Old SW Spirit Lives On In Southwestern Clubs

All over the country Southwestern alumni are banding together into groups called Southwestern Clubs. These clubs are a new idea, emanating from the desire of alumni living in the same area to see each other and talk over old—and present—times. Five of these organizations had meetings this fall, the Birmingham, Washington, New York, Richmond, and Atlanta groups. Usually the meetings are held over dinner or other refreshments, and all have drawn a sizable number of people.

Dr. Alfred O. Canon '44, Southwestern's Dean of Alumni, is particularly interested in the further development of the plans of these groups, and has been able to attend all the meetings so far, often accompanied by his wife, the former Betty Ruth Brown '48. Dr. Peyton N. Rhodes has also been present at a number of the meetings.

The New York Club met October 7 at the home of Jim Wade '46. President Rhodes and Dean Canon attended, along with some sixteen other Southwesterners.

Ed Nesbitt and Willis L. Ensign, both of '42 attended, as did Dr. John H. Fischbach '34 and his wife, J. H. ('48) and Jane Phelps Arnold '49, Mary Beth Davidson '54, Gretchen Lovett '56, and Mrs. William W. Case (Iola Smith '24).

Also present were Lynda Gresham and Joe Rhodes, both class of '58, Charlotte Black '56, Mrs. W. F. Smith (Josie Lee Phillips '50), Dorothy Steindorff '50, and John Farley '37. Completing the party were Charles A. Barton '37, and George B. Case '43.

Washington Club

The Washington Club held a dinner meeting October 8 at the Lewinsville Presbyterian Church in McLean, Va. Again President Rhodes and Dean Canon were present. Other guests included John W. Childress '02, Dr. Charl Williams '25, Mrs. Joel Coumbe (Alice Kilpatrick '33), Mr. ('31) and Mrs. ('32) Schuyler Lowe (Margaret Kimbrough), Col. ('40) and Mrs. Robert A. Elder, and Mrs. Harriet S. Thomas (Harriet Shepherd '46). Also there were the Rev. Truman D. Nabors '55, Lt. (jg) John R. McKinney '56, John A. Pond '40, Lem Banks '31 and his wife, Col. W. H. Lumpkin '36 and his wife, and Roseanna Morris '41.

Joseph A. Moss '34 attended, as did Dr. Julian C. Nall '43 and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Douglass, Jr. (Helen Elizabeth Nesbitt '42), Mrs. O. W. Lunde (Ann Potts '40), Mr. and Mrs. Homer H. Broach (LeNeil McCullough '29), Dr. Craig M. Crenshaw '37 and his wife, and Mr. ('38) and Mrs.

1959 Loyalty Fund Tops Last Year by $400; More Alumni Than Ever Before Participate

The 1959 Southwestern Loyalty Fund inched its way to new highs in both dollars and participation. The $22,464.55 total represents a gain of $900 over 1958's all-time high, and participation increased from 17.5 percent to 18.9 percent of all known and located alumni.

The year's increases, though slight, do constitute a step in the steady upward progress which has characterized the fund in recent years.

Ewing Carruthers, vice president for finances of the Southwestern Alumni Association, and Goodbar Morgan, alumni secretary, attribute much of the gains to the helpful activity of class agents who stimulate giving among their respective classmates and to the class organization which has become an Alumni Day tradition in recent years.

The 25th reunion class of 1934 led the field in participation in the '59 results, with 33.3 percent of its members recorded as contributors. More than $600 from this group was designated for the purchase of a painting for the college by Carroll Cloar, a member of the class who has become one of the nation's outstanding artists.

Substantial designated gifts have been received by other alumni for the Science Fund, the Student Center, the Gaylon Smith Memorial Gateway, library memorials, and other special projects.

Other classes which have celebrated their 25th reunions in the past four years also are numbered among the top 14 which exceeded 20 percent in participation. The class of 1932 came second with 27.2 percent; '31, third with 26 percent; and '33, thirteenth with 20.5 percent.

Also in the group is the class of '39 which substantially supported the gateway fund in memory of one of its own members and which formed its organization at its 20th anniversary anticipating the 25th reunion in 1964. Its participation was 23.6 percent.

Other classes in the top 14 are 1926 (25%); 1942 (23.6%); 1935 (23%); 1948 (22.8%); 1940 (22.6%); 1927 (22.2%); 1941 (22%); and 1954 (21.8%).

