All Sing Will Be Held In Hardie Tomorrow Night

Fraternities And Sororities To Compete For Awards

By NANCY HILL

The All Sing, sponsored by Kappa Delta, will be held tomorrow night in Hardie Auditorium, and will begin at 7:30. Sororities and fraternities will compete for awards with musical presentations.

Selections to be sung run from hymns and Christmas carols to lullabies. Kappa Delta officers in charge promise a very good program.

Jackie Roland and Dottie Steindorff have written original words for the KD's musical introduction.

Harmonizers Entertain

While the judges are choosing the winners, the audience will be entertained by the Hash House Harmonizers. This melodious group is composed of Bob Matthews, Bob Montgomery, Bob Edgington, Wayne Todd, Jimmy Caldwell, Bob Bennett, Bob Richardson, and Tony Elizondo.

The panel of judges is composed of Wilson Mount, Mrs. E. A. Angier, and Miss Natalie Posert. Reba Mostellar was in charge of selecting the judges.

All contestants and guests are reminded to buy their tickets. Thelma Nichols is in charge of ticket sales.

Competition is always keen in this contest. Chi Omega sorority and SAE fraternity are striving to keep the cups they won last year.

Suggestion Boxes To Be Put Out

Students Get Chance To Air Gripes, Comments

Boxes in which students may drop notes voicing complaints or other comment on campus affairs will be placed in the cloister and outside Chapel again this year.

This attempt to find out student opinion is sponsored by the Student Council. The Council will consider each suggestion and attempt to carry it out if possible.

One notable improvement resulting from the opinion poll last year was the paving of the campus roads. The parking lot back of Science Hall was also improved by the filling of holes and the leveling of ridges.

Suggestions may be handed in anonymously if the student wishes. Those which are handed in signed will be kept in confidence by the Student Council.

Psychology Class Conducts Tests

Experiment With Taste Buds, Steel Nerves

Experiments in Dr. Llewellyn Queener's psychology classes have shown that the taste buds alone are not able to distinguish among foods, cigarettes, etc., unless the flavor is radically different. When certain members of the class who preferred one of four kinds of popular cigarettes took a test in their ability to identify their favorite brand from the other three while blindfolded, they were less accurate than if they had been simply guessing.

Other Demonstrations

Other interesting demonstrations of psychological reactions made in Dr. Queener's classes include work with a "lilly steel" nerve to show that reactions pass down it in much the same way as they pass through the nerves of the human body.

Dr. Queener, associate Professor of Psychology, has recently had three articles published in the Journal of Social Psychology, in the June and August issues.

Thanks! But Please Don't Read Paper In Chapel, Class

Thanks for the compliment, but please don't read The Sou'wester in Chapel or class.

We are not permitted to let the newspapers be distributed until after Chapel begins, so please do not ask for them earlier.

It has been suggested that students put The Sou'wester away promptly after the class bell rings, and not wait for the professor to ask that they be folded.

Thank you.

Chest Contribution Falls Below Last Year's Drive

20 Cents Per Student Is Average Of Donations

Contributions to the Community Chest Drive averaged a little less than 20 cents for each student this year. A total of $126 had been collected from the 650 students when the drive closed Saturday.

Both on an average and in the over-all total this year's drive shows a decrease over the donations last year, when the 800 students contributed $170. That gave an average of 21 cents.

"The Chest Drive committee wishes to express appreciation to those students who gave their support," Curtis Kent said in releasing the report. "However, the results are below what we had hoped for, and what the student body should be able to give. Try again next year—I guess that's the best thing to do."

Active Drive

An active drive was carried on, led by co-chairmen Toby Bunn and Curtis Kent. Mrs. W. O. Bennett, the chairman for the Private Schools and Colleges Division of the Memphis Chest workers, spoke in Chapel Monday and Tuesday. A booth was set up in the cloister and jars for collections were put up in various places on the campus to receive donations.

The drive began Friday, November 4 and was to have ended the next Friday, but was continued till Saturday in hope that a larger amount might be collected.

Cobb Awarded Trophy For Writing Fight Song

A trophy for winning the fight song contest was presented to Jimmy Cobb last Thursday in chapel by Judd Williford, acting for SABA and the Student Council who sponsored the contest.

Williford expressed the opinion that the adoption of a new fight song expresses Southwestern's progressive spirit. This spirit is cherished as much as the traditions of the college.

Jimmy Cobb taught the tune of the new song to students in chapel Friday and Saturday after copies of the words had been distributed to them.

ODK Taps Three New Members In Chapel Services

Toby Bunn Is Named Outstanding Sophomore

Omicron Delta Kappa, in chapel services last week, tapped three new members and awarded its annual cup for most outstanding Sophomore man.

Toby Bunn was presented with the cup as outstanding Sophomore in his class last year. The award was made by Bill Brown, president of the fraternity. Toby was president of his Sophomore class last year. He has also been president of IRC, and is now local chairman of NSA. He went to Europe last summer, and has given talks before several groups on his observations there.

Those tapped were Bob Montgomery and Jim Bartlett, honored for leadership in social and religious activities; and Herman Kaplan, honored for outstanding scholarship.

The officers in ODK for this year are: Bill Brown, president; Ray Ashley, vice president; and Dr. Wolf, secretary-treasurer.

Omicron Delta Kappa accords recognition and honor to those men who have shown meritorious leadership and service in extra-curricular activities. Five major phases of campus life are recognized and encouraged by the fraternity, including: scholarship, athletics, social and religious affairs, publications, and speech, music, and dramatic arts.

Sorority Rushing Season Opens

Quota System Effective Again This Year

The first step toward sorority rushing has been made. On November 9 all Freshman girls received a card, on which they must state whether or not they are interested in pledging a sorority if they are eligible scholastically. These cards must be turned in to Mrs. Virginia Hicks by today.

When all the cards have been handed in, a list will be compiled of those who are interested in pledging and will be turned in at the registrar's office for the eight weeks' grades of each. After this information has been secured the quota for the sororities will be set, which will consist of the number of all the girls interested and eligible divided by five, the number of national sororities on the campus.

