Crumby Tells Council Work During Year

What groundwork has this year's Student Council laid for future councils?

Discussing this question and talking about the year's work of the retiring council, Bob Crumby, president, has this to say:

"The chief concern of the Student Council this year was, above all, to lay sound construction plans that could be utilized and improved upon in years to come. All that we have attempted will not literally be realized this year, but we hope that the mistakes and the progress we have made will be of great value to the incoming council.

'Great Past Councils'

"There have been some great councils in the past and on many occasions, their achievements have far exceeded those of this year's council. But there is one significant thing—councils in the past, generally speaking, have concerned themselves mainly with the problems at hand and with the activities that would benefit the school that particular year.

"It is noteworthy, we think, that in matters such as Stunt Night and All-Sing, social rules, and over all activity on this campus we have tried to take a futuristic view of the problems at hand. We have realized that all could not be successfully solved in a short time.

"The one important thing that I have come to realize is that it takes time to work out matters of im-

Oriental Flavors At Mary's House

It'll be a full-style Chinese Dinner tonight at the home of Mary Devlin, Southwestern sophomore, of 5374 Park Avenue.

Mary has invited Southwestern's five Chinese exchange students, David Chang, Andrew Lin, Tim Liu, Frederick Wang and Ling-Hong Lee to come out and cook an Oriental feast of chicken, fish, pork, and rice, all highly seasoned.

Dr. and Mrs. R. P. Richardson, who were Chinese missionaries for many years, will provide the authentic Chinese finger bowls and chopsticks. Other Southwesterners attending the feast will be Carolyn Williamson and her twin sister, Eleanor, Meredith Bollinger, Don Morgan and Bill Sullivan.

Sou'wester, Lynx Seek New Editors

Applications for the positions of next year's editor and business manager of The Sou'wester and The Lynx will be taken until noon Wednesday, Pat Riegle, Commissioner of Publications, announced.

Qualifications for all four positions are that the applicants must be of junior or senior standing; they must have worked on the publication for which they apply; and they must intend to keep the position for two semesters.

Applications may be given to either Pat or Dot Harris, Ann Taylor Walker or Millye Bunn, all members of the Publications Board, or they may be left with C. L. Springfield, college business manager, in his office in Palmer Hall.

Hughes Wins As Student Government Leader By Majority Vote Cast By Students Thursday

BILL HUGHES of Memphis is the 1953-54 President of Southwestern's Student Council, winning a clear majority of votes in the first day's balloting Thursday of the spring elections. Allen Cooke, retiring vice-president of the Student Council and President of the Elections Commission, reported that out of a student body of 429, some 374 cast ballots Thursday after three days of heated campaign.

Bill, a philosophy major and a Methodist pre-ministerial student, is well-qualified for the number one student government position, having participated in numerous extra-curricular activities in his three years at Southwestern. He has served as president of the Honor Council, treasurer of Kappa Sigma Fraternity, a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, and a two year letterman in football and track.

Also serving on the Student Council next year will be these election winners:

Tommy Crais of New Orleans, as Student Council Vice-President.

Jean Enochs of Laurel, Miss., as Student Council Secretary-Treasurer.

Chandler Warren of Natchez, Miss., as senior class president.

Truman Nabors of Selma, Ala., as junior class president.

Joe Eades of Memphis, as sophomore class president.

Albert Evans of Memphis as Commissioner of Religious Activities.

Patricia Riegle of Memphis, as Commissioner of Publications.

Esther Jane Swartzfager of Laurel as Commissioner of Undergraduate Women.

Reg Germany of Memphis as Commissioner of Athletics.

Tom Cunningham of Whitehaven as Commissioner of Social Activities.

Student Council Will Sponsor May Swim-Dance-Picnic Party

Southwestern's retiring Student Council, in cooperation with Charles Pack, dining hall manager, will sponsor a gigantic afternoon of picnicking, swimming and dancing to be held probably at Clearpool or some similar place. Tentative date for the all-student party is May 19.

Significant feature of the affair is that the cost of the party will be paid for by the dining hall budget and the Student Council's money, which was accumulated after all expenses for the April Fool Carnival has been paid for.

It might be necessary for town students to pay a slight fee for the supper, Mr. Pack said, adding that dorm students have already paid for all their meals in their semester board bill.

Details of the afternoon's party were arranged during a Student Welfare Committee meeting Tuesday. The tentative date of May 19 falls right after senior comprehensives and immediately before the examination period, allowing everyone to attend. The intercollegiate athletic program will have ended by that time as well as all intramurals.

