Student Council Ditches Oft-Debated Constitution

By HARVEY CAUGHEY

The Student Council failed by three votes, 13-8, to achieve the two-thirds majority necessary for passage of the proposed new constitution in a meeting Thursday night.

Since there are 24 members of the Council, a 16-8 vote would have been necessary to approve the constitution. Three members were absent from the meeting.

Thus the document which was drawn up last year and which has monopolized debate at Student Council meetings for the past month was dropped by the Council vote.

Lively debate lasted for an hour and a half before the final vote was called. Voting in favor of the constitution were Anne Crowell, Jacquelyn Dowd, Smitty Smith, Carolyn Crane, Dan Daniels, Eleanor Jackson, Sandy Myatt, Roger Cooper, Allan Peterson, Judy Simono, Howard Edington, Lee Brown and Chris Drago.

Voting against the constitution were Roger Hart, Henry Pope, Didi Hale, Lynn Conrad, Susan Smith, Eleanor Lawrence, Billy Hunt and Stan McNeese.

Judy Moody, Jim Fall and Linda Robinson were absent from the meeting.

The new constitution would separate the legislative (class representatives) and executive (president and commissioners) functions of the Student Government Association, as the new body would be called. The legislative body, to be known as the Student Senate, would have to approve all actions taken by the Student Government Association, and commissioners would have to get their programs approved by the Senate before carrying them out.

Debate centered around whether this type of student government would work at Southwestern.

Arguments against the constitution were varied. Its opponents claimed that the change was in structure rather than substance, and thus the new constitution would not necessarily result in better student government. Commissioners would not necessarily present better programs, but there would merely be a different means of doing things.

The fact that all commissioners' programs would have to be passed by the Senate might snarl things by setting up a complicated mechanism which would have to be used to get programs through.

Opponents also argued that the Student Government would act the same under any constitution, and wouldn't necessarily be more interested or more responsive to the needs of students.

Those in favor of the constitution countered that student representatives would be more responsible to the student body because they would have to approve everything done by the Student Government Association. Under the present system, once a commissioner is elected he is free to carry out any program he wishes, without the consent of the rest of the Student

USNSA Report Slated Tuesday

Four Southwestern students who attended the United States National Student Association Congress last summer at the University of Indiana will present a report of the Congress and other related subjects in chapel Tuesday.

Attending the Congress were Cyril Hollingsworth, delegate; Bill Allen, alternate; and observers Wayne Webb and Harvey Caughey. Prior to the actual Congress Hollingsworth attended the Student Body Presidents Conference, Webb attended the NSA Coordinators Conference, and Caughey was a delegate to the United States Student Press Association Conference.

The program will cover the aims and directions of NSA, the work of the Congress, NSA's relations on the international scene with student unions of other nations, NSA projects and services on member campuses, and NSA's work on the national level.

Hollingsworth, commenting about the program, said that "there seems to be an aura of mystery and sometimes of misunderstanding surrounding the National Union of Students of the United States and its work. It is hoped that this presentation will clear up any areas of misunderstanding or misinformation.

"An effort will be made to examine Southwestern's role in USNSA and also the overall perspective of the Association's growth and development."

ATO Pledges Sponsor Pete Fountain Concert

Pete Fountain, one of the world's top exponents of modern jazz, will perform April 7 at 8:15 p.m. in Ellis Auditorium.

The Fountain concert is being sponsored by the Alpha Tau Omega pledge class at Southwestern, and proceeds will go to the ATO House Fund.

Tickets will be sold at Goldsmith's Central Ticket Office, Poplar Tunes, 306 Poplar Avenue, and at the ATO house on campus.

Three SW Seniors Awarded Woodrow Wilson Fellowships

1507 college seniors in the United States and Canada learned of their appointments as Woodrow Wilson Fellows for the first year graduate study next fall yesterday, as announced by Sir Hugh Taylor, president of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation.

This year three seniors from Southwestern received Woodrow Wilson Fellowships. They are Liz Currie from Houston, Texas, a history major; Jack Deaver from Birmingham, Alabama, who is majoring in French; and Marilyn Meyers of Winona, Minnesota, a major in political science. Two other students who received honorable mention: Lee Brown from Marianna, Arkansas and a mathematics major and Charles Jernigan from Greensboro, North Carolina who is majoring in English.

"The Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, which is dedicated to developing 'college teachers for tomorrow', is the largest private source of support for advanced studies in the liberal arts in North America," Sir Taylor said in making this announcement.

"A Woodrow Wilson Fellow is granted full tuition and fees for the first year at the graduate school of his choice, as wells as a stipend of $1,800 and dependency allowances," Dr. Hans Rosenhaupt, the foundation's national director, said.

Winners in the competition this year were chosen from over 11,000 college seniors, representing a total of 904 colleges and universities in the United States and Canada.

HC Officers Picked Today

A New President and Vice-president of the Honor Council were elected today.

Next Wednesday, two men and two women from each class will be elected as Honor Council Representatives.