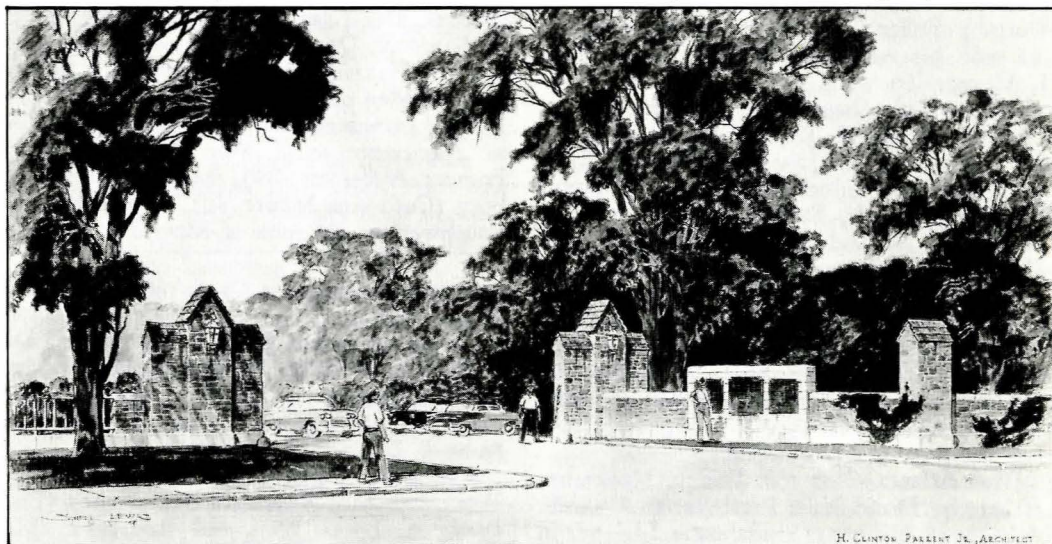

There were 990 donors, 391 of whom live in Memphis and 599 outside Memphis.

A few contributions were received too late to be counted in the 1959 totals and will be credited to the 1960 fund.

Percentages of participation from other classes graduated since the college moved to Memphis are as follows:

1947 (19.8%)	1952 (16.4%)
1956 (19.7%)	1949 (16%)
1929 (19.3%)	1958 (16%)
1946 (18.9%)	1936 (14.4%)
1944 (18.4%)	1957 (13.2%)
1943 (17.9%)	1951 (13%)
1930 (17.7%)	1955 (13%)
1937 (17.3%)	1945 (10.9%)
1953 (17.2%)	1928 (10.7%)
1950 (16.7%)

The Gaylon Smith Memorial Gateway will be started this month at the north entrance to the campus on University, leading to the gymnasium. The drawing by the college architect, H. Clinton Parrent, Jr., shows the stone gateposts and section of the south wall in which bronze plaques will detail the athletic career of Southwestern's great football player who died last year.

Almost $2,000 of the required $2,500 has been received in memorial contributions, some to Smith and some to Walter Stewart, the late Commercial Appeal sports editor who attended Southwestern for one year. Gaylon Smith's classmates in the class of 1939 gave more than $500 to the fund.

(40) A. H. Young, Jr. (Bess Louise Game-well).

The club plans to have a spring meeting at the home of Mrs. George R. Douglass (Helen Elizabeth Nesbitt).

Richmond Club

Richmond, Va. was also the site of a club meeting October 15. Most of the guests were recent graduates who are in the area in graduate schools and seminaries. The meeting was held at the Hot Shoppe, where Thomas T. Tidwell '47, and Eric Mount, Jr. '57 acted as chairmen. Dean Canon was there, along with Dr. Taylor Reveley and Dr. Fred Pultz, Southwestern professors, who were in Richmond attending a meeting of the Board of Christian Education.

Among the club members were Martha C. Beggs '52, the Rev. I. S. McElroy '12, Bryant A. Biddle '44, Robert A. Porter '40, and Cresby M. Walker '42. Three '56 grads attended, Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. Walters (Robin Ruth Sprague), and Mrs. Robert L. Watson (Suzanne Snyder). William Ramsey represented his class of '46.

Among the more recent alumni were, from the class of '58, Linda Hardesty, Mrs. Eric Mount (Truly Brown), Louis Bledsoe and his wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Zbinden (Kip Shoaf). From class of '59 were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hammett (Merelyn Davis), Larry Kennon, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Martin (Hervey Doughton '58), William A. Stewart, Ed Stock, and Mr. and Mrs. Claude A. McMillion (Margaret Stewart '60). Charlotte Frist also represented the class of '60.

This group also plans to have a meeting in May.

