Four Day Schedule Of Pomp And Ceremony Will Be Held For Southwestern Seniors

BEGINNING SATURDAY, MAY 30, Southwestern's 83 seniors will participate in a four-day graduation schedule climaxing their academic careers with the pomp of dinners, luncheons, teas and meetings and the ceremony of the baccalaureate procession and commencement exercises.

Saturday, the agenda is filled with a luncheon, a supper and a dance.

At 1:15 Saturday afternoon, the Southwestern Men of Memphis will host a luncheon in Neely Hall honoring the men in the class of 1953, 1928 and 1903.

At 6 that night, all senior men and women will be guests of the Alumni Association at a supper on the campus north of fraternity row.

Following the supper, at 8:15, all members of the graduating class, their parents and friends are invited to an alumni-sponsored dance on the tennis courts.

Sunday's activities will be the baccalaureate service and the senior dinner.

At 10:30 Sunday morning, all seniors will assemble in the lecture room of Idlewild Presbyterian Church with their caps and gowns and will be instructed for the baccalaureate procession. Dr. John Chester Frist of Mobile, a Southwestern graduate, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon.

At 7 that night, seniors will be the guests of President and Mrs. Peyton N. Rhodes for an informal dinner in Neely Hall.

On Monday, June 1, a garden party, the senior gift ceremony, a faculty reception, and a senior class ceremony is on the calendar.

Women of the graduating class, their parents and visiting alumni, will be entertained from 4 until 5 with a party in the Hubert F. Fisher Memorial Garden. The party is an annual event sponsored by the Memphis Chapter of Southwestern Alumnae.

At 5:15 Monday afternoon, all seniors will report to the garden for instructions concerning the graduation procession. At 5:45, the senior class tree and gift will be dedicated.

At 8 Monday night, there will be an informal faculty reception for seniors, their wives, husbands, parents and friends. At 10 that night, seniors only will attend their senior class ceremony in Voorhies Recreation Room.

Tuesday, June 2, the big day of commencement, is the final day for group activities. Seniors will assemble at 9:30 Tuesday morning in Room 104 or 106 of Palmer Hall with their caps and gowns.

After the commencement exercises and the speech by Dr. Lawrence M. Gould, president of Carleton College at Northfield, Mass., last official act of the senior class of 1953 will be the posing of group pictures in front of Palmer Hall.

Nine Women Are Elected To Honor Group Lisa Rollow Is Their Outstanding Sophomore

Nine juniors were tapped into Torch, senior women's honorary society, in ceremonies Wednesday in student assembly. They are Emily McKay, Patricia Riegle, Millye Bunn, Marilyn Mitchell, Bettie Worthington, Jean Enochs, Peggy Fitch, Viola Deavours and Patsy Braswell.

Lisa Rollow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Rollow of the Southwestern campus, was presented with a gold bracelet after she was named "Outstanding Sophomore."

She is president of Alpha Omicron Pi, a member of S. T. A. B. Intersorority, sweetheart of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and has been a cheerleader two years.

Emily McKay of Lewisburg, Tenn., is the new editor of The Lynx; has served as managing editor of The Sou'wester, secretary of Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority, and is on the Dean's List.

Patricia Riegle of Memphis is treasurer of Kappa Delta Sorority, was recently re-elected as Commissioner of Publications, is president of the Student Counselors and a member of Pi Intersorority.

Millye Bunn of Jonesboro, Ark., is treasurer of Chi Omega Sorority, president of S.T.A.B. Intersorority, was the "S" Club Homecoming Princess this year and has been on the student council two years.

Marilyn Mitchell of Memphis has served as Kappa Delta president and has been elected Homecoming Queen, April Fool Carnival Queen and is president of Phi.

Bettie Worthington of Shreveport, is president of the YWCA, recording secretary of Delta Delta Sorority, a member of the Honor Council and was named the "May Day Pi" of Pi Intersorority.

David Morelock Is Fulbright Winner

David Morelock of Memphis, a Southwestern senior, has received a Fulbright Scholarship to Paris for next year. The scholarship will include travel, tuition, orientation, board, incidental expenses, and an additional maintenance grant.

David intends to study French literature at the University of Paris, preferably 17th century classical drama, in preparation for a teaching career. Upon return to this country, he intends to pursue graduate study in French, towards an M.A. and ultimately a Ph.D. degree. He will sail from New York next September.

