ARMSTRONG, LAUGHLIN RULE CARNIVAL

Dr. J. V. Moldenhawer To Conduct Week of Prayer April 6-11

Vesper Service Will Close Prayer Term

Speaker a Southwestern Alumnus; Fourth Vespers Will Be Sponsored By Freshmen; Two Services To Be Held Each Day

Southwestern's Week of Prayer, which is held annually under the auspices of the Southwestern Christian Union, will be observed this year during next week, beginning Tuesday, April 6, and closing with the fourth Vesper service on Sunday, April 11.

Dr. J. V. Moldenhawer, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of New York City, is guest speaker for the week. He will conduct two services daily through Friday, one on Saturday, and close with the Vesper service, Sunday afternoon. The morning services will be held each morning at chapel, and the evening services will begin at 7:30, in Hardie auditorium. There will be no evening service on Saturday. These services are a tradition at Southwestern and all students are expected to attend. Dr. Moldenhawer will be available for personal interviews at any time during his stay on the campus. Friends of the college are cordially invited to hear Dr. Moldenhawer at any or all of the night services.

Dr. Moldenhawer, who was born in Finland and moved to America at the age of three, is a graduate of Southwestern of the class of '97. After leaving Southwestern, Dr. Moldenhawer attended Union Theological Seminary, and received the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity from Western Reserve University and Hamilton College. Before taking the pastorate in New York City, Dr. Moldenhawer was pastor of a Presbyterian Church in Rochester, New York, and in Albany, New York.

Dr. Moldenhawer has just published a book, "Fairest Lord Jesus." It contains sixteen meditations on the New Testament story, "characterized by honesty of thought, beauty of expression, and freshness of appeal." The book is on display in the bookstore, for the convenience of any who may be interested.

Attendance for the week will be under the direction of one sorority and one fraternity for each day. A.T.O. and A.O.P.I. will have charge for the Tuesday services. Kappa Sigma and Kappa Delta will have charge on Wednesday. Thursday will be in the hands of Kappa Alpha and Chi Omega. Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Tri-Delta will sponsor the Saturday service.

The fourth Vesper service sponsored by the freshman class under the auspices of the Southwestern Christian Union will be held Sunday afternoon, April 11, at five o'clock. This service will conclude the Week of Prayer which was formerly postponed because of the flooded conditions of the Mississippi River during the first part of February.

STUDE SLAYS SOUBRETTE; PROTESTS PERVERTED PUNS

Yes, Dr. Diehl, I murdered her, and I'm guilty, but I haven't a regrettable conscience. I guess you ought to hear my side of this thing so that you can understand my lack of poignant compunction.

It was a beautiful night, Doctor; the moon was shining down in all its silvery glory. My heart was brimming over with ecstasy. That night was the night of nights; I was going to ask her to go to the Pan with me.

I loved her, Doctor; words can't express my affection for her. She was beautiful, sweet and kind—one of those rare combinations—especially since she had intelligence, too. She was my dream and ideal.

We were sitting over in the park on a bench, saying nothing at all, just

350 Workers Attend Opening Banquet

The 1937 Southwestern drive for funds opened Tuesday night with a dinner at the Hotel Gayoso. The purpose of the dinner, which was attended by nearly 350 enthusiastic workers, was to select names for individual solicitation and to instruct the campaigners who have been divided into groups.

The first report was made at a luncheon meeting at the Gayoso yesterday noon. There was no program, other than this report and remarks by W. Neely Mallory, campaign chairman.

Southwestern's budget for 1937 is $250,000, of which all but $90,000 is obtained by regular incomes. The city of Memphis is pledged to give $45,000 and Southwestern-minded citizens and friends have already launched a campaign to raise this sum which promises to be highly successful.

BUTLER ATTENDS ODK NATIONAL MEETING

Woody Butler left Wednesday, March 31, for Atlanta, Georgia, where he will attend the national convention of Omicron Kappa Delta, national honorary leadership fraternity. Woody was selected as the official delegate from Phi Circle of the fraternity.

