Southwestern at Memphis

45th Year

MEMPHIS, TENNESSEE, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1963

Vol. 45, No. 2

Dean Granville Davis Delivers Campus Convocation Speech

The Haliburton Tower Bell rang in the new academic year Tuesday morning at 8:15 as students returned to classes for Southwestern's thirty-ninth year in a Memphis setting.

Davis Delivers Address

Students heard Granville Davis deliver the Convocation address, "A Sense of History," at 8:15 a.m. Tuesday, then spent the day attending all their classes for a half-hour each, and purchasing text books from the bookstore in the Lair, where the line at one time stretched from the bookstore in the back of the Lair almost to the front door.

President Peyton Rhodes welcomed students at Convocation exercises, challenging students to examine their role in Southwestern and in the world, and professing a need for the "rediscovery of the spiritual world, and of man's spiritual capacities."

Education Pre-requisites

Granville Davis, dean of continuing education, listed four pre-requisites to the true education in his address: a sense of history, a sensitivity to beauty, self-understanding and a sense of dedication.

The sense of history, he said, made one avoid giving over to despair. The order of nature and man's creative arts both contribute to man's sensitivity to beauty. One must have a knowledge of himself before he can truly be educated, Dean Davis continued. A sense of dedication toward both political and spiritual things, he concluded, because without the world a man can't live, but he who lives within it alone isn't a man.

'Prepare for the Present'

Dean Davis also warned students to prepare to face the problems which the world is facing now and advanced the opinion that no education is ever completed, and at no time is this so evident as now, when everyone has trouble keeping abreast of technical developments.

SC Point System Handbook Wrong

Because of a mixup in the information given to the 1963-64 Student Council Handbook editor Dale Seay, an erroneous Activity Point System was given in that publication.

The correct system is based on a maximum of three points for any one member of the student body and attempts to prevent a student from becoming overloaded with extra-curricular activities.

Offices worth three points are Student Council offices, Fraternity and Sorority presidencies, Honor Council presidency, editorship of the annual and the Sou'wester, and the business manager of the Sou'wester.

Holders of two points are class presidents, Student Council Commissioners, IFC and Pan presidents, pledge trainers, fraternity and sorority treasurers, and the business manager of the annual.

One-point positions are class vice-presidents, class secretaries, Publications Board representatives, cheerleaders, and presidents of honorary organizations.

Other one-point holders are presidents of religious groups, presidents of any other organizations, managing editor of the Sou'wester, and class Student Council Representatives.

Frosh Select Cheerleaders

By ELLEN WOODRUFF

Judy Alexander, Janie Baxter, Eleanor Jackson and Linda Robinson were elected to serve as freshmen cheerleaders for the 1963-64 sports season by the Freshman Class Wednesday afternoon in Malory Gymnasium.

Their election was announced the same night at a meeting of the SAU boosters club.

Janie and Eleanor are Chi, Omega, pledges from Covington, Tennessee and Rosedale, Mississippi, respectively. Judy Alexander is from Arkadelphia, Arkansas, and an Independent, while Linda Robinson is a Kappa Delta from Goodwater, Alabama.

The selection was made from a group of sixteen including Lynn Harrell, Leigh Moore, Jennifer Bird, Carol Callaway, Susie Danforth, Olivia DeLoach, Loyanne Robertson, Dianne Fuller, Sharon McKeen, Anne Robertson, Roma Leah Trobaugh and Dana Delugach. Each contestant individually led a cheer of her own choosing.

The four new cheerleaders will organize the half-time entertainment at the football game with Central Methodist a week from tomorrow. Among their duties during the sports season will be serving as "crowd rousers" in the stands, leading cheers during half-time and the last three minutes of the football games.

They will also assist the varsity cheerleaders in making posters and in baking cookies and polishing apples for the football players.

Frat Desserts Begin Monday

Monday marks the first in the traditional round of sorority desserts for campus fraternities. The Tri-Delts will host the Pikes, Kappa Delta, the Sigma Alpha Epsilons; Zeta Tau Alpha, the Alpha Tau Omegas; Chi Omega, the Kappa Alphas; and Alpha Omicron Pi, the Kappa Sigs.