At Southwestern, he has been president of Sans Souci, the French Club; president of Southwestern Players, starring in "George and Margaret," with supporting roles in many other plays; president of Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary dramatics fraternity; member of the Singers for four years; member of Sigma Nu, and a member of Alliance Francais.

David has had supporting roles in various Little Theatre productions including "There Shall Be No Night," "Our Hearts were Young and Gay," and others. Last year he directed the Players production of Milierer's "Le Medicin Malgre Lui" in French.

David is a candidate for the A.B. degree with honors in French.

Queener Tells Test Results

Southwestern students score their highest values in the field of religion. This was announced yesterday by Dr. E. Llewellyn Queener, head of the college's psychology department, as he reported some results of the interests patterns tests students and faculty took March 18.

He added that "the main point of the study was the comparison of freshman and seniors. Unlike other colleges, we found no evidence here that religious values declined between freshman and senior years."

The tests measured dominant personality interests in six value categories: theoretical (intellectual, rational, critical values of scientists or philosophers); economic (useful and practical interests found in businessmen); aesthetic (interests in form and harmony); social (philanthropic and love of people); political (values of personal power, leadership, competition, fame); and the religious and mystical.

Like the national groups, Southwestern men ranked theoretical, economic and political values higher than women while women scored higher than men on aesthetic, social and religious. However, the combined scores of both men and women at Southwestern ranked nine points higher on the religious value than the national scores. The Southwestern faculty outscored the students in the theoretical valuation, but they ranked economic values lower than students.

Words Upon Parting

Today we of The Sou'wester say goodbye—as all of you will be doing in another week.

Just as there is something of the precise in human nature that urges us to start afresh, to turn the calendar page—so there is something of the nostalgic in us that prods us to evaluate, to look back over an important period in our life.

This year has been an important period in your life. It couldn't help but be. Reflect a moment. You have learned much, no doubt, about many arts—the art of making friends, the art of knowing professors, the art of studying, the art of extra-curricular activities. You have surely made many mistakes. But because of them, you have acquired depth, maturity and understanding.

Likewise, this year has marked an important period in Southwestern's life. It has seen the erection of the magnificent Burrow Library; construction begun on the impressive Neely Mallory Memorial Gymnasium; completion of a psychology project financed by a $5000 grant from the Ford Foundation for the Advancement of Education. Seven Southwestern seniors have received graduate scholarships totalling $10,460, and one is a Fulbright scholar — evidence aplenty that brains pay and that this college has received national recognition for high scholastic standards.

But while these are all important, they are not Southwestern's most important achievements. What makes this college one of excellence is its day-in, day-out encouragement of free, individual liberal arts thought in the minds of each one of the 429 who study here.

Practically anyone can clutch a parchment with nothing behind it except a whirl of football victories and fraternity dances and student political honors. Few dare grasp a diploma with great ideas behind it. Those who do are Southwestern at her very best.

Ling Hong Lee Wins Honor Key

Ling Hong Lee, exchange student from Canton, South China, received the 1953 Chi Beta Phi honor key in assembly Wednesday. This award is presented each year to an outstanding science student on the basis of scholarship and leadership.

Here at Southwestern, Ling has been studying physics and mathematics. He has been active in Tau chapter of Chi Beta Phi for three years, serving as vice-president this past year. Ling's scholarship has earned him membership in Phi Beta Kappa.

Tri-Delta Names Scholarship Girls

Martha Ann Spruell of Memphis, Catharine Coleman of Whitehaven and Peggy Fitch of Shreveport are the winners of the $150 scholarships to Southwestern given annually by this college's Delta Psi Chapter of Delta Delta Delta Sorority.

These scholarship winners were announced at the Tri-Delta Pansy Dessert last Saturday on the campus, when the name of the "Ideal Tri-Delta," Mary Myers of Spartanburg, S.C., was also announced. Mary, winner of this annual award, is Tri-Delta's retiring president.

Campus Challenges

By DOUGLAS MARSH

Name-calling seems to be the great American pastime these days. To express almost any opinion, however cautiously, is to let yourself in for the old label treatment. Anybody who is somewhat liberal is a "Communist" or a "Parlor-pink," or a "fellow-traveler."