Emory University and Georgia Tech will act as co-hosts for the convention, meetings of which are held every odd-numbered year. Province conventions are held alternately with the national assembly.

Woody will attend meetings of the convention Thursday and Friday and return following the Saturday morning sessions in time for the April Fool's Carnival.

revelling in the quietness. Quietness can be so infinitely touching, you know. However, after a long time, I decided that I should lead up to the big question—slowly. So I began huskily: "What a beautiful moon!" "Yes, I haven't seen such a moon in moons," she answered. Silence. Then I said, "They say that the moon governs the tide." "Yes," she said, "and the untied, too." I smiled good-naturedly, at her wit, old though it was, and put my arm around her. With adoration in my heart I said, "Your eyes are full of the light of the stars; they're lovely." "It's delightful; it's delovely," she sang teasingly. Silence. Ralph Brown Has Charge Of Program

Against a background of colorfully clad historical figures King Robert Armstrong and Queen Rebecca Laughlin will ascend their throne tomorrow night at 7:30 to preside over Southwestern's seventh annual April Fool Carnival.

In attendance to the King and Queen will be the Lord and Lady-in-waiting, Alfred Page and Marjorie DeVall.

Appropriate prizes will be awarded the couple whose costumes best represent the historical personage and period which they are attempting to portray. The entertainment will take the form of a two act parody of Hamlet with a take-off of Southwestern scenes and characters under the direction of Eugene Grissom during the intermission between the acts of the play. The entire program is in the capable hands of Ralph Brown who promises a fine evening's entertainment.

The carnival, as well as the "S" Club dance which will follow it, will be strictly a costume affair. The entrance of the gym will be presided over by a student committee composed of Fred Dickson, Orlie Nettles, Mamie Parker, and Henry Bergfeld. All those attending not in appropriate costume will be charged an admission fee of twenty-five cents.

Several extra sections of benches have been erected and all the seating facilities have been arranged so that everyone will be able to see the stage upon which the entertainment will be presented.

After the April Fool Carnival the "S" Club will sponsor a dance at the Hotel Gayoso.

REBORN JEREMIAH SEES WHAT THIS REINCARNATION MAY BRING

The fellow who first said that history repeats itself probably did not know that the statement would become such a platitude that it would have an effect on our April Fool Carnival. Well, tomorrow night there will be numerous reincarnations of famous historical characters. Folks in mythology, fiction, and Nursery Rhymes should receive their share of glory, too.

Let us jump back to the Stone Age and see what we can find. Probably the most famous person of the era is dear old Alley Oop. Now who on this campus could justly be called a member of Alley's posterity? Well, George Jennings and Toto have striking similarities to this prehistoric thug. Perhaps the one student who could play the part of a Neanderthal nambypamby is our own "Ape-man" Caven-der. As to the young lady who would represent this Pre-dawn age—we are afraid to say.

We must move along to Biblical times. There are a number of ladies who could suitably fit the roles of Jezebel. But there are a great many more who would make good Eves—especially when she yielded to the temptation to get outside that apple. Now as to the fellows who could be tempting serpents—there are dozens of them. Snake Phelan would look very natural as one.

The Classical Age had its venerable heroes. It would take a book to name them all; so we will take only a few. Demosthenes is in our midst, fellow students! Herbert Mephistopheles Bingham needs no introduction! Greek mythology has a few characters worthy of reincarnation. That guy Apollo and that wonder-woman Venus have their doubles on the campus. Greek Hebert and Miss Greek Steuwer as Apollo and Venus respectively! Ug and one of the Crump ladies would go over big—an irresistible couple!

Well, let's get along to the Renaissance. The Borgia family would feel slighted if we overlooked them, but the folks whom we nominated to portray them would feel blighted! So we'll skip 'em. The ascetic monk of this age could very well be reincarnated by Yonts, Oney Ellis, Mamie Parker and a few others.

WHAT ABOUT THOSE VOICES?

