WALKING ACROSS CAMPUS, students pass by Halliburton tower. Through all the year's construction, the tower and its hourly chime remained constant.

AS PART ROUTINE FOR FIRST YEARS, Katy Orr '08, Rachel Thompson '08, Cate Marshall and Brynn Miller '08 eat dinner in the Rat. The incoming class of 2008 was exceptionally large this fall, filling every possible room as a part of the requirement of living on campus for a student's first two years.

You came on a hot August day in Memphis to begin something new, whether it was your first time or your last. Looking around campus, you noticed things changing with new life. The new Barrett library was slowly growing closer to completion. Briggs was being renovated as the mailroom moved to the other side of the building and Rhea Lounge took its place. Rush began with new rules. The new seal continued to take a prominent role on campus. The class of 2008 entered with record numbers- 474 first-years. The campus was showing signs of revitalization.

Not only were there physical changes, but you entered a year that would be different than any other of your life. You were taking new classes with new professors. You were living in a new place, whether it was your first dorm experience, your first time in an apartment, or just a move across campus. You may have gotten involved with an organization. You began friendships and rekindled old ones. Some things probably remained constant, but as you entered campus your life began a new chapter. You were prepared to revitalize.

WALKING THROUGH PALMER HALL, students pass the seal in the center of the entry. With the adoption of a new logo in Spring 2004, such marks of the college had become even more prominent around campus as the year began.

Filmmaker Lewis Klahr

The English department hosted Lewis Klahr and his excellent films. Called the “reigning proponent of cut and paste” by critic J. Hoberman of the Village Voice, master collagist Lewis Klahr has been making films since 1977. He is known for his uniquely idiosyncratic experimental films and cutout animations which have been screened extensively in the United States and Europe. New York’s Museum of Modern Art has purchased four of Klahr’s films for their permanent collection and curated 3 one person shows with him since 1989. Klahr has also been included in the Biennial Exhibition of the Whitney Museum of American Art (1991 & 1995). His epic cutout animation The Pharaoh’s Belt received a special citation for experimental work from the National Society of Film Critics in 1994. From 1995 to 1997 Klahr’s shorts (Altair, Lulu & Pony Glass) were included in the New York Film Festival. Lulu was commissioned by Copenhagen’s Gronnegards Theater for their critically acclaimed production of Alban Berg’s opera that ran in August 1996. Today he is still making films and showing them to those who are lucky enough to see them.

'Probably the best thing about being in this department is the freedom that you are given. In history there is no order to the classes you have to take. Seniors

Class of 2005

A Year to Celebrate:

As the time approaches for the Class of 2005 to say their final farewells, the Seniors take a few moments to catch their breath and reflect upon the four (or more) glorious years of their life that they have dedicated to the Rhodes community. With these years of hard work behind them, they walk over the Rhodes seal in Palmer and into Fisher Garden to receive their diplomas, completely different people than those timid freshman who walked the same path to Convocation several years before. Since that day in Evergreen Church, they have upheld the honor and morals for which Rhodes is known. Oh wait, was that a Senior I saw swimming in the fountain in front of McCoy theatre? Or what about the girl riding the lynx as the entire Campus Safety golf cart fleet was involved in a high-speed chase? These four years have served as a learning experience; a time to grow and mature (although some never got the memo about the second part). Each Senior has, in his or her fleeting time at Rhodes, amassed a multitude of memories which will linger for many years to come.

Kevin McCormack rushes to complete his senior thesis paper. Seniors looked forward to see the culminating semester fall into place.

After studying four hard years at Rhodes, Meridith Guillot caught up on the latest trends in her favorite magazine.

The fire alarm went off the night after filling our apartment with Christmas lights and decorations. My roommate and I ran out of the apartment, leaving our other two roommates. When we got outside we saw smoke coming from my room where the Christmas lights were still on. We started freaking out, worrying about our friends we left behind. Turns out it was just steam rising from the vent from the laundry room and the whole thing was just a prank.

