Psychology Shack Gets Smoked

TWO MEMPHIS FIREMEN COMPLETE their work, dousing remnants of the still-smouldering Psych Shack, as a fireman and several students watch. Meanwhile other curious students peer into the remains of the building. (See article elsewhere on this page and on page three.)

Southwestern Students Urged '63 All-Sing Rules Announced Today

By BETTY MAC SMITH

"Our greatest asset is informed citizenry," stated Mr. Zachary Geaneas, United States delegate to the U.N., in a student body assembly Tuesday morning.

Mr. Geaneas continued, "Don't read headlines and make decisions from them alone. Be informed. Read everything on the present political situation."

A graduate of Cornell University, Mr. Geaneas also explained that it is the citizen's opinion that is needed today. He went on to say that America in the UN depends on the support of the citizenry.

Foreign Aid

Answering the much-debated question of foreign aid, he asserted that the United States' program helps contain the spread of communism by insuring that neutral countries are economically and politically stable.

He stated that the United States gives more than twenty times the amount Russia gives and is recognized by recipient countries for this philanthropy. "We are interested in presenting a true image of America because of its widespread effect and in having countries understand our position and siding with us."

UN Importance

Mr. Geaneas, twice secretary for the United States assembly, declared that a strong UN position is essential for the United States. "The most important part of the UN is that everything said there is spread throughout the world and subjected to the force of public opinion," said he.

In closing, Mr. Geaneas listed several ways the force of the UN is felt here in America.

Fire Demolishes Queener's Office

The Southwestern campus witnessed its yearly share of excitement Tuesday night as twelve pieces of fire-fighting equipment poured on to the campus to extinguish the blaze in the now-gutted Psych Shack. Hundreds of students watched as the firemen put out the fire in less than five minutes.

Shortly after 9:00 Tuesday a little boy ran into the KD house and told Sara Lee Mixon and Annabelle Whiting that he had seen a fire on campus. At 9:08 the two coeds turned in the alarm, and about 9:15 the first pieces of equipment rolled past fraternity row. Within minutes the fire was located and extinguished.

The fire destroyed the part of the Psych Shack which housed Dr. Queener's office, although the only reported loss was one of Dr. Queener's diplomas. The shack had recently been improved with new heating, paneling, and insulation. Cause of the fire is unknown as of now but investigation is continuing.

Two thousand gallons of water were used to douse the blaze during the hour that the firemen used to dismantle the interior of the building and make sure nothing was left smouldering.

Rules for this year's All-Sing competition were announced today by coordinator Pat Dickson.

Sponsored by Kappa Delta, All-Sing will be held November 23 at Snowden Auditorium. Proceeds will be used to sponsor KD's philanthropy, support of a wing of the crippled children's hospital in Richmond, Virginia.

Each participating group will be allowed eight minutes actual singing and two minutes getting on and off the stage.

Selections to be sung must be turned in to Pat Dickson or Gail Martin by November 9. Any type or arrangement of songs may be sung.

No more than 20 participants will be allowed. This number includes pianist and/or director. More than one accompanist is permissible.

There will be no maximum number of practice hours.

The groups will be judged on the following points, each of which shall count 20%: appearance and presentation, diction, intonation, balance and selection.

Demo's, GOP's In Agreement

To the astonishment of the moderator both the Young Democrats and Young Republicans agreed that it was a wise move for the U. S. to sell grain to Russia, in a discussion last Wednesday.

Russia had had a disastrous wheat crop this year and had been buying up the surplus all over the world.

Finally, after making a deal with Canada for wheat, they discovered that they needed even more and asked the U. S. for help. The U. S. then had the only existing surplus in the world so they readily agreed to sell part of it to Russia.

All present at the discussion agreed that it was a smart economic and political move on behalf of the U. S. They all felt that it would be beneficial for the U. S. to come to the aid of a "needy" country.

Students to Vote Wednesday On Council Letter Supporting Board of Directors' Decision

Students must decide next Wednesday whether to let the Student Council send a letter to the Board of Directors supporting the Board's decision last spring to consider all qualified applicants for admission to Southwestern regardless of color.

