'Who's Who' Chooses Fifteen Southwestern Seniors

Goldsworthy to Attend Oxford As SW's Fifth Rhodes Scholar

Wayne Goldsworthy, Memphis senior, recently became the fifth Rhodes Scholar in the history of Southwestern and the first recipient of this scholarship since 1953, it was announced by the Rhodes Scholarship Committee of the Southeast Region of the United States.

Only thirty-two Americans are chosen each year for this award. Wayne was one of four students to be picked from this region, which consists of Tennessee plus the five costal states from Virginia to Florida. Other Southeast schools which will send students to Oxford University in England next fall are VMI, VPI and Davidson.

The last Rhodes Scholar from Southwestern was Dr. David Alexander, now a professor at San Francisco Theological Seminary, who graduated here in 1953. Dr. James Roper of the college faculty also attended Oxford as a Rhodes Scholar from Southwestern.

Dr. John Henry Davis, who served on this region's selection committee for 35 years, explained that scholarship winners are chosen on the basis of grades, recommendations and interviews. Each state normally has ten to twenty applications from which to pick two to submit to the Regional Committee for consideration. From the twelve applicants considered by the committee four are awarded scholarships.

Students at Oxford are not required to attend any lectures, but each scholar is under a tutor who counsels the student and outlines the material which he will be expected to know to receive his degree. A student may seek either to "pass" degree or an honors, or "First Class," degree. Contrary to the American system, much of a student's work is done during the three six-week vacations each year, when many scholars desire to complete their heavy reading requirements.

Largest Group in History; Eight Men, Seven Coeds

By LAWRENCE EVANS

Fifteen Southwestern seniors have been chosen for Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, a yearly publication honoring outstanding students, Mrs. E. G. Ballenger of the Southwestern News Service announced today.

The group of eight men and seven women students is the largest in the history of the school to be selected for this honor.

Men chosen were James Crawford, Joe Duncan, Wayne Goldsworthy, Doug Meeks, Bill Potts, Steve Richardson, David Watts and Bill Taylor.

Women selected were Janice Baker, Susan Hunter, Margaret Johnson, Sarah Pickens, Beth Poe, Susan Smyth and Marjorie Wild.

• An honors candidate in history from Shreveport, Louisiana, Janice Baker is currently Executive President of all women's dorms, President of STAB, Vice-President and Pledge Trainer of ZTA, Treasurer of Torch, and a member of Eta Sigma Phi. She received the Phi Beta Kappa Freshman Award and the Seidman and Chi Omega Political Science Awards in her sophomore year. Janice has consistently made the Honor Roll or Dean's List and is a candidate for a Woodrow Wilson Scholarship.

• James Riley Crawford, an Economics major from Jonesboro, Arkansas, has served the Honor Council for three years as representative, Vice President and President. He was Treasurer and Vice President of Kappa Alpha, and was voted the ODK Outstanding Sophomore. He sang with the Southwestern Singers and has been president of his dorm for two years.

• Joe Duncan, a political science major from Bartlett, Tennessee, was President of his sophomore and junior classes, Vice President and President of SAE, and a member of the football and baseball teams. Joe served as representative to 1960 USNSA Convention and as a delegate to the Intra-City Council of Colleges and Universities in 1960.

• Rhodes Scholarship winner Wayne Goldsworthy, a history major from Humes High School in Memphis, is Commissioner of Educational Activities on the Student Council, a member of ODK, and a candidate for a Danforth Fellowship. He was a delegate to the USNSA Congress last year and served on the summer school Honor Council. Wayne, an ATO, has made the Honor Roll and Dean's List several times.

• Susan Hunter, an English major from New Orleans, is a member of the Honor Council, Torch, the Faculty Committee on Development and Planning, and is the Vice

Orgill to Head School Funds Drive; $150,000 Sought from Contributors

Edmund Orgill, former mayor of Memphis and a member of the executive committee of Southwestern, will head the college's 1963 Annual Sponsors Program, A. Van Pritchart, chairman of the board, announced this week.

