 18th century were weary of providing throats for the use of the blood-sucking nobility (i.e., vampires)* so they staked their hearts. But alas! One stake missed its hearty goal and the lovely Millarca's sanguine spirit stayed on the loose, searching through the centuries for some body to inhabit.

And whom does Millarca's spirit choose? Carmilla, played by luscious Annette Vadim. Carmilla is lured to Millarca's crypt one moonlit night, and she emerges with that bloodthirsty gleam in her pretty eyes. Animals begin to shy away from Carmilla; they can't stand vampires, you know. Ditto for the roses; they always wilt when she touches them.

The people too began to wilt, from loss of blood.

And of course Carmilla falls in love with Cousin Leopoldo (Mel Ferrer) who, unfortunately, already has a fiancée, played by Elsa Martinelli. It's easy to imagine the fate that's in store for Leopoldo's fiancée. She always wears neck-revealing gowns in the picture, so the audience can gasp at the appropriate times when Carmilla gazes longingly at her lovely lungage.

Carmilla sees herself bleeding at the breast in every mirror she passes, and there's a dream

SW Organizations: Convocation Committee

This committee is organized for the purpose of co-ordinating the religious program on the Southwestern campus. Its functions range over almost every phase of religious activities, with the exception of the regulation of student attendance at chapel.

More specifically, the committee has as its duties making policy decisions concerning convocations and overseeing the religious life on campus as a whole. It recommends speakers and policies for chapel, and decides upon appropriate times for certain chapel programs.

At present, the committee is making a general study and evaluation of all extra-curricular and classroom activity pertaining to religion, with the aim of making any improvements which are found to be necessary.

The Committee on Convocations and Religious Activities is composed of six faculty members and four student representatives, including the president of the Student Council, and the president, vice-president and secretary of the Protestant Religious Council. At this time, the committee is made up of Dr. R. G. Patterson, chairman; Dr. D. M. Amacker; Dr. M. P. Brown; Dr. J. H. Davis; Dr. L. F. Kinney; Dr. W. T. Reveley; Bill Davidson; Charles Landreth; Liz Currie; and Leigh Townes.

HYDE-AND-SEEK

"House of Fright" is another remake of Robert Louis Stevenson's popular "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" with many added frills and thrills that make it virtually unrecognizable.

Paul Massie is a convincing Dr. Jekyll as he seeks to unleash his inner personality ("the real me," he says) with golden serum that gleams provocatively in a hypodermic. He injects the fluid, shakes spasmodically, and emerges as the lusty, sadistic Mr. Hyde. Massie attacks his part and everyone else in the movie with enthusiasm.

Also on hand are Dawn Addams as Mrs. Jekyll and Christopher Lee as a family friend. They're the unfortunates with whom Jekyll plays Hyde-and-peek.

The scriptwriters went wild with Stevenson's story and worked themselves into a cinematic corner from which there was no logical means of escape. In the final frames, they therefore bump off all their characters:

Lee is attacked by an anaconda that plays havoc with his circulatory system; Addams takes a nasty fall from a roof; and Dr. Jekyll?

THE TRUE AND

HARROWING FACTS ABOUT RUSHING

It is well enough to sit in one's Morris chair and theorize about sorority rushing, but if one really wishes to know the facts, one must leave one's Morris chair and go out into the field. (My Morris chair, incidentally, was given to me by the Philip Morris Company, makers of Marlboro Cigarettes. They are great-hearted folk, the makers of Marlboro Cigarettes, as millions of you know who have enjoyed their excellent cigarettes. Only from bountiful souls could come such mildness, such flavor, such filters, such pleasure, as you will find in Marlboros! For those who prefer crushproof boxes, Marlboro is available in crushproof boxes. For those who prefer soft packs, Marlboro is available in soft packs. For those who prefer to buy their cigarettes in bulk, please contact Emmett R. Sigafos, friendly manager of our factory in Richmond, Virginia.)

But I digress. I was saying that in order to know the true facts about sorority rushing, one must go into the field and investigate. Consequently, I went last week to the Indiana College of Spot Welding and Belles Lettres and interviewed several million coeds, among them a lovely lass named Gerund McKeever. (It is, incidentally, quite an interesting little story about how she came to be named Gerund. It seems that her father, Ralph T. McKeever, loved grammar better than anything in the world, and so he named all his children after parts of speech. In addition to Gerund, there were three girls named Preposition, Adverb, and Pronoun, and one boy named Dative Case. The girls seemed not to be unduly depressed by their names, but Dative Case, alas, grew steadily more morose and was finally found one night dangling from a participle. After this tragic event, the father abandoned his practice of grammatical nomenclature, and whatever children were subsequently born to him—eight in all—were named Everett.)

They pledged more girls than they had room for...

But I digress. I was interviewing a lovely coed named Gerund McKeever. "Gerund," I said, "were you rushed by a sorority?"

"Yes, mister," she said, "I was rushed by a sorority."

"Did they give you a high-pressure pitch?" I asked. "Did they use the hard sell?"

"No, mister," she replied. "It was all done with quiet dignity. They simply talked to me about the chapter and the girls for about three minutes and then I pledged."