THE WORKINGS OF A WONDERFUL ORGANIZATION

In 1908 on the campus of Howard University, Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority became America's first Greek letter organization established by and for Black college women. Alpha Kappa Alpha is a sisterhood composed of women who have consciously chosen this affiliation as a means of self-fulfillment through volunteer service. Alpha Kappa Alpha cultivates and encourages high scholastic and ethical standards; promotes unity and friendship among college women; alleviates problems concerning girls and women; maintains a progressive interest in college life; and serves all mankind through a nucleus of more than 170,000 women in the United States, the Caribbean, Europe, and Africa. The Overly Captivating Omicron Chi Chapter has reputation for upholding the standards set forth by our predecessors and as a result also produces successful and professional graduates who will go into the working world with self-growth and community service on their mind. Accordingly, I couldn't imagine my college experience without the love and support that I draw from this illustrious organization.

AOPI is a group of well-rounded ladies who support each other both as friends and as sisters. A WELCOMING DAY

Every year, the girls of Alpha Omicron Pi are so excited to get our new members on Bid Day! This year was no different—the active members waited outside the house and fraternity boys waited in their lawn chairs, cheering on our beautiful new members who finally came running to the Row from Palmer. Then, our dearly missed Rho Chis and RAs came to the house to reaffiliate and celebrate. Everyone was welcomed with lots of hugs, cheering, dancing, and screaming. Soon after, we went to a local AOPi alumnae's house for a pool party. After introductions and eating, all of us had a great time talking to each other and to the new girls.

The Senior Chi O's prepare for their last year of rush.

CHI OMEGA GRANTS A WISH

The women of Chi Omega have shared many memories through the years. However, one stands out above the rest. Throughout the 2004-2005 school year, the Chi Omega sorority strived to fulfill their main goal—to grant a wish to a child. Through the Make-A-Wish foundation, Chi Omega's national philanthropy, and with the help of their fellow students, friends, and family, Chi Omega accomplished this goal; but what was to come on that special day could never have been imagined. After Chi Omega raised the $5,000 it takes in order to grant a wish, they were soon matched with a special three-year old girl named Annie. Like so many children her age, Annie's wish was to go to Disneyworld. All who had the opportunity to meet Annie know that she is the cutest and strongest little girl one could ever meet. Learning that someone so little, so precious, and angelic has a life-threatening disease is gut-wrenching, and that is why Make-A-Wish does what it does. That is also why Chi Omega and all those who participated did what they did. As we all now know, dreams really do come true. Here's to a great year and to all the great memories.

Morgan Norman '07 gives a teddy bear to Chi O's Make-a-Wish child, Annie.

TRI DELTA JUMPED FOR JOY ON BID DAY

For the Tri Delta sorority of Rhodes College, the 2004-2005 school year was hopping from the start. On the much anticipated Bid Day, there was one house on the row that was literally jumping for joy! When the actives arrived at the house that morning, there was a gigantic jumping moonwalk placed on the front lawn of the Tri Delta house! The whole sorority was thrilled at the surprise, which a particular senior had managed to sneak by everyone. Girls rushed into the moonwalk and jumped up and down, doing flips and boosting their energy for the day ahead of them. For two or three hours girls jumped, music blared, and silly stream filled the air as the excitement brewed over the arrival of their new members. When the new members finally did arrive, out of breath and grinning from ear to ear, they too entered the giant moonwalk and jumped for joy that they had finally found their home at Rhodes College.

AN UNFORGETTABLE NIGHT

As we know, recruitment time around Rhodes can be very stressful and difficult on sorority members. With endless hours of training, parties, meeting new people, and deliberating on the selection process, sisters become worn out by only the second week of school! This past fall, we had a new system to become accustomed to and one of the drawbacks was an extremely long waiting period after the last formal Rush party, Preference party. During the waiting time that lasted about three hours, the sisters of Kappa Delta decided to take it upon themselves to make their own fun. So, still in our formal white dresses, we started playing games. It all started with a small group "launching" fun together. - Jen Brake their sisters. This consisted of one member lying down, another member sitting on her feet, and at one moment launching into the air full force! This then led to a full sorority game of Charades, which then led to our current favorite game, "Little Sally Walker," a game in which a member travels around a circle of sisters and stops in front of one to do a dance move which that sister then has to copy and switch with her. Needless to say, this was one of the most impromptu and fun events of the entire year. Leave it up to the KD's to make a boring time like waiting for recruitment information to such an entertaining and unforgettable night!

