"DIGGER" RIDES AGAIN—Higgason breaks through the line on one of his many long gains against Howard. (He has now averaged 8.3 yards per carry this season.) The Lynx took their second victory of the season last week, a 33 to 7 verdict over the Birmingham team.

Maid of Cotton Will Be Selected November 19

The Maid of Cotton Contest, which is sponsored by the Sou'wester, will be held November 19 at 7:00 P.M. in Hardie Auditorium. There will be a preliminary session Friday afternoon at 4:00, when the judges will meet and talk to the contestants.

Dan Adams, Editor of the Sou'wester, will be Master of Ceremonies that night when the contestants appear in evening gowns and give their speeches about the cotton industry.

The winner will be presented with a loving cup, and the two alternates will receive bouquets. Southwestern's Maid of Cotton will then be entered in the National contest, if she is accepted by the National Cotton Council, she will be a finalist in the Maid of Cotton contest which will be held in Memphis early next year.

The sororities and fraternities with their entries are as follows:

Zeta Tau Alpha—Bennie Ann Haven, Daisy Glenn

Chi Omega—Mary Lewis Myatt, Katherine Milne

Alpha Omicron Pi—Jane Pyron, Ruth Kelley

Kappa Delta—Harrylyn Graves, Joanna Kindig

Delta Delta Delta—Betty Carol Johnston, Martha Jane Morrison

Kappa Sigma—Robin Sprague, Margaret Jones

Sigma Nu—Dot Henning

Sigma Alpha Epsilon—Marcia Calmer

Kappa Alpha—Mary George Beggs, Marian Cobb.

The girl chosen 1955 Maid of Cotton January 4 will have a half year of exciting, busy days ahead on her international tour. Every day will be eventful for the young Cotton Belt beauty who will represent the cotton industry as its fashion and good will ambassador. When the Maid comes home at the conclusion of her travels, she has collected a store of wonderful memories that will remain with her the rest of her life.

World Fellowship Dinner To Honor Foreign Students

The annual YWCA World Fellowship dinner will be held this year on Monday, November 22, at the Memphis YWCA, 200 Monroe. This dinner will honor Southwestern's foreign students, and also the other foreign students in this area. All other students are cordially invited to attend this dinner. Reservations, which must be made by November 14, may be obtained by calling the YWCA. A $1.25 charge will be made for dinner.

First Concert Of Orchestra Will Be Presented Tuesday

The Southwestern Orchestra will present its first concert of the year on Tuesday, November 16, in Hardie Auditorium. The program will consist of seven selections:

Overture Coriolanus, by Beethoven; Dave Sono from "The Marriage of Figaro," by Mozart, sung by Mary Ann Wachal; Symphony in D Major (Prague), by Mozart; Depuis de Jour from "Louise," by Charpentier, sung by Martha Pipkin; Concerto No. 2 in C Minor, by Rachmaninoff. The first and second movements of the Rachmaninoff concerto will feature Cleda Hickey at the piano, and the third movement will be played by Marilyn Stowers.

Eight Exchange Students Study At Southwestern

In recent years a plan of exchanging students between countries has developed throughout the world. Southwestern is proud to be able to participate in this program. This year the cosmopolitan air of Southwestern is provided by eight students, three women and five men.

Chung Sook Pai is Southwestern's first Korean student. She is a sophomore, and lives in Voorhies.

Vasiliki Stavropoulou, who is from Greece, attends Southwestern as a special student and lives with relatives here in town.

David Chang, actually from the Chinese mainland, gives Taipei, Formosa, as his current home-town. He is here partially due to the efforts of a group of missionaries. He is a Senior.

Al Marques, from Brazil, has returned to Southwestern this year to complete work on a Bachelor of Music degree.

Hajo Hug, a Junior, is from Germany, and is renowned hereabouts for his window overlooking the entrance to the Lair.

Jean Messié, from France, is here both as student and instructor. A Junior, he is teaching French conversation and tutoring students of French.

Keith Wong from Hong Kong is well known for his poetic name and address. Keith, who was recently tapped into Chi Beta Phi, has relatives in Memphis.

HIGGASON STARS AS LYNX BEAT HOWARD

Jim "Digger" Higgason put on one of the greatest running exhibitions in Southwestern football history last Saturday as he scored four of the five Lynx touchdowns and put the Maysmen over Howard 33-7 in Southwestern's first home victory of the year.

