"Holiday" To Be Put On By Players

Play To Be Presented Around Middle Of May

MISS HOOPER TO DIRECT

Plan To Stage Production At Ellis Auditorium

"Holiday" has been selected as the vehicle for the Southwestern Players' major production of the year, to be produced the middle of May, with the 12th as the probable date.

Miss Dorothy Hooper, Memphis expression teacher, will direct. She is a graduate of the Currie School of Dramatics in Boston.

Tentative plans call for the performance to be held at Ellis Auditorium and to be sponsored by the student body as their contribution to the campaign.

John Hines will serve as business manager and Alvan Tate as production manager. Their committees will be announced shortly.

Among those who will probably be selected for roles are: John Hines, Dixie Jennings, Betsy Mohead, Gene Stewart, Alvan Tate, Julia Schwinn, Clark Porteous, Martha Shaffer, Margaret Clay Faulhaber, Boyce Leigh Sadler, Jimmie Meadow and Fred Rehfeldt. The cast will be announced the first of the week.

NEW VIEWBOOK IS NOW OUT

Available For Prospective Students

Southwestern's book of views has undergone a revision. The latest printing is just off the press and is available for prospective students.

Attractively printed and nicely bound, the new publication contains interesting pictures and shows the handiwork of good editors. Dr. M. L. McQueen is the editor and Russell Perry, the managing editor.

New pictures have been inserted; one showing a typical scene in the reading room of the library. Wednesday afternoon in The Sou'wester office is well represented in picture form. Cuts of the supply store and Lynx Lair grace prominent positions in the book. A picture of one of the advanced organic labs, showing students hard at work, is included.

In cover design, the view book resembles last year's edition, with the proposed tower pictured.

Dr. Diehl To Preach

This Sunday, Dr. Diehl will preach the Commencement Day sermon of the DeKalb, Miss., High School at DeKalb, Miss.

Correspondent Picks Candidates For Gridiron Banquet Offices

Well, the annual Gridiron Banquet is in the offing (next Thursday night). The campus is rife with opinions. . . . Who will be the Biggest Big Shot? . . . What is meant by "Darkest Dark Horse?" . . . Etc. . . . Etc.

Herewith your correspondent presents a few suggestions. We don't think that they will win, but we urge your hearty co-operation when the vote is taken. Think it over.

Since Ed Turner has left Robb Hall for the Outdoor Advertising Company, we feared for a while that the campus would be singularly devoid of anyone who could aspire to the blue ribbon that accompanies the title, "Most Loquacious Lubricator," but we weren't long to be left in hopeless fear.

Jackson, Miss. (and we hereby extend Millsaps our heartiest thanks) forthwith sent us the perfect prize package in the person of one FRED REHFELDT, who for prize puns, undulating (the expression is Farley's) expressions, and flowing conversation, cannot be excelled. Of course, Mr. Rehfeldt never says anything, but he does talk all the time and can give you forty reasons why Fred Rehfeldt is the most intelligent and most nearly perfect man in school. And that takes, you will admit, a whole of a lot of bull. Your vote is sincerely and trustingly solicited. (Sorry you can't attend, Miss Brewster.)

Since Harvey Jones seems to be winning all the other titles in school, we think that he certainly should be elected "Ugliest Man," for, after all, not even Tarzan or Frankenstein can compare with that wasp waist and

"Teenie Weenie" Cannon, dashing man-about-town, has acquired a new name. Seeing with what success Harvey Jones secured a job ushering at "Barracks of Wimpole Street" under the pseudonym of Goldman, young Cannon dashed eagerly forward when the name "Meyer" was called by Usher-in-Chief Wilson Mount.

He was rather let down when Mount cross-questioned him and then told him that Meyer was the imposing-looking Head Usher in "soup-and-fish" regalia. Mount finally relented and gave "Small Fry" a job in the peanut gallery.

Tri-Delta Has Spring Formal At Parkview

Party To Be Held Tonight; Diggon's Orchestra To Play

Tri-Delta sorority will have its annual spring formal tonight at the Parkview Hotel. White balloons, palms and ferns will carry out the sorority colors in the decorations.

Richard Diggon's orchestra will play and there will be three no-breaks, two specials and a Tri-Delta leadout. More than five hundred invitations have been sent out to friends of the sorority, including block bids to the seven fraternities on campus.

The dance will be given in honor of the new officers. Parents of the members and alumnae will also be invited. Receiving the guests will be the new officers and the patronesses.

Officers and their invited guests are Sara Elizabeth Gemmill, president, with David Edington; Virginia Alexander, vice president, with Charles Alexander; Annie Laurie Pentecost, with Richard Alexander; Shirley Freshman with Sam Pugh; and Thelma Worthington with Charles Peete.

