Suffering Freshmen Still Jump At Upperclassmen's Orders

No, those aren't something that escaped from the zoo. Demonstrating the unique art of "goon hopping," freshman girls, puffing and blowing are returning to the dorm with a howling mob of upperclassmen at their heels.

The freshmen made their first appearance in the official garb before their superiors at breakfast Monday, September 22. Tagged with 8"x12" or larger placards giving pertinent data (i.e., name, home town and varying degrees of art work), the freshmen make it a simple duty for any upperclassman who justly feels that some act should be reported to the Women's Undergraduate Board or the S Club.

Chapeaux

In addition the boys wear the traditional black and red beanies on campus except in classes. The sweet and innocent expression supposedly accompanying ruffled baby bonnets seem to be lacking with the freshman girls. Instead there are books of hatred, embarrassment, or desire for revenge as some sophomore yells, "Hey, Freshman!"

Biggest "pain-in-the-neck" of the poor mistreated, undeserving "frosh" are the sophomores seeking revenge for their trials and tribulations of the preceding year.

Practical Duties

Just a few of the more practical duties of the underlings are mailing letters and bringing ice cream to the tired, worn seniors who can't make it back up to the line in the dining room.

Each evening the "frosh" prove that the younger generation is not losing its interest in the finer arts by entertaining royalty with exhibitions of dramatics, group singing, ball-room dancing, pantomime, and ballet. What a lovely sight—the happy couples whirling in waltz time to the haunting strains of "Good-night Irene." Some of the talent, such as the chorus-line, performed so well that they received special invitations for repeat performances before the entire student body.

Many of the boys, bewildered by the complexity of college life, have expressed their appreciation of the kindly, guiding influence of the "S-Club," and a healthy jaunt around the campus in the evening air is so stimulating! More than one freshman girl, too, has been heard to remark, "I could simply die when I think of going before the undergraduate board—it's such a great honor!"

It warms this reporter's upperclassman heart to see the youngsters eagerly await to obey his slightest whim and to hear them lament because hazing, like all good things, must end in a month or so.

But to Messrs. Cater, Walters, Allison, Poss, Davis, and Whatley, we should like to address this question: "What ever happened to that horse?"

KD's Elect

The Alpha Delta chapter of Kappa Delta sorority chose two new leaders Monday. Miss Marilyn Mitchell, a junior, was elected president. She is replacing Miss Sue Pingree, who, because of illness, will not return to Southwestern until next semester.

Miss Viola Deavours, of Laurel, Mississippi, has been selected as the new vice-president. She is replacing Mrs. Wayne Todd, the former M. T. Taylor, who is now with her husband in Austria.

The Kappa Delta's also named Miss Betty Lou Collins, rush chairman, Miss Becky Blanton, editor, Miss Betty Wade, treasurer, and Miss Patricia Riegle, assistant treasurer.

Results Of Important Election Made Public

The results of several elections have been made public by the Elections Commission since the last issue of the Sou'wester.

A convention was held to nominate two candidates for the office of Commissioner of Athletics, to fill the vacancy on the Student Council. Bennie Lamberth and Clark Young were chosen as the nominees of the convention, and in a general election the next day Lamberth polled a majority of the votes cast. Bennie has already taken his seat on the Student Council and assumed the presidency of SABA.

The Senior Class has chosen Betty Carter Doyle as its representative to the Student Council to fill the vacancy left by Sue Pingree. She was elected at a called meeting of the class last week.

Cheerleaders

Cheering was the order of the day last Saturday, for SABA held the cheerleader tryouts in Hardie Auditorium at 10:30. Five boys vied for three positions, while ten girls sought for four. President of SABA, Bennie Lamberth, introduced each candidate, who lead the student body in his favorite yell. After all the candidates had performed, they assembled on the stage, and the students were instructed to mark their ballots.

The Elections Commission announced later that the favorites were Millye Bunn, Elizabeth Carter, Dot Henning, Lisa Rollow, Truman Nabors, "Jip" Walters, and Chandler Warren. The others who tried out were Linda Becker, Betty Doyle, Bebe Haygood, Jennie Hurst, Nicki Lawton, and Mary Rodriguez.