Sigma Gamma Rho

THE HISTORY AND THE BEGINNING

Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority, Inc. was organized on November 12, 1922 in Indianapolis, Indiana by seven school teachers. Mary Lou Allison Little, Dorothy Hanley Whiteside, Vivian White Marbury, Nannie Mae Gahn Johnson, Hattie Mae Dulin Redford, Bessie M. Downey Martin, and Cubena McClure. The group became an incorporated national collegiate sorority on December 30, 1929, when a charter was granted to Alpha chapter at Butler University. Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority's aim is to enhance the quality of life within the community. Public service, leadership development, and education of youth are the hallmark of the organization's programs and activities. Sigma Gamma Rho addresses concerns that impact society educationally, civically, and economically. With over 400 chapters in the United States, Bermuda, the Virgin Islands, Bahamas, and Germany, Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority, Inc. is committed to improve the quality of life for its members and the society it serves.

On October 3, 1998, the Omicron Xi Chapter of Sigma Gamma Rho was granted a charter at Rhodes College. Since its introduction to the Rhodes college campus, members of Omicron Xi have proven to be fiercely devoted to community service and furthering the aims of this sorority. This dedication can be seen in our participation in service events such as Alzheimer's Day Care, tutoring at Guthrie elementary, Buckle Up for Safety, Habitat for Humanity, collecting School supplies, supporting blood drives, as well as many others events. Current members are also heavily involved in other campus organizations such as RSG, the Ministry, BSA, and ResLife. As Sigma women, we represent a nationwide sisterhood that attracts ALL women. We constantly pursue our goals of self-improvement, motivating youth, and promoting high scholastic achievement. Omicron Xi has only just begun to embody our vision of service and sisterhood and, as we move forward to achieving our goals, we keep in mind the national motto "Greater Service, Greater Progress."

A SMOOTH TRANSITION

After officer transition in early February, PAN began a new term with an almost new council and a fresh start on achieving specific goals set out by PAN members. These goals included increasing the presence of PAN throughout the Rhodes campus and Memphis area by hosting events, influencing the participation of PAN members and Greek women in campus events, and increasing the knowledge and awareness of PAN among the Rhodes campus and the sorority houses. In taking steps to achieve these goals, PAN again co-sponsored Chicken McNuggets and Lenny's for the first night of Rites-of-Spring which was successful in feeding over 200 students after enjoying concerts. To improve relations and spirit among the sorority houses, PAN sponsored a first ever "Girls Night Out" this past spring in which all houses were open and hosted various food and activities for members of each house to enjoy. The night was a success and is being planned again in the fall after Greek Recruitment. In the fall, PAN is anticipating a successful Recruitment and even more successful year with more steps to be taken to not only improve the Greek women system, but the Greek system on campus.

A REWARDING MOMENT

On a warm Saturday morning in February, the brothers of Alpha Tau Omega gathered for one of their yearly service projects. But this particular project didn't involve the typical trash clean up or money donation; this event was organized by one of our own brothers, Doug Lensing, to promote a campaign for child literacy in Memphis. The brothers helped interact with the children, passed out books, and even got to read to some of the kids. This opportunity was one of the truly rewarding occasions in which we got to impart knowledge and at the same time enjoy ourselves and the kids. This is one of the first service events in which the brothers have had a direct connection to the community, and it really allowed us as members of the Rhodes community to share what we bring from all across the country with the people of Memphis.

