

THE SOU'WESTER

27th Year Southwestern at Memphis Nov. 2, 1945

College Athletic Program Is Outlined By Coach

No Football Unless Subsidization Ends

The return of a number of boys to the campus has enabled the faculty committee on athletics to make some plans for this year's program. It is not thought feasible to attempt football this year because of the relatively small number of men enrolled. However, Coach Clemens states that the college will place an excellent basketball team on the floor with intercollegiate competition once more with such institutions as Mississippi State, the University of Mississippi, Vanderbilt, Tennessee, Louisiana State University, and Kentucky. The full schedule of games has not been completed, but will include other teams of outstanding caliber from this region. It is likely that intercollegiate track and field athletics will be resumed in part this spring.

In considering the football situation, Southwestern does not feel that it can enter into competition with such teams as Vanderbilt, the University of Mississippi, and Tennessee at this time. The attempt is being made to interest Sewanee, Centre, Millsaps, and some of the other smaller colleges of this area in a program of non-subsidized football. There has been some correspondence with the institutions of this area who may be interested in this project, and the indications are that when a normal enrollment of boys has returned to the campuses, Southwestern and the other small colleges may again put football teams on the field. The uncertainty about college enrollment due to the draft legislation still confronts colleges with a very real problem when they turn to consideration of football.

Lynx Staffs Begin Work

Lynx subscription drive began today.

Price of the Lynx, Southwestern annual, will go up this year from $4 to $5, Taylor Franks, business manager, and Marie Gooch, assistant, have announced. Partial payments will not be accepted.

Lynx literary staffs, under the direction of Irma Waddell, editor, have already begun work on make-up. The art staff is at work on the cover design.

Tigrett, well-known Memphis "glamor" photographer who is doing Lynx photographic work this year, began distributing proofs this week.

One of the features of the 1945-46 Lynx will be several extra pages of informal campus shots. Any students who have snapshots which are suitable are asked to submit them to Miss Waddell.

Compulsory military training in peacetime will be the bone of contention when the Christian Union holds a forum from 3:45 to 5 p.m. today in the SAE house.

Dr. John Henry Davis will speak. All students are urged to attend.

REV. RICHARD T. GILLESPIE

Seniors To Hold Vespers

Rev. Gillespie to Talk On Foreign Missions

The Senior Class will hold Vesper Service, under the auspices of the Southwestern Christian Union, Sunday, November 4, at 5 P.M., in Hardie Auditorium. Four such services are held during the school year, each by one of the classes. All students, parents, and friends are invited.

The Reverend Richard T. Gillespie, of Nashville, Tennessee, will speak. His topic will be "This World—And the Kingdom of Christ." Rev. Gillespie is Candidate Secretary of the Foreign Missions Committee of the Presbyterian Church, and was formerly pastor of the First Presbyterian Church at Thomasville, Georgia. He attended Presbyterian College at Clinton, South Carolina, and Columbia Theological Seminary, Atlanta, Georgia.

The program will be as follows: Prelude—"Tribby," Op. 50, No. 4: Miss Norma Estes, '47.

Processional Hymn No. 297—"God of Grace and God of Glory." Invocation.

Anthem—"All People That On Earth Do Dwell": The Southwestern Singers.

Responsive Reading No. 636. Prayer.

Hymn No. 387—"Faith of Our Fathers, Living Still." Address: Reverend Richard T. Gillespie.

Anthem—"Kyrie Eleison" (Lord Have Mercy Upon Us): The Southwestern Singers.

Recessional Hymn No. 376—"The Morning Light is Breaking." Benediction.

Presiding will be Professor Lawrence F. Kinney, assisted by Miss Betty Lay, president of the senior class; Mrs. J. Q. Wolf, director of Music; and Miss Norma Estes, '47, accompanist.

WORKSHOP PLAYERS

Professor Totten's Theater Arts class this year is scheduled to produce its first dramatic effort before the chapel audience some time in the near future.

The entire class has purchased season tickets to the Little Theater for the 1945 season.

DR. DIEHL addresses the student body to begin formal ground-breaking ceremonies for the new women's dormitory, which will be located on the east campus. Behind him stand, left to right, T. Walker Lewis, chairman of the $2,000,000 Southwestern campaign, Col. Sidney Farnsworth, chairman of the Board of Directors, and Dr. Moore Moore, secretary of the Board. The student body, faculty and staff gathered for the ceremonies, which replaced 8:30 chapel.

Gamma Delta, Local Group, On Campus

Elizabeth Fairleigh Heads Organization

A new sorority has been formed on the Southwestern campus.

With the formation of this new group, Gamma Delta, loomed the possibility that within a few years another National PanHellenic sorority may enter the campus. For by its own definition the new organization is "a local sorority with national aspirations."

Charter members of Gamma Delta are:

Elizabeth Ann Fairleigh, president. Cary Neil Clark, vice-president. Betty Jean Cullins, secretary. Sarah Rook, treasurer. Dale Guenther, publicity chairman.

Ora Lee Garraway. Betty Kilgore. Peggy McCall.

Mrs. George F. Totten is acting as advisor to Gamma Delta. Officers were elected at a meeting at her home.

Wine and white have been chosen the sorority colors. Sorority flower is a wine carnation.

Weekly meetings will be held at the homes of members.

College Loses Miss Gary

Miss Annie Beth Gary, for 17 years a member of Southwestern's administrative staff, has resigned her position as registrar of the college. New registrar is Malcolm Ewing Evans.

In 1925, the year the college was moved from Clarksville, Tenn., to Memphis, Miss Gary enrolled as a student and in 1928 she received her A.B. degree and became assistant registrar. In 1936, after a year at Columbia University where she earned her master's degree in psychology and education, she became registrar.

Miss Gary plans to vacation for a year, a month of which will be spent in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. As a token of gratitude for her service and as a farewell gift, Southwestern students presented Miss Gary with a silver tray.

The new registrar, Mr. Evans, received his A.B. degree at Arkansas College where he was later bursar. He was born in Batesville, Ark., and for four years has been a public accountant in Memphis.

Public Lecture Series To Open Friday, Nov. 9

American Heritage Is Theme This Year

First in Southwestern's 1945-46 public lecture series will begin at 8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 9, in Hardie Auditorium.

Theme of the series this year is "The American Heritage." Like last year's "Great Centuries" Symposium, which drew crowds of 500 at each program, the "American Heritage" series is open not only to townspeople, but to students of the college. Each night's lectures will end at 9:30 p.m.

Professors Kelso, Storn, and Osman will lecture on the opening program, which will be entitled "The Heritage of Old and New Worlds."