The cheerleaders met early this week to practice yells for Saturday's game and to plan last night's bonfire and pep-rally. At this meeting they chose Chandler Warren to serve as Head Cheerleader. The cheerleaders said that they were expecting a large cheering section at today's game, to lead our team to victory.

HONOR ELECTION

At a special election in Chapel on Wednesday, the Student Body was asked to vote for either Mary Myers or Albert Evans for Vice-President of the Honor Council, to fill the position left vacant by Sue Pingree. The Council announced later that Albert had received the majority of the votes cast, and that he would assume the duties of that office as soon as possible.

TKA PLANS MADE

With five members of Tau Kappa Alpha returning to the campus, the forensics club is looking forward to one of its best seasons. No definite debate dates have been set, but it is hoped that several campus events will be scheduled this year.

The college debate topic for this season is "Resolved: That the Congress of the United States should enact a compulsory Fair Employment Practices Law." The national discussion topic is: "How can we most effectively combat the threat of communism?"

Professor Hill requests that anyone interested in debate, discussion, oratory, declamation, interpretive reading, or any other phase of forensics see him as soon as possible.

LYNX MEET MISS. COLLEGE IN DEBUT THIS AFTERNOON

by Don Ramier

The long-awaited day has finally arrived, and this afternoon at two, Southwestern will field its first football team since 1950. The Lynx will be attempting to regain its place of honor among the football squads of small colleges, and at the same time, start the athletic program on the road towards a good season.

Opening day foes are the Mississippi College Choctaws, from Clinton, a team that started its season with a win over Union University last weekend. Another factor that tends to place the Lynx in the role of the fighting underdog is the fact that Mississippi College has not been plagued with the discontinuance of football. They were playing games last year, while the Lynx squad was either lounging in the "Lair" or engaged in intramural activities.

Confidence

But, let's not count out our squad before the fight begins. There's not a man on the Southwestern team who is not confident of victory, including Coach Glenn Johnson, who is opening his first season at the helm of our football machine. "I don't like to predict outcomes, but you can bet our team will give them a good rugged battle to the finish," said Johnson. "I expect all of our injuries to be healed, and all of the boys to be in good shape by game time."

The game will be played at Fargason Field, as will all Southwestern's home games. This was decided upon last school term, when the students cast an overwhelming vote in favor of renewing football at Southwestern and pledged their support to the team. A concession stand will be operated by the Students Athletics Backing Association, and the newly-elected cheerleaders will of course be in action, in an effort to arouse the enthusiasm of the students and urge the team to its initial victory.

Progress

It was just a month ago that our football team met for the first time and started practicing together. But they've come a long way since that time. Evidence of that fact is their fine showing against Bethel College in the practice scrimmage of two weeks past.

Southwestern's backfield is one that is sure to go against almost any team it faces. Charles McAllister, a veteran of many years of football, is the steamroller of the squad, and he will handle most of the line-crashing assignments. Able assistance will be rendered by John Lawhorn, a freshman with great potentialities. Pete Street, "Smoky" Russell, and Dick Flaniken are break-away runners that can cut off some long runs, if given the proper interference. Bob Crumby, Frank Horton, and Jimmy McLin can be counted on to mastermind the play-calling and heave the aeriels.

Beef and Brawn

The line, although not so deep from the standpoint of replacements, will present a wall of beef and brawn that may well be impenetrable. Jim Gillis, Reg Germany, "Buddy" Bostick, and Bill Hughes will form the nucleus of the line, with Ray Tanner providing able support on defense. Wheatley Beard's return to the line-up from the injured list is sure to add to the strength of the line.

Two o'clock this afternoon is the time; Fargason Field is the place; Mississippi College is the opponent; and victory is the desire of every student and supporter. We'll see you there.

New Ballet Society of Memphis Has Met

The newly organized Ballet Society of Memphis held its first fall meeting at 8:00 P.M., Tuesday, September 30, in Hardie Auditorium. It was an open meeting to which the students and faculty of Southwestern were invited to witness four Sadler's Wells Ballet films.

The films include Steps of the Ballet, narrated by Robert Helpmann, Les Sylphides, and Concert Waltz. Featured were such ballet stars as Margot Fonteyn, Michael Somes, and Helpmann as well as the music of the London Philharmonic.