Birmingham Club

The Birmingham Club had a dinner meeting October 27 at the Shades Valley Presbyterian Church. Dean and Mrs. Canon attended from Memphis along with Mrs. J. Q. Wolf, admissions counselor and wife of the chairman of the Southwestern English Department, Dr. J. Q. Wolf. In his stead she presented a program on "Southern Folk Songs." Other guests present were the Rev. ('44) and Mrs. T. Stratton Daniel, Jr., the Rev. Ernest H. Flaniken '47 and his wife, Dorothy Fuller '48, Dr. James M. Gregory '33 with his wife and daughter, and Robert L. Hunter '56.

Along with these were Charlene Jayroe '57, Mr. Albert H. Keller '29 and his wife, Mr. ('40) and Mrs. John M. Slaughter, Prof. ('54) and Mrs. Sidney R. Vise, Mrs. Marion Dick '50 (Dorothy Faye Tynes), Mary Frances Forbes '54, and the Rev. ('54) and Mrs. ('55) J. Robert Goodson (Jean McLean).

Besides these alumni, there were a number of parents of present students attending the meeting. These were Mr. J. F. Browder, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Cobb, Mrs. J. H. McCain, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Peeples, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Glenn.

Atlanta Club

The Atlanta Club met Friday, November 20, at the Druid Hills Presbyterian Church. All alumni, parents of students, and friends in the area were invited to the 6:30 dinner meeting.

Dean Canon was present, and Mrs. J. Q. Wolf was again the speaker. Her program was on "Southern Folk Songs," including

A Gay Homecoming Draws Hundreds Including Four-Degree Grandfather

Huge animated lawn displays lining fraternity and sorority rows screamed threats to crush, bruise, clean up, annihilate, burn, and otherwise promote the general discomfort of the Lynx Homecoming foes, the Austin College Kangaroos.

But the morning's boasts looked sad and ineffectual in the late afternoon as the Lone Star marsupials hopped homeward with a winning score of 28 to 6 packed proudly in their pouches.

The adverse football score was the only disappointment on Oct. 17, and homecoming grads were amply compensated in other ways.

It was a fine day for football and for visiting on the campus. The lawn decorations drew throngs of eager lookers from early morning until dusk and once more attested to the spirit, talent, ingenuity, and energy of the Southwestern student body.

One seasoned professor was heard to remark: "If only they would apply such enthusiasm to their studies!"

Winners in the annual competition were Kappa Delta, first, and Zeta Tau Alpha, second, among the sororities and Sigma Alpha Epsilon, first, and Alpha Tau Omega, second, on fraternity row.

Judges were J. P. Snider, East High School principal; Mrs. Knox Everson, Jr., instructor at the Memphis Academy of Arts; and Chester L. Wiseman, architect.

The Sou'wester carried a cartoon of one house elaborately done out in cardboard, wire, paint, and papier mache. Two of the weary sisters stood proudly surveying their intricate handiwork as one said to the other: "But we lost Ann somewhere in there." Considering the frantic preparations which characterize this annual effort, this would seem to be a very real danger.

Catherine Burrow Hall was decked with collegiana for the Homecoming luncheon. Thanks to the deft talents of Mrs. Joe Patten, Jr., (Betty Wells '39) and Mrs. J. J. Brown (Joanne Patten '55) each table had as its centerpiece miniature goalposts fashioned from red candles wrapped in black tape and flanked by Southwestern megaphones and streamers. The head table arrangement featured a whole little football field.

Seated there were Dr. and Mrs. Peyton N. Rhodes, Dr. (class of '17) and Mrs. R. P. Richardson; Dr. A. K. Burrow H'59; William D. Haynes '48, president of the Southwestern Men of Memphis; Dr. Arthur Womble '35, president of the Southwestern Alumni Association, and Mrs. Womble (Mary Frances Aydelotte '39); Mrs. Charles Freeburg (Catherine Moore '40), president of the Southwestern Women of Memphis, and Mr.

some taped music that Dr. Wolf has collected in past years.

Guests present at the meeting included Dr. William L. Bowden '48, Mr. ('31) and Mrs. William Marsh, Jr., Dr. E. C. Scott '11 and his wife, Julian White '57 and his wife, and Ruby F. Sloan '55.

Johnnie J. Sudduth '55 was also present, along with Mrs. Raymond Paul Ferney (Elizabeth A. Locke '59), and Robert E. McClure, Jr. '54. Coming in from La Grange, Ga., were the Rev. ('48) and Mrs. William A. Jones (Margaret Loaring-Clark '49), and the Rev. ('49) and Mrs. George Austin Chauncey.