Estimated 1,000 Attend Festival

The Book Festival at Burrow Library was a success. Last weekend the library was astir with faculty, students, and Memphians interested in books.

About the festival Dr. Stein said, "We were pleased by the attendance, estimating about a thousand visitors. With this experience I'm sure we can present a bigger and better festival next year."

Exhibits of books on many varied subjects were on display throughout the festival. On Thursday and Friday there were teas in the afternoon following the films about book printing and proficient reading. Thursday evening there were two illustrated talks by members of the English department. Dr. James Roper gave a "Literary Travelogue through England" and Dr. John R. Benish, assisted by Margaret B. McKee of the 1954 senior class, spoke on "The New England Renaissance."

The Book Bazaar gave students an inexpensive chance to add worthwhile books to their personal libraries. "My Personal Library" was the subject of an essay contest sponsored by the library. Jane Barr won the honors as first place winner in the contest with Betty Chalmers and Kenneth Holditch tying for second.

Friday evening's full calendar included an illustrated talk on the "Aspects of Eighteenth Century French Literature" by John P. Le-Cog; madrigals presented by the students in the Department of Music; and a colloquy on "The Perils of Book Reviewing" by Paul Flowers of the Memphis Commercial Appeal and Robert Richards of the Memphis Press-Scimitar. That same evening it was announced that an organization called "Friends of the Burrow Library" had been founded. Anyone who wishes to know more about the organization can talk to Dr. Jay W. Stein, who has full information on the subject.

The Festival itself closed Saturday but the book exhibits were on display through Monday.

Test For Draft Deferment To Be Given December 9th

Full-time college students who are also selective service registrants may now apply for the written examination which will be given December 9, 1954, and April 21, 1955. Purpose of the test is to provide evidence for the use of local draft boards in considering deferment of a registrant from military service as a student.

Applications, mailing envelopes and bulletins of information can be obtained from any local selective service board. The test will be given at approximately 1000 examination centers, listed in the bulletin.

The one touchdown favorite Howard team never had a chance to get its offense rolling. Before they knew what had happened the Lynx had scored and were on their way to victory.

Higgason was terrific. He scored three touchdowns on runs of one, 25, and 31 yards and was the receiving end of a Billy Young pass that netted 57 yards and another six points.

Line Shines

The Southwestern line blocked like demons from the word go. As soon as the Lynx-cats got their hands on the pigskin, Coach Rick Mays took out the second team that started off the game and put in the little wizards, Young and Higgason plus their excellent forward wall. A Young pass to Jim "Crazy-legs" Turner for 20 yards and an off tackle burst by Higgason good for 22 yards more put the ball on Howard's four. From there the mighty mite scored the first of his four six-pointers. Young converted.

Turner Scores

Midway through the second period Southwestern got possession on its 25 and, with quarterback Young commanding, moved to the Howard 21 on short punches into the line. Another Young to Turner pass went for 17 yards and a play later Turner drove over.

After a Howard punt the Lynx took over and a 16 yard pass play from Young to Turner got them rolling again.

Higgason capped it off with a 25 yard ramble to pay-dirt. The kick was no good and at half time the score stood Southwestern 19—Howard 0.

Howard Moves

Howard got its forces rallied after the second half kickoff and scored on a 47 yard run by fullback Billy Jo Lovvorn behind the only blocking Howard displayed all day.

Howard got possession again on a fumble and an Anderson to Morris pass looked bad when Crawford Street came sailing in on Morris, who was on the goal line, to knock the pass from his hands. Again Turner was the man-on-the-spot as he grabbed the pigskin before it hit the ground and raced 20 yards up the sidelines before being stopped. The Lynx were forced to punt, but on the punt the Howard safety-man Ridley was hit so hard by Southwestern tank, uh, tackle Jim Gillis that the ball rolled free; end Ricky King pouncing on it for the Red and Black.

Moments later a fourth down gamble paid off as Young pulled a beautiful fake on the give or keep play and made the necessary yardage for the first down. On the next play Young passed to Higgason and the little flash literally ran over one tackler, rebounded off his own interference, and ran circles around his defenders for 31 yards and six more points. Young added the point after the touchdown. The score at

Something's Got To Go

"Man, I'm tired!" This is an expression common to most all of us right about now, and there's a good reason for it. If you're carrying an average load of sixteen semester hours, the rule book says you're supposed to spend more than thirty hours a week studying for these courses outside of the class room. Yet very few of us, save a few misguided upperclassmen taking tutorials, use anything close to nine hours a week for each course.