During the past few weeks two tap services were held in chapel. At the conclusion of each of these services the student body was requested to stand and sing the "Alma Mater." The student body responded—after a fashion.

It is one of the professions of the Sanhedrin Council that the Council "makes" the incoming freshmen "learn" the "Alma Mater." We are inclined to question the result of the force applied to this learning process. Certainly the students seem to have profited little by instruction. The singing at the two services was about forty points below par. Fully three-fourths of the student body found it necessary to read the song from the back of the hymn-books—that is, three-fourths of the ones who decided that it was worth while to sing at all. Most found it more profitable to powder the nose or to loosen cigarettes. In truth, a quartet of good-sized bullfrogs could have, and would have, filled the air with sound more melodious and more enthusiastic.

Pray tell, how does the student body expect to secure the support of the public if it doesn't even have a little of the quality known as "school spirit"? In times past the college has been criticized because its athletic teams seem to have "laid down" on the job. Other criticisms have been leveled at the institution. These have been erased only through the remedying of the evils. In the same way, Southwestern is being dragged over the rocks because of the attitude of the student body. The cheering at the athletic contests, the chapel singing and other organized student activity has been decidedly below any decent standard. All these evils are having their effect on the public as well as on the student body itself. And need we remind all concerned that Southwestern has great need of the support of the general public at this time?

THE ELECTION OF THE CHEERLEADERS

During the past year there have been a number of harsh criticisms directed against the ragged and disorganized yelling of the Southwestern students. These criticisms have been very true in most cases. What is the reason for this disorganized cheering? This is one answer: the cheerleaders lacked the incentive necessary to get the best results from the student body. They are self-appointed; yet, they must be commended for taking that initiative. What are they going to get out of their positions as cheerleaders? Nothing! Should they? The consensus of opinion answers in the affirmative.

There are two suggestions that have been made. The first of these is that the cheerleaders should be elected by the members of the student body, just as the other officers are elected. This step will make the student who is selected not only feel the natural obligation to the school and to the team that every student should have, but also he will feel a certain responsibility. Secondly, those students who have worked and sweated to promote organized cheering should be given some recognition of their efforts. In numerous colleges the cheerleaders are made members of the athletic club on the campus.

It might not be a bad idea for Southwestern to adopt a similar policy. We would like to recommend to the "S" club and to the Student Council that in the future cheerleaders be made members of the "S" club. It would certainly be a step toward the "better cheering" which is so much in demand.

Sidelights

(Apologies to O. O. McIntyre)
The Oddity Editor

In the spring a columnist's fancy turns to thoughts of poesy. Perhaps that is as good an excuse as any to print my few parodies of the guy who Shook-a-speare and a few others who tried to shake some too. Well, anyway here they come. All of you English profs had better start ducking . . .

Here is a parody on the famous Third Act soliloquy of the fellow whose name certainly belied his actions. The misnomer, "Ham"let, surely does not become such a noble character; however, who am I to tell Bill what he should have named his famous characters. Here is the modern version of that "To be or not to be" paradox . . .

Is she a bee or not a bee? That is the question.

Whether she'll sting me in my brazen attempt

To get honey, or whether I'll get it after all.

Ay, there's the sting; for in the honey Perchance I'll get stuck,

And never get loose again!

Now here is one on the famous sonnet by Elizabeth Barrett Browning. Do any of you remember "Three Kisses"? Read it sometime; it is very good. Here is the modern version . . .

Three Kisses

The first time: I kissed her lovely hand.

(We stood alone, we two, just inside her door.)

'Twas an ecstasy I could hardly stand; I felt 'twould lead to something more.

Timidly I raised my eyes to meet my dear's;

I wanted then to make a solemn vow To stick by her through all the coming years.

But ere I did I leaned and kissed her brow.

As a bird from one peck to another is led,

I then looked down at her lips so red; But—Hark!—I heard her mother's tread;

So a try for her lips hit her nose instead!

