Campus Spirit Displayed In Homecoming Themes

Lamps are kept burning into the late hours at Southwestern this week but few kilowatts are illuminating books, as fraternity and sorority members energetically toil on decorations to grace their front yards on Homecoming Day this Saturday.

Combined this year with Parents' Day, the event is expected to draw more than 1,000 alumni and parents from 15 or more states. The Southwestern "Lynx" football team will clash with the "Scotties" of Maryville College, Maryville, Tenn., at 2 on Saturday afternoon at Hodges Field. The provocative mascot of Maryville has inspired various decoration themes parodying dogs, facial tissue, and strong spirits, in addition to depicting the highland locale.

Homecoming Displays

An air of mystery and excitement tingles with the fall crispness as different students, fully convinced that "their" display will win, curiously surmise on what is being constructed next door or at the lodge down the row. But the efforts are

Gateway Honors Late Coach Mays

Dedication of the Rick Mays Memorial Gateway to Southwestern's athletic fields will be held on Saturday, October 27, at 11:15 a.m. The ceremony will be of special interest to alumni, students, and their parents on this Homecoming Day, as Rick Mays, head football coach at Southwestern for seven years until his accidental death in July, 1961, was known to all.

Dean Diehl to Preside

Charles I. Diehl, Dean of Men and chairman of the college's Committee on Physical Education and Athletics will preside. Those taking part in the ceremony include Peyton N. Rhodes, Southwestern president, George M. Russell, a former team member, and John Quincy Wolf, a former colleague, who will express their tributes and appreciations. Richard C. "Chris" Mays, Jr., a present senior at Southwestern will unveil the memorial tablet and Dr. W. Edward French, president of the Southwestern Alumni Association will read the inscription. A prayer of dedication and benediction will be given by Dr. W. J. Cunningham, pastor of St. John's Methodist Church.

Mrs. Mays and Chris, who live at 1430 Carr Ave., will be joined at the dedication by nine brothers and sisters of Rick Mays, who will come from far parts of the country: they include David J. Mays of Richmond, Va.; Mrs. Camilla M. Frank of New Orleans; Mrs. Kelly S. Thomas, Sr., of Tupelo, Miss., whose son, Kelly, Jr., is a freshman at Southwestern; Mrs. Richard R. Lunt, Sr., of Wilmington, Del.; Miss Elizabeth Mays, 777 Court Ave.; Harvey J. Mays, Jr., 1818 Poplar Ave.; Edward G. Mays, 1234 Sledge (Mrs. Mays' son, Bruce Bourland, is also a Southwestern freshman); Mrs. P. B. Whitenton, 3694 Nottingham Road; and Samuel not without mutual cooperation. For instance, a coed may casually ask her fellow to walk her down to her sorority house and three hours later he may find himself on the roof of her lodge, still trying to "fasten a wire that'll only take a minute." And the men utilize the domesticity of the opposite sex—last week the sweetheart of one fraternity spent several hours sewing up stuffed scotties that will be crushed on make-believe "rocks" come Saturday.

The Alpha Omicron Pi's are featuring a barbershop background for their ultimatum: "Lynx Clip Scotties." Sally Kindig is in charge of the display. The Kappa Delta's, under the direction of Peggy Frye of Atlanta, are engaged in the sticky business of trying to "Scotch the Scotties" — with cellophane tape!

Chi Omega

Chi Omega's women have decided to "Bag the Scotties" by imprisoning the poor pups in a bagpipe.

Parents Day Includes Faculty-Parent Seminars

Southwestern will combine its two major fall events — Homecoming and Parent's Day—into one large celebration for alumni, students, parents, and faculty together on Saturday, October 27.

The campus population will more than double with the influx of hundreds of alumni and parents from some 15 states and hundreds more who live in or near Memphis.

A new attraction this year will be three faculty seminars held simultaneously by various departments from 9:45 until 10:30 a.m. Visitors can take their choice.

The departments of Bible and religion and philosophy will be presented in Room 8 of Palmer Hall with Dr. Laurence F. Kinney presiding. Dr. Robert G. Patterson, who studied in India on a Fulbright grant this summer, will present an illustrated lecture on Indian religions.

Dr. Raymond T. Vaughn will present the chemistry department faculty in Room 101 Science Hall, where Dr. Harold Lyons will discuss one aspect of his research project—"Possible Chemical Causes of Slipped Disks."

Prof. Thomas M. Lowry, Jr. will preside in Hardie Auditorium, where Prof. David M. Amacker will discuss a current issue in the field of international politics and members of the departments of political science and international studies will be presented.

Weekend Activities Keep Parents Busy

Southwestern's first combined Homecoming and Parents' Day will begin at 8:30 a.m., Saturday, October 27, with a registration and coffee hour sponsored by the Southwestern Women's Club in the Adult Education Center.

In past years these two events have been separate. Parents have attended classes with students on Parents' Day, and students were free from classes at Homecoming. However, since the two days have been combined this year, three special seminars have been planned for parents.

After the judging of the fraternity and sorority lawn decorations, the Rick Mays Memorial Gateway will be dedicated. Participating in the dedication will be Dr. Peyton N. Rhodes; Dr. C. I. Diehl, '31; George M. Russell, '56; Dr. John Quincy Wolf; Richard M. Mays, Jr., '63; Dr. W. Edward French, '39, President of the Southwestern Alumni Association; and The Reverend Mr. W. J. Cunningham, D.D., Pastor, St. John's Methodist Church.

The Southwestern Men of Memphis and the Southwestern Women of Memphis, headed by Mr. William B. Allen, '53, and Mrs. Thomas White, Jr., '39, respectively, will then entertain alumni, parents, and students at a luncheon in the Neely Mallory Memorial Gymnasium. Mr. Allen will preside, and Mrs. White will be in charge of decorations.

Busses will be available for transportation to Hodges Field, where Southwestern's football team will meet that of Maryville College. Half-time ceremonies will include Dr. French's presenting the Homecoming court; Queen Eleanor Lawrence will be given a dozen red roses, and Football Princess Blair Gilmer and "S" Club Princess Trisha Whyte will also receive bouquets. Closing the ceremonies will be the Memphis Treadwell High School Band.

Following the game the fraternity

SW Graduates Study Christian Education

This fall, students from 74 colleges and universities in 21 states and seven foreign countries gathered in Richmond, Virginia, for the 49th session of the Presbyterian School of Christian Education. Included in the 117-member student body are three Southwestern alumni, Sally Micks of the class of '60, and Carolyn Orr and Bob Crumpler of the class of '61.

The school offers a specialized curriculum leading to degrees of Master of Arts, Master of Christian Education, or Bachelor of Christian Education. The graduates of this school are well versed in college campus and mission work, as directors of Christian Education, and in other church-related vocations.

Anyone desiring further information on the school should write to the Presbyterian School of Christian Education, 1205 Palmyra Avenue, Richmond 27, Virginia.

Eleanor Lawrence Reigns As SW Homecoming Queen

Miss Eleanor Lawrence of Decatur, Alabama, will reign as Queen of the 1962 Homecoming in the festive celebrations throughout today. The attractive brunette began her reign at the Chi Omega Open House last night. Today she and her court will attend the alumnae banquet in Catherine Burrow Refectory.

Escorted by Stephen Richardson, president of the Student Body, Eleanor will be presented and crowned during the half-time ceremonies at our Homecoming game with Maryville this afternoon. Tonight she will reign at the Homecoming Dance when she will present the sorority and fraternity winning the display competition.

Eleanor, a junior international studies major, is a member of Kappa Delta sorority, a member of WUB, and is a junior class representative to the Student Council.

When asked about this year's Homecoming game, Eleanor flashed her bright smile and quickly, replied, "Why, we're gonna win!"

Football Princess

Helen Blair Gilmer of Clifton Forge, Virginia, is the football team's nominee to serve as Maid to the Queen of Homecoming. Blair is a senior and a member of Alpha Omicron Pi, serving as rush chairman last year. During her four years at Southwestern she has participated in a number of campus activities.

