Lynx Cats Meet Millsaps Majors Here Tomorrow

Possible Dixie Championship In the Offing

PURPLE TEAM IS WEAK

Baker and Lockridge To See Much Action Tomorrow

By THOMAS PAPPAS

Southwestern attempts to annex the first Dixie Conference championship ever won by the red-and-black when the Lynx Cats line up against the Millsaps Majors in Crump Stadium at 2:15 tomorrow afternoon. Victory for the Lynx will leave Southwestern with a clean record, the only undefeated team in the league.

Millsaps, with only one victory to its credit this year, a 10-0 triumph over Arkansas A. and M., is not expected to give the Lynx much competition. The Majors, weak both offensively and defensively, have floundered at the mercy of heavier and more experienced teams all year.

Lynx Cats Prepared

To combat over-confidence and to keep the Lynx from suffering a sudden letdown, Coach Ed Kubale scrimmaged his gridders considerably in the earlier part of the week. Kubale has his eyes on next week's Mississippi State encounter but he is wary of another such catastrophe as the one that overwhelmed Southwestern against Hendrix last year.

Last year, under Coach "Shorty" Propst, the Lynx were allowed to recuperate from the brutal beating they had experienced at the hands of Vanderbilt the Saturday before. There was no scrimmage all week, with only dummy work and a few laps around the track to occupy the squad. Southwestern journeyed to Little Rock that week-end to be trounced by the lightly regarded Hendrix Warriors, 21 to 7. It was the Lynx Cats' worst defeat in two years. Throughout the game, the Southwestern offense and defense was loose and ragged. Overconfidence and lack of condition contributed immeasurably to the Lynx' defeat.

Baker, Lockridge May Start

As a result of their performances in recent games, two more sophomores may join Icky Orenstein and Tony Canzoneri in Southwestern's opening lineup tomorrow. Pete Baker and Bernard Lockridge may start the Millsaps game at center and right half-back respectively. Baker, as a result

Closed Rushing During Summer Abolished By Pan

Quota System To Be Continued Another Year By Action Of Women's Council

Closed summer rushing was abolished at a meeting of the Women's Panhellenic Council last week, Betty Wells, president of the group, announced. Under the new system each sorority is now permitted to have two informal supper parties for prospective rushees during the summer, each affair not to cost over ten dollars. "Sorority members may go to any and as many social affairs with rushees as they desire, as long as they do not spend money on the rushees," Miss Wells continued.

It was decided to continue the quota system for another year, since the council did not consider the past two years to be a fair test.

The Women's Panhellenic Council is composed of the president and one other representative from each of the five sorority groups. The members are Betty Wells, president—Chi Omega; Jane Bray, vice-president—Kappa Delta; Betsy Fowler, secretary—Alpha Omicron Pi; Lillie Roberts, Walter, treasurer—Zeta Tau Alpha; Marjorie DeVal and Mary Kathryn McGuire, Delta Delta Delta; Dorothy Steurer, Zeta Tau Alpha; Priscilla Shumaker, Kappa Delta; and Virginia Mangum, Alpha Omicron Pi.

PRESIDENT DIEHL ATTENDS

President Charles E. Diehl attended the inauguration of Dr. M. L. Smith as the fifth president of Millsaps College in Jackson, Miss., Tuesday.

"IMPORTANCE OF BEING EARNEST" BACK-STAGE DOINGS REVEALED

I was talking to Prof. Lee the other day about the forthcoming play, "The Importance of Being Earnest," which, as you know, is to be presented here at school on Nov. 30 and Dec. 1, and will feature an all-student cast.

The conversation was pretty interesting, because Prof. Lee pointed out an angle which had never occurred to me. "What the average person thinks about a play is the actual performance, whether they miff their lines, or so forth. And that's only natural. But there's a lot more than that in connection with producing a play."

"You mean rehearsals?" I asked.

"No," he replied, "that wasn't what I meant." I must have looked puzzled, because he said, "Take yourself, for example. Did you ever stop to think of all the time and effort spent in preparations, the work involved in getting everything ready for the night of performance?"

"Specifically?"

"Well, somebody has to see that the tickets are printed and sold, which is a big job in itself. But selling tickets means that somebody has to be in charge of advertising. Programs have to be written and printed. There have to be ushers, someone to pull the curtain, and someone to shift the scenes between acts. Also, someone has to work the outside effects, such as manipulating lights and ringing bells. And very important, there has to be someone to prompt when the actors forget their lines."