Complete details are being worked out by Bob Crumby, retiring Student Council president, and Mr. Pack, and will be announced next week. The party is expected to begin in the early afternoon for swimming and picnicking and continue for dancing until 8 that night.

"Since every cost except perhaps a slight dinner fee for town students will be taken care of," Bob said, it'll be a great, free party and we want every Southwestern student to come out and meet together for a grand time."

Meza, Bonham, To Visit Here

Two prominent churchmen will be on the Southwestern campus next week.

They are J. M. Meza, representative from the Board of World Missions of the Presbyterian Church, U. S., and Kenneth W. Bonham, member of the Disciples of Christ and a medical missionary in India.

Mr. Meza will hold the chapel service Thursday and both he and Mr. Bonham will be leaders in a vocational conference on Christian Missions to be held at 4 Thursday afternoon in the Sigma Nu House.

Mitchell, Evans Attend Conclave

Bill Mitchell and Albert Evans represented Southwestern's chapter of Omicron Delta Kappa at the national bi-annual convention of the men's honorary leadership fraternity held last weekend in Roanoke, Va.

Featuring the convention was a dance and banquet Friday night with girls attending Hollins College as guests of the Omicron Delta Kappa delegates.

Here is President Hughes' campaign platform, which he delivered in student assembly Wednesday:

"First, I would like to revive the annual Student Council Convention for the purpose of getting Mid-Southern schools to get together and work out their problems. This would be held during the regular school session so that the official representatives from various Student Councils could participate instead of Memphians home over the holidays.

Better Social Rules

"Second, I would like to start a plan which would coordinate the activities of Southwestern. I would like to have a monthly meeting of the presidents of all organizations so as to effectively and efficiently set up a social calendar with rules and regulations to support it. This would eliminate overcrowded times when organizations have conflicting schedules.

"Third, I would like to see a drastic revision of the point system and therefore a cut in individual activities and also the elimination of all unessential, non-functioning units here on the campus.

More School Spirit

"Fourth, I would like to see a build up in school spirit. I think this can be accomplished by publicizing events and perhaps presenting a Student Council Activity Cup or Plaque. I think that this school needs to participate in several events each year as a Student Body. The April Fool Dance is a good start but we need something else in the fall, and perhaps some informal outings together. This will involve long-range planning but I think it should be part of our student life here at school. This would help immensely in developing school spirit which means so much to college life.

"Fifth, I think that it is the job of the Student Council to try to constructively criticize and improve the chapel programs. This is something that has much room for improvement and I feel that we can do this satisfactorily."

No Suggestions?

"Do you have any suggestions for the new Student Council officers?"

This question was put to many at Southwestern by Sou'wester reporters hoping to get constructive criticism for the 1953-54 council group.

The response was discouraging, then appalling.

NOBODY could think of any suggestions. The general attitude was one of apathy. While it's true that this year's council has done an excellent job and has been an active group with new ideas and the courage to carry them out—surely there are some things which students might like to see the council consider next year.

What about a second-hand bookstore? Or a lost-and-found department? Or revision of chapel programs? Or a new social calendar setup? Or changing the point system? Or a different program of freshman hazing? Or a changed system of elections?

An intelligent college citizenry alive to the problems of student government develops into an intelligent adult citizenry sensitive to the problems of civic, State and Federal government.

The Sou'wester suggests that the new Student Council members make it their business to develop active student interest in campus politics.

This could be done in three ways.

(1) By arranging Student Council meetings in Hardie Auditorium at a convenient time for all Southwestern students to attend; inform them well in advance when the meeting will be held and let them know what issues are to be discussed.

(2) By holding political conventions also in Hardie; asking delegates to vote orally; and allowing students to make nominations from the floor.

(3) By insisting that a reporter from The Sou'wester attend every Student Council meeting and write a weekly report of the proceedings in the paper.

The situation is indeed serious. It is the kind of situation that breeds combines, machines and dictators.

What's Your I. Q. On Politics Here?

With student campaigning waxing hot and heavy this week, it's a good time to check on your Political I.Q. For instance, can you answer these questions about Southwestern politics:

1. What are the two main jobs of the Student Council Vice-President?
2. How many signatures are needed on petitions of independent candidates for the positions of president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer of the Student Council?
3. How often does the Student Council meet?
4. How many signatures are needed for petitions of independent candidates for the positions of class presidents and student council commissioners?
5. Who elects convention delegates?
6. Who is allowed to attend conventions?
7. Name the present five Student Council Commissioners.
8. Who counts the election ballots?
9. How much may be spent by a party on campaigning?