Pritchart also announced final receipts of $115,000 in the program for the past year, representing contributions from Memphis firms and individuals.

During the coming year 150 Memphis business and professional leaders, working with Mr. Orgill, will seek $150,000 to supplement the college's income and help it to continue and expand its services in the face of rising costs and increasing enrollment.

Mr. Pritchart said a reasonable increase will be made in tuition next year, but tuition furnishes only one half of the actual educational costs at Southwestern as well as at all major non-tax-supported educational institutions. The remainder of the college's operating costs must be defrayed by income on endowment, church support, and voluntary contributions from alumni, from the Memphis business and professional community, and from other friends of the college. All these segments of support will have to be increased, he said.

This will be the fourth year of the Annual Sponsors Program and, as before, its intensified phase will be during the month of March. It has been known in previous years as the Annual Support Program.

Mr. Pritchart said, "Southwestern is bigger, stronger, better, and sounder than it has been in its entire history. And in this position we think it more than ever before warrants the sponsorship of the community that it most benefits."

McGinnis Featured In Organ Recital

John McGinnis, organist, will be the artist presented in recital at St. Mary's Cathedral, 700 Poplar Avenue, on Monday, January 14, at 8:30 p.m.

The concert is sponsored by the Southwestern Department of Music. The department has sponsored this current series of faculty recitals "for the benefit of those who enjoy excellence in music."

Professor McGinnis will present selections from Couperin, Brahms, Rowley, Messiaen, Langlais, Thomson, Sweelinck, as well as Bach's Prelude and Fugue in C Major and his "Wer nur den lieben Gott lasst walten."

ESP Authority to Speak In AEC Next Friday Nite

Dr. Joseph Banks Rhine, a pioneer in the study of extrasensory perception, will be Southwestern's third University Lecturer January 18, at 8 p.m. in the Adult Education Center.

Dr. Rhine is director of the Parapsychology Laboratory of Duke University, which he established in the 1930's. The public is invited to the lecture, entitled "Extrasensory Perception and the Study of Man."

Begins During 1920's

While a graduate student in biology at the University of Chicago, Dr. Rhine began to examine claims that were much in evidence in the early '20's of manifestations of discarnate agencies indicating a world of post-mortem existence. He went to Harvard after obtaining the B.S., M.A., and Ph.D. degrees at Chicago and studied there a year before going to Duke to help inaugurate the department of psychology in 1927.

In pursuing the investigation of a possible post-mortem existence, it became necessary for Dr. Rhine to inquire into the claims of special capacities known as telepathy and clairvoyance, because they might explain mediumship. These capacities belong to what is known as extrasensory perception, or ESP.

In 1934 the first publication of the Laboratory, describing the results of the general test in ESP occurred, with the term "extrasensory perception" as the title. In 1937 Dr. Rhine and his colleagues launched the Journal of Parapsychology and until 1958 he remained one of its editors.

Three books written for the general public were published by him: New Frontiers of the Mind, 1937; The Reach of the Mind, 1947; and New World of the Mind, 1953. In 1957 he and Dr. J. C. Pratt published Parapsychology: Frontier Science of the Mind, the first textbook in this field.

Widely Travelled

Dr. Rhine has lectured on his research at Oxford, Cambridge, and London Universities as well as at Utrecht, Copenhagen and Lund and before the Royal Society of Medicine in London. His wife, Louisa Ella Weckesser, wrote Hidden Channels of the Mind in 1961.

Southwestern will entertain at a dinner for Duke Alumni preceding the lecture at 6:30 p.m. in the Catherine Burrow Dining Hall.

Honor Council Plans Two Chapel Programs

James Riley Crawford, president of the Honor Council, will lead chapel programs Tuesday and Thursday of next week, emphasizing the Council's role in the upcoming exams.

