Southwestern at Memphis

46th Year

MEMPHIS, TENNESSEE, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1964

Vol. 46, No. 6

Miss Didi Hale Begins Reign As SW Homecoming Queen

Homecoming will start tonight at the Chi Omega open house as Homecoming Queen Didi Hale of Memphis is announced. "S" Club Princess is Jeanie Heltzel of Mobile, and Football Princess is Virginia Lowry of Roanoke.

Saturday's Homecoming festivities will begin with the judging of the Greek decorations at 10:00. Results will be announced at half-time during the football game, and the trophies will be awarded at the dance that night. Judges will be Mr. Robert McKnight, director of the Brooks Memorial Art Gallery, Mrs. Robert Cooper of the Memphis Academy of Arts, and Mr. Pete Sisson, Memphis City Commissioner.

This year's Homecoming Queen will be crowned at half-time by Judy Moody, out-going Queen. Miss Hale will be escorted by Harvey Caughey, Student Body President. Miss Heltzel will be escorted by Bill Allen, and Miss Lowry by Dan Daniel.

Alumni are invited to the fraternity open houses immediately following the football game.

The Lynx are two touchdown underdogs for the contest with the Austin College Kangaroos. But the Southwestern gridders are sporting an undefeated record from their past three trials, and even though handicapped by injuries in key positions, they should be hard to handle. Team spirit is high and the players themselves say that the only thing they have to worry about is over-confidence.

Comedy Presented In AEC Chaplin and Keaton Star

A program of silent comedy classic films will be shown in the Adult Education Center, Friday and Saturday nights at 7 and 9 with a matinee screening on Saturday at 2:30. Featured will be Charlie Chaplin in "A Dog's Life," Buster Keaton in "Paleface," and Stan Laurel in "On the Front Page." Admission is one dollar.

On Friday, October 23 at 4, 7 and 9 p.m., the Adult Center will show "Merry Wives of Windsor," a German film version of the Otto Nicolai based on Shakespeare's play with Rita Streich, Martha Modl and Hans Kramer singing the leading roles. Admission will be one dollar for adults and seventy-five cents for students.

"College Bowl" Applications Needed Before October 20

The selection of a team to represent Southwestern on the General Electric College Bowl Quiz Program on NBC-TV, December 20, is now under way. Any students wishing to try out should fill out an application form in the Adult Education Center office by Tuesday afternoon, October 20.

All those applying will take a written test consisting of one hundred general questions representative of the type used on the program. The next step will be a series of mock quiz trials during which applicants will compete against others in a setup similar to the one on the show. A team of four plus two alternates will be selected.

The finalists will have several hour long practice sessions each week to accustom them to the program's procedures.

College Bowl first went on the NBC radio network in 1953 and lasted three years. Then in 1959, General Electric introduced the program on television where it has been a regular Sunday afternoon feature ever since.

Since its debut on TV, nearly 150 colleges and universities have met on the program and close to $400,000 has been donated to scholarship funds. To date, 10 teams have achieved the status of "retired undefeated champions" by winning their battle of wits five Sunday afternoons in a row. These champions are Drexel Institute of Technology, Lafayette College, Rutgers University, Colgate University, Hobart-William Smith Colleges, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Bates College, Pomona College, DePauw University and the University of Virginia. If Arizona State University wins this Sunday it will join the ranks of "retired undefeated champions."

Robert Earle, the show's moderator says, "I'm not inclined to think of it as an educational program. I think it's primarily entertainment. It's first and foremost a game that requires basic knowledge and speed of recall."

Jack Cleary, the producer, agrees, but with reservations. "It's a combination of education and entertainment," he maintains. "It stimulates an interest in learning. If a piece of information comes out in the game that you never knew before, that's education. The quick recall necessary to play the game isn't a real measure of academic achievement or intelligence. We feel that, given enough time, most viewers could answer practically any question on the show."

The team's transportation to and expenses in New York City is paid for from the show's budget as are tickets to a Broadway show on Saturday night.

