Butterworth April Fool Play Author

She's fickle, she's flirtatious, she collects boys for a hobby — that's Cherry, the heroine of this year's April Fool Carnival Play, "To Rack, Ya' Just Gotta' Rock." If the play had a moral, Cherry would probably come to no good end, but since the only visible moral is that you, too, should inherit two million dollars in oil wells, there is a happy ending — or is it? The show is written and directed by John Butterworth III and the musical direction is under Ann Caldwell.

"It's basically a simple plot," the author said, and two hours later concluded with, "So I suppose you could say that it's the story of a fickle girl, Cherry (whom the title refers to) and several guys: Bill, the campus rogue, his bodyguard Tag whose real name is Taglianelli James, the football hero, and Twig (human) who has an intellectual bent. If you like gore, there are two fist fights; of course love blooms all over the place, and a little bit of philosophy almost rears its ugly little head in the last scene.

A fraternity pin and many boys float through the four scenes of the semi-musical. "There are several songs and an almost continuous piano accompaniment," said Butterworth. The principal members of the cast have not all been announced yet, but a tentative partial listing includes Dot Henning as Cherry and Sonny Colvert as "Tag."

Attention Reporters!

A reminder to the reporters: DEADLINE IS TUESDAY AT 1 O'CLOCK! Let's get on the ball and get the articles in on time.

Check Absences

Students may obtain information about their absence record in class and chapel Tuesday afternoon, March 23, from 1:30 to 3:30 in Room 100 of Palmer Hall.

Request for excuses of absence must be personally presented to the Dean.

Religious Emphasis Week Draws Varied Comment

Dan Adams

Southwestern was set back on its collective heels this week as it considered "A Theology for Christian Living" during the Spring Religious Emphasis Program. Students, charged with carrying to the world a message of hope, were given the life of Christ as the perfect example of living a belief. The principal speaker, Dr. William Orr of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, took back to his Seminary an astonishing story of student progress in the South. But the main jolt of the week came when Dr. Orr suggested to the Faculty that Southwestern would be much better off if some other faiths, such as Catholic or Jewish, were represented on our Faculty.

Highlighting the week were the Discussion Groups held after each morning's Convocation. The leaders were U. S. Navy Chaplain J. W. Robb, Presbyterians R. S. Hough and W. D. Brown, H. C. Gabhart from McLean Baptist Church, and D. E. Watts from Calvary Episcopal Church. Presiding in the Groups were Bobbie Thomas, Mary Williams, Mary Ann Hackleman, Peggy Fitch and Don Williamson.

Religious Emphasis Week has drawn varied response from all quarters. Student reaction has

Alumnae Give $1000 Check To Mrs. Townsend

A $1000 check was presented last Saturday afternoon to Margaret Huxtable Townsend, the only dean of women Southwestern ever had until her retirement as dean last year, and who is retiring this year after 35 years as a member of the faculty of Southwestern.

The gift, which came as a complete surprise to Mrs. Townsend, was given her by her former women students and presented to her at a tea and alumnae organization meeting held in Burrow Library.

Mrs. James L. Ries gave Mrs. Townsend a scrapbook filled with notes and letters of love and congratulations from her former women students and handed her the $1000 check. The alumnae have also commissioned an artist to paint her portrait for the school. The re-activation of the alumnae, which she had first organized in 1929, is also in her honor.

The afternoon program opened with a history of the alumnae given by Miss Margaret Williams, supervisor of the elementary city school, with special tribute paid to the founder, Mrs. Townsend, and the first president, Mrs. J. Karr Hinton. Following, there was an address by a former student of Mrs. Townsend, Dr. Helen Gordon, dean of women at Louisiana State University.

KA Wins Bridge Tourney

For the third year in a row the Kappa Alphas have won the Sigma Nu Bridge Tournament. The trophy thus finds a permanent home in the KA house. Second place winners this year were the Kappa Sigmas who finished a scant three points behind. The sororities failed to place as the SAE Fraternity came on to take third place.