The professional non-conformist flatly pronounces all conservatives as blind "reactionaries." We seem to have reached the point where it is almost impossible to think clearly or independently on any subject without wondering whether our opinions will sound "conservative" or "liberal" to other people.

In the field of religion, labelers and name-callers are all too plentiful. The term "modernist" has been applied to everybody from Southern Baptists to Unitarians. On the other hand those cautious souls who are genuinely suspicious of learned hatchet-work on the Bible must endure the shame of being called "fundamentalists," a term, which to the minds of "liberals" suggests ignorance, superstition, and narrowness.

We need a clearing of the semantic air. We need the kind of intellectual honesty that can consider an opinion on the basis of its truth or error, not on whether it is labeled "conservative," "orthodox," or "liberal." We need to learn to choose between right and wrong rather than between right and left. We who are young must neither be dazzled by the shining word "liberal" nor lulled to complacent sleep by the soothing word "conservative."

Maybe, if we keep our minds open enough to learn and closed enough to believe, we may be able to look behind the labels of contemporary name-calling and find the truth.

"... Do not believe every spirit, but test the spirits to see whether they are of God..."—John 4:1

PRC Planning Meet Is Next Saturday

The Protestant Religious Council will hold its annual planning conference from 2 until 5 next Saturday in the Sigma Nu House. Purpose of the conference is to chart next year's activities and to make any necessary changes in the present constitution.

Leading the meeting will be these new officers of the PRC: Albert Evans, president; Ray Tanner, vice president; Ann Barr, secretary and Wade McHenry, treasurer. The treasurer is a newly created council officer and will direct the PRC fund drive.

Other members of the council taking part will be Peggy Fitch, president of the Westminster Fellowship; Bobbie Thomas, Baptist Student Union president; Mary Ann Hackleman, Methodist Student Union president; Donny Williamson, Canterbury Club president; and Bettie Worthington, YWCA president.

Honor Group...

Jean Enochs of Laurel, Miss., is guard of Kappa Delta, president of the WAA, secretary-treasurer of the student council, and a member of Pi Intersorority.

Peggy Fitch of Shreveport is vice president of Delta Delta Delta Sorority, president of the Westminster Fellowship, vice president of the YWCA and is the holder of the Tri-Delta scholarship.

Viola Deavours of Laurel, Miss., is president of Kappa Delta, and has served on the Elections Commission, Student Council, and is a member of Pi Intersorority.

Patsy Braswell of Nashville is president of Delta Delta Delta, has served two years on the Protestant Religious Council, is a member of The Sou'wester staff.

Tickets go on sale today at Beasley Bros.-Jones-Ragland for the May 20 opening of the Little Theater's "Lady In The Dark" starring one of Memphis' favorite actresses and persons, Bea Gerber. The show is very ambitious for an amateur company to put on, and doubly so for the Little Theater with its limited stage space. There are nine scene changes and four dream sequences in the play; this should give the stagehands sufficient work, but there is no doubt that they can do it; they have done harder ones than this, and they have always done well. Bea has great talent and so do the supporting actors and actresses—Memphis should be proud of its amateur theater group. For you out-of-towners who have yet to see a Little Theater production, this is a good one to start on. The theater is located in Chickasaw Gardens in the east end of the Pink Palace...

British Art Shown At Brooks

At Brooks Memorial Art Gallery today and tomorrow, you can see British art and style manifested in china, silver, furniture, glass, and weaving. This display was loaned to the gallery by the Smithsonian Institution and is quite impressive. There are no old products—all of the things are quite modern—and they show the parallel of English and American culture. Of course the Coronation note is there; you see it by the crest on various pieces of glassware and furniture. A very interesting display...

Also on the program is perhaps the most extensive collection of historic costume dolls in the country. Owned by Memphian Donna Fisher Brame, who designed the costumes and made the accessories herself, it is truly a great collection...

To complete the exhibit, a group of lithographs showing the history of the cotton industry from field to mill is being shown. Merrit Mauzey, of Dallas, is the artist who created these. This exhibit, while one of the most varied of the year, is nevertheless one of the best, and certainly well worth seeing. The gallery is in Overton Park near the Parkview...

How many of you are planning to go to the Last Nighters party tonight? Southwestern is always well-represented there, and if you can put down the dough it costs to get in, I'm sure you will have a good time. A word of warning, however—if any of you boys take out a dorm girl, make sure she is spending the night in town—last year's Last Nighters shindig didn't break up until 6 A.M.!

