BUILDING A LEGACY

Rhodes College
2000 North Parkway
Memphis, Tennessee 38112

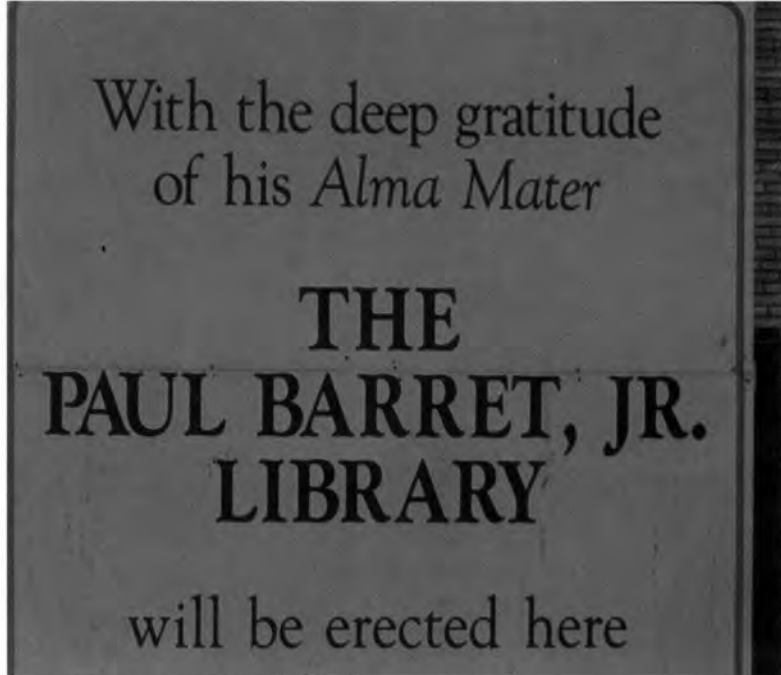

Palmer Hall, which was the first building to stand after the College's move to Memphis from Clarksville, Tennessee, proves to be one of the most functional buildings on campus with offices, classrooms, and an auditorium.

Burrow Library, which was provided by Mr. and Mrs. A.K. Burrow, will be used for other purposes upon the opening of the Paul Barrett, Jr. Library, which was provided by the 1946 graduate.

Diehl Statue stands adjacent to Oak Alley, which served as the original entrance to the College and captures its beauty in the spring. Diehl, a former professor, dean, and president of the College, was responsible for its architectural Gothic code.

This sign stood in the field where the groundbreaking for the Paul Barrett, Jr. Library was held on December 12, 2002. The new library will stand just south of the Bryan Campus Life Center.

BUILDING A LEGACY

Since its move to Memphis in 1925, the College has continued to build its legacy: architecturally, locally, and nationally. The 2002-2003 academic year was no different. With the groundbreaking of the $40 million state-of-the-art library, the College plans to achieve further success by allowing students more tools to enhance their college experience and better prepare them for their careers that lie ahead. The College expects to open the doors of the Paul Barrett, Jr. Library in August 2004, where the facility will join the beautiful Gothic buildings which stand today. Palmer Hall, among these buildings will reflect the old, while the new library is sure to prove to hold the latest technology.

The College not only continues to build architecturally, but proves to be among the most recognized liberal arts colleges in the country. The College was once again featured in U.S. News: Best Colleges 2003, ranking as one of the best liberal arts colleges in America. Also, the Princeton Review ranked the College sixth in its "Professors Get High Marks" category and nineteenth for its "Best Quality of Life" category.

Continually serving the Memphis community, the College proved once again to be a dominant force, leaving its mark in various areas. Athletically, the women's cross country team captured SCAC Championship title. Theatrically, many students were cast in the popular daytime soap opera "As the World Turns" in the fall.

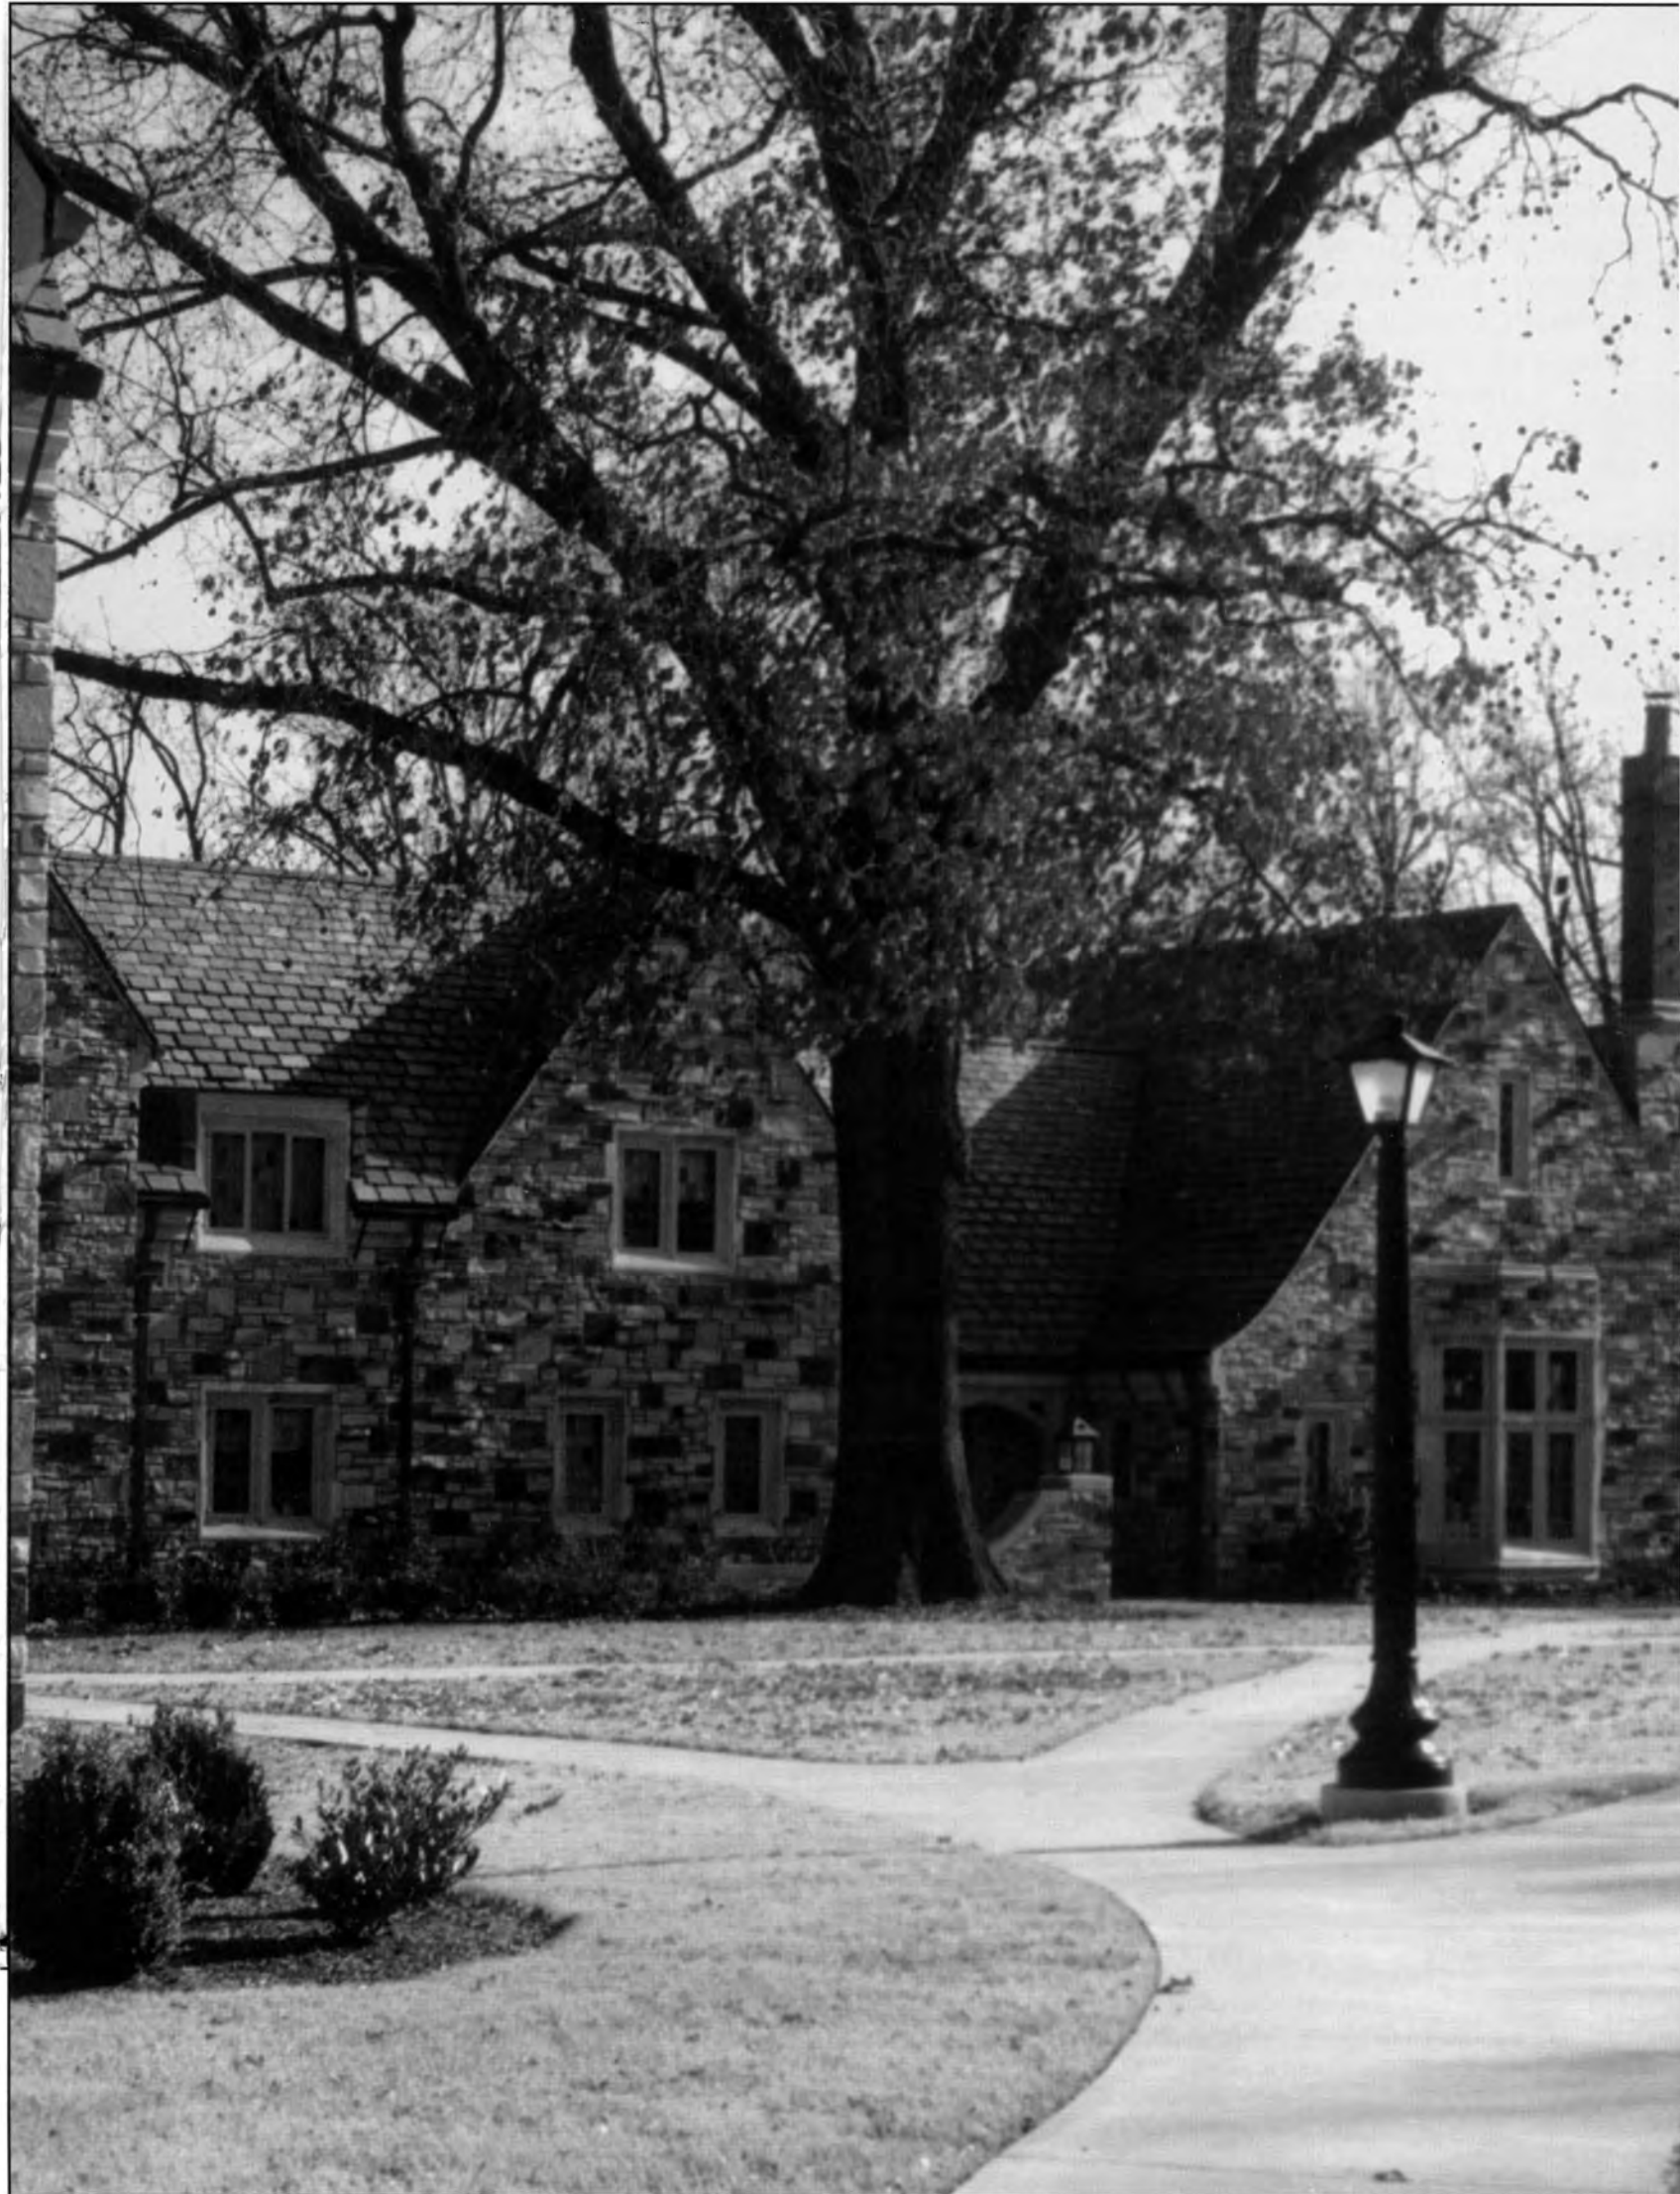

With all of the successes of the 2002-2003 academic year, the College has continued to build its legacy in perhaps one of the most recognized years in recent past.

