Dr. Amacker Analyzes Russian Political Trends

Dr. David M. Amacker, professor of Political Science and a student of contemporary world politics, addressed the students in chapel Monday, February 13, on the significance of recent shifts of power in the Soviet Union.

Professor Amacker predicted that there is a possibility more friendly relations will be established between the United States and Russia due to the ascension of Marshal Zhukov as Defense Chief. President Eisenhower and Marshal Zhukov were friends during World War II.

BLOOD NEEDED

Professor George R. Raymond of the Southwestern faculty has entered Methodist Hospital for treatment of a blood disease. He will need eight transfusions and must remain at the Hospital for several weeks. Students interested in donating blood are asked to contact Prof. Reveley immediately.

Tuthill Has Fine Music on WHHM

On Sunday, February 13th, Station WHHM began a series of Sunday afternoon broadcasts of the finest music in recorded performances. This program will be broadcast from four to six each Sunday afternoon, at a period when other programs of a similar type are not now to be heard.

WHHM has invited Dr. Burnet C. Tuthill, who is both a composer and a conductor, to take full charge of planning these broadcasts, and to comment briefly on the music to be presented. The music Dr. Tuthill will choose will be of the finest quality but at the same time will vary widely in character. While the great symphonies and choral works of the Masters will form the backbone of the program, many pieces, such as the Strauss waltzes, Sousa marches, and the music of such Broadway hits as "Oklahoma" and "Kiss Me Kate" will also be included.

Results of Layoff Show In Lynx' Weekend Games

After the three games played in the past week, the Lynx roundballers now have a record of ten wins against nine defeats. After losing 81-77 last Friday night to a strong Northeast Louisiana aggregation and 74-58 Saturday to an even stronger Mississippi College bunch, they came back Monday night to post their second victory over Millsaps 77-68 on the enemy court.

Although Southwestern was behind all the way against the Louisianans, the margin was never more than eight points. With three and a half minutes remaining Bill Young, who led the fast break effectively all night, swished a crisp shot to close the gap to only one point, but the Indians quickly jumped ahead again. Southwestern made 34 field goals to Northeast's 31 but were out scored at the foul line as the winners hit for 19 of 28 and the Lynx only potted 9 of 20. Patterson, with his deadly two-handed jump shot led the night's scoring. His teammates gave well-rounded support as Crowe, Gibson, Bradley, and Miles all hit in the double figures with 15, 14, 11, and 11 respectively. Gilliom, Carlisle, Young, and Kaylor meshed 19, 18, 16, and 10 per man. This loss and the one to Ole Miss are the only two the Lynx have lost in the Neely Mallory Memorial Gymnasium. In a preliminary game General Electric dropped the freshmen 64-45.

Mississippi College

Howard Sessums' 29 points for Mississippi College and the absence of Jim Winslow from the Southwestern line-up were enough to put the skids under the Lynx at Jackson against Mississippi College. The winners succeeded in controlling the rebounds most of the time, and the Lynx never could cut down on the halftime lead of sixteen points although they played the Mississippians on even terms in the second half. Jackson, with 25, and Carlisle

Ten Candidates Remain In Popularity Contest

George "Smokey" Russell was named Most Handsome in the first Popularity Election February 15. A runoff election will be held Wednesday to determine winners of the various titles.

Surviving candidates for Miss Southwestern are Claudia Owen and Lisa Rollow; for Most Stylish, Martha Jane Morrison and Joanna Kindig; for Most Attractive, Esther Jane Swartzfager and Robin Sprague; for Mr. Southwestern, Reg Germany and Truman Nabors; and for Best All Round, David Kaylor and Tom Tosh.

Because of several inconsistencies in presenting the candidates to the student body, a previous "primary election" was declared void by the Student Government, based on provisions contained in Article 7, section 4, of the Student Government Constitution.