Prof. Osman, chairman of the lecture series, commented as follows: "It is not merely in America, but all over the world today that men are turning with sudden interest to an examination of the American Heritage. A knowledge of our American heritage will educate American citizens for an intelligent participation in American life."

No credit hours will be given students who attend this year's lecture series, said Prof. Osman, but they are urged to attend because of the great value of the material to be offered.

Schedule for the series is as follows:

I. The Heritage of Old and New Worlds, November 9:

1. Our Anglo-Saxon Heritage, Kelso.
2. The Latin Tradition, Storn.
3. The American Indian, Osman.

II. The founding of Empires in America, November 16:

1. Political Movements in Europe, Cooper.
2. Political Institutions of the Americas, Amacker.
3. The Colonial Mind, Kinney.

III. Origin of the American Mind, November 23:

1. Cavalier and the Puritan Traditions, Kinney.
2. The Frontier and the Pioneer Spirit, Benish.
3. The Inquisitive Element; Benjamin Franklin, Rhodes.

Diehl, Farnsworth, Lewis, Dr. Moore Speak At Program

The red-handled spade dug eagerly into the earth . . . behind it, Dr. Moore Moore, genial secretary of the Board of Directors; behind him, the hushed circle of the faculty and student body. Laughing, Dr. Moore straightened and a murmur moved around the circle.

For at last the first step toward The Greater Southwestern had been taken. The ground had been broken, and the new women's dormitory was on its way. Following it would be a student union building, and it was hoped, a library building, a theater . . . and more—all in due time.

Formal ground-breaking ceremonies began at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday on the east campus. After the choir opened the program with the usual chapel invocation, President Diehl made a brief talk, describing the new building and expressing his hopes for Southwestern's future. Twenty-two years ago when the first buildings were erected at a cost of a million and a half dollars, there was no formal ground-breaking. This, then, was the first.

Standing behind Dr. Diehl as spoke were Dr. Moore, Col. Sidney Farnsworth (Continued on Page 8)

Fast Courses Made For Vets

In view of the fact that a great many men and women have been discharged from the armed forces too late to enter the regular college classes, Southwestern is planning to offer, beginning Nov. 12, a program of accelerated courses in a few departments.

These courses will meet for six hours a week, instead of the usual three hours, so that a full semester's work in two courses, giving six semester hours of credit, may be completed. Unless there is an adequate number of registrants to justify the additional labor and expense, the courses will have to be withdrawn.

The following program of studies will be offered if there is sufficient demand:

- English 1, English Composition. Math 1, College Algebra. Economics 3, Principles of Economics.

Speech 1, Principles of Effective Speaking.

- History 1, European History, or Political Science 21, American Government.

In the second semester, these students will enter the regular classes.

Players Will Do Moliere; Elect Treanor President

The Southwestern Players, who opened their season last year with Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew," will this year delve into the great storehouse of the French theater to produce "The Doctor In Spite of Himself" by the famed satirist Moliere.

Unlike Moliere's other plays, however, "The Doctor" is pure comedy, not satire.

Professor Totten has set the production dates in the week after Thanksgiving. The Players plan to run the show three nights. Try-outs will be called soon to fill the 13 parts which the play requires. Seven men and six women are needed.

Also announced today is the election of the new president of the Players, Roberta Treanor. Berniece Wiggins is vice-president and Ilse Einstein is secretary. Members are Everarde Jones, Ernest Flaniken, Vadis Jeter, and Sally Johnston.

The Heelers, who are apprentice Players, will be more closely organized this year. They will form committee personnel on advertising, and staging, working under Players members. Heelers are tapped for membership in the Players when they have accumulated 50 points in advertising, staging, and acting.

Moliere's "The Doctor in Spite of Himself" was first enacted in the year 1666. The action of the play takes place in the 17th century. The plot centers around a Frenchman named Sganarelle. As the play opens, we find Sganarelle beating his wife. In an effort at revenge, she tells two men that he is a learned doctor, but is eccentric and won't admit it unless he is beaten. At this, the two proceed to beat him. In an effort to extract himself from a precarious situation, he says that he is a doctor. He is then carried by the two men to the house of Gerante to cure Lucinde, Gerante's daughter, of a sudden dumbness. The play continues from there with the troubles of Sganarelle.

Dormitory Board Petitions Council

Student Council notes:

The council was official sponsor of the War and Welfare Fund Drive.

Student Chapel Day was changed by the council from Friday to Saturday morning because of a request from members of the student body.

Several groups have felt that they are important enough on the campus to be represented on the council. To date, however, the Dormitory Women's Governing Board is the only one that has formally petitioned. Any other organization wishing representation should send in a written petition as soon as possible.

Members of the council are:

Maynard Fountain, President of the Student Council.

Paul McLendon, Vice-president of the Student Council.

Virginia Wade, Secretary-Treasurer of the Student Council.

Betty Lay, President of Senior Class.

War-Welfare Goes Over Thousand Mark In Big Drive

The War and Welfare Fund drive at Southwestern has reached a total of $1,206.00 for the combined contributions of the students and the faculty and staff. The Student Council, in charge of student contributions, has received $300.00, and Dr. Hartley, in charge of the faculty and staff, has raised $876.00. Student contributions were made through the various sororities and fraternities on campus; faculty donations were made individually.

The War and Welfare Fund drive is an annual drive which collects contributions for forty-two separate relief and charity organizations. Some of the better known of these agencies are the USO, the United China Relief, the Greek War Relief Association, War Prisoners' Aid, Girl and Boy Scouts, Gailor Hall, YMCA and YWCA, Memphis and Shelby county PTA, and the U. S. Committee for the Care of European children. It is one of only three drives in which the Southwestern students are asked to participate.

Regulations On Greek Houses

It has been suggested that many students do not, apparently, know the regulations concerning the use of sorority and fraternity houses. They follow:

Regulations For Use Of Sorority Houses

1. Sorority houses are to be reserved for the use of women exclusively during the morning hours until 2 P.M.

2. At all afternoon entertainments which men students attend there must be at least two women students from the junior and senior years.

3. At all entertainments after 8 P.M. which men students attend properly qualified chaperones must be present. (See "Proposed Regulations Concerning Social Functions.")

4. The Dean of Women must be notified when the sorority house is to be used after 8 P.M.

5. Entertainments must close at 11 P.M. except for very special occasions for which permission has been granted.

6. Each sorority may have a slumber party in its lodge one night a semester. Names of chaperones must be registered in the Dean of Women's Office one week in advance of the party.

Note: Women students may be present in fraternity houses only in afternoon between the hours 2-6 but must be present in groups of not less than four, two of whom must be juniors or seniors; they may attend duly authorized formal evening parties.