Candidates for the presidency were Tommy Durff, a junior, and Stan McNeese, a sophomore. Junior Jackie Dowd and sophomore Bob Wild opposed each other for vice-president. The results of the election will be posted as soon as all the votes have been counted.

Nominees include the present Honor Council members, students nominated by the Honor Council, and students nominated by their classmates in the upcoming class meetings. The new officers will be installed sometime in April.

ODK Brings Silver To Campus Tonight

"The man who denounced Mississippi"—Dr. James W. Silver—will speak Friday night in the Adult Education Center at 8:00. The controversial history professor from the University of Mississippi is being sponsored by Southwestern's Omicron Delta Kappa chapter.

Dr. Silver has denounced Mississippi as a totalitarian society in his "closed society" speeches since last November. His topic at Southwestern will be "Afterthoughts About the Closed Society."

Dr. Silver has requested that a question-and-answer period follow his speech so that the audience will have a chance to challenge his validity of his views.

"(The Mississippian) no longer has freedom of choice," said Silver in his November speech, "because they must first be harmonized with the orthodoxy. New currents of thought he automatically disturstsand if they clash with the prevailing wisdom he ruthlessly rules them out. He cannot allow himself the luxury of thinking about a problem on its merits.

"In committing itself to the defense of the biracial system, Mississippi has erected a totalitarian society which to the present moment has eliminated the ordinary processes by which change may be channeled. . . . Thus, the Mississippian who prides himself on his individuality in reality lives in a climate where non-conformity is forbidden, where the white man is not free, where he dares not express a deviating opinion without looking over his shoulder."

Chi Omega, GDI Cop Stunt Night

Chi Omega and the Independent Men took top trophies in AOPi's Stunt Night, held last Saturday night at Snowden.

Both groups repeated their successes of last year with their performances of "The Great American Stunt" and "Ballet: Anthony and Cleopatra," respectively. Second place winners in the men's and women's competitions were Kappa Alpha's "Venus Unchained" and Kappa Delta's "South Specific."

Political Satire

A satire on politics and on the racial situation, Chi Omega's skit was set in the post-Revolutionary War period. Leads were played by Sara Lee Mixon, the Politician; Munnie Rasberry, the Shyster; Roma Leah Trobaugh, the Preacher; and Jan Riddle, the Indian.

Others in the cast included Judy Hopson, Dinetia McCormick, Pinkie Mueller, Diane Fuller, Lou Ellyn Hindman, Janie Baxter, Ann Moss, Betty Gelston and Kay Willis.

Betsy Moore and Dale Seay wrote and directed the skit, with Charlotte Palmer and Immie Hudson in charge of the costumes and Llewellyn Wood in charge of scenery.

Cleo Dances

Leading the Independent Men in their ballet were Matt Wesson as Cleopatra, Charles Osborn as Anthony, and Danny Hardwick as Caesar. Tony Garner narrated, with Jim Kay as accompanist.

Directing the production was Buddy Gilmer; Jane Bischoff planned the choreography.

Other dancers included Tommy Grubb, Tommy Vanden Bosch, Doug Post, Rick Norwood, Rob Henley and John Mehrling.

SW Singers Tour Middle Tennessee

The Southwestern Singers leave tomorrow at 1:00 p.m. for Nashville and other places in Middle Tennessee on their annual tour. The approximately forty people will be on the trip March 14-18.

There will be nine appearances in such places as Nashville, Gallatin, Clarksville, and Jackson, which were outlined in detail last week. Among those traveling will be several faculty members, including Dr. Taylor, Mrs. Earle Whittington, Mr. John Weylan, and Mr. Kenneth Stellwagen.

Last night the choir sang at the Millington Naval Base for a worship service using three anthems: "Kyrie Eleison" by Jim Lindenberger, graduate of Southwestern; "O, Lord, How Excellent Is Thy Name" by Jimmy Kay, a composition major at Southwestern; and "Now Thank We All Our God" by Pacelbel.

Wednesday the choir returns to Memphis to sing for the President's Council.

★ Letters to the Editor

DEFENSE OF CONSTITUTION

To the Students of Southwestern:

As it is now known, the Student Council voted last night not to approve for consideration by the Student Body a New Constitution providing for a new form of Student Government here at Southwestern. I am of the opinion that this new form of Student Government would have been for the better.

The New Constitution in general provides for the separation of the executive and legislative functions of the Student Government with the mutual strengthening of both and the requiring of legislative approval of the Student Council and Commissioners' programs.

There will not be action on this document by the Student Council until the Student Body demands that the New Constitution be placed before it for its consideration.

I therefore beseech you, the Students of Southwestern, to inform yourselves of this document and if you favor it, or if you favor placing the decision of its adoption with the Student Body, make your wishes known to the members of the Student Council.

THURMAN RAGER

CALVIN TO TURN OVER?

Egad, finally an original definition of Westminster Fellowship was presented in last week's Sou'wester by Mr. Roger Hart, one that could shake the very foundations of Presbyterianism, or at least entice a sickly groan from the grave of Calvin.

