Course Description and Course Objective:

We will use fundamental sociological concepts and theoretical perspectives to examine immigration and multiple race/ethnic identities, experiences, and relations, primarily within the United States. The course will survey a broad range of topics, with many touching on controversial debates that surround social stratification issues. By the end of the course, students should have the conceptual and theoretical tools to apply sociological perspectives of race/ethnicity to their everyday lives, to the lives of “others,” and to American society.

Course Requirements

1. Attendance: You are expected to attend and participate every class period. However, you can miss up to 2 days of class for emergencies or illnesses with no penalty. For every class missed after two absences, your final grade will be reduced a third of a letter grade (e.g. four absences, grade reduced from a B+ to a B-).

2. Class Participation: Class discussions are an important element in this course. What you get out of the course is as much dependent upon the preparation and participation of you and your classmates as it is upon my instruction. What you learn from one another can be as valuable as the lecture and reading materials. Thus, everyone is expected to actively participate in class. You will be graded on the level and quality of your participation.

3. Reflection Papers: Throughout the semester, I will ask you to write reflections papers on activities and events from both inside and outside the classroom. Examples include films, class exercises, campus speakers, and news media. Generally, the assignments will involve analyzing current social issues and connecting them to your experiences. Each reflection paper should be 1-2 pages typed (double space).

4. Commentaries: Students are required to do 4 out of 8 possible commentaries. You must complete half of the commentaries before midterm. See the class schedule for due dates. I will give you a specific assignment for each commentary, but generally they will focus on analyzing the readings and making connections to class lectures and discussion. Each commentary should be 3-4 pages typed (double space). I will not accept late commentary papers.

5. Group Research Paper and Presentation: In groups, students will choose a topic related to race/ethnicity and will develop a research question that they want to investigate. Students will use scholarly sources to address and analyze multiple dimensions of their questions. The groups will meet with me periodically to report on your progress, and the groups and individual group members will turn in parts of the paper throughout the semester. Guidelines for the paper will be handed out in class. Students’ grades will be based on a combination of individual contributions and group performance. The final paper is due in class, Wednesday, April 26th. The group presentations will be during the final exam period on Wednesday, May 3rd, 5:30-8pm.

Course Guidelines

1. Please avoid disrupting class by arriving late or leaving early.

2. Do not disrupt me or your classmates by talking amongst your neighbors while other people are speaking.

3. You are responsible for all announcements and assignments made in class.

4. You are required to check your e-mail once a day for any updates from me.

5. If anyone has special needs that require modification of seating, testing, or other class requirements, please contact me in the beginning of the semester and provide documentation from disability services, so that suitable accommodations can be made.

6. Make-up exams will only be allowed in the event of a documented emergency. If you cannot take the exam for any reason, you must contact me prior to the exam. Failure to do so may mean that you will not be able to take a make-up exam.

7. Academic misconduct and dishonesty (such as cheating or plagiarism) will not be tolerated and will be dealt with according to the Honor Code.
8. The following reading and lecture schedules are subject to revisions, however, the exam dates and the assignment due dates will remain the same.

9. This class will require you to look at your life and the lives of others through many different perspectives. This can be a very challenging experience. Although I want you to feel free to share your ideas, I expect you to respect one another when listening to other viewpoints.