Freeburg '39; and special guests Dr. E. C. Scott '11, of Atlanta and Dr. H. S. Henderson '10, of Tutwiler, Miss.

Dr. Henderson, who came to Homecoming with his son and grandson, both named for him and both Southwestern graduates, classes of '38 and '59 respectively, is a remarkable alumnus in more ways than one. He is the only person who holds four degrees from Southwestern. He got his A.B. at Clarks-ville, when it was Southwestern Presbyterian University, and he came back for both M.A. and B.D. degrees. After a distinguished career in the ministry he was awarded an honorary D.D. in 1948.

At another table of honor sat the 1959 Homecoming royalty, Marcy Ruyl, Homecoming Queen, Mrs. Wilson Viar, the former Jerry Davidson and wife of the Lynx captain who was chosen Football Princess, Janie Allen, "S" Club Princess, and their escorts, Dan Whipple, Larry Fury, and Don Pollard.

As a matter of record two special guests of the president should also be noted. Dr. Rhodes introduced to the assemblage Southwestern Wynx and Southwestern Kynx, beautiful feline "teen-age" daughters of Slynx, the wide-eyed Siamese kitten who was presented to him in the Homecoming program two years ago. He promised to keep alumni informed on "future developments of this nature."

The usual round of open houses on fraternity row concluded the Homecoming festivities for some, but other alumni went on to the dance from 8 until 12 in the Neely Mallory Gymnasium.

IT'S SQUIRE MORGAN NOW

GOODBAR MORGAN '31, has become a country squire. Southwestern's alumni secretary has moved to Hernando, Miss., to reside at the country home of his cousin, Mrs. Paul Bowdre.

Mrs. Bowdre, it seems, has a very swank barn that in its hey-day had running water, electric lights, and heat. She has converted this into a spacious apartment for Goodbar. There has been great speculation as to whether he, in his new role among the rurals, will go the ultimate mile, and, like John Peel, take up his horn and his hounds in the morning, or whether he will revert to the more simple pleasures of the Southern Hills, as popularized by Jimmy Driftwood. Since, as Goodbar says, the "country home is really on the outskirts of the city of Hernando," he will probably wax mellow and philosophic as he goes about his semi-bucolic pursuits, and will be none the worse for his exposure to semi-unfiltered air. One thing is certain, he is going to spend a lot of time on the road, as he plans to commute from Hernando every day, "a distance which takes forty-five minutes, unless there is heavy traffic."

Large Crop of Sons and Daughters Follow Moms, Dads, to Southwestern

By Bette Baumgarten '61
(Daughter of Vern E. Baumgarten '30)

Southwestern opened its 111th session this year with a bumper crop of new students who are sons and daughters of alumni. The old Alma Mater experiences a swift feeling of pride in welcoming these kids who are "carrying on the family tradition." And what nicer situation can there be than to walk the halls one's mother or father walked, grow to love the same spots they loved, be imbued with the same tradition they participated in, and of course, study under their professors—for better or for worse.

Arkansas is well-represented in this number by Marion Seagraves of Stuttgart and Susan Huffman of Blytheville, both of whose fathers, the late George B. Seagraves '31, and Elbert Huffman '32, attended Southwestern.

Alabamans also carry on the good work. Brown Crosby of Bay Minette succeeds his father, J. D. Crosby '09, and his first cousin, J. R. Crosby, Jr. '35, while Peder Tarbox of Florence follows his mother, Mary Sue Dugger Tarbox '48. Mobile has two claims and a lot of background in Johnny Frist, whose father, J. C. Frist '28, uncle, Thomas F. Frist '31, and sister, Charlotte '60 were Southwesterners, and in Grover Durant, Jr., whose father, Grover Durant '34, graduated from our ivy halls.

Both of Dorothy DuBard's parents, L. N. DuBard '29 and Dorothy Vanden DuBard '29, from Metairie, La., were alumni, as was the father of William Hall, Dr. William M. Hall '32, of Shreveport. A Bellevue Nebraskan, Katherine Bartels, claims double loyalty from her mother, Katherine Farnsworth Cavender '41 and father, John P. Cavender '40. Rebecca Lumpkin of Arlington, W. Va., and Robert Orr of Mayfield, Ky., follow the father tradition (W. H. Lumpkin '36 and Robert A. Orr '33). Mississippi sends Elizabeth Stansel of Ruleville and Ann Lee Patterson of Laurel who have forebears on the distaff side (Elizabeth Rickey Stansel '33 and Frances Weaver Patterson '37).