10. Have you voted in every Student Council election?

Here are the answers: 1. He is in charge of freshman hazing and chairman of the Elections Commission. 2. There must be 75 signatures for each petition. 3. Every week, usually on Thursday. 4. There must be 50 signatures for each petition. 5. Convention delegates are elected by their fraternity, sorority, or independent group. 6. Any student may attend conventions, although only the official delegates may talk or vote. 7. Bill Mitchell, Commissioner of Religious Activities; Pat Riegle, Commissioner of Publications; Jean Enochs, Commissioner of Undergraduate Women; Bill Allen, Commissioner of Athletics; Chandler Warren, Commissioner of Social Activities. 8. The entire Elections Commission, composed of organization representatives, counts ballots in every election. 9. Only $25, or $2.50 per candidate. 10. Well, have you?

Give yourself nine points for each of the first nine questions answered correctly; 19 points if you can say "yes" to the last question.

What's your Southwestern political I.Q.?

Six Name Their Bible Favorites

By DOUGLAS MARSH

(This is the second in a series presenting the favorite Scripture passages of several Southwesterners and the reasons for their selections.)

Wiley Umphlett especially likes "Blessed is the man that walketh not in the counsel of the wicked, nor standeth in the way of sinners, nor sitteth in the seat of scoffers: But his delight is in the law of Jehovah . . ." the opening words of the First Psalm.

Cautious Jimmy James hesitates to call a favorite any verse in the Bible, but he feels that the famous words of John 3:16, "For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish but have everlasting life," state the central message of the Gospel.

Hoyt Hambrick, who plans to be a Baptist minister, appreciated the eighth verse of the fourth chapter of Philippians where Paul urges the church to think on whatsoever things are "true . . . honest . . . just . . . pure . . . lovely . . . of good report."

Edith Jean Cooper loves the beautiful "But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon him, and with his stripes we are healed"

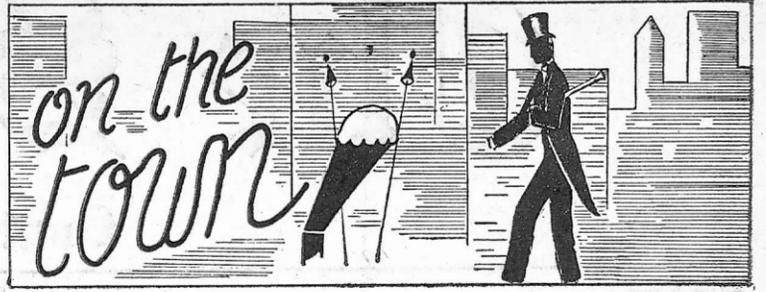

John Turpin says that his refusal to worry is in line with Jesus' words in the sixth chapter of Matthew's gospel: "consider the lillies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin: yet I say unto you that even Solomon in all his glory was not arranged like one of these."

Dr. D. M. Amacker feels that the story of the Good Samaritan points up an important part of Christian ethics, that is "compassion; which cuts across the line of culture and even sectarian religion." The real neighbor, as Luke 10:37 points out, is "he that showed mercy."

Voorhies Elects New Officers

Mary Frances Forbes has been elected president of the Voorhies Dorm Governing Board for next year. Serving with her will be Louise Aiken, vice-president and Millye Bunn, secretary.

Other dormitory government members are Mary Ann Wachal, Viola Deavours, Jean McLean, Dot Harris, Annelle Albritton, Sallie Mynr Thomas and Catharine Coleman.

Memphis and Southwestern music-lovers are in store for another wonderful treat—Billy May comes to the Casino next Friday night! Brought here by WHBQ's Dick Covington, Music by May promises to be a treat that no dance fan should want to miss. He's here for a one night stand only, but you will have plenty of time to phone for reservation at 2-5808. Advance tickets (they're a little cheaper) are on sale now at Florshiem's Shoe Store on Main, and at the Home of the Blues and Ferguson's record shops. I'm sorry, but I don't know the prices—about two bucks per couple, I imagine . . .

The Memphis Chicks got in town Tuesday after a very successful road trip to open a 10 game home stay that will see them take on Little Rock, New Orleans, and Mobile in that order. Doubleheaders every Sunday afternoon and Ladies' Night on each Tuesday and Friday; you can have a lot of fun at the ballpark, especially when it gets a little more warm and pleasant in the evenings.