All desserts will begin at 6:30.

Football Weekend Slates Open Houses, Pep Rallies

Kicking off Southwestern's first football game of the 1963 season, four campus organizations have planned festivities to fill the weekend. Pi Kappa Alpha, Alpha Omicron Pi, the Lynx cheerleaders and the Student Council have joined forces to provide parties and pep to highlight the Lynx's first contest with the College of the Ozarks.

PiKA Open House Tonight

Rufus Thomas and his band will herald the beginning of the weekend at the PiKA open house from 6 until 8 p.m. tonight. This will be the second year for the WDIA disk jockey to play for the Pikes, again the first fraternity to host the student body at an open house.

Southwestern's traditional bonfire will be lit for the first pep rally, immediately following the open house. The Lynx cheerleaders will lead students in yells to spark school spirit for the Saturday contest.

Game Begins at 2 p.m.

Hodges Field will be the scene of the featured event of the weekend, as the Lynx take on the Mountaineers from the Ozarks at 2 p.m. in the first grid contest of the season.

Buses will carry students to the game from behind Science Hall at 1 p.m. tomorrow for a nominal charge, SAU President Mike Drake announced today. Last year bus rides to and from the game cost fifteen cents.

Following the game AOPi will entertain the student body, faculty, and their guests at an open house in the sorority lodge. Providing music for dancing will be the Epsilons, led by Buddy McAfee.

SC Open House

To honor Southwestern's new students, the Student Council has planned another open house and a dance to be held at the SAE and ATO lodges. The Epsilons will again be featured in the SAE house, while refreshments will be served at the ATO's. The party will continue from eight until twelve p.m. to climax a weekend filled with activities to kick off another season of Lynx football.

STUDENTS ATTENDING THE OPENING CONVOCATION rose as Cyril Hollingsworth led the academic procession to the stage in Fisher Memorial Garden. The Student Council President has traditionally carried the standard bearing the Seal of Southwestern at Commencement and at Opening Convocation.

Frosh Talent Night Slated Next Week

All freshmen with any talent will have a chance to gain glory and recognition next Friday at the annual Freshman Talent Night program in Hardie Auditorium.

Student Council Vice-President Henry Pope and Women's Undergraduate Board President Didi Hale are the upperclassman coordinators of the event, and are the people to see about taking part in the program. Time for auditions and practices has not yet been announced, but posters will be put up announcing such meetings.

Both group and individual acts are requested, and a group act need not stay within Greek lines.

Independents To Hold Organization Meeting

Wayne Webb, president of the Independent Men, has announced that an organizational meeting of that group will take place Monday, September 23, at 4 o'clock.

The purpose of the meeting, according to Webb, is to acquaint all nonaffiliated men with the independent organization and its functions. All independents are invited.

Any Independent Men interested in singing with the Independent Men's Chorus please meet at Tut-hill Hall Wednesday afternoon, September 25, at 5:45.

Mrs. Allie S. Haener, resident nurse, today announced that the Moore Infirmary will be open from 8:15 A.M. until 5:00 P.M. during the school year. Emergencies may be treated at any time.

All students are to use the east door to enter. After hours Mrs. Haener asks that students use the doorbell to gain assistance.

Academic Athletics

At 2 p.m. tomorrow afternoon another Southwestern football season gets under way. Throughout the long, arduous early-season workouts the team has shown its desire to win, and the players have spent many exhaustive hours on the field to ready themselves for the coming season. All that is left is to inject the same enthusiasm and desire to win into the student body, whose support is so vital to the Lynx cause, and which has often been withheld to a great extent in recent years, we think for the following reason:

At many colleges football is becoming a minor league training camp for the pro leagues, and there is a wide-spread attitude of hero-worship toward the team within the college and the community. As a result the sport and its participants often overshadow the college they represent, or else the university is known almost solely for its football squad and not for the intellectual atmosphere created by the college, which is its only real justification for existence. Athletics, according to most college catalogs, is somewhat secondary but necessary in rounding out the education of a student by supplying opportunities for physical as well as mental and moral growth. However, the over-emphasis on athletics by many universities has done much to hamper the efforts of colleges such as Southwestern who attempt to make athletics an important but not the primary factor of college life.