Other active members and their guests are Charlotte Stange, with Wiley Jones; Olivia Reames with Donald Johnson; Ethel Taylor with Joe Moss; Mary McCollum with James Tompkins; Adele Bigelow with Gene Agnew; Rosine Worthington with Arthur McDonald; Dorothy Jackson with McMath Givens; Helen Acroyd with George Willis and Kate Gullani with Louis Gaudet.

Pledges and their invited guests are Mary Grace Broadfoot with William Lapsley; Elizabeth Nash with Bill Hunt; Martha Bailey with Roland Hazelwood; and Majorie Main with Leon Patton.

Representatives from other sororities and their guests are Bernice Cavett with Earl D. Christian and Elizabeth Ford with escort, Chi Omega; Mary Kennedy Hubbard with J. P. Hollifield and Olive Black with John Hines; Kappa Delta; Betsy O'Brien and Ella Kate Malone with escorts, Alpha Omicron Pi and Hortense Loucker with Billy Cox and Olga Hartman with escort, Zeta Tau Alpha.

Co-op Tests Are On

General Culture division of the achievement tests will be held tomorrow in Hardie Auditorium. They will begin at 9 a.m. and last until about 1 p.m.

Upperclassmen are excused from all classes today and tomorrow.

"The Sou'wester" Proposes Political Clean-up

As stated in an editorial, The Sou'wester proposes the following resolution in an effort to insure clean politics in the spring elections. It is hoped that all fraternity and sorority presidents, panhellenic heads, and leaders of other campus groups will see fit to sign the resolution.

"We, the undersigned, do hereby agree not to enter into any combinations or agreements with fraternities or other organized groups for the purpose of electing officers in the 1934 spring elections at Southwestern.

We further agree to discourage all members of our respective organizations from entering into any such agreement and will use our influence in keeping the coming elections on a fair basis."

Signed,

CLARK PORTEOUS, Editor, The Sou'wester

ANNUAL TO APPEAR MAY 20

Material Already Collected For Yearbook

Editor Henry Oliver says the annual will be out May 20. All material has been collected and arranged for The Lynx, which will go to the publishers, Toof & Co., May 1. All subscribers must have paid their dollar by then.

This annual, the first in two years, will have black cover decorated with the college seal. A new feature of the yearbook will be pictures of this year's April Fool Carnival.

Unless each club has paid up in full the cost of its page, The Lynx can not be out by the proposed time.

MIDPOINT IS HIT IN DRIVE

Campaign Workers Meet At Gayoso Daily

Over half of the $95,000 necessary to keep Southwestern open the remainder of this semester and next year has been raised, according to reports made by campaign workers in daily luncheons at the Gayoso Hotel.

Vance Alexander, general chairman of the campaign, and his Initial Gifts committee has practically raised the $50,000 quota which they have allotted themselves. Only $45,000 will remain to be collected in the general drive.

Golfers Invade Ole Miss Today

Southwestern golfers will clash with the Ole Miss team this afternoon at 3 o'clock on the Oxford course.

Lucius Cook, Jack Crosby, Jack Brown and Ben Weddington will probably match clubs with the Mississippians, playing the individual "Nassau" form of contest.

Sand greens and a narrow, strange course will add considerably to their difficulties in coping honors.

Professors Kelso and Strickler will play against two faculty members of the university.

A second match at the Chickasaw Country Club is planned for next Friday, and it is expected that the locals will turn in a much better performance on these links.

Intramural Baseball Will Start Tuesday

Intramural baseball will get under way Tuesday, announces Coach Miller. A schedule will be posted by Buckingham before the end of this week. The game will be played by indoor ball rules.

Softball games will be played on a diamond which is being laid back of the tennis courts.

STAB Elects

Elizabeth Harvey has been elected the new president of STAB, succeeding Julia Marie Schwinn.

Other officers are: Helen Gordon, re-elected vice-president; Betsy O'Brien, secretary, and Edna Barker, treasurer.

Sunday School Elects

Young Wallace is the new president of the Sunday Bible class. He replaces David Edington. Alex Gillian is the new vice-president and Reed Brock, secretary-treasurer. These officers will serve during '34-'35.

DEBATE TEAM ENDS SEASON

To Meet Millsaps Thursday In Hardie Auditorium

Southwestern's next and final debate of the season will be against Millsaps here Thursday in Hardie Auditorium, the question will be the governmental ownership of banking institutions. The team has not been named as yet.

Southwestern met a debating team from Emory University in Hardie Auditorium Monday night. Winfield Qualls and Francis Benton upheld the affirmative of the presidential powers question for Southwestern against Philip Covington and W. R. Purdue, Jr., of Emory. The contest was non-decision.

John Fischbach and Henry Oliver debated on the NRA question before the Kiwanis Club Wednesday. Dr. H. J. Bassett, assistant dean, was instrumental in arranging the debate.