Speaking in chapel before the election of February 15, Student Government President Holly Mitchell enumerated the reasons for voiding the election. "An insufficient number of ballots were prepared for distribution to the voters, depriving some students of an opportunity to vote," Holly declared. "A typographical error on the ballots caused some confusion. Thirdly, the date was not announced in advance."

Your Future Will Be Viewed Career Day

The Women's Undergraduate Board is now completing plans for Career Day to be held next Thursday afternoon at 3:30 in the Adult Education Center. Several weeks ago all women students were given an opportunity to turn in suggestions for careers they would like to hear discussed. The board compiled these suggestions and has planned a program which will include short talks and opportunities for discussion with six Memphis women who are engaged in the six careers most often requested. These women are the following:

Speakers

Mrs. Robbie Beard from the Les Passees Treatment Center, who will speak to the group about opportunities in physical therapy and medical technology.

Miss Ann McFadden, a graduate of Southwestern, who is now teaching music and other subjects in the Memphis Public Schools. She has also had experience teaching abroad in a U.S. Army School in Germany and will discuss that occupation.

Miss Mary Ann Ramsey, also a Southwestern graduate, who is now a secretary at Brick Muller Advertising Agency, will talk about opportunities in stenographic work.

Mrs. Ruth Sherrill, Vice President of the First National Bank and the only woman holding such a position in this part of the country, will speak about careers in math and economics.

Civil Service

Mrs. Mildred Turner, Examiner in charge of the U.S. Board of Civil Service here in Memphis, will tell of the many jobs open to girls who want to work for the government anywhere in the country.

Miss Betty Foley, Health Director for the Community Council, will

Senior Party At KD House

The Kappa Delta house will set the scene for the informal Senior class party tonight. On the committee to plan the party were Truman Nabors, Margaret Jones, Tommy Jones, and Jean McLean.

They plan an old-fashioned taffy pull with popping corn and bridge playing as sidelines. The party will last from seven to ten. Music from the Southwestern Dance Band will add to the night's entertainment. Dr. and Mrs. Wolf are chaperones for the party.

A. E. Hohenburg Speaks For Free World Trade

Last Friday Southwestern students had the singular honor of hearing one of the most distinguished figures in world commerce today, in the person of Mr. Adolf E. Hohenburg. Mr. Hohenburg, who gained international distinction as cotton's "Man of the Year," is President of Hohenburg and Company of Memphis, which is one of the largest and most influential cotton exchanges in the world.

As an influential leader in the cotton affairs of the country, Mr. Hohenburg is highly in favor of a free world trade policy which, he said, would do much toward stabilizing the economy not only of this country, but of the cooperating countries.

The essentials of a world trade policy are, according to Mr. Hohenburg:

1. An informed and enlightened public.
 2. Equality of treatment in trade.
 3. A reciprocal trade agreement.
- He believes that U.S. trade policy should be consistent, as well as broad, looking toward that which is in the overall interest of the United States and the world.

Beauty And The Beasts

The YWCA will present its annual fashion show Friday evening, February 25, at 7:00 in Hardie Auditorium. The performance will feature an all-school cast of students and professors.

Stunning creations from the "Mam'selle Shop" will be modeled by campus beauties. Professors and willing male students will be on hand to display what the well-dressed female is wearing this season; they will be arrayed in feminine attire.

Professors Diehl, Southard, Rhodes, and Embry have already promised their modeling talents. Many other teachers are still being pursued.

The big question is "How will Dr. Embry look in Bermuda shorts?"

Student Council Usurps Power

By ordering the Elections Commission to hold a re-ballot in the Popularity Contest, the Student Council has set a precedent which could have dire consequences. This latest move is a step toward over-centralization of power and loss of individual freedom.

One of the first disputes involving the Constitution of the United States arose when Alexander Hamilton, whose "party" was then in power, insisted that the principles of the Constitution should be given a broad interpretation in order to promote unity and strengthen central government. This view was opposed by Thomas Jefferson who held that individual liberty would be sacrificed unless the government adhered to a strict interpretation of the Constitution.