A list of these girls will be posted, and they will meet on December 1 at four o'clock in Room 101, Science Hall, where the rushing procedure will be explained in detail and any questions or problems will be taken up.

The rush parties will be held on December 3, 6, and 9.

Disc Jockey Given Lumps By Co-eds' Caustic Cracks

If you happened to have been listening to station WHHM on your radio around 3:30 or 4:00 November 1 you heard Buddy Dean of the 1340 Club read a letter written on Southwestern stationery. In this letter were many caustic remarks about the way in which Mr. Dean conducts his program.

The particular complaint was his criticism of Frankie Laine's recording of "Mule Train." It seems that Buddy thinks that Frankie Laine's method of driving mules is not the best.

The authors of the letter told Mr. Dean that he should drive his mules and let Frankie Laine drive his! They also made comment on his little rhymes about the records he plays.

These were termed nauseating.

Authors Identified

The surprising thing about the letter was the identity of its authors; Emily Rice, Pat Ingram, Jane McAtee, and Ann Brown.

On the following afternoon some girls in Evergreen, no doubt feeling it their duty to defend the honor of the upperclassmen, sent a letter to the Club saying that the first letter had obviously been a joke to hurt the school. By the time this letter was read Buddy Dean had received several other letters and telegrams on the subject of "Mule Train."

Then on November 8 Buddy read another letter, this one a denial of the insult written by the first girls. The letter explained that all of these girls had afternoon classes and could not have written the letter. However, she said they agreed with the comments and hoped Buddy would profit by them.

Buddy said that he was still receiving letters about "Mule Train," some disagreeing, but most agreeing with the four upperclassmen.

Scholarships Are For Study Abroad

Fulbright Scholarships providing for travel, tuition, and maintenance for one academic year of graduate study abroad will be awarded again this year to winners of competitions conducted by the State Department. This announcement is made by the Department and the President's Board of Foreign Scholarships which administer the Fulbright Act providing for these grants.

Requirements for eligibility include: a college degree or its equivalent; a working knowledge of the language of the country the student wants to work in; and American citizenship.

Eleven countries are listed as those in which awards may be used.

Interested students should get information from Professor J. O. Embry, chairman of the Fulbright Program Committee on the campus.

Applications should be completed in November.

Picked For Cotton Title

Anne Caldwell Is Chosen Campus Cotton Maid

The Sou'wester To Sponsor Her In National Contest

Winner of the campus Maid of Cotton title was Anne Caldwell, entered by Delta Delta Delta sorority. Anne will be entered in the National Cotton Council Maid of Cotton contest held here in Memphis January 2. The Sou'wester, sponsor of the campus contest, will sponsor Anne in the national competition.

First alternate named by the judges was Barbara Flippin, entered by Alpha Omicron Pi. Second alternate chose from the fourteen co-eds competing was Jean Arnold, entered by Kappa Alpha.

Kent MC'ed

Curtis Kent served as master of ceremonies at the program held Monday night. Bob Craven provided the musical background.

Each of the contestants appeared in a street dress and an evening gown and each made a brief statement as to why they would make a good Maid of Cotton and good-will ambassador for King Cotton. The judges then called back five before making the final decision. A private interview with each of the top five was held by the judges before they decided the winner.

Smith, Green In Top Five

Besides the campus Maid and her alternates, Patty Smith, entered by Sigma Nu, and Marilyn Green, entered by Chi Omega, were among the top five.

Judges were Miss Ann Farrell, fashion co-ordinator at Lowenstein's and Miss Mary Allie Taylor, manager of the Maid of Cotton tour for two years. "Fourteen girls as lovely as those in your contest made deciding very difficult," the judges said.

Also entered in the contest were: Martha McClanahan, Alpha Omicron Pi; Betty Tatum, Alpha Tau Omega; Nancy Wilson, Chi Omega; Jane Woodson, Delta Delta Delta; Jackie Roland and Ann Wilks, Kappa Delta; Betty Joe Carter, Pi Kappa Alpha; Mary Catherine Hurt and Helen McGee, Zeta Tau Alpha.

Flowers for the stage decorations were furnished by Ethel Harris, florist.

Fall Sunday Will Be November 20

Town Students Urged To Host Dorm Dwellers

By MARY REESE
"Fall Sunday" will be November 20. This is the day that the town students show their hospitality by inviting dormitory students to attend church and have dinner with them and their families.

Every year the Christian Union Cabinet designates one Sunday in the middle of the first semester for this occasion. The Women's Panhellenic Council waives its rushing rules concerning the intermingling of sorority members and rushees to make it possible for upperclassmen to invite new students.

The Churchmanship Committee, consisting of Virginia Jones, chairman, Pat Tomlinson, publicity, Mary Myers, Marian Neudecker, and Ed Boldt, is in charge.

Posters In Dorms

There will be posters in the dormitories and in the cloister for people to sign up for the students they have invited. This is done so that it will be easier for the town students to know who has already been invited.

Virginia Jones urges the town students to enter into the spirit of "Fall Sunday" and have one or more guests with them on November 20. She adds further that this is a good way for the students to get acquainted, and in her own words, "We want everybody out of the dining hall that day. Let's show the dormitory students how hospitable Memphis can be."

Holidays Coming; No Sou'wester Next Week

Thanksgiving Holidays begin after classes Wednesday and end with the first class (or Chapel) Monday. There will be no issue of The Sou'wester next week, due to the holidays.

Staff members, however, are to report to the office tomorrow afternoon for assignments for the next issue.

CUC Sells Apples In Cloister For Orphanage

The Christian Union Cabinet is having its annual apple sale in the cloister this week in order to raise money for the Leath Orphanage.

The apples are being sold for no less than a nickel and for anything more the student wants to give.

These delicious apples are kept cold.

Need For One Way Stairs

Have you ever been knocked down while attempting to navigate those narrow stairs to the second floor of Palmer Hall? No? Haven't been here long, have you!

We would like to suggest, editorially, that the architect that planned those things be hanged from the Tower, but since that wouldn't make the stairs any wider, we have another suggestion to make.

