Madrigals Provide Christmas Spirit With Caroling, Chapels and Parties

"We wish you a Merry Christmas!" will be the recurring theme of the Madrigal Singers for the next week until classes are let out Wednesday, December 18.

The Madrigals will sing at 6 p.m. Tuesday in the Burrow Refectory at the Junior Class Christmas party for the students. They will participate in a program at Idlewild Presbyterian Church at 7 p.m. tonight.

Saturday, the group will entertain the faculty at their annual Christmas party. The Madrigals will go Christmas caroling Sunday night and will be at Bellingrath around 10:45 and at the girls' quadrangle at 11:00.

Tuesday and Wednesday, the Madrigals will sing in chapel services. They will present the entire program Tuesday, singing "We Wish You a Merry Christmas," "Wassail Songs," "Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming," "Coventry Carol," "An Infant Has Come," "O Magnum Mysterium," and "Hodie Christus Natus Est."

Wednesday they will be part of a special Christmas chapel service titled "Christmas in Scripture and Song."

The Madrigal membership for 1963-64 consists of the following people:

Dr. Neal Will Lead Christmas Chapel

A special Christmas chapel service will be held Wednesday, December 18 at Evergreen Presbyterian Church. The program, led by Dr. Fred Neal, will consist of alternating Christmas songs and scriptures.

The Madrigals will sing the songs, and the scriptures will be read by members of the faculty, student body, and staff.

The selections that the Madrigals will sing are "Break Forth O Beauteous Heavenly Light," "Lo, How a Rose e'er Blooming," "What Child Is This," "Divinum Mysterium," "A Virgin Most Pure," and "Lullay Lullay Lu."

Santa Claus returns to the Southwestern Campus again this year at the annual Christmas party sponsored by the Junior Class, with Billy Hunt, president, in charge of preparations.

Festivities begin immediately after dinner in the new end of the refectory Tuesday night, December 17. Decorations, a Christmas tree and sacks of candy will lure students eager to gain a head start on the holiday season.

The entertainment agenda includes a letter to Santa Claus requesting many surprising gifts for Southwestern students. On the more serious side will be Christmas Carols presented by the Madrigal Singers under the direction of Tommy Vanden Bosch.

How to Choose Commissioners Becomes SC Constitution Issue

Discussion of the proposed new Student Council Constitution bogged down Tuesday over the issue of whether commissioners should be elected or appointed by the president under the new system.

The Student Council had already passed the preamble, Articles One and Two, and Section One of Article Three when the issue arose. The second section of Article Three of the proposed document calls for the appointment of the various commissioners by the president, similar to the manner in which United States presidential cabinet officials are appointed.

But several Council members voiced objections to the proposal. Some feared too much power would be placed in the hands of the executive branch of the new Student Government. Others wondered if student leaders who were appointed rather than elected would feel responsible to the student body.

It was also pointed out that a bad president could ruin the whole system if the rest of the executive branch was not elected. Others said that commissioners needed the support of the student body, as an election would provide, before they could carry out their programs.

The proposed Constitution separates the president and the commissioners from the legislative function of Student government and makes their positions executive and administrative in nature. The vice-president will preside over the Student Senate which must pass all measures that the executive undertakes.

Lynx Will Meet Millsaps In Dixie Tourney Tonight

By JOHN THORNTON

The Southwestern cagers, sporting a 1-2 record, go tonight against a touted Millsaps ball club from Jackson, Mississippi, at 9:00 p.m. in Mallory Gymnasium.

The game will be preceded by the Dixie Tournament opener, featuring Little Rock University vs. Lambuth, whom the Lynx defeated 93-86 Tuesday night.

Probable starters for the Lynx will be: Guards—Gary Sharp (5'10") and Carl Fisher (6'2"); Aubrey Smith (6'4") at center, and forwards Currie Johnston, 6'3" and either Jack Tilton, 6'2" or Ed Taylor, 6'2". Thus far this season, the Lynx are scoring at a 94.0 clip, far exceeding any other Lynx team in modern times.

For Millsaps, who lost Tuesday night to always-powerful Union, the offense will be built around their two guards, Converse, 5'6" and Ainsworth, 5'10". The rebounding and shot-blocking is capably manned by their 6'8" center, Rendfrey. At the forwards will be two 6'2" men, Goodwin and Smith.