The special referendum was brought about by events occurring in and immediately following Tuesday's Student Council meeting, and was in accordance with a provision of the SC Constitution stating that any Council action may be referred to a vote of the student body if fifty students sign a petition to that effect.

Letter Passes Unanimously

The Council passed the letter to be sent to the Board of Directors without a dissenting vote, after deciding by a 15-2 vote to change what was originally a resolution proposed by Roger Hart, Education Commissioner, to a letter.

But a petition to refer this measure to the student body was initiated by Wayne Webb, who felt that the Council deliberately watered down their stand because Council support of the Board in the form of a resolution might arouse opposition from some parts of the student body.

Afraid to Take Stand

Webb claimed that the Council was afraid to take a real stand on the issue, even though most of the Council members, he said, agreed with the principles of the resolution, simply because they were not sure whether they were voicing the opinion of the student body. He said that the Council passed the letter in order to avoid having their actions made public, and that he had drawn up the petition for this reason.

Before the measure was voted on, Webb had pointed out to the Council that the Sou'wester staff members present would report to the students whichever action the Council chose.

Student Council Letter to Board Of Directors

Dear Sirs:

After due consideration, the Student Council of Southwestern wishes to express its opinion that the decision of the Board of Directors to desegregate the college is in accordance with the principles upon which the college is founded, and with the educational goals of the college.

It is the feeling of the Student Council that in responsibly supporting this decision of the Board, we must give careful consideration to this matter as to the way in which we as a student community can best make this transition one worthy of the goals and ideals of Southwestern at Memphis.

Chairman of FTC To Talk in Chapel

Mr. Paul Rand Dixon will address both convocation groups Tuesday, October 29 in Mallory Memorial Gymnasium. Thursday, Dean Alfred O. Canon, Dean of Alumni, will deliver a sermon based on the text Matthew 5:1-12, in Evergreen Presbyterian Church.

Mr. Dixon is presently Chairman of Federal Trade Commission with his term expiring September 25, 1967. Mr. Dixon attended Vanderbilt University and the University of Florida, and then joined the Federal Trade Commission as a trial Attorney in July 1938.

While serving on the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly Subcommittee as Counsel and Staff Director, he assisted the Subcommittee in developing and focusing the attention of Congress and the public on important problems in the field of restraints of trade.

SW Quartet Will Perform

The Southwestern Quartet will present a program of music in Bohlmann Hall, 1822 Overton Park Avenue next Sunday at 4:00 p.m.

The quartet, which will be presented by the Patrons of Music at Southwestern, will play selections by Beethoven and Faure.

The members of the quartet and their instruments are John Wehlan, violin; Vernon Taylor, viola; Peter Synnestvedt, violoncello; and Myron Myers, piano.

Newest Pi Member Is Margaret Rowe

Pi is happy to announce its newest member, Margaret Rowe, a senior from Memphis. Margaret has served her sorority, Delta Delta Delta, as publications chairman and house chairman. She is currently treasurer of that group.

A history major, Margaret has appeared twice on the Dean's List. Music is another of Margaret's interests and, in that connection, she has been a member of the Madrigals and the Southwestern Singers.

Margaret has been a student counselor two years. She is a member of San Souci and is refreshment chairman of that group.

Currently Margaret is student teaching the eighth grade at Snowden School.

Picture proofs for the annual will be available for students Monday through Wednesday of next week, from 10:30 to 12 and 12:30 to 5, in Palmer Basement, Lynx Editor Eddie Fowler announced Wednesday.

Billfold-size pictures are 1 for $2.50, 3 for $4.00, and 8 for $5.00. One 5" x 7" in black and white is $5.50; in brown, $6.50; in oils, $8.00. One 8" x 10" in black and white is $7.50, in brown, $8.50, in oils, $11.50.

There will be four different combination packages available, ranging in price from $13.50 to $22.00.

★ Letters to the Editor

WHY THE PETITION WAS INTRODUCED

On its surface the Student Council's letter to the Board of Directors would seem to be a harmless declaration which, if anything, is not strongly enough worded. A referendum was called for, not against the content of the letter, but as a protest to the method that was used and the reasonings that molded his approach.