"What is this definition?" you ask. It is that Westminster Fellowship is an institution which does not exist to preserve religion, but which exists for the purpose of guzzling beer beneath crucifictions on garbage heaps. In this way an atmosphere develops where divine power and presence are felt. On examination this definition seems to hold, for after two beers a golden glow usually begins to form within one.

And for this a man died on a cross.

ROBERT A. ORR, JR.

Adventures of A Campus Security Officer

This is the school . . . (dum-de-dum-dum)

This is my beat.

9:00 P.M. Saturday. Reported for work five minutes early, Saturdays are always rough . . . (dum-de-dum-dum)

9:01 Checked my orders. Capt. Springfield had passed the word down to watch out for the Sing-sing gang, thinks they might strike tonight. Sat in my Falcon Police Special and thought it over. I figured they would probably strike close to 1:30, they usually operate in the early morning.

9:55 Spotted a dark car by Neely-Mallory, it looked suspicious.

10:06 Apprehended two tough ones on a morals charge. Luckily for them it was only second-degree—they were still in the front seat. Gave them the six-minute "first offense" lecture and took their names. They left in a hurry.

10:21 Spotted a light on in the Political Science Building—it's a long building with plenty of doors so I stayed quiet during my approach . . .

10:25 Caught a tough looking unshaved punk copying some info out of a book on the back table. The notice on the book said "For Comparative Governments ONLY." He didn't fit the category so I got his name. Judge Diehl will go hard on that one.

10:45 Had a run in with a hardened criminal. His sixth offense this week. It was the Mad Letter-Mailer. Saw his car parked in the faculty spaces in front of Palmer . . . the motor was running. He started to dash from the mailbox for his car but I beat him to it. Wrote out a parking ticket . . . now he owes $12.00 . . . crime doesn't pay.

12:50 Traffic starts getting heavy . . . the punks start bringing back the molls . . . most of them are making too much noise . . . I like it quiet, but I decide to go easy on them tonight.

12:59 Saw a couple running across the grass . . . gave chase and stopped them. When I started asking questions the girl mumbled something about "being late." I've heard that one before. I told her I didn't see any fire. That shut her up. I'd seen her kind before, they all think they can beat a grass-walking rap. Suddenly she broke and ran. Before I could get her she was over the border into Voorhies. When I came back the boy was gone. Someday I'm going to get a warrant from Police Commissioner Rhodes and follow some of those dames.

1:00 Everything quiet again. I kept my eyes peeled for the Sing-sing gang.

1:30 I saw them! Right on schedule. I checked my revolver and moved in. There were six of them . . . on the west side of Townsend . . . those guys are tough. As usual they were singing "Roll me over." I vowed I'd wipe out that song if it was the last thing I ever did. If it weren't for that song this would be a clean campus.

1:32 They saw me. They break and run. It's the same pattern . . . they head for the Tower . . . I drive around towards Science and swing in on the Tower drive . . . they round the corner and see me . . . I get out of the car and get my light on them. That usually stops them but this time they split up and scatter. It's too late.

1:39 I head back for the cruiser and light up a cigarette. Someday I'll get that Sing-sing gang. I caught one of them once and they put him in the real cooler: a semester on social probation. He deserved more . . . but I don't make the rules I just enforce them . . . that's my job: keep the students and faculty in line. Before I came this place was a hell-hole.

1:45 I put out my cigarette and got back on my beat. I have to stay alert. At any time some bookie (that's what I call them all: faculty and students) may try to step out of line. No telling what would happen if they ran this place.

Election Fever Expected Soon

Election fever will take its annual toll at Southwestern beginning with the Red and Black Nominating Conventions April 1 and 2 and culminating with Student Council executive elections on April 9.

The two conventions will meet to nominate candidates for all executive positions on the Student Council. Delegates to the Red Convention will be chosen by fraternities, sororities and independent groups. Black Convention delegates will be chosen by the Student Council next Tuesday.

Elections Commissioner Henry Pope today reminded potential candidates of the eligibility requirements for each office. To be nominated for office a student must have a 2.0 minimum average and not be on social probation. In addition, the offices of president, vice-president and secretary may only be filled by rising seniors.

Persons not nominated by either convention but wishing to run may do so by getting 50 students to sign a petition for them to run independently. Petitions may be turned in to Pope, Howard, Edington or Sara Means.

Vandy Leads Move To Form New NSA

Approximately thirty delegates from Southern and Midwestern universities gathered at Vanderbilt on February 28 to discuss the possibility of forming a new national student association.

Vanderbilt Student Association President Bill Featheringill said students from Southern Illinois, Tulane, Emory, Ohio State, Kentucky, Princeton, Fisk, Northwestern, and Washington Universities were invited to the meeting.

The group discussed the problems and the status of the present National Student Association.

Vanderbilt withdrew from NSA last year on the grounds that the organization was not representative by "any criteria," and that VU received little or no benefit from NSA membership. Several other colleges have also withdrawn from NSA in recent years.