Last year Blair was "S" Club princess in the 1961 Homecoming Court. Representing her sorority, she was chosen a beauty in the Lynx Beauty Review her sophomore year and a favorite her junior year. Active in both the Danforth and the Student Counselor programs, she also has served as chairman of the High School Visitation program. During her sophomore year Blair was Southwestern's reporter to the Commercial Appeal. She is presently serving as vice-president of Torch, honorary women's organization.

An English major, Blair is student-teaching in junior English at Central High School.

"S" Club Princess

Patricia Whyte of Shreveport, Louisiana, has been chosen as the "S" Club princess in the 1962 Homecoming Court. Well-known about campus, Trish served on the Women's Undergraduate Board this fall and is presently the captain of the Southwestern cheerleaders. She is also active in the Danforth organization.

A member of Chi Omega sorority, she served as rush chairman this year. Representing her sorority, she was chosen a favorite in the Lynx Beauty Review her freshman year.

Trish lists her four little brothers as her favorite hobby with water-skiing ranking second. An English major, she plans to teach after her graduation next year.

Letters To The Editor

The letters printed here do not necessarily express the views of this paper.
In order for a letter to be accepted for publication it must be 300 words or less in length.

Honor System

This is not a letter about integration, or the student council referendum, or even about Cuba. It is merely something which I as a freshman at Southwestern would like very much to say.

Along with the other members of the freshman class, I have been a student here at Southwestern for about seven weeks. In that time I have been impressed by many things, but nothing has made as strong an impression on me as the honor system. As someone who has never before gone to school on the honor system, I find it almost unbelievable. When I compare it to the cheating, stealing, and "it's all right if you don't get caught" attitude common in schools I have previously attended, it becomes more and more amazing.

Certainly I am not blind to the fact that there are flaws in every system. I don't expect the honor system to be perfect always; but it is the attitude and atmosphere of belief in a sense of honor that is so wonderful about this school. I can only express what I believe to be the hope of the whole freshman class, that we as a class will continue to believe in, and uphold the honor system.

On "The Seeker"

Your editorial of October 12, 1962, entitled "Education in Controversies" stated in reference to a column now appearing weekly under the title of "The Seeker":

"The Seeker" refers to a great social problem of our time, that of the relationship between races of men.

Yet this column (always written anonymously) last week in the October 19, 1962, edition of The Sou'wester did not deal with this problem at all. This column dealt with a woman of high standing in the community who was in reality a prostitute.

The implications contained within this "parable" were that the Southwestern student body was hypocritical and immoral behind its walls of "Arkansas standstone" and

"Chapel Cuts"

For the past few years at Southwestern, the last part of the Wednesday morning student assemblies has been devoted to a most sordid custom. I speak specifically of what is commonly called by the student body "chapel cuts." In my opinion this practice is childish and, in some cases, extremely sadistic. It is certainly not befitting of mature students, and I fail to see its purpose in a Christian college community. Sure, some of the cuts are funny. But anyone who has been at Southwestern for any length of time will know that they sometimes get out of hand. Already this year this has happened on one or two occasions: Some of the cuts are downright filthy. People have been hurt and humiliated on quite a number of occasions. Numerous times has the sexual morality of specific coeds been questioned in front of the whole student body. This goes under the guise of good-natured kidding. For my part, I cannot find the humor in this sort of thing.

Selections of what cuts will be used is done by an arbitrary board composed of one person. Needless to say this process is quite fallible. Even if the selection process were stricter, one never knows exactly what might damage another person. I challenge the Student Council to remedy the situation and to do away with the cuts altogether. If the Student Council fails, I ask the administration to give all students free exemptions from chapel equivalent to the number of student assemblies so that no one will be subjected to abuse against his own will.

beneath its "roofs of slate." Who is the author, a person who will not even reveal his own identity, to judge his fellow students, his fellowmen this way? If he would write of the race problem let him do it in a logical, forthright manner. And let him be responsible for his admonishments and chastisements.

I feel that the last column of "The Seeker" was a slander to the Southwestern students, Southwestern faculty, Southwestern administration; and I hope and trust that I will see no more of these unsigned, ill-written articles in our college newspaper.

Student Council

In a meeting purposefully cut short to allow time for the election of Southwestern's candidates for "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" the Student Council discussed several important programs:

A journalism clinic involving reporters from the Commercial Appeal is being organized by the Publications Board. This clinic is primarily intended for students working on the Sou'wester, but will be open to anyone who is interested.

Women's Undergraduate Board, under the leadership of Mary Lou Quinn, is planning a seminar for freshmen and anyone else interested in "How to Study." Dr. Queener will speak and a panel of upperclassmen will try to answer questions concerning study procedure for specific subjects. Let's hope it's not too late!

Bert Ringold's proposed employment service is going to be a co-operative enterprise of the Student Council and the Alumni Office. Also along this line WUB is arranging a series of lectures on career opportunities for women and a program for arranging job interviews for seniors.

The conversation and concern of the campus has been directed by President Kennedy's pronouncement on Cuba toward a realization of the total and critical involvement of the U.S. in the world community. Next Tuesday students will have a chance to look at our situation from the viewpoint of some other members of this community in an International Students' Panel sponsored by the NSA Committee. Maria Leitner, Jean-Pierre Potel, Tom Kawazoe, and Armin Herbst will participate in the program and Lee Marshall will serve as moderator. Also next week Southwestern's delegates to the 15th National Student Congress will report to the student body in two chapel programs.

On November 11 Stephen Richardson will represent Southwestern at the regional meeting of NSA in Nashville.

Henry Pope, energetic Social Commissioner, has been working for weeks to make this year's Homecoming a big success. A Welcome to All Visitors and . . . have fun Everyone!

Jacquelyn Dowd

The Seeker

A friend of mine has of late become afflicted with a very strange and horrible disease. He cannot but glance at another without having strange allusions of a cancerous blight affecting his whole body. In same cases this affliction is worse than others and, what's more, it includes not only humans but often the institutions of humans which make it all the worse. It is very dismaying to X's friends for often they will approach him in a friendly manner only to be thrown back on their heels by the strangled expression on his face. "What's the matter with you?" is most often their outburst. The reply often sickens them, however, for no one likes to be told that his face is decaying and seems to be oozing puss. It's also most discomfiting to accompany X to a public function such as church. Once for example, while sitting quietly with head bowed, listening to the preacher praying, he slowly rose from his seat, and began to scream, "Look out! Look out! The building's falling down. It's rotten! Everybody run, run! It's green, it's filthy, it's decayed! Watch out!" then ran screaming from the building. You can imagine my shock and irritation at being associated with such a horrible affair, but luckily few people noticed that I came in with him. Of course, the service was upset terribly.

Final Decision Needed On Student Council Powers

The Sou'wester would like to take this opportunity to congratulate the politically minded segment of the Southwestern student body on the establishment of various organizations designed to offer interested students a chance to learn for themselves what the various parties offer, their aims and their shortcomings. There have been many jokes made about these groups. The bulletin board in Palmer Hall has been filled with notices announcing meetings of "The Young Communists Party," "John Birch Society," and a "Socialists Youth Conference." Such groups as the Young Democrats, Young Conservatives, and Young Republicans serve a purpose that should not be discouraged or taken lightly. They provide a valuable opportunity for practicing citizenship. A student's primary function is that of learning, and participation in such groups as these is an education in the processes of American democracy.

Within the last month, the question of the power of the Student Council to communicate with national leaders on current issues, expressing the opinion of the council concerning the course of action to be followed, triggered a flood of letters to The Sou'wester public and private debate, and produced an emotion-charged situation climaxed by a referendum which was voted upon by one of the largest student body percentages ever to turn out for such an occasion. The referendum was defeated and the letter in question, concerning the Federal Housing Bill, was not sent. As a result of the questions being raised, like-minded students found themselves quite naturally organized into the "Clubs" mentioned earlier.