This situation is evident at Southwestern. It is not surprising or unhealthy that Memphis State, Ole Miss, Alabama, LSU or Arkansas football games find many campusites in attendance or glued to the TV or radio. But the same interest shown in the fortunes of these teams is often denied Southwestern athletic teams representing the college and the students.

The offensive and defensive patterns used by Southwestern are just like those used in the SEC. Despite the role athletics plays in the development of the Southwestern student, the goal is the same as it is for Ole Miss or Alabama: To win. And the need for college and community support in order to encourage a team to realize its highest potential is just as real for Southwestern as for any other university.

Southwestern cannot compete on the same scale with schools that give fantastic athletic scholarships, or build 50,000-seat stadiums for games which sell out months in advance. But it can develop a pride in itself that will lead to the molding of teams that can more than hold their own with other schools who place a value on athletics relative to the total educational process. The enthusiasm and hard work which the football team has exhibited this fall prove that they are a team which students can be proud of. Tomorrow at the game would be a fitting time and place to show off that pride.

New Accident & Sickness Policy Covers Southwestern Students

Part of every student's $50 per semester Activity Fee covers an accident and sickness insurance policy which in turn covers the student 24 hours a day as long as the student is enrolled at Southwestern, up until June 1, 1964.

Students who have injuries covered by the policy should report them immediately to the Comptroller's office, school officials warned, however. Claims must be entered within 60 days following the injury or sickness, or they are void.

Benefits include from $500 to $1000 for the loss of one or more hands, feet or eyes, and $1000 for the loss of life. Also, medical expenses up to $500 will be paid within one year after an accident in which a student is injured, providing that the original claim is entered prior to the 60-day limit.

Provisions are also made for hospital, surgical and other medical services. Hospital room and board is paid at a rate of $13 per day for as long as 70 days. Up to $160 in X-rays, anesthetics, tests, and medicines will be paid while the student is in the hospital.

Physicians visiting on non-surgical cases will result in benefits of $5 per visit up to 30 visits, and from $6.67 to $200, depending on the seriousness of the operation, will be paid on all surgical expenses.

The aggregate amount payable for any one sickness is subject to a deductible of $10.

EDITORIAL POLICY

Opinions expressed on the editorial page are not necessarily shared by the entire SOUTHWESTER staff or student body. Letters to be published must be signed, although names may be withheld from publication by request. The editor reserves the right to judge the acceptability of editorial articles and letters, and to limit the number of articles and letters on a single subject. Also, on letters of more than three hundred words, the editor reserves the right to make deletions not essential to the body of the article.

YR's Invite Students To Attend Reception

Southwestern's Young Republicans will hold a reception Tuesday, September 24, from six to eight o'clock at the Kappa Delta lodge.

The purpose of the open house is to introduce the sponsors and to encourage membership in the organization. All students are invited to attend.

Sponsors of the group, announced today by secretary Vivienne Guest, are Dr. R. L. Amy of Southwestern and Mr. Frank Liddell of Memphis. Other prominent Memphis Young Republicans will also attend.

Highlights of the year will include films, discussions, speakers, and a Mock Republican Convention to be held in the spring.

Southwestern Coeds Pledged By Sororities Last Saturday

Southwestern's five national sororities pledged 105 women in ceremonies held Saturday afternoon, September 14, at the sorority lodges.

Alpha Omicron Pi, Chi Omega and Delta Delta Delta all pledged 25 girls. Kappa Delta took 22 and Zeta Tau Alpha pledged 8.

Following four days of rushing, these girls were added to sorority rolls:

Alpha Omicron Pi: Mary Lindsay Andrews, Mary Lou Bayley, Carole Branyan, Mary Jo Burns, Pat Butterworth, Mary Christian, Cathy Couch, Senter Crook, Pat Currie, Ann Fraser, Gilvia Flanagan and Carole Gibbs.

Also Mary Guthrie, Ketti McDonald, Sharon McKeehan, Anne McFarland, Lisa Meredith, Annette Montgomery, Leigh Moore, Connie Schorr, Cathy Simpson, Julie Stanton, Mary Beth Spelce, Anne Thacker and Pat Thomason.

