Fifty Students Will Have Parts In Carnival Play

Mobley Picks Tentative Cast For Grecian Play

RALPH BROWN STARRED

Script For Play Written By Sigma Upsilon

"You may expect something very nice," says Henry Mobley, who will direct the forty-five minute play to be presented at the April Fool Carnival. The script, written by Sigma Upsilon, has been completed and tentatively cast. Rehearsals began this week.

In accordance with the Greek theme of the carnival the action of the play is centered around the Trojan War. The three main scenes will be the terrace of Palmer Hall, the banquet hall of Paris, and the walls of Troy. On the cotton bale Mount Olympus directing the affairs of man, will be Herbert Bingham in the role of Dr. Charles E. Zeus, Charles King as Dr. Townsend Bacchus, Maynard Dabbs as Dr. Kelso Pluto, and Bland Cannon as Dr. Shewmaker Cupid.

Jane Bray, Elizabeth Paine, and Beverly Williamson as the three goddesses, Juno, Athena, and Venus, will wrangle over the golden apple which Mrs. Holloway Eris uses to spread discord. Nell Thompson doubles in the parts of Eris and the Henhussy wife.

The leading roles among the mortals are Ralph Brown as Achilles, while opposite him as Helen of Troy is Sara Powell. Abe Pletchnow will star as Paris and Roy Littlefield will imitate himself as Lieutenant Floozie.

The remainder of the cast, which includes a chorus of gorgeous Stewart Hall dancing girls, the members of the Greek and Trojan armies and several others, will be announced at a later date. There will be about fifty persons in the entire group.

Clark McDonald is in charge of the sets and the decoration of the gymnasium where the Carnival will be held.

The Panhellenic Council is sponsoring a script dance in the gym after the play and the presentation of the court. Margaret England and Erskine Falls will rule as king and queen of the carnival.

Honors System Is Changed

Students Will Read for Recognition In Only One Department

Of particular interest to juniors and sophomores is the announcement of changes in the program of Honors Courses for next session. The principal change is that students will now read for Honors in one department instead of two, as formerly. Students capable of reading for Honors are urged to consult the professors in their major departments about the advisability of applying to the Honors Committee for permission to read for Honors.

If the Honors Committee passes on the student's petition, he should fulfill as many of this degree requirements as possible in his sophomore year and take some of his major subjects in his junior year, as three-fifths of his time as a senior must be devoted to Honors work. Honors are finally determined by a final written examination testing both the general and the specific knowledge of the student in those portions of the field which he has chosen for his Honors work.

Honors will be conferred only upon those who have fully and satisfactorily met the requirements for Honors, and either Honors or High Honors will be conferred. If the student's work for Honors is deficient either in extent or in quality, he may, upon the recommendation of the examiners, be granted either the degree with distinction or the usual degree in course.

The Committee on Honors for the year 1937-38 consists of the following: A. P. Kelso, chairman, Alexander Boeker, John H. Davis, R. W. Hartley, A. T. Johnson, C. P. Lee, J. R. Meadow, and P. N. Rhodes.

Scholarship Offered By Columbia Alumni

The Columbia Alumni Club of Memphis will recommend one student as a nominee for a scholarship in the Columbia Law School next year. Dr. C. L. Baker, president of the club, announced that the selection will be made next week.

The scholarships are offered by the Trustees of the Columbia Law School to worthy students of limited means all over the country. Each scholarship carries a yearly stipend varying from $400 to $600, depending upon the ability and financial need of the applicant. Candidates are selected by the alumni groups.

The class which entered Columbia Law School last year included students from twenty-seven states. It is the purpose of the scholarships to assist in maintaining a student body representative of the entire nation.

Applications for the scholarships must be in by April 1. Any student or graduate who is interested should apply to Dr. Baker immediately.

"THE DRUNKARD" PROMISES TO BE A GOOD MELODRAMA

Rehearsals of "The Drunkard" and "The Fallen Saved" are getting down to business these afternoons and evenings in Hardie Auditorium as Director C. P. Lee smooths out the rough places and gets things ready for presentation on March 24 and 25.