Featheringill met in New Orleans in the middle of February with students from five Southern schools to discuss the formation of a new student association.

Senator Thurmond Appeals For Funds To Support YAF

WASHINGTON (CPS)—Sen. Strom Thurmond, D.-S.C., has recently issued an appeal for funds for the Young Americans for Freedom (YAF), a conservative political group.

Thurmond, in a letter on Senate stationary, appealed for funds in order to help YAF establish chapters on more than half of the nation's 2000 college campuses.

The Southern Senator said "the prospect of patriotic anti-communist youth groups on 1,000 college campuses is truly an inspiring and heart-warming thought. I am convinced that if we are to be successful in defeating atheistic communism it will have to be done by the young people. A YAF chapter will prepare a young man or woman for the struggle ahead with liberalism, socialism, and communism. In making addresses on various campuses across the country I have been impressed with the decided difference in the atmosphere where YAF chapters are in existence."

After describing YAF as "the most responsible, effective, energetic conservative youth group in the United States," Thurmond went on to explain how YAF was in dire need of funds.

"YAF is in urgent need of immediate financial support. If each person receiving this letter were to send these young people a contribution, it would enable them to establish chapters on not 1,000 campuses, but on every college and university campus (over 2,000) in the country and in thousands of high schools. The cause of freedom will be strengthened by your support of this great organization which has such worthy goals."

Chapel to Feature 'Dance Hootenanny'

The Southwestern Dance Group will present its annual program at chapel on Wednesday, March 18. The "Hootenanny With Dance" features six folk songs to which original choreography has been adapted.

The program includes "A Pretty Little Girl" by the Brothers Four, "Dominique" by the Singing Nuns, "Four Little Girls" by Jimmy Driftwood, "Never on Sunday" by Hadjidakia, "Shortcake" by Bryant, and "Washington Square" by Goldstein.

Members of the group are: Annette Anderson, Bootsie Best, Jennifer Byrd, Josie Campbell, Beth Daniel, Gail Martin, Susan Mayer, Judy Simono, and Lynn Smith.

The choreographer and director is Joye Cobb.

YR's to Begin Info Campaign

It was decided at the Young Republicans meeting on Saturday, March 7, to begin an Information Campaign to better inform the Student Body of the Mock Convention to be held late in April. The Convention is to help the Student Body become more familiar with the workings of a national convention, and, in particular, with the Republican candidates for President.

Participation will be open to all students. However, some question has arisen as to the amount of time a prospective participant would spend in preparing for and during the Convention. Participation time would consist of attending the regularly scheduled Friday morning meetings and keeping well informed about the candidates.

Delegations may wish to meet previous to the Convention to decide whom to support and some committees may need to meet. The actual Convention time may last two evenings with a maximum of two hours each evening. Any questions concerning the Convention may be directed to Vivienne Guest.

Jim Head and Tommy Lappage were nominated for chairman of the Convention. Phyllis Tucker and Kathleen Dukes were nominated for secretary. The YR Newsletter was evaluated, and it was decided to continue it bi-monthly. Editorials are invited from the Student Body. Governor Rockefeller and Governor Romney sent their regrets that they will be unable to visit the campus.

Discontent Grows at Seton Hall After Suspension of Newspaper

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (CPS)—The suspension of the Setonian, Seton Hall's weekly newspaper, by the administration has served as a touchstone for general discontent with university regulations.

Students are picketing the university for changes in dress and other regulations which they consider unfair while negotiations aimed at restoring the Setonian continue.

An eleven-member student committee met with the administration Tuesday, but little progress was made according to Rocco de Pietro, Setonian editor. Another meeting was scheduled for Wednesday.

However, Pietro noted that there is only a slight possibility that the paper will be allowed to resume publication before April 1, when the staff will be reorganized.

Students are standing firmly behind the Setonian staff. A plan for appointing two of this year's junior editors to replace Pietro was shouted down by students at a meeting Friday.

According to Pietro, the suspension of the paper stems from Setonian criticism of university administration policies, especially women-in-apartment regulations. The paper also was criticized for an article urging the consideration of Nelson Rockefeller for president despite his divorce and remarriage.

It is believed that university officials also took exception to satirical presentations made by the newspaper's columnists and cartoonists on the administration's regulations.

Last Oct. 17, in an editorial deploring censorship in Catholic colleges and in support of student protests, the Setonian said, "These reactions bring to the surface the mounting discontent of students who are tired of administrators hiding behind the word Catholic to protect their conservative views. Too many nuns and priests enforce taboos or false codes of morality where they never belong. The liberal Catholic who has something to say is silenced because he steps on the infallible toe of the Catholic Church."

'Invincible Sam' Encounters Trouble in April Fool Play

By GERALD HOLTER

Do you long to see a truly great epic? Would you like to see the fair damsel rescued from the railroad tracks? Can you imagine a show for which you'd miss "Burke's Law?" Well, if these are the things that you want, forget about the April Fool Play, "The Invincible Sam Lamonica."