Ballet Society was organized last April and has already grown to a membership of seventy-five. Prof. Raymond S. Hill, president of the group, has announced that a special student membership is available to all high school and college students. Student membership dues are three dollars annually; adult membership, five dollars.

Future Meetings

Future meetings will be closed to all but members only. Special films, lectures, and dance demonstrations are being arranged for these meetings, so all who are interested in ballet and other forms of concert dance are urged to become active Ballet Society members.

Preparations are also underway for a dance concert program to be presented in late November. Several original ballets are to be the feature of this program. Anyone interested in taking part in this concert as dancer, designer, or musician, please contact Professor Hill.

Interfrat Council Sets Rush and Pledge Rules

The Southwestern Interfraternity Council met last week and decided to adopt the following rules for fraternity rushing and pledging. It was necessary to change the former rules due to conflicts with other scheduled events.

These regulations supercede all others and are effective until October 15, which is the day of pledging.

1. All rush parties will be held Monday, October 13, and Tuesday, October 14. No other parties are to be held, and these must be held in the Fraternity Lodge. (In the event of any misunderstanding, the Council will decide what constitutes a party.) The rushees will be divided into three groups of equal size and will go to the parties in the order prescribed in the schedule. On Monday the Fraternities will issue invitations to the rushees, who must attend all parties to which they are invited. On Friday the rushees have

We've Got It; Support It

Fargason Field this afternoon is the scene of the Southwestern Lynx' first football game of the 1952 season. The Lynx will meet the Mississippi College Choctaws in what may prove to be our first victory after a year's absence of football.

Although Southwestern does not subsidize athletics, a fine and a winning team has been built through the cooperation of the Athletic Department with the Administration.

After the Student Body voted almost unanimously for the return of football, the Administration wasted no time in providing funds and spared no efforts in interesting new students in our school—all this was done to provide us with a football team.

We gave Our Pledge

The only thing asked of us in return was that we give our full support to this program and to the team. This we pledged to do—and now the time has come to do it.

SABA and the cheerleaders have worked hard to provide refreshments for those attending the game and a large cheering section to support the team in the form of oral encouragement. They deserve our applause for the pep-rally, the bonfire, and their enthusiasm.

We have already shown our fighting spirit. Let's keep this spirit alive for this game and throughout the season.

Let's gather together the Student Body as one, attend the game, support our team, and WIN!

Is It Really Neely Hall?

For almost as long as Neely Hall has stood in its present surroundings, students have year after year complained violently about the food that was served there. The dining hall had assumed such names as "Ptomaine Tavern," "Poison Parlor," and "Needy Hall." Some of the complaints may have been exaggerated, but, for the most part, students were warranted in their criticism. The meals had already been paid for, so day after day, students reluctantly trudged into the dining hall, gulped their food down in five minutes, hurrying as fast as they could to avoid the taste, and congregated on the cafeteria steps to compare complaints concerning the current meal.

But for the student body of 1952-53, a new era has dawned in the way of dining hall management, in the well-balanced and enjoyable meals, and in the general attitude of of the dormitory students toward the cafeteria service. The new students are lucky; those returning as upperclassmen are grateful! Mr. Pack is taking a personal interest in the students and their desires concerning the food; he welcomes any suggestions, and is cooperating to the utmost in making Neely Hall a place that is desirable and one to which students will look forward to going at meal time. His goal is to satisfy; ours should be to cooperate with him in his efforts.

Mr. Pack and Miss Bracken, we thank you!

LETTER TO THE EDITOR—

Hughes Clears Honor Question

I enjoyed reading your editorial on the Honor System in last week's paper. The Honor Council welcomes all criticism, and your article touched on several prevalent conditions which I would like to explain.

Your criticism of our election system was based on a false assumption. The Honor Council nominates for each office, but at the class election meetings additional nominations may be made from the floor, except in the Freshman Class. The members of the Council are automatically re-nominated each year. You suggested that the nominations of the President, Vice-President, and Secretary should be made by the spring nominating conventions, so that the Student Body would not have to abide by dictates of a thirteen-member body. These conventions consist of thirteen members, and the Honor Council certainly knows more about the qualifications needed in officers than the Fraternity and Sorority delegates do.