Too Many Extra-Curriculars?

We're still tired. When we really stop to think about it, however, it's obvious where the time goes. Southwestern is a small school with a big-school program. Theoretically, there's something here for every student—just enough people to go around, say ten or fifteen per organization—but the catch is that every student has more than one interest; and that, my friend, is what fouls up the works. In these first eight weeks we've had fraternity rush and pledging, Talent Night, three home football games and a couple out-of-town, the excitement and hard work of Homecoming with its displays and open houses, an untold number of official and off-the-record parties, dances, intramurals, the organization and first meetings of the myriad of clubs and societies, "and I just don't know what all." Before the Christmas respite we'll have much more of the same, with special choir performances, a night of music, and a beauty contest thrown in as added attractions. If you can honestly say that you've been in on only one of these strength-sappers, you must have been sick for the last eight weeks. The rest may be sick for the next eight weeks.

Sou'wester Feels The Blow

The brunt of this is always felt by the staff of the student newspaper when grade periods roll around. Last week, The Sou'wester lost two reporters, a feature writer, and a columnist, which is just about par for the course. Getting out four pages of copy every week has taken its toll. The executive staff members spend upwards of thirty hours a piece every week preparing The Sou'wester, a total exceeding the time they should spend preparing lessons.

Add up the time you spend doing these things. If you count the number hours that should be spent on important things as well as the hours that are spent on the things that matter less, the average is almost sure to climb above twenty hours a day. For some reason, we just can't make our bodies go that long.

Where To Draw The Line?

So somethin's gotta go. Here at the first eight-week grade period is the perfect time to take stock of our activities. We must realize that we simply can't do everything, that a line must be drawn and that right early, and that which seems important to us now is not always of lasting value. Man, I'm tired too.

Poochie Patters To Hollywood

(This is a continuation of the third in a series of articles by Miss Esther Jane Swartzfager in which she is describing her trip to Hollywood as one of five finalists in MBS's College Queen of America contest.)

Immediately after the curtain closed, Mr. Harry took us back stage to meet the stars of the show. He wanted to get some pictures of us plus the stars—and guess who came out of the blue? No one but the camera fiend that I knocked over my first day in H'wood. I thought perhaps he'd speak this time, and he did. He said, "Girls, let's have a little cheesecake. Hike your skirts." And that was all—still no smile.

Walking back to our table and ignored dates, I punched Mr. Harry rather hard and pointed to (very undignified but I was excited) a table next to ours where a group of movie stars were being seated. Mr. Harry laughed and said, "Well, at last you'll meet some stars." Dale Robertson was along and we all were eyeing him. When we sat down Mr. Harry turned to me and said, "How would you like to dance with D. Robertson?" I was afraid to answer; he was up and off to their table. Blushing, I turned to my All-American and tried to look most blasé. It didn't work. A deep voice from behind me spoke, "Pardon me," and I jumped. Turning around I was staring at Dale Robertson, who said, "Mr. Mynatt told me you're from Mississippi. I'm from Iowa and thought we should get together for this dance." Before I realized it, I was walking to the stairs that lead to that revolving stage, and I tripped on the second stair. The movie star helped me up the rest of them, and suddenly we were dancing, and I was in agony! I don't get embarrassed easily, but this was too much—first, Mr. Harry asking him to dance with me and then tripping on the stairs—too, too much! I wasn't following him too well, and

Tom Huff Is Band President

The Southwestern Band has its rehearsal each Tuesday and Thursday at 4:00 P.M.

Last week the first business session was held to elect officers. Those elected to serve in the capacity of president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer respectively, were: Tom Huff, Harriet Byrd, and Peggy Lyn Jones.

