Elections Hold Spotlight; Dewey Vice-President

New System Of Election Is Used To Fill Remaining Offices; Convention Style Is Popular

BY BOB CLOUGH

The offices which were not filled during the elections of April 14, were filled last week by a new system of election. This new system was adopted by the Elections Commission and ratified by the student body on April 21. A new method was brought about in an effort to curtail the use of combines and to make the elections more democratic.

This new system is modeled after our own national elections. First, there are two tickets. Each ticket holds a nominating convention at which that ticket's candidates are nominated. The delegates to these conventions are chosen from the various social organizations. Each organization sends one delegate to each convention. Then, after the conventions are over, each ticket holds chapel on a separate day to present its candidates to the student body. Also, that particular day is the day for that respective ticket to put on its campaign. After the two tickets have presented their respective candidates, the elections are held on the day following.

On April 26, the Black ticket held chapel and put on its campaign. After the regular chapel service, campaign manager Alf Canon presented his candidates. However, at regular intervals, Mr. Canon was interrupted by humorous stunts and jokes, put on in an attempt to convince the students that the Black ticket was the best ticket to vote. The ticket also tried to sway the student body by passing out free cigarettes and candy.

After the chapel exercise, the campaigning continued throughout the remainder of the day. Numerous speeches were made in the cloister and many signs were posted about the campus.

On April 27, the Red ticket had its day of campaigning. After the regular chapel service, the Red ticket was introduced by John Broderick, co-campaign manager. The members of the ticket marched in followed by a Negro jug band, which had been hired for the occasion. After a tune by the band, to get everyone in the mood, co-campaign manager Jim McClure proceeded to present his candidates, giving the qualifications of each. After this presentation, the jug band entertained until it was time to go to class. However, the jug band played from 9 until 10 in front of the book store. The Red ticket also had a large array of signs. During the presentation, cigarettes and candy were distributed to the student body.

Since both tickets had held their campaigns and each had presented its candidates, the time for the election arrived. On April 28, the elections were held in the bookstore from 9 A. M. until 1 P. M. Since the campaigns had helped the students to decide which candidates they wanted to vote for, the elections went off in fine style.

Music To Continue Through Summer

This summer the Memphis College of Music, Southwestern's music department, is offering the same courses as those offered during the regular college year. These courses will be taught in private lessons unless enough students enroll to make up large enough single classes. For special courses there will be piano literature, piano pedagogy, and public school music; these are, more or less, for people who are working for a master's degree or as undergraduates. Starting in June there will be two special two-week courses, church and school choir clinic and organ playing for church service; these are not for undergraduates, but are to serve as refresher courses and for new ideas.

Our Counseling Program Is Ready To Begin

By KITTY GREY PHARR
Associate Editor, the SOU'WESTER
In order to meet the need for a counseling program for all new students, a student counseling program has been approved by the Student Welfare Committee. This program will provide student counselors for all new students who will be divided into groups, one of which will be assigned to each counselor. This arrangement will be a supplement to the faculty system already in effect.

The main purpose of such a program is to assist the new student in making a satisfactory adjustment to college life. It includes thoroughly acquainting the student with all phases of campus life here at Southwestern, its history, its tradition, and its customs, and helping him become more successful in his academic work and become more active in campus activities. The main duties of the

The traditional Red Rose Ball of Alpha Omicron Pi at Southwestern was held in the Ferguson Field House on the campus from 8:30 until 12:00 Saturday night the twenty-ninth.

An old-fashioned rose garden with white swings and lawn chairs surrounded by miniature picket fence was at each end of the dance floor, and the trellises of roses were over the door and bandstand. Ann Pridgen and Claire James were in charge of decorations.

At the conclusion of the course the counselors were tested on the subject matter covered by the course.

These counselors will return to school one or two days prior to registration of new students and will be on hand to do all they can from the first to welcome the new students to Southwestern.

Chi Omega Has Distinguished Guest, Dr. Mead

The campus was honored yesterday by the visit of Dr. Margaret Mead who is one of the most outstanding personages to visit Southwestern this year. Dr. Mead is an internationally recognized anthropologist and the most eminent person in this field in the United States. She has a degree of B. A. from Bernard College, M. A. and Ph. D. from Columbia University, D. Sc. from Wilson College, and LLD. from Rutgers University.

Since 1926 Dr. Mead has been Associate Curator of anthropology for the American Museum of Natural History.

Her research in anthropology has led her to make many expeditions — to Samoa in 1925-1926; to the Admiralty Islands in 1928-1929; to an American Indian tribe in 1930; to many parts of New Guinea in 1931-1933; to Bali in 1936-1938; to the Iatmul tribe in the South Pacific also in 1938.

Her expeditions and intensive studies of culture have been followed by illuminating articles which have been a real contribution to her chosen field. These books include "Coming of Age in Samoa"; "Growing up in New Guinea"; "Balinese Character"; and her most recent "And Keep Your Powder Dry", which is about American culture.