Commented Coach Duckworth, "They lost to Union by only one point (79-78), and Union has the strongest team in their school's history. Besides that, they have also beaten Lambuth by eight. We'll have our hands full with this squad. They'll be tough."

The Lambuth-LRU game stacks up to be an exciting contest, too. LRU is led by 5'9" guard Freddy Eastin, who SW fans might recall as the gunner who hit for 30 points against the Lynx in Little Rock last year. Reports say LRU has come up with some tall freshmen and sophs and their backboard strength is greater than last year. The starting center is 6'5" and the forwards are 6'4", with some big men left on the bench.

Lambuth is led by guard Dwight Mills and by Howard Cagle and Farris Holmes, who scored 13, 20, and 28, respectively, against the Lynx Tuesday night. The Lambuth team will open against LRU at 7:00 tonight.

After tonight's games, the Lynx will play tomorrow night in either the consolation or the championship. The starting times are 7:00 for the consolation and 9:00 for the championship.

An All-Tournament team will be named, as well as an MVP. The first three teams will receive trophies, while the fourth will take home the Tournament ball as consolation.

The Lynx then will not be at home until January 3 against Hendrix College from Conway Arkansas on the day that classes resume after Christmas Vacation.

Midnight Communion Slated for Tuesday

The annual Midnight Christmas Communion Service, sponsored by the Protestant Religious Council, will be held Tuesday at 11 p.m. in Hardie Auditorium, Religions Commissioner Jacquelyn Dowd announced Tuesday in Student Council Meeting.

The services will be led by Gene Ethredge, Presbyterian campus minister for the Memphis area. Dean Jameson Jones and Professor Julius Melton will also take part.

Dormitory women attending the Service will receive late permission, Jacquelyn announced.

Next Tuesday is the last day for pre-registration for the second semester, Registrar John Turpin reminded students today. To pre-register, students should consult their faculty advisers and fill out the appropriate schedule. All students who do not pre-register, as well as those students who wish to make changes in their pre-registration schedule, must go through the regular registration process when second semester begins in February.

Women's Club Plans Faculty-Staff Party

The Southwestern Women's Club will hold their annual Christmas party for the Southwestern faculty and staff tomorrow at 6 p.m. in Catherine Burrow Refectory on the campus.

Mrs. Vernon H. Taylor is in charge of the program which will include the College of Music Faculty Quartet performing the last movement of the Faure Quartet for strings and piano, the Madrigal Singers, vocal selections by Martha Dunmire and harp selections by Jane Doughtie.

Mrs. Raymond T. Vaughn is general chairman on the party. Mrs. Granville Davis has planned a buffet style dinner. Mrs. Foster Moose is in charge of directions which will be in a red and white Christmas theme.

After the dinner and musical program, various games will be conducted in the Adult Education Center, with Dr. and Mrs. Robert L. Amy in charge.

RICHARD L. WALKER, who will lecture on the problems of the Far East Monday in a world affairs convocation program at 10 a.m. in Hardie. (see story page 3)

Conservative Buckley Questions Representative Role of USNSA

Stanford, Cal. (CPS)—William F. Buckley, Jr., noted conservative spokesman and writer, questioned the role of the United States National Student Association (USNSA) as a representative voice of American student opinion in an interview with the Stanford Daily.

"Conservatism," he said, "is growing on college campuses all across the United States." He attributed this growth to students' having seen "the fantastic inadequacies of modern liberalism."

Discussing the recent condemnation of USNSA by the American Legion, Buckley stated that although he noted a "heavy leftward bias in USNSA," he felt the Legion's use of the word "communist" was incorrect. Buckley also expressed the belief that USNSA is not truly representative of the opinions of American students.

Buckley affirmed his belief that students "ought to be allowed to speak out on important national and international problems." He pointed out that student leaders should not "seek to speak for the entire study body."

"Student newspapers," Buckley continued, "ought not to present themselves as representative of student opinion." He stated that although he believed that editors should have "complete license" in expressing themselves, he felt that they should make it clear that the opinions expressed are their own and not necessarily those of their fellow students.

EDITORIAL POLICY

YD, YR Speakers Present Platforms

In keeping with Political Emphasis Week, leaders of the Young Republicans and Young Democrats presented the main platforms of their organizations in convocations Monday and Tuesday.

Hart Moderates Discussions

Roger Hart moderated the discussions. Lee Marshall spoke for the Young Democrats on Monday and John McQuiston spoke on Tuesday. Vivienne Guest represented the Young Republicans on both of the programs.

