Secretary to United Nations Will Address Students in Joint Convocation on Tuesday

Mr. Zachary P. Geaneas, Secretary of the United States Mission to the United Nations, will be the speaker for the joint convocation involving the whole student body Tuesday, October 22 in Mallory Memorial Gymnasium.

Mr. Geaneas' speech will highlight a week of activities that will include films, displays and talks centering around the observance of United Nations Day, October 24, Dr. David Amacker announced.

"United States Participation in the United Nations" is the topic of Mr. Geaneas, who has been a member of the Foreign Service of the U. S. since 1954. He first was assigned to the American Embassy at Athens, Greece, where he was head of the investigative phase of the Refugee Relief Program.

After returning to Washington for a short training assignment, he was transferred to the American Consulate General at Lahore, Pakistan, in February of 1957. There he served as Consul and Administrative Officer.

Before being appointed in December 1959 as chief administrative officer of the U. S. Mission to the U. N., he served as secretary of the U. S. delegations to the fifteenth and sixteenth sessions of the General Assembly of the United Nations.

On Thursday night the International Relations Club will show two films concerning the UN. "Man in the Blue Helmet" describes the men and actions of the UN police force.

"United Nations in Korea" is a historical documentary showing step-by-step how the Korean conflict evolved and how, for the first time in history, an invading army was stopped by an international army pledged to secure the conditions of peace.

Throughout the entire week there will be an exhibit in the library of posters, charts, and photographs that illustrate every activity of United Nations functions. The materials were loaned by professors and the American Association for the United Nations.

Mr. Joe Sills, an executive officer of the CCUN, the student counterpart of the AAUN, will be in Memphis on Friday to talk to interested groups about setting up a chapter of CCUN for the combined campuses in this area. Anyone interested in talking to Mr. Sills should see Lee Marshall for exact details by Thursday.

Thirty-One Coeds to Vie In Beauty Revue Tonight

Eleven of the loveliest coeds at Southwestern will be chosen finalists in the 1963-64 Lynx Beauty Revue tonight at 7:30 in Hardie Auditorium.

The five girls chosen as Lynx beauties and the other six, selected as favorites, will not be designated as such until the annual is published.

31 to Compete

Thirty-one coeds will be competing for the award. They include four representatives from each woman's social organization and one chosen by each men's group.

Representing Sigma Nu will be Judy Simono, Tri-Delta. Another Tri-Delta, Sue Hearn, was chosen by Kappa Alpha. Ruthie Black, Carole Pickens and Sharon Lupfer, all of Chi Omega, will represent Kappa Sigma, SAE and the Independent Men respectively.

ATO selected Delaine Winter of Kappa Delta as their entry, while Lucy Bartges, also of Kappa Delta, will represent Pi Kappa Alpha.

AOPi; XO

AOPi's picked Elaine Page, Leigh Moore, Lynn Williams and Marcie Wilson. Chi Omega chose Pat Patterson, Judy Hopson, Ginny Taylor and Eleanor Jackson.

Representing Tri-Delta will be Ann Dannenberg, Julie Best, Mary Jane McCreary and Lynne McDow. Phyllis Tucker, Jeanne Wertz, Melinda Claburn and Eleanor Lawrence are Kappa Deltas in the Revue.

ZTA, Ind.

Ann Edwards, Dell Bailey, Sharon Johnston and Linda Traywick are representing Zeta Tau Alpha. Independents chose Kittye Held, Dee Smith, Paula Thomas and Rebecca Williams.

Judges for the contest will be Mary George Beggs, Society Editor of the Commercial Appeal; Elsie Boaz, Manager of Patricia Stevens Finishing and Career School; and John Ragland of Beasley Brothers, Jones and Ragland.

STAB Chooses Linda Traywick

STAB Intersorority announced its newest member Wednesday, Linda Traywick.

A member of Zeta Tau Alpha, Linda serves as social chairman for that group. She is also the Panhellenic Representative and treasurer of the Panhellenic Council.

Linda has served on the elections committee and is a student counselor.

In the past she has represented Zeta Tau Alpha in the Lynx Beauty Revue and is doing so again this year.

AT MEMPHIS STATE

Simulated Disaster Draws Many Student Volunteers

By BETTY MAC SMITH

Eight hundred students are expected to participate in "Operation Mercy" this Saturday, including about 100 students from Southwestern.

"Operation Mercy" is a simulated tornado disaster on the Memphis State campus. "Victims" will meet at 9:00 Saturday morning at the Memphis State fieldhouse, where they will be assigned various "injuries." They will then be placed at disaster spots on the campus.