Pre-Exam Movies Downtown

Well, with the Cotton Carnival just about over you will have time to look downtown for a movie to see before you begin that grind for exams. The movies are pretty good this week: at the State, Clark Gable swashes and buckles through "Never Let Me Go" in the role of an American newspaper man who falls in love with a Russian ballerina, Gene Tierney, and their experiences in getting out from behind the Iron Curtain. Very exciting, and it starts today. Another good one is at the Palace—"The Hitch-Hiker" with Frank Lovejoy and Edmund O'Brien. If you've ever done any hitch-hiking, this will scare you right out of your seat; it you haven't, only halfway out. Seriously, tho, it is a good picture. It starts today, too. The Warner is holding over "House of Wax."

Got your date for the Student Council Maywood Party Wednesday afternoon? If you haven't, you'd better get on a stick! Everybody's planning for this to be the biggest thing on the campus since the "Re-Bops," and I know you don't want to miss it... Be sure to take plenty of sun-tan oil and don't eat any lunch, 'cause the evening feed is gonna be terrific. See you there!

Since this is the last issue of the "Sou'wester" this year, I want to express my appreciation to Paula, who gave me the job in the first place; to Bob, whose hair I'm sure is gray now from all those times I just squeezed under the deadline; and to all of you who expressed interest in the column. I hope it helped you as much as it did me!

See you—On The Town!

Poochie's Patter

AS THE DAYS of reckoning draw nigh, one would expect the social wheel of the campus to be at a deadlock, but we see the wheel spinning, spinning, spinning—right up to exams and through them with open houses, parties for seniors, Cotton Carnival, hayrides, and then—of course—houseparties . . .

Last Saturday the Tri-Delts headed for Riverside on a hayride. The weather was perfect, so was the spirit. Once at Riverside they roasted hot-dogs, sang, danced, and plain partied. Dr. and Mrs. C. I. Diehl and Mr. and Mrs. Seissinger chaperoned the group. . . .

Sophomore Party

Last Friday night the sophomores held their annual party at the SAE lodge. The get-together began at 6 and lasted 'til 9. The Sophs made themselves right at home with pool, pingpong, and of course that crazy dancing. Mr. and Mrs. John Rollow chaperoned the group. . . .

Monday afternoon the AOPi's entertained 20 girls from the Girls Club at their lodge. The girls ate hot-dogs and drank pop for refreshments. When time for entertainment came, the AOPi's found all their problems solved—the kids wanted to perform — the songs ranged from "Happy Mother's Day" to "Teddy-Bear" while the games consisted mostly of the Hokey-Pokey and Seven-Up. Needless to say, a good time was had by all!

Congratulations to Doyle Morehead and Malcolm Whatley—new Sigma Nu pledges!

SAE Officers

The SAE's proudly announce the following officers for first semester of next year. President: Jim McLin; vice-president, Tommy Cunningham; Recording secretary, Walter Gorman; corresponding secretary, Tom Tosh; treasurer, Bill Lawson; and warden, Hugh Chalmers. . . .

The Sigma Nu Alumni gave a barbeque dinner for the actives and pledges of Sigma Nu last Saturday afternoon at the fraternity house. Before the dinner got under way, the annual softball game between the alumni and actives were played. The alumni, edged the frat intramural team, 10-7.

Alumni attending included Rick Mays, Kenny Holland, Al Wonderlick, Billy Smith, Bill Threlkeld, Forrest Flaniken, Charles Markum, Leigh McClain, Bill Speros, Bill Hightower, and Walker Guinn. Doyle Morehead and Malcolm Whatley, two newest pledges, were introduced. The group of alumni and actives held a joint meeting.

Today and this evening the Sigma Nus and dates are going to Riverside on a hayride. Trucks will take the parties out in two groups; there'll be softball games, dancing and a picnic supper out there. . . .

The "Y" Curling Iron Banquet proved to be quite a success Tuesday evening, despite the rain. Held in Voorhies basement the "Y" members ate supper, played games, and sang. The highlight of the party was the reading of poems about your favorite coeds on such subjects as the Haggiest Hag, the Loviest Doves, the Saddest Senior, the Jolliest Junior, etc. Here are two that we felt too good to pass up—the author wishes anonymity.