ACTIVE BROTHERS CARRY ON THE TRADITION

On December 10th, 1869, the founding fathers of the Kappa Sigma fraternity began a brotherhood that has since become one of the largest and most successful fraternities in the nation. Built on the pillars of Fellowship, Leadership, Scholarship, and Service, a brother of Kappa Sigma is instilled with qualities that will benefit him for the rest of his life. In many ways, Kappa Sigma has acted as the foundation for a brotherhood of gentlemen who constantly pursue success in all that they do. Founded in 1882, the Phi Chapter of Kappa Sigma at Rhodes has milked this potential for all that it is worth—producing brothers who are capable of confronting life after graduation with both a strong character and a solid foundation. The members of Phi Chapter have regularly established themselves as leaders in both academics and athletics. Brothers have been active in many groups including Honor Council, SRC, the Kinney and Rhodes Service Scholar Programs, RSG, Woolsocks, as well as a number of varsity and intramural sports. This year saw Kappa Sigma host its fifth annual “PHI-lanthropy” week; a week dedicated to service benefiting our national philanthropy, Big Brothers/Big Sisters. The week also included efforts to help clean up the local Spring Section of the Memphis Greenline. Through their involvement in academics, social activities, and campus organizations, the gentlemen of Kappa Sigma continue to uphold the standards set forth by their founders in 1869.

MEMORIES

The brothers started the year in the usual fashion with a successful rush and appropriately entertaining Bid Day. For the Pikes' infamous Halloween party, hundreds of Rhodes students were bussed down to a packed Alfred's on Beale for an evening of good times. After enduring the burnout that accompanies the first months of spring semester, members headed around the country, from the beach to the ski slopes, for Spring Break. Finally, the Pikes closed out the year with a Saturday dedicated to cleaning and repairing their house. The day will be best remembered for the work done to the impressive fraternity crest that hangs above the fireplace.

HELPFUL BROTHERS

Sigma Alpha Epsilon had a great year philanthropically speaking. We were awarded a large piece of hardware for having the most participation in the St. Jude Up 'Till Dawn campaign. We also spent several Saturdays cleaning up vacant lots in the Hollywood-Springdale area. Furthermore, we have brothers involved

THE BROTHERS HELP THE COMMUNITY

The Epsilon Sigma Chapter of Sigma Nu Fraternity is very active in helping the community around Rhodes. This past spring semester we took part in the Hollywood-Springdale Initiative to try and help clean up that neighborhood. Our first visit was just our fraternity and we worked on cleaning up a specific vacant lot that was filled with trash and debris. We worked for a couple hours and were able to make a big difference. Later in the Spring we worked with IFC to do another cleanup on a different lot in the neighborhood. We have worked really hard in trying to help improve the look of this area. Both visits to the neighborhood have been a very rewarding experience for us all. Working together as brothers on projects such as this also bring us closer together as a fraternity. We received many thank-you's from people in the neighborhood and very happy to be participating in this project.

Our record this year was 11-28. All in all it was a tough season BUT.. I guess you can say with strong senior leadership and good young talent the season had its ups and downs in which we ended the season on a strong note winning the last three games to sweep conference rival Hendrix. THE WOMEN'S TEAM WORKS TOGETHER

The women's basketball team capped a fine season with a 82-74 quarterfinal win in SCAC Tournament play against Hendrix College Friday, February 25, in Mallory Gymnasium. Junior guard Rachel Hettinger poured in a career high 26 points, and junior forward Taylor Cook added 22, as the Lynx recorded their 16th win of the season, the third most wins in a season in the history of women's basketball at Rhodes.

However, in the semifinal game Rhodes fell to nationally ranked DePauw 82-56. First year guard Ashley Farrell led all Lynx scorers with 14 points, and Rhodes finished the season at 16-10. Cook and Farrell were named second team All-SCAC and Hettinger was voted Honorable Mention. Farrell was also recognized as SCAC Newcomer-of-the-Year.

Next season the Lynx do not lose anyone to graduation, so Head Coach Matt Dean is optimistic about their chances. "If we can continue to grow as a basketball team, I feel like this group is ready to take the next step and win the SCAC," said Dean

Rhodes received huge contributions from sophomores Crystal Jessee, Rene Orth and Amie Cahill. Junior captain Gretchen Bufe also was one of the team's best perimeter shooters. Junior Tracey George, and freshmen Anne Bradshaw, Megan Flatt and Haynes Kleimeyer also return to form a solid nucleus for 2005-06.