Broad View Yields More Power

Philosophy tends to support the more democratic Jeffersonian principle favoring the freedom of man against the authority of government. History, however, has proved time and again that the group in power uses the Hamiltonian doctrine, regardless of its political philosophy. Jefferson himself began to use the broad interpretation as soon as he gained governmental power. Democratic freedom was sacrificed for the greater authority of the central government.

The same sort of situation now exists at Southwestern. The Student Council this week ordered the Elections Committee to void an election and hold a re-ballot. It is not our purpose here to question the reasons given, however simple. We do insist, nonetheless, that such action should have been taken by the Elections Commission itself—which could have been done at the suggestion of the Student Council. Instead, the Commission counted the votes and released the results, and the Council took it upon itself to void the election.

The Council based its action on Article VII, Section 4 of the Student Body Constitution which states that "It (the Council) shall have control over all student elections." Does this mean that a body where one or two groups are dominant and other groups are not even represented has full authority over a body whose representation is complete and equal? Does this mean that a small group of students has such power over the Student Body that it can overturn anything within the governmental structure which displeases it?

Precedent Could Ruin Representation

Let us pursue such a liberal interpretation with this example: The Publications Board is also represented on the Student Council by a Commissioner. With such a precedent as the Council has now set, the Publications Board could lose its powers. The Council could order policies set, control the hiring and firing of Editors, and generally obstruct the press at will. The same principle could be applied to religion, athletics, and all the other activities represented on the Student Council.

The Student Council has taken a large step toward centralization of authority. If it continues in this direction, representative government may well become a farce. Student government should include representatives from every group. The Student Council should not have final control over all Boards and Commissions. Any further move in this direction must be met with resistance by the Student Body.

Campus Student Center Sacrificed For Shrubs

The need for a student center here on our campus is becoming more and more evident every day that toilingly drags by. Why the increasing need? Because it is too easy on our campus for students to get depressed. One possible source of the dreariness and unrest is the lack of a student center where we can go and dance if we want and when we want, without feeling like performing vaudeville actors—a place where we can go and renew the fast decaying art of good conversation without being asphyxiated in doing so.

Oh, we all ready have such a place. The Lair? Yes, there is the Lair, and I admit the only facsimile to a student center we have. The Lynx Lair—available from 8 A.M. to 10 P.M. (bed time for all college children) for smoking and playing cards and smoking.

Atmosphere

Atmosphere you want, atmosphere you get—what kind? I'm not sure, but similar to the way I picture Bill's Bar on Beale Street; however I can assure you it's none the less very stimulating. After cutting your way through the smoke, sardining through the people and walking as if trying not to take any two steps in the same direction, to avoid stepping on coke bottles or empty (remainder of the contents now decorating the polished floor) cups, it's pretty stimulating all right!

What would make students take care of an improved student center, you ask, if they can't even take care of baby Lynx, who incidentally is ready for a diaper change. First of all, there is not very much in the Lair to induce anyone, under the crowded conditions existing, to even think of being the refined, cultured, liberal-minded lady or gentleman for which Southwestern is famous.

Plan Offered

There is a definite lack of space; therefore facilitating a cluttered condition. This could be remedied to some extent by moving the bookstore to the third floor of Palmer or anywhere, thus leaving the two back rooms for the machines and tables, the front free for dancing and conversing, without a single case of throat irritation.

Moving the bookstore would be by no means a panacea for all our headaches and heartaches, but at least it would be a definite step toward a solution. Cost a little to do something? Yes, it would, but I am convinced it would be an expense as valid as a new tree or shrub for our campus.

The campus beautification program has its place, but in beautifying our campus let's not forget the importance of the happiness of the students; for what good is Southwestern's beautiful campus if there are no students?

discuss the vocations available in social and welfare work, and the preparation needed for such jobs.