Victims to Stay Busy

These "casualties" will go through all emergency procedures—first aid, ambulance ride, hospital treatment—and will be assigned a hospital room. After this, all the students will be given lunch at the hospitals where they are.

Students from Memphis State, CBC, LeMoyné, Southwestern and Sienna will take part in the activity, sponsored by Memphis hospitals, the Red Cross, Memphis-Shelby County Medical Association, and Civil Defense units.

AEC To Sponsor Book Discussions

The Adult Center is inaugurating a series of discussions next Thursday at 7:30 p.m. to which students of both the college and the Center are invited.

This first discussion will be on Lord of the Flies. Anyone who would like to participate is asked to register in the AEC office so they will know how many groups to plan for. Members of the AEC staff will be discussion leaders.

Dates for subsequent campus-community discussions are tentatively set for November 21, January 23, February 20, March 19, and April 16. Other books under consideration are Pincher Martin, Traps, Walden II, The Moviegoer, and A Canticle for Leibowitz. If you have suggestions about books or dates, the staff of the Center will be glad to have them.

The purpose of the maneuver is to secure accreditation for Memphis hospitals. Two emergency drills are required each year.

Dean Diehl Comments

Dean Diehl commented, "We are glad for Southwestern to participate because this is a civic thing, and Southwestern is a part of Memphis. This is an opportunity for students to be of service."

All participants will have to furnish their own transportation to Memphis State. WKNO television will cover the maneuver.

SAU Slates Buses For St. Louis Trip

The Southwestern Athletic Union is sponsoring a trip to St. Louis, Missouri, for the Southwestern-Washington University game the week-end of October 26. Buses will leave about 5:30 Saturday morning and will return about 9:00 Sunday morning.

"I think this trip should really boost team spirit," said Mike Drake, president of SAU. He enthusiastically commented, "We want everybody to get dates and come yell for the Lynx. It's going to be a real fun week-end!"

All students wishing to make the trip should contact the SAU representatives in their sororities or fraternities by Monday, October 21. Any group of forty students who wish to have a bus for their group may do so by contacting their SAU representative before Wednesday. Drake urged fraternities to recruit 20 members, get dates, and get a bus. The deadline for turning in the fee of $7.50 is Wednesday.

Date couples are asked to go Dutch on expenses for the week-end. Arrangements for accommodations must be made by the students themselves.

SAU officers are expecting 250 students to attend the game.

Rhodes Asks SC To Help Control Bulletin Posting

College President Peyton Rhodes Tuesday night asked the Student Council to discourage the posting of notices on doors and pillars around the campus.

He termed the posting of notices on places other than designated bulletin boards as being "sloppy" and commented that they "don't fit" on campus.

Dr. Rhodes further commented, however that there is a lack of space provided specifically for the many notices and announcements. He intimated that the administration would finance construction of adequate bulletin boards, but pointed out the difficulty of keeping outside boards dry in rainy weather, urging the Council and student body to make suggestions concerning which places on campus would be best suited for the placing of more bulletin boards.

Dr. Rhodes gave a brief run-through on the autumn issue of the Southwestern Bulletin, which contains reports of the past year at Southwestern by the President, the Treasurer, and the Dean.

SAU to 'Swing' In SAE Lodge

The Southwestern Athletic Union is giving a dance for the entire student body at the SAE house from 8 to 12 P.M. this Saturday night. The Montclairs will play and the Avantis, who are well known for their recording, "Keep On Dancing," will sing.

To keep the SAE house from being overcrowded, lawn chairs are being supplied; torches will light the lawn.

There will be no charge to enter the dance. Concessions will be sold at a nominal cost; the money will go to SAU.

Mike Drake, president of SAU, said that "the prospects of this being a swinging party are good. SAU is making a great effort since this is the only campus social event planned for October."

Two Elections Set For Coming Weeks

Election of the Homecoming Queen and of the Freshman Honor Council Representatives will take place within the next two weeks, Henry Pope, Elections Commissioner said today.

Nominations for Homecoming Queen will take place in student assembly next Wednesday. Each student will write down the names, in preferential order, of five junior or senior coeds with the exception that previous Homecoming Queens are not eligible.

The five girls receiving the most votes will be voted upon in an election next Friday.

A meeting of the Freshman Class will be held next Friday in Hardie Auditorium at 10 a.m. for the purpose of suggesting nominations to the Honor Council for representatives.

Bearing in mind the suggestions of the Freshmen the Honor Council will choose three boys and three girls to be placed on a ticket and voted upon by the Freshman Class on October 30 in student assembly. One boy and one girl will be elected.

'Bircher' Addresses Methodist Students

Mr. Bill Nash, a member of the John Birch Society, spoke to the Methodist Student Movement group Wednesday night, October 16.