Now here is some real poetry; the spring always does things to me. (Don't take that wrong now!) The lovely spring will always bring A rustling breeze amid the trees That sets my heart on fire.

But your caress I must confess And your tender touch are very much The things I more desire.

Your lovely kiss is more than this; In it are all, both great and small, The sweetest things in life.

But for me to be happy make it snappy

And say to me that you will be In years to come my wife!

One of the pleasures of a newspaper man's life is to read what other word-hawks have printed. These fellow punishers of the public are very helpful when you have nothing to say. But here is a poem that one cannot afford to overlook.

Mary had a little lamp; She had it trained, no doubt; Cause every time her sweeties came The little lamp went out!

—The Mississippi Collegian.

Ninety-two per cent of the freshmen at Pennsylvania State College have voted that a college woman should get married before the age of 25.

R. A. PICARD TO MAKE ADDRESS

"Politics As A Profession," Is Subject

MONDAY AT 3:00 P.M.

Commissioner Is Former Newspaper Man

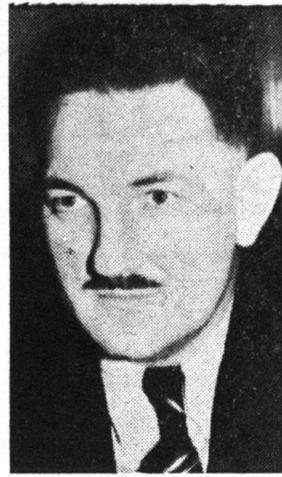

"Politics as a Profession" will be the subject of an address by City Commissioner Ralph Alan Picard next Monday at 3 p.m. in the Science Hall lecture room. All interested are invited to attend.

Mr. Picard is commissioner of the Memphis Department of Public Utilities and Buildings. A former newspaper man, he was appointed executive secretary to Mayor Watkins Overton in 1928. Later he was made executive assistant to the mayor and in 1935 was advanced to the city commissionership.

As a newspaper man in Memphis, he was a member of the editorial staff of the old News-Scimitar from 1925 until his entry into politics in 1928.

Mr. Picard was last fall a member of Professor C. P. Lee's night class in public speaking and it is through Professor Lee that the address is being arranged. It was originally intended only for the afternoon speech classes but because of the interest shown, a general invitation has been extended.

The address was first scheduled in February, but was postponed because of the active part which it was necessary for Commissioner Picard to take in the flood relief work.

MONA MONKEY

"Sees all evil—hears all evil—prints all evil"

The Easter holidays brought on a student—and professional—migration south. The editor and business manager of the Annual picked up Rudy and Prof. Lee and his Tewkesbury bahg (which has widely traveled in Europe) and hopped off with Gerald Burrow for Florida. Prof. at the wheel plus a truck at the side, equals a shirt and tie-bestrewn highway.

Frank Oliver and Fritz took "Basin Street Blues" for their theme song, and whom should the former encounter on the street but Hope Brewster. Remember when? The latter led a life of perfect decorum. We hear Bill Lapsley stayed in Calvin—all alone?

A certain high-tempered football celebrity gets weekly letters from Joe Sanders' Barbara Parks. We hear he enjoys her dancing immensely. And what do the letters contain? An oblong, flat, green object, highly decorated with pictures, figures, and numbers. Guess what? Has anybody seen Chollie's pin?

CHI O'S WIN

The Chi Omega's defeated the Tri-Delta basketball team last Wednesday night 28 to 14 to win the second game of the series and bring the score in games to a one-all tie. The winner of the third game will receive the girls' basketball trophy which is presented to the champions each year.

EPISCOPAL CLUB ELECTS OFFICERS

Plans For Spring Banquet Are Discussed

At the meeting of the Episcopal Student Club last Tuesday night an election of officers for the following year was held. The following officers were elected: President, Janet Tucker; vice-president, Tom Mitchell; secretary-treasurer, Katherine McCulloch; chaplain, Shepherd Tate.