Regulations For Use Of Fraternity Houses

1. Fraternity houses are to be reserved for the use of men exclusively during morning hours until 2 P.M.

2. At all afternoon entertainments which women students attend there must be present at least two women students from the junior or senior years.

3. Women are permitted to visit fraternity houses only between the hours of two and six P.M., in groups of not less than four, two of whom must be juniors or seniors, except on the occasion of formal parties.

4. At all entertainments after 8 P.M. which women students attend properly qualified chaperones must be present. (See "Proposed Regulations Concerning Social Functions.")

5. Boisterous or unseemly conduct in any fraternity house will be penalized by indefinite closing of the house.

Two S'western Courses Draw Nationwide Attention

"Man Course is a Revolution in Academics Here"

A great step forward in American education has been attempted this year by the faculty of Southwestern. In a course designed to offer students a frame-work for intelligent thought, "Man In The Light Of History And Religion," the authors have anticipated a nationwide trend back toward classic traditions in education.

The course is under the direction of five professors, who collaborate in presenting it. They are Prof. W. R. Cooper, history; Prof. John H. Davis, history; Prof. L. F. Kinney, Bible; Prof. A. P. Kelso, philosophy; and Prof. John Osman, philosophy.

"The dominant feature of Western culture is the emphasis on man." With this as a keynote, the program has been launched to introduce to students our cultural heritage by "study of the historical movements and institutions and the philosophical and religious ideas which have produced Western man."

This experiment has aroused widespread attention throughout the nation and has brought acclaim from many of the country's leading educators.

Dr. Theodore M. Greene, acting Dean of the Humanities School at Leland Stanford University, has called the course "one of the most significant educational projects in America."

Other educators who have commented favorably on Southwestern's new course are Stringfellow Barr of St. Johns College, Peter F. Drucker of Bennington College, Commencement speaker of Southwestern's class of '45, and Leroy E. Loemker of Emory University, Head of the southern division of the Carnegie Committee on the Humanities.

At present, only five other universities have similar programs. They are Leland Stanford University, University of Chicago, Columbia University, Reed College, and Scripps College.

In a recent Harvard report, plans were discussed for the establishment of a course similar to "Man In The Light Of History And Religion," but actual offering of the course has not yet been attempted.

Student reaction has been generally favorable. In a course of this type, reference reading plays an important part, and the original plans for the reading material have been cut somewhat at requests of students, who found it hard to complete the required readings.

In a summary of the course, the authors have emphasized the return to primary sources. Feeling that the tendency of education has been to divide the body of human knowledge into many different fields, such as history, literature, art, economics, politics, religion, philosophy, and the various physical sciences, which has led to the fragmentation which marks our thinking, the authors have determined to present the historical framework by which all subjects are understood.

The student of today is lost in a maze of curriculum which leads him farther away from source materials whence came our Western culture. It is the effort of this program to show that no one subject is ever really understood apart from its historical framework.

When a student permits his interest to become too narrow and fails to consider the wider relationships of the materials he is studying, he cannot penetrate into the true nature and significance of his particular field. Many parts of our heritage have offered inspiration to men. And each man does not rely

Tradition Course Open In Evenings At the College

Keyed to the theme of education endorsed by the United Nations as promoting international understanding, a course entitled "The Great Tradition" is being offered in Southwestern's "Evening College" this year.

Professors Kinney and Osman, course directors, explain the tradition and the transmission as follows:

"Because tradition is the core around which a people's life and thoughts are built, because it is incarnated in a way of life, because it is symbolized in art and fought for in battles, to know and to understand its tradition is to know and to understand the desires and motivating forces of a people. If the United Nations is to be more than an abstract political idea, this tradition must be learned.

"The Great Tradition is best revealed in books for this has been the medium of recording and preserving the ideas and thoughts of men since the time of the ancient scribes through Gutenberg's printing press to us."

Southwestern's class of thirty-five, representing a cross section of doctors, lawyers, teachers, judges, business men, farmers, and housewives of Memphis, meets every Thursday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. to discuss the books selected as representative of the culture of the East and the West from the beginning of literature. Professor John Osman and Professor Lawrence Kinney lead the discussions. Four prepared lectures, entitled "Being and Becoming," "Appearance and Truth," "Good and Evil," and "Fate and Freedom," correlating the material are given by Professor Osman and Professor Kinney during the semester.

Professor Osman reports that response to the course has been great. Miss Pearl S. Buck, President of the East and West Association, whose purpose is to further better understanding between peoples through mutual knowledge has shown great interest.

The books being used this year are: Aeschylus, "The Oresteia"; "Ecclesiastes"; Thucydides, "History," Books I-IV; Plato, "Republic," Books I-VII; Aristotle, "Metaphysics," Book 1; Plutarch, "Lives," Alexander and Caesar; Lao Tse, "Tao Te Ching"; Mencius, selections; "Bhagavad Gita"; Paul, "The Epistle to the Romans"; Lucretius, "The Nature of Things," Books I-IV; Augustine, "The City of God"; Montaigne, "Apology for Raymond des Sebonde"; Bacon, "The New Atlantis"; Shakespeare, "King Lear"; Camoens, "The Lusiad"; Dostoyevsky, "The Brothers Karamazov"; Whitman, "Leaves of Grass," Emerson, "Essays," selections; Pearson, "The Grammar of Science."

on the same part of the material of civilization available to us which is our heritage. The important thing, therefore, is the making available to us these materials of our heritage. The Liberal Arts College must accept the responsibility of making them available.

The task of unifying our cultural heritage rests with the Liberal Arts College.

In introducing this course, Southwestern has moved toward the fulfillment of these ends. By means of "Man In The Light of History and Religion," Southwestern seeks to work the vast materials of our Western cultural heritage into an ordered whole under the integrating principles of history and religion.

LYNX CHAT

That week but determined voice you hear is the voice of your very own Lynx Kitty. Bravely standing up against the buffetings of the MADDEST year she can remember, and staunchly refusing to look over her shoulder at the approaching specter of eight weeks' grades, Kitty wraps about her the most chic of pink maribou sports jackets and is off to the realm of who-did-what-and-when.

Somewhere among the long and lean war years Kitty simply lost the power of words suitable to describe such a really good dance as the Men's Pan affair. To those unfortunate women who were not present (and thank heaven there weren't, Kitty selfishly adds) she can only say that there were men and they broke. Which is in itself a revolutionary statement. Glimpsed about the gym, which was by the way handsomely decked in red and black srep paper and lighted fraternity crests, were Handsome Harry and Boutawwwn . . . Maynard-and-Flutt-as-usual . . . Tosh rising supreme over the ravages of age and rheumatism to cut a very fancy rug with B. L. Hancock . . . Fred (Legs) Kelly breaking on date Mary Ann Metzger . . . Patsy Page Matthews in very good-looking black, getting a rush . . . as was little Jane Phelps . . . Bill Hightower and Becky McCall arm-in-arming back from the KA intermission party. (and blessings on the KA's for giving it.)