The play is a melodrama with all the mustachioed trimmings, and here is what it is all about. Nasty Lawyer Cribbs, because of some sort of a grudge that years before he had developed against grandfather Middleton, strives for five acts to bring young Edward Middleton, handsome hero of the play, to misfortune and ruin. Cribbs had wormed himself into the Middleton confidence and with the aid of a forged will, had confiscated most of the family property.

On the death of young Edward's father, Cribbs persuades Edward to sell the cottage in which Widow Wilson and her sweet, young daughter, Mary, are residing. Cribbs was also seeking revenge on the Wilsons because of a grudge which he had against the deceased Mr. Wilson. But Edward does not go through with it because he falls in love with the innocent Mary and marries her. Cribbs plans are frustrated for the moment, but do not think he gives up for one second. Oh, no. He goes right to work and makes friends with Edward just so he can make a drunkard of him. Of course, he does, and Edward is so ashamed of himself that he deserts his wife and little Julia, their daughter, and goes to New York to make the round of the saloons in the city.

Mary and Julia are left in poverty

On Dances On the Campus

Saturday night the Panhellenic Council is sponsoring a dance on the campus in the gymnasium. Though most of the students are not cognizant of the fact, this marks the culmination of years of struggle on the part of the students to have such dances. Last fall the Alumni department sponsored a Homecoming dance in the gymnasium; and now a student organization is given the opportunity.

The dance has as its primary purpose the raising of funds for the spring formal dance. It is the hope of the council and many students that it will be the best ever sponsored by the Southwestern fraternities. To do this the dance must have the backing of all the men students.

But there is another more lasting value of dances on the campus. They enable the students to get together. With only private parties possible on the present arrangement of the calendar, and with the limited capacity of the sorority houses for their dances, the students have no chance to attend parties as a group.

There has been considerable talk of late about flagging spirit on the campus. The best way to revive it is to get the students together more frequently. If we give parties and meet frequently as a group, we will soon learn to appreciate the group. Many town students do not derive the full benefit from college life since they are never a part of the campus. It is in the dormitories and on the actual campus that spirit originates. Everyone should try to become more a part of this campus, of this group. We can then be assured that spirit will not die.

It is to be hoped that this will be a starter for more such parties and for a greater feeling of unity in the student body.

More Costumes At the Carnival

Every year the student body, through the Student Council, sponsors an April Fool Carnival. This is an occasion of interest and merriment to the whole student group. They give it, they enjoy it, it is their carnival.

This year every effort is being made to have the best carnival in the history of Southwestern. The Student Committee, under the leadership of Henry Mobley, is working hard so that the students can have a good time.

But perhaps the most encouraging sign of success is the interest shown by the students. Everyone is coming; and everyone is coming in costume. The theme for this year is Grecian; and, judging by the prospects, some of the costumes ought to be sensational.

If every student turned out in costume, it would assure each one a good time and make the carnival a real success. This is easy to do. Most of those attending will wear costumes, so let's don't have any black sheep at our carnival.

Letters to the Editor

My Dear Dr. Donelson:

Since you seem so hard up for material that you are reduced to printing moronic(?) observations on the observance of Lent, maybe it would interest the usually uninterested or the unusually interested to know that a few fools are observing "the forty days and forty nights." Simply because those interviewed belong to the reporter's fraternity or sorority does not change the fact.

Presumably, the paper expresses the editor's policy. If it be the purpose of a good healthy Scotchman, surnamed Donelson, to attack all things pagan after the fashion of his Presbyterian brethren for bears, his subtle method of humorous jeering at Lent deserves admiration, if not praise. However, why not fire all Catholics and Episcopallians from the staff? (Or join the K. K. K.?)

Oh, your paper would suffer, would it? I don't know, maybe it would not hurt to give up the Southwestern for Lent.

As always,
BENJAMIN BURP.