Dr. Mead is also the author of many scientific papers and a member of many scientific societies, including Progressive Education Association, National Association for the Advancement of Science, American Anthropological Society, New York Academy of Science, and Society of Women Geographers.

Since the beginning of the war she has been given a number of positions of responsibility by the government, one of which enabled her in 1943 to make a lecture tour of England. She is now serving as the executive secretary of the Committee on Food Habits National Research Council, in Washington.

Dr. Mead however finds time to make trips through the country and conduct forums. She was in Memphis yesterday to address the Memphis Public Affairs Forum at the Y. W. C. A. Dr. Mead spoke on the Problems of a World Community and afterwards conducted a question and answer period.

Dr. Mead's visit here was of special interest to all members of Chi Omega Fraternity, for she was the recipient of the 1940 gold medal of the National Achievement Award sponsored by Chi Omega Fraternity.

The award was presented to Dr. Mead in recognition of her contribution to the field of anthropology and her achievement as a scientist. Dr. Beatrice M. Hinckle, representing the field of professions on the Award Committee, made the presentation. Other members of the Award Committee are: Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, public affairs; Mrs. Laura Gardin Fraser, art; Miss Mary Vail Andress, business and finance; Miss Elizabeth Dyer, education; and Miss Marjorie H. Micolson, letters. The Chi Omega Eleusis carried the inspiring story of Dr. Mead's work and pointed out that "slowly, quietly, the committee on the award are choosing a group of eminent women whose accomplishments and whose personalities are persuasive, typifying the words on the face of the medal: 'Achievement serves and ennobles'".

The local chapter of Chi Omega honored Dr. Mead with an informal tea yesterday afternoon at the sorority lodge here on the campus. The guest list included all Alumnae of Chi Omega, the faculty of Southwestern, and the presidents of all the women's organizations on the campus. The receiving line was composed of Mary Ann Banning, president of the active chapter; Mrs. David K. Beane, Alumnae president; Dr. and Mrs. Charles E. Diehl; Dean Margaret Huxtable Townsend; and Assistant Dean Helen Gordon.

Torch Taps Five Women In Chapel

Bigger Wins Sophomore Cup

Torch Society, national honorary leadership society for women at Southwestern, tapped in chapel this morning the following girls: Anne Howard Bailey, Jane Milner, Louise Moran, Frances Ann Turrentine, and Betty Jean Wilkinson. The purpose of Torch is to recognize women students who have attained a high standard of leadership in campus activities and to encourage them to maintain this ideal and to furnish a goal towards which others may strive.

To qualify as a candidate, a girl must be in the upper fifty per cent of women students, in the junior class in scholarship, and among those having the highest number of activity points.

Every year Torch awards a sophomore award to the girl who has most nearly lived up to the ideals of Torch. This year the award, a bracelet inscribed with Torch, was given Miss Jane Bigger.

The students who were tapped have all been active in campus affairs since coming to Southwestern. Miss Turrentine has been a member of Pi, a member of the Honor Council for three years, an officer in the Y. W. C. A Shot Of Adrenaline

For two days of last week Southwestern echoed with the spirit and enthusiasm of yesteryears.

There is no one that can deny that school spirit among the student body has definitely been low. Therefore, as a whole, morale has been low. There has been nothing to break the monotony of school routine. Everyday students found themselves trodding the same paths.

However, last Wednesday and Thursday something new, something big and interesting made the students and, no doubt, the faculty sit up and take notice.

Yes, the new form for elections brought morale up. More interest was shown in elections than ever before. The two conventions had added life to our heretofore dreary school life. The new system was two-fold in its results. It made for greater interest in elections, and it brought school morale up to a point more where it should be.

In a time of chance and unusual conditions, it is necessary for those who are able to keep things going and have them ready and in good shape for the ones who are away. We at Southwestern have not done this to the best of our ability.

This new morale is a fine way to finish the year. It will give next year's students something to go on, and it will help those who are returning.

If anyone should say that the morale of the school is terrible, the best answer is, "You made it that way". Let us all strive more and more to improve our school morale.

A Newspaperman's Newspaperwoman

There are many outstanding journalists around the school but one of the foremost is Miss Janet Kelso, former editor of this newspaper. We had the privilege of working with Janet during the early part of the year, and her practical handling of the paper was amazing to us. Janet did practically all of the work, proof-reading, make-up, etc., and she did it well.

Dr. Samuel Johnson said "A woman preacher is like a dog walking on its hind legs. It is not done well, but you are surprised to find it done at all". Many of the old journalists think this way in regard to women in the newspaper business. Today women are replacing men in many ways. Women have always been in the newspaper business but now they are actually doing much of the work formerly done by men. If an acute shortage exists in finding good newspaperwomen, we say that Miss Kelso is a possessor of undiscovered talent. She's a newspaperman's newspaperwoman.