On the winning KA team were Chandler Warren, Buck Looney, Charlie Andrews, Amel Peterson and Lloyd Templeton. The Tournament Director was Mrs. Allene Latura who is licensed by the American Contract Bridge Association.

Decision on Changes in Election Plan Postponed

In a burst of disregard for parliamentary procedure, the Student Body on Thursday moved to wait until next week to decide on the new plan for student elections. The motion, as presented by the Student Council, was properly made and seconded. The floor was opened for discussion, and, when there was none, the question was called for. Tellers were appointed to count the vote by rows. In the midst of the count, discussion and a wave of new motions buried the original vote in confusion. Tellers on one side of the house reported 100 in favor of the original motion and 13 against it, but the count was not completed on the other side. As time ran out the assembly moved by voice vote to table the question for one week.

ODK Tapped Two Juniors

Holly Mitchell and Frank Horton, both juniors, were tapped by ODK, men's honorary leadership fraternity, yesterday morning. Joe Eades was named outstanding sophomore. Mr. Don Warren, vice-president of Stratton-Warren Hardware Co. of Memphis, and Toof Brown, president of S. C. Toof and Co. (Printing and Lithographing), were tapped into honorary membership for outstanding leadership in civic affairs.

Frank Horton was ODK's outstanding sophomore last year, has played football one year, basketball three years (being captain this year), and baseball three years. He has received the athletic committee's Athlete Award and is Vice-president of the S Club. He has been past Warden of SAE and is an economics major.

Holly Mitchell is on the Westminster Fellowship council, is the Religious Seminar's PRC representative, chairman of PRC worship committee, secretary of the Interfraternity Council, and a member of the Debate Team. He has been past Treasurer and is present Vice-president of Sigma Nu. He is also a member of Eta Sigma Phi, (classical languages) and Tau Kappa Alpha (forensic) fraternities and is a philosophy major.

Joe Eades is president of the sophomore class and Sigma Nu rush chairman. He was on the Sou'wester staff last year and is a philosophy major.

Changes Made In Meal Hours

Mr. Pack has announced a slight change in serving hours for the Saturday evening meal. Beginning tomorrow the line will be open between 5:30 and 6:15. Our dietitian, Mrs. Adele Paulson, emphasizes the fact that this is for Saturdays only, and supper will be served as usual at 5:00 on week nights. The Sunday evening meal will be served from 5:45 to 6:15 for those who do not eat elsewhere. These hours are experimental but will be maintained if they prove satisfactory.

CHAPEL SPEAKERS

Monday—The Hon. Walter Judd, Congressman from Minnesota

Tuesday—Coach Johnson

Thursday—Unannounced

The first convention will meet, as it has done in the past, with one representative from each fraternity, sorority, and independent group. They will draw up a ticket, including the three Student Body Officers and the five Commissioners.

The second convention, meeting at a later date, will be composed of the vice-president of the Student Body, who is the head of the Elections Commission, and of twenty-two delegates named by the Student Council. The four freshmen, five sophomores, six juniors, and seven seniors will be chosen for their lack of fraternity or sorority prejudice, and for their insight into school affairs. These will make out the second ticket.

Election Date

The election will take place in the first or second week of April. Although the Black and Red tickets will be presented, the nominations will not be closed. As before, any student can run for an office on petition. The candidates will have a week or less to campaign.

Following the Student Body election, the individual classes will meet for the elections of their own officers. There will be no slates. Candidates will become eligible to run only by petitions of twenty-five names.