Your Kitty, by-now-convinced that Southwestern dances never begin on time, nevertheless arrived at the Women's Undergraduate Hallowe'en brawl shortly after eight Saturday night to find rows of perspiring square dancers do-se-doing madly about the gym. Appropriately clad in a red satin shirt which glittered with black sequin plaid, your Kitty whipped out her pearl-handled pencil and faithfully jotted down for you all that she saw. That blinding flash of light turned out to be Jerry Flippin's shirt and who but Flip within it . . . Jane Mann and a newly glamorized Bill Justis sat on the sidelines watching the opening Virginia Reel (the Navy took twenty pounds off Bill—count 'em, twenty!) . . . Wheel Crutchfield and one Mac Turnage were dashing madly from the gym out to the bonfire.

Kitty no sooner got inside than a baby bonnet was clapped on her all-unsuspecting head and a freshman sign hung on her back—turn about, evidently, is fair play. E. W. Nelius was home from M.I.T. and having one whale of a time—you've heard about being "island happy," well, Engle says he's "lab happy" and we can well believe it. Fred L. had a date with, let's see now, who was it this time? Oh yes, Nell was the lucky girl Saturday night. Bill Ingram made the handsomest farm hand Kitty ever saw. Tex was more of a drug-store cowboy, but did Kitty ever say she didn't like drug stores??? She saw Maynard and C. Cunningham NOT as usual. Pablo McLendon was conspicuous by his absence. Add GOOD-looking men: Hubert Hodgson. (And did your own keyhole peeker forget to mention that he is a dee-vine dancer????) The place was crawling Saturday night with Yale men home between sessions — and a cheery Boola-boola to you, too! And what d'ya know?? Denby Brandon DID have a date with Jane Phelps . . . poor Kappa Sig pledges.

Never let it be said that such an old woman about the campus as Kitty failed to take advantage of a Backward Dance . . . tis the perfect time to ignore those nasty men who didn't dance with her at the last formal . . . and to dance and dance with the perfect droves who did. Kitty wore a brand new sweater and skirt of "Quitfool Red" to the KD pledges affair in the gym Thursday afternoon. More funnnnn . . .

And now your Lynx Kitty comes, to the very and muchly important thisa and thata of campus gossip.

What can she say—what can anyone say about Bill McAfee and his women? Pat was first and then, oh then, the dreamy eyed Miss Birdsong got the biggest—but the BIGGEST rush Kitty has ever gazed dazedly upon. But Artaud is wearing the KS ring again . . . so who can say???

We think it's high time some one took over Paul Barret . . . honestly we do. The continued existence of such an elusive and unattached young man simply ruins Kitty's faith in Southwestern womankind.

People we like, but why doesn't he ever DANCE when he comes to a dance: Martin Hollinger.

People we also like, but why mention him since he's engaged: Pike Pledge president Jim Tharpe.

Many things have been cookin' on ye ole Southwestern campus, what with all the service men and all.

Haverty came home to take over all Gallimore's extra time and did so, but what we wanta know is what about Hal Mac, Peggy? Cunningham is now sportin' a beautiful new bracelet. Donor? Kay Steuwer.

Dick Bray has Pat Stevens worried. The poor child was on campus Saturday night so she sent friends to keep an eye on him.

About Liz McClendon and Hugh Jones: pinned one minute and not the next.

About Becky McCall and all her men! She can't seem to get them straight, the eternal triangle rages as always.

Betty Long and Camille seem to be fighting over Walker. Now what's up?

Does this one go, Harry, Bouton and King or Betty Lee, Harry and Bouton?

McLendon as always has two women fighting over him. Who will win, Vadis or Gloria?

It is heard that E's dark room is a din of iniquity. What say, E?

An aircraft carrier we know is called the "Big E." A fellow whose last name is Jones has the same title. Anyone wishing membership to the Wheel Club will see Mr. Jones, or his secretary, Miss Claire James, who will be found in the vicinity of its founder and president.

Betty Falls seemed to be the center of attraction at a recent Kappa Sig party at Ellendale.

It didn't take the K. A.'s long to reach their second childhood, according to latest reports. A spin-the-bottle contest holds a strange fascination for them.

Garnet Field has been looking quite stary-eyed of late, n'est pas? Sam Miller was in town as any fool could plainly see. Ah could see.

We give up, Tex! Who is it going to be?

Leon Hay's jewelry may now be seen on Marie Gooch. It looks better on her anyhow, Leon.

Always the lone wolf, eh, Eutlock? Straighten up and fly right.

Brod is on the campus and you may quote me on this.

It would seem that Bill Ben Klinke is in a new business. Catch a quick gander at that hunk of

Policy

We find it appropriate in this belatedly first edition of the Sou'wester for the school year 1945-46 to make a statement concerning Sou'wester policy under our management.

We intend in every way possible to make the Sou'wester what it must be or, for all practical purposes, cease to exist: the honest voice of the Southwestern student body.

The Sou'wester will not be a "gripe sheet." It will however, after careful investigation, unhesitatingly accuse, defend, or promote—as the situation may be.

We cannot feel, however, that should the Sou'wester fail to be what it purports to be, the failure would be all ours. For it is the duty of the student body to inform, to criticize and to recommend.

Fraternities

It has been a long time since we have had a more pleasant task than welcoming back to the campus PiKA, Sigma Nu, and KA.

We who are doddering old seniors remember well the last rush season in which all fraternities on the row participated. That year the lights were on, too, in the ATO house, second down the line. We can hope that next year ATO will be rushing again, for who can forget such campus big-shots as George Case and Vance (Zero) Gilmer? In the PiKA house there were E. W. Nelius (he of the scientific brain) and Will Bowden, campus literary light. Sigma Nu boasted football names—Kenny Holland not the least of them. But the ranks were thinning, and soon Sigma Nu, ATO, and Pike were officially "off campus."

Kappa Alpha stayed on, and, in fact, rushed as late as last fall. But by mid-year, SAE and Kappa Sig were the only two houses open.

These two houses added immeasurably to life here at Southwestern during the war years (shades of Dewey 'n Everade!) and they have remained to join with us in welcoming back the old—or, shall we say, in ringing in the new.

Miss Gary

"The college simply wouldn't run without Miss Gary."

There has been no more common saying on the Southwestern campus.

Yet suddenly and surprisingly, the college is being forced to do just that.