Three Southwestern debaters, Winfield Qualls, Charles Barton, and Ed Hutchinson, returned last Friday from a five day debating trip into Mississippi. Southwestern lost only one debate, Millsaps winning a 2 to 1 decision. Ole Miss, Mississippi State, and Mississippi College were the other schools met in debate, each being non-decision.

C.U. Cabinet Sends Delegates To Meet

The Cabinet of the Christian Union met Monday evening in the Bell room for supper and a meeting.

The convention which is being held in Cookeville, Tenn., this week-end was discussed.

Jameson Jones, Olga Hartmann, Thomas Fuller, Young Wallace and Tom Jones are going as delegates to represent the Christian Union. Hartmann and Tom Jones were elected to take the place of Prof. Haden and Thelma Worthington, who could not attend.

Tom Jones Elected Ministerial Head

Tom Jones has been elected president of the Ministerial Club, succeeding John Fishbach.

Francis Benton is the new vice-president and Sherman Kelly will be secretary-treasurer. The offices of recording secretary and corresponding secretary have been combined into one office, that of secretary-treasurer.

Joe Gordon Offered Teaching Fellowship

Joe Gordon, senior from Pulaski, Tenn., has been offered a teaching fellowship at the University of Tennessee for the school year 1934-35 in the division of Pharmacology and Materia Medica.

Gordon returned to Southwestern at the semester to complete work for his degree, after remaining out three semesters. He celebrated his return by placing on the honor roll recently issued at the quarterly report.

Dr. Diehl Attends Meeting

The first of this week Dr. Diehl went to Franklin, Tenn., where he attended the spring meeting of the presbytery.

KD Initiates

Kappa Delta announces the initiation of Gene Brandon. Final initiation degree was held last Friday.

Ticket Sale For Banquet Starts Today

Annual Gridiron Affair Will Be Held In Neely Thursday Night

Ticket sales for the Annual Gridiron Banquet, sponsored by the Christian Union, start today. Francis Benton, who is in charge of tickets, announces that positively no duets may be secured after 6 o'clock, Tuesday. Town students may attend for 50c and dormitory men for 25c.

The banquet will be held in Neely Hall Thursday at 6:30. It is Southwestern's only annual stag get-together for students and professors. David Edington, toastmaster, promises that plenty of "roasting" will be done. Brother Andy is working up all sorts of ballyhoo to advertise the affair.

Nominations were held this morning for "Loquacious Lubricator." Some unfortunate student, with a propensity for garrulousness, will be elected to this office.

"Biggest Big Shot" will be nominated tomorrow. Suave, self-important eds will be run for this office. Campus adonises will find themselves put up for "Ugliest Man" in chapel Monday.

A hit of the banquet will be the election of the best-looking professor. Nominations for this office will be made Tuesday. "Darkest Dark Horse" nominations will be reserved for the night of the banquet. This office will take care of all minor offices, and any man can be run for anything, all in one race. "Alice the Goon" can run against "Popeye," if such nominations are made.

Gemmill Elected To Head Tri-Deltas

New officers elected and installed by Tri-Delta are:

Sarah Elizabeth Gemmill, president, succeeding Malline Lyon; Virginia Alexander, vice-president; Annie Laurie Pentecost, recording secretary; Shirley Freshman, corresponding secretary; Thelma Worthington, treasurer; Charlotte Stange, rush captain; and Olivia Reames, social chairman.

Greek Groups Fail To Cooperate For Benefit Of Southwestern

If the editor had asked us to write a feature on "School Spirit" some time in November or in March, we would have scratched our little heads with a great amount of gusto. But now that elections are on the way, the campus is all smiles and all school spirit.

The track meet, for example, was so well attended Wednesday that the faculty are still arching eyebrows. Everyone was out in his Sunday best, athletically speaking, to add a few points to dear old Bumma Sig's collective score. Everyone was cheering under a veil of more and better intramural sports for the dear old Crimson and Black. It looks like an interesting series of elections the first week in May.

Something is seriously wrong with Southwestern's school spirit. The delegates from Jackson, Miss., for the Millsaps football game in the fall noticed it. Tri-States delegates to the Press Convention sent personal letters to the editor about it. The April Fool Carnival alone served to keep up any idea of school spirit. Why? Because every sorority and 85 per cent of the fraternities were represented in the Court!

It is our humble opinion that politics at Southwestern are too well developed for so small a school. If a

ELIMINATIONS HELD WED.

SAE's To Defend Fraternity Championship

Finals in the fifth annual intramural track meet will be run tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock on Fargason Field. The SAE's are the defending champions.

Eliminations were held Wednesday afternoon in the 100, 220, and 440-yard runs and in the 120-yard low hurdles. Those qualifying in the first eliminations were:

100-Yard dash—Pfrangle, Fuller, Givens, Wellons, Pickens, Drake, Owens, Medaris, Hammond, Elder, T. Jones, M. Cobb, Chappell, Hucheson, Hardison, Weeks, Crump, Kelly and Pierce.