In outlining the Young Republicans' views, Miss Guest stressed the need for individual freedom and less central government. She stated that the Young Republicans were concerned with "an appeal to young people as Americans concerned with the future of the country."

The audience also learned that the Young Republicans advocate foreign aid only in cases of "clear need" and a "systematic reduction of the National Debt."

Individual Still Controls

In the Monday assembly, Marshall stated that the Young Democrats take a more positive approach to the major issues of the day. He, too, stressed the importance of the "dignity of the individual soul." Marshall presented a more liberal approach to the issue concerning power of the Federal government.

He said, "The role of the government must protect man from the rising forces in the world." He also stated that "the individual still controls the government." McQuiston presented much the same views in his talk on Tuesday.

Following both speakers a question and answer period was provided for members of the audiences.

Advance sales of tickets for the musical comedy, "Funny Side Up," went on sale December 10th at Goldsmith's Central Ticket Office. The comedy is to be presented by the Princeton University Triangle Club on December 26 at the Auditorium.

Prices range from $2.50 to $6.00. All profits will go to Scholarship Funds for Princeton and to Triangle Club Presentations.

Double Door Dilemma

They say that one's college education is never completely adequate if it is limited to what he learns within the narrow limits of his prescribed courses. In fact we ourselves have been known to occasionally climb upon this literary pulpit and preach sermons having this or a similar moral. A prime example—and a practical one, yet—of this extracurricular education exists in the process which every Southwestern student undergoes in learning which half of the double doors will open in almost every instance where double doors exist on campus, from the Lair to Townsend Hall.

This process usually doesn't take long. After tugging in vain at the wrong door a few times, the enterprising freshman discovers that the other door affords quicker and easier access to the building. After a few weeks in which he has time to confront all of the double doors on campus, the freshman is mentally fit for daily life at Southwestern. The student's knowledge of which doors open what buildings is a part of Southwestern that, like the memories of the ivy-clustered Gothic buildings and John Henry Davis' Man lecture on the Roman circus, will remain with him always.

But complications and interesting sidelights arise from this double door dilemma, not the least of which involves the women's dorms and the perennial problem of coaxing, threatening or begging Southwestern boys to date Southwestern girls. Both sexes blame the frigidity of the other for the many Saturday night shut-ins, but the heart of the problem is much more subtle than this. In Voorhies, the right half of the double door opens; in Townsend it's the left half. Or maybe it's the left door in Voorhies and the right one in Townsend. Anyway, a boy who has difficulty remembering which door opens which dorm, especially a problem with males who frequent both, runs the risk of being embarrassed by trying to open the wrong door, thus displaying his apparent unfamiliarity with the girls' dorms, and by implication, with girls in general. Just imagine the impression left by some would-be snowman who, bringing his date back to Voorhies, attempts to open the left (or is it the right) door by mistake! Faced with the possibility of such disgrace is it any wonder that many Southwestern men avoid the women's residence halls at any cost?

In Palmer Hall the fact that half of each double door remains locked means that in many instances just getting in and out of the building constitutes an experience in itself. Students who abhorred registration because of the long lines they had to endure now are faced with the necessity of waiting in line just to go through a door. Some even foresee a Southwestern of the future in which it is necessary to employ the pick-a-number system used by many barber shops today and by supermarket meat counters during World War II to determine "who's next."

One of the most interesting phenomena concerning the twin door situation is that half of each door has been locked for so long that no one ever considers unlocking it. The locked half is regarded as a permanent and sacred fixture of the campus, and unlocking it is not even considered, just as constructing the new student center in ultra-modern split-level fashion, forsaking the traditional Gothic, is never considered.

But if the true value of a college education lies in training the mind, the double doors provide an invaluable part of the Southwestern curriculum. Students must exercise their recollective faculties constantly to remember that on the north side of Palmer it's the door on the right that opens; the south Palmer doors open on the left, and at Voorhies it's the right door—or is it?

Southwestern Graduate Now in Peace Corps Tells of Disappointments, Life in Nyasaland

(Editor's Note: Dan Bowen, Southwestern graduate of 1962, is now a Peace Corps Volunteer in Likuni Boys School in Nyasaland. The following article consists of excerpts from mimeographed newsletters he sends to various friends at home.)

There are three other volunteers in addition to myself at Likuni (all men). There are nine other volunteers in other schools in Lilongwe, so we have plenty of opportunities to get together, eliminating a great deal of the isolation one experiences out here.

