Cautious Students Confess Harboring Pet Superstitions

Are you superstitious? We're not, but we've met a lot of people recently who are. And since today is Friday the Thirteenth, we thought it most appropriate to ask folks around the campus about their superstitions.

Some of the answers we got were most interesting. Of course we got loads of replies concerning the old standards and their variations: Never walk under a ladder; never break a mirror (violators of this law will be liable to seven (count them!) seven years of ill fate); watch out for the black cats; etc., etc.

However, we ran across a few new ones. At least, they were new to us, and we think that you might find them interesting, too. We asked Mrs. Gilliam if she were superstitious, and she replied, "No, I'm not superstitious, but I never walk under a ladder. You'll never catch me breaking a mirror, but I'm not superstitious." And we agree.

Katherine Milne tells us that she never takes the last piece of candy ("or anything like that") because there is a definite connection between taking the last piece of candy ("or anything like that") and ending up an old maid.

Ike, of dining hall fame, told us that he wasn't a bit superstitious, but that the men to see about the subject was Steve. We went to see Steve, and he hastened to state that he wasn't the least bit superstitious—it was just that he had done a lot of kidding about it. For instance, he told us, he was just kidding around when he said that he was afraid of ghosts. He really isn't, he says, afraid of them at all. He just sprinkles a little salt around on the floor to keep them away, and they don't bother him at all. Sounds like a wonderful idea. We'll have to try it sometime when those darn old ghosts start bothering us again.

When you are riding along and come to a railroad track, be sure

Rushing Program Set Up For Fall

Rules for next fall's rushing week were set up at a meeting of the interfraternity council Wednesday, May 11. The rules will soon be mimeographed and distributed to fraternity members.

The situation is much the same as it was last fall. Fraternity rush parties will take place the 13th, 14th, 16th, and 19th of September. Prospective pledges will choose their fraternities by preference cards after the last party on the 19th.

An amendment has been added to the rules whereby violation brings stiffer punishment. A fraternity could stand to lose its rushing privileges for the following year if a rule is violated.

PiKA Officers Installed

Tuesday night, May 10, the following new officers of Theta Chapter, Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity, were installed: SMC (President) James Edgar Cunningham; IMC (Vice-president) Jimmie Carleton Fortune; ThC (Treasurer) Russell Andrew Gieseler; SC (Secretary) Delmar Denman Brown; Pledgemaster, Herman William Vassey.

WHO'S SUPERSTITIOUS? Joanna Kindig, appointed next year's Sou'wester editor on Friday the 13th, attempts to defy two superstitions simultaneously by leading a black cat across her path while standing beneath a ladder. The tabby doesn't seem too happy about the whole thing.

Torch Taps Ten Juniors; McCarroll Top Sophomore

Torch, senior women's honorary society, Wednesday tapped ten juniors into membership for next year and named Suzanne McCarroll as the sophomore who best represents the ideals of and requirements for Torch.

Named to membership were Ann Barr, Sue Carter, Geraldine Dozier, Dot Henning, Nita Saunders, Robin Sprague, Sallie Myhr Thomas, Frances Van Cleave, Elaine Vickrey and Joan Womack.

Ann Barr, with a 2.7 scholastic average and 24½ Torch activity points, is now president of Tri-Delt, has served as chaplain and rush chairman of Tri-Delt, commissioner of Religious Activities of the student council, and has been a student counselor for two years.

Sue Carter

Sue Carter is Commissioner of Undergraduate Women, has been social service chairman and chaplain of Kappa Delta and a student counselor for two years. Her offices include secretary of the Elections Commission and vice-president of the Southwestern Singers. A 3.0 average and 27 activity points qualified her for membership.

Geraldine Dozier has served as social chairman, gift chairman, and is now publicity chairman and doorkeeper of AOPi. She has served as president of the Baptist Student Union, Feature editor of the Sou'wester and associate editor of the Lynx, and has been a member of the Protestant Religious Council for two years. Her scholastic average is 3.1 and she has 30 activity points.