220-Yard dash—Elder, Weeks, Owens, Givens, Davis, Chappell, Pfrangle, Pickens, Hutchison, Lumpkin, Gibson, Kelly, Hughes, and Hardison. The above men received a point apiece in the individual competition for intramural awards.

Mac Elder clicked off the fastest century, his time being 10:3. Weeks ran the fastest 220, his time being 23:9, and the fastest 440 in 56:7.

Finalists are: 100—Pfrangle, Elder, Givens, Fuller, Hammond, and Weeks; 220—Weeks, Hughes, Elder, Givens, and Owens. 220 low hurdles: Hughes, Fuller, Gibson, M. Cobb, Bethea, and Haygood. 440: Pfrangle, Bethea, Mitchell, Lumpkin, Weeks and Medaris.

Favorites in other events, judging from last year's performances, are: 880—Jordan, Mays; Mile—Jordan, Kelly, Dunlap; High jump—Haygood; Broad jump—M. Cobb, Elder, Flowers; Pole vault—Moss, J. Brown.

No men who placed in the shot put, and discus and javelin throws are eligible this year. The relay should be very close.

ATO leads in wins of past intramural track meets, having victories to its credit in '29, and '32. TNE won in '30, and SAE holds the cup for last year. No meet was held in '31.

Collegians to Play At Casino Saturday

Bill Taylor will sponsor a Collegians night at the Casino tomorrow. Southwesterns and their dates are invited to attend. Admission will be 40 cents each.

There will be four no-breaks and three specials. Dancing will begin at 9:00.

A "candidate review" will feature the dance. Various nominees for Gridiron Banquet titles will parade before the crowd.

Nitist Club Meets

Nitist Club met last night at the home of Professor Kelso, 894 N. Idlewild.

A Great Need

Southwestern has need of more loyalty on the part of her sons and daughters. We need more real school spirit among the undergraduates. How can we develop loyal alumni if a real love is not fostered while the men and women are still in school?

We don't mean the sort of "rah rah" spirit that causes fights at football games and sends half the student body hobocing away after the grid team. However, students who go away and talk about their school have a harmful effect. It is true that some students come here because they cannot go away to school. If they do, they should be good enough sports to back Southwestern while here and say only good about the college after they leave.

Most colleges inspire a genuine love in their students. They will fight if you slur their institution. Alumni come to reunions years after they graduate. They never fail to remember their alma mater in their wills. Southwestern has need of this sort of spirit. Right now we should be developing young men and women who will become alumni with enough true spirit to see that Southwestern is never allowed to get into a financial jam such as she is in now.

A Few Suggestions

In an effort to encourage such a spirit, we believe that the undergraduates must be made to feel that they are a part of the college. Town students who merely come out and attend classes, rushing off as soon as they are through, will never acquire the proper spirit. They must become a part of Southwestern and take part in the college activities.

We believe that the student activity curtailment, sponsored by ODK, would do much to help the situation. More students would be enabled to participate, and those now in activities could put more into them. Students will get no more from the college than they put into it.

The present intramural program has helped considerably. Encouragement of this program and participation of all men and women in intramural athletics will go a long way toward developing the proper spirit.

Stimulating interest in minor sports by having attractive home schedules and devoting more attention to the development of capable teams will help. Many students are more interested in basketball, track, tennis, and baseball than they are football. There is room for all of them, and home games help to develop spirit. This year's track team is an example of this. Though the squad started late, they have a developing team—one that many students would like to see run, though there have been no home meets announced as yet.

Parties and get-togethers such as the April Fool Carnival help the students to know each other and bring them closer to Southwestern. They should be encouraged and efforts made to get more students to attend.

Fraternities and sororities can do much to help develop school spirit. They can encourage patriotism to the college as being more important than obligations to the fraternity. Instances where men are kept off varsity teams in order to keep them eligible for fraternity competition show poor school spirit.

The college itself can do much to help mould the proper attitude by practicing the advocated theory of having as few rules as possible, except for the men and women to act as ladies and gentlemen. Give the students a chance to show that they do not need many stringent rules to keep them straight. We believe that the more trust placed in them, the better they will respond.

A Challenge

Politics are in the air. The Student Council will probably announce the dates of spring elections in the near future. Already faint whisperings of combines and agreements are being heard.

Let's bring this thing into the open. A genuine school spirit will have a hard time here if students are forced to vote for candidates by the fraternity or sorority they belong to.

We are not idealistic enough to think that politics can be abolished. However, we think that there would be a better spirit feeling on the campus if the politicking were done openly. Let people make campaign speeches, if necessary. Let the candidates solicit votes. What we want to stop is the abominable practice of swapping offices. It is impossible for the best men to receive the offices when greek letter groups form combinations to elect certain people.