As originally suggested informally last week Roger Hart's proposal was in the traditional form of a resolution, but, when President Cyril Hollingsworth realized that he would be forced to read it in Student Assembly the next day, he asked Hart not to introduce the measure until they had time to rewrite certain sections of it. Throughout that week and at the retreat, Hollingsworth sought in vain to keep the measure from coming up. Failing this, he sought some alternative approach and found it Monday night; all that was needed was a change in the title so that it was no longer a resolution, but "a letter." "A letter" would not have to be read aloud in Student Assembly and therefore the students need never find out, cried the great pig filled with the glee of finding such an easy answer, and all the lesser pigs who had been contacted the night before took up the cry. Yes, an easy way out—secrecy—was that great discovery, though not really so new as they imagined nor as perfected as some may like to think. It was hard to believe that such a group was actually trying, for all practical purposes, to keep their actions secret, even though this had been implied at Sardis two days before, as the faculty members present can testify, and was the sole purpose for changing the title from a resolution to "a letter," whether or not the term "secrecy" occurs in the official minutes of the meeting.

The day that Southwestern's Board decided to admit Negroes on an equal basis with Whites marked an advance to institutional maturity and they certainly should be commended by the Student Council for their brave stand, but surely one can question the use of such illiberal, undemocratic means to accomplish moral ends. Secrecy is never a final panacea unless it is the absolute secrecy of the graveyard. This type of flagrant violation of student rights and student leaders' responsibilities must be stopped now! Much pressure has been brought against me by former friends not to press this issue because it will endanger their subtle work to set the stage for integration. The simple truth is the Student Council has no place at all to be endangered, the only thing at stake is our Janus-faced President's popularity, which he is bound to safeguard even at the price of deceitfulness and secrecy.

WAYNE WEBB

COUNCIL MEMBER STATES VIEWS

This letter will state my views on the recent Student Council controversy concerning Mr. Hart's resolution and Mr. Webb's referendum.

I feel that the Student Council should take a positive stand on Southwestern's plan to integrate effective September, 1964. When Mr. Hart introduced his resolution, the Council should have supported this formal expression of opinion, which was very moderate and was in accordance with the beliefs of practically every Council member. Instead of voting in favor of the proposal, the Council voted 15-2 for a similar motion that substituted a letter for the resolution. The main argument for this change was that the letter would not have to be read in Student Assembly, although there was no way to prevent the Sou'wester from reporting the contents to the students. To me, the reason is not sufficient to justify sending a letter in lieu of the assembly report. (The contents of the resolution and the letter are the same.) Why did the Student Council not want to read the letter that appears in this issue of the Sou'wester to the student body?

In so far as I feel the students should be completely informed of the contents of the letter, I am in favor of the referendum. But I hope the students will carefully consider the matter at hand and vote to send the letter to the Board of Directors.

Southwestern Has Its Share Of Amateur Radio Operators

By LONNIE EVANS

"CQ" to most people is just a pair of letters, but to an amateur radio operator, or Ham, it is the beginning of a conversation over the air with a stranger hundreds, even thousands of miles away.

There are more than 200,000 Hams in the United States and Southwestern has its share of them.

Alaska to Memphis

Several Southwestern Hams, such as Morris Heins and Charles Brandon, both of Memphis, have hundreds of QSL (recognition) cards from other Hams whom they have contacted. Brandon, along with Dr. H. M. Hanson and A. C. Emery of the Physics Department, made contact over the radio with a man in Memphis while they were on the eclipse expedition in Alaska this summer and enabled members of the group to talk with home via a radio "patch," a combination of radio and telephone communications.

Bill Boyd of Munford, Tennessee, said that all a person needs to be a Ham is "an interest in radio and people. One has to have an interest in people to sit at a transmitter for hours in conversation with a total stranger.

Morse Code Used

Boyd admits that one of the greatest thrills of his life was the night someone finally answered his CQ calls. Boyd and most other beginners use the International Morse Code for all their conversations. Since sending in code is so time-consuming, Hams use so many abbreviations that a copy of the conversation would look like gibberish to a layman.

More advanced Hams use voice transmission with transmitters of up to 100,000 watts output. Powerful transmitters have reached as many as 322 countries in the world. Although our Southwestern Hams are not up in this class yet, they seem to be doing quite well. Bill Hancock of Fulton, Kentucky, has had a license for less than a year and has worked as far as northern Canada.