Plans for the annual spring banquet held by all the Episcopal college student clubs in the city, which will be given on the night of Saturday, April 10, were discussed. Tickets to this banquet will go on sale at once.

AT THE ORPHEUM

Stuttering Roscoe Ates, the Hollywood comedian and former Mississippi soda-jerker, has returned to the Orpheum Theater, Memphis, by popular request, bringing with him an entire new array of entertainers being presented in the Roscoe Ates All-Star Revue beginning last Wednesday, March 31, for a full week's run.

Ates appeared at the Orpheum several weeks ago, scoring such a tremendous hit that Mid-Southerners demanded he return for another engagement, so Ates consented. In the interval, the popular stuttering comedian has selected another all-star show to accompany his own comedy offerings on the Orpheum stage. Heading the list will be the Three Randall Sisters, Memphis girls who recently have been scoring a tremendous success in vaudeville and revue productions.

An Ates show, of course, must be filled with comedy, and the stuttering, stammering Roscoe has arranged for the appearance of the famous one-time circus acrobats, Joe and Pete Michon, to appear with him at the Orpheum. These brothers are reputed to be the funniest group of acrobats on the American stage, as well as daring in some of the spectacular falls they take in order to gain laughs.

Also supporting the humorous Mr. Ates will be the team of Allen and Kent, interpreting the dances of yesterday and today in an act distinctly different from any other on the stage, and a host of other stars, and the tough guy James Cagney, will grace the screen in his latest Grand National picture, "Great Guy." This picture is Cagney's first under his new Hollywood contract, and is heralded as one of his greatest motion picture productions. Cagney appears as a straight politician who is called upon to fight a group of crooks. It gives him plenty of chance to fill his two-fisted role with humor, pathos and genuine acting. Mae Clarke is in the supporting role.

(Continued from Page One) who could eat no fat and his wife who could eat no lean—F. O. Goodlett and one of the Alwaysgreen darlings, Miss Margaret Thomas. Roly-poly Joe Bell could be the Humpty Dumpty who sat on a wall. (We hope that Mother Goose was thinking of a good, fresh egg!) There are a number of Little Red Riding Hoods and Goldilocks who are being pursued by the big bad wolf and the mean old bear. Little Miss Martha Ann is one Little Red Riding Hood and who is the WOLF! "Won't you come into my parlor"—well, too much is too much!

Fiction could give us a thousand and one suggestions. Old Alec Dumas should be alive today to see his "Three Musketeers" reincarnated—Merrin, Gibson, and Ratcliff. (No one has come along yet who is man enough to be D'Artagnan!) The "Waddy" from the "West", Billy the Kid, Jesse James, etc., could be portrayed by one of Miss Love's docile lambs. How 'bout some bull-shootin' tomorrow night, Waddy?

Well, that's a few of our suggestions. This article could not be complete without mentioning a few modern doubles. There is Muscle-In-I, Il Duce, of Italy—Dago Quanth—Sports Editor. Who would you name as possibilities to embody Madame Schlitz and Herr Budweiser? Yeh, that's right—Prof. Lee and Caspar!

Then there's that group of Casanovas, Don Juans, and Lotharios (amateur gigolos and heartbreakers) who should be there in their natural everyday haberdashery. This handsome blond, Bateman, as an "American" Don Juan (Do you mind, Lord Byron?) would be a natural impersonation. Garrison as a redheaded Irish Don Juan, and Longinotti as an Italian Don Juan! ## PLAYERS BEGIN 2 NEW PLAYS

"Noah's Flood," "Everyman" To Be Given

The Southwestern Players, under the direction of Professor C. P. Lee, will present two plays, "Noah's Flood," as a curtain-raiser, and "Everyman" on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights, May 17, 18, and 19. This will be their last performance of the year on the campus. Immediately after the beginning of summer vacation, Professor Lee will take the entire cast of the play on a ten-day tour through Mississippi, during which the plays will be given in several different towns.