STUDENT LIFE

Student Life at the College is dictated by traditions: the continuation of past events and the creation of new experiences. From Homecoming to late nights of studying or relaxing around town, students find many ways of spending their time. Whether going out to a local restaurant like Huey's or catching one of the many plays at McCoy Theatre, student life plays a vital role in each student's experiences during their time at the College. These experiences serve as an integral part of life at the College and build a legacy that will live on within its gates.

EASTVILLAGE

The new apartment-style dorms reopened their doors for the second year in August 2002.

24 HOUR RHODES

WHETHER SITTING UP LATE IN THE EAST VILLAGE LODGE CATCHING UP ON LAST MINUTE READING OR HANGING OUT WITH FRIENDS AT THE "SAUCER ON PINT NIGHT," THE COLLEGE'S STUDENTS ROOM WAY INTO THE NIGHT AND EARLY INTO THE MORNING. CAMPUS HAPPENINGS OCCUR ALL AROUND—ALL THE TIME, OFFERING A WIDE VARIETY OF ACTIVITIES TO PASS THE TIME AWAY.

LATE-NIGHT STUDY SESSIONS ARE COMMON PLACE WITHIN THE GATES OF THE COLLEGE. IT'S NOT STRANGE TO FIND, ON THE STRAY DRY-ERASE BOARD HERE AND THERE, NOTES LIKE: "STUDYING IN JAVA CITY" OR "OFF TO CLOUGH." A FREQUENT STOP WITH MANY STUDENTS ARE THE COFFEE HOUSES SURROUNDING AND ON THE CAMPUS—STARBUCKS AND THE UGLY MUG BEING AMONG THE FAVORITES. THE BEST PART ABOUT STUDYING IN COFFEE SHOPS IS THE ATMOSPHERE. RATHER THAN STUDY IN AN ISOLATED LOCATION, PLACES LIKE JAVA CITY AND THE "MUG" OFFER THE OCCASIONAL FRIENDLY FACE. "SEEING AND TALKING TO PEOPLE YOU KNOW MAKES STUDYING THAT LESS PAINFUL," SAYS JENNY DILL, A JUNIOR ECONOMICS MAJOR.

WHEN STUDENTS AREN'T BOUND TO THE BOOKS, THEY KNOW HOW TO FIND A GOOD TIME. CATCHING A MOVIE "ON THE SQUARE," HEADING TO BEALE STREET, OR TAKING THEIR CHANCES AT TUNICA—RHODENTS ENJOY GREAT ASPECTS OF THE AREA'S NIGHT LIFE. EVEN IF IT'S JUST A QUICK RUN DOWN POPLAR TO TACO BELL OR A LATE NIGHT CHAT IN THE AMPHITHEATRE, THE COLLEGE OFFERS ACTION AT ALL HOURS OF THE DAY.

9:00 A.M. Townhouse resident Rachel Martsof blow-dries her hair before heading out the door for class.

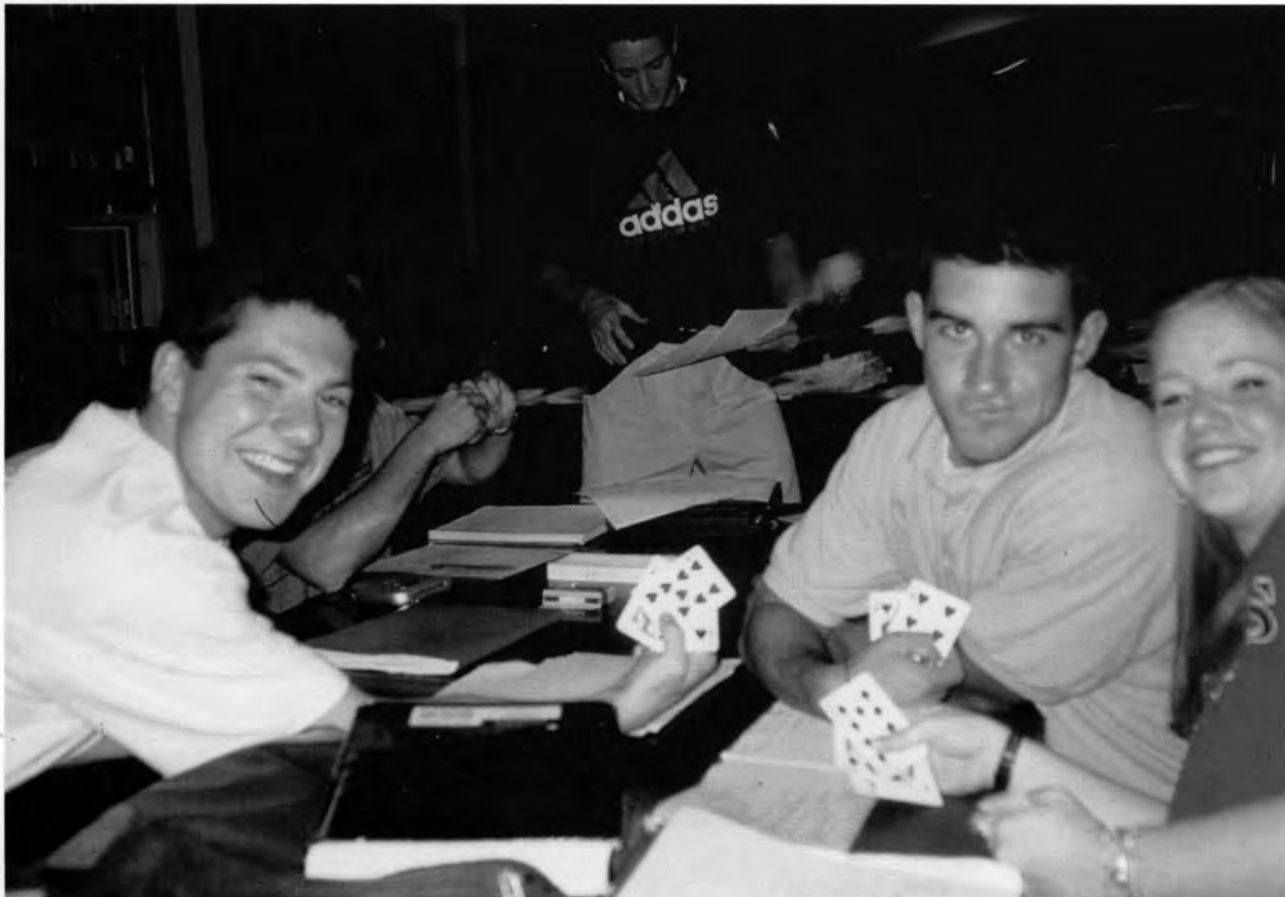

12:00 P.M. Catherine Harris finishes up a little reading before heading to lunch in the Lynx Lair.

3:00 P.M. Christa Nathe and Swiggett Robbins take a coffee break in Java City after a long day of classes.

6:15 P.M. Rachel Tilley and Kelley Savage enjoy dinner at a local restaurant.

9:30 P.M. Brad Stoner, Paul Koshergian, and Sarah Rinn take time from studying to catch up on their card tricks in the library.

rites of spring is a jam-packed weekend ushering in warm weather, good music, good friends, and good fun that is looked forward to months in advance by the student body. The 2002 Rhodes Activities Board sponsored event brought nothing less. Artists from all over the country made their way to the college last spring.

Playing to a packed amphitheatre, bands such as Sister Hazel, Riddlin Kids, Lennon, Graham Colton, Ingram Hill, Exodus, Devoted, and the East Branford All-Stars serenaded the crowd. Dancing their way up to the front of the stage, kicking it back in the side-seats, and even taking turns onstage, students found their own special way of enjoying this incredible weekend. Sophomore, Meg Brodman, sums it up as a weekend "away from the stress of classes... a time to drop the books and enjoy some care-free living for once in a while."

Even more fun can be found during the daytime on Saturday and Sunday, with the annual Rites to Play (where students host neighborhood kids out for a day of games) and the annual Sunday afternoon shopping booths. All in all, the weekend brings together various elements, including, great music, shopping, and community service.

Leslie Isaccman and Jennifer Richelson play frisbee with the children from the community at Rites to Play.

ORIENTATION

THE CLASS OF 2006 STARTED OFF ITS CAREER AT THE COLLEGE WITH A BANG IN LATE AUGUST. PEER ASSISTANTS, FACULTY, AND OTHER ORIENTATION STAFF EXTENDED A WARM WELCOME TO NEW PARENTS AND STUDENTS BY HOSTING A VARIETY OF FIRST-YEAR ORIENTATION PROGRAMS. THESE PROGRAMS SERVED AS ICE-BREAKERS FOR THE NEW STUDENTS AND INTRODUCED THEM TO THEIR PEERS. SOME HIGHLIGHTS OF THE PROGRAM, "MEMPHIS CONNECTION" AND "DISORIENTATION," ALLOWED THE CLASS OF 2006 TO LEARN ABOUT THE WORKINGS OF MEMPHIS AND TO UNWIND FROM THE BUSINESS OF THE PAST FEW DAYS. AN ESSENTIAL PART OF THE WEEK WAS THE SIGNING OF THE HONOR CODE BY THE ENTIRE CLASS, A TRADITION OF FIRST-YEAR STUDENTS DURING ORIENTATION. ALSO, STUDENTS ENTHUSIASTICALLY INFORMED THE INCOMING FRESHMAN ABOUT THE COLLEGE AND ITS CURRENT ISSUES THROUGH PERFORMANCES OF "REAL RHODES" AND "THE LATE SHOW". OVERALL, THE ENTIRE ORIENTATION WAS NOTHING SHORT OF A SUCCESS. BY THE END OF ORIENTATION, FIRST-YEARS HAD BEEN SHOWN THE ROPES AND WERE READY TO BREAK SOME GROUND OF THEIR OWN.

PARENTS WEEKEND

PARENT'S WEEKEND MARKED A TIME FOR STUDENTS TO FAMILIARIZE THEIR PARENTS ONCE AGAIN WITH THE CAMPUS AND ACTIVITIES OF THE COLLEGE. THE EVENTS STARTED ON FRIDAY WHEN PARENTS HAD THE OPPORTUNITY TO ACCOMPANY STUDENTS TO THEIR CLASSES. ON FRIDAY NIGHT, EVERYONE WAS WELCOMED TO ATTEND THE ANNUAL KAPPA DELTA ALL-SING. THIS YEAR'S THEME WAS POP STARS: THEN AND NOW, A THEME THAT BROUGHT BACK MEMORIES FOR PARENTS AND STUDENTS ALIKE. SATURDAY WAS SCHEDULED WITH A RANGE OF EVENTS FOR PARENTS AND STUDENTS SUCH AS ATHLETIC EVENTS AND SEMINARS. PARENT'S WEEKEND GAVE STUDENTS AN OPPORTUNITY TO INTRODUCE THEIR PARENTS TO WHAT THE COLLEGE AND THE SIGHTS OF MEMPHIS HAVE TO OFFER, NOT TO MENTION THE FACT THAT THEY HAD A CHANCE TO EAT AT RESTAURANTS THAT WOULD OTHERWISE STRETCH THEIR BUDGET. PARENT'S WEEKEND BROUGHT TOGETHER THE LARGER COMMUNITY OF THE COLLEGE AND SUCCESSFULLY INTRODUCED THE PARENTS TO DIFFERENT ASPECTS OF THE CAMPUS.

Lizzy Jones and her dad stand outside of Williford Hall between the festivities of Parent's Weekend.

Jasmine Crockett and Summer Banks dress up in support of this year's Annual Kappa Delta All-Sing theme, Pop Stars: Then and Now.

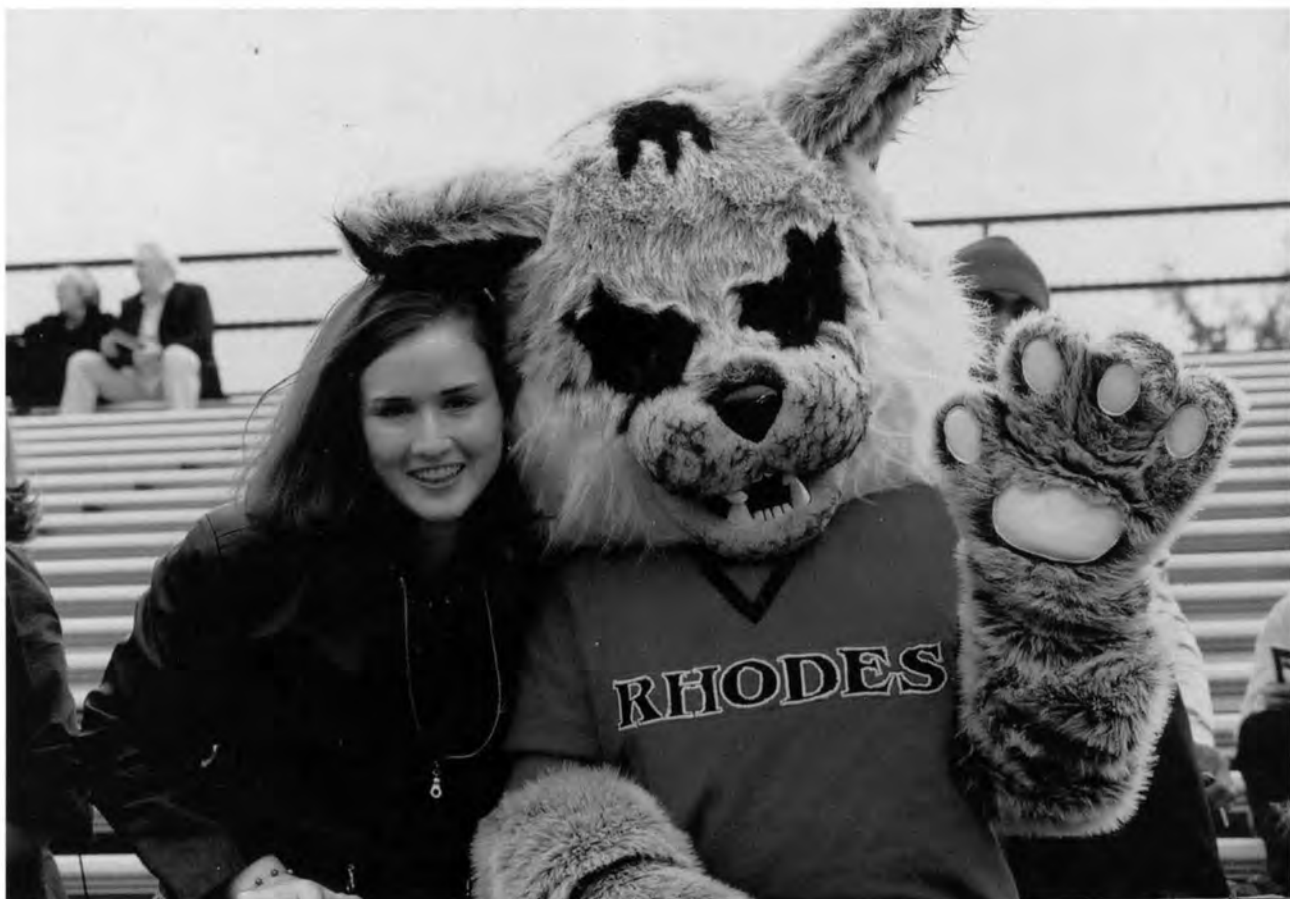

Friends of Kim Kirkpatrick gather after she was named Ms. Rhodes 2002 during halftime of the Homecoming football game.