Mr. Nash declared that the goal of the Society was "less government, more responsibility, and a better world." He then answered questions put to him by the group.

He stated that the Society takes no political stand, but that the members are encouraged to try on an individual basis to get into the two parties and "awaken them to the truth."

Mr. Nash stated that the Society is against the officers of the United Nations and UNESCO because of their Communist membership or leanings, has no official opinion on the NAACP but that Martin Luther King is either Communist or pro-Communist, and that the Society, which has white chapters, Negro chapters, and integrated chapters, urged nonviolence in regard to the march on Washington.

The beliefs and motives of the John Birch Society, stated Mr. Nash, "could be summed up in the statements 'I believe in God,' and 'I love my country.'"

★ Letters to the Editor

My dear Mr. Feltus:

You have posed some interesting questions in your article and I would like to attempt to answer some of them and pose a few more for you and others who may share your opinions. The problem appears to center about the "compulsory chapel." Before beginning let us define "chapel" and a religious service and "convocation" and a secular meeting. Unfortunately the "compulsory chapel" appears to be the case where there has been either lack of responsibility or maturity on the part of the student to recognize the value of the program. As I see it man's only justification for existence is to worship God and it is devoutly hoped, by the very few who took the time, trouble and initiative to improve the past chapel program to what it is at present, that the time set aside for us in the academic week for this chapel will encourage and impress upon us the duty to worship our Creator. I need not remind the students of the totally unworshipful atmosphere of Hardie Auditorium as compared to the service as it now occurs at Evergreen Presbyterian Church where you have the opportunity to hear good music, a succinct sermon and have a worshipful atmosphere. Now this atmosphere is what you students make it, for it directly reflects your reverence, if any, and your mature recognition of man's frailty and need for guidance introspection.

I feel one errs when making a statement that a proper chapel service is a "waste of time" or "irrelevant." This appears to me to be a confession of ignorance as to one's spiritual estate. Now, the chapel service can, I am sure, be improved and if we all work together constructively to improve it Southwestern will have something of value, beauty and quality. As students come to Southwestern for intellectual and spiritual stimulation and pay good money for it I cannot see the justification for anything but the very best in all areas, especially with our most precious trust or possession, namely the soul.

Here are several questions I would like to pose: (1) Studying is not compulsory here but are all of you using this time, probably the only time in your life you can devote all your energies to this privilege, to the best of your ability? Perhaps the answer to question bears a relationship to the "why" of a "compulsory chapel." (2) Do you really believe reaching the physical voting age implies intellectual maturity? (3) Do you really believe that the capable faculty of Southwestern look upon the student as "not having sense?" I might add here that if a student "had good sense," i.e., could study effectively, reason well and above all THINK, it wouldn't be necessary for him to attend college. Perhaps the confusion here centers about the instructors' recognition that students do have opinions, right or wrong, but with maturity and in light of more experience with life may temper or change these same opinions. This attitude of the faculty may lead the student to think he does not "have good sense."

As to "where we are going" depends upon the present students as affected by the faculty who are, in turn, judging their effects upon the alumni. If students are not being challenged to think or not being encouraged to develop their talents to the fullest extent, then I would question the value of that program and seriously take steps to remedy it. This, of course, infers mature questioning of an area and an attempt to improve it before acting.

Student Council to Discuss Year's Program at Retreat

The Student Council will hold its annual retreat this weekend at Sardis Lake in Mississippi; they will leave Saturday afternoon and return Sunday, around 3:00 P.M.

Purpose of Retreat

The purpose of the retreat is to discuss student government at Southwestern philosophically and to make plans for this year; the discussion will be divided into three broad topics.

In the first of these, the Student Council's role in education at Southwestern will be discussed; the Student Council's members will consider the aims of education at Southwestern, the possibility of course evaluation, and of a student-faculty committee on academic policies.

SC Responsibility a Topic

The second area of discussion will be concerned with the structure and responsibility of student government. The Student Council Constitution and Southwestern's role in NSA will be considered.

The last discussion will commence Sunday morning. At this time Student Council members will evaluate the Student Council Orientation Program and will discuss Student-Faculty relations, leadership training, town students, and the role of Student Government in desegregation.

Athletes: Why So Few?

At some time or other during natural life span, the desire for organized physical activity hits a young man, and immediately every kid on the block is an athlete, with certain status and authority rights in sports.

When these kids grow up and get to college, many have an inclination toward the sports program, and sign up for the team. What makes an athlete? Is it skill alone, or courage, or conviction, or desire, or what? It certainly takes a large amount of skill, but an even larger amount of desire and courage. The pitiful part about the Southwestern athletic program is that there are many skilled players available—but many who lack the courage to compete. All of the Lynx teams lack depth pitifully—almost to the point that one may ask "how in the world can we beat anybody with so few?"