The most elaborate costumes yet seen on the Southwestern campus will be used in the plays. Mr. Lee, who has designed all of them, estimates the cost at around $100. They are being made by the Memphis Costume and Regalia Company.

Any student who would like to be in the play must be able to make the tour in June and must see Professor Lee either today or tomorrow morning. Among those who have already signed up for try-outs are Nell Thompson, Marjorie DeVall, Maxine Halliburton, Martha Moore, Stella Jones, Ralph Brown, John Spence, Shepherd Tate, Henry Mobley, Steve Frazier, Bob Montgomery, Ewing Carruthers, Ben Lewis, Hylton Neill, George Humphrey, John Woolsey, and John Quanth. Rehearsals will begin next week.

Doctor, I knew that she was making sport of me, but I thought after a while she would tire of it; so I said nothing for a long time. Then I decided to lead up to the question, "Do you ever get cold at the dances out at school?" "School here in the park; may I have your topcoat," she said casually. I gave her my coat, Doctor, because there was nothing else to do. I decided that that was only a slip of the tongue. Then I asked, "Wonder if Lee Bennett has a good orchestra?" "Has Lee ever Bennett the Claridge?" she asked innocently. I told her that I did not think so. Doctor, I forgave her for that remark, too; it could have been accidental. I decided that she had stopped being punny and was going to be serious. It was getting colder; so I said, "That certainly is a chilly breeze; I think I'll buy you a fur before spring." "Would you really?" Bry's has some pretty chinchillas. Well, Doctor, that was excusable, but it got on my nerves. A few minutes later I popped the question, "Will you go to the Pan with me?" She answered, "Aw, now, you aren't Pan with me, are you? Mama told me never to let boys kid me." Well, Doctor, that use of "Pan" for "playing" was the last straw. Could I stand it? NO! So I choked her to death!

AT THE MALCO

Simone Simon, exotic and lovely screen find of 1936, returns more lovable and more glamorous than ever in "Seventh Heaven," starting next week at the Malco-Palace Theatre. Miss Simone's leading man will be James Stewart, whose popularity has increased with the days since his recent appearance in "Born to Dance."

Adapted from the stage play produced and directed by John Golden, "Seventh Heaven" re-creates for screen audiences that star-crossed pair of Montmartre, Diane and Chico, two lovers who lift your heart to the stars.

As the little street waif, Diane, Simone Simon surpasses all hopes expressed for this sensational French screen find, touching the deepest places of your heart and emerging gloriously as the screen's newest and greatest star. Opposite her is James Stewart—tall, laughing, gray-eyed—as Chico of the valiant spirit and the shy, yearning love.

Margaret Sullavan says Luckies are the answer for her throat

"I am not sure which is more critical—a Broadway audience or the movie microphones. At any rate, whether in Hollywood or New York, an actress has to be certain that her performances are always up to the peak. And that means being careful of the voice and throat. That's why, though I enjoy smoking thoroughly, I try to use judgment in the cigarette I choose. When I first began smoking, Luckies were my choice, because I found this light smoke advisable for my throat. And that's as true today as ever. Luckies are still my standby."

Margaret Sullavan

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Miss Sullavan verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.

By JOHN QUANTHY

We had a catchy catch-line all figured for this article. It would have been: "Henry, the Temperamental, wishes to be cajoled again." We would have told how Henry Hammond's quitting the track team was just another verse to the same song Henry has crooned several times before.

And so it seemed when we asked Mr. Hammond for his reason. "I just don't want to go out," he said; "ain't that reason enough?" He walked off. Henry, the temperamental eh? The above reason was none at all to our way of thinking and we prepared to burn the Hammond's hope plenty. We went to get Coach Chicken High's opinion:

"Yes, he's quit alright," said Chicken. "Why? Well, he said he has a job and would start work this week."

And we knew that Hammond didn't start work—he had no intentions of doing so. And so we thought we had him pinned.