Dot Henning, vice-president of Kappa Delta, has been a cheerleader for three years, served as Commissioner of Undergraduate Women, was a Founder's Day Member of STAB Intersorority, was this year's Homecoming Princess for the "S" club and sweetheart of Sigma Nu fraternity. Her scholastic average was 2.7 and she had 33¼ activity points.

Arkansas' Cherry Explains Obligations of Governors

Last week, members of the Southwestern student body and faculty had the pleasure of hearing one of the South's outstanding leaders, Francis Cherry, former governor of Arkansas.

The loquacious governor expressed his belief that the duties and responsibilities of a Southern governor should not be extended, and anyone contemplating the role of a state leader should have a sense of dedication, a capacity for making sacrifices, an ability to be thrifty with the state's finances, and willingness to accept responsibilities.

The Arkansas statesman further stated that the life of a governor is mainly peripatetic and as an illustration, cited the many urgent conferences, telephone calls, appointments and interviews that must be personally handled during the course of one day. Former governor Cherry said that the overall compensation of filling the gubernatorial chair was the satisfaction of having helped to make a more progressive state.

Mr. Cherry made clear, however, that the general welfare of the

It is the usual procedure for the publications board to fill these positions as early as possible, but a scarcity of candidates has forced the longer waiting period this year.

Joanna has two years experience on the Sou'wester behind her. She has served as both feature editor and news editor of the paper and knows the work well.

BULLETIN

The Publications Board today named John McKinney to edit the 1956 Lynx. Carolyn Townes was named Lynx Business Manager, and Marian Cobb will be the Business Manager for the Sou'wester.

"I feel that I am thoroughly acquainted with the functions of the Sou'wester and will do the best I can to maintain the good quality of the newspaper next year," Joanna said.

Besides her experience on the Sou'wester, Joanna was also elected recently as the junior class representative to the publications board.

Joanna has been publicity chairman and rush chairman of Kappa Delta sorority, was vice-president of her Kappa Delta pledge class and receive the Most Outstanding Pledge award. In elections this fall she was voted the Most Stylish by the Student Body.

Her journalistic experience dates back to Central high school, where she worked in the advertising department of the yearbook and was a delegate to the National Scholastic Press Association Convention in Chicago during her senior year.

Regarding Superstitions

This being Friday the thirteenth, coinciding with the regular publication date of the Sou'wester, we've tried to impart a superstitious flavor to this issue. A few complications developed, however, in our search for authentic lore on Friday the thirteenth in particular and superstitions in general. For one thing, no one knows exactly why Friday, or the thirteenth day, or the fated combination of the two, should be unlucky. (See Re-Pate-tion, page 2).

Next, when it came time to photograph a Southwesterner breaking two time-honored superstitions (picture, page 1), no black cats were available. We couldn't beg, borrow, or steal a black cat. Maybe they are in hiding until all the unfavorable publicity blows over. Or something. Thanks to a bottle of India ink, though, a particularly fierce looking feline was produced which we hereby declare to be the only known specimen of Tabbicus Ferocious.

Concert vs. Timber-Topping

The Southwestern band, an informal group of musicians who have been practicing one hour each Tuesday and Thursday through the year with no incentive but a common love of music, presented a concert in Fisher Garden Tuesday afternoon. The band includes some fine talents and the concert program seemed well-rehearsed. Unfortunately, practically no one was there to hear them. Perhaps this was due to insufficient publicity, or perhaps programs of music at Southwestern have reached the saturation point with students. Almost as many students were watching workmen dismantle a tree outside Science Hall as were in the Garden. The demise of the tree unquestionably was of more spectator interest. So was the track meet occurring at the same time and the intramural softball games behind the gym. Maybe next year the band will find a more opportune time and therefore a greater wealth of potential listeners for its concert. There is very little going on around here between the hours of two and three in the morning.