Dear Burp:

We could say that the article was written by a non-frat—but we won't. We could say that the Southwestern indorses nothing that appears in it—but we won't. We could say that we would give up the Southwestern for Lent—but we won't. In fact, there are a lot of things that we might do—but we won't.

AT THE S. A. E.—

The sons of Minerva came forth with a very successful party despite the stiffness of some of the members, due to the presence of parents. . . . Jimmy Powell seemed to be constantly with Amanda Guthrie, with Lloyd Parker giving him some competition. . . . Anne Potts and Macon bulling in one corner, and Dan Robinson and Letty Brooks swinging in another. . . . Lillian Lave springing a new one on us Bud McCraney. . . . Sam Prest sneaking a dance with Mary Starnes Taylor while his ole lady looked the other way. . . . Jimmy Taylor proudly displaying the cap which he had secured from the banquet entertainer. . . . Martha Ann Moore and Taylor Malone frequently going out for fresh air and after encountering Allan Fisher and Eloise vandiver.

ON CHI O. SKATES—

Looking in on the Chi Omega skating party we saw Jane Leavell, in all her dignity, doing a good job of mopping up the floor. . . . After buying a pair of skates and practicing two weeks, Charlie Freeburg was able to make a fairly good impression on Harriet Hollis. . . . Sis Owens giving the boys a thrill by showing them how to take the corners. . . . All went well until Potts and Eckert slipped out of their places in the grand march, trying to get new partners, and messed up several couples (no success with Libby Jones and Tommy Fuller though). . . . Erskine being very democratic (remember, you're a king, Erskine). . . . The best attempt at fancy skating was done by Buddha (in his blue-striped sweater) and Dot Steuwer. . . . And if I'm not mistaken, the last ones home after the party were Bebe Harsh and H. R. . . . We hear they were stranded out in Memorial Cemetery. (Now, what could they have been doing out there?)

AROUND AND ABOUT—

"Whew, what a night not to study," shouted Johnny Edwards and Stubby as they started on their quest for dates Monday night. . . . Bobby Elder, however, spent the night looking at the moon and talking to Margaret Moyer over the phone. . . . Boswell dropped by to see Carol, but her father, knowing that absence makes the heart grow fonder, sent him away. . . . Strolling by Palmer Hall were the alumni, Nancy Warden and Jim Breytspraak, recalling old college memories.

BOOK REVIEW

These are short reviews of new books which have been added to the library recently. It is hoped that these brief synopses will encourage students to read more books.

"America's Sixty Families," Ferdinand Lindberg.

For a back-stage glimpse at a scandal, "America's Sixty Families" offers an unparalleled opportunity. In exposing the wealthy of the nation, Mr. Lundberg apparently unveils completely the mighty Du Ponts, which immediately threw the mighty Du Ponts into quite a dither. Now, in the midst of a heated libel case, he is probably wishing he had stayed home instead of snooping around the keyholes of Big Business.

"Stubborn Roots," Elma Godchaux.

Page Mr. William McBurney of Welsh, La. On a Louisiana cane plantation is laid this story of a young creole girl, affording us glimpses of the Old South, both sweet and tough. You Southern belles please note, but we don't think any d— Yankee would be interested.

"The House That Music Built," Ethel Rose Peyser.

A hint to members of the band and choir to keep in good graces with Prof. Tutill: Don't let mortal nor hant keep you from reading this book, as there is an article in it about our illustrious music professor. Incidentally, it also contains a few other things concerning Carnegie Hall, that great institution in New York's musical life.

"Life Is My Song," by John Gould Fletcher.

Would you like to know what a world-travelled Little Rock poet thinks of many of his contemporaries? Then by all means give this autobiography a try. Included in the sketches is the eminent Allen Tate, remembered by some of you as one-time English professor here.

"Man, Bread, and Destiny," by Furness, et al.