But came the dawn: We found the obstreperous Hammond eating lunch in the Lynx Lair—an unusual place for an athlete to be eating lunch. One final effort to get him to elucidate proved fruitful. He told plenty—much that the athletic office wouldn't like which we, in order to be around, will carefully overlook. But in his storm of indignant verbosity he gave what we think a very good reason for his skipping track. Thus the whole theme of this article changes. But in his own words Hammond continues:

"Lemme tell you son: I can't go out for track and come in at 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning. On Friday and Saturday nights I work at the Claridge; and what time do you get home when you go there? Three o'clock? Well, I have to wait until all the drunks—if any—go home. You see? I come home at four Sat. morning; run in a track meet Sat. afternoon; and go back and pacify any toughs that may need it Sat. night. I tell you, it can't be done." He was quite sarcastic.

"It's just about six dollars a week," he continued; "but I need it. I work the wrestling matches on Monday nights, too, but that wouldn't bother," he added.

And that is the inside on the Hammond situation. A few dollars a week leaves the Lynx track team in a big hole. And no matter what any one says, it is a gaping hole. Hammond is the only decent dash man as well as the only decent broad-jumper. Otherwise, the Lynx look pretty good for their coming meets, the first one being next Saturday.

It may be just a bit post-season and quite a bit pre-season to speak about football, but we'd like to get this off our chests. In a bull session a few days ago with "Heartburn" Morton and Gaylon (Big Lord Fauntleroy) Smith we gathered that those two gentlemen wouldn't give a nickel for next year's edition of the Lynx unless to put it in their own words, "We get some tackles."

We thought the "tackle situation" had been definitely settled, but these two backfield stars don't think so. And to us it doesn't seem to be a case of passing the buck. We all remember how in the practice game every opposing lineman and his grandmother—if she'd been on the field—could and did swarm all over Morton when that worthy drew back to pass. We saw something of the same thing when Mark Hammond slipped in three times to block punts.

"We in the backfield will need more protection," says Morton and he's right. The tackles must furnish that protection.

Here are the six "b's" concerning Red Bergfeld: Bergfeld of Beminston Bags beats Birmingham Barons at Birmingham.

During the holidays while others were hunting Easter eggs Bergfeld was pitching baseballs that probably looked like eggs to opposing batters. The occasion was when the Beminston Mills team played a practice game with the Birmingham Barons, last year's Southern League champs. Bergfeld pitched the first five innings for the little team allowing only four hits and no runs. Bergfeld's co-pitcher allowed five hits and one run. The score ended 4-1 in favor of Red's team and he gets credit for the victory.

Even though they don't consider it "quite ladylike" to smoke pipes in public, five Ohio State University coeds claim to enjoy corn-cob and briar pipes in their own sanctums.

RACQUETEERS BEGIN WORK

Elimination Matches Begun In Round Robin

The "round robin" matches will be completed by April 3rd, when the student body will get its first preview of the team in action as they play the freshman team. The team will formally begin its campaign on April 7th when the season opens against Mississippi College.

The Lynx will then play Sewanee the 16th, Tulane the 26th, and Old Miss on the 1st of May before taking a road trip on which they will play Vanderbilt on May 12th, and then the T.I.A.A. tournament on the 14th and 15th at Knoxville. They will close the collegiate competition with a return match at Sewanee on May 17th. Other matches will probably be played between these dates with Memphis teams, such as the annual matches with the University Club. No dates for such matches have been definitely set.

Though skepticism has prevailed when eyes were turned toward the coming season before the racquet swingers took to the courts, the prospects look much brighter in the light of recent developments. The Smith-White match shows that they will probably come through. The last two sets of this match displayed tennis that should be good enough to more than hold its own with other collegiate teams. With an average amount of improvement, which is to be expected when these men have enough practice to put them on top of their games, they should prove worthy enough to face the competition before them. Butler is rapidly rounding into shape and, to date, has shown up better than the others. Cannon did not have the time for serious practice before the holidays, but has returned ready, willing, and most certainly able. All in all, this year's team should stack up among the top of the collegiate teams as it has in past years.