Exchange Papers

The Sou'wester carries on an exchange program with more than twenty high schools and colleges from at least ten states. The copies we receive will be available in the library for anyone who wishes to look at them. The exchange list includes: The George Washington University, Washington, D. C.; East Tennessee State College, Johnson City, Tenn.; California Institute of Technology, Pasadena, California; Lambuth College, Jackson, Tenn.; Millsaps College, Jackson, Miss.; Tulane University, New Orleans, La.; Francis T. Nicholls High School, New Orleans, La.; Arkansas State Teachers College, Conway, Arkansas; Greensboro College, Greensboro, N. C.; Memphis State College, Memphis, Tenn.; Whitehaven High School, Whitehaven, Tenn.; Middle Tennessee State College, Murfreesboro, Tenn.; Bessemer High School, Bessemer, Alabama; Tennessee Polytechnic Institute, Cookeville, Tenn.; All Saints' Episcopal Junior College, Vicksburg, Miss.; Murray State College, Murray, Ky.; East High School, Memphis, Tenn.; Messick High School, Memphis, Tenn.; and Harding College, Searcy, Arkansas.

Going Up?

Our foot is poised in mid-air. Are we going to take the first step up or are we going to fall back before we even get started? We have a long ladder to climb to the solution of our campus problems. Are we going to get to the top? Are we actually trying to get there?

The changes proposed in the plan for the election of Student Council officers can be our first step up if we will just take the step. Perhaps the reason for the confusion during the attempted vote in chapel Thursday was due to a lack of understanding the proposed change. If that was the reason, read carefully the details of the proposed plan, found on page one.

Does anyone have any further constructive ideas? We devoted a great deal of space in our March 5th issue to the fraternity question and various matters arising from it in hopes that we would invoke problem solving ideas. Everyone seems to be as lacking in intelligent thoughts on this matter as they are on class work.

If we sincerely want to improve our school, let's put on our thinking caps and get to work.

Campus Challenges

It took several inspired men, almost a hundred years and a lot of paper to record, and hand down to us all the information we have today about Jesus Christ; who He was; what He did; and the life He lived; and even all this doesn't reveal to us every thing there is to know about Him. But it does reveal to us all we need to know.

We just got through listening to a man, who is very dedicated and consecrated to the faith in Jesus Christ, tell us some of the characteristics and facts about Him and His life. But Dr. Orr would be the first one to say that he had not told us all there was to tell. Yet the fact remains, no matter what we know or think about Him, that Jesus IS. And in simply facing that fact we can face ourselves with these two questions at least.

"Who do I think He is?"

"What am I going to do about it?"

Sometimes we put so much emphasis on what Jesus said that we overlook Who He was and what He did. To some of us He was a man of action as well as words. Someone has said that Jesus agreed whole heartedly with the statement that "what you do speaks so loud that I can't hear what you say." At least some thinkers believe that this is what He said, at times, to the supposed upper strata of the religious community of His day. Some times He might like to say that to us here at Southwestern.

Any way, this is a little story that He told the twelve Fellows who followed Him one time about the relationship of what folks say and what they do. Dr. J. B. Phillips, who translates it this way in his book "The Gospels," entitles it "The need for Thorough Going Sincerity."

"Then He gave them an illustration . . .

It is impossible for a good tree to produce bad fruit—as impossible as it is for a bad tree to produce good fruits. Do not men know a tree by its fruits? You cannot pick figs from briars, or gather a bunch of grapes from a blackberry bush! A good man produces good from the good things stored up in his heart, and a bad man produces evil from his own store of evil. For his actions will certainly show what is treasured in his heart."

"And what is the point of calling me 'Lord, Lord,' without doing what I tell you to. Let me show you what the man who comes to me, hears what I have to say, and puts it into practice, is really like. He is like a man building a house, who dug down to rock-bottom and made the foundation of his house on the rock. Then when the flood came and the flood-water swept down upon the house, it could not shift it because it was properly BUILT. But the man who hears and DOES NOTHING about it is like a man who builds his house with a foundation upon soft earth. When the flood water sweeps down upon it, it collapses and the whole house crashes down in ruins."—Luke 6:43-49

Monkey Business

The nickname "Zoo U." often fits Southwestern better than we care to admit. Perhaps the most common application is in the case of the monkey, for his sense and nonsense are often so close together that even College Profs are sometimes confused. The animals that live across the street from our campus in Overton Park Zoo have many brothers at Zoo U.