There is plenty of time for sight-seeing before the serious work gets under way at 11 a.m. on Sunday. At that time, the contestants meet with Mr. Earle in the TV studio to go over the rules, and to hold practice games, interrupted only by a break for lunch, right up to air time at 5:30 p.m., EST.

Each team's goal is to win five times (the winning team earns a $1500 scholarship grant each week; the losers, $500), when they retire as undefeated champs with a $1500 bonus plus a silver bowl emblematic of their superiority.

Southwestern's possible opponents are San Diego State, Mount St. Agnes, VMI, and Lawrence College. If Southwestern wins, its opponent on the December 27 show will be Russell Sage.

Convocation Program Includes Space Expert, Allen And Jones

The convocation normally scheduled for Tuesday, October 20, will be shifted to Friday, October 23, in order to make possible the appearance of Dr. Kenneth R. Whiting, Aerospace Studies Institute. Students with unavoidable conflicts resulting from the change should inform the Dean of Men or the Dean of Women.

In convocation on Monday, October 19, the Student Council will report on the National Student Association. Stan McNeese and Jim Houston will describe the National Student Congress and will discuss its recent legislation.

During next Wednesday's convocation, Dr. Ray M. Allen, Dean of Admissions, will recognize freshmen holding Baker, leadership, and service scholarships. The remaining time will be taken up with announcements concerning Parents Day and upcoming athletic events.

Dr. Alfred O. Cannon, Dean of Alumni and Development, will speak in Thursday's convocation. His topic has not yet been announced.

PRC To Organize Discussion Groups

The PRC will hold a meeting in the Bell Room on Tuesday, October 20, 1964 at 5:00 P.M. The purpose of the meeting is to organize one or more disciplined study groups. The tentative subject of discussion is Dietrich Bonhoeffer's book, "The Cost of Discipleship."

The term discipline in the name of the groups has no predetermined content. The point is for the group to impose a discipline of some form on itself, in order that the discussions will be meaningful rather than capricious.

Anyone who is interested, whether certain of participation or not, is urged to attend this meeting. The groups will be structured according to the desires of those who wish to participate in them.

Greek Displays Build Spirit For Homecoming Festivities

By Bill Jones

Brandishing hammers, chain saws, and paintbrushes, the Southwestern Greeks emerge from their customary lethargy to release an entire year's creative energy in constructing the traditional outdoor displays for Homecoming Day. After procrastinating to the last possible second, fraternities and sororities are at last beginning the wild flurry of energy that will result in Southwestern's annual version of the World's Fair. Sounds of air hammers and staple guns mingle with those of pop-top cans, while grubby figures with paint on their ivy-league clothes and paper-mache in their hair struggle with wrinkled chicken wire. The malignant geniuses that mastermind these exhibits will keep their creations shrouded in mystery until Saturday morning, but the Sou'wester has cleverly managed to extract a subtle hint or two regarding the general ideas.

The most interesting activities, however, will be manifest between Friday afternoon and Saturday morning. During these hours construction will be at a fever pitch. At a representative fraternity house, for example, there will be five slaves laboring over an exhibit involving four lifelike robots, 3467 square feet of mural depicting an authentic copy of the Last Supper, and an animated replica of Didi Hale singing "Lynx Cats Roll On." The remainder of the fraternity will either be on sorority row watching the chicks work, or be lurking around the KA house looking for a secret exhibit. At the typical sorority house, 57 paint-daubed girls will be swarming over a yard-full of meticulously placed pieces that were probably finished at least two weeks ago. Anyway, it looks good to the massed male segment of the student body that loiter around waiting to be noticed.

In any case, Austin College Kangaroos are the unfortunate object of the current campus vituperation. The Chi Omegas will attempt to incarcerate the foe in their "Cuff the Kangaroos" display. Austin will be served up for breakfast in Tri-Delta's "Kats Krave Kangaroo Krunch," while the AOP's will "Tie Me Kangaroo Down, Lynx." ZTA will feature a currently popular magazine as they exhort the Lynx to "Playboy Like You Never Played Before." Kappa Delta places a captive enemy on display in their "Lynx Kats Kage the Kangaroos."