After these brief descriptions of their work, these ladies will be interested in talking in smaller groups to those inclined to their various fields. This will be an excellent opportunity for all women students to learn more about their chosen careers; it will also aid some in deciding on their vocations. All women students are invited.

with Scott Byrd

Well, I'm back in my column again; and, while I'm eternally grateful to whoever filled in for me last week, I must say that I do not consider the slum conditions of Memphis as amusing. They are appalling. That is today's sermon.

* * * * *

Now that the new semester is tripping gaily along in its elephantine way, why don't you give up your homing instincts and all that hibernation nonsense and go ON THE TOWN! (It may interest those who think that the previous sentence should have been followed by a question mark to know that I plan to make it a rule to always follow "ON THE TOWN" with an exclamation point. A few simple rules make punctuation so simple.)

With the movie version of Clifford Odts' THE COUNTRY GIRL in the Academy Award news, the Little Theater will offer Memphis the chance to see the play itself, beginning Friday at 8:30. The stars, Virginia Yerian and Ed Cook, are veterans of the Little Theater and should turn in very competent performances in this stinging and absorbing drama. John McKinney is featured in the supporting cast. The play will run a week.

One of the Eighty-eight

Saturday night at Ellis Auditorium the brilliant young pianist Byron Janis will play the piano. (Pianists will do that you know.) Among other things, he will play an Impromptu in E flat major, which sounds positively fascinating to me. He has not only played all over the United States, but also in the music capitals of Europe and South America (wherever they are), and he should be very good.

Another big musical event will occur at 2:30 on Sunday, when Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops will perform in Ellis Auditorium. Mr. Fiedler is an outstanding conductor who should not be blamed for the obnoxious title he gave one of his recordings: "Classical Music for People Who Hate Classical Music." His varied program will range from "Clair de lune" to "It's a Grand Night for Singing" and includes works by Strauss, Offenbach, and Rachmaninoff.

Bang! Bang!

If you like sexy war movies, you'll love BATTLE CRY at the Warner. It's a World War II story of the Marines and is quite exciting and entertaining. Nancy Olson stands out in a large and variously talented cast. It's in CinemaScope and Warnercolor. For people who like to burn their bridges behind them, MANY RIVERS TO CROSS at the State may be just the thing. It's in CinemaScope and Technicolor, and stars Robert Taylor and Eleanor Parker. Jane Russell sinks to new depths in UNDERWATER at the Palace. It's in SuperScope and Technicolor. In Trucolor is the Malco's current feature, TIMBERJACK, with Vera Ralston in the title role.

This We Like

Unlike the doubtlessly entertaining movies above, there is no slickness or "Hollywoodishness" clinging to the excellent new British film THE HEART OF THE MATTER at the Ritz. It is a penetrating study of pity and the results of pity, as the outgrowth of a touching and hopeless love affair. In is not as fine a work as Graham Greene's novel, on which the film was based, but it is much more memorable than any of the other first-run movies for this week. The whole cast is very good, with highest honors going to Trevor Howard and Maria Schell.

Keep in mind that on Feb. 25 and 26 the Memphis Civic Ballet will feature the Southwestern Modern Dance Group. Reservations may be obtained from Professor Ray Hill, who is president of Ballet Society.

So there you are! (Have I used this ending before?) And here I am, and let's go ON THE TOWN!

KAPPA SIGMA SWEETHEART. Miss Robin Sprague, a junior from Jackson, Mississippi, is the 1955 Sweetheart of Kappa Sig. Miss Sprague was introduced to the Student Body at a Valentine party held in her honor at the Phi Chapter lodge last week.

Poochie's Patter

Hello again! Another week, another party. This is the big weekend for Zeta Tau Alpha. Saturday night they're holding their annual formal at the King Cotton Hotel. They will announce their new officers at the dance. Mary Williams, outgoing president, has invited all male students, married students and their wives to the dance. It's a star-dust ball. I'll see you there!

Congratulations to Nellie Brown, new Pi member! Also congrats to Louis Dodez who pinned Margaret Redden; same to Sandra Ellis, who's now engaged.