Look up one of the Hams on campus and ask them about it. You will find them more than eager to talk about their equipment and experiences and you will enjoy hearing about them.

Faculty Chaperons Comment On Student Council Retreat

By DR. JACK FARRIS and DR. JACK RUSSELL

The two of us recently accompanied the Southwestern Student Council on its annual Retreat to Sardis Lake. We had no official capacity, but were invited to participate freely in the discussions. For both of us it was a new and revelatory experience. We came away with an increased respect for the Student Council, and a stronger confidence in the future of Southwestern. Perhaps a candid impression of what happened at Sardis Lake will be of some interest to others who are not familiar with the procedures of the Council and the general purposes of the fall Retreat.

The meeting was not, in a technical sense, official. No resolutions were passed; no recommendations drawn up, no motions entertained. The Retreat was rather a dialogue, informal and relaxed, which addressed itself to a wide range of subjects. Some of these subjects complex and abstract. For instance, the opening session (which ran just over three hours) began with a discussion or educational philosophy. The questions have been around for a very long time; they were new only because they were being asked again. What do we mean when we talk of a philosophy of education? Is it possible, or wise, to have such a philosophy? Who is responsible for formulating it? Should students have a voice in such matters?

These questions necessarily shaded off into other more provocative, ones. What is meant by "freedom" as expressed in the idiom of education? What is knowledge? Are there different kinds of truth? Is all truth moral? In what sense is truth an attitude?

Such questions appear to be irresolvable. And in a sense they are. There are no clear-cut answers, and the students at Sardis knew that. But they also knew that the very act of raising such questions is a necessary and vital part of the dynamics of education. When these questions are sensitively asked, their implications intelligently and dispassionately probed,

Twelve Will Attend Ecumenical Conclave

"Word, World, and Sacrament" is the theme for the 19th Quadrennial Ecumenical Student Conference on the Christian World Mission which will be held at Athens, Ohio, December 27, 1963, through January 2, 1964.

The conference will bring together 3,000 students with about half of them from overseas. Twelve Southwestern students have signed up so far, and the deadline for doing so is Friday, October 25 at 11:00 p.m. Interested students should talk to Jim Bullock, coordinator; Jacquelyn Dowd, president of the Protestant Religious Council.

Those attending will meet on Tuesdays nights at 7:00 in the library for the purpose of studying the basic book for the conference.

EDITORIAL POLICY

Opinions expressed on the editorial page are not necessarily shared by the entire SOUTHWESTER staff or student body. Letters to be published must be signed, although names may be withheld from publication by request. The editor reserves the right to judge the acceptability of editorial articles and letters, and to limit the number of articles and letters on a single subject. Also, on letters of more than three hundred words, the editor reserves the right to make deletions not essential to the body of the article.

the results are bound to be fruitful. It seems to us that the Southwestern Student Council approached these complex matters with honesty and intelligence. Such discussions can easily lapse into mere empty verbalizing. This one didn't. It was thoughtful, serious, and often penetrating.

Other items on the agenda were more concrete: student-faculty relations, curriculum problems, the relation of the Southwestern Student Council to the National Student Association, the need for an expanded program in the applied creative arts, preparing for desegregation. In all, the Council sat in session for almost eleven hours. The climate throughout was one of mutual respect and a profound concern for a better Southwestern. Everybody talked and everybody listened. There was no hurry, no impatience. The opinions expressed were wholly free of selfish motives and vested interests. The general tone was one of integrity and common purposes. It was, in short, a mature, dignified and meaningful affair. We are happy to have been a part of it.

Beauty Review Finalists Picked

Eleven Southwestern coeds were chosen last Friday night as finalists in the Lynx Beauty Review. From these eleven, five will be honored as Lynx Beauties and six will be given the title of Lynx Favorites. This decision will be announced when the Lynx comes out next spring.

Four of the girls represented men's social organizations. They were Ruthie Black, senior Chi Omega from Arkadelphia, Arkansas, who represented Kappa Sigma; Sharon Lupfer, senior Chi Omega from Paris, Tennessee, representing GDI; Sue Hearn, senior Tri-Delta from Mobile, Alabama, representing Kappa Alpha; and Carole Pickens, sophomore Chi Omega from Memphis representing SAE.