Of course, there are cases where academic or financial conditions prohibit the participation of a skilled player. These are reasons, not excuses. But too often they are used as excuses, and are obviously invalid as witness those who say "I must have more time for my studies or work" and then goof off, or play cards, or just play during that time that they could be spending in creative sports activity, furthering the Lynx cause.

Why does this happen? Because these people lack courage. They just plain don't have the guts it takes. It'll be a cold day in you know where before I'm satisfied with a student body that promotes the growth of individuals lacking intestinal fortitude and individuals who are too lazy to come in out of the rain.

Our new coaching staff is of good calibre—with great potential of molding a new sports era at Southwestern. Sound good? It would be good for the school and for the individuals.

Participation in sports satisfies the initial drives toward self expression and accomplishment inherent in every individual. The prospect of failure to make the team, or of making the team and getting beat literally scares many out of participation. But if we are not prepared to take this challenge in stride, how in the world are we going to muster the courage to take life and its manifold challenges. Right now, we lead a sheltered, reserved life, with very little worries as to where the next meal is coming from. But I know very many who would starve to death if left up to their natural resources, because they just don't have enough guts and competitive spirit to get out and strive for what they need. Everyone needs fulfillment, everyone needs recognition, everyone needs to develop leadership ability, and the ability to follow through—and it is through such things as participation in sports that the groundwork for these qualities is laid.

Johnny McQuiston Reports 'Stylus Struggles Forward'

By JOHN McQUISTON

(Editor's Note: The following is a brief report of the year's first Stylus meeting, reported by John McQuiston, generally regarded as the finest writer to come out of Southwestern since John Somerville, known far and wide for his first great novel, "Tomorrow's Call Girls." His report is written in the true spirit of campus literary traditions.)

The year's first full-fledged meeting of Stylus was held in room 104 Palmer, October 9 at 7:30.

Miss Judy Moody, Commissioner of Publications, presided over the meeting for 15 minutes, at which time she was evicted by newly elected Discussion Moderator Jack Deaver, who asked her to read up on T. S. Eliot before coming again. Freshman Steve Johnston was the next to leave bowing under the scorn of the more literary of the crowd.

At 7:45 it was decided that the only pages of last year's Stylus worth reading were: 7-9 (Jack Deaver) and 13-18 (John McQuiston). Harvey Goldner, the third full member of Stylus, was not represented in last year's magazine.

At 8:00 two potentially great men of letters (who will remain unnamed) held Sophomore Rick Norwood by the arms and legs while Mr. Goldner tried to make him admit that Requiem for Harry Johnson by Jimmy Thomas did not say anything new after the fifth line.

After an entire pack of Camels had been put out on his forehead, Norwood (class of '66) changed the subject (and it was contended by Mr. Goldner that he therefore admitted defeat).

At 8:45 the meeting was closed with a prayer by a Sophomore girl (whom no one had ever seen before) who was later found writhing on the podium in Fisher Gardens reciting from memory the minutes of the 1961-62 meetings of Stylus which had heretofore been kept a secret pending their publication in novel form under the title White Thighs.

We are looking forward to our next meeting Wednesday, October 23 in the KA house at 7:00.

U. S. Senate Streamlines Education Amendments

WASHINGTON (CPS)—The Senate this week streamlined several crippling amendments to give impressive bipartisan approval of a three-part aid to education package.

By a roll call vote of 80 to 4, the Senate cleared legislation providing:

—Extension for three years of the National Defense Education Act (NDEA), which expires next June 30. It will increase college student loan funds by $35 million over the present quota of $95 million during the first year.

—Three more years for the impacted areas aid program. It provides about $300 million a year in grants to local school districts with enrollments swollen by children of government workers.

—A vast expansion of federal outlays for vocational schools.

Chairman Wayne Morse, D-Ore., of the Senate education subcommittee said the $1.4 billion vocational aid measure was merely a "first installment" of the administration plans. It would provide funds for a five-part program of grants to states for vocational training over the next five years. The four Senators voting against the bill were Republicans Bourke Hickenlooper, Iowa; Roman Brusk, Neb., and John J. Williams, Del., and Democrat Strom Thurmond, S. C.

The three part bill hurdled the Senate after two days of debate. It goes now to a House-Senate conference committee where a compromise version will be worked out. The Senate passed the bill after rejecting, 54 to 35, a civil rights amendment by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y. It would have authorized construction of non-segregated schools for children of federal employees who live away from government installations.

On Tuesday, an attempt to slash $805 million from the bill by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., was soundly thrashed, 52-23.