Let the stairs on the north side of the building be one-way up and the stairs on the south side of the building be one-way down. This would eliminate much of the confusion and many of the bruises now in evidence as a result of students trying to go both ways at once on stairs too narrow to allow two-way traffic.

Invite Someone On Fall Sunday

There are 355 Southwesterners who live at home in Memphis, compared with 280 who live in the dormitories.

That makes it pretty clear that only because of lack of interest, or just forgetfulness, on the part of the town students will any Southwesterner be condemned to eat alone in Neely Hall November 20, "Fall Sunday." (See story on front page.)

Many upperclassmen have complained that strict rushing rules keep them from getting to know the new students until the semester is nearly gone. New students feel much the same way from their angle.

And lots of people who have been at Southwestern a year or more have let friendships with other old students lapse because of the separation between town and dorm students.

"Fall Sunday" is made for anyone who has this problem. Invite some dorm friend home with you November 20. As Virginia Jones says, "Let's show the dormitory students how hospitable Memphis can be."

Let's Have A Man Size Lynx Cat

For just a little expense, Southwestern could have a Lynx Cat for a mascot. No, we are not reviving the "expedition to a Louisiana swamp to capture a live Lynx Cat." A costumer could make a very nice Lynx Cat suit for some enterprising student to wear at the games.

Pittsburgh University has a student in a Panther suit cavort at athletic events and pep rallies and the privilege of wearing the suit is one of the most sought after things on the campus.

Hendrix College had, for a few years anyway, an Indian that performed at football games and a great deal of pageantry at pep rallies was built around the Indian.

Much talk about school spirit has been going around the campus lately. Wouldn't a mascot help the project?

Of course, the Lynx Cat suit would have to be moth-eaten for a few years at least. It wouldn't go so well with the termite-eaten "Eyesore Field House" if it weren't just a little decrepit. Of course, some organization such as SABA or the S Club could start a drive to get the new gymnasium built—if they had enough school spirit.

National Student Association Explained

A series of articles on the National Student Association begins in this issue. The articles, written by Toby Bunn, local chairman of NSA, explain the role of that organization in student life and the student's role in the organization.

Southwestern is a member of NSA and as a member, receives certain benefits for students at the college. It behooves us all to become better acquainted with this organization that is becoming more and more powerful in student affairs over the nation.

The Old Timer Says

By VIVIENNE CHILTON

FIVE YEARS AGO November 19, 1944

Friday night, November 17, the great enterprise of the faculty of Southwestern, the Symposium of The Great Centuries was introduced to an enthusiastic overflowing crowd of both students of Southwestern and the people of Memphis by Dr. Kelso and his associates, Dr. Amacker and Dr. Kinney. This course of the crises in the history of the world had a successful start. So many people attended the first meeting that chairs had to be lined up and down the aisles of the auditorium.

President Diehl of Southwestern opened the program with a short introductory talk in which he cited the accomplishments of Professor Osman and the other members of the faculty who took part in the preparation for this arduous undertaking. Dr. Diehl also showed that Southwestern is a pioneer in this type of education, many larger universities having made unsuccessful attempts with it.

TEN YEARS AGO November 17, 1939

Question: Do you think Southwestern is lacking in spiritual life?

Answer: Yes, I do. It is not exactly a lack in spiritual life, but rather a lack of spiritual outlook. This is illustrated by the lack of reverence in Chapel. Chapel is just a matter-of-fact service, which we attend, but which we look on as merely routine.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO November 16, 1934

Our Southwestern Eds have certainly learned to take or leave their women just as they come. Most of them declare their ardor waxes as strong for a girl who smokes as for a girl who inhales only pure, undefiled atmosphere. However, we still have in our midst a few who will not march to the strains of Lohengrin with a maiden who doesn't mind mixing smoke rings with wedding rings.

TWENTY YEARS AGO November 15, 1929

Three Seniors, one Junior, and one faculty member were chosen as members of Omicron Delta Kappa Tuesday morning in an impressive tap service of the fraternity—Dr. A. P. Kelso was chosen from the faculty.

Two victories in three days is the record that Southwestern now boasts. The football team having won the game with Sewanee, the track team stepped out Monday morning and won the American Legion cross-country run. Teams from Southwestern, Oxford, Mississippi, and the YMCA competed. Southwestern won three-out of four cups.

THIRTY YEARS AGO November 19, 1919

The organization of the University Orchestra was effected early in October and regular practice is now being conducted. There is a showing of unusual talents by some of the students, both by men and co-eds. Rapid progress is being made, and it is hoped that they will appear in public in the near future.

By TOBY BUNN

(EDITOR'S Note: This is one of a series of articles on the National Student Association, of which Southwestern is a member. Toby is chairman of the local NSA committee, a sub-committee of the Student Council.)

Although Southwestern became a member of the National Student Association in 1947, many Southwestern students seem misinformed or uninformed about the purposes and activities of NSA and as a result, and understandably so, the value of membership in the Association is questioned by them.

This misunderstanding or lack of understanding is partly the fault of the Student Council and perhaps even more the fault of the NSA Committee on the campus whose job it is to coordinate the NSA program and activities to the student government of Southwestern, so as to realize the maximum

De Rerum Natura

By BOB CRAVEN

Lewis Carroll might have invented Jaberwocky (in Alice in Wonderland), but for that I can forgive him. At least, he explained what his words meant. In case you don't know, a word like "mimsy" in Jaberwocky, is a portmanteau word which is derived from the very ordinary words "flimsy" and "miserable." If a person is "galumphing" he is galloping home in triumph. "Slithy toves" is a type of animal which must be a cross between toads and doves, and which are slimy and lithe.

But for two people to team up and attack other people with their own private set of telescoped words—well, I have a special place for them, and it isn't particularly cool.

Perhaps if I had been prepared for what was coming it wouldn't have been so wearing on the nerves. But I wasn't. The whole thing was first thrown at me at a time when I am most vulnerable—early in the morning.

Visiting relatives had arrived during the night, while I was lost in blissful, unsuspecting slumber. And with them were Tommy, age 9, and Louie, age 10. Bless their hearts!