A Newspaperman's Newspaperman

The glory goes to the editors, reporters, and columnists, but the make-up men do all the work. This is not altogether true. Most of the credit of turning out a paper must necessarily go to the editorial staff of a newspaper, but the make-up man is very neglected when the bouquets are passed out. This school's paper is edited by an editor and his assistant, nominally. However, there is a third member of the make-up staff who is vital, essential, necessary, and any other adjective which may come into this category, and that man is Mr. Parker. Now the vast majority of the student body has never heard of Mr. Parker, but in spite of this blow against him, he exists. He exists in a world of its own, the printing world. Mr. Parker gets out most of the school papers of Memphis. This is his work and he does it well. It is not as true in a college paper as it is in a high school one, but Mr. Parker gets out a school paper in spite of the editor. When we were connected with the editorial staff of a high school paper, we became acquainted with Mr. Parker. He had to wade through the ideas of an editor, a news news editor, a business manager, and—and a faculty adviser. This would have been a crushing task for most people, but Mr. Parker just grins and bears it every two weeks. In case you haven't realized it as yet, Mr. Parker is the gentleman at Davis Printing Co., where the SOU'WESTER is printed, in charge of making-up student publications. Recently Mr. Parker told us that the SOU'WESTER was the only "newspaper" he put out. We swelled with pride at this bit of praise, for it means more than a hundred lay commendations. It means much more because Mr. Parker is a newspaperman's newspaperman.

A Tragedy

An airplane died in Memphis last Saturday. We saw her plunge to her death. We saw her as she passed low over our neighborhood, coughing out her last few breaths. We saw the column of smoke rise when she met her end. At intervals during the day, we saw other planes circling the point of her demise like vultures wheeling over the desert.

Later on in the day we learned she had carried seven people with her across the sullen stream. Three fighting men and four civilians. One small family going about its daily routine one moment, the next swallowed up in a roaring inferno of flame. A business woman jerked summarily into the presence of her Maker.

We have grown too accustomed to reading of death and carnage and slaughter. We have become too hardened to the sacrifice of our youth upon Mars' altar. But four people—civilians—went swiftly and unexpectedly into the Beyond, here in peaceful Memphis. The child, we believe, is playing on "golden streets"—for did He not say "Suffer little children to come unto Me"? What of the adults? Were they prepared for death? Truly "in the midst of life we are in death." If death can come that suddenly, that swiftly, completely unannounced, to people like you and me; isn't it time that we asked ourselves the question: "Is it well with my soul?"

Two Of A Kind

One hundred and twenty-three years ago today Napoleon Bonaparte died on the lonely island of St. Helena. A world conqueror came to his end, sitting and dictating memoirs to secretaries, the only companions he had other than guards. Two weeks ago yesterday was another "world conqueror's" birthday. Today we are engaged in the attempt of putting Mr. Hitler in a place far worse than that in which Mr. Napoleon spent his last days. We are confident of victory, but let us not be over-confident. The success with which Napoleon met has not been meted to Mr. Hitler, but it could have been. Let us thank God for what he has spared us, and praise Him for what he has given us.

A Job Well Done

This year the Honor Council has done a very good job in many ways. The work on the Constitution would have been a year-long task for most organizations, but the Council completed it in a relatively short space of time. The Council has made mistakes, as all organizations will do now and then, but the vast majority of the work was carried out with a degree of efficiency rarely seen among a group such as this one. We often are tempted to neglect the Council, because it does nothing spectacular, but if all organizations on the campus did their jobs as well as this year's Council has done theirs, Southwestern would become a better college in which to go to school.

Lynx Chat

Back again, children. This being the last issue for the year, no doubt we should enlighten you with choice bits of gossip and things to ponder on in the future. At least we can try, but we must say that none of you are being too cooperative. Why doesn't somebody do something real shocking?—or at least irritating.

Elections — as usual — caused the biggest furor during the past week. The biggest mess was between Evarde and Dewey. Winnie campaigned for Evarde and Dewey campaigned for Dewey. He seems to be the BMOC now—just ask him.