Goldwater said he was only trying to hold the administration to what he termed promises of curbing federal spendings to offset the proposed cut in income taxes.

In an interview with CPS, Sen. Morse said the vote was a good indication of bipartisan support expected for other education legislation.

KD Pledges to Hold Annual Open House

The Kappa Delta pledge class will host the traditional pledge open house, Tuesday, October 22, at the Sorority lodge from 6 to 8 p.m.

Greeting all the Greek pledges and their pledge trainers at the door will be the KD pledge officers: Susie Danforth, Jean Wheat, Annie Aitken, and Edie Agnew. Pledge trainer and vice-president of KD, Eleanor Lawrence, will also be receiving guests.

Social chairmen Linda Robinson and Jeanne Wertz announced that refreshments would be served and that there will be records for dancing.

Dan Daniels was selected by his class to serve as representative to the Student Council. Dan, who hails from Birmingham, Alabama, is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and is majoring in Psychology with plans to go into medicine.

134 Juniors participated in the election. Dan will be taking the place of Bo Montgomery, who was unable to return to school this year.

Campus Briefs

The Young Democrats and the Young Republicans will hold a discussion Tuesday at 5 P.M. in the Brooks Room of the refectory. This will be the second in the education commission's current seminar series.

The topic has not yet been chosen; the Young Democrats and Young Republicans are picking it jointly. Henry Pope will mediate the debate. Each of the two groups is sending representatives to participate and everyone is invited to attend.

The Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation is seeking candidates who, in the opinion of their advisor, have the potential to become college teachers. Applications must be in the hands of Prof. John H. Davis by October 31. Any interested senior who plans to attend graduate school is advised to speak to his professor at least one week before the deadline.

Sigma Nu's pledge class elected officers recently. They are: President, Cliff Clifton; Vice-President, Don Hollingsworth; Secretary, Roger Cooper; Treasurer, Charles Gallagher; and Chaplain, Charles Murphy.

Pi Kappa Alpha has announced their new pledge officers. The president is Bill Wilson, vice-president is Jim McKnight, secretary-treasurer is Phil Schierer, and parliamentarian, Charles Keowyn.

The AOPi Mother-Daughter Tea honoring the new pledges and their mothers was held Wednesday afternoon from three to five at the AOPi lodge. Guests were received by Mrs. John Quinn, president of the AOPi Mothers' Club, and by her daughter, Miss Mary Lou Quinn, president of the sorority. Those who served were Mrs. D. H. Gotten, chairman of the tea, and several other AOPi mothers.

Christian Brothers College is offering Great Books discussion groups for the college students of Memphis again this year. Brother Charles, who serves as discussion leader, hopes to have two groups, one using the First Year readings and another for the Second Year. The lists are posted on the bulletin board in Palmer Hall and in the AEC. The groups will meet at CBC once every three weeks during the school year. The organizational meeting for both groups will be held at the CBC Library on Sunday, October 20, at 2:00 p.m.

Paul Vanderwood, a Peace Corps representative, will arrive on the Southwestern campus at 9 a.m. next Wednesday, October 23. He will be in the reference room in the gymnasium from 9:30 a.m. until the end of the day. An examination for the Peace Corps will be given October 19 in Room 36 at the Main Post Office. For further information concerning Mr. Vanderwood's visit, contact Dr. David Likes, ext. 61.

Degree Doesn't Guarantee Job Says JFK's Economic Advisor

WASHINGTON (CPS)—President Kennedy's chief economic advisor has shattered the notion that a college degree assures all graduates of a job.

Chairman Walter W. Heller of the Council of Economic Advisors told a Washington meeting of the American Council on Education (ACE) last week that the unemployment rate for college graduates more than doubled between 1957 and 1962.

Heller said while the unemployment rate during the same period fell for the poorly educated group by 47 percent, the rate of unemployed with some education rose instead of dropping.

Heller also attacked the assumption that automation was creating a demand for more college-trained workers.

Heller said unemployment among

Drafted Constitution One Important Topic Of Discussion by SC

By ELEANOR JACKSON

When the Student Council assembles at Sardis, Mississippi, this weekend, one of the main topics of discussion will be the new Student Council constitution. Although drafted last spring, the constitution has never been presented to either the Council or the student body.

As a result, the Council will consider plans for presenting the constitution to the student body. An ideal time for this, said SC president Cyril Hollingsworth, would be early spring. He added that he was unwilling for the Council and the student body to become involved in a discussion of this type during the busy fall months.

The most outstanding feature of this constitution, said Hollingsworth, was the proposal to separate the executive and legislative branches of the Student Council. If this ruling comes into effect changes will be made in the commission system, with the president possibly appointing the commissioners.