Miss Gary's departure has left us a little at a loss for words. What can we say by way of farewell to a person who has made herself so thoroughly and happily identified with all that is the heart of Southwestern?

Her leaving is of course a great loss to the faculty and staff. But the greatest loss, we cannot help feeling, is to the student body. For it was always Miss Gary who took infinite time to straighten out seemingly impossible schedules for harried Southwesternites; it was Miss Gary who was always glad to keep Elections Commission ballots on her desk until time for vote counting; it was Miss Gary who made up countless tables of facts and figures for Sou'wester reporters.

It is often thought the height of praise to call an efficient staff member "an institution." Perhaps in some cases the word applies. But we have always thought institutions singularly dull and un-individual things, and for this reason we ignore the custom. Miss Gary never stopped being a thoroughly charming person long enough to become an "institution."

We think it would be a fine thing if the students stopped by the Registrar's Office soon to meet the new Registrar, Mr. Evans. We think it fitting also to suggest that all of us be especially considerate in our requests of Mr. Evans, Jo Danielson, and Mrs. Fudge during the inevitable period of getting settled.

Expediency

Must we? Really . . . must we begin another year with faculty-student discussions over the appearance of the Palmer Hall social room and the parking of cars outside the parking lot?

Why not down our medicine like the little men we are and forego the unreasoning pleasure of throwing cigarett butts on the social room floor and parking in front of Palmer? By this time we should have realized that the administration won't budge. In fact, in the case of the parking question, it can't—that's a Board of Directors ruling.

Let's cooperate with the faculty and staff in this matter. There'll be times when we'll want them to cooperate with us.

New Professors

We have often felt that editorial writers are too enamored of welcoming and saying farewell.

And yet in this first Sou'wester edition of 1945-46, we cannot forego a word of welcome to the six new professors on the Southwestern faculty.

Professors Benish, Kent, Lessard, Lorenz, Webb, and Westbrooke have already made themselves part of Southwestern, by virtue of being liked and admired by their students. Really, it is becoming increasingly hard to think of them as "new."

Our feeling toward them may be expressed briefly. Dr. Diehl has chosen them for the Southwestern faculty. For us, there can be no higher recommendation.

Food

We doubt that there is a single American college whose students do not complain about college food.

We doubt also that there is any college whose students have less justification for complaint than Southwestern's.

Few of us realize the seriousness of the food shortages with which Mrs. Hill and her staff have had to contend during the war years. The continual bother over points, the never-ceasing struggle to keep sufficient help have been difficulties which Mrs. Hill has taken in her stride. They have served merely to make even more noticeable her talent for producing good food.

Government agencies inform us that we will not be "back to normalcy" for some time yet, and it would be well for us to remember that difficulties in the food situation continue. It would also be well if we in the student body should take the time to express to Mrs. Hill our appreciation for a job continually well done.

We cannot deny that there is perhaps some room for improvement in the Lynx Lair. We are speaking now not of the food but of the Lair's general appearance. We feel, however, that this is due to the wartime help shortage, and that as soon as the situation eases a bit, steps will be taken to screen off from the view of students waiting in line the garbage cans, and the tables on which used dishes are stacked for washing.

ice on Mary Ann Metzger's third finger, left hand. Congrats.

Winston Cheairs and Ed Dewey are due home in the near future.

A very handsome airplane-driver holds Norma Shelton's interest, so we're told. These glamour boys!

Dr. Osman seems to think that Flip needs a dictionary. Do you know the difference yet, Flip?

Classic remark of the month: Bob Hope says that Sinatra was good in "Anchors Aweigh," but he was the first sailor that he saw that had to pad his pants.

Everard Jones would never forget us if we ignored his Lovely Club. Quite an initiation, too.

The one that we hated to see go was the Sharpe-Murdock job. Maybe things will come back into being. Leave us hope so.

Speaking of little Sharpe, someone tell her it's not polite to let another girl know she's second choice.

And so, wearily, your own Lynx Kitty puts in an order for a new pearl-handled pencil (this week's is worn to a pearl-handled nub) and slips off to bed.

Council To Re-Do The Point System

The Student Council has under consideration revision of the Southwestern point system.

The system revised last year follows. Student Body vice president is responsible for enforcement.

The maximum points allowed one student is fifty. The only office on the campus requiring this maximum is that of president of the Student Body, but he is also ex officio member of the Elections Commission, the Men's Panhellenic Council, and the Christian Union Cabinet. He may also be president of his fraternity.

The new list of officers and the points assigned to each is as follows:

Publication Heads Named By Board

The Publications Board has announced the appointment of Irma Waddell as editor and Taylor Franks as business manager of the Lynx. Editor and business manager respectively of the Sou'wester are Berniece Wiggins and Billy McAfee.

Both publications are off to a belated start this year, since the appointments, usually made in the spring each year, were for various reasons postponed until this fall.

As president of the Board, Kitty Grey Pharr heads a list of members which includes Mabel Boone, senior representative; Sue Robinson, junior; and Mac Turnage, sophomore. Permanent members of the board are Mr. Springfield, Southwestern bursar; Professors MacQueen and Osman.

Dr. Hall To Speak In Memphis

Rev. Warner Hall, D. D., of Tuscaloosa, Alabama, alumnus of Southwestern class of '29, will speak to the annual observance of World Community Day in the First Methodist Church, Poplar and Second Street, on Friday, November 2, at 8:00 P. M.

Dr. Hall was born in Covington, Tennessee. After his graduation from Southwestern, he was graduated from Louisville Presbyterian Seminary. He did graduate work in Berlin and at Edinburgh under a Fielding Lewis Walker Fellowship in theology.

Each member of the faculty and student body is urged to hear Dr. Hall, who has been a frequent and popular speaker here on the campus.

101 Members In Canterbury

The Canterbury Club has emerged from the dust and confusion of beginning-of-school organization with 101 members.

Now easily the largest club on campus, the Canterbury Club, originally the Episcopal Club, purports to "promote worship, fellowship, study, and service; to bring students together irrespective of religious affiliations to discuss problems affecting college students and the relation of religion to everyday life."

The Club will this year aid in work at the Calvary Day Nursery. Jane Williams is president. Beverly Beane is the club's representative on the Christian Union Cabinet.

Hendrix College (Conway, Ark.) sororities voted this fall to disband. The fraternity line-up remains unchanged.

Southwestern Campaign Already Over $1,500,000 Mark

Voting Combine Is Defined Below

Elections Combine definition, adopted by the Elections Commission and amended by the student body, follows:

"The Commission defines a combine as follows:

"If a member of any organization instructs the members of his group to vote for any candidate (in any election supervised by the Elections Commission) because of a pre-arranged agreement with the candidate's organization, and if the group agrees to such instruction, this act shall be construed as a combine on the part of the organizations involved.