You stated that the Honor Council is all-powerful in expelling students for honor violations. We feel that this is as it should be, and therefore we are opposed to a faculty advisor. The minute a faculty member becomes a part of the Honor Council, then the Council ceases to be a student-run organization. If we put an advisor on the Council we might as well abolish the Honor Council as such.

Secrecy

As to the matter of secrecy, we know that knowledge has been leaking out somewhere. We have tried to prevent this and find that our weakest point lies in the person expelled. He is free to discuss the trial, since he is no longer in school. The reason for each person's testifying at a different time is based on secrecy also. Likewise this encourages people to report violations which they would not do if there was no secrecy clause or independent testimony.

We hope that the present system is getting its job done, and we feel that the Honor System is functioning successfully. I might add that we are going to have a meeting soon for revising the constitution, and I would be happy to receive any suggestions or criticisms from students.

Sincerely,
Bill Hughes, President
The Honor Council

Editor's note: Thank you, Mr. Hughes, for your informative comments. I hope they help in some way to clear the misunderstanding of the Honor System that one finds so often on the campus. I believe whole-heartedly in the Honor System, but I believe also that it should be explained fully, along with the reasons for its being that way, to all students—in Chapel if necessary. This might help bring the true function of the Council from the shadows into the light and create more harmony and cooperation between it and the Student Body.

Men's Intramurals To Begin Soon

The intramural sports program will begin October 3, with the opening of the all-school tennis tournament.

On October 6, a round robin horseshoe tournament will begin, followed on October 20, by touch football. The remainder of the first semester activities will include volleyball, table tennis, and basketball.

Coach Maybry needs referees for the touch football games. Any students interested should contact him.

New Members Added To Faculty And Staff

Southwestern has been very fortunate in having added to its staff and faculty several new members. Some of these have been here previously as professors and others as students.

Dr. D. M. Amacker is a very well known figure on the campus already. He was on the faculty for many years and has now returned after a year's absence. Last year he was at his home in Lake Charles, Louisiana, where he ran for the state legislature. Dr. Amacker received his A.B. at Princeton and a B.A. and M.A. at Oxford University. He is one of the most outstanding speakers to civic and religious groups in Memphis.

Mrs. Ann W. Boatner is one of the new members of the Library staff this year. She went to Sweetbriar, Southwestern, and received a B.S. in English at Memphis State. She taught at Messick School. She was also here in the library in 1948.

Miss Suzanne Johnson is the other new member of the Library staff. She attended DePauw University where she received her B.A. and Carnegie Institute where she received her M.L.S. Before she came to Southwestern this year, she was in the library at Kennedy Hospital. She is the daughter of Southwestern's Coach Glenn Johnson.

Rev. W. T. Reveley is our new chaplain. All of the students who don't remember him and know him certainly should get to know him. He received his B.A. at Hampton and his B.D. at Union in Richmond. His home is at 1732 Tutwiler where he lives with his wife and two children. He has been at Duke for the three years since he left Southwestern.

Dr. David E. Matthews is the new associate professor of physics. He received his A.B. at West Kentucky State College and his M.A. at Ohio State University. He went to Vanderbilt, also, where he received his Ph.D. This last summer he worked at Oak Ridge in the laboratory and his specialty is atomic physics.

Miss Emily Shaw is the new instructor in biology. She graduated from Southwestern in 1951 with a B.S. in biology. She completed work on her masters at Peabody and Vanderbilt. Here at Southwestern she was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Chi Beta Phi, and Torch.

Mr. Jack Frankhouser is the new leader of our band. He, also, graduated from Southwestern in the class of '51. Besides being in charge of the band, he is teaching first year theory and brass instruments. Since graduation he has been in the air force and has done graduate work at the University of Michigan.

Miss May M. Harding is doing some very important and new work here at Southwestern. She is in charge of Adult Education programs. She received her B.A. in math in 1948 here at Southwestern. Before she came this year she was the Memphis area representative for the Great Books Foundation of Chicago.