Also Vickie Johnson, Anna McLean, Anne Maynard, Charlotte

Palmer, Patricia Patterson, Mary Ann Rambo, Chris Reveley, Jan Riddle, Emily Thomason, Roma Leah Trobaugh, Mary Louise Williams and Ellen Woodruff.

Delta Delta Delta: Bootsie Best, Julie Best, Vivian Bolen, Margaret Cobb, Ann Dannenburg, Dana Delugach, Jane Doughtie, Diane Duschl, Tandy Goodlet, Cille Gregory, Sydney Griffin, Frances Griswold and Susan Hart.

Also Do Ann Johnson, Jane Maxey, Mary Jane McCreary, Sharon Miller, Sammy Ann Primm, Pam Richardson, Ann Robertson, Lorraine Robertson, Lynn Smith, Candy Stanley, Canon Thomas, Judy Wood.

Kappa Delta: Edie Agnew, Anne Aitken, Annette Anderson, Emalie Appleton, Lucy Bartges, Dwan Bell, Carol Calaway, Susie Danforth, K. E. Field, Janet Harlan, Lyn Harrell and Susan Head.

Also Jeanne Hope Jacobs, Charlotte Lebo, Pat Meeks, Linda Robinson, Elizabeth Schippen, Carol Simpson, Phyllis Tucker, Jeanne Wertz, Diane Winn and Jean Wheat.

Zeta Tau Alpha: Dell Bailey, Betty Benton, Mary Mettis, Sarah Cheryl Irwin, Kathryn Ruth Logan and Jane Carol Ramsey.

Letters to the Editor

ASPECTS OF THE RACE PROBLEM

Momentarily laying aside the currently so chic hypothesis of racial equality and assorted liberal sophistries, one fact mercilessly speaks for itself: the Negro is the only race in history that has risen to a position of world significance, not through its own efforts or merits, but through the endeavors and altruism of other people.

Mike Cody Addresses Frosh On Students' Role as Students

About fifty new students were on hand Wednesday evening in Hardie Auditorium as Mike Cody, Memphis lawyer, former Southwestern student body president, told the audience that students were in a unique position in terms of freedom of thought.

"You have little to fear in terms of economic or social retaliation for your views," stated Cody. "If you realize this and accept the responsibility you will be heard. The chance will never come again."

"Most of you have never thought of what your role as a student would be," he told the freshmen. "To some, this is just a thirteenth year in high school, a chance to be part of the Cotton Carnival, or just to pick up enough education to be able to run some business."

"But anyone who came to Southwestern who isn't primarily interested in getting every bit of education available is going to be disappointed," he continued. "If you are looking for anything else: a good time, a rich husband, or a big football team you can find it better somewhere else."

Cody suggested that one start off by looking at himself to decide what kind of person he wants to be, and then to look outside the narrow academic community to see what has to be done and then do what needs to be done.

"You must become a mature member of the college and community," he concluded. "I would like to see you do the things we left undone and say the things we left unsaid."

Southwestern 'Red Necks Square Dance As Veteran Caller Billy Brooks Directs

By DALE SEAY

Thirty million square dancers across the United States gather weekly to enjoy Western, Contra, and folk dancing. Among fifteen thousand callers across the country is Billy Brooks, Memphian, who led the freshman and junior classes in some of the more basic elements of square dancing last night in the Mallory Gymnasium.

Mr. Brooks' interest in this type of dancing began eight years ago in a class composed of fellow members of the Davana Avenue Methodist Church. Mrs. Brooks interested him in the class so much that she commented last night, "I just couldn't stop him!"

Now a member of the Memphis Callers' Workshop, Mr. Brooks taught himself to do both patter and singing calls. Last night patter calls were featured with a background of "instrumental hoe-down music." One singing call was performed—"Red River Valley."

Western dancing includes such calls as the "Texas Star," which was frequently performed at the Junior Class Red Neck party last night. The "Pattie Cake Polka," a folk number, was also featured.

Western dancing utilizes four couples in a square, while the contra dancers are in threes instead of couples. Folk dancing is centered about a circle rather than a square.