Chapel Letters Held One Week

Due to the fact that seven letters, totaling an entire page of copy, were turned in by students, professors, and alumni on the question of required chapel at Southwestern, the Sou'wester is forced to declare a moratorium of one week on such letters.

All letters turned in during the past week, plus all acceptable Wednesday night will be printed in the Homecoming Edition of the Sou'wester, which will be published next Friday and will contain eight pages of the usual garbage.

Air-Raid Siren Fails To Arouse Texas U.

(ACP)—The air-raid siren sounded last Monday at the University of Texas, but nobody ran for cover.

The DAILY TEXAN suggests that maybe people believe in treaties.

Or maybe they believe that "Civil Defense is Colossal Deception," knowing that fallout shelters aren't of much use in case of a direct hit by the Bomb.

Maybe they're all suicidal.

Dave Hickey, an English instructor, has perhaps, the most logical explanation.

It's just not very suave to run down the basement stairs screaming "Help!"

Psychology Shack Inferno Creates Huge Gathering, Uninformed Firemen

By HARVEY CAUGHEY

The infamous Psych Shack Fire last Tuesday night, which attracted a bigger crowd than any other on-campus event so far this year, started out with firemen thinking a false alarm had been turned in, and ended with a fire marshal not even knowing a fire occurred at Southwestern.

Although the alarm was turned in at 9:08 and fire equipment arrived on campus only minutes afterward, it took firemen awhile to figure out what—if anything—was on fire, and even longer to discover how to get to the inferno.

The first wave of trucks stopped in front of the ATO house. Doug Fancher, pool cue in hand, greeted them at the door and assured them that the ATO house was not ablaze. Dean Diehl, summoned to the campus by the sirens, was next met by a fire chief, who voiced the opinion that a false alarm had been turned in.

But smoke billowing westward across campus dispelled this theory. Firemen, after some discussion concerning the correct route to the Psychology Building, arrived at the fire and put it out in quick order.

Meanwhile, police who had arrived on the scene were kept busy protecting the fire trucks from curious onlookers more interested in fire-fighting gadgets than Kierkegaard, The Old Testament or the American Revolution. Many freshman girls took their weekly "night out" in order to view the spectacle.

The press, always in the right place at the right time, quickly discovered that fire chiefs don't give out information about fires without word from the fire marshal. After striking out in his first attempted interview with a man-in-a-white-raincoat, this reporter approached a group of department leaders who were in conference.

"Hey, watch what you say," said one, looking up, "here comes the press."

Drunk with power but without a story, we retreated.

If anyone lost his composure during the incident, it certainly wasn't the faculty. J. M. McQuiston, English professor, was merrily working in his office only a few feet from the burning building as the fire blazed away. His first inkling that anything was amiss came when he heard the sirens scream past the sorority houses and screech to a halt outside his window.

E. Llewellyn Queener, head of the psychology department, whose office was the only part of the building damaged extensively by the fire, received a phone call from a student only minutes after the blaze began.

"Dr. Queener," gasped the student excitedly, "your office is on fire!"

"Oh, really?" came back the calm answer. Queener at first said he wouldn't bother to come over, but eventually arrived 45 minutes after the call.

But the crowning glory to the affair came the next afternoon. The Sou'wester called the fire department to get a complete official report of the fire.

"This is the Southwestern student press," began the reporter. "We'd like to get the official word on the fire out, here last night."

A moment of silence followed. Then the voice of the fire marshal came back. "We don't know anything about a fire at Southwestern last night."

Homecoming Queen Picked by Students

Five girls participated in the Homecoming Queen election today, with the winner to reign supreme during festivities next week end.

Nominated by vote of the student body on Wednesday were Sharon Lupfer, senior Chi Omega, Munnie Rasberry, junior Chi Omega, Didi Hale and Jeanie Heltzel, junior Tri-Deltas, and Judy Moody, junior AOPi.

Freshman Honor Council and Class elections will be held within the next two weeks, Henry Pope, elections commissioner, announced recently.