On fraternity row, the SAE's will blast the Kangaroos as "You're Invited to a Kang-bang." A new product will go on sale Saturday as the Sigma Nu's "Kan the Kangaroos." Pi Kappa Alpha should "Katch the Kangaroos Kat-napping," while the ATO's will "Put a Lynxcat In Your Tank." Saturday will find the Kappa Sig's scattering the Austin team as they "Run the Kangaroos Down."

The displays will be judged Saturday morning, and the winners will be announced during half-time at the game.

Convocation Programs Feature Talks By Congressional Candid

By George Conroy

The candidates for the United States Congress from the ninth congressional district of Tennessee appeared before the student body earlier this week. Addressing the Monday morning chapel attendants was Bob James, Republican nominee, while George Grider, the Democratic aspirant, spoke on Tuesday morning.

Perhaps the candidates' interest in the support of our students stems from a sign that appeared last week at a rally for Hubert Humphrey on the campus of Smith College. The placard read, "We don't have votes, but we do have voices!"

Whatever their motivations may have been, both aspirants sought to woo their listeners, and each demonstrated an attitude of respect for our school and her traditions and identified himself with Southwestern. James, who attended the University of Iowa, called himself a "student in spirit" and urged all students to partake of the AEC's "Great Books Program" as he has done. Grider, who is an alumnus of The United States Military Academy, was a student at Southwestern in the 1930's, and told of his own personal experiences in the math department. Mr. Grider also took part in the dedication of the Burrow Library.

Politically speaking, James claimed to be qualified to represent the people of Tennessee in Congress on the basis that he is a "free-enterpriser, a businessman experienced in planning, financing, staffing, employing, motivating people, and delegating authority. I feel a debt of gratitude," he continued, "to the free-enterprise system which gave me the realization of the American dream."

James hammered away with the ideology that has been the basic premise of his entire campaign, that "I am opposed to government control, because the days of a man's achieving his great dreams are numbered unless we alter the course of central government. Our civilization will be on that western slope, that slope that so many other civilizations have gone down!"

Grider praised the students of Southwestern for their interest and activities in the campaign. He said that youth's enthusiasm has been so great that he intends, if elected, to establish a collegiate council "to be furnished with information about current congressional problems and activities, in return for the hopes, beliefs, and ideas of this generation."

The Democratic candidate then launched a lecture on why he favors federal aid to education. Comparing the state of Tennessee to the state of Delaware, which has the finest educational system in the nation, he said that "Tennessee spends twice as much on education as does Delaware, yet because the income in Delaware is highest per-capita in the nation, she has better educational facilities." The nominee correlated education with affluence and ignorance with poverty, saying, "We Americans must band together to see that every child gets a better-than-average education. It is vital to the security of this country."

Both men touched upon the subject of foreign affairs; James repeated his oft-stated remarks that we should give aid only to "those countries which appreciate our help and promote freedom." Grider on the other hand, came out with a new approach. "Let's create a type of private-enterprise corps," he said, "which would be composed of those citizens who have been successful labor leaders and businessmen. Let us send them abroad upon retirement to teach the democratic process in foreign countries."

Their speeches marked the second time in as many weeks that the candidates have campaigned on campus. Last Monday evening they debated in the Adult Education Center in a program sponsored by the Memphis Public Affairs Forum.

Awards And Publication To Be Offered Thru Poetry Contest

The second annual Kansas City Poetry Contests—offering $1,500 in cash prizes and one book publication—have been announced by Thorpe Menn, literary editor of the Kansas City Star, co-sponsor of the contests.

Six honor awards totaling $600 will be offered to college students for single poems. These are sponsored by Hallmark Cards, Inc., of Kansas City, Mo.

Another, the Dr. Edward A. Devins Award, offers a cash payment of $500 for a book-length manuscript. It will be published and distributed by the University of Missouri Press. The total value of this award will be determined by sales. The $500 is in the form of a guaranteed advance royalty payment.