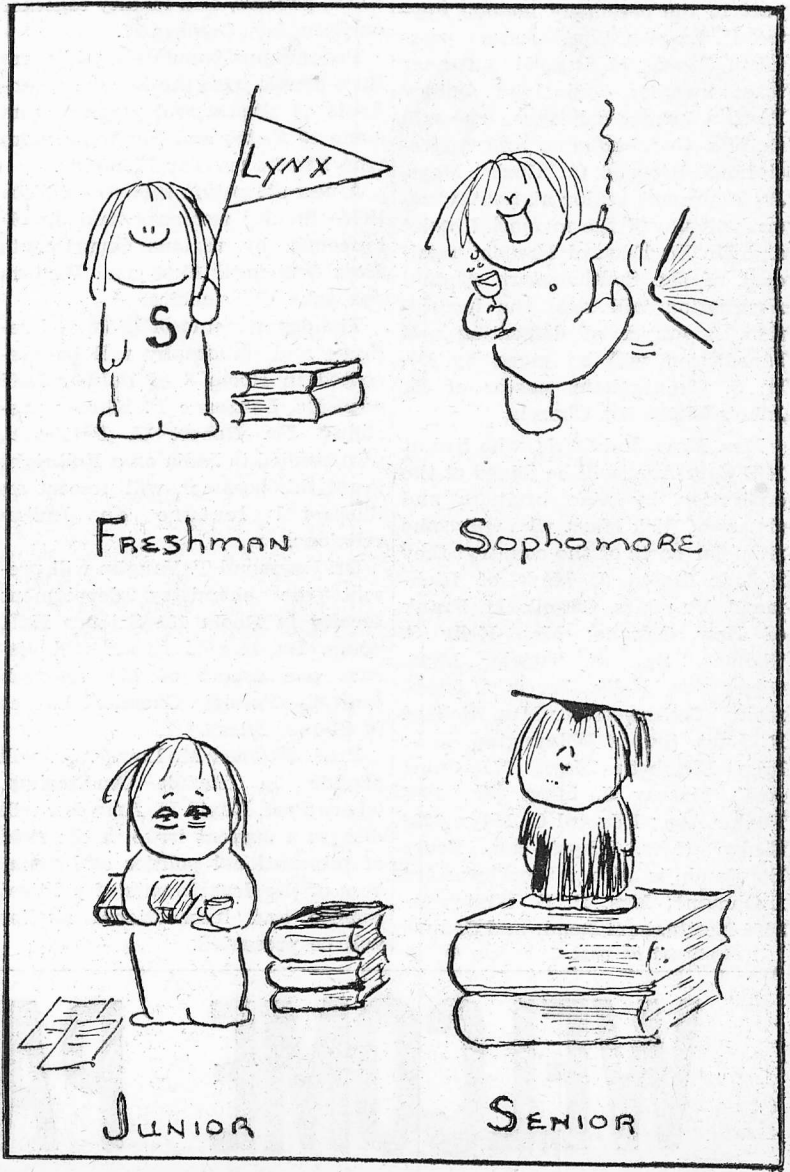

At the present time the interests and energies of the students are concentrated on Homecoming-Parents Day activities, and even the most pressing of national issues are forced, for the moment, into the background. But let us not forget that we still have a campus to run, and that the basic question concerning Student Council powers is yet unsettled. There exists a vital and seemingly unnoticed project to be undertaken and settled by the political organizations on campus. There is a need for clear, well-defined legislative action to amend the Student Council constitution to either give or withhold the power to draft and send communications on matters of national interest. The recently defeated referendum provided no permanent ruling. It concerned only a specific letter. Certainly such a procedure is too cumbersome to be applied each time such questions arise.

The Sou'wester would urge campus political leaders to set in motion the machinery needed to settle definitely the question raised. The opportunity for the new organizations to exert their proper influence in campus affairs and, at the same time, provide a more comprehensive, efficient Student Council constitution is here. The time to act—while the recent controversy is yet fresh in the minds of the students—is now.

S'westerners Comment On Cuban Situation

Dean Jameson M. Jones—"I regret the action (quarantine) but not having sufficient facts, my attitude is simply one of confidence in the President of the United States."

Mr. John M. Hemphill felt that the gradual infiltration of Cuba by the Communists had reached the point at which "something had to be done." "I think the country is behind the President," he said, and also added that he disagrees with those "people who say it should have been two or three years ago." The matter is not simple, but the President seems to have considered all angles, most important the feelings of our allies, Mr. Hemphill felt. It is also hard to deny the utility of the United Nations in slowing violence with words. Mr. Hemphill stated his views on the luck of the President in that the Mississippi incident helped to cover any buildup actions with respect to Cuba. Fortunate also is the developing Indian-Chinese Communist antagonism, which occupies a major Soviet ally. These two events possibly were operative factors in the President's choice of timing for the Cuban quarantine. Kennedy's decision to intervene may be compared in history with Truman's decision to intervene in Korea. However, Mr. Hemphill feels, the attitude of the nation will probably be much more in favor of limited war in Cuba than it was concerning Korea.

Stephen Richardson—"I think that the President used careful discretion in choosing Communist offensive buildup in Cuba. The vote of confidence shown by our South American allies does much to strengthen our position both militarily and in the field of world opinion."

Bill Potts—"I believe that the moves the President has made in Cuba are the right ones and that they are justifiable. Russia has over-extended herself in Cuba and will not be able to protect her stand there very easily. Cuba is not worth atomic war to Russia, so I believe she would have to stand by and watch even if we invaded. So I don't believe the crisis will cause an all-out war. The result is that we have put Russia in a position to lose face for not being able to back up her commitments. (This may cause an offense somewhere else later.)

"Secondly, the best time to stop a fire is while it is still small. The longer you wait the harder it's going to be to extinguish. Therefore, it is insane to sit back and let Cuba build herself up, knowing all the time that, sooner or later, we would have to put a halt to it."

Bert Ringold—"I do not think Russia will risk a nuclear war over Cuba. I think a Russian supported conventional war would not be feasible, because of the logistical difficulties. Therefore I feel, if we want to take Cuba we can without much sweat. However, the logical move for the Russians, if we insist on invading, would be to create trouble in a place where we, and not they, are at a disadvantage."

James Riley Crawford—"Southwestern students realize that the Cuban situation is a grave matter. We fully understand the immediate reactions that may occur from President Kennedy's seven point plan including the blockade. It is possible for one of the now existing 1000 mile range missiles on a Cuban launching pad to reach Memphis and any other major city of the South.

"I agree fully with the President's firm stand and the action he has taken. We cannot afford to stand by and permit an arms buildup in Cuba that will endanger the entire western hemisphere. The arms buildup by Japan and Germany in the 1930's was not checked and resulted in world war. Kennedy's plan is consistent with Truman's "get tough" policy in Korea. I think it is wise for us to get tough while we can. The dangers in the President's plan are terrifying, but if a stand had not been taken Tuesday it would have to come later which would be even harder to enforce.

"Many do not like to see the U.S. make such an aggressive move, but it must be remembered that we are the most powerful leader of the western free world and we cannot sit back and let a Communist country get such a threatening hold on the western world with an awesome display of nuclear weapons and a potent propaganda machine designed to destroy freedom of western nations."

Carter Osterbind—"Something should have been done sooner. Secretary of Defense McNamara would disclose nothing about Cuba until a week ago. At the time he admitted there were aggressive weapons; they were already on their launching pads. Why weren't the facts disclosed sooner and something done before Cuba became almost too hot to handle? President Kennedy's action? What else could he do?"

Sharon Lupfer—"I am pleased that the United States has taken a firm stand against the Communist forces in Cuba. Too many times we have backed down in fear of consequences and, in doing so, have allowed the opposition slowly to take control of two-thirds of the world.

"I feel that the blockade set up by our government was necessary. In the past month the Soviet government has stepped up its shipment of offensive nuclear weapons and technicians to Cuba. The United States in its efforts to limit the nuclear arms race and keep the peace in our hemisphere is justified in its move.

"I believe that if we do not take a firm stand, that we will eventually be overcome by Communism. We must risk everything, if necessary, for the preservation of our freedom."