Tennesseans are in the majority of course. Martha Chase of Shelbyville has her mother, Elizabeth Beasley Chase '32, sister, Elizabeth A. Chase '59, and aunt, Martha Chase Holt '36, to live up to. James Glenn of Collierville and John Sohm of Whitehaven had Southwestern mothers (Kitura Phillips Glenn '27 and Jane Dean Sohm '58). Linda Ann Lawrence of Germantown follows both her step-parents, the late Dr. O. S. McCown '29 and Louise Nowlin Lawrence '33.

Memphians are quite numerous, happily. Hugh and Bill Harwood are the twin sons of W. H. Harwood '36, and Sam Nickey is the son of Elizabeth McKellar Nickey '39. Charles Rond IV follows his father Charles Rond III '30, in what seems to be a really long tradition. William Taylor's parents, Dr. W. W. Taylor '33 and Marjorie Davis Taylor '36 were Southwesterners, as were Bette Carol Thomas's, Harte R. Thomas '34 and Dorothy Baskins Thomas '39. A third 'full family of Lynxes' is Betsy Breytspraak's, whose mother, Elizabeth Jones Breytspraak '40, father, James M. Breytspraak '38, and three uncles, the Rev. William A. Jones '46,

Evergreen Hall Was NOT First Women's Residence

Another story came to light following announcement of the reconversion of Evergreen Hall to women's residence hall use in October's NEWS.

Evergreen was NOT the first residence for women.

Never to be forgotten by the 14 students and Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Atkinson, who were house parents, was that first year in "Clarks-ville Hall," a bulging bungalow at 1931 Lyndale which served until Evergreen was completed.

The Atkinsons lived upstairs. The sun parlor was the social room and everything else, including the kitchen, was used for bedrooms. Fortunately it was in the day of wardrobe trunks, because the Chi Omegas had one closet and the Kappa Deltas had another, but nobody seems to remember where any of the others kept their clothes.

Here was a genuine commune, recalls Polly Minor (Mrs. Brandon) Lemmon '27, with common bathroom and laundry bundle for the 14. "It was cheaper to send the laundry all together. When it came back, we sat around it in a circle on the floor and claimed each item as it was held up. Sometimes there were duplicate claims and always there was haggling into the night about who owed how much of the laundry bill. Amelia (Appleton) Atkinson, who had just graduated in the class of '25 herself, was referee."

The temporary facility was called Clarks-ville Hall at the insistence of the major bloc, six of the students, Dr. and Mrs. A., and Mattie the maid, who all came from Clarks-ville with the college.

The Clarks-ville crowd included three members of the class of '26 who still live there, Georgia Hodgson, now Mrs. Robert L. Miller, Louise Orrell, now Mrs. Cecil C. Morgan, and Irene Clardy, now Mrs. Morris Bocock; Polly Lemmon, who lives in Memphis; and two members of the class of '27, Virginia Smith (Mrs. T. M. Deaton of Memphis) and Catherine Rudolph (Mrs. A. S. McIlwaine of Delmar, N. Y.)

Others were Nadyne Klindworth '27 of West Memphis; Natalie Northcross '28, now Mrs. Robert Penn Moss of Corinth, Miss.; Connie Ellison '29 of Centerville, Ala.; Katherine Hall '29 of Memphis; Eleanor Beckham, now Mrs. C. J. Farquharson of Memphis; Olivette Durley '28, now Mrs. George F. Cates, and Eileen Griffis. The alumni office has no current address for the latter two.

Wharton S. Jones '47, and Dr. Ralph Breytspraak '36, were alumni. Jack Brown is the son of Dr. D. L. Brown '34 and Helen Moore Brown '35, and Emily Wiggs is the daughter of Ethel Brown Wiggs '28. Glenlee Ferguson and Mary Nell Frank have Southwestern mothers, Dorothy Lee Ferguson '30 and Nell Jackson Frank '39. Radford Hopper is the daughter of Martha Rosebrough Hopper '31, and niece of Billy Rosebrough McCullough '31 and R. W. Rosebrough '34. Completing the list is Jack Kelly who follows his parents, Jack B. Kelly '34 and Beverly Boothe Kelly '37.

Burrow Library Receives Three Book Collections

Southwestern has been the recipient of three important gifts of books this fall.

The Burrow Library will acquire during the coming five years a wide collection of new books on the Civil War period in memory of the late Prof. W. Raymond Cooper, who came with Southwestern from Clarksville to Memphis, headed the history department, and served as dean of men for many years.

After Professor Cooper's death so many memorial gifts were sent to the library by his former colleagues and students that a special collection of some kind seemed indicated.