Both the Devins award and the Hallmark awards are offered in open competition on a national basis. The Hallmark awards are open to students of junior colleges, of undergraduate or graduate status.

Ten other prizes, totaling $400, are offered to poets of the six states surrounding the Greater Kansas City region—Missouri, Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska, Oklahoma, and Arkansas. The Kansas City Star awards include one $100 prize, two $50 prizes, and five $25 prizes in open competition. High school students may compete for the H. Jay Sharp Poetry Prizes—one $50 prize and one $25 prize.

Information on submitting entries may be obtained by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to: Contest Directors, P. O. Box 306, Kansas City, Missouri, 64141.

Closing date for submission of all entries is February 1, 1965. Winners will be announced April 29 at the last of the 1964-65 American Poets Series sponsored by the Kansas City Jewish Community Center.

All entries will be judged anonymously. Even the names of judges—all of whom are nationally recognized poets and critics—will not be revealed until after the contests are decided. Entrants must submit their work with no clue to authorship. The name of the author is to be enclosed in a sealed envelope attached to the entry.

Eleven Co-eds Chosen In SW Beauty Review

Last Friday night Southwestern held its annual Beauty Review. Eleven girls were chosen as winners—five beauties and six favorites.

Chosen as beauties were as follows: Sharon Hales, Kappa Delta; Judy Hopson, Chi O; Carole Pickens, Chi O; Diane Rickoll, Independent; and Jeanne Wertz, Kappa Delta.

Favorites selected were the following: Didi Hale, Tri-Delta; Mary Jane McCreary, Tri-Delta; Annette Montgomery, AOPi; Chris Reveley, Chi O; Linda Robinson, Kappa Delta; and Paula Thomas, ZTA.

Special recognition goes to Mimi Anderson who did such a fine job coordinating the Review.

Auld Acquaintance

Fellow students, think upon the unhappy fate of the decrepit alumni you might notice wandering around the campus this week-end. Gone are their college joys: beer with the boys, the spontaneous Saturday night girl's dorm serenade, the moonlit night viewed from the car seat. Their carefree college days are far gone. Shed a tear for them, and for yourselves while you are at it, because all these activities are against the law for Southwestern students.

But pessimism is out of place on Homecoming. If the present is not all we will like to think it was twenty years from now, let's think about the future. And if, judging in the light of present experience, the future looks bleak too, we may still be able to find a glimmer of hope.

Direct your thoughts to the approaching years with the Alumni Bulletin. What a red-letter day it will be when the jolly postman delivers this bright, chatty, newsy bulletin to our homes. We will drop everything, lock the doors, and settle into an old easy chair to spend a few happy hours mulling over this publication chock full of tidings about our old college chums.

Consider some of the information contained in the present issue:

Moral Issues Different

(Editor's Note: This is an article reprinted from the Birmingham Southern College "The Hilltop News," October 22, 1964)

In 1960, the moral issue in the Presidential campaign was whether or not a Catholic should be President.

In 1964, White House ethics, a trigger-happy foreign policy, the Sovereign Rights of the States and proper conduct of the campaign are the moral questions at stake.

An educated voter can face such election campaign with little more than consternation. Politicians are constantly shifting their emphasis to emotional positions which gain more votes.

The 1964 Campaign has been characterized by Goldwater's fruitless search for "moral leadership" in the administration, and Johnson's concern for "lack of responsibility and restraint" in the Republican Party.

Both candidates seem to be concerned with high ideals and lofty principles. Each has pledged to follow an upright campaign policy, but nevertheless, charges of dirty politics are becoming more and more frequent. Both candidates unhesitatingly express doubts about the opposition's personal character and manner of conducting the campaign.

Goldwater says the national administration has "a fundamentally and absolutely wrong view of man, his nature, and his destiny" and that Johnson and company are "false prophets."

Johnson says Goldwater's policies can do

"All you members of the Class of 1815 will certainly remember ole Joe Fillburt and Bertha Grouch who ran away together for that wild weekend in Mexico. Well, Joe and Bertha finally got together again at a delightful Class Reunion held at the Cedar Old Folks Home, and did they have fun talking about old times! Joe and Bertha plan to be married when their divorces come through. Love will find a way via Class Reunions.