By that time I was gasping for breath and I asked him to slow up.

Omicron Delta Kappa Taps McLemore, Frazier And Humphrey Today

Gaylon Smith Remains Second In Scoring Race

Gaylon Smith retained second place among the nation's high scorers by scoring a lone touchdown against Murray State last Friday afternoon. Smith has a total of 78 points according to averages released early this week which leaves him two points away from the leadership. Leroy Fry, of Texas College of Arts and Industries, leader last week, clung to the top rung over the week with 80 points.

Herschel "Skeeter" Ellis of State Teachers College assumed third place in the race by scoring twice last Saturday. He has 73 markers. Everett Elkins, Marshall College speed demon, and Ray McLean of St. Anselm College, are deadlocked for fourth with 72 points.

Smith still leads the nation in scoring touchdowns. Southwestern's big halfback has 13 six-pointers to his credit, one more than his nearest competitors.

Honor Society Holds Bi-Annual Chapel Service

T. W. Lewis Selected For Honorary Membership

MEMBERSHIP IS LIMITED

Three New Members Are Outstanding Seniors

George Humphrey, Steve Frazier and Thomas McLemore were selected for membership in Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary fraternity in chapel this morning.

Mr. T. Walker Lewis was selected by the group for honorary membership. Mr. Lewis, president of the Lewis Supply Company, has headed the Southwestern Initial Gifts campaign for several years, is a member of the Thousand Club, and a prominent civic leader.

William Kelly, president, was in charge of the ceremony. Other members are Sam Hill, Henry Mobley, H. R. Holcomb, Herbert Bingham and Gaylon Smith. Faculty members are Prof. C. G. Sierkin, Prof. W. R. Cooper, Prof. Ogden Baine and Prof. Ralph C. Hon.

The fraternity conducted the chapel exercise as is customary in its bi-annual tap, and the president explained the purpose of O. D. K. New members will be chosen again next semester.

Membership in the group is limited to three per cent of the men of the student body, to be chosen from the junior and senior classes. The purpose is to recognize the men in these classes who stand for the upholding of the standards of the college. Selections are made on the basis of scholastic, athletic, and all-round campus leadership.

Steve Frazier is president of the Men's Panhellenic Council, of Sigma Nu social fraternity, and past president of the Elections Commission. He is also a member of Tau Kappa Alpha, honorary debating fraternity, the Proscenium Guild, the Student Service Club, and has been editor of the football program for the past two years.

Thomas McLemore is president of Alpha Theta Phi, a member of the Stylus Club, the Nitist Club, the Proscenium Guild and the S. Club. He is an applicant for a Rhodes scholarship, and was secretary-treasurer of the band last year.

George Humphrey is president of the Student Service Club, the Nitists, and the Men's Bible Class. He is also a member of the Christian Union Cabinet, the S Club, and treasurer of the Episcopal Club.

The Young Women's Christian Association held its monthly meeting Wednesday night at 6:00 o'clock in the Alpha Omicron Pi house. Betsy Fowler, president, had charge of the meeting. The devotional was given by Mary Kathryn McGuire. Special guests were Mrs. Charles E. Diehl, Mrs. M. H. Townsend, dean of women, and Mrs. I. H. Rutland.

DR. MILLER LECTURES

Prof. Walter Miller discussed Corinth and the excavation of the American School there at the public lecture held in the auditorium Tuesday evening. This lecture was the eighth in a series of lectures on the ancient world. Next week Dr. Miller will speak on "The Isles of Greece."

The Student Says

QUESTION:

How do you think chapel can be improved?

ANSWERS:

John Spence, senior: "Chapel should be held, if it must, at 10:30 instead of 8:30. Students not having classes until 10, 11, or 12 o'clock would not be so inconvenienced as they are under the present system. Those with two or three straight classes would be provided with a short break and a real rest period."

Maryhope Chaney, sophomore: "I think that the chapel service could be improved by varying the set from scripture, prayer, and song. Why not replace the scripture by a three-minute talk by one of the professors on a subject appropriate? Also, I believe that if the students on the back rows could hear, they would be more attentive."