Ross McCluney—"I believe such a stand by President Kennedy has been becoming increasingly necessary, both for reasons outlined in his initial speech and for obligations to other "threatened" free nations. It appears that the President has been waiting for some time for an opportunity to take such a stand. The free world nations, and particularly the Europeans, have.

"As to the value of this particular action, I can only hope that it will be an effective move, but I must not venture a guess at the outcome. No matter how drastic the result of this action may be, it would only have been more drastic for us to have waited.

"Practically, I believe the Russians are beginning to back down, no longer thrusting their sword deeper into the fat of the enemy's belly, but having at last hit steel.

"The big question now is, though satisfied with the appearing success of the quarantine, will President Kennedy push ahead for the proposed disarmament of the offensive bases already established in Cuba?"

Joe Pack Arnold—"I think President Kennedy has been too careful and cautious up until the president. One cannot criticize these past several months, however, without being glad that we are not in a shooting war. Our president has acted, and as a citizen I must stand

April Fools Play

On the weekend nearest April 1, Southwestern celebrates its annual April Fool Weekend with a carnival. The gala events include an April Fool Play, the costume ball, and the presentation of the Royal Court chosen by the student body.

The play, which is presented on Friday evening, is written, directed, and produced by Southwestern students. In order to create competition and enthusiasm, a fifty dollar honorarium will be given to the student or group whose play is chosen this year. There is no certain form in which the production must be written. In past years' there have been satires, musicals and dramatic plays.

Marjorie Wild, president of the Publications Board, has expressed the desire that many students will enter into the competition. Complete manuscripts must be turned in to any member of the Publications Board by January 7, in order that they might be processed and reviewed. The winning play will be chosen by the Board, with Dr. McQuiston and Mrs. Ballinger serving in addition to the elected members. The winner will be announced upon selection.

Pi Intersorority Selects Senior

Pi Intersorority's first new member of this year was announced as Patsy Karnowsky, a senior member of Alpha Omicron Pi and a native of Memphis. Patsy entered Southwestern as a sophomore English major and has participated in a number of extra-curricular activities.

In sorority work Patsy was president of her pledge class, honored as model initiate, and has held active chapter offices as philanthropic chairman and corresponding secretary. Out of the lodge and onto the campus, she is a member of Eta Sigma Phi, classical language honorary, Sans Souci, the Danforth organization, WUB, and the Lynx staff. During the past summer and fall Patsy has been a co-chairman of the women's student counselors. Most of her time and interest this year is being put to work for a seventh grade class at Snowden Junior High School, where she practice teaches.

Dr. Donaldson Speaks To Association Meeting

Wednesday night last, Dr. Margaret Caldwell Donaldson of the University of Edinburgh, visiting lecturer in psychology, at Southwestern under the sponsorship of a Whitney-Fulbright fellowship, spoke to a special meeting of the West Tennessee Psychological Association in Southwestern's psychology building. Her topic was "Exploratory Studies of Errors in Children's Thinking."

Following the talk, a discussion was conducted by Dr. E. Llewellyn Queener, chairman of Southwestern's psychology department, with Dr. William J. Von Lackum of Gailor Psychiatric Hospital and Dr. George W. Marten of Memphis' Mental Health Center participating.

Board of Directors Meets Adds 3 To Exec Committee

Southwestern's board of directors at its annual meeting October 18 amended its by-laws to permit expansion of the executive committee by three members.

The three new members who were elected are all men of long associations with the college, ex-mayor and retired business executive Edmund Orgill, attorney and Southwestern alumnus Lewis R. Donelson III, and Chauncey W. Butler, Jr., a vice-president of the Union Planters National Bank.

Mr. Orgill served on the same executive committee for ten years prior to announcement of his candidacy for the office of mayor in 1955 and has been an active member of the President's Council and a chairman in the Annual Support Program of the college since his retirement from public office. He was graduated with Dr. Peyton N. Rhodes, Southwestern president, from the University of Virginia.

Mr. Butler, a Sewanee alumnus, also a member of the President's Council, is current chairman of the Annual Support Program and is the father of a Southwestern senior, Bill Butler.

Dr. Donelson has been active in alumni affairs of the college and has served for the past two years as assistant treasurer and a member of the investment committee. He is also currently serving the community as president of the Republican Association of Memphis, president of S.U.N., and a member of the Community Relations Committee.

A. Van Pritchard, chairman of the board, also announced the elevation of A. K. Burrow, long-time treasurer of the college, to treasurer emeritus and the election of Mr. Donelson to the post of treasurer. The board paid tribute to Mr. Burrow for his many years of service.

Mr. Pritchard said the creation of three new seats to the executive committee brings the total to 17. Other members re-elected for another term are himself, chairman, Dr. W. J. Millard, Col. Ross M. Lynn, Vance J. Alexander, J. Bayard Boyle, L. Palmer Brown III, S. Toof Brown, Mr. Burrow, E. B. LeMaster, Dr. Peyton N. Rhodes, Norfleet Turner, R. Don Warren, Walker L. Welford, Jr., and Alvin Wunderlich, Jr.

Comedy Opens At Front St.

A scintillating comedy about the most unusual prostitute ever to hit a stage is "I Am a Camera", now playing at Memphis' famous Front St. Theatre.

Jeanie Peters is seen as the extravagantly wicked Sally Bowles, a brandy-before-breakfast English girl who has come to Berlin seeking excitement.

The story is laid in Hitler's pre-war Germany and should be of immense interest to all readers of "The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich" as the play depicts the general moral bankruptcy of one of the blackest periods in mankind's history.

But even though the setting is ominous, the play is a frothy comedy with the characters mainly blind to the kindling of a new war.

Written by John van Druten, "I Am a Camera" is an adaptation of a series of vignettes entitled "The Berlin Stories" by Christopher Isherwood, who is played in the show by Allen Bates.

Awarded the N.Y. Drama Critics Circle in 1951-52 as the best play of the season, "I Am a Camera" tells the story of Sally Bowles and explores her many vices which include a giant craving of excitement and a don't care attitude about

The board, which is made up of five members from each of the Synods of Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Tennessee of the Presbyterian Church, U.S., with which the college is affiliated, also heard the annual report of the president, the dean, and the treasurer. Its members arrived Wednesday to be present for dedication of the Richard Halliburton Memorial Tower that night and held their all-day meeting yesterday, with a luncheon at noon in the Catherine Burrow Dining Hall.

The executive committee is made up of the Memphis members of the board and other Memphians elected by the board. It meets monthly, or more often if necessary, to consider current questions and make policy decisions between board meetings.

Dr. Price To Lead Religious Evaluation

Religious Evaluation week, an annual event at Southwestern, is scheduled for November 5, 6, and 7 this year. Dr. James L. Price, chairman of the department of religion at Duke University and a former Southwestern and Washington and Lee professor, will speak at Evergreen Presbyterian Church.

Liz Currie, president of the Protestant Religious Council, has planned something new, a faculty panel, along with the speaker on Tuesday, November 6. Each day there will be a discussion after Dr. Price's talk.

Using the theme "The Significance of Jesus of Nazareth for a Christian Faith," Dr. Pierce will discuss these topics: "The Present State of the Question," an evaluation and a challenge; "Jesus and the Primary Needs of Men, Then and Now," and "Obedience unto Death: the Call to Discipleship."

Ruthie Black Chosen '62 KS Sweetheart

Last Friday night, October 12, Ruthie Black was announced as the Kappa Sigma sweetheart at an open house given by the fraternity. The announcement was made by President Eddie Sheffield, who also presented Ruthie with a dozen red roses and a Kappa Sigma pin.

Ruthie is a junior who transferred to Southwestern second semester of last year from Ouachita College in Arkadelphia, Arkansas. She is a pre-med student who plans to major in either biology or chemistry.

Last year Ruthie participated in the Danforth program, working at the Wesley house. For the past three summers she has worked at Camp Junaleska on Lake Junaleska in North Carolina teaching archery. Ruthie is a Chi Omega pledge.