"Remember Fast Phillip Fillstrup, the boy who was thrown out of school fourteen consecutive semesters? Southwestern is certainly proud to have a graduate like dear Phil. Last month Phil announced that he was leaving the school his entire fifty million dollars. Good old Phil.

"John and Molly (Thatcher '91) Cheddar have certainly done themselves proud! (John was President of the Student Body, Torch Dream Man, Mr. Southwestern) John writes us that he and Molly were able to purchase an almost new 1½ h.p. washing machine last year, and they almost have the notes paid.

"Well, alums, that wraps it up for this year. Don't forget to send in your tithes. All we ask is a measly 65%."

nothing but destroy the possibility of "a world in which all of God's children can live."

Goldwater urges us to say "yes to our conscience" and to look forward "to the tomorrow in which high purposes and high morals will be restored to our high offices."

Most voters are naturally bewildered by a campaign filled with dark suspicions and secrets which never quite materialize.

Do Goldwater and Johnson really feel the principal issues in the campaign are moral in nature? Are present political campaign tactics justifiable?

A candidate for President of the United States faces the task of selling himself to the American people while at the same time convincing a majority of the voters that his opponent is unkind, unwholesome and generally incapable. Skillful intimation of foreboding truths can effectively destroy a candidate if the voters are allowed to draw their own conclusions.

Lofty campaign policies can be extolled forever, but professional politicians know that a scathing tirade or a hint of scandal and disgrace gets more votes than calm discussion of impersonal issues.

A political party must destroy its opponent's policies in order to defend itself.

"Mud slinging" is inevitable, but the electorate must not allow candidates to avoid the major issues by using emotional tactics alone. Clear statements of basic issues need to be demanded.

Sou'wester's Eye Sees All

A little-known fact has been discovered by the omnipresent green Eye of the Sou'wester. The Eye, as it crossed the eastern end of the service entrance to Burrow Reinfectory, observed a white-aproned figure bending over a two-foot-wide hole in the pavement. Unable to believe itself, the Eye blinker, then looked again. Just as before, the figure was there, dipping a heavy, opaque, grayish liquid from the hole and pouring it into a ten-gallon lard tin. Mustering all the sonority in its command, the Eye demanded, "Cleannig the grease trap, I hope?" The figure peered up, then replied, "Nawsuh, dis yere's soup," chuckled and vanished into the Gothic bowels of the kitchen.

National Foundation To Award Science Fellowship On March 15

The National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council has been called upon again to advise the National Science Foundation in the selection of candidates for the Foundation's program of graduate and regular postdoctoral fellowships. Committees of outstanding scientists appointed by the Academy-Research Council will evaluate applications of all candidates. Final selection will be made by the Foundation, with awards to be announced on March 15, 1965.

Fellowships will be awarded for study in the mathematical, physical, medical, biological and engineering sciences; also in anthropology, economics (excluding business administration), geography, the history and philosophy of science, linguistics, political science, psychology (excluding clinical psychology), and sociology (not including social work). They are open to college seniors, graduate students working toward a degree, postdoctoral students, and others with equivalent training and experience. All applicants must be citizens of the United States and will be judged solely on the basis of ability.

The annual stipends for graduate Fellows are as follows: $2400 for the first level; $2600 for the intermediate level; and $2800 for the terminal level. The annual stipend for postdoctoral Fellows is $5500. Limited allowances will also be provided to apply toward tuition, laboratory fees, and travel.

Further information and application materials may be obtained from the Fellowship Office, National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council, 2101 Constitution Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C. 20418. The deadline for the receipt of applications for graduate fellowship is December 11, 1964.

USNSA Offers Life Insurance

NEW YORK (CPS) — Students may now purchase a $10,000 life insurance policy at special rates through the U.S. National Student Association (NSA).

All undergraduate and graduate students, full or part time, under the age of 33 and attending NSA member schools are eligible.