The next morning they were at the breakfast table when I got up. Now the trauma of waking up is one from which I never recover until well past mid-day, and this morning was no exception. Head-long I stumbled into the dining room, meeting with a door and two chairs in the process.

After greeting our newly arrived guests through half open eyes, I was violently startled into a fully awakened state by the statement from Louie, "You're brumbled," followed in turn by 9- and 10-year-old laughter.

I hoped, since I had not been fully awake, that I had misunderstood. I asked him what I was.

"You're brumbled," he repeated.

"That means," said his mother sweetly, "that you rumbled into the room and bumped into things."

"Oh," I mumbled, smiling indulgently.

After eating my Wheaties, I thought I better make an attempt at friendship, because I half expected what I might be in for.

"What grade are you boys in?" I ventured.

They looked at each other and grinned. "We're skix," they both said, simultaneously.

Again the mother interpreted, "That means they're in the sixth grade in school." She emphasized "sixth" and "school" so I'd be sure to get the point.

I did.

The rest of the meal I spent in silence, while the little angels whispered puckishly to themselves. Then, when they got up to go outside, Louie paused at the door, turned and looked at me, and I waited for the blow. "You're fret," he said.

I looked at the mother imploringly, but this time she failed me. She didn't know. For three nights I stayed awake trying to figure it out. At first I thought it could have been "fretful" but I knew I was only fooling myself—it couldn't be so crude as that. Finally, I decided it must be something between "funny to look at," and "all wet."

But you never know.

The most nerve-racking one came on the evening of the same day. I had been awakened by shouts of "Its up! Its up!" (This one I later figured out to mean "ten o'clock, the time you should be up.")

There I was, peacefully reading a book. Tommy and Louie were engrossed in a jig-saw puzzle on the floor. Suddenly, Tommy lifted his head and sniffed, and Louie ran to the window. I waited in anguish. Then it came. "Its smigling," he said calmly.

I swallowed my pride and rushed outside. I just had to see it smigle. But there was nothing. It was an ordinary autumn day. In vain I looked for something unusual, but there was nothing.

So I sat down on the curb and cried.

The next day they went home. When I heard it—I just couldn't help myself—"I jumped" (jumped up in the air and shouted with joy).

Editor The Sou'wester

Dear Harold,

I saw you at the football game last Saturday night. It seems you and I did something about four-fifths of the student body did not do in turning out for the game.

Why is this? In the last few weeks I have heard a great deal of talk about school spirit around the campus, yet I noticed the other night that some of the loudest talkers did not show up to back up the team.

All right, so we did lose. So what. Who was it that made the statement, "It matters not you won or lost, but how you played the game." Our boys were in there fighting the whole sixty minutes under the most uncomfortable conditions. They deserved every bit of support we could give them, yet the majority could not spare the two hours it would have taken to have gone to the game.

The players get nothing out of playing football at Southwestern except the joy of playing and satisfaction that they are helping Southwestern to be represented in sports. Saturday night it could have been no joy to play, but for two hours those boys wallowed in the mud that Southwestern might be represented.

The boys want football at Southwestern, the students want it. The boys show up for the games. Why can't the students? Whether they know it or not, they would see a fighting team that never loses face in defeat.

Sincerely, Bob Starr

National Student Association Serves Student Community Needs For Representative Intercollegiate Organization

value from the advantages which the Association offers. The purpose of this article is to explain what NSA is and what benefits you as an individual and Southwestern as a whole are receiving from it.

Serves Need

WHAT IS NSA? NSA is an organization of college student bodies, represented through their student governments. It was created to serve the long-existing need for a representative intercollegiate organization designed to serve the American student community, and to promote student interests and welfare.

WHAT ARE NSA'S AIMS AND PURPOSES? Specifically, the aims and purposes of NSA are outlined in the preamble to its constitution:

- a) Maintain academic freedom
- b) Stimulate and improve democratic student governments
- c) Develop better education standards
- d) Improve student welfare
- e) Promote international understanding
- f) Guarantee to all people equal rights and possibilities for education and foster the recognition of the rights and responsibilities of students to the school, the community, humanity, and God
- g) To preserve the interests and integrity of the government and the constitution of the United States of America.

WHO BELONGS TO NSA? Any college, university, junior college, normal school or technical school can join the National Student Association upon ratification of its constitution and payment of annual dues. NSA's membership during the 1948-49 school year was close to 300 institution representing more than 750,000 students.

Upstairs In Palmer

By HELMINTH The Bookworm

It was certainly nice of you to drop by for a chat. Pull up a book-end and get comfortable here on the shelf.

Tell you what I've been doing the past week. I decided it was high time I took my nose out of these books and looked around the library to see just what was going on.

When I arrived at the circulation desk, I discovered a new group of student assistants. Now the student assistants are great friends of mine. Quite often they allow me to ride about on the truck while they are shelving books (my own means of locomotion is painfully slow). So, you see, it behooves me to make their acquaintance.

Checks On Assistants

You know, those student assistants have a hard job. They need a dozen arms and legs to work on the circulation desk. Sometimes it's hard for them to keep that friendly smile when a group of irate students are screaming for the same reserve book, or someone decides to take it out on the assistant when he doesn't like the library rules.

But, as I was saying, I went around to check on the student assistants the other day.

Bow Wins Cigarettes For Best Letter

Willie Bow, Southwestern Freshman from Cotton Plant, Aransas, wins this week's carton of CHESTERFIELDS for the best letter to the editor. Willie's letter, which is reprinted below, concerns a Freshman's opinion of upperclassmen.

To be eligible for the "Best Letter to the Editor" Contest, students must turn their entries in by 6 o'clock on Saturday of each week. The letter may be on any topic, and will be judged by the editorial board of THE SOUTHWESTER on the basis of student interest in the subject, originality and clarity of style.

Each week's carton of CHESTERFIELD'S will be awarded by Irvine (Dusty) Anderson CHESTERFIELD'S (Continued on Page 4)

Musical Memphis

By JIMMY COBB

It seems that in some parts of the country, children are taking over in the music world. In several large cities in this country, orchestras and other musical groups composed entirely of children are rivalling the organizations of their elders in popularity. The outstanding example of this is the Germantown Youth Orchestra in Philadelphia. This is a group that seems determined to show the world that they'd ten times rather play Bach and Beethoven than swing.