The Honor Council conducts this program each semester shortly before exams. Crawford will discuss the correct procedures for taking exams in relation to matters controlled by the Honor Council and expressed hope that his talk would benefit both old and new students, and save the Council some unnecessary trials.

Crawford will also tell students of Honor Council activities outside the campus, including assisting nearby high schools in beginning and effectively maintaining honor systems of their own.

Summer Job List Available at Desk In Burrow Library

Directories listing summer jobs throughout the United States for college students are now available, the National Directory Service announced today.

Mrs. Ann Boatner, Southwestern reference librarian, announced that a copy of this directory is now available from the front desk of Burrow Library.

"Students have found editions of these directories very helpful in past years," Mrs. Boater commented.

The 1963 "Summer Employment Directory" gives the names and addresses of 1,485 organizations which want to employ college students, the organization stated. It also gives positions open, salaries, and suggestions on how to apply.

Types of jobs in the directory are found at summer camps, resorts, various departments of the government, business and industry. National parks, ranches, and summer theatres listed also need college students.

Students Apply Directly

Students wishing summer work apply directly to the employers, who are included in the directory at their own request.

Individual copies of the new "Summer Employment Directory" may be obtained by sending $3 to National Directory Service, Dept. C, Box 32065, Cincinnati 32, Ohio.

Play Deadline Nears

Deadline for submission of April Fool Plays is next Saturday, January 19, Publications Commissioner Marjorie Wild announced today. A $50 prize will be awarded to the author of the winning manuscript, which will be presented on April Fool weekend.

Council Takes Over Student Book Store

The Student Council will assume responsibility for the student book store during the first week of second semester, it was announced Tuesday at Council meeting.

This project is being undertaken in response to the complaints of students who stood in line for hours to buy books last September. The Council decided at that time to take over the store and move it to a different location next year.

The Council felt that running the store for a week in January should give it the knowledge and experience it will need to operate it efficiently in a new location next September, as well as facilitates the purchase of second semester books.

THE WORLD ARENA

The Quintessence of Kennedyism

By WAYNE GOLDSWORTHY

The record of the Kennedy administration thus far does not lead one to believe that it will be a government unlike any that has preceded it. Mr. Kennedy and his men do not possess a new doctrine or preach a new system. In fact, our new government is perhaps most distinguished by the degree to which it incorporates within its ideas the purposes and the failures of previous administrations. It is significant that upon Kennedy's inauguration, Mr. Arthur Schlesinger, Jr. said that it was Kennedy's job to take up Franklin Roosevelt's unfinished business. (In truth, Kennedy sees his task as being much greater. Jackson's, Lincoln's, Wilson's, and Truman's work must be completed also). One may consider the Ole Miss situation as an object case.

The postponed, almost regretted, but nevertheless firm action taken against the irresponsibles in Mississippi was completely within the traditional American consensus of what the Federal government should do when challenged on a basic issue of sovereignty. Fortunately, Kennedy even managed to avoid the basically un-American precipitousness of Eisenhower's military action in Arkansas. President Kennedy knows that he must maintain federal authority as the prime feature of our constitutional system. Those periods in our history when the American president did not hold this opinion more strongly than any other are those times most characterized by thievery, foolishness, and deprivation of rights.

At the same time, the President

Anxious World Awaits News of Stylus' Fate

Stylus may or may not come out. Its publication will be partly due to the amount of printable material received.

Therefore, please turn in material to either Dr. Roper, Bob Norton, Bert Ringold, Baird Callicott, Jim Conway, Fran Steward, or Harvey Goldner. Do not be afraid of ridicule or mockery from the members of this elite, self-satisfied group. You will probably get it, but consider the source.