Student rate for the policy is $20 per year through age 24, $25 for ages 25 to 28, and $30 per year from 28 to 33. The insurance is underwritten by the American Health and Life Insurance Co. of Baltimore. A subsidiary of Commercial Credit Co., it has assets in excess of $50 million.

The company may not cancel a policy while premiums are paid, although the student may cancel at any time. Rates cannot be increased, restrictions cannot be added, nor can benefits be reduced. Upon graduation, the policy can be converted to a whole-life policy at special rates without medical examination.

Further information is available from the U.S. National Student Association, 265 Madison Ave., New York, New York.

THE "KINGSMEN" WILL PLAY TONIGHT for the entertainment of the student body at the annual Homecoming Dance. Few short moments remain before tomorrow night's gala festivities for you to get your ticket and follow the crowd to the Rainbow Terrace Room to hear "Louie, Louie" et al.

Lynx Harriers Test Endurance Against Lambuth In Morning

Southwestern's youthful Cross Country team will challenge Lambuth tomorrow in a home meet at 10:00 a.m. A good crowd should be on hand for the meet since there are no classes on Homecoming Day, and the harriers will run just before the fraternity and sorority displays are judged at 10:30. Considering the Lynx' victory over Lambuth at Jackson on October 5, and the two week lay off between meets, the cross country team should be rested and ready for tomorrow's meet.

A little publicized and little applauded sport at Southwestern as it probably is at most colleges, cross-country is the most demanding of all sports as far as physical exertion and stamina. The tortuous Southwestern course is four miles in length over uneven terrain; longer than most college courses (for example, the courses at Lambuth and Millsaps which are only 3.2 miles). The course itself starts on the east side of the gymnasium between the tennis courts and the old track and includes three trips around the course that runs north to Jackson Avenue, east several blocks, and back to the starting line at the tennis courts, which will also serve as the finish line.

So tomorrow if you would like to see the Lynx harriers even up their record at 2-2, or if you have sadistic tendencies and would like to see seven or eight guys in pain after four miles and twenty minutes of physical exhaustion, come to the meet tomorrow at 10:00 a.m.

Gary Nichols, who set a meet record against Lambuth in Jackson, will be counted on to lead the Lynxcats tomorrow. Freshmen Mike O'Neal and Livingston Kelly are expected to be in the top finishers, along with Captain Ted Morris and Jack Knox who are slowly recovering from multifarious injuries.

Campus Briefs

Sophomore and Junior members of the Student Council will choose a maximum of seventeen seniors to be featured in the national publication of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, it was announced Tuesday. Selection will be on the basis of leadership and scholarship and participation in the student life of the college.

Council members plan to discuss with Mr. Springfield the possibility of locating a Student Council information center closer to the area of student activity. It was felt that the present office on Third Floor Palmer was too isolated to benefit the student body. This suggestion had been previously discussed at the recent Retreat, and the Council will continue to examine the suggestions for improvements which were brought out this past weekend.

Didi Hale announced Tuesday that a special student cheering section will be set up for the Homecoming Game Saturday against Austin College. Permanent and larger stands have been set up, and the cheerleaders felt a designated section for students would be beneficial.

Pi Kappa Alpha announced its pledge class officers for 1964-65 this week. They are: President, Richard Hix; Vice-President, Jack Taylor; Secretary-Treasurer, Jon Jackson; Parliamentarian, Richard Strautmann; Song Leader, Jimmy Howell; and Chaplin, Barry Erb.

Teacher Exams To Be Offered On Numerous Dates Each Year

College seniors preparing to teach school may take the National Teacher Examinations on four different test dates each year instead of one, Educational Testing Service announced today.

New dates set for the testing of prospective teachers are: December 12, 1964; and March 20, July 17, and October 2, 1965. The tests will be given at more than 550 locations in the 50 states, ETS said.

Scores on the National Teacher Examinations are used by many large school districts for employment of new teachers and by several states for certification or licensing of teachers. Some colleges require all seniors preparing to teach to take the examinations.

Lists of school systems which use the examination results are distributed to colleges by ETS, a non-profit, educational organization which prepares and administers the examinations.