A little campus chatter—

Jimmie Turner's house party was quite a success. Everybody came back tired but happy. Kernode had two dates—we realize the man shortage is bad, but is it that Bad? Evarde and Winnie found that a hay truck is a lovely way to spend an evening. Mary Lou Ortmeyer is pinned to a Med. student. You know, chicks, business is picking up this week—Flash! Cheairs and Brown were arrested and thrown in the jug in Arkansas. We're sure they'd be more than happy to give anyone full particulars. Vadis and Nimrod are still strictly on the beam. However, he was a little upset—just paced the floor for a couple of hours—when Vadis had a date with someone else (a Med. student) a Saturday or two ago—Last weekend Wheeler went tearing home to see an old flame with Bea, Warreen, and Louise Frank, leaving Watson to carry the torch—it seems that the keydets didn't do so badly while they were here. Burkett and Poole and Jo Clare and Nelson are well on the happy road to romance with those third-finger-left-hand rings—Clough and Bernice have had somewhat of a tiff of late and he's now taken up with Flut hot and heavily—The AOPI dance was quite gay. The keydets were drafted into keeping with the durating. There were a few stray wolves from foreign parts floating about—We're all real excited 'bout Mike Miller getting married. How he is managing this before exams is a problem — Jean Wroten is taking the fatal step Sunday, 'tis rumored — Mary Worrall and Harry Frissell are getting hitched the 29th—Hunter had better cease having the keydets walk her home after the dances as she'll have the whole regiment restricted—Bea Hosey is progressing rapidly with a certain Lt. in the Ferry Command. She has his pin and just recently met his family. Not Bad! — Ann James is "out of this world" in regard to an ensign named Tag—That's not new, is it?—Wonder what will happen to these campus couples by next summer—Trudy and Phillip Cox and Naida—Willie and Wizzie—Alf and Perk—Gray and Bill—Evarde and Winnie—Harwood and Miriam—Ray and Julia.

Who will Dewdrop's new flame be? Banning, from the looks of things, will always be singing navy songs for Tommy Frazier, a former KA at Southwestern—Ginny Crutcher's man sounds good to us. All captains may fly in this direction, please.

And so, children, without further ado, we bid you aloha until a new term finds you knocking yourselves out in the ever-quiet library and beating yourselves to a mass of unrecognizable humanity in the cheerful atmosphere of the bookstore. "Do Nothing OR you'll hear from me."

Tri-Delta Wins Annual Pan Sing

On Friday night, April 28, the Woman's Pan Hellenic Council presented the Inter-Sorority Sing. It was held in Hardie Auditorium. Each sorority sang two numbers, one a popular song and the other a sorority song. The Tri-Deltas won the prize, a gold loving cup. The cup was presented to Miss Gene Dickson, leader of the group, by Miss Imogene Williamson, president of the Woman's Pan. Dressed in white evening dresses and colorful leis, the winning sorority sang a medley of "Blue Hawaii" and "The Hawaiian War Chant". As a further decorative novelty, Mary Ann Catchings and Betty Gooch, both dressed in Hawaiian grass skirts and other South Sea apparel sat at the feet of the group, beating Hawaiian drums. Impressive, too, was the "Tri-Delta Pearl Song".

Honorable mention was given to the Kappa Delta Sorority, led by Frances Keaton, which sang "Just A-Wearyin' For You" and the "Kappa Delta Freshman Song". Betty Bynum

This Is Our Year, Girls!

"Careless, now that the boys have gone away,
We're careless, careless in everything we say
We go to classes with hair rolled up high,
Lipstick and make-up we never buy."
So singing the new Southwestern coed surveys her beloved alma mater and the changes wrought on it in the past year. Some good is bound to come out of everything and certainly some definite improvements can be detected. At the end of the first semester 240 students placed on the first Honor Roll. When questioned as to how this was accomplished, one replied, "How else can you get your name in the paper?" Also the friction in the five sisterhoods has been reduced 73%. At a recent meeting of the Spinsters Club, Ginny Crutcher, President, explained it as follows: "I haven't had a date in eight months, except with Cooper. How can I worry about who's double crossing me?" Miss Crutcher went on to say that Lowenstein's had inaugurated a "Date Bureau" at the side entrance in the hope of selling some of its perfume and face cream and that Ramsays Florists had definitely closed for the duration. She

Webb had the solo part.

The Independent Girls, led by Mary Jo Craig, sang the Navy Hymn and a medley of "The World Is Waiting For The Sunrise" and "Daybreak". Helen Hardeman had the solo part. The group wore dark skirts and white blouses.

The Chi Omegas sang "Begin the Beguine" and an original song by Miss Josephine Shillig, who directed the sorority. White dresses with talisman roses were the costumes of the latter group.

Alpha Omicron Pi, led by Vadis Jeter, sang "When Day Is Done" and an AOPI medley. Sorority colors were carried out by the white dresses and the red roses.

The Zeta Tau Alphas, led by Jane Soderstrom, sang a patriotic medley of "Say a Prayer for the Boys Over There" and "America". Their closing number was a Zeta medley. The girls wore white formal gowns.

The cadets stationed on the campus opened the program with the Air Corps Song and "Hand Me Down My Silver Trumpet, Gabriel". Marion McKee was mistress of ceremonies.

Students Say

Having been to see "Lady in the Dark" we are full of curiosity as to what other people dream in the wee small hours. So we asked them.

Carolyn Cooke: To tell you the truth, I always dream I'm eating banana splits and chocolate sundaes.

Sue Potts: Tall, dark, handsome men.

Nimrod: I dreamed last night I got into a real big fight, and then I married Ann Hirshleimer.