Mr. Brooks regularly calls for three clubs in the Memphis area—Buttons and Bows, Flirts and Skirts, and the Jewish Community Center group. A foreman at Kellogg's, Mr. Brooks considers calling an enjoyable avocation and has travelled in a five state area to call.

Last June he called two numbers on the "High Noon" show on WMCT-TV. One square from the Buttons and Bows club was featured. In past years, Brooks has called at the Mid-South Fair Square Dance Pavilion, and may go to Houston, Texas to record some of his original calls.

Square dancing began, Mr. Brooks stated, in England, and gradually was brought to the United States. "It's just a lot of good, clean fun," he continued, and is "almost a science."

Southwestern's students were not introduced to the more complicated figures, for it takes about fifteen weeks of lessons to advance to these. The Brookses conduct these lessons for groups of about twenty couples, who make their own arrangements for a hall and for attendance.

Mr. Brooks also has called at country club and hotel parties.

National Officers Help PiKA Elect New President

Pressures from the national office played a role in Pi Kappa Alpha's local presidential (SMC) election last April, the Sou'wester learned recently.

James Rozelle defeated Thurman Ragar, who was running for re-election, in the SMC contest. Intervention on the part of the national office was believed to arise directly from the fact that Ragar, while representing his local chapter at the district PiKA convention, moved to eliminate from the fraternity laws those provisions which virtually allowed the PiKA Supreme Council to discriminate because of race in regard to membership.

The national office actively campaigned against Ragar, although the only member of PiKA interviewed said that he thought Ragar would have been defeated regardless.

Ragar said that the national office had often attempted to interfere with his programs while he still served as SMC, presumably because of their liberal tendencies.

Prof. Likes Attends Outer Space Forum

David H. Likes, head of the department of International Studies at Southwestern is among the 70 participants at St. Louis University's Midwest Assembly on "Outer Space: Prospects for Man and Society."

The meeting, which is co-sponsored by Columbia University, began yesterday at Pere Marquette Lodge, Grafton, Ill., and will last through Sunday.

Representatives of business, industry, science, education, labor, the government and the armed forces, in a 14-state area will take part in the Assembly.

Principal speakers for the conference will be Stuart Symington, U. S. Senator (Dem.) from Missouri and a leading Senate figure in defense and space matters, and James E. Webb, Administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Small discussion groups will open the meeting. Their findings on such questions as international regulation of outer space, organization of the national space program, and the economic and social consequences of space technology, will be pooled at a general session. The group's conclusions will be published in book form for circulation following the conference.

Stellwagen To Present Faculty Organ Recital

Professor Kenton W. Stellwagen of Southwestern at Memphis will present a faculty recital at St. Mary's Episcopal Church in Memphis on Sunday at 3:30 p.m.

The public is invited, at no charge, to hear organ works of Bach, Mandelssohn, Langlais, Messiaen, Mulet, Bohn, Clearmbault and Couperin.

Before joining the teaching staff of Southwestern this month, Professor Stellwagen was associated with Judson College in Marion, Alabama. He has given recitals in St. Louis, Kansas City, and Springfield, Missouri.

After graduating from Drury College in 1949, Stellwagen attended the Vienna Academy of Music and received the coveted Kappelmeister degree there in 1955. He later did graduate work with Dr. Arthur Poister of Syracuse University.

Seniors Will Hold Frosh-Faculty Tea

Seniors and freshmen are invited to a tea at the AOPi house on Tuesday, September 24, from 4 o'clock to 5:30. All department heads and several other professors have also been invited.

Howard Edington, Senior Class President, stated that the purpose of the tea is to acquaint freshmen with most of the professors they will have in class later in their college careers.

Freshmen are especially invited to join in the entertaining conversation and the refreshments.

SAU MEETING

Wednesday, 7:30 p.m. Mallory Gymnasium

On Campus

with Max Shulman

(By the Author of "Rally Round the Flag, Boys!" and, "Barefoot Boy With Cheek.")