The football team lines up to face off with Homecoming rival Colorado College, which ended with a victory of 59-0 for the Lynx.

HOMECOMING

STUDENTS, PAST AND PRESENT, WERE AT THE COLLEGE THIS WEEKEND, CELEBRATING THE HOMECOMING OF THEIR BELOVED ALMA MATER. ALUMNI RETURNED TO EXPERIENCE LIFE AT THE COLLEGE AND SHARE IN ITS TRADITIONS OF THE PAST. MANY FOND MEMORIES OF THE COLLEGE WERE SHARED, ESPECIALLY AT CLASS REUNIONS, WHILE CURRENT STUDENTS WERE MAKING MEMORIES OF THEIR OWN. HOMECOMING WEEKEND STARTED OUT WITH A PEP RALLY IN THE AMPHITHEATRE ON FRIDAY NIGHT. THE ALPHA KAPPA ALPHA FRATERNITY DANCED AND CHEERED ALONG WITH THE CHEERLEADERS AND THE LYNX, THE COLLEGE'S MASCOT. MANY PEOPLE ATTENDED THE EXCITING PEP RALLY AND CORKY'S BARBEQUE WAS SERVED TO THE CROWD, WHO WORKED UP AN APPETITE WITH THE CHEERS. THERE WAS A HUGE TURNOUT FOR THE FOOTBALL GAME ON SATURDAY, WHERE STUDENTS AND ALUMNI ALIKE CHEERED THE LYNX TO THEIR VICTORY AGAINST COLORADO COLLEGE BY AN AMAZING SCORE OF 59-0. THE NIGHT ENDED WITH THE HOMECOMING DANCE. IT WAS HELD AT THE YACHT CLUB ON MUD ISLAND, WHICH WAS A BEAUTIFUL PLACE FOR THE DANCE. MANY STUDENTS ATTENDED THE MUCH ANTICIPATED HOMECOMING DANCE AND IT WAS WELL WORTH THE WAIT. HOMECOMING WAS MEMORABLE EVENT FOR THE CAMPUS THIS YEAR.

Rebekah Miller, Special Events Social Chair of the Rhodes Activities Board spends time with Joe Petri, former Director of Student Activities, during the Homecoming Dance.

President and Mrs. Troutt congratulate Joey Sherrard and Kim Kirkpatrick on their new titles as Mr. and Ms. Rhodes 2002.

RHODES: ON CAMPUS AND OFF

EVERY SEASON AT THE COLLEGE HOLDS SPECIAL MEMORIES FOR MOST STUDENTS. CRISP, AUTUMN SATURDAY FOOTBALL GAMES, SNOWBALL FIGHTS ON THE FRONT LAWN, SPRING DAYS STUDYING IN THE NEWLY BLOOMED FISHER GARDENS, AND ENJOYING THE SUMMER SUN WITH A NICE BREAK IN THE AMPHITHEATRE—THE CAMPUS OFFERS A UNIQUE AND ENRICHING LIFE FOR ITS UNDERGRADUATES. GREAT EVENTS BROUGHT TO THE STUDENT BODY BY RESLIFE, RHODES ACTIVITIES BOARD, THE PAN HELLENIC COUNCIL, INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL AND OTHERS PROMOTE A GREAT SENSE OF CAMARADERIE AMONG STUDENTS AND FACULTY ALIKE.

MEMPHIS AND ITS SURROUNDING AREAS PROVIDE STUDENTS WITH MANY OPPORTUNITIES OUTSIDE OF THE COLLEGE. THE CITY OFFERS A PLETHORA OF EVENTS FOR MUSIC LOVERS, AVID READERS, SPORTS FANS AND THOSE OF US SIMPLY LOOKING FOR A PLACE TO SHARE TIME WITH FRIENDS. AUTOZONE PARK IS A FAVORITE AMONG MEMPHIANS, AS WELL AS THE BEAUTIFUL, NEWLY OPENED HOME FOR THE MEMPHIS SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA, THE CANNON CENTER. MANY STUDENTS ENJOY DINING IN PLACES LIKE THE NEW PEABODY PLACE OR THE WORLD-FAMOUS RENDEZVOUS BARBEQUE RESTAURANT. MEMPHIS MAKES THE PERFECT SETTING FOR THE COLLEGE'S STUDENTS' LOVE OF UNIQUE ENTERTAINMENT.

The cast of Gianni Schicci dramatically acts out one of its many musical numbers.

Sarah Tipton, Kyle Hatley, and Director of Campus Safety Ralph Hatley share the stage during a scene from Our Town.

The cast of Gianni Schicci observes as Jonathan Russom and Caroline Vance capture the intense love shared between their two characters.

McCoy Theatre Presents...

THE THEATRE DEPARTMENT MADE GREAT ADVANCES WITH ITS PERFORMANCES OVER THE PAST YEAR. THE MCCOY THEATRE HOUSES FOUR PERFORMANCES EVERY YEAR, ALONG WITH OCCASIONAL IMPROV SHOWS BY CONTENTS UNDER PRESSURE.

MCCOY'S 22ND SEASON STARTED OFF WITH OUR TOWN WRITTEN BY THORNTON WILDER, WHICH WAS DIRECTED BY GUEST DIRECTOR JOSIE HELMING. SET IN GROVER'S CORNERS, NEW HAMPSHIRE IN 1903; OUR TOWN TAKES THE AUDIENCE ON A JOURNEY WITH THE RESIDENTS OF THE TOWN THROUGH THE YEARS OF THEIR LIVES.

MCCOY'S SECOND PRODUCTION, GIANNI SCHICCI WRITTEN BY GIACOMO PUCCINI, WAS THE MUSICAL FOR THE YEAR. GIANNI SCHICCI WAS DIRECTED BY GUEST DIRECTOR, SCOTT FERGUSON AND THE MUSICAL DIRECTION WAS BY TIMOTHY SHARP. GIANNI SCHICCI IS A ONE-ACT OPERA, WHICH DELIGHTS AUDIENCES THROUGH THE MYSTERY, THE MADNESS, AND MOST OF ALL, THE MUSIC.

GIANTS HAVE US IN THEIR BOOKS WRITTEN BY JOSE RIVERA WAS THE THIRD PLAY HOSTED AT MCCOY. DIRECTED BY PROFESSOR TONY HORNE, THIS CONTEMPORARY WORK TACKLES ISSUES AND PROBLEMS CONFRONTING THE HUMAN RACE IN A SERIES OF PROVOCATIVE, GROWN-UP FAIRY TALES.

THE LAST SHOW OF THE YEAR WAS HAMLET BY WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE, AND WAS DIRECTED BY PROFESSOR COOKIE EWING. REGARDED AS THE GREATEST WORK IN THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE AND SHAKESPEARE'S SIGNATURE WORK, HAMLET ASKS MANY QUESTIONS THAT WILL DISTURB THE HUMAN PSYCHE.

THE PLAYS OF THIS YEAR INCORPORATED NOT ONLY STUDENTS, BUT ALSO PEOPLE OF THE SURROUNDING MEMPHIS COMMUNITY. WITH ANOTHER SUCCESSFUL YEAR, MCCOY HOPES TO GAIN MORE RECOGNITION FOR ITS ACTING, SET AND COSTUME DESIGN, DIRECTING AND PRODUCTION.

Sarah Hildenbrand, Kyle Hatley, and Sarah Tipton dream about their lives outside of Grover's Corner in McCoy's production of Our Town.

PEOPLE

The people of the College build a legacy of its past, present, and future. The administration, faculty, staff, and most importantly its students develop and uphold its ideals of truth, loyalty, and service as described by the seal of the College. With each new academic year, the College develops its legacy, which continues to flourish and become stronger with time.

ORGANIZATIONS

Rhodes Student Government, Woolsocks, the Kinney program, or the Sou'wester—all organizations of the College impact the way in which the institution builds a legacy within its gates and within the Memphis community. From making policy to documenting the news of the month, or entertaining musically or caring for others around the community, each organization serves a great role within the legacy of the College.

Housing many of the offices for student organizations, students gather in Briggs to attend meetings in Rhea Lounge or stop by the mailroom, bookstore, ATM machine, or Java City.

Student Elected Offices

Each year, elections are held to fill the positions of various organizations on campus including RSG, the Honor Council, SRC, RAB, the Allocations Board, and representatives to the Board of Trustees. These different organizations hold meetings, host events throughout the year, and speak on the behalf of the student body about important issues. This year, RSG represented the students in a debate to change the class schedule for the following academic year, while RAB sponsored another successful Rites of Spring with headliner Better Than Ezra. Each of these organizations worked throughout the year to continue the legacy of the College.

Senior members of the Honor Council join together at Evergreen Presbyterian Church.

Faculty, staff, and students gather for the Faculty Staff-Dessert Cook Off sponsored by the Rhodes Activities Board.

Tyler Sanders, President of Rhodes Student Government, Stu Johnston, President of the Honor Council, and Ashley Kutz, President of the Social Regulations Board cannot see, hear, or speak at the Honor Code signing during Orientation.

Service Groups

Service plays a vital role in the legacy of the College, as demonstrated by its presence on its seal. Students participate in various service activities on campus and within the greater Memphis community. Whether playing with a friend or reading to children at Snowden Elementary or helping with Souper Contact on Tuesday afternoons, students find many ways to serve the community. Through building houses with Habitat for Humanity or volunteering at St. Jude's, students, faculty, and staff seek to serve the community in all areas. Not only the Memphis community is affected through the service of the College. A group of students travels to Mexico annually to work with the Tex Mex program during spring break. From helping with Rites to Play on campus or venturing out into the world to assist in some way, members of the College affect the campus and the community through their service.

Students spend some of their valuable free time on Saturdays helping build houses for families throughout Memphis.

Religious Organizations

Various religious organizations hold different events on campus. Currently, these student-led groups are principally focused on the Christian faith. The Ministry, Rhodes' Gospel choir, is primarily composed of black students, but welcomes all ethnicities and cultures to participate in its practice sessions and concerts. Rhodes Christian Fellowship and Greek Fellowship are the primary student-led evangelical groups, and each draws roughly fifty students to weekly meetings. If you want to eat and join in fellowship, Pizza Bible Study and Westminster Fellowship remain excellent choices because each serve dinner and have a message or discuss a topic. The Catholic Student Association sponsors a Mass every Sunday night on campus. Of course, the Chaplain's Office provides a crucial cornerstone in the religious life of the College, developing, offering and supporting dozens of service opportunities and Servant Leadership classes. But Christian groups by no means exhaust the religious opportunities of Rhodes. As our student body diversifies, so have the religions groups that are represented. The Jewish Student Union and Muslim Student Association both seek to welcome people of all faiths, while educating the student body about their distinctive beliefs. Those who prefer studying and comparing various faith traditions find a home within the InterFaith Circle, which promotes open-ended discussions about tolerance, pluralism, and under-represented religious traditions. No matter the religious background, the College seeks to support students in the journey of their spiritual lives.

Students Vocalize...

At the College, students participate in a wide variety of activities. Various areas include publications, the Arts, or representing the College to prospective students. Students voice their opinions through publications, whether working on the Sou'wester, Lynx, or Southwester Review. Also, many students exercise their artistic abilities through singing, through groups such as Lipstick On Your Collar, Woolsocks, or Rhodes' Singers. Members of ARO wear their striped shirts proudly as they promote the College to prospective students, sharing their experiences and the history of the College. Whether through writing or through words, students find a variety of ways to voice and continue the legacy of the College.

Cultures Unite

Diversity has become one of the most talked about issues at the College over the past year with the help of different organizations such as the Black Student Association, R.I.C.E., and the Muslim Student Association, along with other faith-based organizations on campus. Each of these bodies use their own backgrounds to promote unity through cultural ideals. Whether meeting for a dinner discussion group or hosting an event on campus, the College as a whole becomes more aware of the various cultures and religions throughout the campus and the world. Through participation in various organizations, the student body becomes more knowledgeable about different cultures, while working to create a more diverse atmosphere in the legacy of the College.

Multiple Options On Campus

The College prides itself on the variety of activities that students can participate in, both on campus and off—whether social or academic. Many organizations host social events and sponsor various activities on campus and throughout the community. Among these organizations is GROUP, a body of students that participate in activities that do not involve alcohol and provide fun for all. Furthermore, many organizations are academically inspired, including the Quiz Bowl team and the Mortar Board, who compete in academic competitions and represent the top ten percent of each senior class, respectively. Each organization, whether focusing on academics or social activities, serve to continue the legacy of the College and further the experiences of each student.

Academic and Honor Societies

Academics encompass the main goals of the College while the College continues to build its legacy through excellence in all academic arenas. Like other organizations on campus, each of these groups host events that include students outside the groups' field of study. This includes holding meetings, going to schools around Memphis, and participating and developing service projects throughout the community. Representing these groups, students strive to excel in each academic department and continue to further their education and experiences through their participation in these distinct and honorary societies at the College.

Stu Johnston carves a pumpkin during a Society of Physics event.

Members of Beta Beta Beta attend a lecture held in Frazier-Jelke.

Jonathan Rogers, Tom O'Hara, and Adam Barnes, begin the process of setting up a tent while camping.

ACADEMICS

The most important aspect of the College is its academics. The College is known for its academics—perhaps the most recognized part of its legacy. An exciting academic step was made this year by the groundbreaking of the Paul Barrett, Jr. Library. Expected to open in the fall of 2004, the new library will include innovative technology that will better equip students to succeed in their classes. The legacy of the College also continues to grow through President Troutt's initiatives, internships, and study abroad opportunities—all of which help students flourish within the College.

Burrow Library

Many students depend on study time at the library, especially during exam week when the library remains open 24 hours a day.

European Studies, Class of 2002, takes an opportunity to gather amid the ruins of an ancient temple.

European Studies, Western Option, relaxes in the Italian Alps at the end of their travels around the continent.

Jeaneane Fountain stands in front of the Duomo in Florence, Italy.

Courtney Lundeen, Lindsay Chapman, and Catherine Ogle capture the beauty of the countryside during European Studies.

STUDY ABROAD

As stated on the College's website, "Rhodes tries to promote an informed understanding of the world, which includes interaction among individuals, societies, cultures, and nations." To encourage such studies, the College offers many opportunities to students who wish to travel and study extensively in various parts of the world, including opportunities to explore other areas of the United States.

The College promotes many programs including European Studies and British Studies, which are both dual programs with the University of the South. The College also participates in exchange programs with various countries throughout the world. Furthermore, programs include Washington Semester, in which students study in Washington D.C. throughout the semester.

Study abroad opportunities are open to all students and the College promotes these experiences in many ways, most notably through financial aid and scholarships. The Buckman Scholarships, for example, award up to $12,500 per semester to outstanding students planning to study abroad.

Whether traveling to one particular country or to several, the College encourages study outside of the institution as a way of opening students to various cultures throughout the world. Study abroad provides an experience which leaves each participant changed at both an intellectual and personal level.

Rob Dalton and Duncan Hamilton relax by the sea in Santorini during European Studies.

Krista DeWitt concentrates while examining packets of research in the Math Library.