This fall the women's cross country team participated eight races, traveling up to Kenosha, Wisconsin, down to Jackson, Mississippi and everywhere in between - taking buses of course. Most bus trips went relatively smoothly, with friendly drivers naming team members "Arkansas", and talking to no end, however there was one exception. On September 25th, we traveled to Louisville, Kentucky to run in the Greater Louisville Classic. When we left the hotel on the morning of the race, we noticed a faint rattling noise and a bit of jolting, but no one dared bring it up. We made it to the course, ran in the race, and then packed up to head back to Memphis. Unfortunately, as you might guess, the bus wouldn't start. So, we were stranded. There were no available buses in Louisville, so we had to wait for one to come from Cincinnati. As the other teams left, and the park became empty, we started a game of touch football. Everybody played including the coaches, and although he put up a tough fight, Coach Shankman was defeated. Eventually the bus came and we headed home, but that day out team grew closer. Not only did we race well, but we had fun afterwards - outside of running-together as a team

THE TIME HONORED RITUAL

Cross-country races require mental preparedness, adequate warming up, and the performance of a time-honored ritual before the gun goes off. When the stretching and strides have been completed, the team huddles together around the coaches to hear last minute words of advice. A senior with "Run Faster" written in permanent marker opens his palm face up and places it on top of the teams' outstretched hands in the middle of the huddle. We are reminded to stay mentally tough and to work hard in the middle. Specific details from the prior night's meeting are kept at the forefront of our minds as the excitement of momentarily starting the race mounts. Coach's final words instruct the team cheer, "Lynx hell yes on three. One. Two. Three." And the team erupts "Lynx Hell Yes!," briefly silencing spectators and other competitors. We break huddle and get to the line, anticipating the gun to set us free.

THE TRANSFORMATION

The 2004 season proved to be an unprecedented one for Rhodes Field Hockey. Though only two seniors and ten first years seemed like an unlikely pair, it ultimately proved to be a lethal combination. Coached by David Norton and assisted by Jane Wells, 2004 was undoubtedly the most successful season in Rhodes Field Hockey history.

Rhodes Field Hockey has always been a member of the Great Lakes Region, but 2004 marked the inaugural season of Southern Collegiate Athletic Conference competition. Throughout the nine week season, Rhodes accumulated fifty percent of the SCAC field hockey Player-of-the-Week Awards, outshining every other school.

Finishing their season with an 11-4 (7-1 SCAC) record, Rhodes earned the No. 1 seed at the SCAC Field Hockey tournament. After defeating host Centre College in overtime, the Lynx Cats went on to play the University of the South (Sewanee) in the finals of the tournament. Another hard fought overtime battle, Rhodes triumphed over the Tigers to become the first SCAC Champions in Field Hockey history.

David Norton coached Rhodes Field Hockey for four solid years, transforming a young, timid team into a Field Hockey powerhouse, now the team to beat in both the SCAC and the Great Lakes Region. Though his last year as Head Coach, Norton departed from his last game with an SCAC Championship Trophy, a number 2 ranking in the Great Lakes Region, the best win-loss record in Rhodes history and SCAC Coach-of-the-Year recognition. Rhodes dominated SCAC all-conference awards, winning Offensive Player-of-the-Year, Newcomer-of-the-year and Coach-of-the-Year, also naming five players to the 2004 All-SCAC Field Hockey Team. Three other players also earned All-American Recognition.