Becky In Recital

Tomorrow afternoon at 3:30, Rebecca Sue Blanton will present her senior piano recital at the College of Music. "Becky" has been for the past four years a student of Miss Lois Maer, and selections she will play will include works by Handel, Beethoven, Debussy, Chopin, and C.P.E. Bach. She will be assisted in the recital by Miss Gene McFarland, junior voice major, who will sing a varied program of eight songs, both classical and contemporary. Mrs. Helen Akin will accompany Gene. The recital is free and open to the public.

Tuesday evening at 8:30 the College of Music will be the scene for a joint recital by two of its faculty members, Michael Semanitzky, professor of violin and Myron Myers, professor of piano. They will play three sonatas for piano and violin: Sonata in E major, by J. S. Bach; Sonata (Modal), Op. 17 in G by Dr. Burnet C. Tuthill, director of the College of Music; and Sonata, Op. 108, in D minor, by Brahms. This is free, also, and the public is cordially invited.

Rita In "Salome"

Well! It seems as if we have a difference of opinion between the movie critics of Memphis and the people who pay to see them. I wrote up "Salome" (now playing at the Malco) as a very good moving picture—but Ben Parker and Edwin Howard seemed to have different ideas. Ben was hedging just a little bit, tho, in his review; he said that he didn't guess that he was "in the right frame of mind" to see it, and maybe that was why he panned it. I urge Mr. Parker to "get in" the right frame of mind and see it again—it is a very stirring and colorful picture. It certainly deviated from the normal trend of thought on this event in Biblical history; maybe that is why these men disliked it. If so, it is hardly right to condemn a story on its imaginative ideas; goodness knows we need more imagination in American movies today—oh, well, opinions are wonderful things, aren't they? Incidentally, if you haven't seen the picture yet it will be at the Malco until next Saturday. Prices have been advanced for it.

John Wayne holds forth at the Warner this week in a roistering comedy called "Trouble Along the Way" supported by Donna Reed and Charles Coburn. It promises to be pretty good. The Ritz has Silvana Mangano, star of "Bitter Rice" in her first English language movie, "Anna," co-starring Vittorio Gassman of "Bicycle Thief" fame. Italian movies are as a whole very good, and with these two actors the picture should be excellent. "Destination Gobi" is the movie that started Thursday at the Strand, with Richard Widmark and Don Taylor. This one is a wartime thriller about a weather station in the Gobi desert. Others—Donald O'Conner and Debbie Reynolds in "I Love Melvin" starting today at the State; and "Abbot and Costello go to Mars" at the Palace. This also starts today.

Seafood At Cape Codder

Like seafood? Memphis has gotten a new type of eating place that specializes in all types. It's called the Cape Codder, and it's situated on Cleveland between Poplar and Jefferson. They are unique in that all of their seafood is air expressed in from the Gulf and Florida, and it is really fresh and good. Also, they have no facilities for eating there; you can take it back to the dorm or eat it in the car. However, before the school year is out I expect that they will have outside tables. The Cape Codder is one of the best seafood places in Memphis.

See you—On The Town!

Poochie's Patter

ELECTIONS are over! Signs have been cleared and the campus seems almost normal again. . . The only campaign results that we see are the smiles and grins of the victors. But of course, even amidst political times, our campus finds a place for parties—

Alpha Tau Omega's big night is tonight. They hold their annual formal from 9 until 12 at the Gayoso.

At the dance will be Jack Worthington and Vivian Rogers, Albert Evans and Fairley Cunningham, Clark Young and Robin Sprague, Bob Goodson and Mary Helen McLeod, Bernard Hooker and Sallie Myhr Thomas, Morton McMillan and Mary Myers, Newton Todd and Patsy Braswell, Ron Davis and Julia Johnson . . . Doug Buford and Jean McLean, Bill Young and Carolyn Milton, Jack Funkhouser and Jeanette Skinner, Bill Hamer and Sue Carter.

Others there will be Sid Vise and Margaret Jones, Bob McClure and Bebe Hagood, Tom Strong and Peggy Crocker, Henry Mosley and Jo McCormick, Lawrence Cater and Nita Saunders, Tommy Richardson and Billy Wood Shackelford, Bill Harvey and Jerilyn Wacaster, Henry Williamson and Geraldine Dozier, George Hearn and Mary Harrell, David Davis and Sarah Ruth Strong, Jimmy Carter and Frances Van Cleave, Bill McAtee and Millye Bunn, Bill Hunt and Gwen Warren, Bill Stricklin and Barbara Cunningham, Earl Browne and Mop Spruell . . . New ATO officers will be announced at the lead-out . . .