Heart-breakers of the fairer sex might do well to give this book a careful perusal. As the old, and by this

Life At Barn Dance,
Or Reporter Rambles
On Saturday Night

. . . All week you've been looking forward to the Men's Panhellenic Council Barn Dance Saturday night. You're all excited now as you approach the Southwestern "barn." The mules tied outside help create atmosphere, and when you get to the door, hay is piled high, so that instead of just walking in, you climb over the hay. Why, it's just like climbing into a hay loft.

Now you're in and the gym is already crowded. Look, it's exactly like a barn! First you notice the wagons full of hay, put there for you to sit on. And the basketball props have been covered with hay, too, to add to the effect. In all, one hundred bales of hay have been used for decoration. The stable in one corner catches your eye, and you stop to look at the chickens, goats and, yes, even a jackass. (This one isn't human.) After you've looked around a bit, you and your date (if you could get one) begin to dance. Johnny White and his boys are playing, and they really sound fine. Johnny has been working on about a dozen special arrangements just for the dance.

Sometime during the evening he plays your favorite fraternity song. You especially enjoy the fourth no-break, because this is a square dance called by Doc "Grandpa" Dabbs.

About eleven o'clock, instead of going out for intermission, you sit up in the bleachers and watch a skit and dancing act put on by the best artists of the Orpheum stage show. And any time you like, you can get something to eat or drink at the concession stand right there in the gym. It was mighty nice of the Pig'n Whistle to provide these facilities as a special favor to Southwestern.

After the act from the Orpheum, you begin dancing again, and you have two specials. Before you know it, it's one o'clock. Your date says, "What, already? Gosh, it's been a swell dance. Wish we didn't have to go home." And that's where she gets fooled. After the dance, a pretty moon, a pretty girl ? ? ?

If this sounds like a good time to you, be at the dance Saturday night. The purpose is to provide you with a good night's fun and to raise enough money so that the Men's Panhellenic Council can get a big-time "name" band for the Pan this spring.

Well, so long. See you at the dance.

Hollywood's appeal has been accentuated recently by the addition of Marjorie Weaver, a lovely brunette Southerner. Truth is, she attended the University of Kentucky during the 1931-32 year, and took part in dramatic productions. She now expresses her loyalty to "deah ole Kentucky," by autographing pictures for the adorning studes.

The questionable solutions to a pressing problem is being pro'ed and con'ed by Louisiana Tech students. Some dope, a boy, no doubt, suggested a plan wherein all Friday night dates are "on the girl." Two amendments have been almost incorporated: (1) The girls also ask for their dates that night, and (2) Friday night dates should be definitely banned. There have been quite a number of letters to the editor concerning this matter, and every one from a girl is "con".

In perusing the other college papers, Gaylon Smith's name made a regular appearance. After all, he did make the all-tournament first team.

Sizing Up The Seniors

(Our mysterious mediator, Uncle Joshua Dunklehorn, being still salutarily swathed in incognitoism, considers that he may with impunity continue to "candid camera" those campus characters, the seniors.)

JOYCE HART

A lot of us knew that Joyce Hart was around even as far back as last year. Of course Mamie and the football sponsorship did a lot towards "bringing her out" this past semester. But before that we'd noticed her on account of: item, we never saw before such white skin. It's the after picture of the Stillman's freckle cream ads. Item, her eyes are so blue as we on Quizday. Item, she effervesces. She talks allegro, soprano, and mucho. And do we love it! The pert hats and trim sports clothes she wears express her dual nature—competent and efficient, spirited and gay. Joyce was 20 last November, will be the second youngest graduate.

ARNOLD HEBERT

Girls swooned at the appearance of Arnold Hebert (pronounced Ar-nold A-Bear) on campus last year. But came, with time, the horrible truth. His curly brown hair, somber brown eyes, and his Greek-statue physique are all simply freaks of nature not intended for S. A.! Hebert ignores the ladies. Also, he's extremely reticent. Uncle J. was a year discovering that he never played football until he entered junior college and has only since developed into the competent guard that he is. If he weren't graduating in June, we might glean more biographical bits about life in Houston, Texas, but two and a half months doesn't give us enough time to work.