LATE NIGHT STUDYING

During busy weeks, students find themselves keeping odd hours and studying later into the night. When big tests and long term papers hit they need a place to spend some time one-on-one with the books or with classmates cramming. Students start the night in the library, but when the lights start going off, they have to find another place to retreat. The campus offers several options for late night escapades in academics. Social rooms in the dorms are often seen scattered with notes, open books and students hard at work. At times, it is easier to get work done in a classroom than spread out on a couch. The Math Library and some of the classrooms in Clough Hall stay unlocked throughout the night so students can use them for study sessions. Java City presents another location that caters to late night studiers. The coffee shop has a cozy atmosphere with the aroma of coffee to keep students alert. There are some students that cannot get anything done with a group of people and would rather work alone. The library offers individual study carrels on each floor for a more undisturbed atmosphere, while students that need a more personal space can study in the comfort of their own room. No matter if its ten o'clock at night or three in the morning, students can find a place on campus and get their studying done.

INTERNSHIPS

The Career Services department coordinates and directs an internship program for students at the College. The positions vary from paid to credit-bearing positions. Internships, whether at FedEx, a local law firm, or hospital provides students with a chance to improve their understanding of certain career paths. The internships allow students to take what they are learning in the classroom to the work field to further their understanding, knowledge, and experience. There are more than 100 different internships opportunities available for the College's students throughout the Memphis area.

Summer internships are also available for students both inside and outside of Memphis. These provide the opportunity to get away for the summer, while continuing the educational experience in a completely new surrounding. Even though some internship positions offered are not paid, the internship program is popular among the students. The experience is the most important part of the opportunity. It gives students a first hand look at the options they have after graduation, allowing them to further their educational experience at the College.

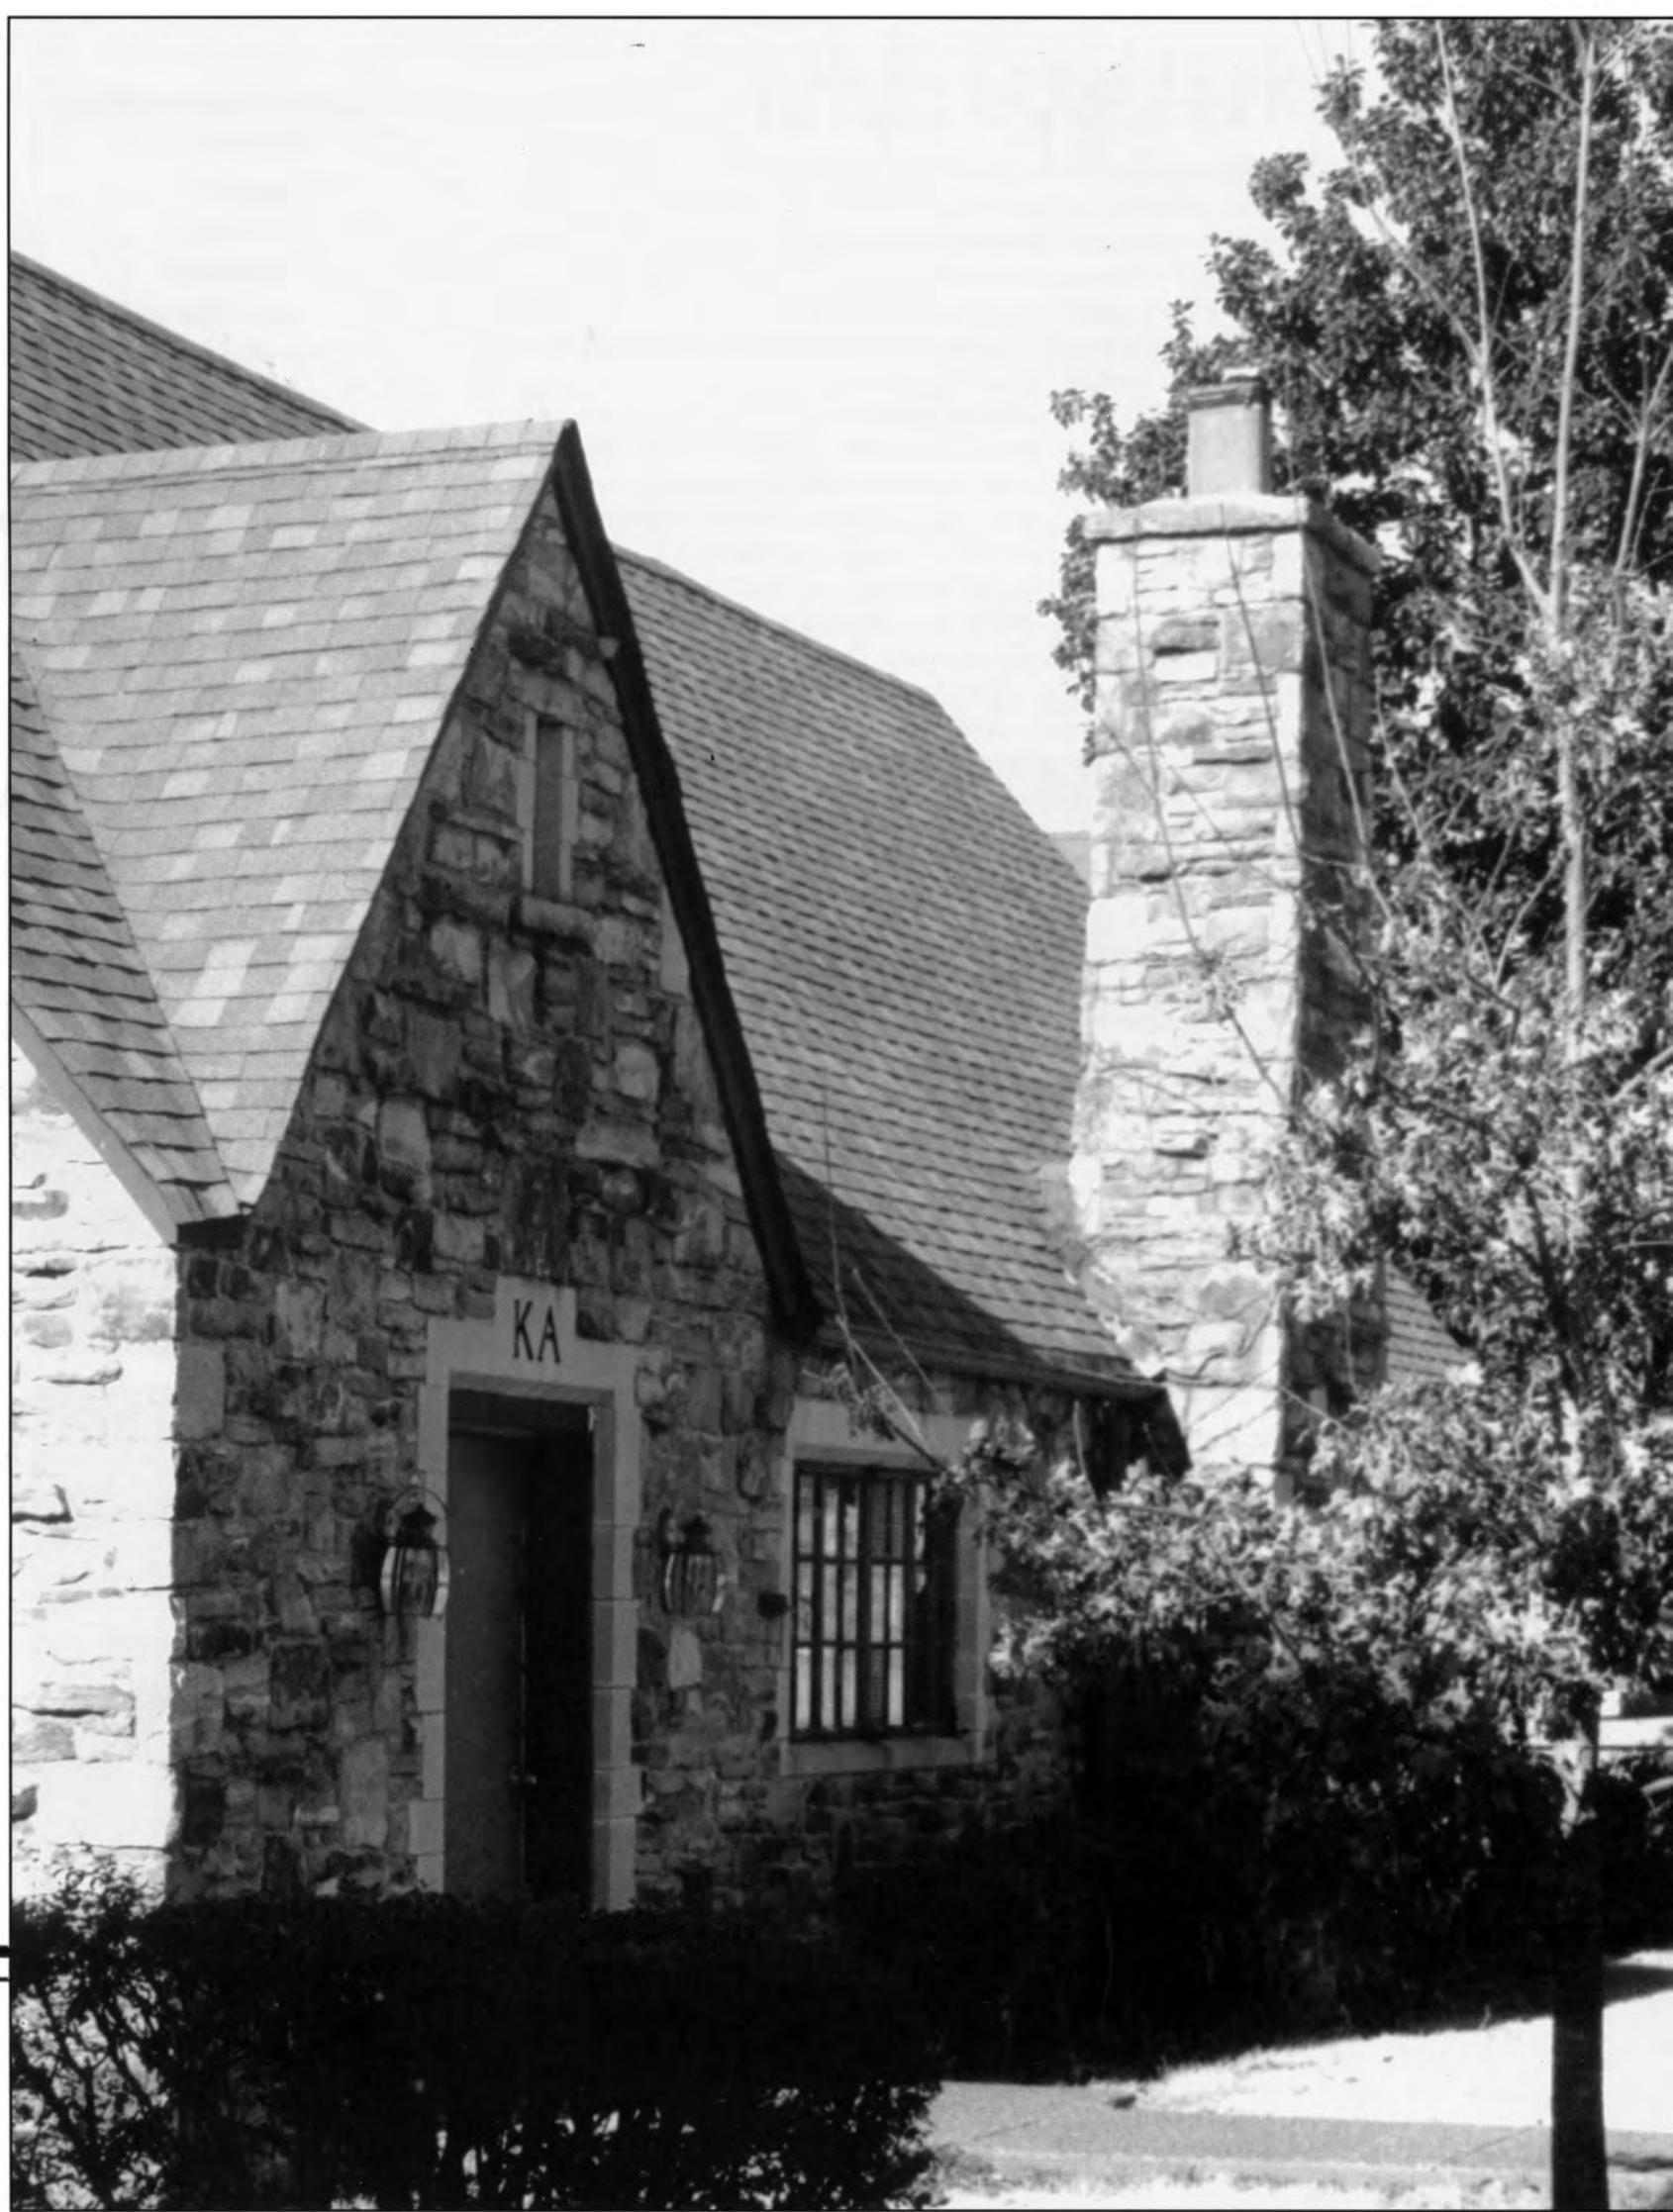

Cindy Hallums learns about the daily activities at Channel 5 News, while gaining experience in the news room.

GREEK LIFE

Sororities and fraternities are known for their legacies. From philanthropies to swaps, Greek life is characterized by traditions. With Recruitment, formals, and weekly meetings, Greek Life plays an important role at the College, with nearly 50 percent of its students involved in one of the twelve independent organizations. Not only do these organizations serve its members, but also hold open parties on and off campus, and more importantly provide service to different organizations outside of the College. Greek life builds a legacy within each sorority and fraternity and within the College as a whole.

Kappa Alpha

Most sororities and fraternities on campus have a house used for meetings, parties, and other functions of the organization.

KA

alpha kappa alpha

Founded January 15, 1908 on the campus of Howard University in Washington, D.C., Alpha Kappa Alpha was formed on the principles of sisterhood, scholarship, and service. AKA is the first and finest Greek organization established by African American women. The twenty pearls of Alpha Kappa Alpha are still revered today. Its colors are salmon pink and apple and the official flower is the pink tea rose. The spirit of AKA lies in its target goals: Education, The Black Family, The Arts, Health, Economic Empowerment, and Leadership Development. AKA is the summation of its parts, and the Overly Captivating Omicron Chi chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha is one part of AKA that prides itself in reigning supreme to serve all mankind.

Since its chartering in December 10, 1989, Omicron Chi has served the campus and the Memphis area through its individual members and the chapter as a whole. Members are actively engaged on campus, serving in different capacities through various organizations and departments: Admissions (minority recruitment intern), ARO, Allocations Board, Bonner Scholar (Congress Representative), Black Student Association Executive Board (President, Vice-President, Secretary), Kinney Coordinator, Lipstick On Your Collar, PA, Mock Trial, Memphis Interfaith Hospitality Network, RA, Rhodes Ambassador, Cheerleader, Volleyball and many more. Equally dedicated to the progress of the community, Omicron Chi sponsors college preparatory trainings for high school students, TCAP/ACT workshops, Make-a-Wish Foundation, Crisis Center, and countless others. Omicron Chi also sponsors programs such as AKApollo, BaSkeeBall Tournament, St. Jude step show, and the Diamonds and Pearls Ball, which benefit a service organization chosen by the chapter. AKA seeks to serve not only the College, but the community as a whole.

alpha omicron pi

An active part of the College's community since 1925, Alpha Omicron Pi promotes the ideals of friendship, leadership, scholarship, and service, and in recent years, AOII has been recognized by both the College and by AOII International for excellence in these areas. AOII members uphold their values by actively serving the Memphis community through volunteering with organizations from LeBonheur Children's Medical Center to Adopt-A-Friend and Snowden Elementary School. AOII's international philanthropy is arthritis research and Stick Up for Arthritis, AOII Heart Throb, Rock the House, and AOPie Toss at Rites to Play are sponsored by AOII to raise money for this deserving cause.