At the AOPi lodge last Monday night we saw Gus Schmitt and Bernie Larr around the piano adding entertainment for the sorority's dessert party honoring the Pikes . . . Edgar Crisler and John Kurts were engrossed in a bridge game with Jenny Hurst and Maida Moore . . . Rod Green was the man of the hour, helping Louise Campbell bid five hearts . . . The entire party was entertained as Anne Hebert and Mary George Beggs led singing and a can-can dance.

KD Dessert Supper

Next door at the Kappa Delta lodge, the same rites were heard in the gleeful laughter of the Kappa Sigs who were royally dined with cherry pie and coffee . . . Ray Tanner and Happy Henry were seen talking to a KD alum, Thelma Nichols, on the problem of being out in the big world. The dancing fiends of Kappa Sig, Jim Napier, Jip Walters and Roomie Smith still thought the Re-Bops were present and got lost in music . . . Seems that Dot Henning and Sue Carter were helping them along. Around the coffee table we saw Bill Hughes, Reg Germany, Vi Deavours and Jean Enochs . . .

White Star Party

Thursday night the White Star Club, composed of daughters and pinnees and sisters of Sigma Nus held a party for senior Sigma Nus at the fraternity lodge . . . Coffee, tea and cakes were served. Wade McHenry, Sigma Nu Sweetheart, has recently organized the club. Joan Pomeroy and Barbara Davis were in charge of Thursday's party.

The Zetas installed Mary Mainord as treasurer of the sorority last Wednesday . . . Congratulations, Mary!

The Tri-Delt scholarship supper was held at the sorority lodge Monday night . . . Sallie Myhr Thomas was in charge . . . The scholarship award was given to Fairley Cunningham. Entertainment was provided by Lolly Speir and Anne Thomas who presented their pledge song . . .

Two Parties Planned

Tri-Delt, incidentally, plans a Sock Party next Thursday while Friday night, the Chi Omegas will host a pirate party, with Marian Cobb in charge . . .

Idlewild Holds Student Service

Tomorrow night at 5:15, the weekly Student Church service at Idlewild Presbyterian Church will be held, with all Southwestern students invited to participate.

After the service, the group will go to the Church's Recreation Center for supper and the first in a series of programs about "Students Of The World." Victor Gramont of Gulfport, Miss., who is stationed at Millington, will show color slides which he took while in Japan. After the program, the group plans a song fest.

Crumby Tells

portance; you cannot merely rush into it and solve problems without careful consideration of the opinions and suggestions of individuals and organizations.

"While it is true that some records of the past activities have been left in the files to aid an incoming council, never before has an attempt been made to coordinate ideas from one year to the next and to lay plans for future years."

Need Some Change

Bob added that Southwestern is constantly changing and so are the ideas brought here by students, and therefore, it's necessary that some rules and activities here must undergo a change also. In conclusion, he stated:

"One thing I ask; that the students of Southwestern try to understand that the Student Council is not trying to dominate anyone; that the council is working for the benefit of the entire student body; and above all, that the individuals and the council as a whole are merely attempting to do the jobs that students elected them for. I hope students will understand what the incoming council is trying to do and cooperate with them, since they are sincerely working in your behalf."

Do You Know These Facts?

By PATSY BRASWELL

This week's column takes up from Oxford, England to Shreveport, Louisiana. For instance, did you know— . . . that Becky Blanton has just recovered from a siege of the mumps caught while doing practice teaching. Talk about occupational hazards!

. . . And speaking of mumps, did you know that Mrs. R. P. Richardson was confined to a hospital in Shreveport last week. Mumps, again.

. . . That on our faculty there are 5 Oxford graduates—Drs. Amaker, Cooper, Davis, Hartley and Kelso? . . . That Jean Enochs is deathly afraid of mice?

. . . That Barbara Davis is a past national president of the Y-teens? . . . Claire Albright has a son in high school?

. . . Latest fallacy exposed is that Dean Johnson is actually not at all interested in library construction . . . he just likes to get out for a smoke, being a little hampered by the "No Smoking" sign in his office.

. . . That Walter Gorman's latest hair cut was at the hands of a drunk barber?

. . . That Sigma Nu fraternity is considering ordering a new batch of pins for the members to have for rush next year. At the rate they're getting pinned, next year's freshmen will think they're Independents.