The season's first cases of poison ivy turned up on the campus last week. They say that when you're in love there's nothing like a long walk in the woods. Jip and Robin have their doubts. . . . Water is as important to the laying hen as feed. Since an egg is 73 per cent water, she cannot lay if she does not drink. Drinking water should be kept around 50 degrees F. in winter. . . . Speaking of food, that good catsup they had in the dining hall last week is gone now. Too bad, too. Someone said that they were putting pickle juice in it to make it stretch. Whatever it was, some of it fermented and for a few days there was one bottle on the balcony that smelled like 90 proof fire water. It was last seen the afternoon before the Phi Beta Kappa banquet. . . . Why is it that boys have to pull on a coat to go to supper on these hot days while the gals are allowed to stay comfortable? Sometimes it's worth the inconvenience to be able to see the sweet young things come trip-trapping in in their gay Spring dainties—but rarely. . . . 'Tis a good thing our notorious Memphis censor has missed the girl's softball games we've had out here. The costumes thrown on by several coeds would certainly have been banned in Memphis. . . . The latest money-maker for West Memphis has drawn quite a few Lynxcats. Money wasted, they say. . . . It is estimated that there are around 400 active and many more inactive volcanoes in the world. . . . One good thing about Religious Emphasis Week is that it has gotten the Faculty to come to Chapel for a change. . . . Charlie Burnett came up with this jewel (for you to decide what kind) the other day: "We do not have enough artiformaligialintactitugenarianists on our Faculty." We agree. . . . To which we can only add that the banana is the largest growing herb in the world. . . . Jim Elder called the first floor of Voorhies the other night and was connected instead with a downtown Liquor store. Some coincidence. . . . There will be a full moon this weekend—Take it for what it's worth.

Picture Contest Announced

The Ninth Annual International Collegiate Photography contest sponsored by Kappa Alpha Mu, National Honorary Fraternity in Photo-journalism, is open to receive entries.

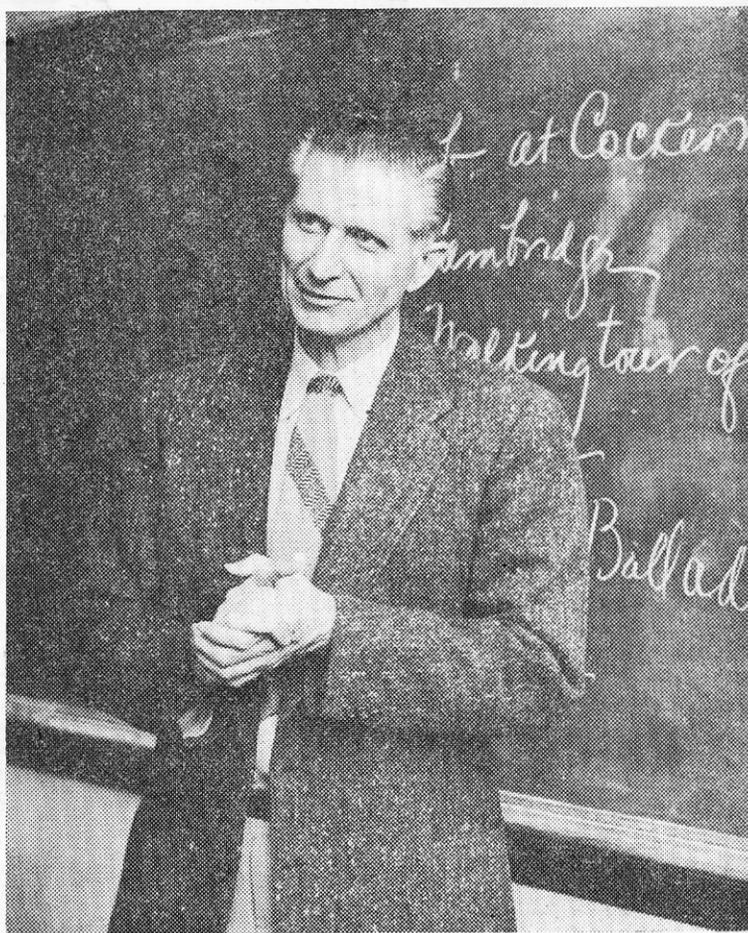

The contest is open to all college students, and pictures sent in must be postmarked not later than April 1, 1954. No entry fee is required.