George Humphrey, senior: "Chapel is a morning service and should be held in the same reverence as any other church service. If this is remembered, we will all derive more worth and pleasure from chapel."

Betty Wells, senior: "I do not know of any material improvement which could help the attitude during the chapel service. Every student knows that the chapel service is a worship service and that there should be an atmosphere of reverence. Surely we just forget."

Must We Have Muzzles For Chapel Attenders?

The student body has shown unusually poor taste and lack of courtesy during recent chapel services, accountable, perhaps to thoughtlessness or a general lowering of the quality of students. We refer to two specific incidents—first, the service conducted by the Stylus Club when Prof. Tuthill was unable to secure quiet for the choir selection and, second, the service conducted by Torch last week which was interrupted by ostentatious throat-clearing.

While everyone may not have a fine appreciation for music, still the choir seldom fails to give a good performance, and the whispering and talking that continued even after the choir began, showed not so much a lack of taste as downright rudeness. The Torch episode ran this incident close second for impoliteness. Too Much Rope?

It is significant, that both occurred during student-conducted chapel services. We wish to remind any absent-minded students that these services are a new privilege, only recently granted. The student body complained that the regular faculty-conducted services every morning became monotonous and uninteresting, and insisted that student-conducted ones would be more effective through their variety. The idea is good and the organizations have given fair programs, but the general reaction from the student body who, after all, requested the innovation, has been remarkably poor. It will take only a few more similar episodes for the students to hang themselves on the newly-granted rope and have the faculty revoke the privilege entirely.

The function of the morning chapel services is an integral one in a Christian college and a church school like Southwestern. Many students find it hard to realize that it is a regular religious service and that reverence is essential if they are to get any real spiritual value from it.

Not a Hotel Lobby

Poor, too, has been the general conduct in the student assemblies following the chapel services. The minute the faculty leave the stage, if not before, there is general commotion. The auditorium is not a hotel lobby or a country club veranda and the purpose is not for the shouted exchange of messages, raucous laughter, or gossipings, but an opportunity for making and hearing announcements. To add insult to injury, not only are the announcements drowned in the confusion of tongues, but it is also evident that the announcer who escapes without being booed, hissed, heckled or otherwise annoyed, is rapidly becoming a nine-day wonder and an extinct species.

And, there is the matter of the piano prelude to the chapel service, which, believe it or not, is played every morning. Last year when it was inaugurated it was very effective, but now it is rarely heard by any except those who sit within three feet of the piano, and might as well be stopped in favor of the "vital" conversation that just must take place.

Having made our various complaints, we also wish to commend the students for their cooperation with the request that books be left outside chapel, eliminating much of the useless chapel cramming that previously existed.

We hope that the student body realizes the need for more common everyday courtesy and reverence in chapel. At present the Christian Union is making various plans along this line and hope to bring about the needed improvement by contacting the various campus groups. We feel, however, that the force of student opinion alone can be effective. Otherwise, we can only recommend Emily Post's chapter on courtesy as required reading and compulsory muzzle-wearing by chapel-attenders.

Mexico Has First University

Contrary to Belief Mexico Opens 85 Years Before Harvard

AUSTIN, Texas—(ACP)—Contrary to popular belief the first university in America was not Harvard. Nor was Baylor U. the first institution of higher learning west of the Mississippi.

For exactly 85 years before John Harvard endowed his dream school in Cambridge in 1638, some of the more ambitious Spanish explorers and educators founded the University of Mexico. This little school opened its doors in 1553.

At this time which was very few years after Hernando Cortez crushed the tottering Aztec empire, a flourishing civilization existed in Mexico. Scholars and writers had begun to come over from the old world, and the first textbook in philosophy to be written in America was used in the new university.

This was titled "Recognito Summularum." Fray Alonso de la Veracruz was the author. Veracruz also wrote two other textbooks for use in the school. They were "Dialectica Resolutio cum textu Aristoteliano," logic with an Aristotelian text, and "Physica Speculatio," an explanation of Newton's law of gravitation. The first two appeared in 1554 and the latter in 1557. All were printed, one page at a time, on a crude block printing press which was the most modern in all Mexico at that time.