Elsewhere in this edition, you will find a resolution drawn up by The Sou'wester editor. We challenge the heads of all fraternities, sororities, and other campus organizations to sign it.

We start the resolution off by declaring that The Sou'wester will publish all news of combines in the spring elections that it gets hold of and will do all in its power to stop political corruption on the campus.

Co-operative Tests

The co-operative tests, sponsored by the American Council on Education, begin this morning. School authorities favored the students by changing them from Friday afternoon to morning. The tests will be this morning and tomorrow morning, thus not costing those participating any extra time.

It is true that the tests are long and tiresome. However, we must take them. They are beneficial to Southwestern and the individuals tested. Every student should try to make the best possible showing. Answer all questions possible, but do not waste time puzzling over questions you cannot answer. A good score will help you and Southwestern.

Carnival Holiday

While on school spirit, we might say that a holiday now and then would help things along greatly.

No better time to declare a holiday could be found than during the Cotton Carnival in May. This Carnival is no longer an amateur "Put Memphis on the Map" project.

There will be more than 100,000 visitors here for the event and several Southwestern students will take prominent parts. Probably the most popular orchestra has been engaged for the opening night.

There will be four large parades and numerous other civic events. If the college students do not get into the spirit of the thing, it's not the fault of the carnival officials. They have asked, begged and entreated for some college spirit.

A good way to help them and Memphis would be to have a holiday, to say nothing of the help it would do the morale of the students.

Panhellenic's Request

The Men's Panhellenic Council has requested the school authorities to pass a rule which will permit fraternities to keep a man from graduating if he owes the fraternity any money. This rule would be used at the discretion of the individual groups. It would give the social fraternity a hold on the chronic dead-beat. As things are now, it is impossible to collect from a senior who does not want to pay. Fraternities could be lenient to those they know to be deserving.

If after investigation the executive committee finds no fault in this plan, we believe that it would help the Southwestern spirit for them to pass it. Fraternities have shown a willingness to cooperate with the school in the matter of a grade requirement for initiation. Fraternity men would be grateful for cooperation from the college in solving their problems.

Mehrlle Recuperates

Mary Mehrlle is recuperating from an appendicitis operation at the Methodist Hospital. She is expected back at the dormitory the first of the week.

THE COLLEGIATE WORLD

Extreme poverty of the American education system has been obvious since the depression set in, despite the fine buildings and handsome equipment found in many places. These are relics of better days—days that are slow in returning. Statistics show that 5,000 schools are closed, many terms shortened (one in every four U. S. cities), and back salaries amounting to $40,000,000 are owed to long-suffering teachers.

Ohio State University sponsored a "Citizens Conference on the Crisis in Education" in an effort to get people to help the situation. Many protest speeches were made and much of little moment said, as at most conferences. However, the fact that F. E. R. A. has set aside $12,000,000 to keep rural schools open should be a great help.

Senator Copeland, New York, gave his famous crime statistics showing that crime costs U. S. 13 million dollars a year. He declared that a 20 per cent cut in crime would enable the schools to pay teachers decent salaries, send three and a half million children back to school, and move 300,000 families from unsanitary hovels to commodious, sun-lit homes.

Southwestern is not the only institution having financial trouble. The worth of education is being tested throughout the nation. It seems inconceivable that U. S. will allow the wonderful educational system that has been developed to crumble because of finances. Monetary shortages caused by the depression should be sliced from other sources. Perhaps in this way we can develop a citizenry some day that can avoid depressions.

While on the subject of depressions, it is estimated that six million young Americans with education are unemployed, through no fault of their own. They have never had a job. This is a real problem for educators to work out. The government has managed to absorb some of them in NRA, CWA, CCC, and other projects. However, these are at best only temporary measures.

Col. E. H. Bullis, of the National Committee on Mental Hygiene, has made a study of those who have been able to find jobs. Fifteen per cent did so through family influence. Naturally, this is a limited way. Others originated new fields, such as window-washing concerns for suburban sections, agencies to furnish clothes lines and such supplies, expert yardmen and dog-washers.

Col. Bullis advocates that college institute courses on the "Value of Self-Deflation as an Aid in Securing the All-Essential Job After Graduation." Lectures could be given by experts in different fields with successful experience in making a living. They could point out to the younger generation the difficulties and the need for original and intensive thinking in order to overcome them.

This is all good, but do we want to deflate the ego of the collegian? The so-called experts now making a good living have experience on the youth of today, but it is that same experience that young men and women are seeking. Anyone can deflate egos and give advice who has had a job thrust in his lap, or who has even worked hard for it. It seems essential that college youths of today keep their courage or "inflated ego," if you will, until some-

Leaving the depression for a lighter subject, we have . . . lipstick. In a New Yorker ad, Lucien Lelong announces "Lipstick 21 flavored with wine. Smooth and subtle as the finest vintage of France . . . sparkling and alluring as the red, red wine—you've never known such a lipstick!" This is great stuff. What intoxicating kisses co-eds can now give! Tea hounds can now debate whether to date a port or sherry instead of blonde or brunette. Ben Jonson would have to write his poem, "To Cecilia," differently, for the maid could leave both a kiss and wine within the cup. An interesting age we live in, with red toenails and wine-clad lips.