(Ed. note: The preceding article was written by a slovenly member of Stylus who justifiably prefers to remain anonymous and has cleverly hidden his name in an inconspicuous position in the above list to escape identification and possible hanging.)

is not out to start a crusade for human rights and federal power. All good presidents have dreaded crusades like the plague. The American people crusade badly. We are normally so concerned with our own interests that, when we do wrench ourselves far from petty concerns and inhale the exciting air of mass action, we fail to find a good basis for action and run terribly amok. Kennedy issued no stirring appeals, though he is capable of them; he enunciated no grand ideals, though he may countenance them privately; he sought no mass, public support, though some thought he needed it. When he did finally speak, it was only to defend the upholding of federal power. Even that statement was cloaked in conciliatory phrases and marked by a certain lack of intensity in delivery.

The policy Kennedy followed in Mississippi will not lead immediately to a radical change in American society. It is, therefore, unpopular with the radicals of both the right and the left and with the idealists. However, that policy does meet the demands that most people place upon a government.

Perhaps those who would do more are right. It may be that

Anderson Talks of Sea Strength To Southwestern Student Body

The future of sea power as a strategic force for peace was the subject of a talk delivered by retired naval captain, William R. Anderson in student assembly Wednesday.

Standing Ovation

Given a standing ovation both before and after his address by the student body, Captain Anderson, explained that the development of the nuclear submarine and the Polaris missile has made a sea-striking force one of the most formidable threats to any potential aggressors.

"If the president should order an attack at 10:15," said Captain Anderson, "submarines armed with Polaris missiles could have these projectiles in the air by 10:30, and at 10:45 they would reach their destination inside Russia."

"Khrushchev knows that if he should launch a surprise attack he could not prevent his own destruction at the hands of a constantly on-the-move submarine force. This maneuverability is one of the greatest capabilities of our submarine power, and makes it a formidable deterrent to any nuclear attack."

History of NSA

By THE NSA COMMITTEE

USNSA is the only organization which provides a forum for American student opinion on political, economic, social, and academic questions. In light of its importance to the college community, there follows a brief history of NSA.

Beginnings in Prague

In 1946, one of the many post-war meetings was the World Student Congress in Prague, with 25 Americans among the delegates. They represented ten universities and nine student and youth organizations, since all previous efforts to form a non-partisan American student organization had failed.

Realizing both their handicaps as unofficial delegates and the advantages enjoyed by the established student organizations of other countries, they returned to the United States determined to form an organization capable of including a wide range of opinion and reflecting the views of the American student community.

356 Charter Members

At Christmas time, 1946 seven hundred representatives of 294 schools and 16 national organizations met in Chicago to make the first moves toward writing a constitution. The following summer delegates from 356 schools molded a national student association with a membership of student bodies through their democratically-elected student governments, thus encouraging a large and representative constituency.

USNSA provides a representative organ for American students, despite the great variety both within and among campuses. In the succeeding years it has earned na-

Letter of Thanks

We would like to take this means to thank all the people at Southwestern who donated blood for Galen Russo during his illness this fall. We realize too that many of you tried to give blood but were turned down. Galen was saving the yellow slips which we sometimes received and wanted to thank each person individually. He was deeply touched by the expression of friendship and support that you gave him.

Southwestern's 'Racket' Squad

The evening shadows descend upon the men's dormitories and the average student settles down to a quiet evening of study. But just when he begins to think he's finally getting that German vocabulary memorized his thoughts are shattered by a cherry bomb exploding just outside his door or window. All the rest of the night studying is interrupted by numerous other explosions of firecrackers at spasmodic intervals. And the next night the same thing happens all over again.

Southwestern's bomb squad has appeared in full force and shows no sign of relenting, much to the displeasure of those studying for tests, desperately trying to finish term papers, or just trying to keep up with their daily assignments. Now that the semester is swiftly drawing to a close, the study pace is rising to a fever pitch, and any disturbances are all the more resented. It's time for the self-styled demolitions experts to turn in their match books.

Everyone, at one time or another, experiences the need to "let himself go" or to raise hell. An occasional wild night or weekend spree, while not necessarily to the best interests of all concerned, is, if kept under moderate control, natural and probably necessary for the release of tensions. Occasional release of these tensions is by no means a sign of immaturity. But when hell raising becomes commonplace and uncontrolled, things are placed in a new light. The student who might be expected to "grin and bear" an occasional prank, cannot be expected to put up with continuous harassment. A firecracker exploding outside someone's door is not a prank played only on the student inside. It disrupts the studies of numerous students, including those in other dorms.