Miss Ida Williams is the new director of girls' physical education. She received her B.S. and M.A. degrees from Peabody. She has taught in Tennessee and Florida. For the past two years she was at the Martin Branch of the University of Tennessee. She is from Erwin, North Carolina, and this is the first time she has come to Southwestern, so let's really make her welcome.

Miss Erlene Downs is the new Assistant to the Dean of Women. She graduated here in 1951, receiving her A.B. in Bible. She was in Torch, head of the Student Counselors, President of the Y.W.C.A., on the Women's Undergraduate Board and in Who's Who in American Colleges. This last year she was D.R.E. at the First Presbyterian Church in Paducah.

Mr. W. R. Junkin, who was a former professor here at Southwestern, has now returned to teach a course in Accounting. Mrs. A. H. Cable is the new housemother at Voorhies and Mrs. Gilliam is her assistant. At Evergreen this year to watch over the freshman girls is Mrs. Paul Watson.

In behalf of the students of Southwestern The Sou'wester wants to welcome the new faculty and staff and hope they will have a good year.

CAMPUS CHALLENGES

by Douglas Marsh

This column, during the next few months, is going to be devoted to problems encountered by the student as he endeavors to follow the teachings of Christ on a college campus. There will be no apologies for the enormous assumption that Christ is life. We hope no spouting of obvious platitudes; and no concessions to undergraduate secularism. Those who object to anything religious will have to look elsewhere—although we hope they won't—because this column is going to be about the Christian religion and what it means, or ought to mean, to college students.

In this first column, we want to deal with the problem of getting started in college. Most people come to college with a fair religious background, but for some unaccountable reason a great many students seem to think that the beginning of college signals the end of all that kind of thing—that church and Sunday school and Bible reading and prayer are all right for the simple folk at home, but are completely out of place in the new sophisticated life of the undergraduate. Nothing could be more childish or more preposterous, and nothing is more typical.

To the committed Christian, college does not choke out the spiritual life, it strengthens it. New ideas do not call for the junking of religious beliefs, but simply for their reconsideration and occasionally for their revision.

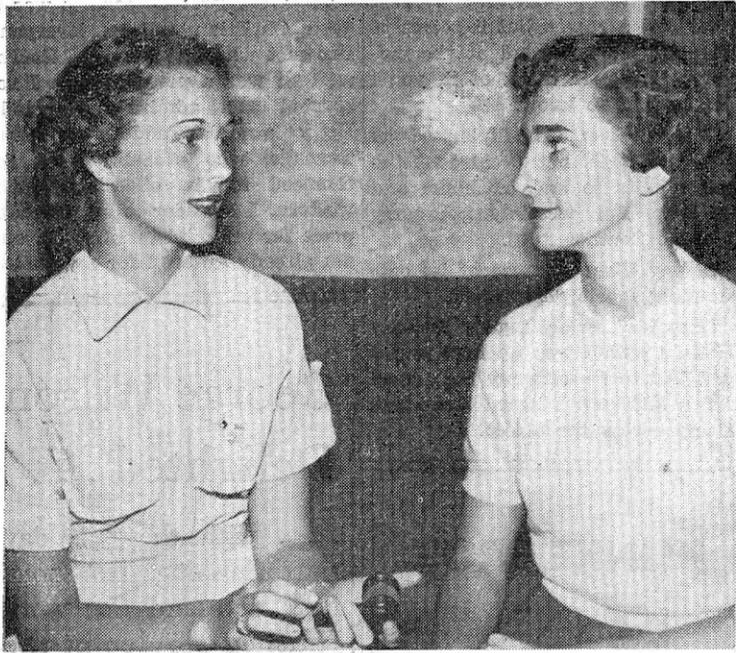

We hope this year's new students won't fall prey to collegiate secularism, to the cults of intellectual snobbery, or to adolescent debunking of all things religious.

We hope you'll get out of that bed Sunday morning and go to church. And don't just go; let the church know you're available for some work that needs to be done. Blow the dust off that Bible and use it for something more than an ornament. Establish a regular schedule for prayer and serious thinking about your problems. Make up your mind that these four years are going to be a real adventure with God—a real victory for Christ in your life.