The College's chapter of AOII has consistently held one of the highest grade point averages among Greek women, as well as recently having the highest new member grade point average among the sororities. Members of AOII are represented in all campus honor societies. Outside the classroom, AOII's hold a wide variety of memberships and leadership roles in campus organizations from Rhodes Student Government and Social Regulations Council to athletic teams, religious organizations, theater, and music.

Annual social events include swaps with various fraternities, Doorstep Date Party, Fall Semi-Formal, Jersey Party, and a week of activities leading to the Spring Rose Formal. While the social calendar keeps AOII members busy, the sisters most enjoy the common bond of friendship and tradition they share that lasts not only throughout their college years, but for the rest of their lives.

Chi Omega embodies a strong sense of service, leadership, scholarship and sisterhood. While members have individual talents and strengths, all work together to perpetuate the ideals that Chi Omega holds in high esteem. With its national headquarters in Memphis, the Kappa Beta Chapter of Chi Omega benefits from strong national support. Chi Omegas are constantly seeking ways to serve others in the Memphis community. Their national philanthropy, the Make-A-Wish Foundation, is the primary beneficiary of their many fundraising events, such as a campus-wide Pizza Taste. Chi Omegas also hold a Christmas Party and an Easter Egg Hunt in conjunction with different fraternities for children in the Memphis area. Involvement in community service continues as members participate in Race for the Cure, March of Dimes and Blood Drives.

Chi Omegas play active roles in many organizations throughout the campus. Many sisters display leadership on Rhodes Student Government, Honor Council, Social Regulations Council, varsity sports teams, as well as other diverse organizations. Chi Omega shines academically with members belonging to different honoraries such as Mortar Board, Omicron Delta Kappa, Order of Omega, among many others.

Many members find the most joy in sisterhood events. The members enjoy theme parties with each of the fraternities, a Dynamic Duo date party in the fall, a formal week in the spring, and the many sisterhood outings, including intramural sports.

Chi Omega is more than just the sum of its parts. Above all, Chi Omegas will always be sisters who care for one another and their surrounding community.

On November 27, 1888, Delta Delta Delta was founded at Boston University, for the purpose of establishing perpetual bonds of friendship amongst its members, developing a strong and womanly character, broadening moral and intellectual life, and assisting its members in every way possible. Since its founding at the College on April 9, 1931, the sisters of the Delta Psi chapter continue to live by this purpose by actively engaging in philanthropic, social, and sisterhood activities.

Tri Delta's national philanthropy, St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, is based in Memphis. They sponsor many major fundraisers throughout the year, including the annual Delta Days and a 5K Fun Run, helping to raise over $5000 for the hospital. Tri Delta holds a campus-wide platelet drive, which encourages students and faculty to donate their platelets to children seeking treatment at St. Jude. The members of Tri Delta also interact with St. Jude patients at the nearby Target House.

Tri Deltas are extremely proud of their sisterhood and sincerely enjoy time spent together. Friendships are strengthened throughout the year by "Delta's Only" activities, along with Revelation, Initiation, and New Member events. Tri Delta has swaps with each fraternity, as well as enjoying the Fall Date Party, Christmas Formal, and Formal Week activities.

Members of Tri Delta are proud to be part of a sorority that encourages each member to be herself, while at the same time offering her opportunities to become an active member of the College and Memphis community.

The Alpha Delta Chapter of Kappa Delta was founded on April 4, 1925. Kappa Delta is proud to be known nationally and on the College's campus for its commitment to excellence in scholarship, philanthropy, social success, and sisterhood. This year, Kappa Delta had the opportunity to demonstrate this spirit of excellence to the College's community at its 54th Annual All Sing Event that raised over $10,000 for St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital and the Children's Hospital in Richmond, Virginia. Other philanthropic activities include the annual Mr. Shamrock Pageant, a Halloween Party for local children sponsored in conjunction with the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity, work with the Girl Scouts of America Program and Habitat for Humanity, and participation in other campus-wide philanthropies.

In addition to philanthropic commitments, Kappa Deltas also love to have fun at events such as swaps, Fall Date Party, Spring Formal Week, KD Fall Fest, and the KD Valentine's Day Party. Kappa Delta also boasts Honor Council, Social Regulations Council, Rhodes Student Government, and Admissions Representative Organization members, Bonner and Burch Scholars, campus musicians and performers, Kinney Coordinators, and numerous athletes.

While the Kappa Delta members are a large part of the College's community, they are especially connected to those in their organization by holding activities for further bonding and getting to know their newest group of initiates. Members of Kappa Delta are proud of their commitment to excellence and treasure the bonds of sisterhood that they share.

The Rhodes Panhellenic Council is a representative body of the four NPC sororities on campus: Alpha Omicron Pi, Kappa Delta, Chi Omega, and Delta Delta Delta. The Council is comprised of three members from each house: an executive member, a junior delegate, and a senior delegate. Like all of the sororities on campus, Panhellenic is dedicated to the values of sisterhood, philanthropy, and scholarship.

This year was an exciting year for the Council. They began the year with an amazing Recruitment. With the help of a wonderful group of Rho Chi's, or recruitment counselors, many first year women were introduced to the strong Greek system at the College. During the week, seniors had an opportunity to begin celebrating their final year with the Pub Crawl. This year also marked the 100th anniversary of NPC and the Rhodes' Panhellenic Council celebrated with a "birthday party" before Monday's meeting. The group also celebrated a productive "kick off" to the year's Greek/Faculty dinners. Furthermore, the Panhellenic Council started its Monthly Achievement Awards during which each month is commemorated with a different award such as Best New Member Program. Panhellenic has also participated in many philanthropic activities such as Chi Omega's Pizza Eating Contest and the Up 'Til Dawn letter-writing campaign.

While this year has been a busy year for Panhellenic, it was an enjoyable and productive one for each member of the Council and for the Greek System system as a whole!

alpha tau omega

The Alpha Tau Chapter of Alpha Tau Omega was founded in 1882 at the College. The national fraternity was founded in 1865 to bring northerners and southerners together in Christian leadership. Considered the leadership development fraternity, ATO strives to build strong leaders as well as a strong brotherhood through scholarship, philanthropy, community involvement, and a lively social scene. This year, the chapter hosted the first annual ATO/DDD Run for Fun benefiting St. Jude. Members are involved with Snowden Elementary, participating in Adopt-a-Friend as well as sponsoring the annual ATO/KD Halloween Party and an Easter Egg Hunt. The brothers of ATO also involve themselves in many campus organizations including varsity and intramural athletics, RSG, Rites to Play, Rhodes Singers, and many honor societies.

As well as showing leadership in campus organizations and community philanthropies, the brothers of ATO also host many social events. Swaps with sororities include the annual Viking Swap with Chi Omega and the notorious Tacky Wedding with Tri Delta. Members also enjoy the winter formal, spring formal week, and the annual "Shoot the Dog" party.

ATO continues to excel by preparing its members to be leaders within the College and the greater community, as well as building a strong brotherhood and able leaders prepared to further its legacy.

Kappa alpha

The Alpha Epsilon chapter of Kappa Alpha Order created a legacy at the College that has prospered since its chapter founding in 1887. Essential to the Chapter is the brotherhood promoted through the various chapter activities. Through extensive involvement, leadership, and participation, the members of Kappa Alpha Order strive towards the founding ideals of Robert E. Lee.

As well as being a vital part of the Greek system, members actively participate in on-campus events and philanthropic activities. Kappa Alpha finds its members active in IFC, Rhodes Student Government, Mock Trail, academic honor societies and varsity athletics. Theme parties with sororities, including this year's successful 'Country Club' swap with Tri Delta, Parents' Weekend silent auction, Date auction, Christmas Party, Rites of Spring Crawfish Boil, and the traditional Old South Formal Week, are all social events hosted and celebrated by Kappa Alpha each year. The members of Kappa Alpha also enjoy taking hunting and fishing trips to Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana, and Texas to relax and take a break from the hectic campus life.

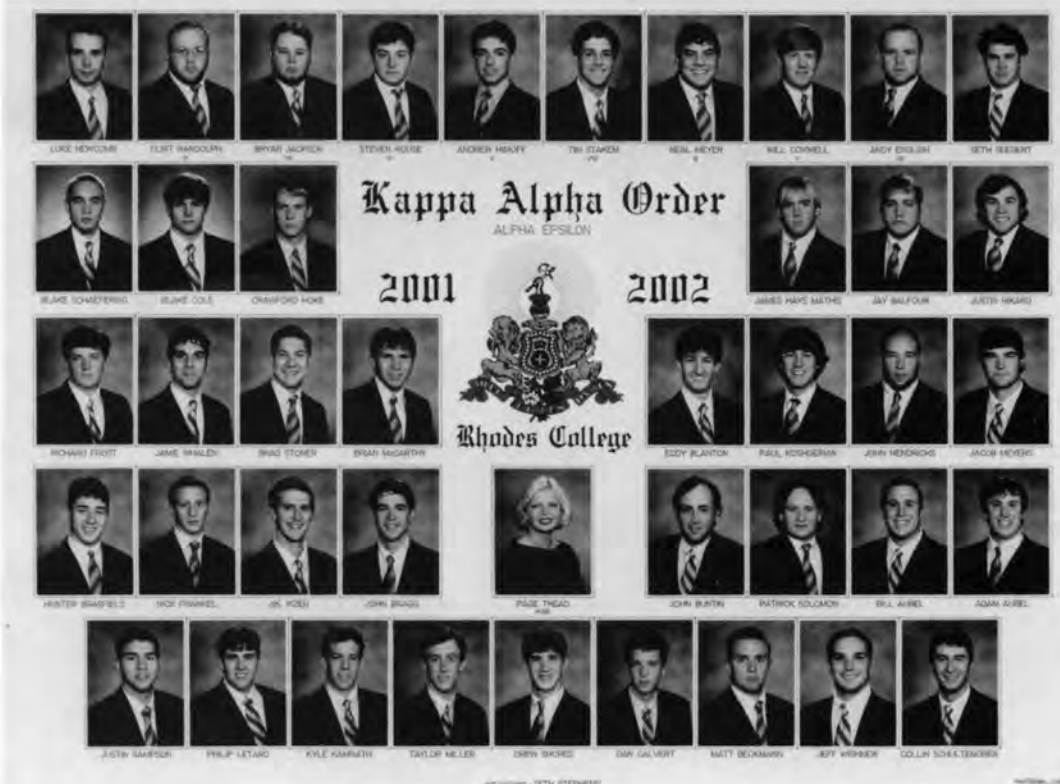

Perhaps the most successful philanthropic endeavor this year for Kappa Alpha, members raised over $500 to provide Christmas for a needy family. Through community service, academic excellence, and campus involvement, Kappa Alpha continues to maintain the proud traditions and high expectations of the Order.

Kappa alpha psi

On January 5, 1911, The Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Incorporated was founded at Indiana University to sow the seed of a fraternal tree whose fruit is available to, and now enjoyed by college men everywhere regardless of their color, religion, or national origin. The fraternity was founded on Christian principles, with achievement as its primary goal, which makes it unique from all other social fraternities.

Kappa Alpha Psi, Omicron Epsilon Chapter was founded on May 1, 1999, as a joint chapter with both the College and Christian Brothers University. The brothers are active in many campus organizations, including Student Government, the Black Student Association, Residence Life, Mock Trail, Rhodes Ambassadors, Rhodes Singers, and varsity athletics.

Although they are relatively new on campus, the brothers of Kappa Alpha Psi take part in many service events to promote and benefit their national philanthropy, Prostate Cancer Awareness. Hosting events such as the Kappa Kingdom of Kans, the Kappa Kafe, Guthrie Elementary Tutoring Program, Kappa Week, and an annual Homecoming Tailgate Party, the fraternity plays an important and vital role both on campus and in the community. This year, the Omicron Epsilon Chapter is excited about their newly initiated service program that rewards reading and literacy for fourth and fifth grade students at Hanley Elementary School.

The brothers of Kappa Alpha Psi continue to promote the ideals of brotherhood and excellence not only within their chapter, but also throughout the College and the greater Memphis community, truly continuing the tradition of "Training for Leadership since 1911!"

Kappa Sigma

Since its founding at the College in 1882, Phi chapter has dedicated itself to ensuring that the principles of Kappa Sigma are upheld. Through the high standards set by the chapter, Kappa Sigma dedicates itself to making their brothers faster, stronger, and better! The members of the Phi Chapter have established themselves on campus through participation in groups stretching across the College's student community. These groups include: Honor Council, SRC, the Kinney and Burch programs, Woolsocks, ARO, as well as a wide variety of varsity athletics and intramural activities. Through continual campus participation, the Phi Chapter received the Founder's Award, Kappa Sigma's top honor.

Notable events of the year include the third annual "Phi-lanthropy Week." During the week-long series of community service events, members worked in soup kitchens, and along the Greenline, entertained a group of children from the local Big Brothers/Big Sisters organization and also participated in several fundraising activities. Most notable was the Lip Sync Contest, which in total raised several thousand dollars for charity. The Brothers of the Kappa Sigma fraternity work constantly towards balancing their campus involvement with both their studies and their other social activities. Kappa Sigma also hosts a variety of social events each year which include theme swaps with the College sororities, Christmas Formal, and Lost Week, a week of date parties ending with the fraternity spring formal. The legacy of Kappa Sigma continues as members lead the campus in community service events, social gatherings, and academic achievement. In this way, the Phi chapter of Kappa Sigma continues the pursuit of excellence in every aspect of the College's community life.

The Theta Chapter of the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity exemplifies the credo of scholars, leaders, athletes, and gentlemen. As members of the longest continually active chapter in the Fraternity itself, the men of Theta Chapter continue to show their undying commitment to both the College and the greater Memphis communities. The men of Pi Kappa Alpha have established themselves on campus through participation in such groups as the Honor Council, Rhodes Student Government, the Rhodes Orientation program, the Interfraternity Council (Presidency for two years running), the Burch Program, theater, Woolsocks, Rhodes Singers, Admissions Representative Organization, Greek Fellowship, and various other campus organizations. Members also participate in a number of varsity and club sports such as football, golf, tennis, baseball, lacrosse, and crew. The Theta Chapter is committed to academic achievement, which is exhibited not only by membership in several academic honor societies, but also through the receiving of the award for the highest grade point average in the region from the national fraternity several years running. The men of Pi Kappa Alpha also hold many social and philanthropic events throughout the year, including Christmas Party, Pike Fest, Beach Party, Halloween Party, swaps with sororities, a date auction to benefit MIFA, and a party to benefit Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Memphis. The men of Theta Chapter look forward to continuing their tradition of excellence at both the local and national level.

The Tennessee Zeta chapter of Sigma Alpha Epsilon has dedicated itself to the ideals and principles of its founders through accomplishments in athletics, scholarship, community service, and social endeavors. Modeling its members after "the true gentleman," SAE has been creating a legacy at the College 121 years in the making.