Loviest Doves

Who is it that do bill and coo
And do the things they oughtn't do?
And he, a Southern gentleman,
too,
Why, it's Buck and Meredith,
that's who!

Saddest Senior

Who is the Saddest Senior? I'd say it was a gal called Liz,
She's got to hit the books so the profs will think she's a whiz.
But Richard is home 'til comps end and has put her in a trance,
So maybe that's why tears come when she hears Pomp and Circumstance.

Chi Beta Phi Initiates

Wednesday night, in the AOPi lodge, Chi Beta Phi initiated six new members. Those initiated were Luther Adams, chemistry major; Johnnie Sudduth, mathematics; Mary Rodriguez, mathematics; Jeff Justis, biology; and Bernie Larr, physics. Also initiated was Dr. David Matthews, physics professor, who will serve as faculty advisor next year for Southwestern's Tau Chapter. After the initiation, there was a banquet honoring the new members.

PIKE SWEATHERT—Esther Jane Swartzfager of Laurel, Miss., was presented last Saturday night as the "Dream Girl" of Southwestern's Theta Chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity at the group's impressive "Diamond Jubilee Ball," celebrating 75 years on the Southwestern campus. Esther Jane is a member of Alpha Omicron Pi Sorority and Pi Intersorority, and writes the popular "Poochie's Patter" column for The Sou'wester.

After Graduation Seniors Plan To Start Working On Careers

By MARY DEVLIN

We have all heard the old commencement line that college graduates are standing on the threshold of life. Well, maybe so. Anyway, our college graduates have varied plans about crossing the threshold.

Most everybody wants to just plain loaf and relax at home away from the stress and strain of classes, comprehensives, and college in general. Among the lucky ones who can do this are Vera May Burnes, Charlotte Lary, and Elizabeth Collins. Mary Myers will loaf this summer before starting to teach school in the fall in Louisville, Ky. Bill Mitchell hopes to spend the summer doing as little as possible before entering Austin Theological Seminary in Austin, Texas.

Ron Davis also plans to enter Austin this fall after serving as pastor for two churches near Warren, Ark., this summer. Allen Cooke will enter the Episcopal Theological Seminary in Cambridge, Mass., this fall. Jimmy James plans to enter Louisville Presbyterian Seminary for the summer session. Bob Crumby, after working this summer at Montreat, N.C., will enter Union Seminary in Richmond, Va.

Many In Service

The armed forces will claim a good many Southwestern graduates. This summer Charles McAlister will enter the Marine Corps, which he has chosen as his career. Bill Allen will do construction work this summer before entering the Marine Corps in September. Brady Bartusch and Doug Buford will enter the Naval Officers' Candidate School this summer. After two years with the Navy, Brady will do post-graduate work. To quote Charlie Sullivan's plans, "Hup, two, three, four."

Among the seniors marrying in the near future are Betty Sue Wilcox, Jimmy James, Becky Blanton, Marjorie Russell, Don Ramier and Joan Smith. Mrs. Ann Raines Dailley will join her husband in July when he graduates as an ensign from the Naval Officers' candidate School. They will travel as guests of the Navy for the next three years.

Five To Teach

Ann Taylor Walker, Joan Stewart, Betty Lou Collins, Betty Jo Doyle, and Virginia Ozier plan to take teaching positions this fall. Ling Hong Lee, Mary Frances Steen, David Morelock, Carol Macklin, Rose Link, David Alexander, Katherine Hinds, Cy Pipkin, and Bill Young have scholarships for post-graduate work. Speedy Swartzfager expects to take comprehensives three times and then do post-graduate work.

Joe Hobbs plans to go to Marianna to enter the hardware business with his father. Gerald Pierce will work with his father as a paint contractor this summer before going into personnel work this fall.

Elma Lee Wylie and Bette Johnson plan to be stewardesses for American Airlines. Mary Nell Wendt plans an extensive trip to Europe before starting to work for her father. Barbara Mann has applied to model in Lowenstein's

Freshmen Elect Officers

At the final meeting of the freshman class held Saturday in Hardie, Gerald Smith was chosen vice president; Vernon Ware, secretary-treasurer; Frances Van Cleave, student council representative, and Nita Saunders, publications board representative. The meeting was conducted by the newly elected president, Joe Eades.