Last spring, under the chairmanship of Tommy Durff, a committee of several students studied the constitutions of other colleges and then drafted a new one for Southwestern. Others on this committee, which was appointed by past SC president Steven Richardson, were Wayne Goldsworthy, Thurman Ragar, Lee Marshall, and Oliver Dickens.

YD's Vote Support For JFK's Tax Bill

The Young Democrats met in the Bell Room Thursday night for their bi-weekly meeting. The two topics on the agenda were Kennedy's proposed tax bill and the discussion to be held with the Young Republicans on Tuesday night at 5 p.m.

After Thurman Ragar led the discussion of the tax bill, it was moved that the club write to Senator Albert Gore (Dem., Tenn.) in support of this bill.

Roger Hart, co-ordinator of the YD-YR discussion, asked the club to suggest pertinent topics for discussion.

President Lester Goodin announced that a local politician would be asked to speak at a forthcoming meeting.

college graduates was nothing new. He compared the years of 1954 and 1962—both with an unemployment rate of 5.6 per cent of the labor force. During both years, a group averaging over 16 years of schooling remained jobless at the identical rate of 1.7 per cent.

"This again suggests," Heller said, "that the highly educated group, vital as it is to longer-term growth, is no more of a bottleneck on the road to full employment than it was in the expansion between 1954-57."

Heller said a magic wand making every worker a college graduate would not solve the nation's 4 million unemployment problem.

"There simply aren't enough jobs to absorb both the unemployed, the technologically displaced and the new entrants all at once," he said.

The college-trained, no matter what the U. S. economy is doing, still stand a better chance in the labor market than the poorly-educated, Heller said.

But, what's needed is President Kennedy's pending income tax cut program—"the centerpiece of policy to generate that demand and create the needed jobs," Heller said.

Young Conservative Leader Pleased With NSA Reforms

Fulton Lewis III said only one more USNSA reform is necessary before he is willing to give the association his "unqualified support." The reform—democratic election of all delegates to USNSA's annual National Student Congress.

Lewis, a former research director of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, has been active since 1961 in a national conservative campaign against USNSA.

YAF Proposals Accepted

"Most of the reforms promoted by YAF at that congress have now been enacted by the NSA," Lewis said. "I am very pleased, in particular, with the reforms made at this summer's Congress at Indiana University. By ending the post-Congress power of the National Executive Committee, the NSA has made it somewhat more possible for the Congress to accurately reflect national student opinion."

But true representation will not be possible at the Congress, he said, until all delegates are actually elected by their student bodies.

Pushes Election Reform

Lewis said that if this reform is put through at next year's Congress, he will personally act to throw YAF's support behind the Association, and encourage additional colleges and universities to join USNSA. Young Americans for Freedom, and Lewis, have been influential in the withdrawal of several universities from USNSA.

Five Students Win Front St. Tickets

Social Commissioner Lynn Conrad announced the five winners of Front Street Theatre season passes Wednesday in Student Assembly.

As a result of the drawing held Tuesday night in Student Council meeting, Gary Dalton, Arlene Loskove, Lynn Morrow, Robert Trumbull, and Jerry Vaughn will be able to see such plays as Three Men on a Horse, Six Characters in Search of an Author, Three Penny Opera, and Kismet.

The tickets were made available by E. H. Crump & Company and Front Street Theatre.

Guest Picked YR Chairman

The Young Republicans elected officers and heard a brief talk by Dr. Winifred Dunn, vice-president of the Young Republicans Federation for West Tennessee, at a meeting last night.

Vivienne Guest was chosen Chairman. Elected to other offices were Myrna Schaap, vice-chairman, and Butch Saunders, secretary-treasurer.

Dr. Dunn told the group that "the best thing you can do outside of church is to become a Republican and work actively in local, state and national politics."

He added that the choice between Conservatism and Liberalism formed the real issue choice among political loyalties in the U.S., rather than the choice between the Republican and Democratic parties.

"Eighty per-cent of the Republican party is Conservative, with the rest being Liberal," he said, "while in the Democratic party eighty per-cent are Liberals and twenty per-cent are Conservatives."

Southwestern Madrigal Singers Aid Campus Image With Music

Tucked in the depths of Burrow Library, a small group of music lovers meets to sing the music of the Renaissance and Baroque eras on Tuesday and Friday evenings.

Numbering fifteen, the Madrigal Singers of Southwestern are known throughout Memphis and the Mid-South for their unusual programs, consisting of both secular and church music.

Composed of both music and non-music majors, the group sings for its own pleasure, though the Singers also enjoy performing and maintaining the high degree of excellence that has so long characterized the group.