You won't see any damsels rescued from the railroad tracks, or an Aneid in the making. Chances are, you won't even see a brutal murder unless Gerald Holter goes completely berserk when someone on stage muffs a line.

However, if you would really like to see what happens when a young and adventurous young man takes on the fair sex in a bout for the time of his life, see him crucified by his bosum-buddy, and trounced upon by nearly everyone who comes into his life, then "The Invincible Sam Lamonica" is the play of the year.

If you remember the crazy, mixed up fun of "The Cad and The Caddess" you'll be appalled at the humor and laughs in this year's April Fool play. Why should you go to see this thing? Well, for one thing, it's a good chance to take out your aggressions by hissing and booing. For another, it's just possible you might like it.

Girls, if you want to find out what goes on in the minds of every campus Romeo since Adam, you'll love this, and fellows, you will have the opportunity first hand to outguess your best girl.

Judy Moody makes out in the passion pits for the sheer enjoyment of it with Lester Goodin in a never-to-be-forgotten scene in which no one can possibly win, and everyone is bound to lose.

Bill Johnston remains the thorn in the side of Bob Frank unto the very end, and Suzanne Burns manages to foul up everyone. You'll have a chance to see Carolyn Hauser throw a temper tantrum, and might even discover that John Thornton is really all wet.

How could anyone do all this to so many previously happy people? What fiend could possibly think up the horrors visited on one poor man? And how the devil can I recommend this thing so highly? It figures. I wrote it.

STAB Selects Carolyn Crane

S.T.A.B inter-sorority announced its newest member, Carolyn Crane, ZTA, in assembly Wednesday. A sophomore representative to the Student Council, Carolyn is this term's Founders' Day STAB.

A biology major, Carolyn has served on the Elections Commission, and as secretary of SAU. She is a representative to P.R.C. from the Methodist Student Movement and has been given a National Science Foundation Grant to work this summer.

Carolyn was president of her pledge class, and served on the Speakers Committee and the Constitution Committee in the Student Council. She has been on the Dean's List for three semesters and has been on the Honor Roll one semester. (See picture above.)

Student Center Will Contain Twice as Much Floor Space As Original Draft Proposed

The plans for the Student Union Center are being changed by the architect, Mr. Parrent, to double the size of the previously planned building. Dean Canon reported that the architect was asked to redraw the plan for the building to expand it from 9,000 square feet to 18,000 square feet.

Mr. Parrent met with the Development Committee Monday at Southwestern and is expected to have the new plans drawn by after Easter.

In student assembly Wednesday, Judy Simono, who with Ted Morris represents the students on the Development Committee, explained the differences that this plan would make.

The building will be made up of a center section and two wings. One wing will contain the bookstore. This store will replace the bookstore near the Lair and the one in the Adult Education Center. It was originally planned to be one thousand feet, but now will be at least 1500. Above the bookstore on the second floor will be a meeting room with folding doors so that the room can be subdivided into smaller ones.

The other wing will be a student lounge, nicely furnished with rugs, chairs, and sofas, to supply a place for students to talk and play cards. The original plan called for the lounge to have a vaulted ceiling similar to the one in the new refectory. Hwever, by having a regular ceiling, a whole extra story may be built above the lounge for seminar rooms.

The center section will be enlarged, possibly to supply more room for dancing. The main lounge, along with the grill space, would provide a large open space for a dance. The restrooms, which in the original plans are on the first floor, will be moved to the basement.

The second floor of the center section will provide offices for the Student Council and the newspaper and annual staffs.

A new Language Center may be the main feature of the basement. The machinery for heating and air cnditioning will also probably be housed in the basement.

The Student Union Building, including the basement, will cost approximately $435,000. The sale of the Briggs property will gain $300,000. Added to the $30,000 already in the bank, the $330,000 falls short of the needed money by $105,000. There is a possibility that some money could be attained through a foundation which is especially interested in languages if the basement with the language center is built.

After explaining the plans, Judy urged the students to fill out the forms which had been given to them. These forms asked such questions as "Is a Post Office necessary?" "Is an auditorium with a stage needed?" The object of the questionnaires was to find out what the students really want in the Student Union Building.

Three Mississippi Senators Move To Withdraw Tougaloo's Charter

(CPS) — Three Mississippi state senators have introduced a bill calling for revocation of the state charter granted Tougaloo Southern Christian College near Jackson, Miss.

Tougaloo, operated by the United Church of Christ and Disciples of Christ churches, has had many of its student and faculty known for integrationist activities.

Revocation of the college's 1871 charter was termed in the bill as a measure "in the public interest." Lt. Gov. Carroll Gartin of Mississippi, who stood in favor of the bill and "anything else to alleviate the situation," had called Tougaloo a "hangout for undesirables."

Jackson Mayor Allen Thompson referred to the school as "the cancer in our midst."

Introduction of the legislation brought strong criticism of Mississippi's educational program from Charles Evers, state director of the NAACP and brother of the late NAACP leader Medgar Evers.

Evers said in a message to the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools that the measure was a "planned invasion and attempt to discredit or eliminate Tougaloo College."