WF Programming Shows Wide Scope

The WF is using a new concept in programs this fall which has possibilities of extended future use. In order to give each individual a better chance to participate and to explore an area of particular personal interest, the programs will be decentralized for four weeks. After the short worship, everybody will go to one of four groups: one will study and rehearse a significant short play for presentation and discussion; another will read a book by a modern theologian discussing how man attempts to shield himself from God; a third will seek to discover Christian expression through painting, jazz, and poetry; and a fourth will read novels by J. D. Salinger for discussion. Students who haven't been attending WF are especially urged to participate in one of these groups, particularly if they have talents or interests in one of the fields. The Westminster Fellowship meets at 6:15 on Sunday nights in the basement of Evergreen Church.

Shadow of the Tower

'Twas Homecoming Day and all through the school, people were busy and fun was the rule! The 1962 Homecoming began with a bang last night at the Chi Omega Open House honoring the Queen and her court. Heartiest congratulations go to Eleanor Lawrence, Homecoming Queen, and Patricia Whyte and Blair Gilmer, princesses.

For a day (or so) studying has been put aside, and all are furiously working on Homecoming displays—or on getting a date, so's the rumor! With the game this afternoon and the dance tonight, sounds like a great weekend is in swing!

Couple of the week is petite Margaret Johnson and Jimmy Thomas, who graduated last June. Someone noticed that Margaret is sporting a diamond on her left hand! Congratulations!

Reminder to all about the open houses next week. Hark, for there are two: the Delta's are holding their traditional Halloween Open House Wednesday night from 6 to 8 at the lodge, and the Kappa Delta's are inviting everyone into their lodge Friday night. Then this Saturday there is the much-publicized game with Sewanee. Save your pennies and make plans to go, for those out-of-town games are lots of fun!

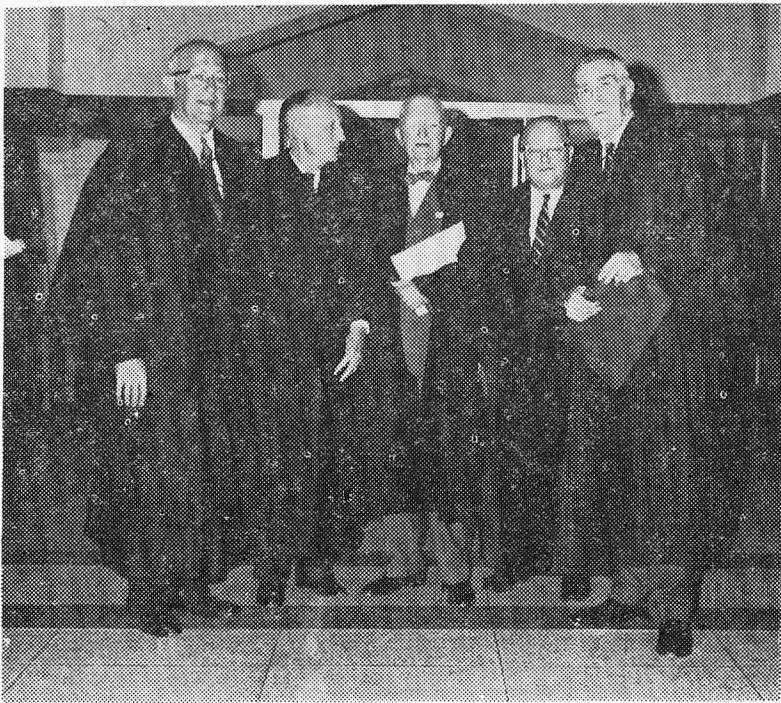

Little news is good news! Stay out of the "shadow of the tower" during this Homecoming weekend but have fun!

Richardson Directs Classroom "68"

Classroom "68" is a half-hour radio program presented each Wednesday night at 9:30 p.m. on WMPs. Tom Richardson, a freshman from Lexington, Tennessee, is acting as its director. Tom has had four years of experience in ham radio broadcasting.

Tom plans to have in the succeeding weeks leaders of the different organizations on the Southwestern campus as guests on his program. Next week Steve Richardson, president of the Student Council, will present information about Southwestern and its student body. Tom also plans to have one of our foreign students compare American college life to college life in his country. Other guests on the show will be representatives from the Interfraternity and Panhellenic councils and leaders of various political groups on campus.

The purpose of classroom "68" is to enlighten the citizens of Memphis and prospective students about the many facets of college life at Southwestern and to keep them informed of important events on the campus.

behind him, though he has waited too long. Let us hope, however, that he will receive all the support and advice necessary for him to fulfill his obligation to the free world and the peace of America."

Bill Hall—"This is perhaps the first thing that the President has done with which I agree. But I do agree with his action wholeheartedly. I think the timing and execution of his plan were perfect; not only that, it has made our stand crystal clear.

"At last we are acting instead of reacting—now it's Russia's turn to react. Just what form this will take I'm not sure, but I personally think Khrushchev will blockade Berlin in retaliation. But even if the outcome is war, I'm proud of what our country has done."

Karen Hardy—"I support Kennedy's stand concerning the Cuban situation. Though it seems such action should have been taken weeks ago, there is undoubtedly more to his delay than the general public knows. However, we have met the Soviet's aggression with an unflinching stand. I only hope that both the administration and the nation as a whole have the loyalty and courage to back this stand."

HIGH TEST, LOW TEST, NO TEST

Just the other night I was saying to the little woman, "Do you think the importance of tests in American colleges is being overemphasized?" (The little woman, incidentally, is not, as you might think, my wife. My wife is far from a little woman. She is, in fact, almost seven feet high and heavily muscled. She is a full-blooded Chiricahua Apache and holds the world's hammer-throw record. The little woman I referred to is someone we found crouching under the sofa when we moved into our apartment several years ago, and there she has remained ever since. She never speaks, except to make a kind of guttural clicking sound when she is hungry. Actually, she is not too much fun to have around, but with my wife away at track meets most of the time, at least it gives me somebody to talk to.)

But I digress. "Do you think the importance of tests in American colleges is being overemphasized?" I said the other night to the little woman, and then I said, "Yes, Max, I do think the importance of tests in American colleges is being overemphasized." (As I have explained, the little woman does not speak, so when we have conversations, I am forced to do both parts.)

Actually, she is not too much fun to have around

To get back to tests—sure, they're important, but let's not allow them to get too important. There are, after all, many qualities and talents that simply can't be measured by quizzes. Is it right to penalize a gifted student whose gifts don't happen to be of the academic variety? Like, for instance, Gregor Sigafoos?

Gregor, a freshman at the New Hampshire College of Tanning and Belles Lettres, has never passed a single test; yet all who know him agree that he is studded with talent like a ham with cloves. He can, for example, sleep standing up. He can do a perfect imitation of a scarlet tanager. (I don't mean just do the bird calls; I mean he can fly South in the winter.) He can pick up B-B's with his toes. He can say "Toy boat" three times fast. He can build a rude telephone out of two empty Marlboro packs and 100 yards of butcher's twine. (Of all his impressive accomplishments, this last is the one Gregor likes to do best—not building the telephone, but emptying the Marlboro packs. Gregor doesn't just dump the Marlboros out of the pack. He smokes them one at a time—settling back, getting comfortable, savoring each tasty puff. As Gregor often says with a winsome smile, "By George, the makers of Marlboro took their time finding this fine flavor, this great filter, and by George, I'm going to take my time enjoying 'em!"')

Well, sir, there you have Gregor Sigafoos—artist, humanist, philosopher, Marlboro smoker, and freshman since 1939. Will the world—so desperately in need of talent—ever benefit from Gregor's great gifts? Alas, no. He is in college to stay.

But even more tragic for mankind is the case of Anna Livia Plurabelle. Anna Livia, a classmate of Gregor's, had no talent, no gifts, no brains, no personality. All she had was a knack for taking tests. She would cram like crazy before a test, always get a perfect score, and then promptly forget everything she had learned. Naturally, she graduated with highest honors and degrees by the dozen, but the sad fact is that she left college no more educated, no more prepared to cope with the world, than when she entered. Today, a broken woman, she crouches under my sofa.