A Bulletin of Information containing registration forms, lists of test centers, and information about the examinations may be obtained from college placement officers, school personnel departments, or directly from National Teacher Examinations.

Lynx Face Tough Aerial Attack In Homecoming Against Austin

The Lynxcats of Southwestern must put together a nearly air-tight pass defense as they go out to meet the Austin College Kangaroos in trying for their fourth consecutive win of the new season.

The Kangaroos, 2-1 for the year, will present a pro-type offense with plenty of aerial trickery when they come to the Southwestern homecoming tomorrow. Quarterback Jerry Bishop is the top passer among small colleges in the nation. As a sophomore last year he set a single game passing mark gaining 490 yards through the air.

The Lynx will be short of full strength with Tommy Moore still in the hospital from an injury received in last week's Millsap game and out indefinitely. Setback Buddy Ratcliff and lineman Butch Lightsey are both question marks for the game. Ratcliff and Moore are both setbacks and Butch Shirkey has been moved to the position to fill in for the injured two.

Coach Jesse Johnson has added several "surprises" to his offense which he hopes will loosen up the Austin defense somewhat.

Coach Johnson calculates that his team may be as much as a four touchdown underdog but will nevertheless be ready for the Kangaroos.

The only common foe for the two teams, the Millsaps Majors, lost to Austin 34-0 and to Southwestern last week 20-0.

New grandstands accommodating 1500 people have been installed at the new Fargason Field.

By Riddell F. Cleatback

Homecoming is this week and we're going into it undefeated. What kind of odds could we have gotten on that before the season started? I imagine they would have been pretty long. Now we can see what you can do when you have a good coaching staff, a hustling ball team, and a fine solid core of loyal rooters. That's really all it takes whether it's in the Big Ten or the Eastern Rhode Island Junior College Conference (Southern Division). If we have all of these going for us this week, we'll capture the Homecoming game too and impress a few old grads. The opponents for this fourth contest will be the Austin College Kangaroos of Sherman, Texas. They'll arrive in Memphis with a big hard-hitting team that averages about thirty five pass plays a game. Their quarterback has several small college passing records already under his belt and is off to another good start this year, and he's only a Junior. As a result the Lynx' capable secondary will be put to its hardest test, and the eager Southwestern linemen will get a lot of practice at rushing the passer.

In last week's game which the Lynx won from Millsaps 20-0 to spoil the Majors' homecoming, three players from the red team were injured, including the starting halfbacks. There is hope however that at least two of the boys will be able to see action this weekend. We will have to have a good solid game with few mistakes to beat the Kangaroos, but I am sure the team will be up for the game and play well enough to send everyone to the dance happy. Coach Johnson says we should be four to five touchdown underdogs Saturday but coaches are eternally pessimistic, so Riddell predicts a victory to keep the ball rolling for the Lynx.

Extra Points: Do you like the new heading for this column? Credit goes to David Adcock for the fine art work . . . how about those curvaceous beauties in chapel Wednesday . . . News Flash: Bubba Clark and Bruce Cook set a new record for getting out of the locker room yesterday—congratulations boys . . . hey Coach next time let's go Greyhound, I'd rather test my courage on the gridiron instead of the highway . . . the "golden bunny's" golden toe is getting tarnished . . . why do they call Smitty Smith the one eyed football player? . . . It seems like old Bill Bailey has been eating Tiger food lately . . . Hey Vern how about another chorus of Loddy Lo, just keep on trying and you'll get it yet—you see the words are supposed to rhyme . . . I'll bet Tommy Moore is driving those nurses crazy . . . all that Bick Johnson does is brawl all the time, and him a preacher's son, tsh, tsh. Don Hollingsworth plays with more injuries than pounds; he's really been an iron man . . . our crowd down at Millsaps last week was really great, that sure helps the team a lot—and many thanks to the pep band too, that music inspires us on to greater effort . . . c'mon Buddy and Butch get well, we need you . . . guess that's enough now, the hay's in the barn . . . let's really hear some yelling from those stands at the Homecoming game this Saturday . . .