Another of the books used was a Latin grammar by Francisco Cervantes de Salazar, the first rhetoric teacher in North America. Its title was "Commentaria in Ludovici Vives Exercitationes Lingua Latinae." Also appearing in 1554 this book is interesting for the hints it gives concerning the teachers, their character and grading systems.

Strangely enough, though each of these volumes is nearly four centuries old, a copy of each has been preserved and exists today in the University of Texas library here.

Samuel Johnson once said that no man ever read a book of science from pure inclination. This unguarded statement was of course made long before the flare for popular science made "best sellers" possible in the fields of chemistry, physics, astronomy, biology, and geography. But what about geology? All science is intrinsically interesting; geology can be particularly so. So say Carey Crois and William C. Krumbein in their preface to "Down to Earth," a profusely and amusingly illustrated and definitely readable proof of their statement.

And while we are on earthly subjects we might mention a book which William Beebe believes presents the first thoroughly general treatment of serpents. The few who are fearless and the many who cannot resist stimulating their aversions will find "Snakes and Their Ways" a most attractive book. Incidentally, its authors, C. H. Verran and Carl Kauffeld, have made it a book which may be read to the end without stumbling over technicalities.

And while we are on William Beebe—in his introduction to "The Life Story of the Fish" he says that when his friend Brian Curtis asked him to write the introduction he searched about for an excuse, but began to read the book anyway, and . . . "before I had gone twenty pages I forgot who had written it, and it was not until I had progressed half-way through that I recalled his name and our friendship. . . . As you read it you learn and laugh, and learn again."

"We are, literally, lucky to be alive." And with this startling (?) statement Paul B. Sears launches his book, "This Is Our World," after having said in "A word off-side with the reader"—no preface—that he has found the story of man and his world a source of interest for many years, although he is easily bored—most easily bored. Amusing and vivid pen and ink sketches by the author make the book all the more entertaining.

Then there is Earnest A. Hooton's "Apes, Men and Morons" of which nothing more need be said than that nobody but a supermoron could fail to understand its important message or enjoy its style.

Bobcats Defeat Teachers Frosh By 26-0 Margin

Waller, Underwood, Reid Score 4 Touchdowns

THIRD-QUARTER RALLY Second Consecutive Victory Over Teachers Cubs

Southwestern's bounding Bobcats trounced the State Teachers College Cubs by a score of 26 to 0 last Thursday night at Crump Stadium in their first victory of the season. It was their second straight victory over the Teachers in as many years.

With a small squad of fifteen, the Bobcats battered the larger Cub's aggregation throughout the game. Three linemen—Clifford Cast, Malcolm Hayles, and Leslie Bailey—formed the battering ram with Beryl Waller and Leon Underwood doing most of the ball-carrying.

Waller Scores First

Starting with a power drive in the opening quarter, the Bobcats netted their first touchdown. Underwood and Shuyler Reid ripped off sizeable gains to place the ball on the Teachers' one-yard line. From this vantage point, Waller scored through center. Underwood converted the extra point.

Until the third quarter the score remained 7-0, when the irrepressible Bobcats again broke loose. Reid heaved a pass to Pete Leird, placing the ball on the Teachers' 37-yard line. Underwood then started a single-handed running attack which ended with the Bobcats' second score of the evening. Waller carried the ball over center for the extra point. In the fourth quarter, the Underwood-Waller combination started an encore attack with Waller waltzing over to score. Reid accounted for the Bobcats' final tally in the fourth.

Russell Good End

The Cubs showed a good end in Orville Russell. Ben Cotton, center, and Richard Jackson, back, also proved outstanding in the Teachers' defense.

of his showing against Murray State, may give Harry Morris and Levon Self plenty of rest against the Majors. Lockridge has shown plenty of vim and vigor in recent games and in practice and he may relieve work-horse Ed French in tomorrow's game quite often.

Gaylon Smith, Southwestern's publicity agent, though battered by Murray State's Thoroughbreds last week, goes after more touchdowns tomorrow. The Beebe Bull is in good shape and unless Millsaps concentrates all eleven men on him he should be good for at least three touchdowns.

Majors Drill Intensively

Coach Tranny Lee Gaddy of the Majors has been sending his squad of purple-clad militiamen through intensive drills all this week in hopes of upsetting Southwestern's red-and-black appellation. Hampered somewhat by rain and cold weather, the Majors, nevertheless, went through their training with more spirit than they've shown at any other time this fall.