Albert M. Johnson, librarian and a former student of Professor Cooper himself, a brother, Dr. R. F. Cooper of Jackson, Miss., Dr. R. P. Richardson '17, Southwestern's vice president for development, and Dr. John Henry Davis, long time associate of the professor in the history department, decided on the Civil War collection because of Prof. Cooper's intense interest in the period of the Old South.

Mr. Johnson said numerous new books on this period are scheduled to appear during the Civil War centennial period from now until 1965. Each book will bear a memorial bookplate with Professor Cooper's name inscribed.

Professor Cooper was author of the history of the college entitled "Southwestern at Memphis."

Faulkner Translations

The Burrow Library has an unusual and growing collection of the works of William Faulkner in exotic languages and bindings, thanks to Albert Erskine, Jr., '32, who is now managing editor for Random House, Inc., Faulkner's publishers.

Mr. Erskine wrote Albert M. Johnson '30, librarian, that these translations (Polish, Japanese, Serbian, Czech, Arabic, etc.) occasionally come to him and he would like to pass them along to the library.

Mr. Johnson said the volumes are a valuable addition to the library and of special interest since the International Language Center has been established here.

There was other news of Mr. Erskine in September, too. He was married to the former Maria Luisa Bisi, a New Yorker who formerly lived in Rome and Florence, Italy. The wedding took place in the New York home of Bennett Cerf, Random House president, and Mrs. Cerf, with former Southwestern professor Robert Penn Warren and Mrs. Warren as attendants.

Klewer Collection

A fine collection of some 300 volumes was given to the library by Mrs. Edward B. Klewer, who with her husband gathered this library over a number of years.

The late Mr. Klewer, who died in 1936, was a prominent Memphis lawyer who was considered an authority on both Egyptology and entomology and who served for many years on the Memphis and Shelby County planning boards and on the state parks and roads commission. He was one of Southwestern's early supporters and was closely as-

More Than 500 Attend Parents' Day Events It's Orgill Day at Crump Stadium, Too

Probably Southwestern's most effective rooting section—and certainly its most enthusiastic visitors—are its paying public, the parents of students.

Once a year they come en masse on their special day to visit their sons and daughters and savor the college flavor of a typical fall Saturday.

Parents' Day, Nov. 17, was, in the student vernacular, a BLAST.

The day was carefully planned by its chairman and originator, Dr. R. P. Richardson, to afford plenty of informal visiting time, several special attractions, and the opportunity to see and know members of the college faculty and staff.

Dr. Richardson

More than 500 moms and dads visited the campus during the day and almost half of these were from out of town, representing ten different states.

Dr. Richardson emceed the 10 a.m. assembly in which brief addresses were given by Dr. Peyton N. Rhodes, president, James D. Curtis, president of the Honor Council, and Dr. Robert L. Whipple, who is the father of both a Southwestern junior and a freshman, Dan and Miriam Whipple.

"We can inform you with words and with letters," as Jim Curtis put it, "and you can read catalogues about the college and see pictures of its buildings. But none of these things is any substitute for your actual presence here and participation in campus life for a day."

They went on from there to lunch with the students and faculty in the dining halls, then

$4,500 from Esso Foundation

Southwestern was the recipient of two grants totaling $4,500 from the Esso Foundation in December.

The first was an unrestricted grant of $2,000, which was a portion of the foundation's initial disbursement of $1,466,500 for 1959-60. The second grant of $2,500 for the purchase of laboratory and shop equipment for the science laboratories, came from a distribution of $485,000 designed specifically to aid in the teaching of science.

The Esso Foundation was established in 1955 by Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) and several of its domestic affiliates.

sociated with the college over the years through membership in the Egyptians.

Mrs. Klewer has also been a leader in the community and a close friend of Mrs. A. K. Burrow who, with her husband, gave the Burrow Library to the college.

The collection includes many fine editions—history, fiction, strange and humorous phases of the law, treatises on insects, and a generous sampling of East Indian literature, including a choice first edition of the play "Sakoontala" by Kalidassa, "the Shakespeare of India." The book is richly engraved throughout in Indian design and color, with a profuse use of gold. Mr. Johnson said the only similar copy of which he has found any record is in the British Museum.

to the football game at Crump Stadium and to the Kappa Delta All-Sing.

The Adult Education Center, where coffee and sandwiches were served all morning by a group of faculty wives, was the meeting place, the registration headquarters, and the information center.