The football season for Rhodes College was marked by constant hard work, determination, and a never-give-up attitude. Trailing 21-0 with the first half coming to a close during competition against Rose Hulman Institute of Technology, the Lynx defense ended a RHIT drive as senior Taylor Whaley forced a fumble, which was quickly recovered by senior Rory Dale Faver. Behind the arm of quarterback Dan Swanstrom, the Lynx ended the first half with a touchdown, cutting the deficit to 21-7. After a RHIT score to open the second half, the stage was set for notable comeback. Following several strong defensive stands and an interception by Faver, the Lynx offense got on a role and cut the lead to seven. With 0:45 seconds left in the game, the Lynx trailed by 7 and had the length of the field to travel. Swanstrom and senior receiver Matt Dement hooked up for the game tying touchdown as time expired, sending the game to overtime. After an exchange of field goals in the first overtime, Swanstrom completed his career day with 410 yards passing and five touchdowns as he again connected with Dement for the game winning touchdown in double overtime. The football team showed their resilience as they erased a significant deficit to emerge victorious.

Our season ended at 5-5. Many people would say "that is pretty good," but my teammates and I knew that this record was unfitting for a team with as much talent as we had. We realize we did not reach our full potential last season; however, we know that we are capable of ascending to a level of play greater than that of our opponents. We know what we have to do; now it's just a matter of doing it. - Victor Evans '08

WOMEN'S SOCCER TEAM BONDS IN THE PACIFIC

Over fall break, the women's soccer team boarded the 747 headed to Los Angeles with visions of tough games and Disneyland, not realizing one surprise to come. In anticipation of playing the University of LaVerne under the lights one night, the coaches took us on a mystery trip. We rode in vans down winding roads through the hills of the coast for what seemed like an eternity before we finally pulled up to Laguna Beach. Ripping off our shoes and socks and running to the water's edge, our toes could barely stand the freezing cold Pacific Ocean.

We became more daring as we became more accustomed to the water's temperature, inching our way farther and farther into the tide. Before we knew it, the waves had come up to our waists, but we couldn't stop there. We decided to go for it, to take on the Pacific! Linked together hand in hand we charged the water, fully clothed in our Rhodes practice gear. We fought the powerful, icy waves together, laughing hysterically at ourselves all the while. At the end of the day no one wanted to leave the beach, but we reluctantly left the waves and boarded the vans and agreed that the long, wet, cold and sandy ride back to the hotel was absolutely worth all of the fun.

MEN'S SOCCER REACHES THEIR GOALS

Each Rhodes Soccer Class begins with clear goals, foremost amongst which is to leave the program better than they found it. The 2004 Class continued the process of restoring the program to its previous level of regional and national respectability. This year's seniors finished with a 53-20-2 record and a .726 winning percentage. "The Class of 2004 is as strong and talented as any we've had," Marcinko says. "I admire their chemistry, talent, and willingness to take responsibility."

HIGHLIGHTS FOR WOMEN'S TENNIS

For 2004-2005, the Rhodes tennis team had another successful season. With a preseason rank of #12 in the nation, the team set out for another challenging schedule. Highlights of the year include a trip to California where the Lynx picked up three wins including one over the Banana Slugs from the University of Santa Cruz, another top 20 team. The team also defeated Sewanee during the regular season with a score of 7-2. During the post-season, Rhodes finished fourth in the SCAC tournament and qualified for the NCAA first round tournament played at Emory University in Atlanta for the fifth year straight. The team finished with a record of 12-3 before playing as a team in nationals. Because of outstanding performances throughout the year, Stephanie Gong qualified in singles for individual nationals in Kalamazoo, Michigan, and Hennessy Howell and Colleen Forsyth were named a doubles team alternate.

THE YOUNG LYNX TEAM DOES WELL

The 2004-2005 Lynx tennis team finished 12-6 overall and 5-3 in conference play. The team went undefeated at home and its losses came primarily against Division I and Division II competition. This very young Lynx team (only one varsity player in the Junior class, and no Seniors) ended the season with a promising 4th place finish at the SCAC championships in Little Rock. Freshman Kareem Mansur and Sophomore Adam Bohnert garnered all-conference accolades with Mansur being named to the First-Team and Bohnert to the Honorable Mention-Team.