Pictures will be judged in four classes: News, feature, sports, picture story or picture sequence. Pictures must have been made since April 1, 1953. Each photographer may enter ten pictures, but not more than five in any single class.

First place winners in each class will receive a $25 Government Bond.

All pictures will remain the property of the maker.

For entry forms or additional information, write to Print Chairman, Mabel Stewart, Room 114, School of Journalism, University of Houston, Houston, Texas, or to Ken Fee, KAM Secretary, 18 Walter Williams Hall, School of Journalism, University of Missouri, Columbia, Missouri.

Dr. Wolf, head of Southwestern's English department, looks as if he has just been talking about Wordsworth and the Lyrical Ballads. Speaking of ballads, one of Dr. Wolf's hobbies is collecting recordings of old ballads sung by mountain folk.

Pressing the Profs

Geraldine Dozier

"I suppose I was somewhat predestined to become a Wordsworthian, a lover of nature," quoted Dr. Wolf who heads Southwestern's department of English. "When I was growing up," he continued, "my father had the largest collection of growing wild flowers in the state." The state of which he speaks is Arkansas. "I am from the foothills of Arkansas at Batesville," stated the professor, "and home is the same house in which I was born." He teasingly claims that he spent nine years at Arkansas College obtaining a degree, but the truth is that he attended high school there, a sort of prep school, and also took part of his grammar schooling there. Starting out as the true naturalist as a boy, Dr. Wolf passed many of his days in youth in collecting butterflies and moths. He also spent much time fishing and says that "he always did like that." One of his earliest hobbies, which appears to have little bearing in the nature field, but which he took much pleasure in, was the collecting of tinfoil. Purpose of this? "It just stacked up."

Dr. Wolf went to Vanderbilt to obtain his M.A. and then came back to Arkansas College where he taught several years. He next moved to Baltimore to teach at Goucher and while there in Baltimore, he attended Johns-Hopkins where he later earned his Ph.D. He spent some time there also as an English instructor in the department of engineering. Dr. Wolf served as an instructor one summer at the University of Wisconsin and in 1937 he came to Southwestern. It used to be the custom, maintains Dr. Wolf, for every college to have a male quartet and our professor of English lent his deep baritone to one of these singing groups during his college days. They sang everything from semi-classical to "Show Me the Way to Go Home" and often voiced their talent in the direction of "the girls' dorm and certain young ladies." Another "secret sin" was that of playing a banjo and a base violin in a college dance orchestra. While at college, Dr. Wolf found time for athletics and earned a letter in football playing the positions of center and guard.

Authority

This student and authority on Wordsworth has another great center of interest—that of collecting antiques, especially glass and china. Practically every object in the living room of his home is a relic of an age past and has a history behind it. In addition to the many and various pieces of glassware which are placed throughout the living room, Dr. Wolf has a large cabinet filled with many, many rare and beautiful creations. In this collection, Dr. Wolf has several pieces duplicates of those found in the Metropolitan Museum and leading collectors have often tried to buy from him. Some of his rare pieces include a finger bowl which once belonged to Jefferson Davis and a huge, green pitcher dating back to the time of Washington.

For the past two summers, he has journeyed to the hills of the Ozarks where, with the aid of a tape recorder, he has collected ancient, native ballads which have come down through the ages from generation to generation, some of which date back to the time of Queen Elizabeth. Dr. Wolf now has around 100 ballads recorded, many of which are not to be found in any other collections of ballads.