The most outstanding thing about this group in Pennsylvania, which is getting ready for its tenth season, is the enthusiasm of the young players themselves. None of the young musicians, who range from 9 to 19 in age, and whose average age is just 13, are paid by the city at all. All of them joined the little nucleus which started things off on their own initiative.

It is this sort of enthusiasm which can revive areas that are culturally dead in America, as far as music is concerned, and which might also force a change for the better in the attitude of many professional musicians today.

Concerts For Children Here

Memphis also remembers its children. I. L. Myers sponsors, along with his regular Arts Appreciation Series, a group of Saturday piano concerts for children. The first of the three concerts which are scheduled for this year, will be given by Richard Farrell, young New Zealand pianist, at 11 o'clock Saturday morning in the auditorium at Memphis State.

In 1944, when he was only 17, Mr. Farrell won first prize in the Australian Broadcasting Commission's Concerto and vocal contest. His award was appearance with the Sydney Symphony in the Tchaikovsky Piano Concerto, a performance in which the press termed his playing "brilliant."

Incidentally, if any of you would like to go to the concert, here's something you might like to know: admission is free to children between the ages of 4 and 14, but if you don't happen to fit into this group, adults are admitted only when accompanied by at least four children.

Burl Ives To Appear

Those of you who like folk music will have an opportunity next Friday night to hear one of America's foremost interpreters and promoters of folk music, Burl Ives, at the Auditorium in a concert sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. If you have not seen

Part of the proceeds from this concert will go for the annual Christmas party at the crippled adults hospital, sponsored by the Memphis Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Contest Winner Receives Cigarettes

Willie Bow, (right) Southwestern Freshman, receives his carton of CHESTERFIELDS from Irvine (Dusty) Anderson, CHESTERFIELD'S campus representative, after winning this week's "Best Letter to the Editor" Contest.

Lynx Cage Squad Plays YMCA In Preview Game

No Official Score Kept But Cats Triumph

The student body got a preview of the Southwestern basketball team last Friday night, as the Lynx basketball team met the YMCA team in an exhibition game in the gym. The game was not of regulation length, and no official score was kept. However, the unofficial, but probably correct tally was 84-60 in favor of Southwestern.

The starting lineup was Bill Coley and Art Derr at forward, Judd Williford at center, and Eldon Roark and Roy Gwin at guard. Southwestern trailed in the opening minutes of play, but soon built up a commanding lead and held it throughout the remainder of the game. High scorer for the night was Art Derr who amassed 15 points. Williford had 13, Dave Thomas 12, and Coley 11.

Substitutes Used

Numerous substitutes were used by Coach Clemens, including Billy Fridgeon, Thomas, Louis Weber, Milton Newton, Marvin Shinbaum, Lester Graves, Johnny Austin, Bob Allen, and Bill Metzger. All except Weber, Allen, and Metzger broke in the scoring column.

The team looked good, considering that the game was played so early in the season. A good deal of polishing will be needed before the regular schedule starts, but there is ample time for this, since the first game is three weeks away. All in all, the ball handling was fairly precise, and the shooting reasonably accurate, with the exception of free throws, of which only 14 out of 28 were cashed in.

Up In Palmer . . .

(Continued from Page 2) still here. Can't imagine the library running efficiently without him. It's going to have to, though, because Herbert is a Senior. There will be great wailing from the library office when he passes on.

Another familiar face is that of Fred (I-read-Plato-and-like-it) Link. Fred started in as a Freshman, so this is his second year behind the desk. His major is English. I guess he's really sort of a second cousin twice removed from me, for he checks out an awful lot of heavy reading.

Great Pals
Russell Gieseler and I are great pals. You see, last year Russell did shelving exclusively, and I usually managed to bribe him with an all-day-sucker into letting me ride on the truck. (And him a ministerial student, too!) But now Russell is a big-wig and works at the circulation desk. Of course, I'm happy that he is coming up in the world, but I do miss our rides.

There are four new faces, the owners of which I am rapidly learning to know. There's Betty Ann McFadden, a Sophomore transfer from Belhaven. And then there's Ann Morrow, a Sophomore pre-med student, and Ann Dean, a Sophomore mathematics major.

Do You Read
Of course everybody knows Roy Page now. (Why, don't you read the papers?) This is Roy's first year in the library, too. He's a pre-med student, and the only town student assistant.

Much to my great pleasure I found Ernestine Whitaker back with us again. Only it isn't Whitaker anymore, it's Thorn, and she's a member of the staff now. Mrs. Thorn is in charge of circulation.

Now, I know I've been behaving contrary to my bookwormish instincts, socializing so much. So next week will be devoted to some real reading.

Zeta To Meet Chi O On Fargason Gridiron

A game of real tackle football following the official rules will be played by Zeta's and Chi O's this Tuesday at 4 o'clock on the football field.

Admission will be 25 cents.

Both teams will wear football uniforms and helmets. Quarters will last five minutes.

Each team will have expert coaching from varsity players. For the Zeta's, Forrest Flaniken will be back field coach and Sam Blair will be line coach. Ray Ashley and Johnny Bryant will coach the Chi O team.

On the Chi O team will be the following, line up: Jackie Newman, Sarah Loaring-Clark, June Beasley, Nancy Cartwright, Nancy Hill, Jeanne Roberds, Ann Marie Caskey, Betty Rhodes, Jeanne Arnold, Mary Clay Farr, and Ellen Fitts.

Classical Language Club Hears Strickler Speak

The Classical Language Club had its November meeting in the Tri Delt house Friday afternoon at 3:45. The program was arranged by Seros Vryonis, the vice-president and the program chairman. Dr. Strickler spoke on "The Miracle of Greece."

Refreshments were served by the officers. A large number of new members were welcomed, and it is hoped that any other students whose interests lie along the field of classical culture will contact Vivienne Chilton, president, and will come to the meetings.