The brothers of the Tennessee Zeta chapter have been active in many philanthropic events such as the Halloween canned food drive, Shelby Farms Trail Cleanup, the Big Brothers/Big Sisters program, as well as participation by many individual members in after-school tutoring programs. SAE is also involved in numerous varsity and intramural athletics. Sigma Alpha Epsilon hosts many social events including swaps with the sororities on campus, a Homecoming barbeque banquet and auction, tailgate parties to support the football team, a winter formal, and the spring Black Tie formal, which was held this year at the historic Mallory-Neely house. The brothers of Sigma Alpha Epsilon also threw a "peace party" last spring to promote racial unity within the College community.

Striving to build a well-rounded brotherhood through academics, philanthropy, athletics, and social events, the brothers of Sigma Alpha Epsilon celebrate another successful year and continue to build on past successes.

The Epsilon Sigma chapter upholds the ideals of the Legion of Honor, which sought to build a brotherhood based on the virtues of Love, Honor, and Truth. Since its founding in 1869, the members of Sigma Nu seek to find men who will live up to these ideals with the highest sense of honor. The members are taught that loyalty, service, and scholarship are the means to achieving a proper college community and a true brotherhood. The rigorous candidacy period builds a unified and active chapter, both in campus life and beyond into the Memphis community.

The Epsilon Sigma chapter participates annually in the American Cancer Society's Annual Making Strides for Cancer Walk-a-Thon, the Oak Elementary School Children's Carnival, and the Chi Omega Easter Egg hunt. Besides community service involvement, members of Sigma Nu individually participate in many on-campus organizations including the Sigma Iota Rho honor society and varsity and intramural sports. When not busy with school and community service commitments, members find time to enjoy the College social scene. Sigma Nu hosts swaps with all sororities on campus, an annual Halloween party, the White Rose Formal, and the infamous Luau Week. Sigma Nu offers a community and brotherhood for those members that seek service and scholarship, and through the fraternity they also find friendships that will last long past their years at the College.

On a campus in which the majority of the student body is Greek, it is important to regulate the activities of the different fraternities and sororities on campus to ensure safety and cooperation. The Interfraternity Council, or IFC, acts as the governing body for all the fraternities on campus. Made up of members from each of the fraternities at the College, IFC is responsible for regulating activities during Recruitment, pledgship, and for the planning of various events throughout the year in order to further the interests of the student body as a whole as well as the greater Memphis community.

IFC deals with issues that are important to all of the fraternities and tries to promote friendship and cooperation between the members of each group. This past year, IFC was in charge of the annual all-campus winter formal. The event was a huge success that brought Greeks, independent students, and faculty out together for a night of fun. As IFC moves forward, the main concern of the organization is to use the combined power of all the fraternities at the College to address the very broad social and philanthropic agenda. As individual organizations, the fraternities participate in many service projects which further serve the community. The IFC believes, however, that by unifying each of the houses filled with campus leaders, much more can be done for assist the community. They continually work to achieve this union between each of the fraternities on campus, as a way of developing a closer relationship with the Memphis community.

ATHLETICS

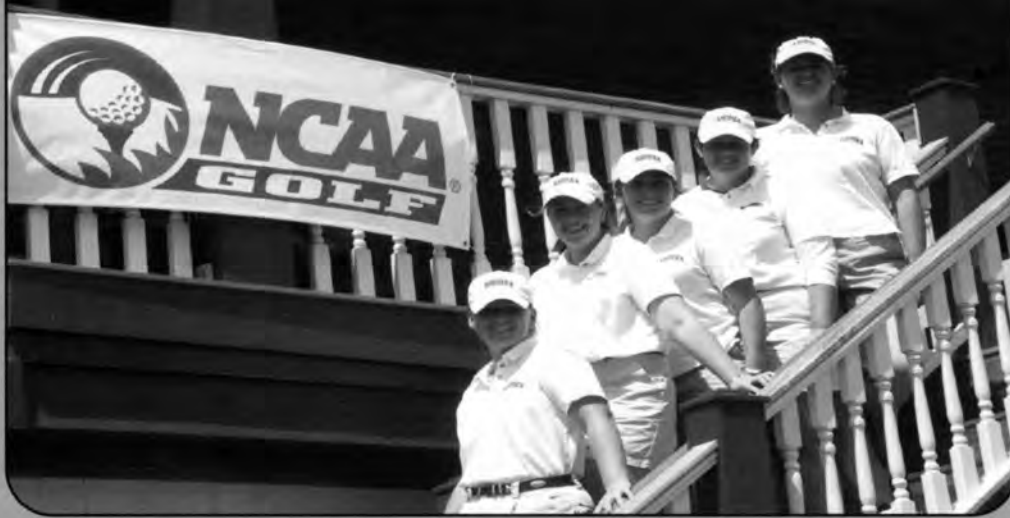

Varsity sports, club sports, and intramurals-all contribute to the athletic program at the College. Bringing students together to cheer on the Lynx, playing a conference rival, or simply playing around in the gym, athletics at the College helps build a legacy through successes in each game played. With more than half of the College's students participating in a sport of some kind, athletics plays an important role in the life and legacy of the many of the students and the College, whether participating as a player, coach, or fan.

The 2001-2002 Women's Golf team had another exceptional year that ended with a fifth place finish in the NCAA Division III Championship. Ranked third nationally throughout the season by Golfstat, the team once again was a dominant contender. Laura McKinney helped lead the Lynx throughout the season with a first place finish at the SCAC and finishing twelfth at nationals. In the fall of 2001, the team defended their title at the Illinois Wesleyan Invitational. In the spring, the Lynx finished first at the UCA Spring Tournament competing against Division II teams, as well as a third place finish against other Division III and NAIA teams in the Centre Spring Invitational. Coach Ellingsworth said "Despite graduating two key players last year, the women worked hard to finish second at the SCAC conference and return to nationals for the third year in a row. I am very proud of them."

The Lynx looked to continue success during the 2002-2003 season and hope to remain dominant in the conference and nationally.

Men's Golf

2002 Men's Golf Team

The Men's Golf team completed another successful year under the leadership of Head Coach Bill Cochran. The team competed in eight major tournament during the 2001-2002 seasons, which had anywhere from ten to twenty participating teams. The team was very consistent in play with fourth place finishes at the Freed-Hardeman Golf Classic, the Belhaven Intercollegiate, the SCAC Eastern Invitational, and the University of North Alabama Golf Classic. Junior Pat Browne had two top ten individual performances, finishing seventh place at the Pizza Hut/Bell South Classic with rounds of 80-77-157 and tenth place at the University of North Alabama Classic with scores of 72-73-145. The Lynx proved strong throughout the SCAC Conference Tournament, but fell to sixth place in the last few holes at the Deerfield Country Club in Jackson, Mississippi. Pat Browne led the team and tied for 18th place in the conference individual standings. Coach Cochran stated: "We made some good progress this past season, and our men's golf team will be a team to watch in the future."

The 2002 Women's Tennis team had a successful year as they finished with a record of 23-2, ranked eighth in the nation. In addition, the team made it to the second round of the national tournament, sending four players to individual nationals, more than any other Division III team. Among these players were Stephanie Gong, who finished 28th in the nation and ninth in the region. Also, Laura Hoffmeister proved strong as she ranked 15th in the region and also paired up with Hennessy Howell in the doubles competition to finish 16th in the nation and fifth in the region. With a very strong first-year class, the 2002 tennis team proved to be extremely competitive on the national level. Gong and Hoffmeister combined with Krista Dewitt, Hennessy Howell, Tamrin Wilcox, and Colleen Forsyth and prove strong throughout the 2002-2003 year. The team has a tough schedule with matches against some of the top 10 teams in the nation. Undaunted by the challenging schedule, Hatgas asserts that the team "looks forward to the challenge and the national exposure it will give to the teams." The College has a history of successful tennis teams, and this year is no exception. Although young, the team has proven itself to be very competitive on the national level, and deserves the national exposure that it is receiving.

Men's Tennis

2002 Men's Tennis Team

The 2002 Men's Tennis team finished 23-7, ranked #18 in the nation and #5 in the South region. In addition, the team beat Sewanee twice, with the first victory against the Tigers constituting the first time in 16 years.

The #18 ranking was good for a bid to the NCAA Division III National Championships. Beating Sewanee by a score of 4-1 in the opening match, Emory University proved too much as the season ended with a 4-0 loss. Also, Andy Campbell and Duncan Howell were the first players to qualify for the individual portion of the National Championships in the College's history. Campbell lost early in the singles draw while he and Howell fell in three sets in the first round of doubles. Ranked 29th in singles and 16th in the nation in doubles respectively, the team continued success in other areas. Highlights include a second place finish in the SCAC conference tournament with Coach Sarah Hatgas being named SCAC Coach-of-the-Year, Andy Campbell being named SCAC Player-of-the-Year, and Duncan Howell being named to the SCAC All-Conference team.

The 2003 Lynx will return five of its top six players, with Campbell, Howell, Eddy Blanton, Logan Stevens, and Kyle Kamrath looking to build upon the success of 2002.

Duncan Howell looks to return the ball to his opponent at a spring practice.

The 2002 Lynx Softball squad opened with four strong wins against conference opponent Hendrix, but suffered from injuries later in the season. After a strong second place SCAC finish in 2001, the Lynx graduated two outstanding pitchers, as well as the starting catcher and shortstop. Jane Wells sat out most of the season due to a knee injury and Shannon Davis and Sarah Cobb played while injured. The Lynx lost many close games including a nail biter to conference rival Trinity with a score of 1-2. Although the Lynx finished with a final record of 4-15-1, the team was pleased by the performances of Tabbetha Martin and Altovise Ewing. Martin, Davis, and Cobb were all elected to the SCAC All-Conference team and Cobb was awarded pitcher of the week honors. The Lynx spirit was held up by Tamara Martin, whose big batting also helped the Lynx pull things together. Other contributors were Nicole Lazo, Kate Burgess, Carrie Weiners, and Ashley Arnold.

The Lynx look to spend 2003 in another rebuilding year and are excited about the prospect of new Head Coach Neal Cordell to liven things up. Although the season was filled with many challenges, the Lynx fought hard and had fun throughout the season.

Hoping to strike out the batter, Altovise Ewing pitches the ball across the field.

Kasey Brooks looks to catch the ball near third base for the third out.

Baseball

2002 Baseball Team

Under the leadership of Head Coach Alan Reynolds, the Lynx Baseball team concluded the 2002 season with a 13-20 record, which noted the most wins for the team in six years. In the Southern Collegiate Athletic Conference, the Lynx finished with a 4-16.

The Lynx were led by the team's Most Valuable Player Chris France, who finished the season being named as an Honorable Mention All-Conference catcher. Furthermore, the Lynx also looked to First Team All-Conference first baseman Graeme Adams and designated hitter Clint Randolph for support.

Competitions against many conference rivals, as well as strong Division III teams, ended in victories for the team as the Lynx gained wins in a doubleheader sweep against Millsaps College and over NCAA Baseball Tournament Qualifiers, Trinity University. Also, the Lynx defeated Southwestern University, Blackburn College, and Illinois Wesleyan.

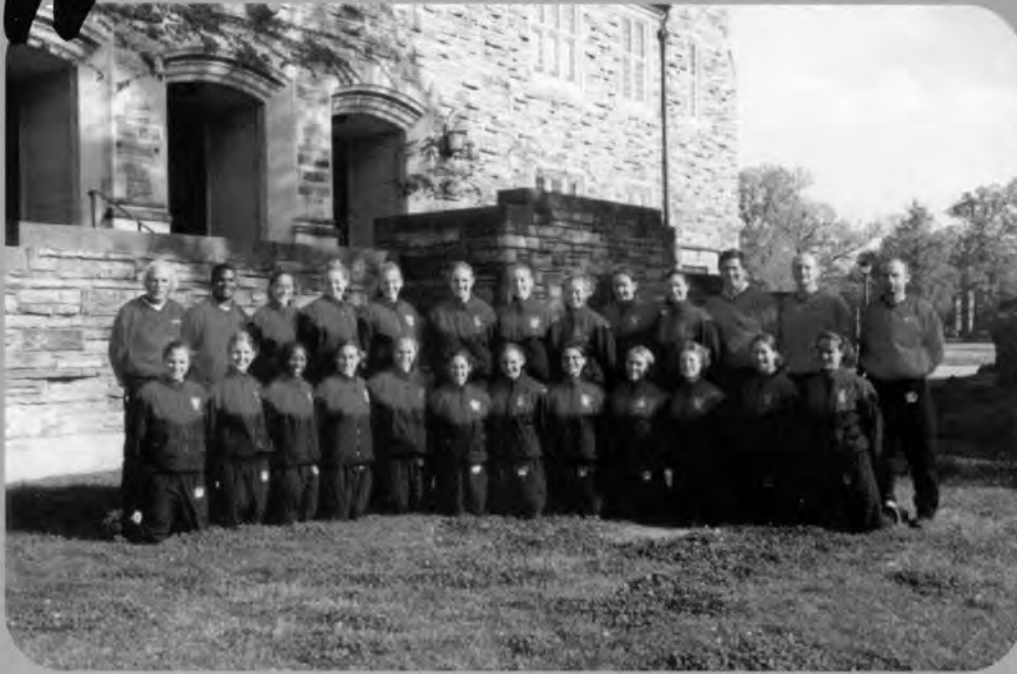

Despite having no starting seniors for most of the year, the Lynx proved to be competitive and will look to all nine returning starters to guide the team towards further improvement in the 2003 season.

Men's Track and Field

2002 Men's Track and Field Team

The Men's Track and Field team finished the season in fourth place in the SCAC. With the assistance of many team leaders, the Lynx hoped to build on the successes of the past year. Assistant Track and Field Coach Dan Schofer said, "Greg Matthews, Brian McCarthy, Bill Harrison, and Randall Scott led a strong contingent of athletes returning for the 2003 season."

Randall Scott, Bill Harrison, and John Hamilton were the season's SCAC Individual Champions in the 100, 800, and Pole Vault respectively. Scott was also a Qualifier for the NCAA in the 100 and 200 and he said, "It was the greatest feeling to come to college as a first year and make it to the Nationals. I had a hard year with training because I was so used to running off of my talent, but eventually I came around, worked hard, and accomplished something that most people look for by their junior and senior year."

With strong individual standings during the 2002 season, the Lynx seek to achieve further successes, both on the individual and team levels.

As SCAC Team Champions for the sixth time in the last eight years, the Women's Cross Country team succeeded in their conference and nationally. In the SCAC, the team came from behind to achieve the victory that gave them their second straight SCAC Championship title. For the first time in the history of the program, the Cross Country team qualified for the NCAA Championships, finishing in 24th place. Furthermore, the team placed second in the NCAA South/Southeast Region.

Individually, many of the women attained their goals under the leadership of captains Amy Paine, Elizabeth Wester, and Betsy Bogler. Cross Country All-Conference members were Paine finishing second, Wester finishing third, Marie Brandewiede finishing fifth, and Haley McConaghy finishing 14th. Paine, Wester, Brandewiede, McConaghy, Lauren Glas, Marguerite King, and Bogler were NCAA Team Qualifiers.

With another successful year, the 2002 season proved the Lynx to be strong contenders in the SCAC in the upcoming years.

Men's Cross Country

2002 Men's Cross Country Team

The 2002 Cross Country team finished its season with second place honors in the Southern Collegiate Athletic Conference and fourth in the NCAA South/Southeast Region. With only two seniors, this feat proved to be quite an accomplishment.