The Honor Council will choose three men and three women to run in an election to pick freshman representatives to the Council next Wednesday. Freshman suggestions made this morning will be considered.

All freshmen interested in running for a class office may obtain a petition from Henry Pope, which must be turned in by November 4. Elections for these offices will be held November 6.

Halloween Open House Planned by Tri-Deltas

Delta Delta Delta will begin the Homecoming weekend with its annual Halloween open house Thursday, October 31 from 6-8 p.m. in the Tri-Delta House.

The pledge class will decorate the house in typical Halloween fashion. Refreshments will be served, music will be furnished by a combo, and special Halloween surprises will highlight the evening.

HAPPINESS CAN'T BUY MONEY

With tuition costs steadily on the rise, more and more undergraduates are looking into the student loan plan. If you are one such, you would do well to consider the case of Leonid Sigafos.

Leonid, the son of an unemployed bean gleaner in Straightened Circumstances, Montana, had his heart set on going to college, but his father, alas, could not afford to send him. Leonid applied for a Regents Scholarship, but his reading speed, alas, was not very rapid—three words an hour—and before he could finish the first page of his exam, the Regents had closed their briefcases crossly and gone home. Leonid then applied for an athletic scholarship, but he had, alas, only a single athletic skill—picking up beebees with his toes—and this, alas, aroused only fleeting enthusiasm among the coaches.

And then—happy day!—Leonid learned of the student loan plan: he could borrow money for his tuition and repay it in easy installments after he left school!

Happily Leonid enrolled in the Southeastern Montana College of Lanolin and Restoration Drama and happily began a college career that grew happier year by year. Indeed, it became altogether ecstatic in his senior year because Leonid met a coed named Anna Livia Plurabelle with hair like beaten gold and eyes like two sockets full of Lake Louise. Love gripped them in its big moist palm, and they were betrothed on St. Crispin's Day.

Happily they made plans to be married immediately after commencement—plans, alas, that were never to come to fruition because Leonid, alas, learned that Anna Livia, like himself, was in college on a student loan, which meant that he not only had to repay his own loan after graduation but also Anna Livia's and the job, alas, that was waiting for Leonid at the Butte Otter Works simply did not pay enough, alas, to cover both loans, plus rent and food and clothing and television repairs.

Heavy hearted, Leonid and Anna Livia sat down and lit Marlboro Cigarettes and tried to find an answer to their problem—and, sure enough, they did! I do not know whether or not Marlboro Cigarettes helped them find an answer; all I know is that Marlboros taste good and look good and filter good, and when the clouds gather and the world is black as the pit from pole to pole, it is a heap of comfort and satisfaction to be sure that Marlboros will always provide the same easy pleasure, the same unstinting tobacco flavor, in all times and climes and conditions. That's all I know.

Leonid and Anna Livia, I say, did find an answer—a very simple one. If their student loans did not come due until they left school, why then they just wouldn't leave school! So after receiving their bachelor's degrees, they re-enrolled and took master's degrees. After that they took doctor's degrees—loads and loads of them—until today Leonid and Anna Livia, both aged 87, both still in school, hold doctorates in Philosophy, Humane Letters, Jurisprudence, Veterinary Medicine, Civil Engineering, Optometry, Woodpulp, and Dewey Decimals.

Their student loans, at the end of the last fiscal year, amounted to a combined total of nineteen million dollars—a sum which they probably would have found some difficulty in repaying had not the Department of the Interior recently declared them a National Park.

Students to Cheer Lynx At St. Louis Tomorrow

Southwestern travels tomorrow on its third road game, to Washington U. at St. Louis. Road games have been the Lynx's nemesis this year, as the games they have lost have all been away.

Southwestern will bring a 2-2-1 record to St. Louis, plus around 80 students hoping to cheer the team on to its first road victory. Washington U. Bears are undefeated, but once tied.

This will open up a three game College Athletic Conference run for the Lynx, who along with Centre College have each lost one game. Southwestern was defeated by Centre, and Centre lost to W&L.

Washington U. has beaten Missouri Mines, 15-7; tied Wabash 14-14; defeated Parsons College 11-7; they won their first road game since 1960 in defeating Valparaiso 15-7; and the Bears celebrated their Homecoming last week with a 24-6 victory over Wheaton.