ONCE MORE UNTO THE BREACH, DEAR FRIENDS

Today I begin my tenth year of writing this column in your campus newspaper. Ten years is a long time; it is, in fact, what some scholarly people like to call a decade—from the Latin word deccum, meaning the floor of a ship. It is, to my mind, remarkable that the Romans had such a word as deccum when you consider that ships did not exist until 1620 when John Alden invented the Mayflower. Alden, a prodigiously ingenious man, also invented the ear lobe and Pocahontas.

Ships were a very popular mode of travel—especially over water—until 1912 when the Swede, Ivar Krueger, invented the iceberg. Krueger also invented the match, which is a good thing, because without the match, how would you light your Marlboro Cigarettes? I cannot overstate the importance of lighting your Marlboro Cigarettes, for Marlboro Cigarettes, unlighted, provide, at best, only limited smoking pleasure.

You might even call it the limp or spongy sell

I mention Marlboros because this column is an advertisement, brought to you through the school year by the makers of Marlboros. Marlboros come in soft pack or Flip-Top box. The makers of Marlboros come in dark suits with thin lapels—except on weekends when they come in yoke-neck jerseys and white duck trousers. White ducks come in flocks. They are primarily fresh water dwellers, although they have been successfully raised in salt water too. Another salt water denizen I'm sure you will find enjoyable is plankton—a mess of tiny organisms like diatoms and algae and like that which float sluggishly near the surface of the sea. It is ironic that these creatures, microscopic in size, should supply the principal source of food for the earth's largest animal, the whale. Whales, I must say, are not at all pleased with this arrangement, because it takes the average whale, eating steadily, 48 hours to gather a day's meal. This leaves them almost no time for water sports or reading Melville. It is a lucky thing for all of us that whales are unaware they are mammals, not fish, and could, if they tried, live just as well on land as in water. I mean, you add ten or twelve million whales to our Sunday traffic and you would have congestion that makes the mind boggle.

But I digress. Today, I was saying, I begin my tenth year of writing this column for Marlboro Cigarettes in your campus newspaper. I will, in each column, say a few kind words about Marlboros—just as you will, once you try that fine tobacco flavor, that pristine white filter, that supple soft pack, that infrangible Flip-Top box. These references to Marlboro will be brief and unobtrusive, for I do not believe in the hard sell. What I favor is the soft sell—you might even call it the limp or spongy sell. I hasten to state that the makers of Marlboro in ten full years have not once complained about my desultory sales approach. Neither have they paid me.

But that is of small consequence. Aside from fleeting mentions of Marlboro, this column has another, and more urgent, mission: to cast the hot white light of free inquiry upon the vexing questions that trouble college America—questions like "Should the Student Council have the power to levy tariffs?" and "Are roommates sanitary?" and "Should housemothers be compelled to retire upon reaching the age of 26?"

Perhaps, reasoning together, we can find the answers. Perhaps not. But if we fail, let it never be said that it was for want of trying.

I thank you.

© 1963 Max Shulman

The makers of Marlboro are happy to bring you another year of Max Shulman's unpredictable and uncensored column—and also happy to bring you fine filtered Marlboros, available in pack or box, wherever cigarettes are sold in all 50 states.

Lynx Open Season Tomorrow Against College of Ozarks

Single-Wing Offense, Passing To Test Southwestern Defense

Southwestern's 1963 football team opens the season tomorrow at 2 p.m. at Hodges Field against the College of the Ozarks when it will be out to avenge last year's 19-8 loss.

Although coaching changes have made it impossible for Lynx mentor Jesse Johnson to scout Ozarks, Southwestern's new head coach expects little change in the Mountaineers' strategy. Depth could be a big factor tomorrow, as the Lynx have only 26 men available for duty, compared with 46 for Ozarks.

Lynx Stress Defense

Last year passes defeated Southwestern, but intensive Lynx pass defense drills for the last two weeks should mitigate the aerial threat. On the other hand, Southwestern will stick to the ground, passing only when necessary, according to Coach Johnson. Bert Chafin and Don Hollingsworth will handle most of the quarterbacking for the Lynx.

The loss for six weeks of lineman Mike Drake, who was injured in last Saturday's scrimmage session, will hurt the team considerably. Drake, who suffered a torn ligament in his right knee, was an outstanding tackle on both offense and defense, plus being a big spirit booster for the whole team.