Boys, I want the reports about Valentine's Day. I looked hard but saw no yellow rose with a tacked on sonnet. Are you mice or men???

Heard that Teddybear Gillespie is the President of the "Percy B. Shelley and John Keats Club." Teddybear, we didn't know!!

Faculty news: Dean Johnson has been in his office twice, I repeat, twice, this semester when I've gone in, and the amazing thing about it—the semester is only two weeks old. Of course, he told me not to get carried away for all this is for course changing, etc. His statement on the subject, "No longer can it be said I'm never in my office—now it's just very seldom."

Last weekend students took off for all kinds of parties. Charlotte Black and Katherine Milne went to Jackson to see LaVerne Myers become a Mrs., and, darlings (as LaVerne would say), it must have been tremendous! Margaret Jones, Betty Andrews, and Poochie (that's me) went to Sewanee for their mid-winter dance. And I must say that mountain is the most! Even if it is an Episcopal school!

Oh, boy—grades are out! But a word of encouragement—only four more months of school. Yea!

The latest style on campus—please note — Nancy Rice, Sara Adams, Mary Ann Breeze's Bermuda shorts and bright yellow hats with feathers. It's the latest for you cats!

Holy Mitchell has a word or two for all those who use the vulgar word vomit. He told me that I should purge myself of this unlady-like saying—will anyone join me?

Last word comes from Bryan Smalley; what's black and white and red all over? No, not the Sou'wester—an embarrassed zebra!

Re-Pate-tion

Some of the happiest hours and most lucid periods of thoughts have occurred while waiting for the lady of our choice to pass from out the iron portals and ivy-covered barred windows of Voorhies Hall.

Waiting in the ante-room for our date to finish powdering her multi-freckled nose and fill out the usual triplicate form requesting temporary parole from custody of the dormitory board, we have thought thoughts and dreamed dreams (when the wait was longer than usual) that rival those of the greatest thinkers and philosophers of our day.

It was there that we conceived our idea for atomic cards which blow up in the face of bridge partners who pass jump-shifts and opening club bids.

Here we first planned to construct a silence machine which, by creating an atmospheric void, smothers all sound. The first of these is soon to be placed on the librarians' desk in Burrow.

Where else could we have thought of little white pills which, when placed in drinks purchased from the Lair's many machines, would turn the carbonated into pure drinking water.

We are, however, the first to admit that at times we have found the minutes weighing on our hands a trifle and, as a consequence, have often been inclined to become a shade more irritable than is our normal condition.

Now, thanks to the inspired generosity of Mr. W. S. Redden, whether because he once had the same problem or because he has a daughter or both, our problem has ceased to exist, for upon entering Voorhies' allowed halls we are presented with a delightful choice.

We may turn to the right and dwell for a time with the fruits of the intellect, or we may turn to the left and beguile away the time viewing the television set which Mr. Redden presented to the dorm.

Voorhies' social life is on the up-swing. Almost any evening will find a group hovering before the screen. There are not disputes over which channel to watch since, happily, the set only receives one. Congestion in the four auxiliary social rooms has been considerably relieved.

College men rejoice. We have found a champion who, if he has not solved the problem, has helped to relieve that chore which we must endure throughout life — eternally waiting for the female of the species.

THE LAIR PHILOSPHER says:

An unusually unreliable source says the Voorhies dorm board is considering a 9 o'clock deadline for watching the new television set. Wanna bet they don't install a pop corn stand instead?

Pledges Honored At KD Luncheon

Kappa Delta will hold its annual Big Sister-Little Sister Luncheon at 1 tomorrow at the King's Court Smorgasbord.

Awards will be made to the Best Pledge, the Most Outstanding Pledge, and to the pledge with the highest scholastic average for the first semester. A cup will be presented to the pledge who has contributed most to sorority athletics.

The members will give presents to their little sisters.