The Bears will field 68 players to the Lynx's 26 "Fight'n' Few." They run from an I formation, with two backs lined up directly behind the quarterback and one flanker back.

Harriers Split In Dual Meets

A solid line of Union runners led the Bulldogs to a 23-32 win over Southwestern on the Union cross-country course Tuesday.

Union, a team which Southwestern's harriers have failed to beat in dual competition for five years, was led by Ken Kane, Ed Walton, and Ron Baker. Kane's winning time over the 3.7 mile course was 19 minutes flat. The Lynx captured the next four places. Howard Romaine (fourth), Dossett Foster (fifth), Gary Nichols (sixth), John Poolman (seventh) and Ted Morris (tenth) placed for Southwestern. Southwestern's record is now 4-3.

The Harriers travel to Union again today to participate in the Union Invitational along with six other teams.

The Lynx Harriers captured the first five places, coasting to a 15-46 victory over Florence State on the Lions' course last Saturday.

Dossett Foster, team captain, paced the team over the hapless Lions with a time of 11:56 for the four mile course. Finishing behind were teammates Howard Romaine, Gary Nichols, John Poolman, and Ted Morris. Rounding out the Southwestern team were Charlie Keown, eighth, and Bill Wingo, ninth.

Independents on Top In Girls' Intramurals

The Independent Women remained the only undefeated team in intramural volleyball by beating Chi Omega and Zeta Tau Alpha this week.

Chi Omega and Tri-Delta, both of whom have lost only once, appear to be battling for second place. Both have been downed by the Independents and have yet to meet head on. The Chi O's topped AOPI while the Tri-Delts beat Zeta Tau after losing to the Independents, Alpha and Kappa Delta.

In the only other game of the week the KD's lost to Alpha Omicron Pi.

Outstanding players in this week's action were Judy Emery (DDD), Mary Bettis (ZTA), Joan Herbert (XO), Jan Riddle (XO), and Marnie Sprague (GDI).

Two backs behind the quarterback may switch out of that position, or they may run directly from it.

Their tackles are bigger than Southwestern's, and their backs are as fast as those of the Lynx. The Bears's main quarterback (they have 9) is a good runner, but is also very capable of throwing the long pass.

Their defense is basically a six man line which "jitter-bugs" around to confuse the offense. They sometimes run an unbalanced line, four men on one side of the center, inside their 20 yard line.

Coach Johnson reported that this will be the best team the Lynx have met this year. With a minimum amount of mistakes, and 115% effort by the team, he feels the chances are good, depending on how well the team plays defensively.

I-M Crosscountry Planned for Nov. 25

Athletic Director Bill Maybry has announced that intramural cross-country will be run on November 25 at 4:00 p.m.

For a team to be considered in the running, it must have at least five men finish, and seven men may run per group. For a man to enter, he must have run the 2.1 mile course at least five times, or have played varsity football this year. SAE won the event last year.

Following are the times of last year's top ten men:

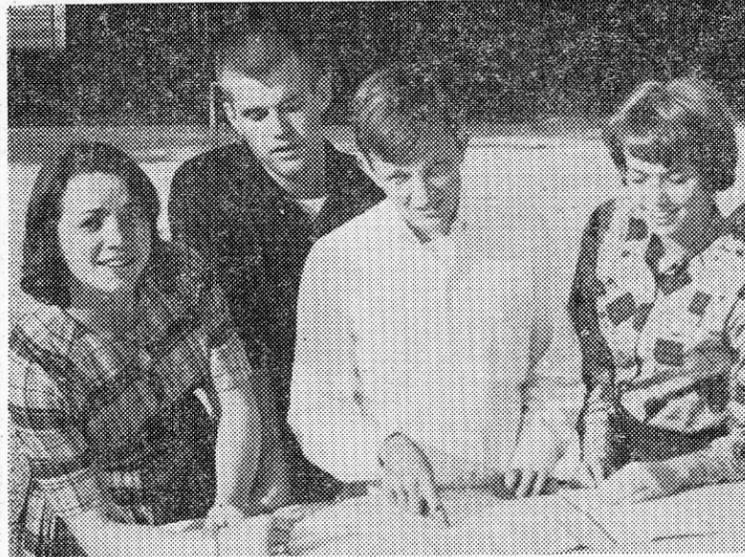

1) Brooks	SN	13:33
2) Bourland	SAE	13:38
3) Zumstein	SAE	13:40
4) McCarty	SN	13:53
5) Hutchinson	ATO	13:59
6) McAfee	SAE	14:31
7) Myatt	SAE	14:38
8) Land	ATO	14:40
9) Baer	ATO	14:44
10) Griffin	SAE	14:53