Line Weakened

As a result of Drake's injury, Challace McMillin has been moved from guard to tackle, and depth in the line is increasingly weak. Other

There will be an important meeting Monday at 2:00 of all Intramural Managers in the Mallory Gym Athletic Office, Coach William O. Maybry announced today, to discuss plans for the immediate intramural program.

Students, Alums Enjoy Grid Films

About a hundred people were present Wednesday night in the gymnasium as SAU presented football films of the Lynx scrimmage with the Memphis Navy, Coach Jesse Johnson talked about the movies and the team, and freshman cheerleaders were announced.

Game Films Shown

Every Wednesday night during football season the game films of the previous week will be shown and discussed by Coach Johnson. All students, alumni and friends of Southwestern are invited to attend, SAU President Mike Drake stated.

Beginning tonight at dinner SAU will sell programs for tomorrow's game. Programs may also be bought at breakfast or lunch on Saturday or at the game.

Bulletin Board Planned

Drake also announced that the SAU Athletics Bulletin Board is due to go up next week in Palmer Hall. On it will be schedules, standings and news of all varsity and intramural sports events.

SAU's membership drive was postponed until early next week. A meeting to plan the drive will be held at 2 p.m. Monday in the Kappa Sigma house for the SAU executive committee and all sorority and fraternity representatives. Drake asked that all representatives unable to make the meeting arrange for an alternate to take their place.

Southwestern is in dire need of people to play for the pep band for the football games, according to pep band coordinator Walter Howell.

"So far we only have three members," said Howell. "Anyone wishing to play in the band, please get in touch with me."

starters in the line will probably be Bill Sutton at center, Vincent Kouns and Bill Weber at ends, David Bird and either John Treace or Vern McCarty at guards, and McMillin and Russ Didelot at tackles.

All students should be sure to pick up their Student Activity Books at the Business Office before noon Saturday, it was announced today. Although these books have been taken to the first games in years past, there is no guarantee that this will be done this year; so everyone should be sure not to show up at the game without their Activity Book.

Buddy Ratcliff and Bill Harwood are most likely starters at halfback. At fullback the Lynx are three-deep with Ray Baker, Randy Kyle and Joe Dycus ready for action. Baker was hurt slightly in Tuesday's practice session, but should be completely recovered by game time.

When the defense takes over, Mike Whitaker and Butch Lightsey may see lots of linebacking time.

Punting Is Weak

Another difficulty encountered by Coach Johnson is finding a suitable replacement for star punter John Ashcraft, who graduated last year. Bob Mehrle, Kyle, Whitaker and Harwood are looking better as possible punters, but the kicking game is still fairly weak. Ratcliff and Dycus will handle the place-kicking chores.

Even with the problems in depth, Coach Johnson feels that the Lynx are an even match for the Ozarks, and that the team who makes the fewer mistakes will win. Barring more costly injuries, the eager Lynx could easily start off the 1963 season with a victory.

The Lynx tennis team will begin workouts on Monday, Coach Derrick Barton announced today. Anyone interested in trying out for the team should report to Mallory Gymnasium at 4 p.m. Plans for the season and further information will be provided at that time.

SHARING THE QUARTERBACK DUTIES for the Lynx this season will be (left to right) Bob Mehrle, Don Hollingsworth, and Bert Chafin. Although Chafin, a sophomore, has the edge on experience, freshman Don Hollingsworth has shown great promise in practice and may start tomorrow against College of the Ozarks.

Harriers Meet Arkansas State In Season Opener at Jonesboro

The rapidly improving Lynx harriers will journey 75 miles to Jonesboro, Arkansas Tuesday to meet Arkansas State at 4 p.m., opening the season with what should prove to be one of the toughest matches of the year.

Foster Leads Lynx

Dossett Foster, who strode over the 4-mile Southwestern course in the astounding early season time of 24:20 last Saturday, will lead the Lynx in their efforts Tuesday. Foster wasn't pushed to his fine time, as second-running Howard Romaine finished in 25:10.