GEORGE JENNINGS

Centre, Alabama, lost a mighty fine citizen when Pauline's George Jennings came to Southwestern four years ago. He's important here as another outstanding senior (American College Yearbook), ex-captain of the football team, president of the "S" Club, member of the Honor Council and of ODK. Noteworthy: George never tries to ride on his fame, or rest on his laurels, or whatever it is that fatuous footballers reputedly do; he studies hard, attends to his duties faithfully, and makes a point of being friendly to everyone. At present this friendliness is more or less intensely concentrated on Birmingham, but Jennings is a moody man. Glad-to-be-of-Service Dept. Lives at Robb.

MARION KEISKER

It is not hard to identify Marion Keisker. She's always late, always in a hurry, and always talking. She says it doesn't matter how much she talks, that people don't listen and if they do that they don't believe her. Typical Keisker tricks: asking permission to leave a class to take a walk (and getting it); playing Washington Crossing the Delaware on a cake of ice and falling headlong through the Dean's door mid-stream. Does considerable Little Theatre and radio acting, is vice-president of Women's Undergraduate, member of Torch, Proscenium Guild, Players, K.D., Elections Commission. Serves as fill-in copy for gossip columns on strength of a well-known two-year romance. Is third "baby" of the senior class; won't be 21 till next September.

REBECCA LAUGHLIN

Uncle Josh will never understand why a girl like Rebecca Laughlin, the original Fisher Body, winner of numerous popularity and beauty contests (Beauty Section—1937 Lynx; Queen of April Fool Carnival, 1937; football sponsor, etc., etc.), should think it necessary to study. But she does. We remember few times when we have seen Becky on campus without at least three huge books under one arm. We personally think it's hardly fair for a girl with such a figure, such hair, and such chuckling eyes (we omit the important feature of her rose-opening-at-dawn mouth because of lack of adjectives) to add to her advantage over the other members of her sex by superior brain power. On account of outside interests Miss Laughlin has little time for participation in Southwestern activities, limits herself to AOPi and Pi.

The language most intelligible over the telephone is Italian; the one conveying the most ideas in the shortest time is French.

ODK Taps Holcomb, Hill, Kelly and Donelson

member of the Christian Union Cabinet, Alpha Theta Phi, scholastic fraternity, Tau Kappa Alpha, forensic society, and of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, social fraternity. He is an English assistant.

Donelson, a senior, is editor of the Sou'wester. He is the vice president of Alpha Theta Phi, a member of the Student Council, the Student Dance Committee, the Panhellenic Council, and the Elections Commission. He was formerly president of the Publications Board and an English assistant. He is the vice president of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, social fraternity.

Outstanding Sophomore

McGrady is a member of the Honor Council, the Publications Board, and of Sigma Alpha Epsilon. He was a member of the basketball team this year, was out for track last spring, and this year is a candidate for the tennis team. This year he was one of the intramural boxing champions.

The new men will be initiated sometime in the near future.

Numerous Oil Wells And Varied Weather In Welsh, Louisiana

Welsh, Louisiana, the home town of William McBurney, is situated in the heart of a wilderness of swamps and marshes. About two thousand souls, the majority of them being either French or of French descent, inhabit the town. Welsh is unique as a small town in that it is almost entirely free from crime. Surrounding the village are numerous oil wells, a factor that has influenced its rapid growth in recent years.

According to Mr. McBurney, the heat is very oppressive in the summer. A temperature of 120 degrees is not unusual, and the inhabitants flee to the coast which is not far distant. Violent gales sweep in from the Gulf, and much havoc is wrought. Mr. McBurney solemnly swears that with his own eyes he saw the steeple of the Baptist Church sailing through the air. The villagers are also entertained by swarms of mosquitoes which come out of the swamps and attack them.

An interesting feature of Welsh is the public caucus which is held to elect the mayor and the city council. Everyone attends with a display of much festivity.