Gridders Shellac Millsaps For Third Consecutive Win

The Southwestern Lynxcats took another step on their climb to an undefeated season by putting down an inspired Millsaps team 20-0 last Saturday in Jackson, Mississippi.

The victory may prove to be a costly one for the Lynx though as at least three starters suffered injuries. One of them, freshman halfback Tommy Moore remains in a Jackson hospital recuperating from rib injuries. Buddy Ratcliff and Butch Lightsey, both heavily depended on, were also injured and will be slowed in this week's battle with Austin College, Austin, Texas, Saturday.

The Majors provided plenty of opposition for the Lynxcats but the Cats turned in three Millsaps' mistakes for touchdowns and put up a stern defense that held the opposition outside the twenty the entire night.

Southwestern tallies came in the first when Don Hollingsworth raced 24 yards to the goal after recovering a Millsaps fumble at that juncture. In the second Butch Shirkey recovered the opposition's bobble on the twelve. On the next play Bruce Cook passed to Vince Kouns for the touchdown. Hollingsworth ran a two point conversion across. The halftime score stood 14-0, Southwestern.

The third period brought the last Lynx score. Shirley intercepted a Millsaps pass on the enemy 45 and raced down the sidelines for the final Lynx tally.

Southwestern held a 148-118 edge in ground rushing, gained eleven first downs to eight for Millsaps.

The SAU bus that accompanied the Lynx brought an estimated 50 students to the game, which according to SAU vice-president Ray Bye was practically as large as the hometown crowd. Bye said that the trip was a success for SAU and for those attending and announced that SAU will begin selling tickets in the latter part of next week for a similar trip to Sewanee. Tickets for the October 31 trip will be $6.00 round trip and Bye expresses hope that there will be enough response to carry two full buses.

Flagball Action Continues As KS, SAE Cling To Leads

Kappa Sigma closed in on the idle SAE's this week with a hard fought victory over the enthusiastic Sigma Nu's—30 to 24. The trio of Ronnie Davis, Jimmy Roberts, and Currie Johnston led the high-flying KS's in their third straight victory. Johnston was the game's leading scorer with a pair of touchdowns. Kappa Sigma and SAE are now tied for first place with identical 3 and 0 records.

In other action ATO broke a two year losing streak when it slipped past the PiKA's—48 to 42. This game was probably one of the most exciting games in the history of Southwestern flagball. The Pikes held a one touchdown lead throughout most of the game, mainly due to the fine running exhibition of Barry Erb, who scored 18 points. Bill Ellis kept ATO in the game throughout the first half by scoring four touchdowns. Late in the fourth quarter ATO's Lester Goodin and John Neiman combined in scoring a pair of touchdowns which put ATO in the lead for the first time. The game ended on the ATO one inch line.

In another high-scoring game, Sigma Nu nipped the PiKA's 54 to 48. Ken Tullis, Charlie Gallager, and Paul Spaht led the Sigma Nu scoring while Barry Erb, Bill Wilson, and John Tisdale kept the Pikes in the running. The hero of the game was Barry Boggs who ran the length of the field on the last play of the game and then tossed the pigskin into the end zone for the winning score.

In "B" League competition ATO maintained first place by defeating an aroused PiKA team—24 to 12. Bill Anderson and Robin Sanderson split the ATO scoring with a pair of touchdowns each.

Elsewhere, Jimmy Whittington led Sigma Nu over the alert KS with a pair of touchdowns. The final score read 12 to 6 in a tough defensive battle.

Final Completion Nears For All-Weather Courts

The final green color coat was spread over six tennis courts this week while the seventh court which is located in the north-east corner will soon have a one-eighth inch Laco surface added to its initial base. Laco, a semi-hard material, is a product of the American Betunuls and Asphalt Company. In an interview with contractor C. B. Dawson, the Sou'wester learned the project will be completed and ready for use within ten days. All that remained at press time were the installing of nets and final repairing of the surrounding fences. One week is needed to allow the surface to dry before any eager tennis players can perform on Southwestern's courts.