A FUN SEASON

The Women's and Men's Swimming and Diving Team had a fun and exciting 2004-05 season. The team captains were Wyatt Franks, Will Corvey, Alison Lohse and David Hammond. The Most Valuable Swimmers on each team were Jazmin Miller and Eddie Han. Eddie Han broke school records in the 100 and 200 back, the 200 IM and 100 free, and Jazmin Miller broke school records in the 100, 200, and 500 free events. The highlights of the season were trips to the Washington University Invitational in St. Louis, where the teams performed well and culminated the visit with a team picture under the Arch. At the end of winter break the teams took a five day trip to Fort Lauderdale for two-a-day training. Other memorable moments included the bus breaking down on the return trip from St. Louis and Coach Clary's first-ever diving judge experience at Wabash. The season culminated with a great trip to San Antonio, where numerous school records were set and the teams celebrated a successful season with a nice, outdoor TexMex lunch on the Riverwalk. Jazmin Miller became Rhodes first-ever NCAA Division III national qualifier and she performed well at the national meet in Holland, Michigan hosted by Hope College.

THE CROSS TOWN RIVAL

The 2004 season was full of exciting victories of the Rhodes Lynx Volleyball team, who pounded rivals like Centre, DePauw, and Millsaps during the year to finish 3rd in the SCAC. However, no challenge was more anticipated by the team and coaches than the match up against cross-town rival Christian Brothers University. The match against CBU is a huge deal every year, but this season, it was particularly important. Due to construction on their gymnasium, the CBU volleyball team had been practicing in the Bryan Campus Life Center every day. They were playing on our home court, using our nets, peppering with our balls, inhabiting our training room, and every once in a while, they would challenge us to a scrimmage during practice. With each passing scrimmage, the volleyball battles grew more and more intense. We knew that we could not lose our only match against CBU...not on our home floor, not after they used our gym and our equipment, and not after scrimmaging them every week. The moment of truth finally came on October 28, 2004. With aggressive serving, impeccable defense, superb setting and unstoppable attacking, the Rhodes volleyball team crushed the CBU Buccaneers 30-24, 23-30, 30-28, 30-27 in four games, thereby capping off a successful 25-11 season and establishing our dominance in the always-heated rivalry between Rhodes and CBU!

A successful jump!

The Rhodes ladies know how to jump the high jump.

THE TRACK FIELD'S FIRST BIRTHDAY

This year has been very exciting for the track team, especially due to our brand new track! It has been great to practice on such a nice track, and also to have home meets! Our new facility's inaugural meet was March 19. That morning, I was warming up for high jump as many of the shot-putters were passing by on their way to the shot-put area. As I was doing drills, I heard a girl say very excitedly, "Oh *, that thing is huge!" I spun around to see what in the world she was talking about, and saw her looking down at the steeple chase water pool. I thought that was strange, and figured she must be a freshman who had never seen the steeple chase race before. But then she said, "That thing's about to jump right out of this thing." Then I decided to go see what could possibly be in the water pool. I looked down to find two ENORMOUS catfish swimming around! I'm not going to tattle-tale on who did, but if you look at the men's roster there is a really good hurdler from Georgia who happens to be an expert fisherman! I think we might have a tradition for our track's "first meet birthday"!

Lizzie Phillips '07 starts out very well.

All in all, I was very impressed with the women's team resilience in placing third at conference considering all the injuries and problems we faced. This year has definitely been a positive experience and I will miss the seniors but am also anticipating an even better junior year.

EXCITEMENT FOR THE MEN'S TEAM

The men's track team had one of its most exciting seasons ever as it entered a new era. The excitement began with the completion of the new track in November. With the new track, Rhodes now has the best track and field facilities of any team in the SCAC. The athletes rejoiced in the new track and were able to come into the season with a new pride in the program. With the new track in place, the team held its first home meets in nearly a decade. In addition to the traditional travel schedule, the team competed against topflight teams from across the country on our own campus. Among the top individual performances, freshman Cody Haslett impressed the team and the competition with some amazing throwing performances, including setting the school record in the hammer throw. Also, junior co-captain Nick Campbell built on the success of his sophomore season with more spectacular races in the hurdles. With a young and talented and the best facilities available, the future of Rhodes track is bright indeed.