Covering THE Campus

By The Lynxcat

I guess I'll show a little will power and not scratch my Athlete's Foot before all these people.

I don't believe I've ever seen the name or initials of a President of the United States carved on a bench or inscribed in the pavement.

Professor Higginbottom, authority on etiquette, history and stuff, has written a brief history of the Civil War, exactly as he saw it, and has submitted it to the Sou'wester. We reproduce his accompanying letter:

Dear Boys and Girls: I am tall, handsome, have scads of money, like to visit my Uncle John on his farm and ride horseback; other hobbies are horseshoe pitching, dunking and pie suppers. I am anxious for pen-pals of any age or sex. I had a birthday this week and would like to join your birthday club. Please write to a lonely Arkansas boy.

I am enclosing my History of the Civil War, which my mother thought was pretty good—also my Aunt Lucy. I hope it will escape the waste basket. If you will publish it, I may send a poem I wrote about our cow, Dolly. Please write.

PARNASSUS HIGGINBOTTOM.

CHAPTER ONE

Abe Lincoln and Jeff Davis were seated around the fireside. Their trusty body-servants, Bobo and Jesse, stood like ebony pillars near the door. Jeff Davis was speaking, "You know, Abraham—"

"Just call me Abe," interrupted Lincoln.

"O. K., and you can call me Jeff," rejoined Jeff Davis, and they engaged in a brace of belly laughs that left them in fine spirits.

"As I was sayin', Abe, I think it's time we had our war."

"Right you are. A house divided against itself gathers no moss. Hey, Bobo?"

"Ah'm all right, suh," answered Bobo.

"Bo," continued Abe, "have I got anything on for the next few weeks?"

"Ah'm all right, suh," said the faithful body-servant.

"By the way, Abe—it seems funny to call you Abe, since I haven't known you long—"

"Why, I feel like I'd known you all my life," cut in Lincoln with a Frederic March look on his face.

"Will you quit interrupting?" fussed Davis, who had heard that line before.

"What we've got to settle now is what kinda suits our men are gonna wear."

"I wish we could put the war off a while. My boys haven't anything to wear. Everybody's seen those blue suits they wore last time. But wait—I'll call in Tom Jefferson and ask him about it."

"Whoa, wait a minute," exclaimed Davis. "I don't want him mixed up in this. Anyway, he's dead."

"Oh, yes, that's right. I forgot."

"I think we can settle this thing ourselves," insisted Davis. "What do you think about it, Jesse?"

"Ah'm very well, thank you, suh," said Jesse.

"Those colored boys ain't a bit of help to us, are they? If it wasn't for sentimental reasons I'd fire Bobo," said Lincoln.

Davis sought to get back to the subject. "I'd kinda like to have my boys wear grey, if it's all the same to you."

"Are they wearing that this spring?" queried Abe.

"Oh, yes, the young men are wearing grey with flop hats with brims turned up at a snappy angle in front. Your men could wear blue, all right."

"No. I want grey," said Lincoln, with a note of firmness in his voice. "I'll have grey or nothing. You can have the old blue yourself," and he started to pout.

"Come now, Abe; I'll be a sport and match you for the grey."

"Oh, well, all right. Call it, wet or dry?"

"Wet."

Lincoln spat on a chip, tossed it up, and, to his utter chagrin, saw it fall wet side up.

"Goody, goody, I win!" shouted Jeff Davis.

(And so the South had won the first victory of the war. Next week, The Battle of Bull Run, or The Menace of Pink Tooth Brush in America today.)

Just a Bit of Dorm Life

Evergreen Hall

Again Ellie Powell was hostess to the Evergreen inmates at one of her now famous Sunday night suppers. Clara Davis graciously volunteered to carve the ham and became quite adept before she finished. The food was delicious and so was the conversation. These suppers are very informal and begin promptly at six o'clock, when our charming hostess pokes her head out the door and yells, "It's time to eat!" The hungry herd immediately clatters down the hall to Ellie's room. During the entire supper Ellie sees to the needs of her guests and her frequent admonition is "You all eat some more."

We are missing Mary Mehrle, Ellie's roommate, muchly and are hoping that she will soon recover from the appendicitis operation which she had last Saturday afternoon at the Methodist Hospital.

Robb Hall

This happy home sent its calvacade of captivating duties to Hal Kemp in a body. The Handsome Dixie Daddy was there alone, too.

Newton White has dropped from the broadcasting ranks. John Watts has just had his picture made for a fair damsel in Meridian.