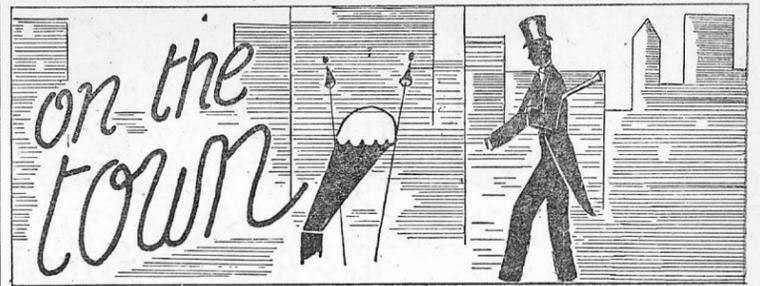

At the Southwestern vs. Howard football game Saturday, the band performed in full uniform. The first project of the Band Club will be to secure funds for new uniforms.

Since the band is to give a special performance at the dedication services of Neely Memorial Gym, the band will have an additional practice on Friday evening at 4:00 P.M. until after this performance.

Board of Directors O.K.'s Dr. T. K. Young Memorial

The members of the Executive Committee, Board of Directors of Southwestern, have approved the establishment of a memorial to Dr. Thomas K. Young, who for many years was a loyal supporter of Southwestern. The memorial will consist of a $6,000 professorship at Southwestern to be known as the Thomas K. Young Chair of English Literature.

President Peyton N. Rhodes has asked Dr. A. Theodore Johnson, Professor of English and Dean of Southwestern, to accept appointment as the first occupant of the Thomas K. Young Chair of English Literature.

with Scott Byrd

Dear fans, I truly appreciated the thousands of telegrams, letters, and post cards which I didn't receive last week when this column failed to appear, but which I'm sure you all meant to send. It's wonderful to wonder if you're all out there.

This week Memphis is waiting for all of you who got through the trial of eight-weeks tests. (A bitter tear for those of you who didn't.) Perhaps the biggest event is that ice maiden Sonja Henie and her troupe of eskimo-type dancers. They run—or rather skate—from November 11 through 17 at the Auditorium. Supporting Sonja, who was ten-time World Figure Skating champion and three-time Olympic winner, are Buddy Lalonde and a chorus of highly skilled performers. Watch for the production number "Gold Elegance" as a high spot.

Southwestern's Music Department presents Miss Lois Maer in the third of its excellent series of free faculty recitals at the College of Music, Sunday at three o'clock. Among other things, Miss Maer plans to rip into Beethoven's Opus 31 (not to be confused with Philip Wylie's).

First Orchestra Concert

Also at Southwestern — this time in "Hardly Auditorium" on Tuesday—the Orchestra will present its first concert of the season. Mary Anne Wachal will sing a ditty from THE MARRIAGE OF FIGARO and Martha Pipkin will do something or other from LOUISE. Cleda Hickey and Marilyn Stowers share solo piano honors for Rachmaninoff's "Concerto No. 2 in C Minor," which some of you may remember from RHAPSODY (it will be performed Tuesday without Elizabeth Taylor).

Lois Costello (not Lou) will return to familiar surroundings when she is presented with Don Glosser's orchestra, which begins a two-week engagement at Hotel Peabody Monday. Miss Costello sang there several years ago with Ray Pearl (not Minnie). Joy Coyler is the leader of an all-girl orchestra which finishes up a real gone engagement at the Skyway on Monday. Carolyn Rice gets this week's free passes.

On the heels of Sonja Henie at the Auditorium next Thursday will be Gina Bachauer, internationally famous Greek pianist. The only catch is that tickets to the Beethoven Club series (of which this is the second concert) are sold out.

Unsnowed By White Christmas

The movie scene is only so-so this week. WHITE CHRISTMAS with Bing Crosby and Danny Kaye goes into a third week at the Malco. More power to it I say, although I couldn't manage to sit through one complete performance of it.

Also held over is SABRINA at the Strand. Humphrey Bogart, Audrey Hepburn, and William Holden prance through this crazy mixed-up Cinderella story, which should delight the most demanding, even those who aren't utterly enchanted by Little Audrey.

Beautiful Ava Gardner as THE BAREFOOT CONTESSA enters the scene at the Palace with the support of Humphrey Bogart, Edmond O'Brien, and Valentina Cortesa. It's an unusual blend of comedy and drama, written and directed by Joseph L. Mankiewicz (and is reported to be a somewhat fictional account of the life of Rita Hayworth). I think you'll be interested.