The fact that other disturbances almost as disruptive as a cherry bomb explosion occur in the dorms in no way abrogates the necessity to eliminate this prime source of agitation. Any chronic disruptive element has no place in the residence halls and should be eliminated. Exams are approaching rapidly and the moment of truth is at hand. Judging from the number of explosions during the past couple of weeks, a few students have successfully unleashed all their pent up tensions. But they should have no trouble building their tensions back up during the next few weeks if they slap "Don't open till July 4" stickers on their munition supplies and buckle down to the books they came to college to study.

THREE MEASURES

Campus GOP's Decide on Congressional Proposals

Young Republicans passed three resolutions involving proposed major Congressional action and postponed voting on two other measures in a meeting Tuesday night.

Resolutions included one opposing medicare and extension of federal aid to education, and others opposing expansion of the House Rules Committee in an attempt to give Liberal Democrats control of the House, and tax cuts without corresponding cuts in spending.

In denouncing federal action in the fields of medical care for the aged and education, the group stated that the federal government has no Constitutional authority in these fields, and that "centralized control and administration contain inherent dangers."

Walter Brown, president of the Young Republicans, today announced the purposes of the club as stated in the constitution:

To develop all Young Republicans on the campus into an intelligent, aggressive, and cooperative Republican group.

To provide through its organization a means to encourage participation in the activities of the Republican Party.

To promote in every honorable way the platform and candidates of the Republican Party.

To provide the student the means of getting practical political education.

The club holds dinner meetings on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month, and all interested persons are invited.

EDITORIAL POLICY

Opinions expressed on the editorial page are not necessarily shared by the entire SOUTHWESTER staff or student body. Letters, to be published, must be less than 300 words and must be signed, although names may be withheld from publication by request. The editor reserves the right to judge the acceptability of editorial articles and letters, and to limit the number of articles and letters on a single subject.

Racial Discrimination Protest Group Causes Mixed Reactions at Vanderbilt

Sit-ins in Nashville which involved members of the Vanderbilt student body and faculty brought mixed reactions from official organs and individuals from both the college and elsewhere.

Focus of the controversy centered around assistant physics professor Dr. David Kotelchuck, who was involved in the protest movement. A photo showing an employee of a picketed lunch counter taking a swing at Dr. Kotelchuck was widely circulated throughout the country.

The Vanderbilt Student Senate immediately passed a resolution condemning the sit-ins because of the violence connected with them and introduced another resolution requesting an investigation of those members of the Vanderbilt community who participate in "an organized program of deliberate violation of the law" and urging that all members of the community, without regard to political or moral considerations, refrain from engaging in actions which are apt to incite a riot and thus bring adverse publicity to Vanderbilt.

Newspaper Hits Senate

Vanderbilt's college paper, the Hustler, retaliated against the Senate's stand in two editorials, which denounced both resolutions on sit-ins.

"To oppose sit-ins because they are unorderly is to avoid the problem, and it is this sort of avoidance that makes sit-ins necessary," asserted one editorial. "Sit-ins aren't good, but the discrimination they show up is worse, and that discrimination is what must be either opposed or rationally defended by responsible people."

The second editorial said that the school had no business investigating the "political and moral commitments of the members of its community," and attacked the "refrain from adverse publicity" clause of the proposed resolution. The Hustler and the Senate have conducted a running feud for some time over numerous issues.

The Reverend Martin Luther King, in Nashville for a conference on racial problems, also denounced the Senate stand, saying that "if a student has convictions . . . he should express them in every way possible."

A student participant in the sit-ins, Taylor Segraves, praised Dr. Kotelchuck's action and accused the Senate of provincialism and cowardice in a letter to the editor. Also condemning the Senate stand was the Fisk University Senate.