Probable lineup:

Southwestern	Pos.	Millsaps
Canzoneri	L.E.	Ballard
Ellis	L.T.	Hegwood
Morgan	L.G.	Carmichael

CENSUS OF JUNE GRADUATES REVEALS VARIED OCCUPATIONS

In the field of medicine, there are Ed Atkinson, Clinton McKay, Wendell Whittemore, all attending U. T. Medical School, and Elise Thomas McQuiston, who is a technician at Coors, Rawls Clinic in Memphis. Studying law, we find Gerald Burrow at Ole Miss, Abe Pletchnow at New York University; Lewis Donelson, who is working and also attending Georgetown University Law School, in Washington, and Macon Smith, who is staying with an uncle in Atlanta and attending Emory Law School.

Also, Hotchkiss Young is attending the Memphis Law School three nights a week and working at Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company in the day time. Studying further along the line of their main interest are Emmie Vida Slaughter, at the Tulane School of Social Work; Alice Hagler, at Vanderbilt, working on a master's degree in Greek, and Bernadine Taylor at the Peabody Library School in Nashville.

Sam Patterson is attending Louisville Seminary. The insurance business has claimed three of this class: Sam Prest, the Travelers Insurance Company in Memphis, and Fred Dickson, correspondent of the class and ex-president, the New England Life Insurance Company in Memphis, and Joyce Hart who was a lucky young lady. She had a job waiting for her when she graduated, with the Columbian Mutual Life Insurance Company, doing bookkeeping work.

Jane Leavell and Dorothy Givens are both doing social service work, Jane in Memphis with the D. I. P. W., which has to do with old age pensions and dependent children; and Dorothy in Paris, Tennessee.

Rose Lynn Barnard has graduated from campus representative of the Commercial Appeal to the actual staff of the paper's society department. Scoop 'em, Rosie! Margaret England says that she is receptionist, secretary and mannequin at Bayliss Original Gowns Studio in the Peabody Hotel in Memphis. Sounds like a big order but versatile Margaret can fill the bill.

Rebecca Laughlin says she is enjoying her rest after four years of college but plans to enter business school in January. Dorothy Roberts has various and sundry interests, among them being a girl scout troop at Evergreen Church, of which she, Elizabeth Pearce and Ruth Johnston are the leaders. Gertrude Smith has been attending Miller Hawkins business school since June.

Eldridge Armistead is with the Myers Paper Company in Memphis and Elizabeth Cobb is working at Gerber's with the Photo-Reflex Studio, so if you don't want your picture taken you better stay out of her way, as she is a high pressure saleswoman! McKay Boswell is with the Standard Oil Company in Memphis, while Jim Breytspraak is in training at Sears, Roebuck & Company, for a "position."

Cornelia Crinkley is also at Sears, temporarily. Charlotte Drake is doing substitute teaching in Memphis and at present is teaching the 4th grade at Lauderdale School. Ardelle Livesay is teaching in the Junior High School at Bartlett, Tennessee. Two members of this class married this summer: Nell Thompson, now Mrs. James Goshorn; and Irene Battle, now Mrs. James Fort, who married shortly after graduation and is living in Americus, Georgia. She visited her mother in Memphis this summer. George Jennings is with Firestone Auto Supply Store at Birmingham, while Clark McDonald is with Firestone Tire and Rubber Company in Memphis.

Billy Maddox is working at Union Planters Bank. "Kite" Morton is with Weill Brothers Cotton Company in Memphis. Margaret Stockard is hostess and cashier at Fortunes. Neil Tapp is budget manager for the B. F. Goodrich Company at Humboldt, Tennessee. Norman Shapiro doesn't like to leave his Alma Mater and is back doing advanced work in physics and chemistry. Norman, you know, is applying for a Rhodes Scholarship.

What happens to college graduates is always a topic of violent discussion, almost as bad as "Where do flies go in the winter." So just to prove that those who graduated last June are not starving in some foreign garret, we offer an account of the comings and goings of "ye olde grads."