And speaking of tests, we makers of Marlboro put our cigarette through an impressive number before we send it to the market. But ultimately, there is only one test that counts: Do YOU like it? We think you will.

Psi Chi Taps Eleven

Last Wednesday, October 17, Psi Chi tapped 11 new members during convocation. Officers of the honor society of psychology, including President Mrs. Barbara Green, Vice President John Ashcraft, and Secretary-Treasurer John C. Bryan, announced that these students had been chosen for membership: Bill Arnold, Betty Claire Eaton, Ernest Maples, Mary Dou Lee, Camille Walter, Marjory Sprague, Judith Zeisner, Melinda Claburn, Rocky Ward, Gary Blaiss, and Henry Pope.

SW Organists Elect

Southwestern's Student Group of the American Guild of Organists met Saturday, October 20th, and elected officers. Paul Hicks was elected President and Program Chairman for the coming season. Minna Gwyn Yancey will serve as Secretary-Treasurer. Other Southwestern students holding membership in the group are: Susan Callaway, Louisa Eubanks Fulton, James Howard Justice, Richard C. Mays and Joan Montgomery. Faculty sponsors of the group are Dr. Adolph Steuterman and Mr. John McGinnis.

Freshman Class Chooses Council Representatives

Judy Simono and Stan McNeese were elected freshman representatives to the Honor Council in a special freshman class meeting last Saturday. They were chosen by their classmates from nominations by the Honor Council.

Judy graduated last May from H. V. Cooper High School in Vicksburg, Mississippi. As a Tri-Delta pledge at Southwestern, she was recently elected President of her pledge class.

Stan, a Sigma Alpha Epsilon pledge, graduated from East High School here in Memphis. Recently, he was elected the vice-president of his pledge class.

(Continued from page 3) who provides it. She is given to wearing green nail polish, huge earrings, and using a very long cigarette holder, all of which make her, as she says, "an extraordinarily interesting person." And she is, but not for the reasons that she thinks she is.

The title role is the kind of part an actress must either triumph in—or crack up in. Julie Harris used its acting opportunities so advantageously that at the end of the New York run she was awarded every Best Actress of the Year award attainable.

The supporting cast of Front St. Theatre's "I Am a Camera" will include Pasha Davis as a rich Jewess and Ron Thompson as a man who is reluctant to admit that he is a Jew in the growing Nazi-like atmosphere; Maurine Overman plays Sally Bowles' mother, who comes to fetch her daughter back to respectability and Macon McCalman plays a free-speaking, backslapping American on a European binge.

"I Am a Camera" will run through Nov. 3 with performances nightly at 8:30 and Sat. matinees at 2:30 at Front St. Theatre, just 15 minutes from downtown Memphis.

Next production will be the musical extravaganza, "Gypsy", the story of Gypsy Rose Lee and her climb to fame as a stripper, opening Nov. 7 (tickets slightly higher for musicals).

Special student price is only $1.00 at all performances.

Homecoming

Heading the decoration committees are Munnie Raspberry of Helena, Ark., and Jan Mallady of Camden, Tenn. One of the highlights of the weekend is the Chi O's annual open house on Friday evening, allowing the weary workers from rival groups to relax a few moments—by twisting to the music of a combo led by senior "Buddy" McAfee.

"Lynx Prove Scotties Lack Super Strength" is the contention of the gals from Delta Delta Delta sorority who, under the direction of Ann Moore, prove that the Lynx can break through any barrier. The Zeta Tau Alpha's go so far as to boil and bubble the unhappy Scotsmen as Lynx witches attend to the brew. Carol Sena is chief cook and cauldron watcher.

Fraternities

On the other side of the campus the men are at work vying for the fraternity trophy awarded to the best display. The Sigma Nu's, headed by Charles Calhoun, are reconstructing Tennessee on a large map, giving directions for the Lynx to "Fling Scots Back To Highlands." Next door the Kappa Alpha's will declare "Scotties, You'll Never Score," a warning confirmed by Bob McLean, chairman of KA's decoration committee.

The Kappa Sigma's, not men to waste time on preliminaries, advise the Lynx to dispose of the opponents quickly with the theme "Give 'Em The 'Gas'." Jim Houston is the display's chief executioner. Another version of sudden death will be portrayed at the Sigma Alpha Epsilon lodge as Bill Hall of Shreveport and his co-workers ask "How Ya Hangin' Highlander?"

"Scotch On The Rocks" is the order of the day at the Alpha Tau Omega lodge, according to maitre d' Bob Wells who, perhaps unhappily, is a native of Maryville. And next door the Pi Kappa Alpha's will portray a Trojan horse theme entitled "Subtle Southwestern Surprises Scots." Bill Troy of Nashville is chairman.

Last Minute Preparations

On Saturday morning, prior to the 10:30 "finish" deadline, men and women will engage in the last frantic search for staples, paint, and crepe paper to complete their displays before their handiwork is judged—this year by Mrs. Merrill Garcelon, a member of the Brooks Art League and two members of the teaching staff of the Memphis Academy of Arts, Joe Young, assistant director, and Jason Williamson, head of the department of advertising design. Henry Pope of Montgomery, Ala., commissioner of social activities for the Southwestern student council, will tour the lodges with the judges, while crowds of eager students stand in banks on the opposite sides of the

Gateway is Gift

The Gateway is the gift of alumni and friends of the late coach who have contributed to the Rick Mays Memorial Fund for more than a year. The entrance is from University St. and the roadway will lead to Southwestern's proposed football stadium and baseball diamonds. Rick Mays was a 1937 graduate of the college and was a football star in his undergrad days.

road craning to catch a glimpse of approval on the faces of the judges as they review each display. From this moment on the tension builds to highest suspense until the winners are announced at half-time in the afternoon game. Veterans remember catastrophic years when backdrops fell before the judges' eyes or, as happened two years ago, a carefully constructed merry-go-round failed to go-round as the judges stepped into its carnival arena. But former trophy winners are the happiest homecomers, as they recall the thrill of accomplishment experienced after the long hours involved in the conception and preparation of a theme. For winning one of the trophies is no easy task: the judges consider originality, workmanship, beauty, and detail. These are four big requirements to perfect within the $30 budget to which each group is confined.

Universal Sentiment of Homecoming

The universal sentiment of a homecoming for both students and graduates is the recollection of the fun and fellowship in which they have participated. One is never as cold as when he ventures out at the dawn of Homecoming Day to assemble a display; nor is he ever as warm as when he stands in front of the fireplace in his lodge and, with his brothers, ravenously consumes coffee and donuts; and this year he will never be prouder than at the moment he says to his parents, "See that streamer 'way up at the top? My buddy and I fastened it there."

Homecoming Activities

Appropriately, Homecoming is a college holiday. Classes are called off so students and faculty can devote their entire day to festivities. Special events will fill each hour of the day.

Faculty members from 9:45 until 10:30 a.m. will feature three lectures and at 11:15 dedication of the new Rick Mays Memorial Gateway will be held. All during the morning coffee will be served by the Southwestern Woman's Club in the Adult Education Center.

The alumni-parents' luncheon will be served in the gym from 11:30 until 1:00, and bus transportation to and from the Hodges Field game will be available for those who want it.

Immediately following the game alumni and parents will gather for a post-game party at the Park Tower Club.

Lynx Lair Laughs
"I hear Southwestern's football team might play William & Mary. There's a good chance they will win, if William doesn't show up."

SOUTHWESTERN'S BILL HARWOOD (on the ground) is about to receive a little assistance from 190 pound Mike Drake. Seemingly unaware of the coming impact is Georgetown's David Gregory.

Georgetown Held Scoreless

SW Dual-Platoon System Effective

Southwestern scored somewhat of an upset Saturday by defeating the highly ranked Georgetown Tigers 14-0. Georgetown boasted one of the toughest and hardest-hitting lines the Lynx have faced this year, but a fired-up Southwestern offense realized some of its potential for the first time and doubled its opponent's yardage. The Lynx netted 14 first downs to Georgetown's two.