"My goodness!" I said. "Three minutes is not very long for a sales talk!"

"It is when they are holding you under water, mister," said Gerund.

"Well, Gerund," I said, "how do you like the house?"

"I like the house fine, mister," she replied. "But I don't live there. Unfortunately, they pledged more girls than they have room for, so they are sleeping some of us in the bell tower." "Isn't that rather noisy?" I said.

"Only on the quarter-hour," said Gerund.

"Well, Gerund," I said, "it has certainly been a pleasure talking to you," I said.

"Likewise, mister," she said, and with many a laugh and cheer we went our separate ways—she to the campanile, I to the Morris chair.

Southwestern Trounces Centre, Head For Mississippi College

Last Saturday, October 7, the Southwestern Lynx handed the Centre College Praying Eagles a defeat for the second straight year in beating them 21-0. This was the third win this season for the Lynx.

Halfback Bill Harwood is credited with having scored three touchdowns in the game. Added to this feat he racked up 171 yards of running. For the first touchdown Harwood made a huge gain of 47 yards which put the Lynx on the seven yard line. Seconds later Harwood dove over for the score. Mike Truscott kicked the extra point. Much credit is given to lineman Buddy Tollison for a key block in the play. To the amazement of the spectators Harwood again ran a beautiful 68 yards for another touchdown. Again the extra point was good, and the Lynx were rolling.

Late in the second period Quarterback Warner Calhoun threw a spiraling pass 24 yards to Harwood waiting in the end zone for the third score. Truscott kicked the extra point and the score was 21-0.

With minutes left in the final period the Centre Colonels made one final attempt to score reaching the Southwestern 24 where they were stopped by the Lynx defense. Much due credit on defense is given to David Bird, Mike Rowland, Grover Bowers, Bob West, and Mike Drake. It was here that the Lynx dug in and held the Colonels to a scoreless game.

Offensive standouts in the game were Doug Meeks, Buddy Tollison, Frank Coyle, and Roy Twaddle who played a splendid game.

Special note should be given to Freshman Billy Hunt who punted twice in the game for an average of 40.25 yards.

Other statistics for the Lynx include three out of five passes for a total of 32 yards and a total of 271 yards rushing.

Southwestern has played Centre College sixteen times since 1889, and this is the second straight win for the Lynx Cats.

Harriers Continue Winning Ways

Southwestern's Cross - Country team met Lambuth College at Jackson, Tennessee, Wednesday and handed them a defeat. This is the fourth straight win for the Lynx harriers. Saturday they will meet the Mississippi College runners at Jackson, Mississippi.

The team as a whole has done a fine job so far but their work is still ahead of them with Mississippi College and Union. These will be two tough teams but the runners from Southwestern should surpass them.

Coach Mabry says, "One of the joys of working as a coach for the Cross-Country team is embodied in a runner such as Burt Ringold. This is the fourth straight year of running for him and he has yet to earn enough points to get a letter. Even so, he comes out every day and works out and is always ready to run. In the past four years he has improved so much that you would not believe that it was the same boy. It is working with a young man like this that is one of the greatest pleasures of coaching."

Team members are: Mallory Chamberlin, Keith Arman, Dosset Foster, Jimmy Couch, Terry Deaton, David Cooper, Howard Romaine, Roy Selvidge, John Poolman, Hal Crosby, Bert Ringold, Jim Doyle, and Joe McCown. In all meets thus far Chamberlin and Arman have come in first and second respectively.

Intramurals

With two games behind the fraternities and Independent Men, flag ball got off to a roaring start Wednesday. The games were surprising to no onlooker. SAE stamped IKA 60-0 while KS outscored the Independent Men 44-24.

The only serious threat against the SAE's was in the closing minutes of the game when IKA made a real effort to score. Bill Davidson stopped the drive at the goal line by blocking the pass intended for Ed Williams. By the time the ball was centered again the game was over, and SAE had scored ten times. The Lions ran mostly quick running and passing plays against the Pikes. IKA never posed a threat to the strong defense of the SAE's.

On the other side of the campus, the Kappa Sig's managed to turn an 18-18 ball game into a victory with a safety against the Independents. After that, the drive of the Independent Men was broken up and the Kappa Sig's went on to turn the ball game into a scoring fest, scoring five times to the Independents' one.

As the tennis tournament progressed to the third round, the SAE's also seemed to be in firm control. The next round, to be completed tomorrow may well tell the outcome of the team trophy.