The only disappointment thus far has been the fact that I am teaching all mathematics classes—algebra, Form I and Form II, and geometry Forms I, II, and III. I came here expecting to teach history and geography, but in Africa you learn to accept what comes along. I was the only one with any college experience in mathematics.

There were 6,000 boys who passed their Standard 8 exam to enter the secondary schools. Of this number, there were only secondary schools to accommodate 900, leaving over 5,000 boys at the age of 14 and with good minds no place to go to school. Each day several students come to the school begging for admission with tears in their eyes. The headmaster had no choice but to turn them away, for the government decides who can go to school.

At Likuni we are allotted by the government $35 a year per student to feed, sleep, and clothe the student for thirty-six weeks. It is no easy task to stretch money this far. The school is poorly equipped and has a library of about 100 books, all of them outdated.

Every evening from 7-7:30, the boys at the school have been jiving in the Assembly Hall. Today they talked me into giving them twist lessons. The only problem is that you can hardly twist to jive music.

In an exam oriented educational system such as this, it is very difficult to bring about any analytical or critical thinking. The main concern of the student is to pass the Cambridge and as a consequence, his education is largely a process of mere memorization. This is one of the big things that we are trying to change subtly. If the students feel that you are not giving them what they need to know for their exam, however, then they have the right to boycott the classroom. This of course would not be very favorable publicity for the Peace Corps were it to happen.

One of the hardest things for me to become accustomed to was the practice here of dancing with members of your own sex. Mixed dancing is definitely a western innovation but is making some strides in this country, but the old folkways are not easily changed. Anyway, here it is much better since there are no girls around the school for them to dance with.

In the classroom, there is absolutely no discipline problem. The students are respectful and well behaved. They have the utmost respect for the teacher and rarely ever question anything he says. The greatest difficulty encountered thus far has been in the area of communication. When a kid starts in Form I, he knows only about 3,000 English words, thus making it very difficult to speak on his level. They would not dare tell you that they didn't understand for fear of appearing disrespectful.

Singers to Perform Twice This Weekend

Southwestern's annual Christmas vespers will be conducted Sunday at 5 p.m. in Evergreen Presbyterian Church.

The program will feature soloists and ensembles from the music department, supported by the Southwestern Singers.

Dr. Vernon Taylor will direct, with accompaniment by organist Kenton Stellwagen. All students and members of the faculty are invited to attend.

Tomorrow morning at 11:00 a.m. the Southwestern Singers, the Delta Delta Singers and the Independent Men will appear on Channel Five's "Pride of the Southland." Students Grace Fitzgerald and Ramona Fowler will be featured, and Jane Doughtie will supply the harp accompaniment.

Walker to Speak Monday On Chinese-Russian Rift

Dr. Richard L. Walker, Professor of International Relations at the University of South Carolina, will address students in convocation Monday, December 16 in Hardie Auditorium with the subject "The Sino-Soviet Rift."

Dr. Walker is one of America's leading authorities on modern China and the Far East. He attended Drew University and the University of Pennsylvania and received an M.A. in Far Eastern and Russian Studies and the Ph.D. in International Relations from Yale University.

Dr. Walker has served as a Chinese interpreter in World War II, as head of the Department of International Studies at the University of South Carolina, as a visiting professor at the University of Washington and at the National Taiwan University in Formosa, and as a civilian member of the faculty at the National War College in Washington.

Dr. Walker has returned to the Far East several times, lecturing in Japan, Taiwan, Hong Kong, Singapore, and Australia.

He was a United States delegate to the XXVth International Congress of Orientalists in Moscow, the senior faculty advisor to the National War College group which made a tour of eleven countries of the Middle East and South Asia, and he participated in the Golden Jubilee Congress of Hong Kong University.

Dr. Walker has published five books which will be followed by a new one surveying the history of Communist China.

Ewin O. Reischauer, present ambassador to Japan, said concerning one of his books titled China Under Communist, "Mr. Walker's work should go a long way toward laying a solid foundation for a sane and consistent American policy in the future."

Members announced Wednesday were Jane Adams, Susan Ball, Lewis Guest, Ann Moore, Robert Seibert, Glen Takken and Gordon Taylor.

The Interfraternity Council awarded its scholarship trophy to Sigma Nu fraternity Wednesday in student assembly. The award was based on aggregate grade point average during the 1962-63 school year.