The first quarter was a two-man show by our own halfbacks Scott Halford and Bill Harwood. They led Southwestern's first major offensive drive and put the 'Cats on Georgetown's 17 yard-line. Here the drive was momentarily stifled until the fourth down when quarterback Bert Chafin connected with Harwood, who plunged to the three. Harwood drove into the end zone on the next play for the first Lynx score. The extra-point kick failed.

Tiger Defense Tough
Later in the quarter the confident Lynx gambled on a fourth down play and Georgetown took possession on their own 41. They were unable to move, however, and were forced to kick from their 43. This play set in motion one of the best runs we have seen this year. In a dazzling display of broken field running, Bill Harwood dodged several men, reversed his field, and leaped over a defender, scampering 80 yards, only to have the play called back by a penalty.

In the beginning of the second quarter Southwestern recovered a Georgetown fumble on the latter's twenty, but the tough Tiger defense held the Lynx to three yards. Later, Southwestern was forced to kick from its own 45, and John Ashcraft booted the ball all the way to the Georgetown two-yard line. The Lynx got another break as the Tigers fumbled on their own nine and Southwestern's Don Huckaby recovered. Big Randy Kyle and freshman Buddy Ratcliff teamed up against a tough Tiger defense and moved the ball to within one foot of the goal, where Bill Harwood carried the ball in. Bill swept left end for the two-pointer. From then until the half ended both teams dug in, neither one willing to give up yardage. At the gun, Southwestern still held its 14-0 lead.

Third Quarter Drive
The third quarter saw another Lynx drive thwarted as fullback Jerry Manley intercepted a Georgetown lateral on the Tiger's 30. The Lynx drove to the twelve but were unable to score as several passing attempts failed. Soon afterwards a heavy rain set in forcing most of the fans to leave and severely handicapping both teams. The rest of the game was a hard-fought defensive battle in the mud. Neither team was able to score under these conditions.

Scott Halford, Buddy Ratcliff, and Bill Harwood, in that order, led Southwestern in ground gaining. Outstanding on defense were Kenneth Gann, David Bird, Mike Drake and Russ Didelot. Doug Meeks and Roy Twaddle bolstered the offensive line, while dependable John Ashcraft again provided his excellent kicking.

For the first time this season, Southwestern used the two-platoon system, with each unit changing about every twelve minutes. Coach Johnson's new strategy seemed to have worked very well, and the first team stayed well-rested. The heavy Georgetown players were continually faced with a fresh and eager Lynx squad. The fact that Southwestern emerged victorious over Georgetown will probably mean that the two-unit system will be used for the remainder of the season. This system is used successfully by many large universities.

Maryville Next Foo
Georgetown previously had a 4-1 record, defeating such teams as Ft. Knox and Memphis Navy. Southwestern pushed its record to 3-2. The Lynx showed that they have the ability and coaching to produce a winning season this year, with three games left. Today Southwestern hosts the Maryville Highlanders in the Lynx homecoming game; both teams have 3-2 records. The teams are pretty evenly matched, although Southwestern is out-weighted. Some significance might be found in the fact that while Maryville lost to Georgetown 9-0, Southwestern defeated the Tigers 14-0. Both teams have defeated Centre College.

The contest will be a hard-fought one, but if the Lynx' play equals last week's they should win handily. The game will be held at Hodges Field; game time is two o'clock.

Cross-country

Mid-Season Summary

The Lynx harriers have won four and lost two as they reach the halfway point in their season. Both losses have been to the strong Union University team, the last one being a near upset with Southwestern losing by only one point 28-29. The Lynx have defeated Millsaps, Mississippi College, Florence State and Lambuth. There are six remaining meets plus the Union Invitational at Jackson. Southwestern is most assured of a winning season, for it is hardly possible that they could lose more than two of the remaining contests.

CAC Tourney at SW?
The College Athletic Conference meet will not be held in St. Louis this year as scheduled. Coach Maybry is trying to schedule the meet at Southwestern, possibly on the same day as the football game with Washington and Lee. If these plans materialize, the weekend of November 17 should be an exciting one for Southwestern fans.

Although they have a weakness in depth, the Lynx are stronger team-wise than they have been in the past few years. This is largely the result of efforts by the Athletic Department to stimulate interest in this rugged sport.

A recent addition to the team is senior John C. Rice from Memphis.

SW Hoopsters

Start Practice

The Southwestern basketball team of 1962-1963 has begun its annual practice sessions, with the primary objective to get members into condition. Coach Winfred May is back for his second term with high hopes of improving upon his first. May said that he "couldn't have gone out and hand picked boys with better ability and spirit than the ones out for basketball this year."

For the first time, Southwestern is going to have adequate height. In addition to Aubrey Smith, a 6'4" returning letterman, and David Miles, 6'6" returning letterman and co-captain, the team has Bo Montgomery, 6'3", returning from last year's squad and Bill Bodie, a 6'4" sophomore who is out for the first time. Also, Howard Eddington, a 6'2" junior, alternates between the post and outside because of his fine shot from the guard position.

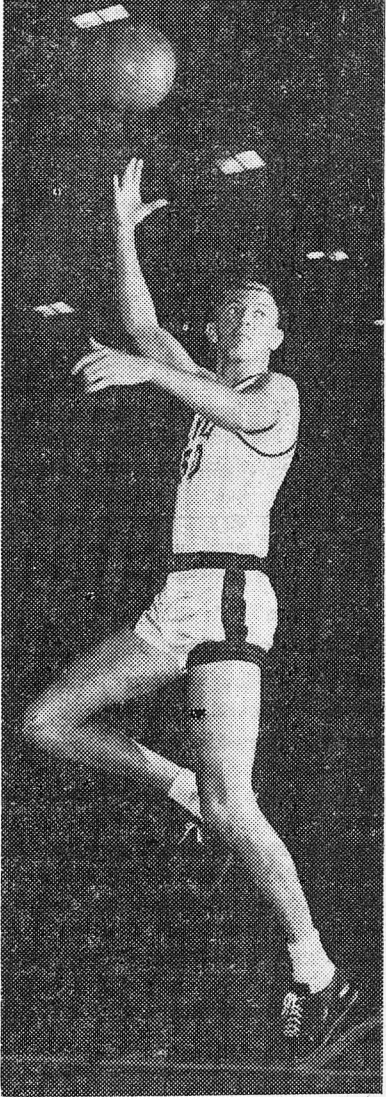

The team is going to have a lot of depth at guard. Returning from last year's team are Carl Fisher, 6'2" letterman and co-captain, and Ken Gann, a 6' letterman. Several freshmen, including John Welch, Jim Boals, Don Patillo and Ray Dunn, are expected to see action.

Richard Thomas and Warner Calhoun are expected to join the team after football has ended.

From The Sidelines

Last Saturday the Southwestern football team demonstrated one of the best efforts that this writer has seen in some years. In their win over the Georgetown team they proved beyond a doubt their ability and new strength this year. However, the football team was not the only one that won on the field that day. Several students, among them the cheerleaders, demonstrated one of the best examples of school spirit this school has witnessed. In the pouring rain their loyalty remained unbroken even tho' some of them had dates that night. They definitely set a good example, and it was followed by quite a number of students. The athletic department has graciously expressed its appreciation. If the spirit of the few students that remained at the game could prevail in proportion to the number of students at the game, there is no doubt that the Lynx team could win the Homecoming game today.

There is one sport that none of the other athletes make jokes about. That one sport is cross-country running. This year the Lynx Harriers have maintained their previous record and have turned in an admirable number of wins. Of the members on the team that have excelled are included Mallory Chamberlain and Howard Romaine. Mallory has always been one of the top runners on the cross-country team and in track. This year is no exception as he continues to bring many firsts. However, during the summer Howard must have been working hard as he has vastly improved. When a runner such as Howard who was often joked over can improve as much as he did in three or four months, he deserves real credit. Keej up the good work, Howard.