Among the standout players was captain Brian McCarthy, who led the team in personal achievements. McCarthy placed fourth in the SCAC All-Conference, closely followed by Colin Strickland in tenth place, and Matt Wood in fourteenth place. McCarthy was also a NCAA Individual Qualifier finishing second place, making him the first two-time NCAA qualifier for the men's program and earning him his fourth All-Conference citation.

Assistant Cross Country Coach Dan Schofer said, "The men's squad had a strong year, finishing second in the SCAC and fourth in the NCAA South/Southeast Region. Despite graduating the top cross country runner in the program's history, Brian McCarthy, the future looks bright for the Lynx."

Field Hockey

The Field Hockey team, under the leadership of captains Elizabeth Cooper, Libby Shea, and Jane Wells, produced a very successful season. In its fifth year of its existence, the team was already ranked by the NCAA as high as third in the Great Lakes Region. David Norton, Head Field Hockey Coach, said, "Over the last two seasons, Rhodes Field Hockey has achieved many first time accolades in our brief history. Having already claimed a conference championship and a regional ranking as high as third, we are poised to continue to improve and become more competitive on a national level." A high point this season was the field hockey victory over conference rival, Centre College.

Many personal achievements filled the team's 9-9 season in addition to the collective accomplishments. Lee Thomas was named to the NFHCA Regional All-American First Team for the third year in a row while Jennifer Brown and Lindsay Bond were named to the NFHCA Regional All-American Second Team. Thomas also broke the College's records for both the Career Goals Scored with 33 goals and the Career Points Scored with 75 points, and Alice Cowley now holds the College's Single Season Shutouts record with 8 shutouts and the Single Season Minutes Played record with 1300 minutes.

Katie Walsh attributes the year's successes to a friendship shared by all of the teammates. Walsh says, "The Field Hockey team is an extremely close-knit group that has worked hard to reach all of our achievements and will continue to set and attain larger goals."

The team gathers for a picture after their last home game of the season.

Football

The 2002 Lynx Football season finished with a final record of 4-6 and 1-5 in the Southern Collegiate Athletic Conference. Although the Lynx had hoped to be top contenders in the conference, injuries caused the team to struggle throughout the season. Head Coach Joe White said, "This was a very difficult year. We suffered enough injuries for three seasons. I'm proud that as a team we played tough throughout all of the adversity and am looking forward to a great...great 2003 Lynx team."

Many Lynx players proved strong despite the team's challenges. Dan Swanstrom finished the season ranked 12th in the nation in total offense and broke the single season passing records for attempts and

The Women's Soccer team finished the 2002 season with an overall record of 9-8-0, marking the third straight year of improvement in its overall record. Opening the season with a 6-2 record, the Lynx were geared for a successful season after completely their best start in over three years. Furthermore, the team was regionally ranked as high as seventh in the South Region in 2002—marking the first time since the 1998 season that the women's soccer team has broken into the regional rankings.

The Lynx looked to many of its key players, who led the team to these accomplishments. Cheryl Finster and Meghan Davis were both named SCAC Player of the Week during the season. Also, three players were named All-SCAC at the end of the 2002 season—Finster, who was named to the SCAC first team, while Davis and Katherine Edmonds were named to the SCAC second team. The Lynx hope for continued success in the 2003 season and look to be strong contenders within the conference.

Men's Soccer

2002 Men's Soccer Team

The 2002 men's soccer season opened with a preseason international tour, which took the Lynx to Austria, Germany, and Hungary. The Lynx played four games, finishing with a 2-1-1 record. At home, the regular season ended with a 9-7-1 record, with the team ranking fifth in the SCAC. In the second week of the season, the team was ranked 22nd in the nation. However, injuries took two players out of play for the year and five other players were on and off the field for most of the season. Coach Marcinko said, "The SCAC is the second strongest Division III conference in the country and although we played well, it's tough to compete if your not 100 percent." Despite injuries, many players dominated within the conference with Lance Ingwersen, Mike Phillips, Justin Sampson, and Bryan Powell being named to the All-SCAC Team. Furthermore, Ingwersen and Phillips were named Adidas/NSCAA Scholar Athlete All-South Region. The Lynx will look to returning players to dominate in play next year and hope to lead the SCAC against conference rivals.

The 2002-03 season marked the fifth year the College has sponsored a varsity swimming and diving program. Led by senior captain Kelley Savage, along with seniors Anne Kathryn Rice and Mary Johnston, the Lynx recorded another exciting and successful season. Director of Athletics Mike Clary assumed the head coaching duties, but first-year assistant coach Sue Templeman was responsible for training and the successful performance at the Southern Collegiate Athletic Conference Championships, held at Delta State University in Cleveland, Mississippi. Kelley Savage recorded personal best times in the 100 fly (4th), 200 fly (4th) and 200 backstroke (9th). Anne Kathryn Rice scored points in the 500 yard freestyle (16th), 1650 yard freestyle (14th) and in the 200 fly (12th). Mary Johnston, Rhodes first women's diver, competed in both the 1 and 3 meter competition, where she had some excellent dives. After completing their fifth and one of the most successful season in its history, the swimming and diving program looks to continue a successful run in the future.

Swimming and Diving Team

The 2002-03 season, under the leadership of Athletic Director Mike Clary and Coach Sue Templeman, marked the fifth year for the varsity swimming and diving program at the College. Led by senior captain Chad Jones, the Lynx recorded another successful season filled with anticipation and excitement. The team showed a successful performance at the Southern Collegiate Athletic Conference Championships, held at Delta State University in Cleveland, Mississippi. Chad Jones concluded his career by repeating as the SCAC 1650 yard freestyle champion. He also placed 2nd in the 500 yard freestyle and 3rd in the 400 individual medley. Junior Kyle Russ qualified for the consolation finals in the 100 backstroke (14th) and in the 200 backstroke (15th). Daniel Head also competed in the diving competition, where he performed several exceptional dives to place 10th (out of 18) in the 1 meter competition. Freshman Will Patterson swam personal best times in the 50 and 100 yard freestyles to place 10th and 13th respectively. The men's team proved strong once again and hopes for continued success in the future.

Volleyball

With the most wins since 1997, the Volleyball team's 22-29 season proved to be the pinnacle of a successful year. Important victories included triumphs over rival Centre and NCAA Division III competitors Maryville College and Savannah College of Art and Design. The volleyball team ended the season ranked fifth in the South Region with a record of 9-9 in conference play.

Captains, setter Michelle Haworth and outside hitter Laura Borg led the squad by being named to the SCAC All Second Team and SCAC All Third Team respectively. Another team leader, Sarah Rinn, was ranked in the top 15 of the NCAA Division III All Time for her 14 service aces during a three game match against Fisk.

Samantha Wolinski, Head Volleyball Coach, said, "Yvonne Godfrey, Michelle Haworth, and Sarah Rinn were my first 4 year seniors to go through the program since I have been head coach here at Rhodes. They have built a program that started out with only 9 wins their first year, to a program that won 22 this season.

2002 Volleyball Team

They have also made our squad one of the top 10 teams in the South region. We have 13 people returning for the 2003 season and look to keep improving upon what the three of them have done for our squad over the years." Under Coach Wolinski and the returning players, the volleyball team plans to continue improving their season records and looks to be among the top contenders in the SCAC.

With the return of Matt Dean as Head Coach of the Women's Basketball, the 2002-2003 season looked bright as the Lynx were expected to be strong contenders in the conference and in the inaugural Southern Collegiate Athletic Conference Championship Tournament, hosted by the College. Finishing the season with a 15-9 overall record and a 10-4 record in the SCAC, the Lynx entered the tournament in third place. The team looked to many of its key players in the first round of the tournament with senior captains Rosemary Boner and Anna Kizer leading the way—scoring five points, seven rebounds, five assists, and two steals in 39 minutes of play, and the team high scorer with 21 points respectively. Boner ranked within the highest averages of steals per game within the conference and Kizer entered the College's 1000 Point Club. The team also looked to Taylor Cook, who scored 17 points, five rebounds, and two blocks in the season's final game. Cook also dominated in the conference as a whole, serving as the top scoring freshmen in the SCAC. The Lynx, who defeated Hendrix in regular season play (57-52, 73-55), fell short the Warriors in the first round with a final score of 68-57. The Lynx, who also host the SCAC Championships next season, look to have another successful season and once again dominate in the conference.

Rosemary Boner, SCAC Defensive Player of the Year, maintains possession of the ball, while she considers her next move.

Anna Kizer outplays her opposition as she sinks a jumper in the post.

Men's Basketball

2002-2003 Men's Basketball Team

The 2002-2003 Men's Basketball season was a milestone year for the Lynx. Head Coach Herb Higleman reached his 400th career victory against Maryville College (105-80), placing him in the top 20 of active coaches in the NCAA Division III.

The Lynx entered January tied for third place in the SCAC. However, team captains Bryan Baird (11.5 points per game) and Austin Lutx (13.4 points per game and 88 percent from the free throw line) suffered injuries that kept them from action. The Lynx were led by Rami Almefty, who was recognized as the SCAC Player of the Week, averaging 14.5 points per game, 88 percent from the free throw line. Also, Wes Cain averaged of 10.1 points per game, 85 percent from the free throw line.

The Lynx ended the season 10-14 (4-10 SCAC), yet managed to qualify for the SCAC Tournament. Historically, this was the first year the tournament has determined the SCAC Champion and automatic qualifier to the NCAA tournament. The Lynx fell short to Depauw University 74-64 in the first round of the SCAC Championships. Ranked as high as fifth in the nation in free throw percentage and leading the SCAC, the Lynx hope to be strong contenders next season.

Justin Myers goes up strong to score two points for the Lynx.

Bryan Baird manuevers around the opponent and tries to find an open teammate.

Intramurals

"New rules, new staff, a new way to play!" The Recreational Services staff, together with the newly created group of students representing various campus organizations entitled the Rec Board, reviewed and overhauled many of the sport rules and intramural policies to better suit the students of the College, making it easier to participate and a lot more fun.

The intramural program offers a wide variety of individual and team sport activities: Flag Football, Wallyball, Racquetball, Squash, 3 on 3 Basketball, Soccer, Volleyball and 5 on 5 Basketball. Each sport offered is scheduled into both competitive and recreational leagues for men and women and fraternities, sororities, residence halls, independents, co-recreational, and faculty/staff groups.