. . . That yours truly is going to spend the summer in Bermuda?

Library Adds 61 To Its Shelves

Southwestern's library has acquired 61 new books in eight general classifications this month. Included in the selections are volumes on art, fiction, religion, literature, humor, music, social sciences, biographies and autobiographies.

Some of the new books are "Great Paintings from the National Gallery of Art," "African Sculpture Speaks," "The Day of the Locust," "The Cruel Sea," "The Jewish People, Past and Present," "The Travail of Religious Liberty," "This Is the Church," "The Externals of the Catholic Church," "John Milton, Englishman," "The Responsibilities of the Critic," "I Go Pogo," "Worlds of Music," "The Testament of Freedom," "Report On the American Communist," "Your Schools and Mine," "The Diary of a Young Girl," "Always The Young Strangers."

Lynx Baseball Team Lives Up To Early Press Predictions

By DON RAMIER, JR.

As the season progresses, the Lynx baseballers seem to be picking up steam, living up to early-season press notices and realizing their potential. And the main element that has begun to round into shape is the pitching staff.

Evidences of this realization of ability are the two recent victories over the Millsaps "Majors" from Jackson, Miss. The Lynx downed the invaders 7-4 and 9-6 in two successive days, to bring the record up near the .500 mark with four wins and five losses.

Boyd Leads the Way

In the first Millsaps contest, Ron Davis all but went the route, limiting the Majors to five hits. Bill Williams relieved Davis in the ninth inning, hurled one pitch, and retired the side to send Millsaps down in defeat.

Shortstop Al Boyd got things started in a big way, homering in the first, and Southwestern was never topped. Boyd pulled some fielding gems later in the game, to lift Davis out of the hole and stifle the Majors' eighth inning rally.

The second Millsaps game also saw a Southwestern pitcher turn in a sparkling performance and successfully handcuff the visitors. John Lawhorn, making his third start of the season, came through in fine fashion in giving up five hits and chalking up a 9-6 victory. Lawhorn fanned but two Majors but both of the strike-outs ended rallies.

Second With Millsaps

The second game with Millsaps, in as many days, was a tilt speckled with both spectacular and erratic fielding. Four errors in the infield cost Southwestern four runs, but outstanding fielding plays by left fielder Lee Weed probably saved more runs than were lost on errors.

In the fourth inning, with no outs and a Major on second base, Weed ran up and snared a line drive and doubled the runner on second. He took two more heavy hits off Millsaps bats, one a beautiful running catch in the eighth.

Nine Free Passes

Southwestern did little hitting in this game, scoring mostly off the wildness of opposing pitchers. The Lynx took advantage of nine free passes, two hit batsmen and two balks by four Millsaps pitchers. The two balks, prompted by double steals executed by Southwestern, permitted a pair of runs to come across.

In the hitting department, Boyd collected two, Tommy Jones two, Jack Bugbee one, Frank Horton one, and Weed one; and that was the extent of the slugging.

In both games, Coach Glenn Johnson set up a new infield system which has worked very well. He switched Bill Allen from second to third and put Mark Waters in at second. That gives the Lynx an extremely able infield. It also strengthens them down the middle, the line old-time baseball strategists claim must be strong if a ball club is to win. Horton as catcher, Waters at second, and Jones in center gives Southwestern's baseball squad a nucleus that can match fielding talents with the best of them.

Lynx Netsters Defeat State In Close Match

The Lynx netsters are on the short end of a six-five record for this season, but from the looks of things they will end the season with at least a better than even record.

The season started out with a loss to Ill. State Normal, a loss to the University of Ala., and then they won from a comparatively weak team, Howard. After that they went on to lose to the University of Ga. and Emory University, then they returned to Memphis only to lose another to a strong Western Michigan team.

Win Over Wabash

At long last, however, the team broke into the winning column with a decisive victory against Wabash. They followed this up with a win against Memphis Navy.

The next meet was with Memphis State, and the netsters held the name of Southwestern high as they sent the State swatters down the road to bitter defeat.

The next match was against Ole Miss, and the team didn't keep its winning streak any longer, but everyone on the team is waiting for their next chance at the Rebels.

The last match was with Memphis Navy, and again the team hit the winner's list with a very decisive victory.

Playing number one for the Lynx is Burton Henry. Burton is a junior, and perhaps the most experienced member of the team. Burton's record at the present is three wins and six defeats, this isn't as bad as it might sound since he has been playing some mighty good players, and has won every time the team has.