Three fraternities are playing host to the visiting basketball teams in Southwestern's Dixie Tournament to be held tonight and tomorrow night. Members of these fraternities will show the campus to the guest cagers, and their respective houses will be available for pool, ping pong, television or just relaxing during the players' leisure hours.

Sponsoring Little Rock University is Sigma Nu. Kappa Sigma is in charge of Lambuth, and SAE is playing host to Millsaps.

Phi Beta Kappa presented its annual book award to the two men and two women who posted the highest grade point averages in the Sophomore and Freshman classes last year. The books, Enjoyment of Music by Joseph Machlis were awarded to present juniors Jim Collier from Houston, Texas, and Martha McCharen from Jackson, Mississippi, and to present sophomores Charles McLean from Sheffield, Alabama, and Susan Mayer of Memphis.

SW Entrepreneurs Invest Wisely As Chain Letters Sweep Campus

By this edition of the Sou'wester, it is possible that any student could be the proud possessor of thousands of U.S. Bonds, sixty-four cartons of cigarettes, and innumerable fifths and six-packs.

The enterprising students merely had to buy several chain letters, pay off the person at the top of the list, sell two copies of each letter and wait for the results.

Some were still waiting at press time.

Investment capital may be obtained at approximately seven percent interest. It is reported, however, that U.S. Bonds are not being taken as collateral for the loans.

Where these chains began, no one seems to know, though the origins most commonly named are "Memphis State" or simply "off-campus." How they snaked "on-campus" is also mysterious.

Some students, in trying to make up for losses, have provided further complications. A black market in cigarettes will enable students to buy cartons for less than the retail price.

Rumors of other chains have also reached this office. One involves buying a $2.00 letter to get sixty-four dates, hopefully with the opposite sex.

The only other chain reported is one for picture frames—which may be used to frame either bank statements in the red or—U.S. Bonds.

NSA to Conduct African Seminar

The Student Council's NSA Committee will conduct an in-depth African seminar open to freshmen by invitation during the first four weeks of the second semester, NSA Chairman Wayne Webb announced Tuesday.

The title of the seminar will be "The Revolution in South Africa."

Webb also announced plans for two Memphis International Student Seminars, one to be held in January and one in March to discuss current problems of Africa and South America. These seminars will feature foreign students now residing in Memphis.

Newly announced members of the NSA Committee are Willie Edgington, Don Hollingsworth, Joe Heflin, Sharon Miller, Tommy Durff, Bill Allen and Howard Romaine.

'TIS THE SEASON TO BE JOLLY

If you have been reading this column—and I hope you have; I mean I genuinely hope so; I mean it does not profit me one penny whether you read this column or not; I mean I am paid every week by the makers of Marlboro Cigarettes and my emolument is not affected in any way by the number of people who read or fail to read this column—an act of generosity perfectly characteristic of the makers of Marlboro, you would say if you knew them as I do; I mean here are tobaccoists gray at the temples and full of honors who approach their art as eagerly, as dewy-eyed as the youngest of practitioners; I mean the purpose of the Marlboro makers is simply to put the best of all possible filters behind the best of all possible tobaccos and then go, heads high, into the market place with their wares, confident that the inborn sense of right and wrong, of good and bad, of worthy and unworthy, which is the natural instinct of every American, will result in a modest return to themselves for their long hours and dedicated labors—not, let me hasten to add, that money is of first importance to the makers of Marlboro; all these simple men require is plain, wholesome food, plenty of sunshine into the lives of smokers everywhere; if, I say, you have been reading this column, you may remember that last week we started to discuss Christmas gifts.

Do you know someone who is interested in American history?

We agreed, of course, to give cartons of Marlboro to all our friends and also to as many total strangers as possible. Today let us look into some other welcome gifts.

Do you know someone who is interested in American history? If so, he will surely appreciate a statuette of Millard Fillmore with a clock in the stomach. (Mr. Fillmore, incidentally, was the only American president with a clock in the stomach. James K. Polk had a stem-winder in his head, and William Henry Harrison chimed the quarter-hour, but only Mr. Fillmore, of all our chief executives, had a clock in the stomach. Franklin Pierce had a sweep second hand and Zachary Taylor had seventeen jewels, but, I repeat, Mr. Fillmore and Mr. Fillmore alone had a clock in the stomach. Some say that Mr. Fillmore was also the first president with power steering, but most historians assign this distinction to Chester A. Arthur. However, it has been established beyond doubt that Mr. Fillmore was the first president with a thermostat. Small wonder they called him Old Hickory!)