According to Evers, Tougaloo is the only state instiution "where Negroes may go without troops and get a college degree that measures up to those earned in colleges of enlightened states."

"Political invasion of Tougaloo is but one of a long series of acts designed to keep potential voters of this state ignorant in order to maintain and perpetuate a political dynasty that resembles in so many respects the government that gave birth to communism in Russia and created Castro in Cuba," Evers continued.

He termed education in Mississippi "a national disgrace."

It is not clear whether revocation of Tougaloo's charter would have any effect other than removal of state sanction of the college. Some legislators and state attorneys thought it might subject the institution to additional taxation and make school board members personally liable for board actions.

Tougaloo President A. D. Beittell said the school hopes to retain its charter but plans to continue operations regardless of possible revocation.

International Topic Dominates Retreat

The Westminster Fellowship Retreat this spring will be held at Montgomery Belle State Park, outside of Nashville, on the weekend of April 4 and 5, the weekend immediately after Easter vacation.

The theme will be international in scope and in attendance this year, with American and foreign students both being invited. This will be a weekend of discussion with excellent leaders and interested, often informed, students. There will be lots of opportunities for meeting new people and getting together with friends in a casual, off-campus, out-of-Memphis setting.

Transportation will be provided for those going from Southwestern. This retreat is open to all students; it is not exclusively for the Westminster Fellowship. The cost this year will be $8. Anyone who is interested may obtain forms and information from WF President Roger Hart or any member of the WF Council.

Midwest Senators Attack College Student Loan Rate

WASHINGTON (CPS)—Two angry midwestern Senators this week launched an attack on what they termed "outrageous and incredible" interest rates charged for U.S. college and university student loans.

Initiating a plan to clamp a limit on interest rates charged for student loans was Sen. Vance Hartke D-Ind. Hartke, who has introduced legislation providing massive college student aid including low-interest commercial loans, said some commercial lenders are charging as much as 60 per cent interest annually.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., told CPS that he will introduce a bill holding interest rates charged for college student loans to a maximum of 9 per cent annually.

Hartke said some of the commercial firms were "unknowingly recommended by college authorities without realization of their ownership or usurious terms."

Named by Hartke as charging 60 per cent annual interest was the Tuition Plan, Inc. of New York, a subsidiary of C.I.T. Financial Corp.

In a Congressional Record statement, Hartke explained the firm's operation this way:

"The plan will furnish a student $500 a semester for eight semesters in return for a fixed service charge of $240 (the total) paid, at $106 a month for 40 months beginning a month after the first advance.

"The student or his parents repays $530 on a $500 advance during each of the first two semesters and then prepays (during the summer) $212 before the start of the third semester.

This means the third advance is only $288 plus the $212 which has been prepaid.

"By the beginning of the third year, the parent is given $424 of his own money back and a $76 advance to equal $500. Still, the monthly payments of $106 continue until the parent receives no more advances but is given back his own money for the final two semesters."

Hartke also named other firms charging the high interest rates with similar programs. They included Education Funds, Inc. of Providence, R.I., a Household Finance Corp. subsidiary, which Hartke said charged as much as 54 per cent annually in interest.

His study showed that federal (including the National Defense Education Act (NDEA)), state and other non-profit student loan rates ranged from 3 to 6 per cent.

"There can be no question of the need for more favorable loan terms," Hartke said.

Sen. Douglas, a former Chicago University economist, said he would propose his maximum 9 per cent interest rate as an amendment to the NDEA Act.

Colorado University Blasts American Legion Chapters

BOULDER, Colo. (CPS)—The Associated Students of the University of Colorado called last Wednesday (Feb. 26) on the House Un-American Activities Committee to investigate the American Legion.

The request for a HUAC investigation came as an amendment to a resolution criticizing a recent charge by the Legion that the U. S. National Student Association (USNSA) reflects "a high degree of left-wing and pro-Communist infiltration."

The Legion also charged that the establishment of USNSA chapters at tax-supported institutions "would leave the door ajar for the dissemination of Communist propaganda, which is all the Communists desire."

The ASUC resolution said "no ground or substance can be found to justify the serious charges leveled at the USNSA by the American Legion." It added that the ASUC "expresses its dismay at the American Legion's misrepresentation of USNSA policies and progress programs."

The request for a HUAC investigation of the Legion came in an amendment "on the ground that the basic tenet of democracy is freedom." The amendment passed by one vote.

The author of the amendment, Richard Carpenter said "the policy of the Legion to brand every opinion disagreeing with their own (as pro-communist) is detrimental to our society. . . . There are other forms of un-Americanism than Communism."

Ohio State Graduate School Votes to Affiliate With NSA

COLUMBUS, O. (CPS) — The Council of Graduate Students of Ohio State University approved a motion last month to affiliate with the U. S. National Student Association (USNSA).

The motion to join USNSA as soon after April 1 as possible was passed 40-23, climaxing debate begun on Nov. 21.

Prior to the Council's action, its executive committee had defeated a motion to recommend USNSA affiliation.