Tommy Is No. 2

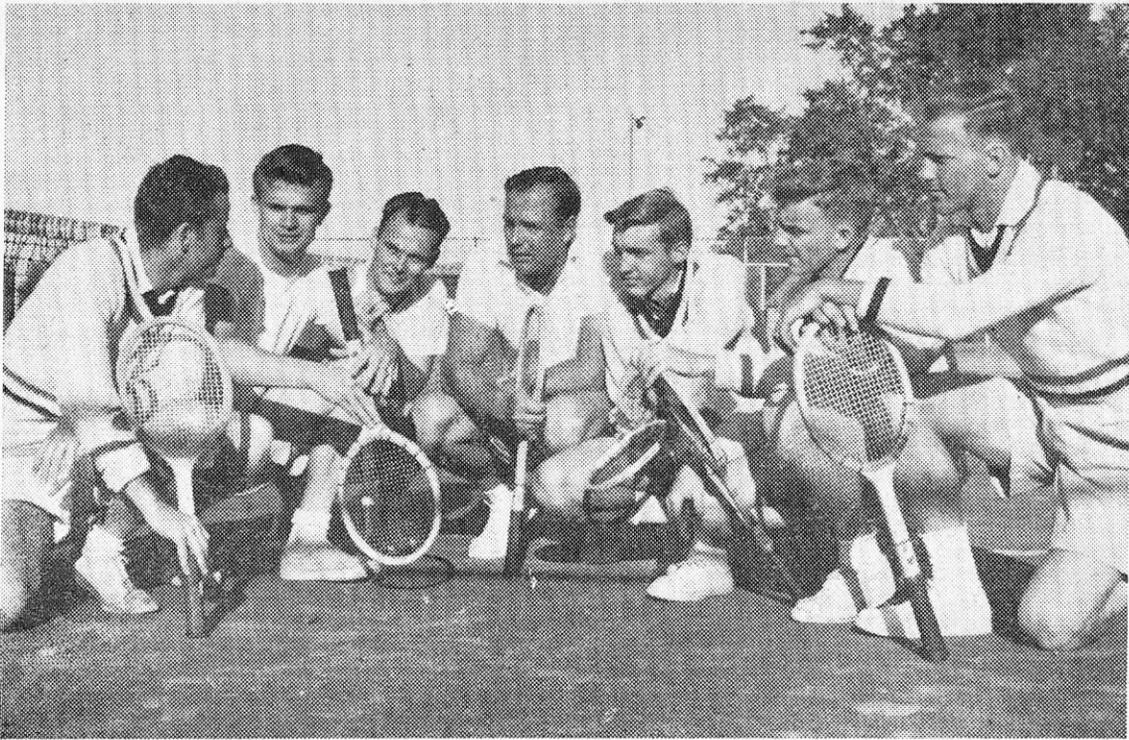

Playing at the two position is Tommy Crais, a newcomer to the courts this year, and his record, with this in mind, has been very good. Tommy has won three and lost seven, and Tommy looks like he has what it takes to win the rest.

Holding down the number three position is David Walthall who with the exception of Henry, has the most experience of anyone on the team. David has six victories against four defeats so far, and should win many more from the looks of things.

Playing number four is Bob Crumby, also a newcomer to the courts this year, and Bob has really improved this season. He is expected to win many matches the remainder of the season.

Bob Stewart is the next man on the team and he has really done well. He has a record of three wins and four defeats. Bob is captain of the team this year and has been a core of organization in the team.

Last but not least, is Carl Walters, a freshman who, with this season behind him as experience, and with three remaining years to go, should turn into quite a player.

By CAROLYN WILLIAMSON

Cold weather hit Chickasaw National Park last weekend during the annual Tennessee Synod Westminster Fellowship retreat and some 60 Southwesterners were left shivering in the light clothes they had brought.

The retreat began with a fellowship hour acquainting students from Vanderbilt, Austin Peay, Memphis State and Southwestern. Newton Todd, moderator of the retreat, delivered the opening address with a statement of the purpose of the retreat.

Reveley Leads

Classes and discussions were held Saturday morning and afternoon. Among those leading the discussions was Prof. Taylor Reveley with the topic, "Christian Ethics."

When the cold weather hit Saturday night, the boys rose to the occasion and brought in firewood for the cabins. Meantime, the girls pitched in, setting tables and helping cook.