Madrigals to Record Christmas Selections

The Southwestern Madrigal Singers will cut a record in St. Mary's Cathedral tomorrow at 1 p.m., Perry White, Madrigal director, announced today.

The record will contain from 35 to 40 minutes of the Christmas music which the Singers performed for three chapel programs and numerous other performances before the holidays. Students who wish to buy the record may place an order with a member of the Madrigals.

St. Mary's Cathedral was especially chosen to enrich the quality and overtones of the voice parts, Perry explained.

"The truest reproduction of the original sound of the music from these early periods can be gotten out of a building of this type because of the excellent acoustics," he added.

Theologian to Talk In Chapel Monday

Dr. Elmer G. Homrighausen of Princeton Theological Seminary will address students in chapel on Monday, Dr. Robert Patterson announced today.

After this speech, Dr. Homrighausen will be available until late afternoon to interview and talk with students interested in attending Princeton Seminary.

Dr. Homrighausen is widely traveled, having delivered addresses in Asia, Africa and Europe. He has served on the World Council of Churches organization for many years and was a contributing commentator to the Interpreter's Bible.

Also an author, the theologian's books include "Choose Ye This Day," and "Christianity in America—A Crisis."

Gymnasium Chapel Announcements To Be Curtailed

The Student Council has decided to eliminate announcements of the ordinary variety from Wednesday chapel programs, Josie Campbell, freshman council member, announced this week.

In a memorandum addressed to the heads of all organizations and activities Miss Campbell stated the primary reason for the decision.

"This will enable the entire student body to hear speakers who, under the old system, would address only half of us," she explained.

A box for announcements will be placed in the social room of Palmer Hall, and copies of these announcements will be placed on bulletin boards in Palmer Hall and the refectory each Wednesday morning. Such announcements may also be placed on the Sou'wester calendar, or may be submitted as regular news articles before Wednesday of each week.

David Watts, student council vice-president, added that this decision applies primarily to regular-type announcements such as meetings of organizations.

"Fraternity and sorority open houses and new intersorority members may still be announced during the Wednesday chapel period," Watts stated.

SW Coeds Eligible To Compete For 'Queen of Hearts'

Who will be the 1963 "Queen of Hearts?" It could be a student from Southwestern.

Any group on campus is eligible to enter a candidate. Eleanor Lawrence has already been nominated by Kappa Delta.

The contest is sponsored by the Memphis Heart Association and WMPS radio Station. Each candidate's name and an 8" glossy picture of her must be turned in to Mrs. Charles Sullivan of WMPS by Tuesday, January 15. The candidates must be between the ages of 16 and 20. There is no entry fee.

The winner, who will be crowned on Valentine's Day at the Plaza Theater, will be chosen by a "penny a vote." The pictures of the candidates will be on display along with banks at the Plaza.

Council Might Participate In Student Rights Survey

Investigation of the amount of academic freedom enjoyed by Southwestern students and faculty may be forthcoming in the next few months.

The Student Council has been asked to conduct such a survey on student rights and other matters by NSA as part of its Academic Freedom Project being undertaken on numerous college campuses throughout the nation, in order to determine the nature of educational institutions in the United States.

The Student Council will decide on this proposal at its regular meeting Tuesday night at 6:15. Council members urged students to express their opinions to their class representatives and to attend this meeting.

If the Student Council accepts this invitation every aspect of student rights and responsibilities—from social rules and dormitory regulations through administrative policy on chapel speakers—will be investigated by the Council and reported to the campus and to the Association.

Questions Considered

Many questions will be raised which Southwestern students seldom ask but which cause violent controversy on many campuses. For example:

The college catalogue prescribes expulsion for "ungentlemanly behavior"; exactly what does "ungentlemanly behavior" consist of?

ZTA To Give Open House In Honor of Lynx Cagers

The first open house of 1963 will be held tonight as Zeta Tau Alpha sorority entertains the Southwestern student body and faculty from six until eight.