Finds Exhibit

Is Antiquated

Portraits, landscapes, interiors, and flower paintings by Elizabeth Weber Fulop are now on display at the Brooks Memorial Art Gallery. Madame Fulop has been hailed as "Austria's foremost woman artist," but her paintings seem to speak little for the progressiveness of Austrian womanhood. Jack Bryan's commentary on her work at the time of her first display at the James Lee Memorial Art School is pertinent: "Her works have an uncanny warmth and veracity, not only as visual properties but as to the feeling and atmosphere of things animate and inanimate as well."

The paintings are good, if one judges by the antiquated views of the past century; they depict the subject "as is." The cigarette in Mr. Seldon Humphreys' hand looks hot and smokeable, but pictorial evidence of thought or emotion, there is none. Some of the works are those of interiors. Faithfully depicted, there the coloring and highlights are commendable.

The most publicized work of the display is a picture of Thomas Edison's laboratory at Dearborn, Mich. Painted during the past year, it is interesting for the shadowed perspective of a gas-lit room lined with bottles, with a pot-bellied stove and crucibles in the foreground.

Born in Budapest, Madame Fulop studied there under Colarossi. She has painted several famous personages, one of them being Marie Jeoita, a personal friend. Last year Madame Fulop did a series of 13 portraits of Memphians at a studio in the Peabody and some of these are included in the exhibition.

Smith Checked By Murray State In 6-6 Deadlock

Beebe Bull Scores Only One Touchdown

MURRAY SCORES FIRST

Thoroughbreds Prove Able In Offensive Attack

In a bruising defensive battle Murray State Teachers rose to gain a six-all tie with Southwestern, pre-game choice, last Friday afternoon at Murray, Kentucky. Setting out to stop Smith, the Lynx' Twentieth-Century Limited, the Murray Thoroughbreds succeeded partially well where so many others had failed completely.

Opening with the second-half kickoff, Smith, Winfrey and Co. utilized nine plays put together in one blasting sequence to allow Smith to strike paydirt on a final surge from the 15-yard line.

Unfurling a smooth attack checked by the first period whistle, the Kentuckians resumed their drive in the early stages of the second quarter to score. Murray supporters yelled and screamed, for the Thoroughbreds were showing an inspired eleven which was clicking offensively as well as defensively in checking Smith.

Another second-half threat by the Lynx opened with Icky Orenstein intercepting a Murray pass on the Lynx 40. A pass to Tony Canzoneri, Lynx end, put the ball into Murray territory where Southwestern eventually lost possession on a fumble by Smith and with it all chances for a victory.

So great a job was the Lynx line doing in the second half that Murray was held down and her fine backs were helpless in making any headway.

All in all, Southwestern showed themselves to be slightly superior in attack. Defensively such bulwarks as Bill Little and Frank Morgan stood out.

Ministerial Club Gives Play

Religious Pageant To Be Presented At Galloway Methodist

The Ministerial Club will present "Thirty Pieces of Silver," a pageant written by Randall MacInnes at the Galloway Methodist Church Sunday night. The play was given at Evergreen Presbyterian Church last Sunday, and Rev. Millard recommended the continuation of the use of Biblical dramas.

The cast included John Spence as Judas Isacariot, Walter Bader as Caiaphas, high priest of the Sanhedrin, Allen Craft, Herbert Dawson, James Cogswell, and Bruce Crill as members of the Sanhedrin, and David Schulherr as the narrator.

ERSKINE TO SPEAK

John Erskine, noted reviewer and critic, will lecture next Monday night on the topic, "The Moral Obligation to Be Intelligent," at the Congregation of the Children of Israel. He will be the second speaker presented by the Temple Men's Club in their 1938-39 lecture series.

PI INTRODUCES BENNIE JOYNER

Bennie Joyner was brought out last Tuesday by Pi intersorority with the green and white badge on her arm. Miss Joyner is a freshette, a pledge to Zeta Tau Alpha sorority and a member of the newly-formed German Club. Sarah Boothe is High Pi.

New Hampshire's largest inland body of salt water, Great Bay, will be the object of intensive research and writing by University of New Hampshire undergraduates this winter.

Increase in college registration in 1937 over 1936 was 3.9 per cent, but the largest sectional increase this year was in the south, where the gain was 5.7 per cent.

Sidelines

By THOMAS PAPPAS

Once upon a time there was a football team called Murray State. Now Murray State heard that a certain sports editor had predicted a team called the Southwestern Lynx Cats would corral the State Thoroughbreds by two and possibly three touchdowns. So Murray State sent word to Zeus that they would very much like to put that certain sports editor in his place. Zeus, who had had eight or ten bottles of good tasty wine at dinner, was in a quite jovial mood and he promised Murray State he would help them.