Entirely a student organization, this year it is being led by Thomas Vanden Bosch, a senior church music major. The primary requirement for joining the group is not a soloist's voice, but rather a voice that can blend with the group and the musicianship to use it wisely.

The madrigal is a secular work, usually written in four or five part "harmony." Unlike modern day music, the music of the Baroque and Renaissance was not thought of as a series of chords, as one sees in hymns, but rather as a series of independent melodic lines that are sung simultaneously.

The Madrigal Singers also perform sacred music of that period in their appearances, which include special on-campus Christmas and Lenten gatherings and services.

One of the traditions within the group is caroling the dormitories shortly before the Christmas vacation.

Georgetown Tackles Lynx In Last Non-CAC Contest

The Lynx will be going after their third victory of the season tomorrow when they tangle with Georgetown, Kentucky College at Georgetown. Georgetown lost to Maryville 13-12 last week to bring their record to 2-2.

The Lynx took their second victory of the season last week with a 27-7 romp over Millsaps. The Lynx have now won two, lost one and tied one. They have scored 93 points, compared with 53 for their opponents.

Lynx Outweighed

As has been the case most of the season, the Lynx will be outweighed by at least 20 pounds per man tomorrow, and will be decidedly weaker in depth. Southwestern hopes to field 27 men against Georgetown.

Doubtful performers are Bill Sutton, who suffered a cut foot, and Vince Kouns, out with a pinched nerve in his back. Both are main-stays in the Lynx line and their condition will be a big factor.

Team Playing Well

However, if the Lynx continue to play the brand of football they played last week, the weight, depth and injury problems should be minimized. Bill Harwood intercepted two passes to thwart second-half Millsaps drives, and caught a pass for a touchdown. Bert Chafin hit six out of twelve pass attempts, including two for TD's. Randy Kyle's 75-yard run on the first play from scrimmage helped the Lynx to break the game wide open in the first half.

Other standouts for the Lynx include Scott Halford and Mike Whitaker, who scored the other two touchdowns. Standouts in the rugged Southwestern line were Russ Didelot and John Treace.

CAC Race Begins

The game tomorrow will be the last non-conference clash for the Lynx, who are already 0-1, having lost to Centre. Southwestern travels to St. Louis October 26 to play the Washington Bears, and follows with its homecoming game on November 2 against Sewanee.

After an open date the Lynx again hit the road for Lexington, Virginia, to play Washington & Lee, the defending CAC champs.

Drennen, ATO Tennis Champs

Arnold Drennen of Pi Kappa Alpha solidly defeated Tom Barton of Independent Men 6-3, 6-1 in the finals of the Intramural tennis tourney Wednesday afternoon.

Drennen broke service twice in the first set to send Barton down to defeat in the highly touted match. Both men had waltzed through the tournament up to this point.

Barton rallied briefly in the first game, breaking Drennen's service to pull within one game at 4-3. But Drennen came storming back to win the set in two more games. He then piled up a 5-0 advantage before Barton won his single game in the second set.

ATO took the team trophy by a fifteen point margin over the Sigma Nu's, defending champs. The Taus gathered 245 points compared to 230 for the Snakes. PiKA came in third with 225 points, and SAE was fourth with 205.

KS with 115, tied GDI for fifth place, and KA rounded out the scoring with 100 points.

Independents Edge DDD in Volleyball

In a close and well-played match Tuesday night, the Independent Women edged out the powerful Delta Delta Deltas, both teams fighting for every point for three games.

Independent teamwork was exceptional. Tri-Deltas Judy Emery, Jeanie Heltzel, and Carolyn Cooper were strong on the other side of the net.

Also on Tuesday, Chi Omega beat the Kappa Deltas in two games.

SCOTT HALFORD CIRCLES RIGHT END pursued by two Millsaps players in the third quarter of Saturday's rout of the Majors, 27-7.

First Half Lead Holds Up; Lynx Bomb Millsaps, 27-7

The Lynx rolled to a 27-0 half time lead, and kept the fight up the second half, despite injuries, in winning their second ball game of the year against Millsaps, 27-7 at Hodges Field.

Kyle Scores First

Before a noisy crowd of 632, Randy Kyle took a handoff from Bert Chafin on the first play from scrimmage and bulled his way 75 yards to the Millsaps 2-yard line. Two plays later Kyle crashed through from the one for the Lynx first score.

Randy was to run the ball 10 times in the game for a total of 99 yards, and be the top rusher of the game.

The next Lynx score came when Chafin hit Scotty Halford for an 8-yard TD pass.