"The Commission shall accept as evidence the testimony under oath of any member of the organizations accused that he was instructed by a member of his organization to vote for a candidate because of a pre-arranged exchange of votes with the candidate's organization and that his organization agreed to said combine.

"It shall be left to the discretion of the Commission to decide whether or not such testimony shall result in conviction BUT the Commission may NOT convict the accused without such evidence."

The Southwestern Building and Endowment Fund Campaign is under way again after the summer lull. The campaign to raise two million dollars to be supplemented by a half million dollars from the General Education Board has already passed the $1,500,000 mark. Approximately one-half of the contributions were from Memphis and Shelby County and the other half from the remainder of the Four Synods.

Plans provide that two million dollars will be added to the college endowment fund and a half million will constitute a building fund. The first two buildings proposed are a new women's dormitory and a student union building. Work on the new dormitory will begin immediately and within the year, the student union building, William Neely Mallory Memorial Building, will be started. This building is to be financed by contributions made by friends of the late Major William Neely Mallory, treasurer and board member of Southwestern. This student union building will be erected on the site of our present gymnasium and will house a gymnasium, swimming pool, and quarters for extra-curricular activities.

Although students are not yet being asked to contribute to this campaign, they will be given an opportunity later in the year to do their part toward building the greater Southwestern.

Southwestern Vets Total 50

By TOM G. OSWICK

Some days ago I dropped in the office to do a little nose-counting. A quick look at the present enrollment reveals a total of fifty-one veterans of World War II. Yep, many a mild looking guy that you see wandering around the campus has seen a lit of things that were far from pretty. However, all of this is behind him and he is busy trying to forget them and remember who the heck I knaton was.

The transition from G. I. Joe to Joe College wasn't too difficult, but most have gotten out of the swing of going to school. One finds that the mind grows a bit dull among the armed services, but we're all hoping that it will come back soon.

At present, a veterans club is being organized to aid any future vets that plan to enter Southwestern. Of course, the G. I. Bill of Rights is taking care of the tuition and expenses, but as you can easily guess, there is red tape attached. The first group here found that many trips are necessary to the Veterans Board in the Sterick Building in order to get everything stright. Papers, discharges, service records and all such items are needed. About the time the vet thinks he has everything, he has to make another trip to get some small, obscure piece of information. But getting back to the Veterans Club here, we hope to eliminate all of this for the incoming student-veteran. The organization will not in any way participate in any school politics. It is purely to protect our interests insofar as national affairs of the ex-G. I. is concerned and to aid the new student here.

All branches of the service and all theatres of operations are well represented by our present enrollment. John Billings, ex-infantryman can tell you quite a few tales about France and Germany, as can Tex Kressenberg. Then there is Bill Ingram, who was busily engaged in airplane driving one day when he suddenly found himself without a plane. As a direct result, he spent 13 months in the tender care of the gracious German army. From the Marine Corps we received Harvey Hendley. Harvey did a quick turn-about. The gentlemen of that famous branch are very well known to the Japanese. Harvey spend a good stretch on Guadalcana helping the Japs greet their ancestors. Nom Mr. Henley is up to his neck in a pre-med course here.

I could name forty-nine more men that had various jobs in proving to our enemies, that this is the greatest nation on earth, and is going to remain so. Fred Kelly, Bill Bullock, Bill McAfee, all Navy. Jim Tharpe, Sam Fudge and many more from the Army. It's a big list and nearly every kind of a job from typists in Texas to B-17 pilots over Germany are included. I wish that I could name them all here and tell you what each one did, but it isn't possible with the amount of space available. It was a job that had to be done, and one that everyone knows was well done.

Musical Memphis

By BETTY BYNUM WEBB

Opera is always a welcome diversion to Memphians, and the performance of Verdi's "Rigoletto" was no exception. The cast as well as the interpretation was hardly sensational, but a few splendid voices made the time well spent.

The outstanding voice in the opera was that of Rigoletto himself, sung by Rocco Pandiscio, heretofore unfamiliar to Memphis audiences. His smooth, rich baritone poured forth his tragic role with little visible effort, although his acting left something to be desired. The prince, Anthony Marlowe, on the other hand, seemed natural enough in his acting yet had only a weak, quavering tenor to carry him through. Perhaps the great disappointment in the cast was Jean Dickenson as Gilda, whose dainty coloratura was so light that it carried scarcely ten rows past the orchestra pit.

Supporting singers were John Gurney as Count Monterone, William Hargrave as an excellent Sparafucile, and the vivacious Mona Bradford who was perfectly adapted to the role of Maddalena.

The evening was colored by comedy after the first act when there was great difficulty with the main curtain. The company's stage manager, Desire Defrere, furnished the audience with laughs by his unnecessary presence while embarrassed stage hands rushed madly attempting to remedy the situation.

On October 20, the usual large and expectant group welcomed Myron Myers, who gave the first faculty recital of the season at the Memphis College of Music. This masterfully executed program included the Bach D Major "Prelude and Fugue" and the 32 Variations in C Minor by Beethoven, both of which displayed his fine technique, as well as his genius for feeling, to the best possible advantage. The Sonata No. 4 by Scriabine, although very interesting, was more for the cultivation of modern piano literature than for listening pleasure. The Ravel numbers were splendidly interpreted, particularly the well-known Toccata. At the conclusion of what was undoubtedly his best performance in several seasons, Mr. Myers obliged the enthusiastic audience by playing the beautiful "Reflects dans l'eau" by Claude Debussy.

The first concert of the season was sponsored by the Beethoven Club on October 23 and had as its first artist Joseph Schuster, cellist, who has been soloist for many years with symphony orchestras and only recently has toured the United States as a concert artist. "American concert audiences have lately shown a growing interest in the cello, and are beginning to realize that it is as capable of producing delicate and dazzling effects as the violin," says Mr. Schuster. The truth of his statement was evidenced in his delightful program, including the compositions of such masters as Tartini, Beethoven, Chopin, Schumann, von Weber, Bloch, and de Falla. His closing number, the Ritual Fire Dance, was particularly well-received as were his two encores, the all-time favorite "Flight of the Bumblebee" and the amusing Prokofief "Marche". The Variations in E flat major by Beethoven showed not only the superb technique of the soloist but also that of his most able accompanist, Hellmut Baerwald. It is not often that one finds an accompanist so completely in sympathy with the artist, and there were those in the audience who wished that Mr. Baerwald had made up the second half of the program.