Records To Reckon With

With this issue our editor, Dan Adams, goes into a state of semi-retirement in anticipation of senior comprehensives. The rest of the staff will carry on as best they can in his absence. As long as he's not around to edit copy this week, maybe this would be the time for a brief eulogy. In his year as editor, Dan has set many records, including total number of issues, six extras, and the May 6 issue, the largest Sou'wester ever printed. Most students are inclined to take the Sou'wester with a "So what?" attitude, and will fail to see any significance in these marks. But when one considers the fact that Dan has spent a minimum of thirty hours a week and sometimes more with only a skeleton staff of departmental editors available to edit and publish this newspaper, his achievements gain stature. Those of us who work on the Sou'wester realize how much the newspaper has improved under his editorship. He has set standards which will insure the continued quality of the Sou'wester next year and in years after.

Re-Pate-tion

All right, go ahead. We dare you to tell us why Friday the thirteenth is supposed to be an unlucky day. We'll bet you can't even tell us why thirteen is so avoided that many hotels and office buildings are built without the thirteenth floor. (We never were sure quite how this is accomplished.)

Anyway, after consulting with two English professors, several newspaper men, various and assorted students, a yogi practitioner, a Yugoslav swami, a Hindu fakir and Dr. Stein of Burrow Library, we came to the conclusion that either there is no reason or the facts have been classified top secret by the state department to keep the bloody Reds from getting hold of them.

According to legend daddy Adam was created, entered Eden, sinned, was expelled from Eden, repented, and died on a whole string of Fridays. Christ died, will be born again, and Gabriel will toot his horn on Friday. Whether all these events took or will take place on thirteenth days of the month we don't know but we doubt it since in the days when most of these events occurred nobody had ever heard of thirteen.

Three financial panics have occurred on—you guessed it—Friday the thirteenth, and my old mammy told me black Friday got its name because if you wash clothes on that day the suds will turn to blood, which strikes me as a cheap way to dye your clothes.

And we'll lay pretty good odds that it was on such a day and date that that troublesome rib of Adam's first popped out and started talking.

We had little trouble with the significance of thirteen after we searched around in some old volumes and came up with the fact that Solomon's mothers-in-law lived in tents holding just that number. That would ruin the reputation of any self-respecting digit.

Furthermore, Atila the Hun was the thirteenth son of a thirteenth daughter, Empress Theodora had thirteen toes and thirteen lovers, and Poochie has been pinned thirteen times.

All this on Friday, which was named after Frigg, the German goddess whose name means "beloved or Loving."

THE LAIR PHILOSOPHER says:

The only superstition that has really been lost in the shuffle is the one about cats. From listening to the Lair jukebox for almost four years we'd say the place is lousy with cats.

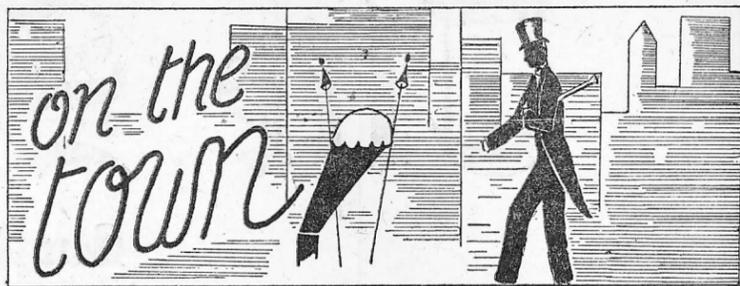

Females Will Edit Next Sou'wester

The next issue of the Sou'wester will be a strictly female issue, published by females for females (of course, we expect the males to peek at it, too!)

The staff requests all girl reporters to check by the Sou'wester for their assignments Saturday morning.

Freshmen To Hold Vespers in Garden

Everyone is urged to attend the Freshman Vesper service in Fisher Garden on Sunday at 5:00 p.m. This is taking the place of the regular Westminster Fellowship meeting. Immediately after the Vesper service, there will be a supper served on the patio at Evergreen church honoring the graduating seniors.

with Scott Byrd

Well, Mothers' Day has come and gone. I got a thank-you note from my mother. What did you get?