The open house will be in honor of the Lynx basketball players. The music will be provided by Buddy McAfee's band and refreshments will be served.

What offenses actually entail this penalty?

Is the student press free to print anything it wishes?

Are faculty members free to express their views on any subject?

Is there any policy concerning student organizations allowed on this campus?

What control does the administration exercise over the student government? What responsibilities does this government have?

Do the dormitory and social rules reflect an acceptance of the concept of in loco parentis by the administration and the students?

Better Understanding

Council members in favor of the survey point out that the process of self-investigation and criticism involved could enable Southwestern students to understand more clearly the nature of their own rights and responsibilities. But Stephen Richardson, president, warned that it might entail asking questions about what students can and can't do which would force the administration to state rules more restrictive than the "tacit agreements" now governing its policy in some areas.

Also, since there seems to be so little demand for academic freedom at Southwestern such a project might not be applicable here.

Lambuth to Test Lynx In Saturday Night Game

Southwestern's steadily maturing basketball team meets its next foe, Lambuth, tomorrow night at 7:30 in Mallory Gymnasium, in the last home game this semester.

This is the first meeting of the year for the two clubs. The last time the visitors from Jackson, Tennessee, were in Memphis was the Dixie Tournament, which Southwestern won. Lambuth finished third, losing to Little Rock, but coming back to down Millsaps.

Smith Top Scorer

Aubrey Smith who, before last night's game, had scored 73 points in the last three games, replaced Carl Fisher as the team's leading scorer and second highest rebounder. Smith compiled a 18.3 average with 89 rebounds. He also has the highest field goal percentage, .530.

Fisher, with a 16.3 mark, is third in rebounds with 68, and leads the regulars from the foul line with a .884 average. Only one behind Fisher in total points is top rebounder David Miles, who sports a 16.1 average and has gathered in 93 rebounds.

Injuries Hurt Lynx

Trouble struck the Lynx soon after Christmas in the form of injuries. Ken Gann, a mainstay last season, re-sprained an ankle and will be out of action for the rest of the season. Gann had averaged six points per game, often playing sparsely because of an earlier ankle injury. Letterman Howard Edington also suffered a less serious sprain and has seen limited action in recent games. Edington is averaging 4.4 per game.

John Welch continues to improve as he gains experience. Welch sank nineteen points in a losing cause against Little Rock Tuesday, and posts a 6.6 scoring average. Donny Pattillo, who didn't break into the starting lineup until Gann was injured, also has shown real potential, although only averaging 3.9 points thus far.

Semester Schedule

After tomorrow night's tussle the Lynx hit the road, playing Union at Jackson, Tennessee, on Monday, and winding up the week playing at Sewanee on Friday and at Birmingham Southern on Saturday.

Powder-Puff Game Slated Tomorrow

Basketball fans are in for a double treat tomorrow night when the Lynx meet Lambuth. At halftime twelve Southwestern coeds will take over the court for a fifteen-minute "Powder Puff" game.

Jitter Hunt and Butch Kimbro have foolishly volunteered to serve as referees for the organized free-for-all.

Participants will be Tina Alston, Kathy Gotten, Ginny Taylor, Sarah Means, Jeanie Heltzel, Martha McCharen, Annabelle Whiting, Pam Millard, Margie Gatz, Warren Talley, Marnie Sprague and Bonnie Davis.

FRESHMAN GUARD DONNY PATTILLO, seeking a regular starting berth gave a fine performance as the Lynx topped Belhaven last night, with nine key points in the second half. Donny contributed seven in Southwestern's last outing against Little Rock. With the loss of Kenn Gann for the remainder of the season, Pattillo stands a good chance for a place among the top five.

Intramural Cage Season Begins; Sigma Nu's, Sig Ep's Co-favored

Four intramural basketball games will be played tonight as the season begins in all three leagues this weekend.