Chafin Passes Well

On the next touchdown play Chafin showed what it takes to be a good quarterback. Bert called a hook pass up the middle to the right end, and when he saw that the end was covered he shot the ball to Bill Harwood, who then made a magnificent run of 54 run over for the score.

After a Millsaps punt in the second quarter, Harwood took the ball on the first play at the 15 yard line, and carried to the other 15 when he flipped the ball to trailing Mike Whitaker, who proceeded to run over for the score.

'Best Game of Year'

Coach Johnson said the team played its best ball game of the year against its toughest opponent. He pointed out that the team in the second half had to give 115% effort to keep their defense as tight as it was the first half.

Playing the second half was especially difficult for some of the players. Because of injuries they had to play different positions than those to which they were accustomed.

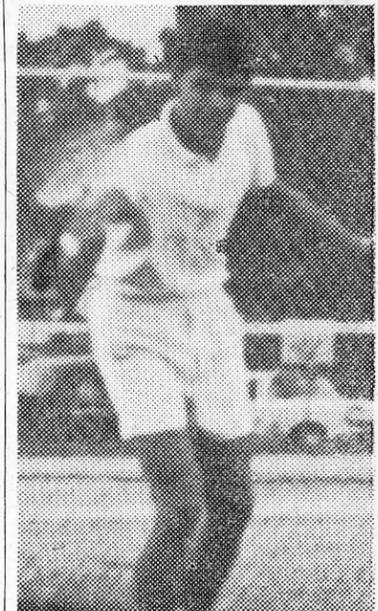

"I'm really proud of the team," commented Johnson, "and I hope the rest of the students are, too, for the way we beat Millsaps."

Tyson Leads Golfers In Rout of Millsaps

It was the sixth victory in a row for the Lynx, who compiled a 10-2 record last year and won the CAC championship. Their last loss was to the Ole Miss golfers in April.

Bill Tyson shot a one-over-par 73 to lead the Lynx. He was followed by Craig Goldate with a 74, Fred Sheppard in 80, and the only newcomer to break into the team's elite, Steve Lightman, who shot an 83. Lightman lost a point to his opponent, winning 2-1. All other Lynx won their matches 3-0, as did the doubles teams of Goldate-Tyson and Lightman-Sheppard.

GDI TOMMY BARTON SMASHES a strong backhand in a losing struggle against Arnold Drennen, of PiKA, 6-3, 6-1.

Kappa Sigs Challenge SAE's In 'A' League Flagball Chase

Undeclared Kappa Sigma emerged yesterday as the "A" League challengers to defending champion SAE, while the Lions' "B" squad, by virtue of a 38-2 sack of KA, shares the "B" League lead with PiKA.

Kappa Sigma, held to an 18-12 halftime margin, rode home to a 36-18 romp on a steamroller offense engineered by frosh tailback Ronnie Davis. Wylie Cook's third quarter interception proved to be the turning point in the big victory.

SAE eliminated Kappa Alpha from the "A" League race in convincing fashion, as Josh Brown tallied four times in leading the Lions to a 60-12 romp. The only hurdles left for them are Kappa Sig and the season's finale with GDI.

ATO escaped elimination last Friday as they bounced back with a big second-half rally to dump the Independents 48-12 as Mike Hutchinson grabbed three TD passes.

The Pikes won their opener over the Independent "B" squad via forfeit, thus eliminating the GDIs from "B" League competition. Then, led by ex-"A" League performers John Thornton and Ed Williams, PiKA dumped ATO 24-12.

Joe Howell and John Boswell accounted for all the Sig Alph's counters as they ran over Kappa Sig, 42-8, in the League opener.

Sigma Nu, touted as co-favorites, grabbed second place with a 24-6 initial win over the KA "B" squad, in the only other action.

Harriers Defeat Arkansas State

The Southwestern harriers gained revenge Tuesday by downing Arkansas State 23-32 on the Lynx' home course.

The Lynx now own a 3-2 mark, with one of those losses being a 24-31 defeat at the hands of Arkansas State in their opening meet of the season. The Indians of State own an earlier victory over Memphis State.

Dossett Foster won the meet for the Lynx in a time of 23:34 over the 4.1 mile course. Gary Nichols finished third in 24:17, followed by Howard Romaine who was fourth, John Poolman, fifth, and Ted Morris, tenth.

The Lynx will run three meets this week, all on the road. They travel to Florence, Alabama, tomorrow to run against Florence State, and will run in Jackson, Tennessee against Union University in a dual meet next Tuesday, and also in the Union Invitational on Friday.

The Lynx will probably have an easy time with Florence, but the Tuesday dual with Union, who beat the Lynx on the Southwestern course recently, should be the toughest of the year. Union is the traditional foe of the Lynx in cross country.