Kingfish (Miss Maggie) Givens is still with us even though he has been quiet this week. The boys here have requested Baine to play his fiddle elsewhere.

"Shalee" Houser is said to be very shy, but Charlotte says no. Lapsley is the biggest power in this hall at present. Usrey is still running his usual line of gab, but everyone is on to him now. The first floor is worried over the trip that Huckabee took the other night.

The girls said that they sure missed Disney Strickland at the dance. We are trying hard, but have failed to find a Sea Hag that equals the "Goon" in Calvin Hall.

Robb Hall, the only dorm on the campus men clamor to live in, is fast filling up its quota of rooms for next year. Priding itself on the fact that it is the only men's dormitory that has been practically filled up for next year. Robb reminds all men of the first estate who desire suites in the dorm next year to resume the said suite immediately.

Musings OF A Moron

My simple heart is almost breaking because of the demotion I received last week. Really, I was only kidding. I think that editors are "the salt of earth." Especially our wonderful, kindly, brilliant, resourceful and loving editor. He is truly a diamond in the rough.

Anyway, after I received the shock, I went out and indulged in a session of physical "education" under the direction of Prof. Annie. Prof. Annie's kindly and skilled tutelage of his class sent his charges away with the red and white blood corpuscles coursing through their veins, arteries, ventricles and auricles with renewed vim and vigor, muscles oiled, and feeling fit as a fiddle.

By the way . . . How does a fiddle feel fit? . . . and how far is infinity (a math class is holding forth in that "office" at the present time) . . . and how does Susie Ellen Knowlton sneeze? . . . why does Mary McEd-dins visit Ole Miss sometimes? . . . By the way again. What's become of Perry? Answer . . . Perry has perished. Yes, and what are the jitters?

MORON KNOWS THINGS

Things I happen to know . . . "Bessie" Bethea was once the trainer for Laurel girls' track team . . . that's how he learned how to be such a good rub-down man . . . that they served hot chocolate during exams at L. S. U. . . let's us do that, too . . . that the best place to be during a storm is inside a can . . . you won't be struck by lightning then . . . that "Effie" Powell is a ping-pong player of note . . . she is champion of Evergreen Hall . . . that "Worry Wart" Mays was once the champion horseshoe pitcher of Memphis . . . so he tells me . . . That there are only five more issues of The Sou'wester . . . That it's raining now . . . That this is enough of this.

LAUGHS

Laughs that can't be duplicated . . . Humko and Earl D. Christian and Eleanor Coppedge . . . Try one of them for two years and then change if you can.

And while we are on the subject of duplicates, here are some characteristic modes of covering space that are difficult to imitate and describe . . . Nelle McMahan's jaunt . . . Raford Herbert's glide . . . Mary McCallum's D. B. S. strut . . . Egbert Williams' saunter . . . and Professor Wilson's side-arm motion.

Alluding to professors . . . Senor Storn is quite a man about the house . . . saw him cutting the grass the other day, and he made a good job of it.

Will you give a dime to help the Old Ladies' Home? They're out again.

BOY'S AMBITIONS

Height of ambition . . . Seems that Richard Alexander and Jack Kelly can't get enough of school at our dear old institution of culture and refinement (all Central High grads will catch the hidden significance of this remark) . . . where were we? . . . Oh, yeah . . . Ambition . . . They have to go to business school in the afternoons, too . . . More power to you, boys . . .

Arf, arf . . . Red Davis and Porter Chappell had quite a difficult time getting to the KD party Saturday night. They caught a bus and childishly trusted in the motorman's putting them off at the right place . . . arf, arf. When the time came for them to get off they found that they were at the same place where they got on. On the next round they ended up at the Memphis Country Club. By this time they had gotten disgusted with means of transportation by the bus line, and decided to hike the remaining distance . . . and, boy, what a distance, what a distance! They got there shortly after intermission.

Lynx Track Team To Meet Sewanee

Varsity trackmen will meet the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn., Saturday, April 28. Although the Tigers are no push-overs, the Lynx have a good chance of breaking into the win column.

The relay team, composed of Raspberry, Baker, Durant and Cloar, promises to take up where last year's left off. It scored a victory of note over the strong Ole Miss aggregation, Cloar breaking the tape inches ahead of the Red and Blue anchor man.

Storms, last year's president, seemed to be having a big time . . . as was Babe Black, president-elect, attired in white crepe (I guess it was crepe, but I know it was white) . . . and Martha Schaeffer in black, and Betty Ann Lea also in white (I won't guess what it was . . . don't take me wrong) . . . Little sisters were abundant, too . . . Little Jennings, and little Bill Hunt, and little North Carolina East, I mean Virginia West, and little Hoshall, and little Kimbrough, and little Weather-all, proved to be the belles of the dance . . . And Meredith Davis, BIG sister of Katy, entertained the gathering at intermission in her old-time form with songs and vocal numbers, most of which were directed at Billy Hughes, big insurance man.