The day of the great game dawned. Zeus brought his thunder and his lightning and his rain into play and the great battleground became a sea of mud. Out came Murray State. Out came Southwestern. Clashed did the two teams. Zeus tied great chains to Southwestern's fierce gladiator, Gaylon Smith, and gave wings to Murray State's warrior, Bill McRaven. Up and down the great battleground raged the two teams. McRaven, with his Zeus-gifted wings, flew from one end of the battleground to the other to tally for Murray State. There was much rejoicing among the Thoroughbreds. But, the saga had not yet been finished. Smith, enraged at the way the battle was going, burst his way through the adversary and with Zeus and many Thoroughbreds hanging onto his coat-tails tallied for the Lynx Cats. And thus the great battle ended. But anyway, Murray State and Zeus certainly showed that sports writer.

Comes Millsaps to give me a breather this week. If the Lynx don't take the Majors by a point-a-minute score 'twill be because they only let Gaylon play one quarter. Give The Smith two quarters and he'll probably be leading scorer of the nation.

Last spring, Charlie Gardner and Frank Morgan made several very loud boasts about the things they were going to do in a football way in the fall. Said Morgan: "I'm gonna be All-Dixie." Said Gardner: "If you're All-Dixie, I'll be Little All-American." Personal note to Chas. . . better get started, Charlie, looks like li'l Frankie's a cinch for All-Dixie.

Perhaps more such boasts would prove good for other Lynx players. Both Morgan and Gardner have played the best football of their careers this year.

Down at Emory the lads take their intramurals with much fun and gusto. In a recent championship touch football game between the S. A. E.'s and the Sigma Chi's, both fraternities had six and seven-piece orchestras to help their squads down the field. The Sig Chi's did a swing version of the S. A. E.'s "Violets" and the Epsilon's retaliated with a mutilation of the Chi's sweetheart song.

There were sponsors, recruited from the campus co-eds' ranks, sandwiches, soft drinks, rooting sections, everything that makes for pleasure and a good time. Sigma Chi finally won the game in the last few minutes of play, 7 to 6.

If Emory students can have such fun at intramural games, why can't Southwestern? Surely the intramural spirit here could stand some improvement.

The Christian Union Apple Sale will continue next week. The profits will be added to the fund to be used for the Christmas party for needy children given annually by the group.

VOLLEYBALL FINDS S.A.E. HOLDING INTRAMURAL LEAD

Sigma Alpha Epsilon continued to set the pace in the Intramural race as the volleyball round-robin tournament opened this week in the gym. Defeating the Kappa Sigma team Wednesday by a score of 21-10 and 21-8, they now have a total of 185 points, a wide lead over the rest of the field.

In the first game of the volleyball tournament, played Tuesday, Alpha Epsilon-5; Boyce Johnson, Sigma Tau Omega defeated Non-Frats 21-6 and 21-10. W. J. Hearn and H. C. Robertson stood out for A.T.O. and Bob Meacham led the Non-Frats' attack. S.A.E. met Kappa Sigma in the second game, played Wednesday. The smooth coordination of the S.A.E. volleyballers, led by Waddy West and John McGrady proved too much for the Kappa Sigs, headed by the stand-out play of Henry Mobley.

Sigma Nu defeated Pi Kappa Alpha 21-7 and 21-6 in the second game Wednesday with Billy Smith and Boyce Johnson playing well for Sigma Nu. Paul Buchanan and the redoubtable Ralph Brown led the Pi K.A. attack.

The all-star volleyball team selected by the Intramural Board, with the number of votes received by each player, is: Henry Mobley, Kappa Sigma-7; Waddy West, Sigma Alpha Epsilon-5; Boyce Johnson, Sigma Nu-5; Virgil McCraney, Sigma Alpha Epsilon-5; Billy Kelly, Kappa Sigma-4; Bland Cannon, Alpha Tau Omega-4; Billy Smith, Sigma Nu, and John McGrady, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, tied for the seventh place with 3 votes each. Present standings are:

N. F.	75
S. N.	65
K. A.	55
K. S.	35