"Christ To The World Through Me," the theme for Presbyterian Young People this year, was presented by Mrs. Leighton McCutchen of Nashville and the Rev. Eugene Daniels.

Books Are Popular

A feature of the retreat was a selection of books from the Presbyterian Book Store here in Memphis. Henry Mosley managed the well-stocked book store.

Sunday morning services climaxed the retreat. The morning watch, led by Anne Hebert, dealt with the problem of prayer. The closing communion service was a challenging benediction to a stimulating retreat.

Signs Publicize All Candidates

By NITA SAUNDERS

"Be like the rest, vote for the best; Phi Beta Kappas, dumb bells too, all vote Red—Why don't you?"

This message, posted on little signs peeking up from the ground, along with other signs all over trees, poles and grass effectively publicized Southwestern's spring election campaigns in every nook and cranny.

Artists and creative minds delved diligently into forgotten childhood memories for posters and slogans. Such campus geniuses as Jean Enochs, Poochie Swartzfager, Willie Bow and Anne Thomas, among others, contributed their wit to sway voters' opinions. At least they made all the candidates known.

For instance, it was "For A Treat Instead of A Treatment Elect Taylor Brown for Commissioner of Undergraduate Women." His campaign workers were Harper Davis and Willie Bow.

Mary Rodriguez created a deluge of slogans—"Parties, Frolic, Fun, Vote For Peterson"; and "Keep Those Freshmen In a Daze—Vote For Someone Who Can Really Haze—Tom Crais."

These and many more like them were lively elements of conversation throughout the campus. At least this year the signs remained up throughout campaigning. But doesn't it look different with them down?

AOPi Is Leader In Softball

By JEAN ENOCHS

The girls' softball tournament is just beginning and at present, the AOPis hold the lead.

AOPi recently defeated both the Chi Omegas and the Kappa Deltas. The usual teamwork which has been shown in past years is not up to par, but as the season progresses, the games will definitely improve.

The winning AOPis at present have the best teamwork and this is one of the main reasons for their present success. The Tri-Delts hold second place although they have only played one game—with the Kappa Deltas.

The Chi Omegas have one defeat so far, and the Kappa Deltas are in the cellar with two defeats. As yet the Zetas have not played a game.

Ten Students Hold Sunday Services

By MARY DEVLIN

Among Southwestern's student body there are ten practicing preachers. Some of these pre-ministerial students have their own churches and preach every Sunday; others preach once a month.

Two With Churches

Around 8 every Sunday morning, Malcolm Anderton and Bill Mitchell head up into Tennessee. Malcolm goes to Marel Bluff, to hold services and eat dinner afterwards with one of the families in his congregation. Sometimes Jo Ann Pomeroy goes with him to play the piano or sing. In the meantime, Bill is at his church in Regan, where he preaches three times a month. Not only preaching, but playing the piano, is part of his duties. Bill Williams preaches the other Sunday in Regan.

Truman Nabors spends his Sundays with the people at Norris Memorial in Memphis. He is in charge of youth activities as well as serving as alternate Sunday School teacher. He has Sunday dinner in the homes of members and usually a good softball game develops that afternoon.

About his work, Truman remarks "It is great experience in organizing a group—experience that I will not be able to get after I start preaching. I am not ready to start preaching now, but this is the type of work that I can do."

Bob to Arkansas

Once a month, Bob Crumby goes to Cotton Plant, Ark., where he has a church of about 40 faithful members. Occasionally he holds services in Brinkley, Ark., for a church of about 100. He has also preached at First Church and McLemore here in Memphis.

Bill Hughes at Epworth Methodist in Memphis; Bob Stewart in Bassett, Ark., and Claire Albright in Kerrville, Tenn., preach every Sunday. Once a month, David Alexander goes to Red Banks, Miss., and Kenneth Silvey to Anderson Chapel in Jackson, Tenn., to hold Sunday services.

Golf Team Wins One Of Three

The Lynx linksters, headed by Omar Smith, have turned in one win against two losses recently. They defeated Memphis Air Base and were defeated by Ole Miss and Memphis State.

The golf team has improved quite a bit from former years and every team member is consistently shooting good golf. Both of the matches they lost were lost by a very small margin and the outlook for the remainder of the season is good.

The team leaves Tuesday for Athens, Ga., where they will participate in the Southern Inter-Collegiate Tournament. Making the trip will be Omar Smith, David Smith, Ellis Porcel, Reg Germany, and Jim Napier. Don Ramier, number two man on the team, finds it impossible to go because of a heavy scholastic schedule.