How's this for the quintessence of a pithy remark? . . . You, who are the acme of femininity, are so ravishly alluring.

Soft strains of lilting, ultra-sweet music fill surrounding atmosphere . . . bright, multicolored lights sparkle overhead . . . a happy crowd of care-free folks from almost every walk of life dancing and listening spellbound to the rapturing music of Hal Kemp and his orchestra, which makes one dream of light-footed and graceful sylphs, tripping merrily on the green verdure, under wide-spreading, stalwart oaks, amidst the beautiful wild flowers of spring, and in the light of the beaming sun . . . Heh, heh . . . I wasn't there.

P. S.—In case you don't know it, and for the benefit of those who would like to know, I was demoted last week because of certain insinuating remarks alluding to engineer of this broken-down flivver.

Ole Miss Runners Defeat Lynx Squad

A powerful Ole Miss track team won a decisive victory over the Lynx runners Saturday at Oxford. The strong Southeastern conference squad showed diversified strength, winning all track events except the relay.

John Barnes again led Southwestern in scoring with 12 points. He won the high jump, tied for first in the pole vault, and scored a second place in the broad jump.

Southwestern scored somewhat of a moral victory by winning the mile relay, the most thrilling event of the meet. Capt. Carroll Cloar bested Bell of Ole Miss to the tape by inches on the anchor lap. The latter ran his leg in 50.5 seconds in a brilliant effort to overcome the ten-yard lead of the Lynx runner.

Summary:
Mile: Smith, Miss., first; S. Smith, Sw., second. Time: 4:52.
100: Dovith, Miss., first; Ames, Miss., second. Time: 9.9.

Campus Circus

Ye olde tree sitter is all agog today. Maybe it's this gurgous spring; maybe it's the wanderlust. The first of the week found him a-dreaming of warm sand and an ocean blue crested by tiny white caps. (Ahhh, romance! Aren't I waxing poetic, Mr. Editor.)

But, oh! What a scoop. While he was musing in an upstairs window on how much greener the grass that had been burned was than that that hadn't what did he behold? (Suspense! Kindly notice, Dr. Atkinson; I read that chapter.) But on with the story of the straying of Miss Harvey. Now it's out, and it's true . . . that's the colossal thing about it. We saw her NOT just once, which would have been satisfactory, but several times, strolling along with another gentleman . . . or rather other gentlemen. But mainly we saw her with William Cox, while John peeped doggedly from behind the pteridobrytes (bush to you). We call her a good sport for obliging us with the scoop, now Miss Reynolds you MUST'N'T be outdone . . .!

Looks as if the S. A. E.'s are getting along with their little motto of "one in every home by . . ." The only thing is they could afford to move up the date a few years. The flourishing of said fraternity pins on several fair

ATO's Win Championship

Alpha Tau Omega won the intramural horseshoe pitching tourney last week, defeating the Kappa Sigma team in the final play-off for the championship.

The victorious A. T. O. team was composed of Louis Gauchet and Robert Scott. A dramatic finish was completed when on the last throw, after the Kappa Sigs had a certain, and winning, two points, Gauchet threw a ringer which won the contest.

co-eds' bosoms is becoming quite prevalent. Of course, there's Ellen, whose really means something, and there's Cornelia's, about which we are doubtful. Maybe she was just playing, but anyhow she had it on and that's enough for us.

It's against our religion to put Hines in this column . . . since he stopped writing it himself . . . but it looks like Charley (alias the Umteetele Bird) has led singing to Betsy Ann. (Aw, hush. We know that's a lousy pun.)

And speaking of puns, before we put the finishing touches to this epistle, we put the following one on another piece of paper, folded it carefully so the editor would take time in opening it, and cleared out:

"It appears that Miss Chase has been CLOARformed!"

Lynx Netmen Win From Miss. State

Lynx tennis began officially Saturday afternoon when Miss. State was beaten, one match to six for Southwestern. Although giving a good account of themselves, the Maroons were unable to give the Lynxcats much trouble.

Dunlap, Lynx ace, won easily from Kronimus of State by the count of 6-2, 6-1, showing his superiority from the start. Ledsinger, captain, took W. S. McCormick of the Maroons 6-4, 6-3. Stewart won a prolonged and stiffly contested match from Wyatt 6-3, 2-6, 6-4.

Dorsey Barefield accounted for Weathersby of State 6-3, 6-2. Oliver of the Lynx, unable to master the placement shots of Cratin, lost to the State player.

Southwestern claims one of the best teams in the South and is arranging meets with first class teams. A road trip beginning Tuesday and including Millsaps, Mississippi College, Vicksburg Tennis Club, and Mississippi State has been formulated to further test the strength of the Lynx.