Foster led the Reds in Saturday's intra-squad meet, but the Blacks, thanks to Romaine, third-place winner John Poolman (25:34), and Ted Morris, who ran fifth in 26:28, took the meet by a 25-30 score. Running fourth was freshman Gary Nichols of the Reds in 25:48.

Large Gap After Five

Between the five front runners and the inexperienced latecomers to the team was a wide gap. Charles Murphy finished sixth in 31:50, followed by Larry Churchill, Charles Keown, Bill Wingo and Doug Post.

The Lynx first home meet will be on October 1 when Mississippi College invades Southwestern. Last year the Lynx topped the Choctaws twice, both times by close decisions.

Cross Country Scoring

Scoring in cross country is done by assigning a runner the number of points corresponding to the position in which he finished. Thus the winner receives one point, the runner-up gets two points, and so on. The team total is gotten by adding the point totals of the first five finishers for that team.

Consequently, the squad with the lower score wins, and the sixth and subsequent finishers for a team are valuable if they can finish ahead of the other team's fifth man, thus giving the opposition a higher score.

From The Sidelines

By WEST LIVAUDAIS

Thirty-five years, two daughters, and several years of experience have not slowed Jessie Johnson in his drive to pull more out of the Lynx football team than ever before.

As Coach Johnson has expressed several times, he came to Southwestern completely new to its ways. For an individual who knows little of the school, he has proved himself innumerable times in his speeches and his talks with people on the campus. He definitely has had the experience, having lettered at Blytheville, Arkansas, in high school in three sports including football, basketball, and baseball. Later at Arkansas State he lettered in the same sports and eventually went on to be the assistant coach.

At Southwestern he plans to use, among other things, the multiple-T formation and the Monster-man defense. Both of these generalities are characterized by their versatility to many different situations. The "fighting few," Johnson's term to describe the team, has provided much talk around campus among those who have watched the practices and the two scrimmages with Navy and the alumni. If their willingness and fighting spirit is an indication of things to come from such a team, the Lynx will not be disappointed for their efforts.

This Saturday the Lynx take on the Ozarks Mountaineers, a team which is scheduled to be ready for the Lynx after beating them last year on home ground. Once again this year they will be tested to prove their ability, only this time they will not be in home territory. Playing an opposing team on home ground can be one of the greatest advantages a home team can have.

In home territory student participation and student spirit is one of the worst foes to the opposition. This year with the disbanding of hazing and the emphasis on college maturity, more is expected of Southwestern students. With these changes there will be no individual or group checking to see if the freshmen are at the game, and no one to call them on the carpet if they don't show.

The Lynx football team belongs to the students as does every athletic group on campus. The responsibility for participation and backing of the scheduled events thus falls on the individual. To shun this responsibility would be "an immature attitude," to quote a well known source.

With the large turn-over in the athletic department, a whole new realm of possibilities is opened to the Lynx. It is up to the students to supply the incentive which will open the door and allow possible new heights in Southwestern history.

Varsity Topples Alums, 13-7 On Last Play of Scrimmage

The Lynx used a late score to come out on top by a 13-7 margin last Saturday in a scrimmage against Southwestern Alumni at Fargason Field.

Although out of shape, the Alums put up a surprisingly strong battle before a rollout end sweep by freshman quarterback Don Hollingsworth gave the Lynx the winning touchdown on the final play of the game.

Good Line Action

Strong, hard-hitting line play characterized the early part of the contest. Bill Harwood, senior varsity captain, made use of the Alums' weak right end to set up the first score of the game with a 30-yard run. The Varsity missed the extra point and led 6-0.

Just before the end of the half, the usually strong Lynx aerial defense weakened, and two quick passes resulted in an Alum touchdown. They added the extra point and took a 7-6 lead.

Alums Muff Chance

A varsity fumble near the end of the game gave the Alums' a chance to ice the score, but their drive was stopped as the Varsity intercepted a pass in the end zone. From their own 20-yard line they proceeded to drive 80 yards for the score which gave them the victory.

The Alums gave the Varsity a look at the Single Wing offense, which is the type used by tomorrow's opponent, College of the Ozarks. The contact, ball handling, punt coverage and pass defense were outstanding in last week's scrimmage.