Ed Dewey: Harems and beautiful women.

Trudy Bruce: Phil (as if we didn't know).

Tempe Kyser: Last night it was peculiar. Somebody got married, but I don't remember whether it was Mary Jane or Seddon Allen.

Willie Jones: I ain't talking.

SPORTNOTES

BY JIM WADE

Well, at this writing the Sou'Wester's golf tourney is being temporarily held up because of the incessant spring rains, but maybe they will stop soon so we can get the hacking over with. At the moment this reporter is in the finals as a result of fortune blessed wins over John Caden and Winston Cheairs, a pair of very capable golfers that were hampered by lack of practice. In the semi-finals of the other bracket, Tom McAdams and Cliff Green are waiting for fair weather to battle it out to see who will knock this person off for the school title. We hope to have the golf all through by this weekend.

Plans for the tennis tourney are about complete and the matches should be well under way by Monday . . . A partial group of the large entry list includes such illustrious dignitaries as favored Jack Taylor, Dave Baldridge, Tom McAdams, Robert the Clough, The Brod, and a dozen others.

Coach Clemens has ordered some medals for the winners in our little contests . . . If they get there in time maybe we can have a chapel presentation of some sort . . . big time affair . . . The tennis matches are gonna have to be run off quickly, however, or we won't finish before exams seize us in their ugly embrace . . . (Hows that for dramatization?)

The Memphis Chickasaws may end up in last place this season, but one thing may surely be said in their favor . . . They started the season in bang up style . . . That 18 to 3 opening night triumph over the Little Rock Travelers was most gratifying . . . and the double header that the tribe split last Sunday certainly was not discouraging . . . The fielding and pitching that the team has displayed has not been of the sensational variety . . . but brother they have been beating that baseball to a bloody pulp.

Doc Prothro has been keeping his older veterans, such as Bus Chatham on the bench in favor of a bunch of young sprouts that make up for their inexperience with speed and enthusiasm . . . and so far Doc has had plenty of success with his lineup . . . The team signed a new first sacker just before the opener against the Pebs . . . John Cockley is the guy's name and he is big, handles himself well around the bag, and almost tore a hole in the right field fence on opening night with a terrific line drive . . . He looks plenty okay.

Pitching seems to be Prothro's biggest worry . . . The Chick mound staff is not bad . . . but neither is it too dependable . . . Frank Ververka, the chunky right hander is pretty fair but we don't put too much confidence in him . . . He's the off one night, another type . . . Herman Drefs and Lloyd Brown both can pitch good games but neither has a record that is exactly awe inspiring. Slim Kinder is our bet for the top tribe hurler . . . He has a dandy curve and a fast one that he can really blow in there.

It's too early to make any real predictions, but the team looks like first division material . . . What do you think?

The preps are still in there battling for the city title . . . South Side and C. B. C. are at this writing in a deadlock for first place with the Warriors from Central a close second . . . Central threw the race into a mess by upsetting C.B.C. last Saturday.

Missing in action . . . We've heard that phrase too many times already in this war . . . but for the first time it struck terribly close to home when we got the news recently that Oliver Bailey, Dean's brother and one of our best buddies, didn't come back from a Fortress raid on South Germany on April 2. Oliver, recently promoted to a First Lieutenant and to the post of Squadron navigator of a B-17, has been one of a glifing gang that has been knocking the little white pellet around for quite a few years . . . It seems the Jerries trapped Oliver's flight over the Alps as they were on the way home . . . a large number of American ships went down . . . Sonny was one of them . . . We are praying that somehow Olive came out all right . . . We are sure he must have . . . It wouldn't seem right not to have him around after the war when the scat games get underway again.

Every Day's A Holiday Or One Never Knows, Do One?

(Ed. note) It has always been the policy of this paper to print the literary efforts of members of the student body, even if they were somewhat nonsensical. As this is to be last SOU'WESTER for this year, we feel that we must print the following in spite of our better self which keeps saying in a wee, small voice inside us "GO OUT AND KILL YOURSELF". The language used herein is not profane or obscene, but it is rather unintelligible. This literary masterpiece was written by the Misses Pruden, Hancock, Cook, and James assisted by the editor of this rag.

While commuting in the attic last Saturday, ye old past potentate was stricken by the beauty of the O. P. E. U.'s huddled in one of their usual sessions. It was barefoot day, and the roll call was answered vigorously by joyous shouts of, "Banzai". A motion was made, carried, and thrown out. A tired agent made a motion to adjourn to a more suitable acid hall. A vote was taken to decide whether we should wheel the deal with the skill and tenacity of a wizzard to J. P.'s Paradise, or the Ewa. The former was settled upon, and as our classy-chassis sped from the curb, "Big-Hearted Hancock" was seen leaning from the window, gurgling insanely. "Hubba-Hubba-Hubba." After pulling her aching hump back into the car, she was heard to say "Don't jack around with me." At this, Deacon Jones covered his ears, and muttered, "That's Terrible."