More Mankiewicz

Another Mankiewicz venture, JULIUS CAESAR (written by William Shakespeare), returns to the Crosstown. It's a faithful reading of the play with John Gielgud superb as Cassius and Marlon Brando interesting as Anthony. The only catch is that it's a bit on the dull side.

Dale Robertson in SITTING BULL is at the State and Alan Ladd in DRUM BEAT is at the Warner. Ride 'em, Cowboys!

And if all that isn't excitement enough, you might traipse over and see the girls' volley ball games in the gym some of these nights. Thrilling just isn't the word for them. Honestly, Dad, that's all I can think of, except to go, go go—ON THE TOWN!

suddenly he crushed my foot— Then it was his turn to stammer and stutter. Remembering Emil Post, I let the man apologize (but personally I think it was my fault.) He was as clumsy as I and just as country. After this we got along famously. Everything was fine with the exception of my foot which I knew was broken. However, it wasn't broken, but it sure was flat! Soon the orchestra played the theme song from Moulin Rouge and the second show was about to start. We said a fond good-bye to the French waiter from Louisiana, and we hustled on. In the hustle, I lost my date. Regardless of where we went, Mr. Mynatt dragged me by the hand and with Mr. Mynatt dragging me I lost my date often. But this time, he was not in the car we came in. Mr. Harry said, "Oh, he's in the other car." "Let's go, Fred." We went, and I discovered that another All-American had lost his date. She was in the other car with my date, I hoped. His date was Marilyn, and he lost her when she went to call her fiance! So, this 9ll-American and I struck up a conversation. His name was Mario De Ray.

We arrived at "Don the Beachcombers" for our midnight snack and were met at the door by Don who presented us leis of baby orchids. The place was very beachcomberish and quite the atmosphere. After we had been seated (and dates returned to dates), Mario came up to me and asked me to dance. We did and all of a sudden he said, "Oh, there's Aldo—" I said, "Aldo who?" as he pulled me across the floor. I blinked hard as Mario began to talk to Aldo about Mom and Dad. Soon he remembered me and said, "Esther Jane, this is my brother, Aldo Ray." Well, this was it. Aldo is one of my favorite movie actors and here we were.

Before the night was over, all of us felt that Aldo was one of the party. But, Mr. Harry being most concerned over our health herded us to the hotel about 2:30 in the morning. His farewell words were, "See you at 7:30. We're going to tour H'wood and spend the afternoon at Paramount Studios. Good night." "You boys go home early."

As I undressed for bed I could hardly believe that we only had one more day in H'wood. At this moment the phone rang, and Jackie was most upset. She wailed, "Oh, Esther Jane, we've only got one more night — then back to school. I'm so tired I can't go to sleep— Can you?" I remember mumbling yes, and then I drifted off to sleep while visions of movie stars danced in my head . . .

Religious Seminar To Have Two Meetings This Month

On November 5, the Religious Seminar met in the library to discuss "The Christian's Attitude Toward Military Service." Leading the discussion were Nita Saunders and Lawrence Cater. Present to help iron out difficulties was Dr. Dan Rhodes. Various aspects of the topic were discussed, including the problems faced by conscientious objectors.

This campus organization meets once a month; but, due to the fact that it will be impossible to have a meeting during December, there will be two meetings in November. The subjects discussed are timely and of great interest to all.

Campus Challenges

Matthew 16:24-26

—Then said Jesus unto His disciples: If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross and follow me.

—For whosoever will save his life shall lose it; and whosoever will lose his life for my sake shall find it.

—For what is a man profited, if he shall gain the world and lose his own soul? Or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?

Probably one of the most difficult lessons for us as Christians to learn is to really deny ourselves. Although this is a basic principle of Christ's teachings, it is one which is many times hidden in the background of our lives. However, if we are to share the higher happiness pictured by Jesus, the first step is to change the seat of sovereignty from self to God. The old evangelists endeavored to exhort their hearers to "get right with God." To many that meant merely confessing their sins, pleading forgiveness, and then starting out with a clean slate. It does mean that, but much more also. To get right with God means to make Him the guiding power in our lives and to seek first of all, in every instance, His Kingdom. To get right with God means that we look up to Him as a Father whose will we desire to do, and not as a Santa Claus whose gifts will serve our purposes.

Each of us may fool ourselves into thinking that we have a fine relationship with God, but is He actually the propelling force in our everyday lives here at Southwestern? One of the best ways we can answer this question is to study our individual relationship with Him. Let's ask ourselves, Am I closer to God now than I have ever been in my life?