Live with a sense of your need of God and his mercy.
Live with a faith that God's comfort is enough.
Live without pushing other people around, but accepting your place.
Live with a genuine desire for righteousness in your life and in the world.

Live in the exercise of mercy and compassion toward all men.
Live honestly and sincerely all out for God.

Open House Primes Pep For Initial Game

Victory Dance—
“Fight, Lynx, fight!” was the spirit last night at the ATO open house, honoring the Lynx football team before the first game of the season. The open house, held from six to eight, preceded a bon fire and pep-rally. President Jack Worthington and the other ATO officers welcomed the guests and invited them into the house. Dancing, eating, and general revelry was enjoyed by all. Let's hope that this same spirit and interest continues throughout the season.

Big victory dance! The “S” Club is sponsoring an informal dance tonight in the gym from nine to twelve. The price of admission is 75c drag and 50c stag. The money from the dance will go to the “S” Club's project of the year—a building fund, aiding the athletic department. Not only will there be dancing but entertainment as well—the Freshmen will perform! Dr. and Mrs. R. C. Hon will be the official chaperons. Everyone is cordially invited—especially all Freshmen. Let's all turn out in full force and make our first victory dance a real ball.

New Initiates

Kappa Omicron chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi initiated two pledges, Monday, September 24, at its first formal meeting of the year. The new members are Beverly Mayhall and Carolyn Williamson. AOPi is proud to welcome these girls into membership.

Beta Sigma chapter of Zeta Tau Alpha re-pledged “Boop” Sloan last Wednesday afternoon at a formal meeting. “Boop” pledged the first semester of last fall, but was unable to return to school the second semester of last year, so she was repledged this semester.

Kappa Sigma pledged “Buddy” Bostick last week. “Buddy” attended Southwestern last year, but he did not go out for rush.

Transfer Greeks

Quite a few transfer students who are already members of fraternities and sororities came to Southwestern this fall. They are Reg Germany and Ray Tanner, Kappa Sigma; Omar Smith, Kappa Alpha; Susan Fulmer and Helen Gilliland, Chi Omega; Pete Street and Bill McLure, SAE; Don Morgan, Sigma Nu; Martha Holcombe, Zeta Tau Alpha; and John Kurts, Pike.

(those who had not, prior to June 1, 1952, completed twelve hours of work at Southwestern) may enter a Fraternity House at any other time except to attend a social function to which the entire student body is invited. New men students violating this rule will not be allowed to pledge a Fraternity until the beginning of the second semester on February 4, 1953. Any Fraternity guilty of violating this rule will be fined $25.

The Interfraternity Council urges all students to comply with these rules so that this year's rushing will be a successful as that in the past. The penalties on these rules will be rigidly enforced. Any violations should be reported promptly to the Council.

The Women's Pan-Hellenic has decided not to change its dates for rush parties or pledging, since they do not conflict with any other scheduled events. The rush parties will be held on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, October 15-17; and pledging will be on Saturday, October 18, with open houses that night.

From Austria, To Germany, To The U.S.A., Students' Interests Have Same Pattern

by Mary Devlin

“Platonic love would be as easy as learning to swim in three easy lessons, my mail.” This is what the sound waves sent my way as I sat down at the lunch table with Erwin Rothansl, a junior from Vienna, Austria. It was not long before I also learned that Erwin has very definite likes and dislikes. Take peanut butter for example—if you want to make an enemy, just serve him a peanut butter sandwich. To make a life-long enemy, follow up that peanut butter sandwich with baked sweet potatoes.

For those of you who have not met Erwin I shall endeavor to introduce you to him right here and now. He looks just like you other Southwestern eds with brown hair and brown eyes. He is studying here on a scholarship through the Institute of International Education. At the time Erwin applied for this scholarship, he was studying in the University of Vienna, College of Trade. Under this university's plan he was able to carry forty-two semester hours of work. Class attendance is not required; the student “digs out” the information for himself. Examination is the proof of the student's work.