The Lynx basketball team proved victorious Thursday night in a scrimmage with ex-Memphis State personnel playing with People's University Shop.

Furnishing opposition for the Lynx were Wayne Yates, Frank Kerner, George Price, Larry Garber, and Bobby Bridges, some of them recent graduates of MSU and members of the State team that went to the National Invitational Tournament in 1958. Yates was voted to the All-Tourney team at the NIT and played for two years for the Los Angeles Lakers.

Playing well for the Lynx were Freshmen Gary Sharp and Ed Taylor, with Aubrey Smith, Carl Fisher, and Howard Edington.

Score in Final Two Minutes Spells Defeat for Lynx, 14-7

By BUCK PAPE

Southwestern lost its second game of the year when the Georgetown Tigers scored with two minutes left in the game, winning 14-7, leaving the Lynx with a 2-2-1 record.

Southwestern scored early when quarterback Bert Chafin hit on three consecutive passes. Bill Harwood and Scotty Halford caught the first two, and then Chafin tossed to Harwood again for a 35-yard touchdown. Buddy Ratcliff then kicked the PAT.

Georgetown scored in the third quarter, and in the last two minutes of the game. The last TD was set up on a mid-field pass interception returned to the 24. Three plays later the Tigers scored.

Coach Johnson noted that Georgetown didn't have a great all-around team, but that the Lynx squad was tired from the first half and they made defensive mistakes which hurt. The mistakes, interceptions, and fumbles hurt the Lynx.

The SW defense, sparked by Ray Baker and Russ Didelot, at other times did a commendable job, holding the Tigers inside the 10 yd. line five times. Two of these goal line stands were stopped by Halford's and Mike Whitaker's pass interceptions.

Senior tackle and captain, Challice McMillin and Sophomore tackle Russ Didelot played the whole game with no relief.

Statistically Southwestern had eight first downs to seven for Georgetown. Putting up a wonderful defensive effort in the second half the Lynx held the Tigers to 59 yds. rushing. Chafin completed five of 11 passes, but he had two intercepted. Harwood punted seven times for a 30.6 average, and the Lynx lost the ball through fumbles three times.

SAE's, Pikes Clash Monday

A showdown between the two unbeaten, SAE and PiKA, promises to spotlight the "B" League as the center of the week's flagball action.

The Pikes, led by the circuit's top scorer, tailback John Thornton, polished off previously unbeaten Sigma Nu, 36-18 Tuesday afternoon. The Monday afternoon clash of the pace-setters will mark the return to action of the SAE "B" squad after a week-and-a-half rest.

The Sigma Nu "B" team, under the able guidance of tailback Cyril Hollingsworth, walked on the ATO's Friday to the tune of 48-24. Lee Brown and Kelly Thomas tallied twice each, as did the Tau's Bob Glasgow. And the first tie of the season was recorded Saturday afternoon, when Kappa Alpha and Kappa Sigma fought to an 18-18 deadlock. K. C. Ptomey notched two touchdowns for KA.

The only "A" League contest of the week saw Sigma Nu win its first by romping the Independents 48-18, pulling them into a third place tie with KA and ATO. The "A" League leaders, SAE and Kappa Sigma, are enjoying a two week layoff before their November 5 match. The Lions' Josh Brown remains atop the scoring heap with 36 points, tied with Sigma Nu's Charles Gallagher. Jimmy Roberts, Kappa Sig end, shares second place with KA Carter Osterbind and SAE Stan McNeese at 30.

PROMISING FRESHMAN HARRIER GARY NICHOLS has added spark to the Lynx squad with his fine running all season.