Hostesses at the coffee table were Mrs. Peyton N. Rhodes, Mrs. R. P. Richardson, Mrs. John A. Rollow, Mrs. C. L. Springfield, Mrs. Charles I. Diehl, Mrs. Alfred O. Canon, and Mrs. Granville Davis.

Honored guest at the football game was Mayor of Memphis Edmund Orgill, who was a member of Southwestern's executive committee until he became mayor and who received an honorary Doctor of Laws degree from the college in 1956.

Mayor Orgill, who is also a former chairman of Sewanee's board of regents, annually awards the Orgill Trophy to the winner of the Southwestern-Sewanee football game.

The big game fell this year on Parents' Day and the City Commission designated the day as "Ed Orgill Day."

Dr. and Mrs. Peyton N. Rhodes also honored Mayor and Mrs. Orgill at a pre-game luncheon in the college's Bell Room.

Sewanee won the game, 21-19, and carried off the trophy for the third time, which evens the score. Southwestern has also held it three years.

The alumni group which promoted the Crump Stadium game and sale of tickets included Tom Buford '49, George Russell '56, Sam Blair '50, Jimmy Collier '43, Don Ramier '53, Bill Lawson '54, Dr. Arthur Womble '35, and Dr. Tom White '39. Working with them from the college were C. L. Springfield, Bill Maybry, Goodbar Morgan and Rick Mays.

Southwestern Scholarships Will Honor Edmund Orgill

Two Southwestern honorary alumni figure in a new scholarship fund which will aid students studying for careers in government. Both also are past mayors of Memphis.

Friends of Mayor Edmund Orgill, seeking to express gratitude for his service to the city in a way that would please him most, contributed to a fund which will perpetuate his name in aid to needy students at Southwestern. An initial sum of $6,000 was presented to President Peyton N. Rhodes at the time of Mayor Orgill's retirement in December.

The presentation was made by former Mayor Walter Chandler, who instigated the project and is still receiving contributions for it.

Mr. Orgill is a former member of Southwestern's executive committee and both he and Mr. Chandler hold honorary degrees from the college.

Announcing a New Southwestern First— Seminar for Public Responsibility

EDUCATION FOR THE UNEXPECTED

I. Introduction—The World Today

"Anyone who regards an impending war as certain, is helping its occurrence, precisely through his certainty. Anyone who regards peace as certain, grows carefree and unintentionally impels us into war. Only he who sees the peril, and does not for one instant forget it, is able to behave in a rational fashion and to do what is possible to exorcise it."

(KARL JASPERS)

It is very trite but none the less true for speakers and writers to assert today that America stands at the threshold of tremendous challenges and responsibilities. We face the responsibility on the one hand for preparing for a hot war, although we do not know whether this will be a limited war or a war with nuclear weapons. Regardless of any decision which we make in this respect, the preparation for either (or both!) will constitute a serious drain on our economy and budgets of the future. There is also the responsibility of preparing for a thaw in our cold war relationship with the Soviet Union. We are faced with the paradox that it may actually be more dangerous in the long run to attempt to live and compete economically and politically with the U.S.S.R. than it may be to engage them in a war for limited military objectives.

We also recognize the fact that the coming year of 1960 brings us face to face with a presidential election in which several key issues will come before the American voters for decision. We must decide, for example, what policy we shall follow with respect to labor-management relations. How can one maintain labor-management peace when the whole economy is being seriously affected by the failure of two gigantic parties to agree to a reasonable settlement? The steel strike is only one segment of the larger problem in this connection which must be eventually settled. This perhaps leads to a broader issue which is whether or not the American people will agree to some system of economic planning which may conceivably avoid pitfalls of national strikes without at the same time taking us down the road to some form of socialism. The whole problem of negotiating with the Soviet Union will be one of the top issues in our current year. On what basis shall we negotiate? How far may we go in making concessions? Must we also deal realistically and directly with Communist China? What position shall we take with respect to disarmament? And what will be the consequences for our economy if a serious and realistic disarmament program is finally achieved? Perhaps one of the most exasperating problems which we face is that of organizing our scientific and technological skills and techniques so that we can place our national defense effort on a sustained and consistent course.

How then do we prepare ourselves for these issues which we can predict and for the unexpected crises and problems which will inevitably arise to plague us?

II. An Age of Specialization

One of the most significant documents in recent months which has attempted to provide some answers to a few of these questions has been the "Rockefeller Report" on education which is entitled, "The Pursuit of Excellence." This report very clearly points out the tremendous range and complexity of tasks on which our social and economic organization depends today. These tasks have become not only more intricate and demanding in nature, but are also constantly changing in character. The report has reminded us of the fact that technologies become antiquated over night so that it is impossible to identify today the skills that will be needed ten years hence. "Our most critical need a decade hence may be unknown today. Rather we must prepare ourselves for a constant and growing demand for talents of all varieties, and must attempt to meet the specific needs of the future by elevating the quality and quantity of talented individuals of all kinds."