In A League action, the KA's tangle with co-favored SAE at 8:30, followed by an ATO-KS clash at 9:30. B League games get under way at 8 p.m. when ATO meets KA, and continue at 9 p.m. in a Kappa Sig-SAE tussle.

KA's vs. Lions

Freshman center Don Snow and playmaker Bobby Metcalf will lead the Kappa Alpha A's in their tip-off test against the SAE Lions, last year's champs. The Sig Ep's will depend highly upon their talented back-court combination of Buddy McAfee and Frank Smith, and will use a speedy free-lance offense to compensate for a decided lack of height.

Friday's A League finale should point to a challenger to press the defending champs and the highly touted Sigma Nu's for the title. Ronnie Splann and Jim Couch, returnees from a good '62 KS quintet, are figured to carry the load in their opener against the Taus, who feature freshman marksman Don Watson and scrapper Charlie

Smith, SAE's Win Ping Pong Honors

Frank Smith of SAE copped the individual ping pong title for the second straight year, defeating Mike Hutchinson, ATO, in the final round.

Smith advanced into the finals by stopping Buddy McAfee, also of SAE. Hutchinson gained his second spot after overcoming Grif Stockley of Sigma Nu in the other semi-final match.

With 330 points, SAE easily won the team title. Sigma Nu took second place by a large margin with 245 points to ATO's 145 points. Kappa Sigma had 110 points, followed by the GDI's with 80, the KA's with 75, and the Pikes with 45.

Important Battle

When the Sigma Nu's and the Independents, the league's tallest teams, lock horns in an A League clash Saturday at 1 p.m. some important questions could be answered. The GDI's are expected by many to cause trouble for someone before the season's end and could make a strong bid for the title. Rugged front-liners Dave Tyree, Billy McLeod and Tod Eustis will lead the GDI's against the Snakes, who are possibly the league's best balanced club, led by Phil Green and Lee Brown.

In other action Saturday the KA's take on ATO in an A League scrap. The Pikes meet Sigma Nu, and KA tangles with SAE in B League action, while C teams open the season with ATO meeting SAE and Sigma Nu playing the GDI's.

Trojans Avenge Earlier Losses With 106-72 Win

The Little Rock University Trojans made use of a stiff full court press the entire game and swamped Southwestern 106-72 Tuesday night in Little Rock.

The Lynx, who have conquered the Trojans twice this season, never had a chance against the revenge-bound Trojans, who jumped to a 52-36 half-time lead and outscored Southwestern 54-36 in the final half. The loss was the fifth for the Lynx against three wins.

Carl Fisher, the Lynx leading scorer, was held to only five points by the tight Trojan defense. Aubrey Smith led Southwestern with 24 points and ten rebounds. Smith had a perfect night at the foul line, cashing in six of six free tosses. John Welch scored nineteen points, David Miles came through with thirteen, and Donny Pattillo and Richard Thomas rounded out the scoring with seven and four points respectively.

Lynx Win Fourth; Top Belhaven, 89-85

Southwestern put together a well balanced offense led by David Miles and edged the Belhaven Clansmen of Jackson, Mississippi, by a 89-85 score last night in Mallory Gymnasium.

The game was one of the most exciting of the year, with the lead changing hands constantly throughout the game, and neither side ever taking more than a five-point edge. The Lynx made a 45-44 half-time lead stand up and won their fourth game against five defeats. Four Lynx scored in double figures, topped by David Miles, who fouled out with fifty-two seconds left in the contest, after scoring 23 points, including eleven field goals.

John Welch scored twelve clutch points in the second half and totaled nineteen for the game. Carl Fisher sank eight field goals for sixteen points, and Aubrey Smith counted thirteen points.

Donny Pattillo entered the game in the second half and hit for nine important points. Bill Bodie with four points, Elwood Hamilton with three, and Howard Edington with two, rounded out the Lynx' scoring.

Terry Mood of the Clansmen was the game's leading scorer with 25 points. A teammate, Charles Wright, sank 22 points.