Two of his favorite pastimes are hunting and fishing as he did when a boy, but he finds little time for these. The legend goes that the professor spends every afternoon of the seasons pursuing fish and quail and two bird dogs in his backyard might furnish sufficient evidence for this legend.

At every Southwestern football game, Dr. Wolf is seen carrying his camera—photography is another interest with which he says he "makes a kind of record of things, no art involved."

Dr. Wolf's travels usually take him to New England where he has spent much time visiting, photographing, and observing the literary landmarks of the country. He prefers to skip the cities and to visit the small towns and countryside of the northeastern corner.

Dr. Wolf's family includes, besides his wife whom many of us at Southwestern know and admire, two daughters, Adele and Florence. Mrs. Wolf kiddingly offers us a tip as to how to get the real insight into Dr. Wolf's character—just go to his office and take a look at his desk. That would be a seemingly easy task for any normal two eyes, if only the stacks of papers, books, odds and ends were taken away!

Friendliness Impresses New Students

Bill Seeds

We've been stopping some of Southwestern's new students in the halls and on the campus and popping them with a few simple, easy to answer questions about things we old, hardened students don't think about very often.

Eric Mount, a second semester freshman from Cape Girardeau High School in Missouri, had planned for a long time to come to Southwestern. Reason: his father is a S W grad. Eric is a pre-ministerial student, and has in these few weeks gone out for tennis, basketball, and the Singers. According to Eric, nothing is really surprising about his new school, but he has been impressed by the friendliness of faculty and fellow students alike.

What's the difference between Southwestern and the University of Texas? If you're really interested, ask Suzanne Berliant. Suzanne, who's finishing her freshman year here at Southwestern, graduated from East High School, and calls Memphis her home. Suzanne finds she has to work and read and write a lot more here than at Texas U., where she went for the first half of this school year, but she says she's having a great time. The Honor System is "wonderful" and she, like Eric, has appreciated the campus friendliness. Suzanne's a music major, in the piano line.

After a year and a half at Hollins College in Roanoke, Virginia, Nancy Howe wondered whether she would be able to make the mid-semester change without too much difficulty, but thanks to (here we have it again) the kindness and sense of cooperation of the students, Nancy made the change without any of the anticipated trouble. Originally from Helena, Arkansas, Nancy hasn't quite yet decided what she's majoring in, but there's plenty of time for that.

It looks like we "old" students are more friendly and perhaps a little less sophisticated than we thought we were. At any rate, we hope that the other new Southwesterners, like Nancy, Suzanne and Eric, are content, and are by now at least partially acclimated to our own special kind of weather.

Medical Tests Scheduled

Candidates for admission to medical school in the fall of 1955 are advised to take the Medical College Admission Test in May, it was announced recently by Educational Testing Service, which prepares and administers the test for the Association of American Medical Colleges. These tests, required of applicants by almost every medical college throughout the country, will be given twice during the current calendar year. Candidates taking the May test, however, will be able to furnish scores to institutions in early fall, when many medical colleges begin the selection of their next entering class.

Candidates may take the MCAT on Saturday, May 8, 1954, or on Monday, November 1, 1954, at administrations to be held at more than 300 local centers in all parts of the country. The Association of American Medical Colleges recommends that candidates for admission to classes starting in the fall of 1955 take the May test.

Application forms and a Bulletin of Information, which gives details of registration and administration, as well as sample questions, are available from pre-medical advisers or directly from Educational Testing Service, Box 592, Princeton, N. J. Completed applications must reach the ETS office by April 24 and October 18, respec-

Faculty Game vs. SAE

Monday evening at seven o'clock should prove to be an interesting, thrilled-packed, and suspenseful moment as the basketball team of S.A.E., winners of the boys' intramural basketball, jumps center with a recently formed faculty team. Both teams should be kept going strong throughout the entire time—the audience is assured an entertaining evening. The faculty team, coached by Coach Johnson, will include, Professors Southard, Dan Rhodes, Reveley, Diehl, Nall, Baker, and Coaches Mays, Mabry, Wright, and Barton. David Kaylor and John Lawhorn will referee the contest.