SHAKESPEARE CLUB MEETS

The Shakespeare Club, a group formed for the discussion of problems in Shakespeare's plays, met last Wednesday night at Prof. C. L. Townsend's house at 7:30. The problems dealt with were: Did Hamlet believe in the authenticity of the Ghost? Was Hamlet in love with Ophelia? And the questions involved by Hamlet's murder of Polonius.

Ann Eckert is a new member of the Club, being recently invited to attend the meetings by Dr. Townsend.

STEWART WINS PROMOTION

Joe Stewart has been made city editor of the Hebrew Watchman, local newspaper for the promotion of race relations. Stewart is a Junior and was formerly a member of the Sou'wester staff.

PAUL PENDARVIS

Paul Pendarvis' Band Featured At Claridge

Paul Pendarvis and his orchestra, coming directly from the Trianon Ball Room in Chicago, will play an extended engagement at the Hotel Claridge beginning tonight. Eddie Scope and Joey Rardin, two popular vocalists, are featured with the orchestra. Joey Rardin obtained fame with Ben Bernie.

Paul Pendarvis graduated from the University of California at Los Angeles where he was a member of Phi Delta Theta. While in school he organized and conducted a college orchestra, therefore he knows how to please the college crowd in music. He was a very good swimmer, and holds several records in this sport.

Mr. Pendarvis thinks that there are certain requisites that are essential for a musical profession. They are, as he states, ability, high character and morals, and a pleasing personality.

Real Work Ahead; Spring Practice In Third Week

Self, Morris Battle It Out For Center Position

WILSON QUICK KICKS

Track Candidates Will Have Ample Opportunity

Marking their third week of spring practice under the tutelage of Coach Edwin Kubale, Southwestern's footballers began to toughen up and hit a little harder this week. Spring training is on in earnest.

The center position seems to be the focus of a real squabble. Harry Morris and Levon Self are battling it out every afternoon, and if "Hawk" doesn't watch out Morris will be the first-string man when the role is called out yonder in September. Self is inclined to loaf a little now and then in practice, while Harry is ready to bull it any time.

Coach Kubale's two main problems, the punting and passing departments, seem to become less and less problems as the weeks roll on. Gaylon Smith, Will Rhea Winfrey, Irving Orenstein, and Rex Wilson seem to be handling the passing duties in fair style. The punting angle is not quite as advanced as the air attack. Smith, Winfrey, and Bernard Lockridge are handling the long-range kicking duties, with Wilson taking charge of the quick-kicking.

In the line, "Doc" Dabbs and Frank Morgan are holding forth at the guards in fine style. Oney Ellis and Bob Porter are displaying some of last year's form at the tackles, and Captain Orley Nettles and "Red" Bergfeld, along with Tony Canzoneri, are showing their real worth at the terminals.

According to Coach Kubale, all football players interested in track will be given ample opportunity to participate in both sports. Gaylon Smith, Clois Neal, Orley Nettles, Will Rhea Winfrey, and others of the pigskin crew were members of last year's undefeated cinder squad.

INTRAMURAL BOXING THRILLS LARGE, ENTHUSIASTIC CROWD

By THOMAS PAPPAS

Beating a rapid tattoo with their fists to the applause of some 300 students and outsiders, eight Southwestern pugilistic champions were crowned in the finals of the intramural boxing tournament last Thursday night in the gymnasium. Sigma Alpha Epsilon won four of the championships to annex the boxing title and go to the front in the race for the intramural cup. Kappa Sigma won two championships, and Alpha Tau Omega and Sigma Nu won one each.

The audience, one of the most appreciative and enthusiastic ever to watch an athletic event in the gymnasium, rose to its feet time and time again to cheer the fighters in their heated battling.

Powell Defeated

The surprise bout of the night was the defeat of Jimmy Powell (SAE) by Harold Falls (ATO) in the junior middleweight match. Employing a hard left jab to perfection, Falls kept the experienced Powell at bay throughout the fight and dropped his opponent to the floor on one occasion. Though the decision was close, Falls was clearly on top at the finish.