Centre Man Moves Up To Tackle Lynx Cat

A muddy, muddy Lynx Cat gets moving for a gain as Centre maneuvers through the mire to make the tackle. The Praying Colonel's started the game with white uniforms but in a couple of plays, their mud-brown garb resembled the Lynx' mud-brown garb. The wet field posed a problem for the referees—to put the ball down where the runner was tackled or where he, and his tackler, slid to.

the Sportlight Is On INTRAMURALS

SAE completed their second consecutive undefeated season last week, as they won their final game to come out on top in the touch football league. At the moment Sigma Nu is in second place with four victories and two losses.

Last Tuesday SAE defeated ATO 26-7 for their sixth win in a row. Bill Prichard made two touchdowns, Ben Dewbre and Strat Hill one each for SAE. Bradley Whitehead scored for ATO. Ted Fox, needing only one point to successfully defend his title of highest scorer, was blanked.

On the same day Sigma Nu won from the Independents 26-7. Red Wray scored twice and George Bugbee and Bubber Bowden once apiece for Sigma Nu.

SN Clinches Second

Wednesday Sigma Nu rolled over Kappa Alpha 19-0 to clinch a tie for second place. Vance Cartwright tallied twice on long pass plays, and Bowden ran for the other score.

Thursday saw the KA's win their first of the year, 13-6 over Kappa Sigma. Reiter Webb scored for the losers in the first half, but Harry Zepatos and Roy Page came back with last half touchdowns to bring victory to KA.

Kurts Top Scorers

John Kurts of PIKA won the individual scoring race with 49 points. He was closely followed by Fox of SAE who had 48.

The standings:

SAE	6	0	1,000	154	21
Sigma Nu	4	2	.667	69	42
ATO	3	2	.600	92	69
Kappa Sigma	3	3	.500	74	65
Independents	2	4	.333	110	101
Kappa Alpha	1	4	.200	32	82
PIKA	1	5	.176	63	207

Ted Fox of SAE missed the individual scoring championship by one step.

Needing only one point to tie and two to beat J. L. Kurts, who was leading scorer in the touch football league, Fox caught a pass on the one foot line in the final game, but thinking he was about to step out of the end zone instead of across the goal line, he stopped, and was tagged from behind.

Fox was blanked in the game.

CU Forum To Be Held Friday

Curry, Wandersman Will Talk On DP Students

The Christian Union Forum will be held Friday November 18, at 4 o'clock in the SAE house.

Jim Curry from the Memphis State International Relations Club and Sabina Wandersman, DP student at Memphis State, will speak on DP students.

The Southwestern International Relations Club is contemplating sponsoring a movement to get some DP student or students here next year. It is hoped that this forum will serve as a stimulant of student interest in that project.

Following the forum Toby Bunn is planning to show his slides which he took in Europe this past summer.

Frosh Win WAA Tourney; Chi O Places Second

Phillips Defeats Guthrie For Ping Pong Crown

History repeated itself for the second year as the Freshman girls captured the intramural basketball trophy and Chi Omega came in second, losing only to the undefeated champions.

According to the rules of the Women's Athletic Association, Freshmen are dissolved as an organized group immediately after pledging. Therefore, they do not officially receive the basketball cup which can only go to Greeks or Independents, in this case the Chi Omegas. Each girl on the Frosh's team will carry points with her which will be applied to whatever group she joins.

There is a three way tie for second place between AOPi, KD, and ZTA which was played off in the first part of this week. The winning team in the playoff will gain second place, the two losing sharing the points for third.

The Freshmen kept their record inviolate by downing a hard-fighting Zeta team 22-9 on Monday and coming back the next night to defeat the AOPi's 28-17. The Zetas conquered the Transfers 25-15, the KD's turned back the Tri-Delts 30-13, and the Transfers forfeited to the Chi O's and the KD's to officially close the season.

Phillips Wins Ping Pong

Zeta's Wendell Phillips came from behind to win the ping pong championship by downing Betty Guthrie of Tri Delta, 16-21, 21-18, 21-19, in a very evenly matched tourney. Both girls played an excellent type of game, but Phillip's skill managed to pull her through on top, Guthrie displayed true sportsmanship by choosing to postpone the match until Phillips was well enough to play, rather than to become champion through a forfeit. Helen Quindley of AOPi came in third by virtue of a win over Chi O's Eleanor Clark.

Badminton Tourney Begun

The badminton tourney has begun and the finals will be played on the night of November 27. The badminton schedule is as follows: Thursday, November 17 8:00 Doubles: Chi O vs. Tri Delt; KD vs. Independents. 8:30 Singles: KD vs. Tri Delt; Chi O vs. ZTA. Friday, November 18 4:00: Doubles winners play; 4:30 Singles winners play. Tuesday, November 22 7:00 Doubles: AOPi vs. ZTA; 8:00 Singles: AOPi vs. Ind.

Amphibious Centre Sinks Lynx In Mud

Three Second-Quarter Touchdowns For Colonels Decide Season Finale

A three touchdown outburst in the second period gave the Praying Colonels of Centre a 20-6 victory over Southwestern last Saturday night in Hodges Field. This contest rang down the curtain on the 1949 football season for the Lynx, and left Southwestern with a record of one win, one tie, and four defeats.

The game was played on a field made muddy by intermittent rains, and although there was no rain during the game, the footing was slippery and the ball-handling uncertain. Nine fumbles occurred in the contest, the Lynx dropping the ball six times and losing it on three of these occasions.

Lynx Score Early

Southwestern dominated play in the first quarter and took a 6-0 lead on a touchdown by Jack Doyle on the first play of the second quarter. Then the roof fell in on the Lynx, as Centre scored three times before the half ended. Mark Adams, hard-hitting fullback, gained over 200 yards from scrimmage and scored all three touchdowns. Neither team could make much headway in the last half, although the visitors added a safety in the final quarter.

After having a pair of short drives stopped early in the game, the Lynx started their payoff march late in the first period from the Centre 49. Bob Crumby threw a flat pass to Jack Doyle, and Doyle ran all the way to the 12 yard line before he was hauled down. Rick Russell then skirted right end and reached the one yard line where he was thrown out of bounds.