This program is being sponsored by the PRC and the money taken in will go for the annual PRC Drive. Price — fifty cents. The game, which will begin Monday at seven in Fargason Field House, is an approved event to all girl dorm students.

Fifty cents is not much to contribute to a very worthy cause and also to an evening of wonderful fun. Buy your ticket in the cloister on Friday or Monday and come out for an hilarious time.

Poetry Contest

The Annual Poetry Contest sponsored by The Poetry Society of Tennessee will be open for entries from March 15 to April 15. The contest is open to all adult residents and citizens of the State of Tennessee (exclusive of High School students and under), and to all members of The Poetry Society of Tennessee, except members of the Annual Contest Committee.

Only one original poem may be entered by any contestant. The poem may be on any subject and in any form, but must not exceed 16 lines. No poem is eligible which has ever been published or which may be published in the period between the date on which the contest closes and the date on which the awards are announced.

Three original copies of each poem must be submitted. Carbon copies will bar poems from entry. Poems must be written on one side of the paper only.

The poem must be submitted unsigned and enclosed in a sealed envelope. Also enclose in the envelope the poem title and the name and address of the author. On the outside of the envelope put the title of the poem.

Contestants should retain copies of the poem which they enter. The Society cannot undertake to return manuscripts. All prize-winning poems shall become the property of the Poetry Society of Tennessee for publication in whole or in part as may be decided. Authors retain the right to include the poems in any collection of their work that may be published.

The names of the three judges will be announced at the time the awards are made on May 1.

Mail all entries to Mrs. John L. Dean, Collierville, Tennessee. Poems postmarked after midnight April 15 will be barred from entry.

The prizes are as follows: 1st prize, $25; 2nd prize, an amethyst (unset); 3rd prize, books; and honorable mention.

Baseball

The Southwestern Lynx are out on the Diamond every afternoon here of late. The team is getting in shape for the schedule that they have lined up for this season. They will start off by playing Arkansas State, at Arkansas State on the 29th of March. The team is shaping up pretty well with some old members back from last year and a flock of newcomers this year.

The members that have returned from last year are: Pitchers, Bill Williams, John Lawhorn, Tommy Jones, and Clark Young; Jack Bugby, First base; Mark Waters, second base; Jerry Wood, third base; Frank Horton, catcher; fielders, Lee Weed, Gerald Smith and Young doubling in the outfield.

The newcomers to the team in the positions that they are trying out for: pitchers, Harry Hildeburg and Harry Masterson; Gene Maddox at shortstop; third base, Crawford Street and Perry Dannelly; catcher, Jimmy Briziele; fielders, Jim Eadens, William Burrow and Don Carnes. This is the way things are shaping up in the Lynx baseball world.

The team will practice every afternoon down on the Lynx baseball diamond and the Coach invites any and everyone to come down and watch your team work out for the coming season. With a few more weeks practice they ought to play a couple of practice games just to warm the boys up. If anything like this develops we will let you in on the dope as soon as we find out where and when it will take place.

Last Saturday the baseball team, making its first outing for the '54 season, defeated CBC Jr. College by the score of 8-6 in a practice game. The Cardinals of CBC Jr. College led by the score of 3-0 at the end of the third inning. The Lynx Cats fought back in the fourth and fifth innings, and gained a five to three lead going into the sixth. Both the Lynx and the Cardinals scored three runs in the remaining innings of the game played on a cold, damp, and windy day. The Lynx looked good in view of the fact that they had only about a week's practice out of doors.

Williams and Lawhorn, two of last year's returnees, turned in good pitching performances. Harry Heidelberg, pitching in the final innings, showed promise for the future.

The game with De Pauw has been cancelled.

REMEMBER THE LYNX IS YOUR TEAM, LET'S ALL GET OUT AND SUPPORT THEM.