But I digress. To get back to welcome and unusual Christmas gifts, here's one that's sure to please—a gift certificate from the American Chiropractic Society. Accompanying each certificate is this winsome little poem:

Merry Christmas, Happy New Year,
Joyous sacro-iliac!
May your spine forever shine,
Blessings on your aching back.
May your lumbar ne'er grow number,
May your backbone ne'er dislodge,
May your caudal never dawdle,
Joyeux Noel! Heureux massage!

'Fighting Lynx' Overcome 11-Point Halftime Deficit To Beat Lambuth, 93-86

With six team members hitting in double figures the "Fighting Lynx" of Southwestern Tuesday night roared from behind to trounce Lambuth by a 93-86 count.

Down by 47-36 at halftime, Coach Duckworth ordered the zone press to shake up Lambuth's set offense, which had clicked on 19 of 37 shots in the first half. At first with agonizing slowness, then with building speed, the Lynx chopped away at the Lambuth lead as the clock ticked away.

Finally, with 9:31 left in the game, Aubrey Smith, playing with four fouls, connected with a jump shot from the side to pull the Lynx to within two points. Currie Johnston then pulled down a defensive rebound and fired the ball down court to Ed Taylor, who was fouled attempting to get off a driving lay-up.

The clock stopped with 8:53 remaining and Ed stepped to the line. He calmly sank both of his shots to tie the game at 74-74, as the Southwestern stands, packed with a good crowd, roared with delight.

Gary Sharp then stole a Lambuth pass and fired the ball to Carl Fisher, who set up Currie Johnston for the go-ahead points with an under-the-basket pass. The Lambuth team never caught back up, as Fisher, starting his first game at the guard position, hit on two more baskets before they could again score.

Coach Duckworth stressed that it was a team effort that won the game, and that a team with such balanced rebounding and scoring is hard to beat. He expressed confidence in the Lynx's ability to win the Dixie Tournament, which starts tonight. He praised the play of captains Fisher and Smith for their leadership and dogged determination in encouraging and leading the team in its comeback effort.

Selected by Coach Duckworth as the "Fighting Links" of the Lambuth game were two freshman starters. Offense—Currie Johnston (19 pts., 13 rbd); Defense—Gary Sharp (16 pts., 5 stolen balls, 3 assists).

SAE, Snakes Battle For Ping Pong Title

SAE will meet Sigma Nu in the finals of the men's intramural ping pong tournament, with the individual winner also winning the championship for his team.

In one semi-final match Danny Morgan and Fred Sheppard, both of SAE will vie. Kelly Thomas of Sigma Nu will meet the winner of the Griff Stockley-Ken Tullis match in the other semi-final. Both Stockley and Tullis are also Sigma Nu's.

CURRIE JOHNSTON SINKS TWO of his 19 points Tuesday against Lambuth, as Aubrey Smith (55) moves into position for the rebound. Johnston led the high-scoring Lynx to a 93-86 victory, their first of the season, in his third game in college competition.

SAE, Kappa Sigma, ATO Score Advances in Volleyball Tourney

Sigma Nu met SAE and Kappa Sigma played ATO in "A" league volleyball tournament semifinal games this afternoon, with the winners to vie tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. for the tournament championship.

If a team other than the regular season champ Sigma Nu wins the tourney, the Snakes and the play-off winners will meet for the overall title Monday at 4 p.m.

The Snakes drew a bye into their semi-final clash. SAE topped GDI in their first round games, ATO and Kappa Sigma advanced via the forfeit route.

Remaining undefeated in regular season play, the Snakes demolished the GDI's Friday, KA's Saturday and ATO's Tuesday. The Tau's faltered by 15-8 and 15-2 in their attempt to pull into a tie for first place with the Snakes and Kappa Sigs. The Kappa Sigs clinched at least second place last Friday by downing SAE. They also dropped PiKA Saturday.

ATO beat KA before being dropped by Sigma Nu to wind up the season in third place. SAE beat the GDI's and KA to end the season with a .500 mark after losing three of their first four games.

In a battle to stay out of the cellar, the GDI's topped the Pikes Tuesday.