Upon our arrival at J. P.'s, weary from the long grind, we greeted the "Brod" with "Glad to see ya," flashed our official badges, and were shoved into the balcony. Immediately we stood to sing our national anthem, "Hong Foy, Song Doy" led by our No. 1 project "Tojo" Watson. The audience remarked, "Good of you".

The feature, which was "The P-X Playboy and his Jungle Princess" aided and abetted by Randolph the Idiot, was interrupted by Fluff Clough, one of the original Rover Boys, who insisted upon barking at every skirt that swished by. After two or three hours we all wanted to be happy, so we picked up our wishbones and departed.

The purpose in remaining open during the summer is for the benefit of summer students, but all students are urged to avail themselves of the opportunity of using our library this summer.

The hours of operation have not been announced as yet, but will be announced by the Summer Librarian around the first of June. The Library will not stay open as late as it has during the regular semester, but will be open the large majority of the day.

Students Attend Recent Convention

On April 14, 15, and 16, the Eleventh Annual Convention of the Young People of Memphis was held in Memphis. The purpose of the convention was to introduce the new program for the year 1944-45.

The first meeting of the convention was a banquet at Second Presbyterian Church. Approximately 200 delegates attended. Rev. W. A. James of Brownsville, Tennessee, was the speaker.

Saturday morning a business session was held at First Presbyterian Church. After the business session there were three discussion groups. Two of these groups were led by Miss Helen Gordon and Mr. Roy Davis of our staff.

Saturday night a picnic supper was held on the campus with over 150 persons attending. Following the supper, installation service was conducted in the gym by Rev. R. M. Hudson. The installation was followed by skits and games in the gym.

The closing session of the convention was held Sunday morning in Hardie Auditorium. Dr. H. Kerr Taylor, educational secretary of the Foreign Mission Committee, was the speaker.

Fifteen Southwestern students attended the convention. Several of these students who served on the Convention Committee were Pat Carothers, Julia Wellford, Bicky Morris, Frances Keaton, and William Jones. Ernest Flaniken, a former student of Southwestern, was elected president of the Young People's Council.

An Announcement

Dean Johnson has requested that all students who have taken excessive class cuts and chapel cuts see him this week for excuse. In the past, most of those students making application for excuse of cuts have waited until the last week of the semester just before exams to make this application. Dean Johnson says that he will be entirely too busy to take time out to hear these applications at the end of the semester.

Musical Memphis

The final performance of the Memphis Symphony Orchestra Tuesday night brought the 1943-44 season to a triumphant close. The orchestra reached a peak in its career Tuesday night in its interpretations and feeling for the numbers.

The six years that Memphis has supported the orchestra have been fruitful both for the enthusiastic group of musicians who form the ensemble and for the patrons of music in Memphis, who do themselves an honor to sponsor the orchestra. The group, under the able direction of Dr. Burnet C. Tuthill has brought new music and old music of established value, so that the public may be intelligently pleased and enlightened. Southwestern is well represented in the orchestra by both professors and students. Dr. John H. Davis and Dr. R. P. Strickler, who play the bassoon and the violoncello respectively, represent the faculty.

The students who actively participate in the orchestra are Gene Dickson, percussion section, Reznat Darnell, oboe, Marjorie Pierce, second violin, Peggy Kelly and Elizabeth Jetter, first violins.

The program Tuesday night was a happy combination of familiar and unfamiliar melodies beginning with Harry Purcell's Overture to "The Rival Sisters", which was a fine example of Dr. Tuthill's ability to put life into rather uninteresting compositions.

The finest work of the evening was reserved, however, for the Symphony No. 5, in E-minor "From The New World" by Dvorak. The color and brilliance of the orchestra, the balance in the various sections, the polychrome effects were as fine as ever achieved. The applause of the audience was spontaneous, abundant, and fully deserved.

After the intermission, the soloist, Miss Lois Bannerman, harpist, played the Harl McDonald Suite "From Childhood". This piece, in its jauntily sophisticated treatment of childhood nursery rhymes, took on character and appeal under the skilled fingers of Miss Bannerman. Larry Metters' trumpet offered support in that number and in several of Miss Bannerman's encores. The closing work, "Caucasian Sketches", Opus 10, by M. Ipolitov Ivanov was a brilliant finale to a lovely evening and a successful season.

Flesh And Fantasy

We received many favorable comments on our last issue's feature "FLESH AND FANTASY". Since we receive so few favorable comments, we are forced to try again. Our imagination is a little cramped, but our crystal ball is gleaming.

S. T. A. B. has taken off their traditional red and donned their traditional black in mourning for Professor Marion McKee, a distinguished alumna of the organization. Professor McKee was brought out today as the May Day Pi. S. T. A. B.'s may be found crying in the social room every other hour.