Miss Novotna was received with relatively little enthusiasm, perhaps because of the brilliant notices she had been given but did not sustain. Although she was attractive to look at, her vocal ability was questionable and left the audience with a feeling of uneasiness. Her program included arias from operas by Mozart, Dvorak, Offenbach, and Massenet, and group of modern songs. The Czechoslovakian singer showed herself off to a fair advantage in her interpretation of the Brazilian "El Clavelito", but the performance was far from the usual standard set by this musical organization.

OFF THE BACKBOARD

By JIM WADE

It has come to be our task this Fall, as in years past, to hunch over this battered mill every two weeks and tap out some form of sports comment for the enlightenment of the Southwestern student body. It was three years ago when we first scribbled out a column for the college paper, and recently as we thumbed through the back issues of the Sou'wester, we happened upon that initial masterpiece. It is fitting tribute to our literary genius that the aforementioned column is as timely today as it was three years ago. Herewith we reprint it. If some of our attempts at color and style reek strongly of old Virginia ham, please forgive us.

"Fall has come again to Southwestern, and the great oaks are scattering their leaves across the campus; the winds are humming a weird tune around the ivied gables of Palmer Hall; co-eds in plaid skirts and oversized sweaters lounge about the social room in poses demonstrative of their utter sophistication; in fact all is as it should be—with one exception—out on Fargason field no football team is being put through its paces.

"All through our high school days we followed with avid interest the fortunes of the oft-beaten but ever valiant Lynx Cats. We'll never forget the magic passing of Kite Morton, the artistry of Jimmy Sasser's broken field running, the powerful line work of such boys as Henry Hammond, Oney Ellis, Fleet Edwards and the late Bill Little. But there was one who was a giant among giants, a brute of a fellow who terrorized the Dixie Conference and did more to put this college on the football map than any other one person . . . Gaylon Smith was his name, and the brand of ball he played has become something of a legend . . . Perhaps we are reminiscing too much, but this same nostalgic feeling creeps over us each year when we hear football talk in the air and the spirit of the game pervades the whole nation. There are no football players back on the campus this year to keep the spirit alive. But keep this ever in mind . . . Southwestern has a great athletic tradition that must be fostered in its time of need. Perhaps it won't be too long before another Lynx team is on the prowl . . . We hope not anyway."

We hope that the above excerpt from one of our old columns makes it clear as to how we feel about Southwestern and football. We presume that the reader is by this time aware that the college does not plan to subsidize football players next year. This of course means that we will have no football team. The immediate reaction of the average student upon learning this news is a violent expression of indignation and a vehement condemnation of the powers that be.

It is necessary, however, that the student body should properly comprehend the barriers that stand between Southwestern and a decent football team. To begin with, the building of a team would involve expense that would run into hundreds of thousands of dollars . . . Expert players must be seduced into attending the college, and the competition in that field is enormous . . . if indeed the school could get the necessary funds, could secure sixty good players, then this problem arises: How can we keep them here more than one semester without half of them flunking out? There is one of the greatest difficulties. The average professional

Two More Games In Series Tonight

There are two big games on the basketball schedule for tonight, at 7 and 8 P.M., so all you rooters come out and yell for your team.

KA plays SAE at 7:00, and from this corner it looks like a big night for KA rooters, as "Long Jim" Wade and his boys shouldn't have too much trouble with this one. However, SAE has some excellent material, and with practice will give anyone a hard fight.

Independent Men play PiKA at 8:00, and anything could, and probably will happen in this game, as both teams are rather undecided as yet, as to who is going to play. All this reporter has been able to discover so far is that Sam Fudge will definitely be in there for PiKA. Things will be popping for the next three weeks out at the gym on Wednesday and Friday nights, so let's all get basketball-minded and make it a regular date.

ball player is not the most industrious student, and in years past the academic axe has lopped off many of the best grid prospects before they ever got started.

We will not go on with the almost endless list of problems that stand between this college and anything like football on a big scale. Rather than see the school humiliated with a team unworthy of its tradition, we would prefer that the

Intramurals Under Way In Fine Stride

All Frats Playing, Also Independents

Intramural sports opened with a bang Wednesday night with a pair of red-hot basketball games. SAE opposed KS in the opener at 7:00 P.M., with KA and SN battling it out in the second game.

There are six teams on the schedule, with all the fraternities represented, and Independent Men rounding out the list. The schedule will be a round robin, each team playing one game with every other team.

KA will be sparked by "Long Jim" Wade and David Johnson, ably assisted by Bill Egbert, Jim Moorehead, Dick Bray, Jim Michael and John Billings.

KS has a large squad led by Fred Kelley, with Bill Clary, Ted Hay, Harry Hawken, John Murdock, Bill Ingram, Bill Southerland, John Mc-Intosh, and "Tex" Kressenberg all scrambling for a place on the team.

PiKA is badly handicapped by injuries, but Sam Fudge will be in there pitching at the old basket, with the rest of the team rather undecided.

SAE has a crew of bastketeers composed of Bob Rowe, Billy Pryor, Billy Bell, Martin Hollinger, and Denby Brandon, all tall, fast boys who should play well together.

SN will be represented by Billy Hightower, Bob Norman, Jerry Pearce, Gerald Carpenter, Charlie Dean, and Sydney Eberle, all of whom will be in there pitching from the opening whistle.

Independent Men are trying hard to find someone to help Vincent Splane, but so far have been having a little trouble getting a squad together.

In case any of you want to copy the schedule down in your date-books, here it is.

- Oct. 31—SAE vs. KS; KA vs. SN.
- Nov. 2—Ind vs. PKA; SAE vs. KA.
- Nov. 7—SN vs. KS; KA vs. PKA.
- Nov. 9—Ind vs. KS; SAE vs. SN.
- Nov. 14—PKA vs. SAE; KA vs. Ind.
- Nov. 16—PKA vs. KS; Ind vs. SN.
- Nov. 21—KS vs. KA; SN vs. PKA; Ind vs. SAE.

KS Wins Over SAE In Opener

KS defeated SAE in the first game of the intramural basketball season Wednesday night, by a score of 21 to 9. KS and Kelley took an early lead, and were never in trouble except in the third quarter, when SAE rang up three field goals to make the score 9 to 11. In the last quarter star Fred Kelley took the ball for KS and made three quick goals to sew up the game for KS.

Bell and Brandon were the big guns for SAE, but they simply couldn't keep the ball away from Kelley long enough to win the game.

KA Wins Easy One Over SN

KA swamped SN in the second game of a doubleheader Wednesday night, by a score of 46 to 16. "Long Jim" Wade, David Johnson, and Bill Egbert teamed up to score 42 of the points, which was quite enough to sew up the ball game.

Sigma Nu worked hard, but were unable to score until late in the game, and were just too far behind to catch up. Norman, Carpenter, and Hightower accounted for all of SN's scores, but were unable to do much with Ka's offense.