The Cotton Carnival is upon us for a while, I suppose. There are parades to watch and some carnival-type contraptions to ride for those of us who are not in the crew that arrives on barges and things. Really, the Cotton Carnival is just tremendous. I even looked at one of the parades last year myself.

The Warner Film Palace is featuring a movie which sounds like Poochie's reply on being questioned about exams. JUMP INTO HELL stars Kurt Kaszar and Arnold Moss, and actually concerns the gallant French stand at the IndoChinese fortress of Dien Bien Phu. It's the only thing this week not in color.

Eric Amber did the script of THE PURPLE PLAIN at the State. It's an adventure-romance sort of movie, the romance side of which concerns the poignant (and you know what that word means) story of a love affair between an RAF flier and a beautiful Burmese girl. Gregory Peck and Win Min Than star in the midst of some lovely scenery. It should be good.

'Trail' Returns

Henry Fonda, who was hardly more than a boy in 1936 (but who later got over it), returns in that year's TRAIL OF THE LONESOME PINE to the Strand. Sylvia Sidney and Fred MacMurray are also featured in this drama about saw-mills, of all things. This was one of the first all-technicolor films made.

The new English version of Somerset Maugham's THE BEACHCOMBER, which is at the Ritz, should be vastly amusing. Robert Newton plays the outcast and Glynis Johns plays the missionary's sister. The film tells how they reform each other.

UNTAMED goes into a third week at the Malco. It's about diamonds in South Africa a hundred years ago and features Susan Hayward as a crashing Boer.

Forbidden Love at Palace

Probably the biggest movie of the week, in some ways at least, is THE PRODIGAL at the Palace. According to the ads, it's "The story of a woman's beauty and man's temptation! Forbidden love he couldn't resist!" which isn't exactly the way my old Sunday School teacher used to phrase it. Lana Turner portrays a "temptress," and Edmund Purdom has the title role, as the son who dissipates in Damascus. Audrey Dalton is also in the cast; possibly she plays the fatted calf. It may be a very good film. I don't know. After all it took two years to make.

Out at Memphis State on May 13, a pair of short modern operas will be staged with student casts. They are Paul Hindemith's "There and Back" and Kurt Weill's "Down in the Valley," and they might be well worth seeing.

Keep Sunday in mind as the date of Rosemary Ann Wachal's voice recital which will be held freely at the College of Music. Harrilyn Graves will be her accomplice.

Just Ask Mary Wood

At the Peabody Skyway these nights is Chuck Cabot's fine band. It features dance music and is backed up by vocalist Cathy Byron, who used to be a Rockette before she was encouraged to sing by Dinah Shore.

That's about all the information I have for the week, but if you're really interested in inexpensive entertainment, you might get Mary Wood to tell you about her visit to Nebraska. She charges no admission fee, but gratefully accepts any free-will offerings to send her to Nassau for the Comprehensive season.

This is just one of those silly, silly days I have. So tell me not, sweet, I am unkind; just come with me ON THE TOWN!

ZTA President Opera Stars Entertained Is May Day Pi At Memphis Social Events

Nola Nurnberger wore the green band of Pi Intersorority last Monday as May Day Pi, the intersorority's outstanding new member of the year.

Nola is president of Zeta Tau Alpha and a Student Counselor. This year she was business manager of the Lynx and secretary of the Women's Panhellenic Council. She has participated in sorority intramurals, the YWCA and the Modern Dance Club.

by Martin Judge, Jr.

Last week the Metropolitan Opera Company came to Memphis on its annual tour through the country. The first performance here was "The Barber of Seville." The following night "La Boheme" was staged.

The Sou'wester had an on-the-spot reporter to cover both operas and to try, if possible, to obtain an interview with one or more of the principals.

Mr. I. L. Meyers was host to the entire opera company Friday noon at a luncheon in the Skyway of Hotel Peabody. Through the graciousness of Mr. Meyers we were able to meet Mr. Rudolph Bing, the manager of the Met, who in turn introduced us to three of the top singers of the operatic world—Lucine Amara, Frank Guerrera, and Laurel Hardy.