The Harwood twins seem to be making quite a reputation for themselves on the football field and off. Evidently, each of them is trying to keep up with the other. This year also there is another set of brothers on the field. The McMillan boys, playing toe to toe, could manage to do a lot of harm to any opposition. At any rate the style of all four will be demonstrated this Saturday during Homecoming. The game should be well worth seeing since SW will be trying to avenge its loss to the Scots last year. This one's a good one; don't miss it!

Girls' Intramurals

Fast action highlighted opening night play in the WAA Volleyball Tournament. DDD, KD, and ZTA copped victories in their initial outings. Grabbing the spotlight of spectator interest was the KD-ChiO match. KD squeezed out a tough win in the best out of three games, edging through the last one 16-14. Outstanding were Chris Brossell and Ann Clark Quinlin, ChiO; Ann Crowell and Carolyn Walters, KD.

DDD beat a fast coming Independent team 10-3, 13-10. Lack of experience hurt the freshman-loaded Independents, but shouldn't bother them much longer. High points of the game were the work of DDD's Carolyn Cooper and Judy Emery. Independents countered with great efforts from Shearer Chilton and Helen Harper.

ZTA beat AOPI 15-0, 15-3, in a game much closer than the score would indicate. Most notable was the playing of Priscilla Strickland and Myrna Schaap, AOPI. Margy Gatz and Hazel Kirkpatrick led ZTA's game. In "B" League play ZTA beat AOPI by forfeit.

Girls' tennis is working out according to pre-season predictions with KD's Suzanne Burns and DDD's Carolyn Cooper starting to bear down heavily in their drives for the finals. Forfeits have marred early round action, but later action promises tougher competition and faster play.

New Intramurals Begin

Intramural Cross-Country

The intramural cross-country meet will be held November 20. All who expect to compete should notify their intramural representative and start conditioning. For further information contact the Athletic Office or Jerry Manley.

Intramural Ping-Pong

The intramural ping-pong tournament will begin October 31. Each group will be allowed only fifteen entries. Three awards will be given: individual first place, individual second place, and team winner.

Intramural Flagball

As we proceed into the final games of the season, it appears that the SAE's have all but won their sixth flagball championship in as many years, barring an unlikely upset. The SAE's sport a 4-0 record and boast the league's leading scorer in tailback Buddy McAfee. They proved in the last seven days that they have the experience and speed which are necessary for a championship team.

The SAE's overcame two formidable obstacles this past week as they defeated the waning Independent Men 72-48 and downed ATO 48-36. The first half of the Independent game was a seesaw battle, with neither team showing well on defense. It looked as if either team might win, and the half ended with the SAE's ahead by one touchdown. In the second half an aroused SAE team poured on the steam and snowed the Independents under with passes. The SAE's pulled steadily ahead under the quarterbacking of McAfee and won with comparative ease by four touchdowns. McAfee added thirty points of his own. The Independents, while still an offensive threat, displayed their defensive weaknesses. Dale Ledbetter and Bill Butler were high men for the Independents with twelve points each.

SAE Downs ATO

The second SAE hurdle was ATO, possessing the best defense SAE has had to face all year in the form of ends Mike Hutchison and Larry Hilgeman. As expected, the game was defense all the way, with SAE finally emerging on top 48-36. McAfee and Eddie Fowler led the SAE's in scoring, each hitting paydirt three times for 18 points. Speedy back Donnie Dyer added six points of his own, and Lee Marshall contributed six. ATO's Hilgeman also starred offensively by scoring two touchdowns. Ross Land scored two, and John Rice and Eddie Yarbrough donated one each.

KS Upsets Independents

Kappa Sigma at last showed everyone that they have one of the toughest teams in the league this year by downing the once highly-ranked Independent Men 78-54. The Independents, still suffering from their first defeat at the hands of SAE, didn't seem to have their hearts in the contest, and were behind for most of the game. KS's Albert MacMillan, who many say is the hardest runner in the league, hit the Independents with a continual barrage of quick runs up the middle. The scoring, however, was well-distributed and went like this: MacMillan 18, Bill Potts 12, Wiley Cook 6, Scott Gregory 6, Bob Merrick 6, and Jerry Black 6. End Frankie Cox was the leading scorer for the losing Independents, scoring 18 points on passes from quarterback Dale Ledbetter. Danny McCleary, Baird Callicott, Carter Osterbind, and Ledbetter had one touchdown each.

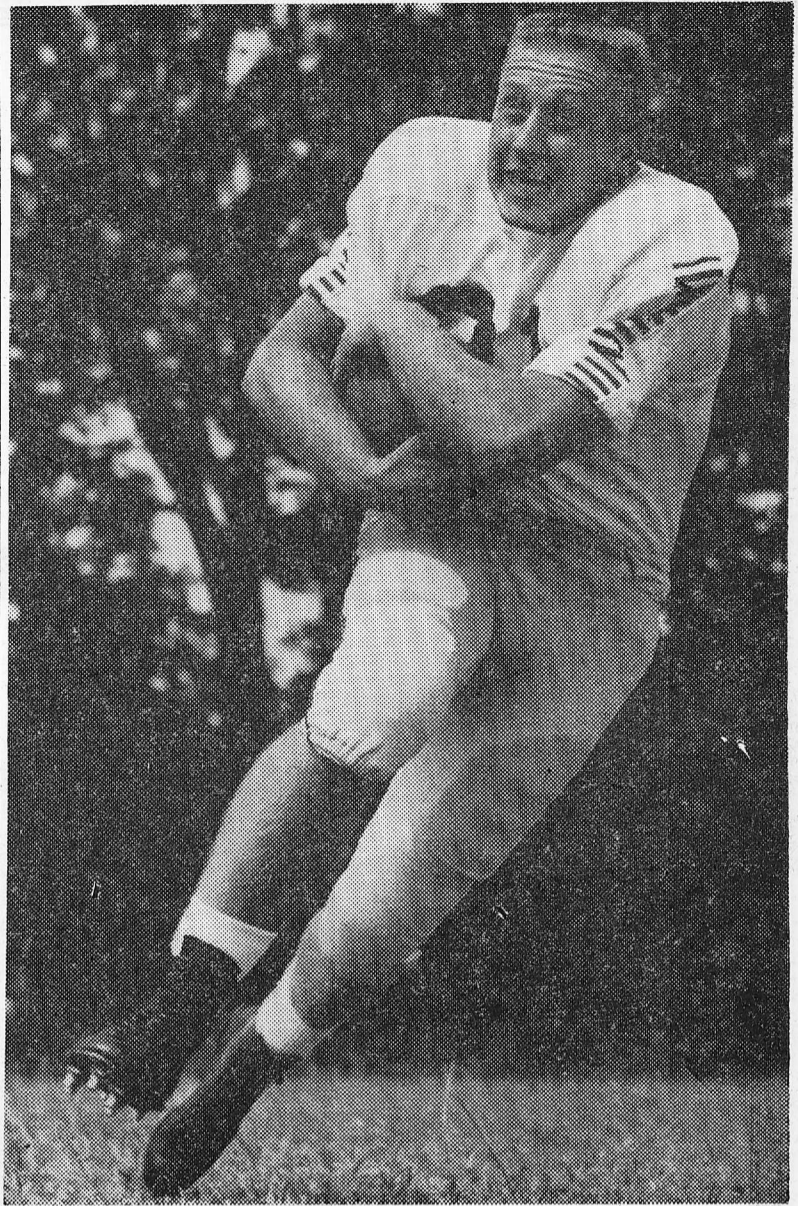

In another game, Kappa Alpha defeated the Pikes. PIKA played one of their better games of the season but lost 48-30. High man for KA was Rick Duschl with five touchdowns and 30 points. This was one of the best individual scoring efforts of the 1962 season, and it placed Duschl second among the top scorers in the league.

Scrappy Sigma Nu defeated KA Monday, but neither the score nor the individual performances were available. In a game which was not reported last week and for which details are not available either, ATO routed KA 60-12.