Centre Moves

The quarter ended three plays later with the ball still on the one yard line. Then Centre, playing a tight defensive line in expectation of a line plunge, was caught flatfooted on a pitchout play from Crumby to Doyle, and Doyle circled left end to score standing up.

Bill Sparks missed the extra point. After the kickoff and a punt exchange, Centre began to move from their own 12. Adams broke out around left end and found his path blocked in that direction, so he reversed his field and swept around right end to a touchdown. He failed to convert.

Doyle fumbled a few plays after the kickoff and Centre recovered on their own 48. One play was piled up, but then Adams smashed through the line and outran the secondary to go 53 yards for his second touchdown. Again he failed to convert.

Play Slows

In the last half the tempo of play slowed considerably as the mud began to take its toll. Southwestern could muster a sustained drive only once. Late in the third period the Lynx stopped a Centre drive on the ten, and moved 50 yards before giving up the ball. Runs by Flaniken Crumby, and Russell, coupled with a pass from Crumby to Landrum advanced the ball to the Centre 40, but a fifteen yard penalty halted the march.

BEHIND SHOW BUSINESS WITH PERRY COMO

How We Met

My favorite tune at the moment (it's pure coincidence that I recorded it for Victor) is "Give Me Your Hand." The lyrics go, "Give me your hand. Let me be ever near." Here is a class proposal of marriage set to music, which should help a lot of bashful swains.

"Give Me Your Hand" started me thinking about married couples in show business. I looked around and came up with a few sidelights on well known couples, how they met, and how their marriage influenced their careers.

Take Bea Wain and Andre Baruch, known to the butcher and baker as Mr. and Mrs. Baruch. They met on a Kate Smith show. Just said "hello" casually, as you do on a big program. What followed sounds like a gag to me, but Andre swears it's true. Seems he hadn't been feeling too well. As the show went on, he felt worse and worse. He hung on until the program was over, then picked a quiet corner and fainted. (So he says.) In the confusion, Bea was the only one who noticed the limp bundle of Baruch. She (to quote Andre) "rushed over with a pitcher of ice water which she poured all over my new tuxedo." Things like that take the formality out of a first meeting. Andre says he got even by marrying the girl.

Stanley and Helen Melba share one of the most unusual careers in show business. Their firm produces shows and supplies entertainment for a large hotel chain, for conventions, charitable events, society parties, and anything else which calls for top entertainment. You just call them up and say, "A few hundred intimate friends are dropping in next Saturday. Will you please put on a fashion show and send over a few jugglers, a magician and a name band?" They take it from there.

Stanley and Helen met at a party when Helen was 16, Stanley a few years older. They had a long engagement, and Helen was every bit of 19 when they married. At that time, Stanley was playing saxophone in Ozzie Nelson's band. He switched to a job on Wall Street, intending to be the standard model husband. But, Wall Street failed to reward him properly, and he had to take an orchestra job on the side. Finally, he organized his own band. He mixed up the books so thoroughly that Helen stepped in as bookkeeper. Now, she's a full-time partner, staging shows and helping with the management of seven orchestras.

Tex McCrary and Jinx Falkenburg met when Tex interviewed Jinx for the Daily Mirror in 1941. She was a starlet and an up-and-coming model. Tex wrote editorials and did a daily feature column for the Mirror. Their paths kept crossing during the next few years. This was remarkable, because both of them were traveling all over the world, Tex in the Air Force and Jinx with the USO. At last, Tex discovered that Jinx was about to leave the United States for Europe just as he was due back. He called a mutual friend in New York: "Locate Jinx. Tell her to stall. Guy who wants to marry her en route home." It worked and today—well, you know what a change marriage has made in those two careers.

While we're on the subject of early romances, I just can't resist mentioning "he-man" Mitch Ayres, our conductor on the Chesterfield Supper Club. You know, most people don't think of Mitch as a Romeo, at least not the kind of a guy who falls in love with a gal and can't eat. In 1936, Mitch met his wife, Georganna, in Hollywood while he was working on a movie at an outdoor location scene. He made cute conversation with her between the scenes, dated her a few times and then left the coast on a tour. Strangely enough, he found himself avoiding dates after that and suddenly realized that he was up to his neck in love. He married Georganna shortly afterward, that is, as soon as he could get back to the coast.

One of my favorite "how-we-met" stories comes from a versatile and distinguished show business couple, Kitty Carlisle and Moss Hart. Author-producer Hart and actress-singer Carlisle, when pressed for a story on how they met, came up with a beautifully simple one. "We can't remember," they said. "We've known each other for years."

Cuvillier's Capers Brighten Band's 'Alfime Antics'

It is a shame that the Barnum and Bailey Circus left Memphis without hearing of the "late" addition to the Lynx Band last Saturday night. Jack Cuvillier caused gales of laughter to sweep over the football stands as he clowned his way through his "befuddled bugle boy" routine.

After streaking out on the field two minutes late with a bright plaid shirt and only half a uniform, he proceeded to generally disrupt every formation the Band attempted to make. How he managed to keep completely out of step is no doubt his professional secret.

Dragged Aside

After arousing sufficient rage in Mr. Markusch and the Drum Major, his struggling body was dragged to the side lines where he was held from attempting an encore, while the Band finished its usual half time performance.

Actually it was Jack's first experience with the Band, although we know it was not his last since he does play the trumpet.

KD National Officer To Visit

The province president of Kappa Delta, Miss Myrtle Wren Gordon, will arrive on the campus today to begin a three day official visit to the chapter here. She was met at the train earlier this morning by the Council of KD sorority, who took Miss Gordon to breakfast at the Peabody.

While here, Miss Gordon will have conferences with all chapter officers, the Dean of Women, and the Alumnae Advisory Board. The latter will give a tea for her Saturday afternoon. The visitor will attend the All Sing tomorrow night.

KD To Install New Chapter At Vandy

Several members of the campus chapter of Kappa Delta will go to Vanderbilt over the week-end to be present at the installation of the new Beta Tau chapter there. A banquet at the Noel Hotel will precede the installation ceremony. Among the members planning to go to Nashville are: Ann Brown, president; Mary Ann Ramsey, "Monkey" Oliver, Emily Rice, Maryanna Gracey, Betty Nantz, Dottie Steindorf, Helen Deupree, Thelma Nichols, Nancy Schroeder, Jeanne Patterson, and Sara Cooper.