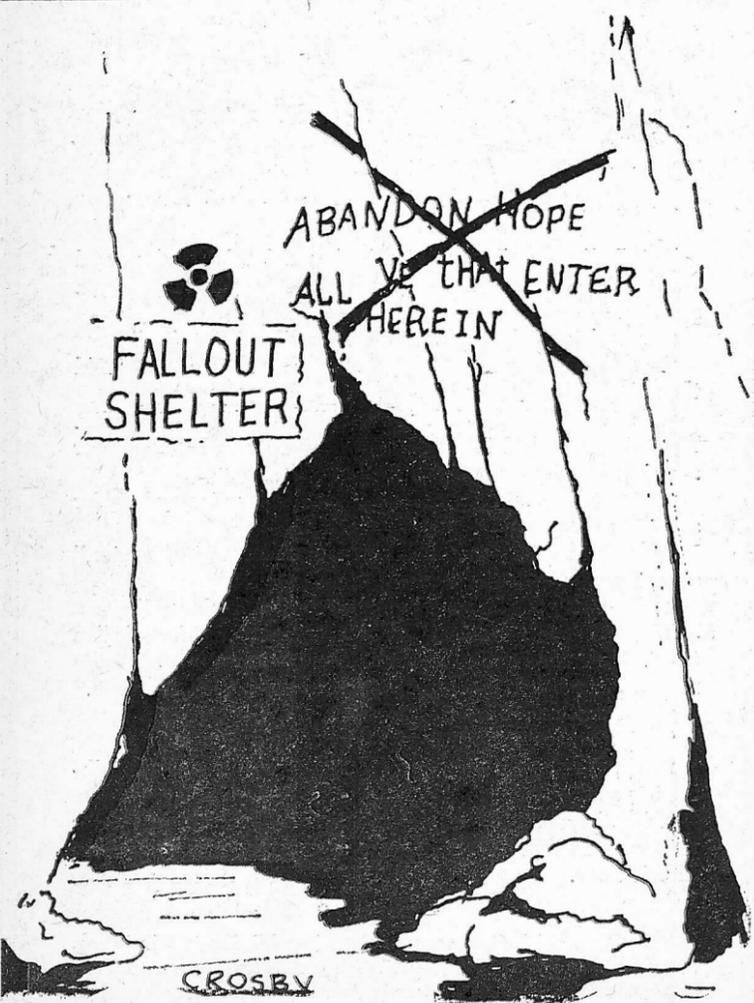

Girls' Sports

The Women's Athletic Association announced that the women's tennis tournament would open Wednesday, October 11. The tournament schedule has been posted in the gym. Participants, check there for your opponent's name. The first round must be completed by October 21. All games not completed by that time will be automatically forfeited. Each of the five sororities and the independent group have entered strong teams and competition looks to be difficult. Chi Omega will be making a strong bid for their second consecutive first place.

Field Day is to be held October 28 at 2:00 p.m. Events will include the 60 yard dash, 100 yard dash, relay race, football kick, softball throw, running broad jump, standing broad jump, and high jump. Volleyball will start November 1.

Professor Prognosticator

This past week seemed to be one where the favored sons seemed to be unfavored by fate. Auburn couldn't seem to bounce back against Kentucky's onslaught; T. C. U. was totally out of the game with Arkansas; Georgia Tech. couldn't even score against LSU, and Oklahoma looked very unlike the teams that Bud Wilkinson has fielded in the past. But there were bright spots, too. Ole Miss and Tennessee both looked good in battering their opposition, Memphis State probably assured an undefeated season with the defeat of Louisville, and Southwestern added a star to its already gleaming crown by trouncing Centre.

Alabama over NC State. This one should be an appropriate breather for the Crimson Tide. Twenty points.

Penn. State over Army. The cadets just don't have it this year. One touchdown.

Auburn is also getting a breather with Chattanooga. Pick Auburn and ten points.

Baylor over Arkansas. Even though Arkansas had an easy time with T. C. U., the Bears won last year and look at least as tough this year. Arkansas doesn't, but the Razorbacks could pull a surprise. Baylor and six points.

Washington over California. Washington just looks too good for California. Pick Washington and ten points.

Pick Clemson over Wake Forest. It'll be closer than last year, when the Tigers beat the Blue Devils, 27-7. Wake Forest is a little stronger than last year, but so is Clemson. Pick Tigers and six points.

Georgia Tech over Duke. This should be a really easy game for the Yellow Jackets. Many points for Tech.

Georgia over Florida State. This too, could be a close game. Neither team looks especially good. It could easily be a stalemate at 0-0.

Minnesota over Illinois. Easy game.

Kansas over Iowa State. Kansas still has too much power for Iowa State and will probably repeat last year's performance. Ten points.

Kansas State over Kentucky. This is one team the Wildcats won't upset. Pick State and two touchdowns.

LSU over So. Carolina. Paul Dietzel's "go teams" should score many, many points in this one.

Michigan over Michigan State. This one will be fairly easy for the Wolverines but don't look for any spectacular score. This is a grudge game.

Ole Miss over Houston. A rout for Rebels.

Miss. State over Arkansas State. Seven points.

Missouri and Oklahoma St. Toss-up, Nebraska over Syracuse. The Orangemen really had to work for their victory last week. Nebraska lost, but will be in there for the kill this week. Six points.

Rice over Florida. The Gators just don't look like what they were expected to. Rice and ten.

Texas over Oklahoma. The Sooners just don't have a winning team this year. Texas will repeat their performance a 1 last year.

Memphis State is a good deal stronger than last year. The Tigers will probably take Miss. Sou. by ten points.

Southwestern over Miss. College. This one will be closer than the previous games. Miss College is tougher than other teams the Lynx have played. But you can count on Mike Truscott for that important field goal if things get going rough. Three points.