Dan Carruthers (SAE) and "Dub" Worthington (SN) fought the most vicious battle of the night to settle the light-heavy crown. Worthington was floored three times in the first round but regained his feet each time. The last two rounds was a question of how long Worthington could last. But "Dub's" gameness came to the fore in critical moments and when the last bell sounded he was still on his feet despite Carruthers' powerful one-two attack.

Elder Wins

Bobby Elder (SAE) uncovered a lashing left that was too much for Boyce Johnson (SN) in the middleweight division, and Johnson failed to answer the bell for the third round. In the heavyweight bout, Jimmy

LYNX BOXING SQUAD?

With such fine material as appeared in the intramural boxing bouts last week, it's a wonder Coach Paul Hug doesn't organize a boxing team and take on a few of these Southern colleges that are always boasting of such great pugilistic squads. Southwestern would have at least an even chance. Last week's bouts disclosed that there are quite a few excellent ring-masters in our midst, and we would like to see the lads gain more than just intramural attention.

Personally, we didn't know until last Thursday night that there were lads on the campus who were so well versed in the art of fisticuffs. We'd heard a bit about Jimmy Powell and John McGrady, but nothing about Dan Carruthers, Harold Falls, Bobby Elder, Jimmy Taylor and the rest. Maybe we just don't get around enough. But we know now, and we're going to take particular care who it is we get tough with in the future.

THANK YOU, HUGGY!

The Southwestern Intramural Board owes the success of last week's boxing tournament to the foresight and initiative of Coach Paul Hug. The original plan was to stage the whole meet on Tuesday night. Coach Hug pointed out that if only the preliminaries were held that night, the finals could be held on Thursday night and a larger crowd could be expected to attend — and admission could be charged. The plan would save the Board a few dollars and the idea was accepted. So Coach Hug went out and got himself a little publicity here and there, and the result: a crowd of about 300 and an in-take of about $25.00.

CHATTER

We don't know how true this is, but 'tis said Rex Wilson tried to pull a widely known high school stunt on a certain little blonde several dances ago. And was re-pulsed. Tsk, tsk.

Tuesday's basketball game between the Chi Omega's and Miss Hutchinson's was one of the fastest girls' games we ever saw. But in the end it was too much Smithwick and Jones for the little high school belles.

Chi. O Leads Basketball

Defeat Tri-Deltas By 21-10 Score In Game Wednesday

The women's basketball tournament is rapidly coming to a close. Chi Omega leads in number of games won and displays every evidence of marching away with the title again.

Games this week include two Chi Omega victories. Chi Omega played Miss Hutchinson's team Tuesday afternoon and came out on top by a score of 30 to 10. The game was fast and hard-fought despite the overwhelming Chi Omega score. Frances Smithwick and Margaret Jones pulled their usual Golddust Twins stunt and sank goals from all angles on the floor.

The second Chi Omega victory was over their arch rivals, the Tri-Deltas. Tri-Delta fought the Chi Omega's on even terms for the first quarter and then the champions started slowly pulling away to triumph, 21 to 10. Again it was Smithwick and Jones that proved too much for the opposition. Emily Draper, Grace Mays, Nell Thompson, and Marjorie DeVall played outstanding games for the Tri-Delta cause.

Waiter: How will you have your steak, sir?

Absent-minded Professor: Well done, good and faithful servant.

POWELL TO BOX

Jimmy Powell fights tonight in the Southwestern A. A. U. boxing meet at Gaston Community Center. Powell competes in the middleweight division. If Powell gets over his preliminary test tonight he will box in the finals tomorrow night at Ellis Auditorium.

Handball Meet Under Way

S.A.E. Leads Intramural Race to Date; Kappa Alpha Second

Semi-final handball matches find the S.A.E.'s pitted against their arch-rivals, Kappa Sigma, with the Non-Frats opposing the Sigma Nu's.

Total intramural standings including the boxing tournament are:

S. A. E.	215
K. A.	185
S. N.	170
K. S.	130
N. F.	110
A. T. O.	90