We were promised an interview with Miss Lily Pons, world-renowned star, after the performance of La Boheme. After sitting nervously through the last act, then elbowing through the crowd to the stage where Mr. Bing was talking to Miss Pons and congratulating the other performers, the opportunity of the year was realized.

Memphians Friendly

Upon being asked how she liked Memphis, Miss Pons replied, "The first time I played in Memphis I was very surprised. Everyone was so friendly and the audiences so enthusiastic—it was wonderful! I now know what is meant by Southern hospitality. The Met will be coming to Memphis for the next twenty years," said Miss Pons. This is certainly good news for all opera enthusiasts. Miss Pons added, "Another reason I love to come to Memphis is to see my many friends and to renew old acquaintances."

In the performance of "The Barber of Seville" Jan Peerce was outstanding in his role of the carefree but light-headed barber; but it was Miss Pons and the bell-like quality of her voice that thrilled the opera goers.

Immediately following the opera the cast was honored at the Opera Ball held at Hotel Peabody. Among the notables present were Mayor Tobey and former governor Francis Cherry of Arkansas. Thelma Votipka and Norman Scott sang a duet from Faust, which was the perfect finale of a nearly perfect evening.

to lift your feet. If you don't, say Ann Sizer and Bettye Evans, you're very likely to lose your boy (or girl) friend. We hope these two young ladies don't have to travel much by train; after the first few hundred miles we imagine one's feet must get kind of tired.

Meg Caldwell counts spoons. Although she doesn't belong to Spoon Counters Local Number 587, she always counts the spoons while drying the dishes. If there is an even number, it will be a good day, otherwise, not so good, says she.

And our own fighting editor, Dan Adams, has been forced to admit to a few superstitions himself. Dan says that there is enough of the old baseball player in him as to compel him not to move a muscle while watching a game for fear of his team losing a winning streak. How about that?

But the worst, absolutely the worst, comes from a fellow who begs that we allow him to remain anonymous. He believes that if he steps on a tack and it sticks to the sole of his shoe he must perform the following operation: 1) Remove your shoe; 2) remove the tack from your shoe; 3) insert tack in corresponding position on other shoe; 4) allow tack to remain in other shoe for remainder of the day. If you don't do this, he tells us, nothing much will happen except your arms will drop off. How about that?

Borrowed Costumes Must Be Returned

The costume stock at the speech shack has been seriously depleted in months past by students who have borrowed costumes for various events such as Stunt Night and April Fool and have failed to return them. Professor Hill would greatly appreciate the return of all these AWOL costumes as soon as possible because many productions of the Southwestern players utilize them.

Hi kiddies, this is T. B. again. If Poochie gets me to write this tidbit just one more time I'm going to get the name changed to BEAR'S BULL.

It is rumored that Mike Ivy and Ann Breese are pinned. How 'bout that? Mike you've deserted a good corps . . . the bachelorhood.

The parties are over for the year, and exams are right around the corner. Meanwhile there are several distractions to keep us busy. If you haven't seen any of the carnival activities—you are extremely lucky.

Tuesday night I went down to take in the barge and midway. After climbing to the top of Shopper's Garage, I managed to secure (with three other people) a three inch triangular hole in the wall. Through this we peered at Mud Island, Wolf River, and Arkansas for one hour. Then the fireworks started—I guess—I could only see the reflection in beautiful Wolf River. That ruined that part of the show.

Then we were rewarded; we managed to see all of the barge—that is we saw sections of it in the water and pieced them together in our mind—Gosh, what bad reception.

Pickpocket's Dream

Then the Midway, mass hysteria, a pickpocket's dream. It reminded me of the Dorm (New) before finals—all rush and no destination. I had a destination, the strip show. Ticket in hand, I rushed to the front row. Know what? No strip, only tease.

Dejectedly I came home and studied for Comps. GEE, just think, I could have been having such fun studying all along and not GONE ON THE MIDWAY. (Stolen from Scott's corner).