"The executive committee considered the council's eligibility for the organization, the costs, benefits for students, and the structure and past activities of USNSA," Sam Wiley, chairman of the committee said.

Opposing the motion, council president Jomes Shaffer said, "We are currently in the good graces of the administration because of the mature way in which we have approached problems. Let's see what we can do with our own problems and ideas."

He said that the graduate school student body is always made from a large number of other schools and this is one way to get a broad viewpiont without joining USNSA.

Philip Warken, author of the motion, defended an attack on the value of the organization to students by citing USNSA's voice to Congress, a housing conditions committee, and a discount travel service.

"Benefits depend on the use the individual makes of the organization and on the functions of the campus co-ordinator," Warken said.

Wiley summarized the statements of many opponents saying, "While the aims of USNSA might be valuable and admirable, basically the program is undergraduate oriented. There are only two or three graduate student bodies represented."

The right of the council to join USNSA without a referendum was clarified by Paul Schwitzgebel, student body president.

Cindermen Meet Howard At Fargason Wednesday

The Lynx cinder squad, by far the most consistently successful of Southwestern's major athletic teams, will open its 1964 dual season Wednesday against Howard College of Birmingham at Fargason Field.

Field events will start at 2:30 and running events will begin at 3 p.m. Coach Freeman Marr urged all students to come out and support the Lynx. All male students who would like to help the officials during the meet are invited to come out early and receive instructions.

Coach Marr will field an outstanding freshman group, including Gary Nichols in the half mile, Allan Peterson and Ronnie Davis in the quarter mile, Don Hollingsworth and Mike Whitaker in the sprints, and Jim Durham in the javelin and discus. Running the hurdles will be Joe Alford and Larry Churchill.

In the sprints SW will have a strong veteran in Henry Pope, and in the hurdles Ed Hankins, another senior. Sophomore Bill Weber will be the only returnee running the quarter mile, while Vern McCarty will be participating in the half mile. Dossett Foster and Howard Romaine, both seniors, will handle the mile run.

The field events will have more returning men than the running events with Hankins and Barry Boggs in the high jump. Buddy Ratcliff and John Welch will broad jump and pole vault. Both are sophomore returnees. Boggs and Ed Taylor will participate in the new event for Southwestern track, the hop, step and jump. Taylor will also throw the javelin.

The big men in the weight events will be Russ Didelot, Grif Keyes, and Tod Eustis with the shot put and discus.

The mile relay team will be made up of four of the following: Bill Weber, Gary Nichols, Allan Peterson, Larry Churchill, Ronnie Davis and Don Hollingsworth.

In trying to make it nine straight years of victories over Howard, Coach Marr will be counting heavily on his freshmen, the best new crop group to be in the thin-clad ranks in a long time for the Lynx.

Lynx Netters Edge Millsaps

The Lynx tennis team, which failed to win a single game last year, snapped a losing skein of long duration by edging Millsaps 5-4 Wednesday on the Millsaps hardcourts.

Down 4-1 after the first five singles matches, the Lynx rallied to win the final singles match and then followed up with three straight doubles triumphs. The team met Southern Mississippi yesterday and Spring Hill tday. Their next match will be next Thursday at Southwestern against the University of Tennessee.

Arnold Drennen and Grif Stockley won singles matches Wednesday. In the doubles pairings the teams of Lee Marshall and Tommy Barton, Drennen and Currie Johnston, and Roy Selvidge and Stockley.

Linksters Prepare For CAC Defense

The Lynx golfers continued playing practice rounds this week and showed promise of a fine season. Early rounds indicated that the squad this year is capable of turning in a stronger all-around show than last year's CAC Champions.

Craig Goldate, who played the number one position last year, is being hard pushed to retain it. His main competition is coming from Steve Lightman, a transfer from Brown University. Team captain Donnie Dyer is playing a stronger game as is squadman Fred Shepherd. Freshmen Arnold Pittman and Whit Deacon have both been notable. Both are competing for a spot in the top four.

The Lynx linksters face their first competition against Florence State in Memphis on March 23.