Scholarship

The scholarship which Erwin earned required outstanding work in many different areas of life; academic superiority alone is not sufficient. Erwin's application for the scholarship passed the first testers, and he then went before a selection board composed of both Austrians and Americans. Here he was given a thorough examination in history and contemporary affairs. After he met this board's requirements, his papers were sent to the Institute of International Education for the final approval. Then his qualification papers were sent to the United States schools supporting the exchange student program. Three weeks before sailing date Erwin was notified that he had a scholarship to study at Southwestern. He procured a visa and sailed from Cherbourg, France, August 1, on the Queen Elizabeth.

First Defeat

On August 5 he landed in New York City for his first visit to “the States.” His battle with our mechanical devices started at once. He stepped into a “pay phone” to make a long-distance call. The operator, after several attempts, gave up trying to explain the “how” of the thing to him and said, “I'll refund your nickel.” Erwin, knowing that only a wire connected him with the operator, snapped back, “I'll bet you will!” Imagine his bewilderment when the device coughed up his nickel.

After being defeated by the pay phone Erwin went to the Hotel Henry Hudson, which was his headquarters during the days he toured New York. After he had satisfied his curiosity there, he went to Cincinnati where he spent three weeks with a family which he knew through a program of experiment in international living. Under this same plan, an American student will spend some time with Erwin's family in Austria.

Detroit gave Erwin the key to its many manufacturing plants, and he spent many hours studying the system of mass production. The precision timing of the assembly line held a fascination for him, as did the perfected organization and the self-sufficiency of the plant. Next Erwin went to Buffalo, New York, where he felt the spray of Niagara

by Chandler Warren

Heinz Probst was leaning over his study table piled with books when I went in to see him. He offered me a seat, took out a big yellow pipe in the Sherlock Holmes tradition, and leaned back in his chair with the air of a professor just beginning a three hour tutorial.

Heinz lives in Neuweid, Germany, which is on the Rhine River, just eight kilometers from the French border. His schooling there included four years of elementary school and nine years of gymnasium or high school. He has had one year of post high school work at the University of Bonne.

Scholarship

I was interested to find out how he got his scholarship to study in this country and he told me that he was one of about four thousand applicants of which four hundred would be allowed to come over to the United States. After passing two exams, one before a group of German professors and one before a board of American judges, he received his grant.

Heinz had no choice about his college in this country. Each of the winners was placed in some college around the nation. He said that they were everywhere, “Harvard, Yale, Mississippi.” The one at Ole Miss is a friend of his. However, he likes Southwestern very much. He thinks the students and faculty have been very friendly and have tried to help him in every way they could.

His scholarship allows him one year of study here, and then he will return to Germany and finish his study of law at the University of Munich.

The Trip Over

About his trip over to this country he told me many things. He came across the Atlantic by plane and landed in New York. A one day's visit was all he was allowed but he said that he spent the whole day walking and looking. He thinks it is a beautiful city, and the tall buildings are not like anything in Europe. His one criticism is “all that advertising, especially along Broadway.” “You don't know where to look first.”

Heinz left New York by train and came to Phoenix City, Alabama, along with ten other German students. They spent five weeks visiting in the homes of American families in Phoenix City before leaving for school.

I asked him what he thought the main difference between the German University and an American college was, his reply: “I found out that the professors in Germany don't know the students. They come to class, deliver a lecture, and leave, never bothering to know the members of the classes.” Heinz believes he likes the system of the students and the faculty knowing one another.

And too, he said that in Germany the students are given assignments to do and books to read, but no one ever checks to see if they have done it. In a nutshell no one cares. “That's what we call academic freedom,” he chuckled.

Falls as he viewed this marvel of nature. Memphis was his next goal.

Memphis

The second week of September, Erwin's train pulled into the Memphis terminal; he had arrived at his new home. A taxi ride down the tree-arched parkway brought him to his college. In a few short minutes Erwin found himself in his room and began to unpack. Now he is an American college student.

Erwin is many miles and many experiences from his family and homeland; but when the inevitable is asked, he has an appropo response: “Yes, I am home sick; that's why I left home.”

Rush Rules—

the option of attending only those parties which they want to. Any Fraternity guilty of violating this rule will be fined $25 and have its house closed for six months. New men students violating this rule will not be allowed to pledge a Fraternity until the beginning of the second semester on February 4, 1953.