Lynx Cage Squad Begins Workouts

Wade, Splane, Johnson Return to Bolster Squad

The Lynx Basketball squad has started working out. Any Monday, Wednesday, or Friday afternoon, you can find the gym full of men and basketballs.

Coach Clemens isn't too optimistic about the team, due to the fact that the squad is largely composed of inexperienced men, with only "Long Jim" Wade, Vincent Splane, and David Johnson having played much Varsity Basketball. However, it is a long time before the season opens, and the team should smooth out a lot before the opening game.

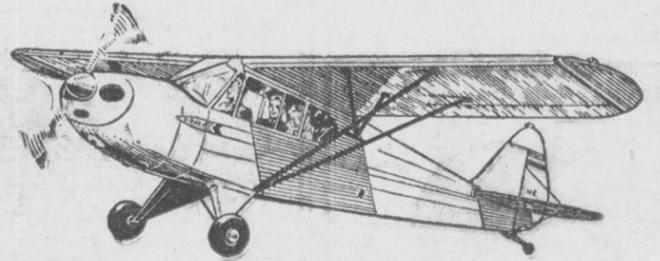

Splane is one of the big question marks on this season's squad, as he is under a doctor's care at present, and it is hard to say whether or not he will be ready to go when the whistle blows. The squad at the present time is rounded out by Bill Clary, Sam Fudge, Bill Egbert, Jim Moorehead, Bob Norman, Billy Pryor, and Bob Rowe, all fighting for a berth on the starting five.

The schedule is largely tentative so far, with no definite dates except for the opening game. However, Coach has tentative games with Memphis State, Arkansas State, Vanderbilt, and Ole Miss.

The team will start the season with what may well be its toughest game, playing Memphis N.A.T.T.C. here Dec. 6. N.A.T.T.C. was the fifth ranking service team in the country last year, and will have its two stars, Schaus and Oldham, back again this season. Coach Clemens and the boys are working hard and guarantee everyone they play a full game of basketball. Mark this opening game down in your date-book, and start warming up those vocal chords.

C.U. Forum Presents Awaited Faculty Opinion Of Football

Student Opinion Split Over Big Question of Lynx Team Future

By BILL HATCHETT

The Christian Union Cabinet held another of its discussion forums before a large crowd at the Chi Omega house on Friday, October 19, at 3:45 P.M. The subject, "Football and the Christian College," was discussed in short talks by President Diehl, Professor Osman, and Coach Clemens.

Southwestern, it was learned, will have no football team in the immediate future.

President Diehl, in the first talk, stated that he is strongly opposed to the professionalism and commercialism that has in recent years become associated with college football. He condemned in no uncertain terms the present system of subsidization, either by the college or by private individuals, of the tuition and living expenses of an athlete of known ability in order to induce him to come to that college, when the subsidization is given merely for the athlete's prowess and not for any educational value.

Prof. Osman, speaking on "Big-Time Football," said that while football ordinarily contributes a great deal toward the development of a school spirit, and, as witness Notre Dame, is excellent advertisement for the college, it is doubtful if the professionalized teams playing for certain colleges today help that spirit. It is a question whether the small college can meet the terrific expense involved.

Coach Clemens, All-Conference at Alabama, speaking last, stated that he is personally a great lover of football, and that he is well aware of what the game means, both to the actual players and to the people behind them. "But," he said, "the game has unfortunately gone to such a point that the athlete is lured more by the football scholarship offered than by the game itself. The subsidization and scholarship program has been built up to the point where athletes actually shop around for the best offer, and it is very rarely today that players are seen who are not on scholarships."

Ground is Broken

Farnsworth, chairman of the Board of Directors, and T. Walker Lewis, who heads Southwestern's campaign for $2,000,000.

Col. Farnsworth spoke, urging every student to do his bit toward raising the needed money. Mr. Lewis, who served as chairman of the Board during Col. Farnsworth's absence, made the dedicatory prayer.

The choir led the assembled group in singing the Alma Mater, and Rev. John Millard of Evergreen Presbyterian Church pronounced the benediction.

The new dormitory, designed by Henry C. Hibbs and Associates of Nashville, who designed Southwestern's other buildings, will be built of the same ferruginous sandstone which composes the others. The stone comes from Southwestern's own quarry. Building design matches the Gothic lines of the other buildings. S. & W. Construction Co. are general contractors.

Just inside the door, which faces Palmer Hall, will be an entrance hall. On the first floor also will be two social rooms, kitchens, a matron's suite, an infirmary. The Williams Guest Suite, also on the first floor, will be built from funds supplied by the will of Miss Sallie P. Williams of Nashville.

On the second floor will be housed 39 students. On this floor will be two reading rooms. Student rooms will be arranged in suites—two rooms with a bath connecting.

The third floor will house 23 students and will contain a social room.

In the tower will be six sound-insulated practice rooms for music students.

It is expected that the building will be completed in six to eight months.

Athletics

western is considering a program of soccer and lacrosse. It is hoped that other colleges and universities in this area will be interested in intercollegiate competition in these two sports. While they are rugged contact games, it is believed that few institutions will be led to subsidize these sports, thus making it possible for a college like Southwestern to compete on even terms with even the largest of them.

It is planned that track and field athletics will be emphasized more than previously at the institution. It is hoped to develop relay teams that can be sent to the Kansas Relays, the Drake Relays, the Texas Relays, and other large meets held over the country. A track and field program will afford a large number of students the opportunity to participate in competitive athletic games.

Southwestern believes that competitive sports by amateur athletes who are students in the school is the very heart and soul of a sound athletic program. Thus it is proposed to launch an intensive intramural program of competition in football, basketball, soccer, lacrosse, track and field, tennis, and other sports. It is believed that such a program will produce able athletes who can hold their own with the best that any other institution can produce if they go into it on an amateur basis. It is the hope at Southwestern that such a program will remove the student from the role of spectator and give him an opportunity for competition. One of the great troubles of athletics in America today lies in the fact that few men play in the big games, and that most of the students are mere spectators. At Southwestern there will be an endeavor to return to the old Greek ideal where every boy is a competitor.

In addition to the major sports of soccer, lacrosse, basketball, track and field, there will be varsity teams in golf and tennis which will participate in intercollegiate competition. An intensified program of intramural sports for both men and women is already under way at Southwestern. Two hours of two afternoons a week are already required athletic recreation. This fill be shaped into a larger program as the student body returns to its normal enrollment. Southwestern will be handicapped for another year or so for the lack of an adequate gymnasium and swimming pool. When the proposed new athletic plant is finished, the college will have one of the best athletic programs of any institution of its size in the country.