Golf

The cry these days for those hill walking boys is "For-r-r-re." This means that the golfers are already spending much of their Mondays and Fridays out at Chickasaw Country Club under the able eye of Mr. Pat Abbott, one of the South's outstanding professional Golf Instructors.

The team will lead off on the 30th of March to open its season against Ole Miss. The highlight of the season will be when the team steams into Tallahassee, Fla., to play Florida State, two days before they head for Athens, Georgia to enter in the Southern Intercollegiate Tournament, April 29 thru May 1.

The team that will probably represent Southwestern will be picked from these old and new golfers, Reg Germany, Jack Napier, Frank Cothran, Jimmy McLean, Jimmy Dees, Jimmy Bledsoe, Charles Weise, Garland Cherry, Jack Jayroe and Jimmy Turner. I'm sure that if any of you are interested in the game of Golf you can find out anything you want to know from Coach Maybry in the Gym.

REMEMBER SUPPORT YOUR TEAM.

Anger Records

—Dr. Queener—

At what do you get angriest, when, for how long, and how much? "Anger records" kept by 65 psychology students for a twenty-four hour period give the following scoop:

1. About 65% of your wrath is caused by other people, 25% is reserved for "things," and the remainder for thoughts of people or things.

2. About 50% of Southwestern anger occurs just before or after the evening meal.

3. But you don't stay mad very long: about 66.3 seconds, it says here.

4. On a 1-5 scale ranging from "irritated" to "very angry," the lid doesn't flip very high. Average self-rating is 2.5—just moderately mad.

Any sex differences in anger habits? None to speak of with the possible exception that the women devote 10% of their anger to meal time or contrasted to 1% for the men. Has to do with dieting probably.

SCRA Contest Announced

With entries for the 1953 Student Composers Radio Awards totalling more than three times the amount received the previous year, Broadcast Music, Inc., sponsor of the annual competition for the best instrumental or vocal compositions by student composers, has announced the official opening of the 1954 contest. As in past years, a total of $7,500 in prizes will be awarded to winning composers who are students of accredited conservatories of music, Universities, colleges, secondary schools and private teachers in the United States, its possessions and Canada.

National winners of the 1953 awards will be announced by June 1, 1954. First prize will be $2,000, second, $1,500, and third, $1,000. Six

Congratulations to Marcia Calmer who took top honors this week—new S.A.E. sweetheart and Pi's newest member. Marcia is a Soph, a member of Chi Omega, member of the Y, and the Lynx Staff.

Congratulations also go to Dot Henning, the Founder's Day S.T. A.B. Dot is a Soph, a member of K.D., Honor Council, and W.F. Council.

Congratulations to Tissie Tanner and AOPI. Tissie as of last Tuesday is wearing the AOPI sheaf of wheat!

April Fool is April 2. Get your tickets!! I have 15 in my possession as does every member of the Student Council. It's $1.50 stag; 2 bucks drag!! Let's live a little!!

Heard by way of the grapevine that the KD's plan to have a big house warming pretty soon— Sounds like fun—We need a little life.

The KA-K Sig brawl is next Friday and Saturday.

It's picnic weather again. Where, oh, where is the G.H.T.??

Sans Souci And Spanish Club To Meet

Southwestern's students of French have organized for the second semester under the name "Sans Souci." At their first meeting they elected Jimmy McLin their President. Vera Watson is Vice President, Margaret Jones is Secretary, and Mary Margaret Storck is Treasurer. Sans Souci will meet next Wednesday at 4:30 in the SAE house. All members and interested students are urged to attend.

The Spanish Club has been meeting regularly since last fall. Their next meeting will be this Thursday at 4:30.

Singers Perform

The Southwestern Singers will perform for the Beethoven Club of Memphis at 3:30 p.m. at Hardie Auditorium Sunday, March 21. Selections will include Ave Maria, four spirituals, and Ave Verum Corpus.