2. No more than 35c per rushee, per day, is to be spent by the fraternities. This is to be based on the total number of rushees. Any Fraternity guilty of violating this rule will be fined $25.

3. Only alumni, members, affiliates, and pledges may attend the rush parties. Any Fraternity guilty of violating this rule will be fined $25.

4. No money will be spent on new men from September 1, 1952, until October 15, 1952, except at rush parties as designated in Rule No. 2. Any Fraternity guilty of violating this rule will be fined $25 and have its house closed for six months.

5. No upperclassmen, except his roommate, may enter a new student's room between 10:00 p.m. and 7:30 a.m. from September 21 until after pledging October 15. W.A.A. Makes Intramural Plans

The Women's Athletic Association is wasting no time in getting into action. A full calendar of events has been planned that will provide plenty of activity throughout the year. A new feature on the sports scene is the scheduling of games in the major sports with other colleges.

Basketball in the form of a round robin tournament will start off the sports season in October. The ping-pong contests will also be held in October. Badminton doubles and singles will be played in November, and volleyball will wind up the winter sports with a double elimination tournament in December.

Spring Sports

Tennis, both doubles and singles, will be played in the spring as soon as the weather permits. Archery will take place in April. The round robin softball tournament will begin in April and continue into May. The last event will be the track meet in May, at the conclusion of which the W.A.A. overall trophy will be presented to the winning sorority. Also on that day the new members of Pan-Olympic, honorary athletic organization, will be announced.

The W.A.A. is rigidly enforcing the rule that students who have not fulfilled their physical education requirement and are not taking physical education are not permitted to participate in the various competitions.

Under the direction of Miss Ida Williams and Miss Madelyn Richardson, the W.A.A. is looking forward to its best year!

Why Did You Choose SOUTHWESTERN?

Bill Hamer: I can't think; so I came here to learn how!

Gay Rush: Not knowing, I'd hesitate to say!

Lawrence Cater: Julian Nall issued good propaganda!

Bob Goodson: I was looking for a small co-ed church school, and Southwestern was my choice.

Clark Young: I was looking for a "crip" course, but I didn't find it!

Bill McAtee: Family tradition.

David Davis: Couldn't ward off relatives' influence!

Bennie Lamberth: Because of all the fine, wholesome, clean-cut, All-American people whom I knew would become my associates here.

Charles McAllister: It was love at first sight!

Mary Ellen Chambliss: I must have had a reason but it seems to have slipped my mind at the moment. If I ever think of it, you'll be the first to know.

Bill Hughes: I had planned on going to Yale, but decided at the last minute to stay at home and go here. I'm certainly not sorry I chose Southwestern.

Sidney Vise: Because of its outstanding music department.

"Poochie" Swartzfager: Because Helen Cynthia was up here and I just had to be with my big sister!

Bill Mitchell: I heard there was a zoo across the street!

"Jip" Walters: I heard it was a good Christian college. Everyone I've met who had attended Southwestern was a person whom I respected and admired; especially Betty Ann McFadden and Mac Turnage, who probably most influenced me in choosing Southwestern. I consider it an excellent place for pre-ministerial study, and am already grateful for my choice.

CHESTERFIELD

FIRST PREMIUM QUALITY CIGARETTE TO OFFER BOTH REGULAR & KING-SIZE

ASK YOUR DEALER FOR CHESTERFIELD — EITHER WAY YOU LIKE 'EM

★ CONTAINS TOBACCOS OF BETTER QUALITY AND HIGHER PRICE THAN ANY OTHER KING-SIZE CIGARETTE

BOTH regular and king-size Chesterfields are premium quality cigarettes and come in the smart white pack.

BOTH contain only those proven ingredients that make Chesterfields the best possible smoke: the world's best tobaccos, pure, more costly moistening agents (to keep them tasty and fresh), the best cigarette paper that money can buy — nothing else.

BOTH are much milder with an extraordinarily good taste and, from the report of a well-known research organization — no unpleasant after-taste.

BOTH are exactly the same in all respects. There is absolutely no difference except that king-size Chesterfield is larger — contains considerably more of the same tobaccos — enough more to give you a 21% longer smoke, yet costs very little more.