Chi O Entertains

Chi Omega sorority will entertain faculty members and their wives with a Chocolate Hour on November 29.

PIKA Has Tea Dance

Pi Kappa Alpha had a tea dance in the lodge last Friday for actives and pledges of the fraternity and their dates. The dance lasted from 4 to 7 that evening.

"Barbership quartets" and informal solo work was a main feature of the evening.

One Lost Sheep Among Mister Markusch's Flock

Bow Wins . . .

TERFIELD campus representative.

The Sou'wester Dear Editor:

Now that Freshman regulations are over, the Freshmen have been expressing their opinions of upperclassmen openly. I think that the upperclassmen should know of their "popularity" among the Freshmen.

This survey may shock some upperclassmen into acting like human beings again, and I hope you will print this report.

I think the upperclassmen will enjoy it, and of course the lowly Freshmen will, too.

I am yours sincerely,

WILLIE BOW

Someone said, "Whenever you hear a loud 'Burp' followed by a silly giggle, you can be sure that an upperclassman is present."

Being curious as to just what an upperclassman is, I made a survey of the Freshman class as to their opinion of an upperclassman. Their eyes lit up like Christmas trees as they told me all about upperclassmen and their habits.

This is the report that I drew up based on their opinions:

Odd Mixture

An upperclassman is a mixture of alcohol, tobacco, conceit, loose living, and a queer sense of humor. Examining an upperclassman more closely, we find traces of laziness, flabby muscles, and fleas.

Through recent tests, it has been proven that an upperclassman can consume more alcohol than a V2 rocket. When an upperclassman is found shaking like a washing machine, it is due to one of these three things:

1. A test in the next period;
2. Freshman hazing period is over and the Freshmen are going about with a sinister gleam in their eyes;
3. They are out of tobacco. It is amazing to see how many of them are slaves to the "weed."

The conceit of an upperclassman is simply appalling. As one upperclassman puts it, "Why should I bother to smile at the Freshettes and have them trailing after me like a bunch of sick dogs." Another happy character, with her nose in the air, corners some Freshmen and says, "Admire me, you peasants." This technique is used mostly by the female of the species.

Loose living concerns the way they study and dress, and the language they use on Freshmen. They are truly men and women of leisure.

It's Torture!

The queer sense of humor consists of pestering Freshmen with all kinds of torture known to man. Singing is a popular pastime and the Freshmen obliged by singing everything from the "Alma Mater" to the original, uncut version of "Frankie and Johnny."

Some of their tricks are so low that the Freshmen have been cautioned that whenever they walk in the gutter, they should be careful and not step on any upperclassmen.

Now let us turn to the good side of upperclassmen. We found that the only good thing about the upperclassmen is that they are not hogs. They do not eat everything they get their hands on. This habit comes from years of eating in the dining hall.

Upperclassmen are usually found loitering on the campus and downtown, from the "Green Beetle" to the "Slipper." They are rarely found in the classrooms.

Means of Recognition

For the benefit of the visitors to our beloved college, we offer this sure way of recognizing upperclassmen: only squirrels and upperclassmen walk on the grass. The squirrels can be identified from the upperclassmen by their long, bushy tails.

Also watch out for the pigeons. Do not mistake them for the upperclassmen because of their toes and the way they strut.

A final word on the care of upperclassmen. Please do not hit or make puns about upperclassmen. They bruise so easily and their vanity is hurt at the first unkind word. Treat them as you would treat your cat; pet them, look lovingly at them, and don't forget to bring them out of the rain.

PUBLICATIONS OF THE BETTER CLASS
—Including This One!

Southwestern has on its campus this year 635 students from twenty-five states and three foreign countries. Quite naturally Tennessee, Mississippi, and Arkansas are better represented than any other states, and Memphians, 355, outnumber all the other students combined.

Those states with the highest number of students are Mississippi, 57; Tennessee (not including Memphis), 54; Arkansas, 44; Alabama, 29; Louisiana, 13; Kentucky, 12; Texas, 11, and Missouri, 11. Some students have come from as far West as Washington, New Mexico, and Oklahoma; as far North as Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Ohio, New York, and Pennsylvania; and as far East and Southeast as Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Virginia, Georgia, and North and South Carolina.

Southwestern has two students from China, one from France, and one from Alaska. Among the students there are 85 Baptists, 25 Catholics, 35 of the Church of Christ, 66 Episcopalians, 10 of the Greek Orthodox Church, 14 of the Jewish faith, 5 Lutherans, 124 Methodists, and 248 Presbyterians. There are six students of other denominations and sixteen who are not specified.

The number of veterans enrolled is 127—121 men and 6 women. There are 36 boys and 26 girls enrolled who have transferred from other colleges and universities.

Kappa Alpha To Rush With Hayloft Party

Kappa Alpha fraternity will entertain with a rush party Saturday night, November 19.

Members, alumni, and their guests will meet at 6 o'clock at the lodge for a stag dinner. Speakers of the evening will be Lee Winchester, past president of the Memphis Bar Association and Clifford Pierce, past president of Lions International.

Members of Kappa Alpha will entertain guests and their dates with a Hayloft Party in the house at 9 that evening. There will be entertainment and prizes will be presented to those wearing the most original hayloft costumes.

In charge of arrangements for the party will be Millen Darnell, president; Bill Coley, vice president; Bill Brown, secretary; David Thomas, treasurer.

Spanish Club To Meet In Kappa Delta Lodge

The November meeting of the Spanish Club will take place this afternoon, November 17, at 4:00 in the Kappa Delta Lodge, with Sara Cooper presiding.

Professor Gordon Southard, who returned to Southwestern this year after a year's leave of absence for work on his Doctor's degree, will begin the program with a comparison of two Spanish novels, after which Mr. Santiago MacDonald, a native of Honduras and a student at Southwestern, will speak about Argentina.

Games and refreshments will follow the program.