Robin Sprague Is KS Sweetheart

Robin Sprague, the first sweetheart chosen from the student body by Kappa Sigma, was presented by the fraternity at its Sweetheart Open House from 6 to 8 last Friday night.

Reg Germany announced the new sweetheart at 7 o'clock. Mrs. R. P. Richardson, the first sweetheart of Phi Chapter chosen in 1952, presented Robin with a white gold and pearl sweetheart pin. Robin wore a corsage of lilies of the valley, the fraternity flowers, with red, green and white ribbons, Kappa Sigma colors.

The open house, given by the Mothers' Club, was also in honor of Reg Germany, who was graduated in January.

The fraternity lodge was decorated in a Valentine theme of red and white. Refreshments of turkey, ham, and iced cakes were served.

Guests danced to the music provided by the newly organized Southwestern dance band composed of Buddy Whiteaker, Tom Huff, Dick Baldwin, Graham Hicks, Dan Adams, Harriet Byrd and Charlie Burnett.

Canterbury Club Names Three Projects For Lent

Wednesday night, February 16, members of the Canterbury Club participated in their last party before the Lenten season. A spaghetti supper was held at the AOPi house with entertainment and recreation afterwards.

During Lent, which begins Ash Wednesday, February 23, Canterbury has proposed three main projects. Every Wednesday morning the group will join in a corporate communion, with everyone eating breakfast together afterwards.

The weekly meeting will be a discussion group with the Medical group. The topic will be Christian behavior, using C. S. Lewis' book of the same name as background material. The two groups will meet at Southwestern and at Quintard house, the Episcopal center for Tennessee Medical Center, on alternating Wednesdays.

The first discussion group will meet on Ash Wednesday from 6:45 to eight o'clock at Quintard house, Washington and Dunlap. On each Saturday during Lent, a shortened form of Morning Prayer will be held from 10:00 to 10:30 (chapel time) in the chapel at Voorhies.

For all of these three projects, anyone who is interested is welcome to come.

with 15 led Southwestern.

Millsaps

In the rough, wild, and woolly Millsaps game Southwestern got off to an early lead and retained it throughout. At the half, however, the score only read 30-25 in their favor. There were fifty-two fouls called in the game, and Southwestern missed eighteen free throws to seventeen missfires for the losers. Saulters of Millsaps was the games high scorer with 26. Carlisle paced Southwestern with 23, and Dick Gilliom added 18.

Giant Killers

Tomorrow the Lynx journey to Sewanee to meet the Giant Killers. Earlier in the season Sewanee came back from a 71-63 loss to Southwestern to defeat Georgia Tech. The night after being beaten by Sewanee, Georgia Tech met Kentucky and defeated the kings of the basketball world on their home court.

All School Basketball Tournament Is Underway

Two games have been played in the all-school basketball tournament. In the first game Carter's Pills demolished the Goof-offs in a wild game 69-26. The team's namesake Jimmy Carter was the leading scorer in the game with 20 points. He was followed by his teammate Wayland Carlisle who bagged 19 points. Wingfield was high for the losers with seven points and was followed by Hooker with six.

In the second game Bill Maybry led the Intellectuals to a 42-28 victory over the Wrecking Crew. Maybry, high scorer of the night, scored 22 points. Charles Wiese led the losers with eight points and David Simpson and George Gracey were third highest with six points.

Soldiers, what I have to offer you is fatigue, danger, struggle and death; the chill of the cold night in the free air, and heat under the burning sun; no lodgings, no munitions, no provisions, but forced marches, dangerous watchposts and the continual struggle with the bayonet against batteries — those who love freedom and their country may follow me.

Marian Cobb Writes Marlene Dietrich

Marian got an answer! Recently, Marian Cobb, a Southwestern junior, asked Marlene Dietrich through This Week magazine whom she considered the most fascinating man she had ever known. Miss Dietrich answered Marian's question in a two page article which appeared in the February 12 issue of This Week. Because of a typographical error, Marian became Mariam, but students quickly recognized her from the accompanying picture.