Hit Those Books

Now really kiddies—let's hit those books. I got a letter from the school last week (those people can write) and they "hope the tragedies will be few this year." Could this mean someone will not get a diploma? Poochie, I hope it will be YOU.

Now this column couldn't go to press without a list of visitors. So here are the visitors last week:

Poochie Swartzfager, Society, U.S.A.; Charles Pack of Maxime's, Paris; Jay Stein, of the Library of Congress (not air conditioned) and Dan Adams of the "Hicksville, Arkansas, Democratic Agricultural Informer."

I am humiliated. You mixed up people think I am a Freshman or a high school senior. I'm not—I'm in Grade 8b and I can't understand how you got the idea I was older.

First Delta Invitational On Lynx Oval Tomorrow

Tomorrow afternoon on the Lynx oval one of the outstanding track and field events of the year for this area will be staged. Anyone interested in seeing some fast competition will get their fill of it here. The response from the teams invited shows promise of some very good times, distances, and heights. So far ten teams have entered. They are University of Tenn. (Martin Branch), Memphis State, Southwestern, Arkansas State, Florence State Teachers (Ala.), William Carey College of Hattiesburg, Delta State, Miss. State, Miss. College, and Ole Miss.

Records In Jeopardy

Several of these teams have shown great strength while running and competing here at Southwestern. Other teams have shown impressive records and could cause some records to fall here at Fargason Field.

The dashes and distances should prove to be the most interesting of the afternoon. In the 100 and 200 dashes will be Griffith of Memphis State, who previously set the record here with a fast time of 9.8. He will be pushed by Fowler of William Carey, Sanders of Delta State, Ross and Davis of Miss. State, Ole Miss also has several good sprinters. In the mile run it looks like Don Pemberton of Memphis State will be the boy to beat but there are some that could do it. Jess Crowell of William Carey, who beat Pemberton earlier this season, will be on hand as will be Bob Lassiter of Miss. College who turned in a 4:33 performance here in April.

Netters Win Ninth Over Memphis State

The Lynx tennis team added Memphis State to its win list for the second time this season Monday for its eighth win of the season against five setbacks. The number 1 and number 2 doubles matches were called on account of darkness tied at one set each, making the match a seven point affair. The score read 5-2 Southwestern's favor when darkness nullified the two doubles matches.

Don Tate, State No. 1 and second place winner in the T.I.A.C. Tournament, avenged his straight defeat by Buford on the State courts earlier in the year by besting Tommy 6-4, 2-6, 6-3 in a hotly contested and well-played match. Eric Mount again beat Bob Johnson in the No. 2 singles 10-8, 6-1. Guy Joyner picked up the only other Tiger point to add to Tate's with a 7-5, 6-1 win over Bob Rogers. George Morris overpowered Bob Kirkpatrick 6-2, 5-7, 6-0, coming back strong in the third set. Walker Wellford took care of Gene Johnson in handy fashion 6-3, 6-2, and Jack Biedenharn figured in two wins as he topped Charles Jung 6-1, 6-4, then teamed with Newton Todd for a 6-2, 7-5, beating Jung and Kirkpatrick.

Sewanee's powerhouse team blew through the T.I.A.C. Tournament with a total of 13 points, sparked by smooth-stroking little Dick Briggs who won the singles title without losing a set in the tournament.

Now for what happened to Southwestern. Mount fell to top-seeded Tate 6-1, 6-4 in the initial round, with Wellford drawing tournament winner Briggs and coming out on the short end 6-0, 6-2. Buford trounced his first and second round opponents before being edged by Less Ruthvin of Chattanooga. Buford and Morris, after drawing a first round bye, fell in straight sets to the doubles team which won, Briggs and Pritchard. Rogers and Mount picked up a first round doubles win before falling to the fourth-seeded team from Chattanooga 6-4, 6-3.

out eight hits on two Miss. College hurlers. Bill Young and Jettie Bowen led the slugging department with a single and a double apiece.

LYNX LOSE TO MAJORS

On Friday the Lynx dropped a close game to Millsaps, 5-3, on a three-run seventh inning.