Cpl. Allen Fauntleroy of the WAC addressed the student body today. Cpl. Fauntleroy, an alumna of the school, enlisted the day before graduation. She was moved with such a patriotic spirit that she did not even accept the 120 day deferment.

Jane Milner, the perennial "also ran" was finally elected to an office. Miss Milner organized a successful combine composed of all fraternities and sororities. She was unable to get the independent women, but the vote of the five independent men was split.

Scandal has besmirched the fair name of our school as Jim Wade's name is being dragged through the divorce courts. Sue Potts Wade, an alumna, is the prosecutor. Another alumna, Miss Mignon Presley has been named as the correspondent. Among those seen at the trial was Mr. John Caden.

Flash!!! Dr. Strickler missed a class today!

The Memphis Press Scimitar, Bernice Wiggins, editor, today published their popularity edition. The trial is set for next week.

1947

Southwestern was grieved to lose one of her best loved professors this week. Poppy Tuthill has joined Harry Jamie's Band as fifth trumpet man. Have you heard his "Negro Boogie"? Nimrod and Vadis are still giggling!

PLATTER CHATTER

BY ED DEWEY

With exams on the way, we hope the dirty dirt given you in this column will not run you completely beserk. Do you cats dig me?

In the last edition of the SOU'WESTER, we spoke about the newly organized band of Boyd Raeburn. Since that struck a sour note with some of the brethren, we should like to clarify our statement a bit. Boyd Raeburn has been prominent in the music world for a good while and has also fronted his own ork many times. However, the present outfit, which is a true master of swing, has been in business together only a few weeks.

In the interim, your writer of PLATTER CHATTER has twice been at Hotel Peabody to determine the grade of music Gus Martel was handing to his dancing public. We're happy to say that Gus was issuing a better brand of music than when we mentioned him over a month ago. His rhumbas sound quite good, and his sweet ballads have improved. The other night a Millington sailor was asked to sing. After singing one number, he was retained at the mike for two more by the applause of the guests. Even the boys in Martel's band gave him hand. It was by far the best musical interlude of the night.

After four months and one day stay, Martel and his "St. Regis Orchestra" are going on the road. Opening Tuesday for luncheon was Bill McCune, who is billed as the ork holding the distinction of having played over three major networks in eight hours. Orchids to you, Bill! You must have a sweet outfit.

One of the best records of the month, if not the best, is one that was grooved on a Capital label by the King Cole trio, entitled "I Can't See For Looking" and on the other side, "Straighten Up And Fly Right", which is an amusing ballad concerning "the monkey and the buzzard". Nat Cole's personality is at its best taking the dual role of singer and piano man on both sides. The two sides are good jazz material and are handled well by the string bass man, guitarist Oscar Moore, and King Cole on the "88".

Having mentioned the "monkey and the buzzard", it is only right that we should take note of a record put on the market a good while back entitled, "Would You Rather Be A Colonel With An Eagle On Your Shoulder Or A Private With A Chicken On Your Knee?". We'll say no more.

Les Brown has given out some canned music, via Columbia label, with "Bizet Has His Day" on the front and "A Good Man Is Hard To Find" on the back. The former has a fine swing to it, and we're sure if those mellow strains could reach Bizet's ears, he would turn over in his grave. The latter doesn't deserve any space for comment. In 1940, Eddie Condon and his band held the "Jam Session at Commodore No. 3", and at this session, he gave forth with the longest jazz recording on record, calling it "A Good Man Is Hard To Find". It covers four twelve-inch sides and is still obtainable in NYC, from the Commodore Music Shop. Condon made this record with such artists as Muggsy Spanies on the trumpet, Miff Mole, trombone, Jess Stacy, piano, as well as other well-known musicians—a collector's item.

Until next year, you alligators be sure to throw your clutch out before shifting into high gear doing a "nigger boogie".

Independents Win Tri-Delta Second

BY BIGGER AND SCOTT

The Intramural Basketball Tournament among the girls was brought to a close last week when KD defeated Chi O by one point in an exciting game . . . an exciting end to an exciting season. The final standings of the teams are: 1st place with no defeats—Independents; 2nd place—Tri Delt; 3rd place—KD; 4th place—Chi O; 5th place—AOPi; 6th place—ZTA. The Independents will receive the cup awarded the winning team from the KD's, who have had it in their possession for the past year.

Six girls participated in the free-throw, one representative from each team: Joan Mellon from the Independents, Libba Hunter from the Tri-Deltas, Ann Burkett from KD, Ditsy Silliman from Chi O, Jane Bigger from AOPi, and Dot Hogan from the Zetas. The winner of the event was Libba Hunter, scoring 17 hits out of 20 tries.