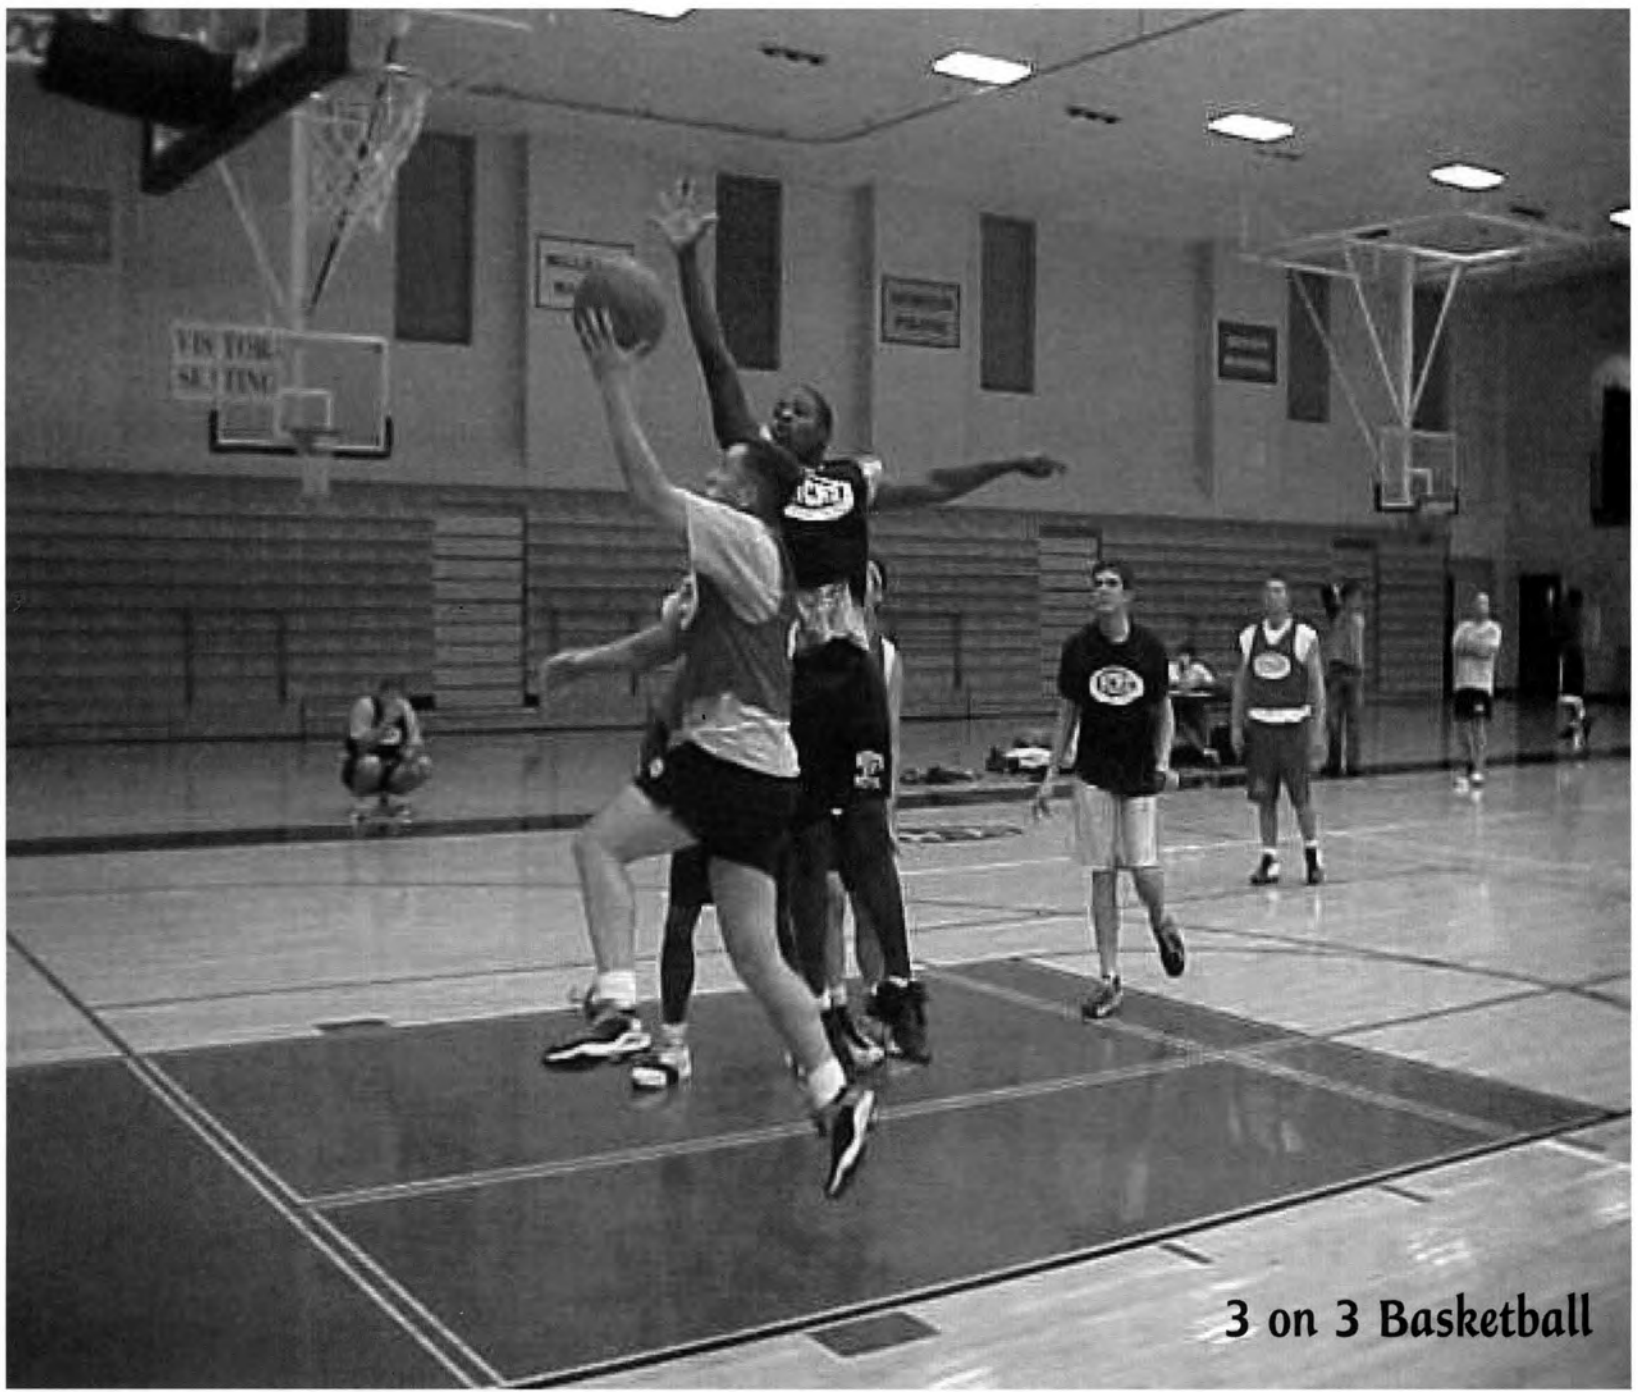

A series of special events complement the intramural program, further promoting healthy life styles and fostering a sense of competition and a love of sports. Special events included: a 3 Point and Free Throw Contest, the 1st

One of the most exciting new additions this year was the creation of the Greek Cup and House Cup organizational championships. Organizations compete in intramurals and special events throughout the year to accrue points towards one of the organizational championships. The winning organization is awarded it's respective championship trophy but, more importantly, owns bragging rights for the following year.

Crew

The Rhodes Crew Team has grown in the past year under the leadership of its volunteer coach, Ben Cavazos. While the long term goal of the crew team includes becoming a varsity sport to allow for more recognition from other schools, better recruitment for the program, and better funding, the team did achieve several of its ambitions this year. Lucy Waechter, officer of the Crew Club Team, said "The Crew Team has rapidly progressed throughout the past year, growing in leaps and bounds. We are coming closer to many of our goals much quicker than expected!" The team traveled to Chattanooga, TN where several of the members raced in their first competition, the Tennessee Indoors. The team also competed in two head races in Chattanooga, TN and St. Louis, MO. At these two competitions, the team raced against several other college varsity teams, and the St. Louis race resulted in a first place finish for the College's men's novice-four-boat. The team was also able to purchase its first two-person shell which will enable it to race in additional events. Now an annual event, the crew team held another Erg-a-thon to raise money and to broadcast itself by running four rowing machines for six consecutive hours to total a full twenty-four hours rowing. The crew team looks forward to continuing its success in the future and moving to a higher level of competition.

2002-2003 Crew Team

Equestrian

Unknown to most of the campus, the Equestrian Team is a club sport that is active in both riding and the College's community. The equestrian team is composed of both showing members and recreational members. The team goes on trail rides for team bonding as well as going to the various shows throughout the year. The equestrian team participates in approximately 10 shows a year, some of them Western Stock Seat shows and others being English Hunt Seat shows. Many members of the team come to the College skilled in just one riding style and learn how to show the other because the team has that much fun! The team competes against a variety of other teams, including Murray University, Vanderbilt University and Middle Tennessee State University. The fall semester did not offer any shows for the team members to attend, but members attended three shows in the spring. The team also participated in Rites to Play, continuing a tradition of providing the kids with an exposure to horses. Rites to Play always offers a fun time for kids, team members, and horses alike! The team is also in the process of forming a relationship with Special Cargo, an organization that provides therapeutic riding for people of all ages. Members look forward to expanding next year and participating in more shows.

Fencing

Meeting up to five times a week in the Bryan Campus Life Center, the College's Fencing Club practices for competitions between team members and for tournament play. Coached by Brad Kroeker, chairman Karen Dobyms jokes, "I like fencing because there is a point to it! And it's clearly pun-friendly!" By practicing footwork and the art of one of three weapons—foil, sabre, or epee—more advanced members of the team prepared for fencing tournaments throughout the year.

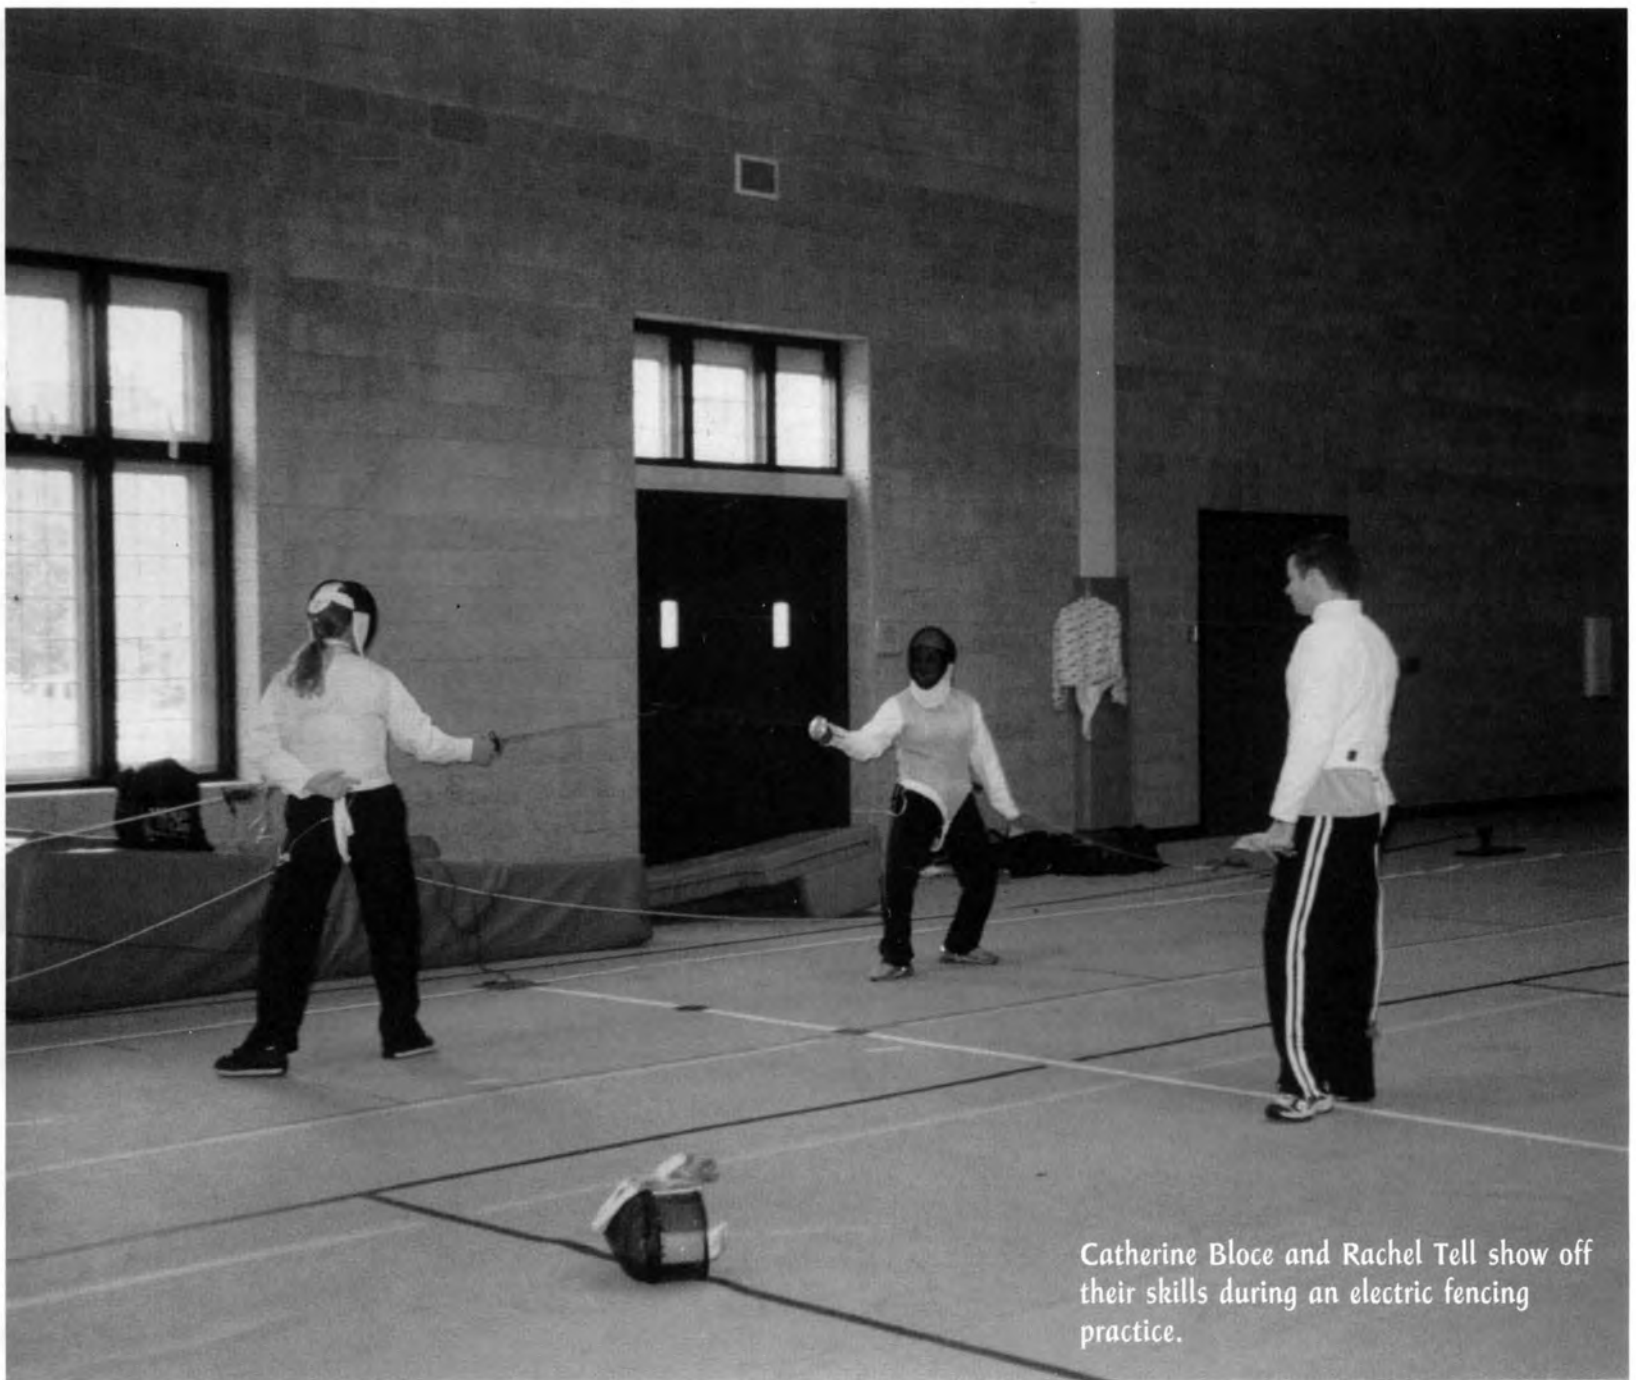

During the 2002-2003 season, the team experienced growing success, tripling in size and participating in various events including Habitat for Humanity and competing in several tournaments.

The team hopes to continue to grow in the future, while building closer relationships with team members and competing in more competitions.

Ultimate Frisbee

Rhodes Ultimate Frisbee, also known as Rhodeskill, continued in its fourth year at the College. The team practiced twice a week and continued its tradition of Friday barefoot pickup games. The team performs in all the elements, playing year round—in rain or snow. With their mascot Hecho sitting on the sideline, the ultimate frisbee team compete in three to four tournaments a year in various places, such as Jackson, Tennessee, Little Rock, Arkansas, and Baton Rouge, Louisiana. Despite losing a core group of graduating seniors last year, who founded the club sport at the College, the team was surprisingly strong this season. Proud to be the only club sport in which students and faculty participate on the same team, the Lynx look for continue success in the future. Led by club officers, President Carl Carlson, Vice President Carson Weitnauer, Secretary Jen Richelson, and Treasurer Eric Santiago, the ultimate frisbee team continued success throughout the 2002-2003 season and looks forward to next year.

ADVERTISEMENTS

Thank you to all those who supported the 2002-2003 Lynx Yearbook. Along with the parents who captured the memories of many seniors through their advertisement, the Lynx Yearbook staff would also like to offer congratulations to the Class of 2003. Thanks for building a legacy of your own here at the College and contributing to its legacy as a whole.

Clough Hall

Just as these advertisements provided funding for the Lynx Yearbook, many buildings at the College are named for those who financed their construction.

What a marvelous experience the Watson family has had during our “Rhodes Years!” Tim, Jr. and Todd could not have picked a better college for their undergraduate education- and Betsy and I have so thoroughly enjoyed our close association with everyone at Rhodes College - faculty, students, administrators - that we wish we had more children to send to Rhodes!

Great times, rewarding experiences, and many, many wonderful memories - those were our “Rhodes Years.” We will miss all of Rhodes, but will be ever grateful for the opportunity to have been part of the Rhodes family.

Friends Forever...

The world is so wide and each of us so small - yet bound by friendship we are giants.

*I Love You very much,
Mom*

There are no goodbyes for us.

Wherever you are, you will always be in my heart.

*Congratulations Elizabeth,
I am very proud of you. Stay the strong and special person you have become.
May your future be filled with happiness and success.*

*Love always,
Mom*

Administrators, Faculty, Staff, and Students,

The 2002-2003 Lynx Yearbook serves to continue the legacy of the College by representing the events of the past year. The production of the book has been among the most challenging and demanding, yet rewarding experiences I have had during my time at Rhodes. Though the staff was small, many people contributed to the book as a whole and I would like to thank all you who submitted pictures, copy, or simply your support to the project. Furthermore, I would like to thank Dean Landreth for his constant confidence in me and for all of the assistance he provided throughout the year. Finally, thank you to Katie Maxwell for all her leadership in heading the staff during my semester abroad and for continually serving as my right hand during the entire year. My main goal at the beginning of this project was to capture the memories of the past year so that each one of you could look back and remember your own legacy at the College. I hope that this book serves this purpose—to remind you of the experiences of your past as you look back at your time at Rhodes in the future.

Sincerely,

Julie Clary