WOMEN'S LACROSSE

MEN'S LACROSSE

At the beginning of May you packed up your things to go home or some other spot for the summer months or to enter the post-graduate world. The campus had changed over the course of the year. Construction had taken over campus. Renovation of Briggs was completed with new student facilities. The Barret Library had come near completion, and with all the stone work finished, students began to envision what it would look like once the interior was complete. However, the construction had made a mess, fencing off a significant portion of campus for landscaping and other matters, blocking many students' pathways across the area. There was discussion as to what the space of the Burrow Library would become. The campus had been revitalized.

You too had undergone much over the course of the school year. Maybe you had taken that seemingly impossible class and ended up learning a lot from it. Maybe you stepped out of your boundaries and did something crazy. Maybe you undertook a new responsibility or job that took a lot of your time but looking back was something that you could take with you for future responsibilities and jobs. Maybe you formed a new friendship. Maybe you readjusted your priorities to have a little more fun or to study a little harder. While every student had a unique experience, everyone changed, even if it was only a little bit. You were revitalized.

IN ORDER TO RETRIEVE HER MAIL, Katie Henderson '08 twists her key to open her box. The mail room move to the opposite end of Briggs Student Center to a newly renovated space mid fall semester, at which time students had to obtain new keys to updated mail boxes.

IN RHEA LOUNGE, Jimmy Cornfoot '07 and Kimberly Beydler '07, part of Rhodes Christian Fellowship's praise team, play and sing as part of the group's weekly fellowship. After Rhea Lounge reopened spring semester when the old mail room was renovated, RCF, along with other religious and community service groups, began to use the space on a regular basis.

WALKING ACROSS CAMPUS, students pass in front of the tower of the new Barret Library. As the library neared completion with stone work finished in the spring, the campus now had two towers.

C O L O P H O N

The 2005 Lynx was published by Walsworth Publishing Company located in Brookfield, Missouri. The press run was 1450 copies. It was printed on 100 pound legend gloss paper with 98-point board weight cover and Smyth sewn binding. The cost to students was included in the student activity fee paid with tuition costs. The Allocations Board, under the Rhodes Student Government, determined the funding for the publication. The book was produced in the publications center, room 306, in Briggs Student Center. The pages were designed using Walsworth's Designer Series in Adobe Pagemaker 7.0 on two Dell OptiPlex GX240 computers. Student portraits were photographed and processed by Stroud Photography. Other photographs were provided by students and campus departments. The Lynx, a sanctioned publication of Rhodes College, under the guidance of the Publications Board headed by Brian London '05, is a member of the Associated College Press. The Rhodes College Lynx Yearbook International Standard Serial Number is 1079-3771.

A NOTE FROM THE EDITOR:

The editorial staff chose the theme "Revitalize" because we thought it embodied much of the changes on campus- construction, the new library, the large freshman class. Because of page limitations, we felt that running the class pictures along the bottoms of the page would allow us to provide more coverage of events and activities and hope that you the readers enjoy this format. There are many people who have instrumental to the success of the 2005 Lynx. I would like to thank: Johnny Cole, our Memphis area sales representative from Walsworth, for his guidance and support in our efforts; Karen Johnson from Walsworth for her help with working with Pagemaker and her willingness to support us in whatever way we needed; Barb Tschannen who processed out pages at the plant; everyone else at Walsworth who played any role in processing the book; our advisor Carol Casey for her role in business aspects of production and constant support of our endeavor; Claire Coleman for handling our finances; Brian London and the Publications Board; all students, faculty, and others on campus who were willing to help us with pictures and quotes; and last but not least, the editorial staff for their dedication and persistence in finishing the book. This year's staff began with no experience at Rhodes and for some no yearbook experience. Despite this and our late start, the staff came in enthusiastic about creating a book for their peers and continued to work to accomplish this goal. I am very appreciative of all their work that simplified by role. As you look through the book, I hope the pictures and stories remind you of what your life was like at Rhodes in 2005, whether you be looking at it when it comes out or before you go back for your fifty year reunion.