Almost every game of the season was a good one and showed spirit and sportsmanship. Previous mention has been made of some of the more outstanding players as well as of a temporary list of All-Stars. Now both the first and second Southwestern All-Star teams have been selected. Tinka Jett, Libba Hunter, Ditsy Silliman, Joan Mellon, Mary Gideon and Virginia Prettyman have been chosen on the first one and the second is made up of Ann James, Ann Howard Bailey, Jo Schillig, Pauline Lagguzi, Sarajane Cockrell and Mary Ann Catching. We only wish there was a third and even fourth team, for there are other fine players who deserve mention, and to whom we'd like to give credit.

Now that this season is over, everyone can start looking forward to the one next year.

Pilgrim's Progress

There was a high school jelly from a prep school by the sea
He went out to Southwestern just for campusology
He saw the cute coeds and made a play for every gal
And everywhere he went he gave his wolf howl.

He was a Kampus Kid was this college man
From Memphis town way down in Dixie Land
And he frogged around just like a girl's best pal
And everywhere he went he gave his wolf howl.

He took in all the frats starting with KA
He went to Kappa Sigma and good old PiKA
But he joined the "second army". For Phi Alpha he did fall.
And he joined a Mt. Minerva with his wolf call.

He looked at all the coeds and said he loved them so
The KD's, the Tri-Deltas and the sisters of Chi O
The AOPi's and Zetas and the Independent gals
And everywhere he went he gave his wolf howls.

He pushed the girls in corners and he gave them quite a fright
He took analytical geometry but he was not very bright
He hung around Virginia, Nat'lle and McFall
And everywhere he went he gave his wolf call.

But now the year is over and exams are here once more
But this young man will act just as he did before
But he'll return again in the fall of '52
And his wolf call will echo through S'western by the Zoo.

Dr. Tuthill
Acts As Envoy

Burnet C. Tuthill, director of Memphis College of Music of Southwestern, represented the school at the 20th annual meeting of the National Association of Schools of Music held recently at the Hotel Netherland Plaza, Cincinnati, Ohio. The Association is the only accrediting body for educational institutions in the field of music in the United States. Its membership consists of 145 of the foremost colleges, universities, and conservatories of music throughout the nation, including a select list of preparatory schools and junior colleges. The organization has been influential in improving musical standards during the past two decades, institutional membership being granted only after a thorough examination of each institution by representatives of the Commission on Curricula.

Problems of the returning service man, and forward planning in the administration of schools of music in the light of probable post-war developments, occupied a major place in the discussions of the Association in Cincinnati. Particular consideration was given to the changing requirements for the certification of teachers of music by the various states, and the tendency of adding too many new specific requirements for high school graduation. The Association took the position that there is a distinct danger of too great a regimentation of students in the set high school curricular, and advocated a greater flexibility in the courses of study so as to permit qualified students to develop in the direction of their special abilities.

The report of the Graduate Committee in accrediting the graduate work of 42 member schools was approved, and 12 other schools and colleges were promoted from associate to full membership. Howard University School of Music, Washington, D. C.; Mundelein College, Chicago, and Oklahoma City University were welcomed as associate members.

Dean Donald M. Swarthout, of the University of Kansas, was elected President of the Association for the coming year; Burnet C. Tuthill, Director of Music at Southwestern College, Memphis, Tennessee, and Director Albert Riemenschneider, of the Baldwin Wallace Conservatory of Music, Berea, Ohio, were re-elected as Secretary and Treasurer respectively. Regional Vice-presidents include Alfred H. Meyer, Boston University College of Music; Robert L. Sanders, Indiana University School of Music; E. William Doty, University of Texas School of Fine Arts; and Melvin H. Geist, Willamette University, Salem, Oregon.

Memphis College of Music of Southwestern has been a member of the Association for the past five years, and Mr. Tuthill has served as Secretary of the organization since its beginning in 1924. He is also Treasurer of the Society for the Publication of American Music, and member of numerous other musical associations and committees. He was accompanied at the annual meeting by Miss Gladys Cauthen, Dean of the Faculty and Mrs. Tuthill, who is also on the teaching staff at Southwestern.

Elects Sorsby

The Ministerial Club is composed of men who are interested in discussing matters of a religious nature and in fastening a religious spirit on the campus. It is not restricted to pre-ministerial students in membership. The club is open to all who attend the meetings. It meets once a month for dinner, after which one of its members speaks on a topic of his own choosing. This is followed by a discussion either on points brought out in the talk, on its manner of delivery, or on any subject considered pertinent. Other than this, the secretary of the club keeps a monthly record of each member's service to his church or to his community. This record includes such items as the number of sermons delivered, church school lessons given, or talks made at young people's meetings. As a special project, the Ministerial Club also assists in leading Cub Scout Pack 14 which meets at the Wesley House in North Memphis.

Members include Donald MacGuire, president; Ray Allen, vice-president; Archie Turner, secretary; Mike Miller, Alfred Cannon, J. C. Mitchener, Stratton Sorsby was elected president Jones, Joe McGhee, Hugh Davidson, and Dr. T. E. Hill.