Sigma Nu clinched a tie for the "B" league crown last night by downing SAE, who had won three straight after losing their opener. The SAE's meet the Kappa Sigs in a battle for second place tomorrow, while the GDI's play the Snakes.

In the unlikely event of a GDI upset, the Sigs could pull into a first place tie by beating SAE.

ATO, assured of at least third place, meets KA in the other game tomorrow. Kappa Sigma defeated the Taus in a battle for second place last Friday. The Sigs also beat PiKA and KA this week. The Taus beat PiKA last night.

Sigma Nu beat PiKA and KA before their victory over SAE. Last Saturday the SAE's beat the GDI's.

Five Harriers Given Letters

Coach Bill Maybry presided at the Annual Cross-Country banquet Wednesday night before members of the faculty and representatives of White Station, Frayser, and Overton High Schools.

The guest speaker, Mike Cody, a SW grad and ex-cross-country runner, spoke on the values of cross-country and all general athletic competition as a preparation for life.

Elected as captain for next year's team was Ted Morris, a Junior. Also receiving letters were Gary Nichols, John Poolman, Howard Romaine, and Dossett Foster.

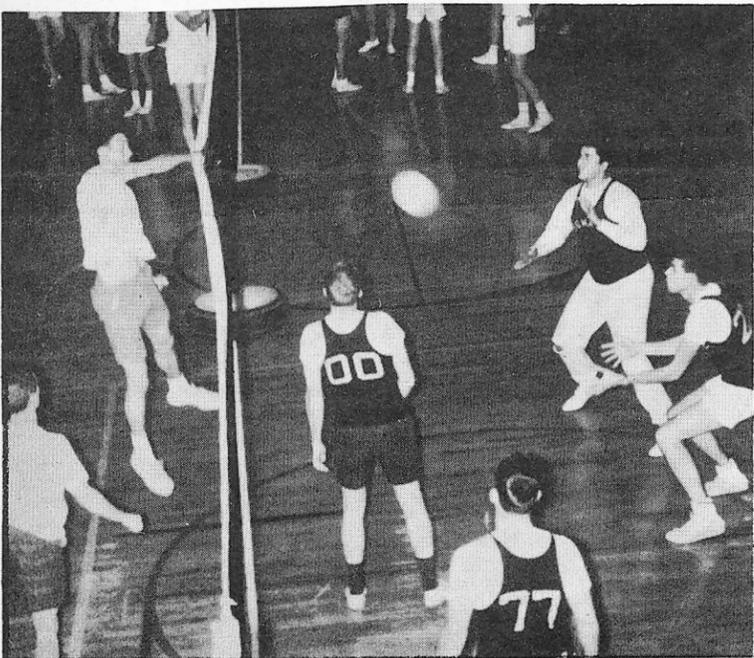

Dossett Foster, captain, was awarded the Most Valuable Athlete Award, symbolizing the team's belief that he did the most for the team this year, in areas other than just winning times turned in.

Also praised by Coach Maybry were Larry Churchill, Charlie Keown, and Bill Wingo, Freshman participants who rounded out the squad during the year. The team finished the season with a 7-5 record.

Tyree, Smith Provide Brawn In Lynx Basketball Machine

Physically speaking, the two biggest men on the Lynx basketball squad this year are the centers, Aubrey Smith and Dave Tyree, both Memphis products, who played against each other in Prep League ball.

Dave, a 6'4", 220-pound junior who transferred to SW from Wake Forest during his Freshman year, is pleased with the team's play thus far. Against Lambuth he thinks that the Lynx "should have won by more, but I'm happy that we came back so well—it's a good sign that we won't choke up in tight situations."

Asked about the differences between varsity ball and intramurals (this is his first time on the varsity squad), he said, "Varsity is much more rewarding than intramurals. It is more demanding, more complex—more of a planned effort and a real sport than just a game to go out and play."

On the team, he felt that "we have a real good team spirit. It's as good as that of any other team that I've ever played on—everyone's happy and working well together and we'll beat a few people this year."

Aubrey, a Senior co-captain from Treadwell, stated concerning the Lambuth game that "We played a lousy first half, and the second half wasn't even quite up to par—but the second half was good."

On the Millsaps game (tonight) he said "They'll be tough, but I think that we'll beat them. The team was delighted with Tuesday's student body support—really impressed. It wasn't like the usual crowds, and I hope that we weren't like the usual team."

"I can't see any reason why we can't take the Dixie Tournament, and I intend to do my best right along with the fellows."