If we have learned to truly put ourselves in the background, and serve Christ, then our relationship with God should be continually growing stronger.

Joe Eades

Debate Team Begins Tourney Preparation

The Southwestern Debate team has begun its season. The first subject for debate is, Resolved: That the United States should extend diplomatic relations to Communist China.

Students out for the team are Holly Mitchell, Ken Silvey, Frank Stafford, and Bob Andrews. There is still plenty of time to join the debate squad and all interested persons are requested to contact Prof. Ray Hill.

Southwestern's team will go to Memphis State College November 19 and 20 to participate in the Tau Kappa Alpha Regional Tournament. About twenty schools are to take part in this tournament.

Tigers Oppose Lynx Tomorrow

Saturday afternoon the Sewanee Tigers will come to Fargason Field attempting to continue their previous winning ways over the Lynx and to win their first game of this season.

Although the Tigers have not yet won, they have not been beaten badly. It is their inability to score that has plagued them. Then too they have played some outstanding opponents in Centre, who beat them 21-7 making their final touchdown on the last play of the game, Millsaps, who only beat them 12-7, Howard, who won 13-6, and Mississippi College. They have also been victimized by Hampden-Sydney and Wabash, neither of whom they Lynx have played.

The Lynx, now with a record of two wins and three losses, will be out to repeat their sterling performance of a week ago. After the Hendrix victory, Millsaps rolled up 33 points on them, and the Maysmen are determined not to let it happen again.

For Sewanee the probable line-up will be: ends, Tebault at 170 pounds, and Horne at 175 pounds; tackles, Jones at 200 pounds and Cofer at 195 pounds; guards, McGee at 175 pounds and Spore at 175 pounds; center, Gillespie at 175 pounds; quarterback, McCutcheon at 170; right halfback, Palmer at 155 pounds; fullback, Doswell at 175 pounds; and left halfback Captain Parkes at 160 pounds, who was the outstanding player in the Tigers' victory over the Lynx last year.

Lynx Beat Howard

the end of the third quarter 26-7.

The Lynx cooled off a bit for the first half of the final stanza, but a Young to Higgason pass brought more joy to the fans. Young dropped back behind a solid forward wall and flipped a pass to Higgason in the flat at the Lynx 43. The Pine Bluff Express gathered it in and started down field on a run that would make any football fan in America stand up and cheer. The conversion by Young was good and the Lynx had it: 33-7.

Southwestern just did everything right. The line blocked like they never had before; the quarterbacks were excellent field generals; and the defensive backfield was inentenable. Add to these the little men—Coach Rick Mays, Billy Young and Jim Higgason—and you've got a win.

Kappa Alphas Sweep Flagball

KA has won Intramural Flag Ball without losing a game. Six games were played last week. KA played their first game of the season and defeated PiKA 50-0. Tommy Buford, Eric Mount, and Bob Kaufman all played good ball. The next day, PiKA again played and was defeated by SN, 36-6. Both teams played good defensive ball. The KA-SAE game was next and KA was the victor by a score of 42-6. Then KA played ATO in the highest scoring game of the year. KA won, 69-30. The KA passing offense proved the downfall for ATO. In the only tie game of the season, SAE and SN fought to a 24-24 deadlock. It was a good defensive game. In the last game of the season, KA beat SN 42-12. The game was pretty evenly played in the first half, but KA pulled away in the second half.

In winning, KA combined speed, passing, and good defense to beat their opponents. They were particularly good in running back kickoffs for touchdowns.

Each fraternity will choose a most valuable player who is to receive a medal. These men will be announced next week.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

by Dick Bibler

"Ok, men, the next play is DX-83. . . . Now, Bolivar, when you hear me yell "four," I'll give you the ball, then you try to get through the men wearing the Purple sweaters and then head for th' posts painted red and black."

Filmdom's Diana Lynn: "I think the Miracle Tip is the most modern filter . . . and L&M the best-tasting filter cigarette."

David Wayne, Stage & Screen: "L&Ms have the best filter of them all. Miracle Tip is right! There's nothing like it."

Mrs. Laddie Sanford, Socialite Sportswoman: "I love L&Ms. Wonderful filter—exceptional taste!"

No filter compares with