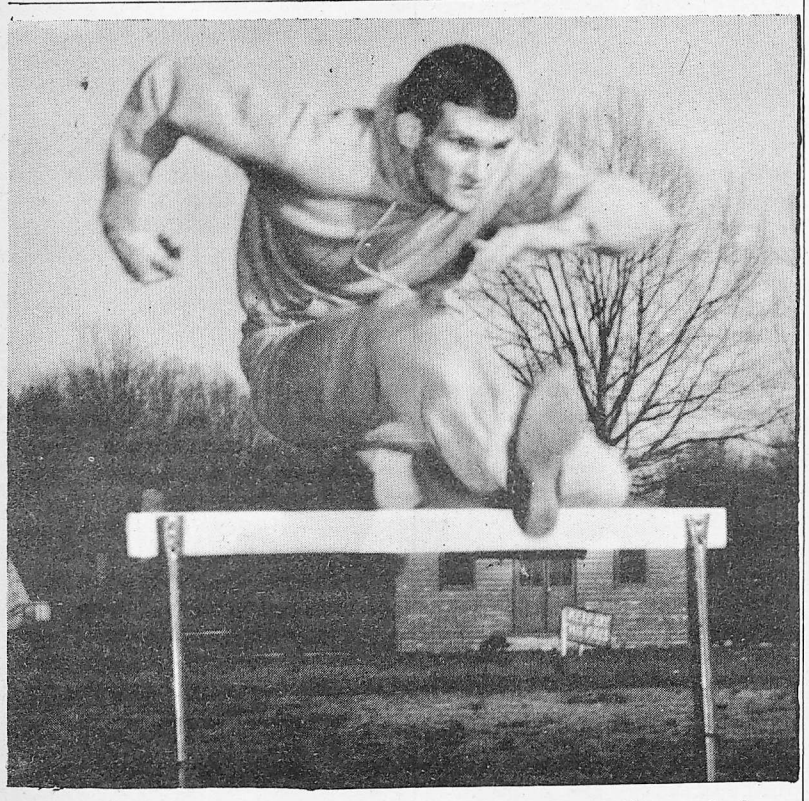
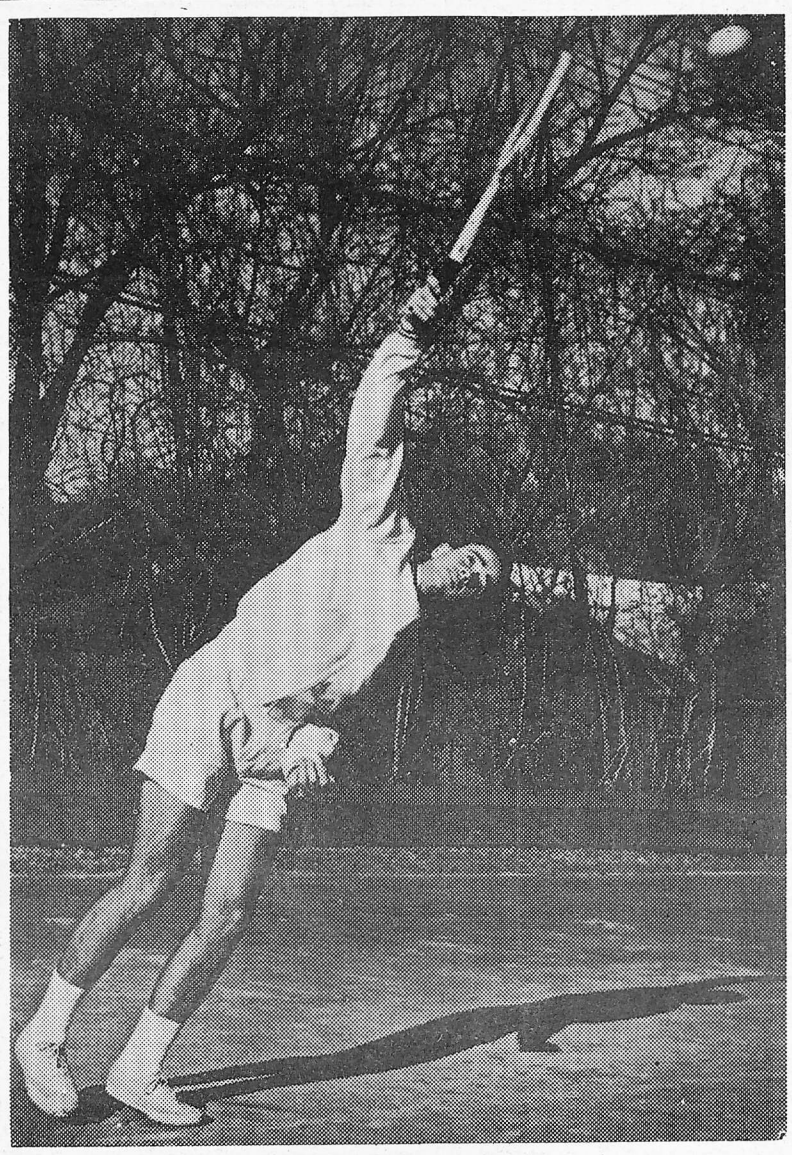
Council.

Proponents of the constitution claim that under the new system commissioners would have to think out their programs more carefully, because the Student Senate would have to approve all programs before they could be carried out.

Those in favor of the constitution admitted that changing the structure of student government does not necessarily improve it, but argued that the structure has an influence over the quality of student government "in the same way environment influences one's life."



SENIOR ED HANKINS, able veteran of the Lynx track squad, shows good form going over the hurdles in preparation for Wednesday's meet with Howard College. Hankins will also participate in the high jump when the competition begins at 2:30 at Fargason Field.



NUMBER ONE MAN ON THE LYNX tennis team, which has already cinched improving over last year's winless record, is Senior Lee Marshall. Marshall is also captain of the squad which will meet the University of Tennessee next Tuesday in the first home contest of the year.