Although we must therefore keep in mind the increasing problems of a highly specialized age, we must not forget the equally important need of "men with enough intellectual and technical competence to deal with the specialists and enough breadth to play more versatile roles—whether as managers, teachers, interpreters, or critics. Such individuals will be drawn increasingly from the ranks of those whose education and experience have included both depth and breadth—who have specialized but have not allowed themselves to become imprisoned in their specialty."

This is the role which Southwestern at Memphis and other liberal arts colleges and universities must play if we are to meet these known and unknown challenges of the future. Through its undergraduate program with its emphasis on the individual and the development of his particular talents through small classes and seminars, the college has stressed the objectives of a liberal education. As the student acquires basic factual data in each field of knowledge, the college encourages the development of his ability to think for himself and to analyze the ideas and techniques which he encounters. Through a study of history, literature, and foreign languages, he may learn to understand and to appreciate his own people and culture and the civilizations of other periods and areas. As he becomes involved in the scientific process, he has an opportunity to explore the world of today and the expanding universe of tomorrow. In the examinations of sociology, economics, psychology, and political science he comes face to face with the difficulties which man experiences in attempting to live with himself and to adjust to other people and his environment in organized society. Ultimately, this liberal education should enable or encourage the student to acquire a standard of values so that his life may have some meaning and direction. In the last analysis, a liberal education has perhaps been a failure unless it can enable a student to answer the questions: "who am I?," "where am I?," and finally, "where am I going in this world in which I must live?"

Since 1955 the college has offered the opportunity to the business leadership of Memphis to develop intellectual curiosity, self-confidence, and the ability to express oneself through a study of reflective thinking, man and his achievements, and American civilization. In this study-discussion program, which is called the Institute for Executive Leadership, the business man is challenged and stimulated to do the creative thinking which not only anticipates social and economic change, but actually helps to bring in the improvements of tomorrow. In such programs as these and others in the Adult Education Center, the Southwestern program of continuing education is designed to offer unlimited opportunities to adults who have come to realize that education is a continuing process which never ends and which must be continued throughout one's life if answers are to be found for the basic questions which one must face.

III. An Informed Citizenry—Education for Public Responsibility

Of tremendous significance, in addition to wise leadership in the social, economic, and technological areas of our life, is the presence of an "informed citizenry." The Rockefeller Report, mentioned previously, recognized the fact that "among the tasks that have increased most frighteningly in complexity is the task of the ordinary citizen who wishes to discharge his civic responsibilities intelligently."

How does the average citizen find time in the midst of civic, business, church, and family responsibilities to inform himself on the crucial issues facing a democracy? How does the citizen express himself and act intelligently to bring about solutions to the problems which his community must resolve? How do we motivate and inspire our designated (i.e., elected) and non-designated leadership to come to grips with a problem and not be suffocated by the boredom, complacency, and habits of mediocrity which so often accompany a high standard of prosperity and a false sense of security? How do we present our people in a democracy with a sense of purpose and a feeling of urgency when security, conformity, and comfort are the accepted goals of an affluent society?

Southwestern at Memphis is attempting to meet this problem with a new program which we have called "The American Alumni Seminar for Public Responsibility." This leadership development program is based on two fundamental propositions: first, that there is an urgent need in each community for dynamic leaders who are aware of the issues which their society faces and who are therefore concerned about the future of their city; and secondly, that the colleges and universities of this country have a definite responsibility to initiate and develop educational services and programs which may offer opportunities for the evolution of such leadership in various communities.

With these concepts in mind, Southwestern at Memphis has invited approximately fifteen of the leading colleges and universities of the nation to join in sponsoring this Seminar. These particular institutions were selected because of the activity of their alumni or alumnae groups in Memphis and in view of their common concern for the development of their former students who are now moving into positions of leadership in local communities throughout the United States.

Each institution and its alumni or alumnae association will designate one or more of its Memphis group as an "alumnus or alumna fellow" in the American Alumni Seminar for Public Responsibility. In each instance the "fellow" will have his or her tuition provided by the alma mater or its local group. In this concrete way the college or university and its alumni organization clearly demonstrate the continuing interest which it has in the intellectual growth of its alumni and its responsibility to challenge its "products" to assume the roles of leadership in the local community which are so urgently needed in this time.

After the alumni fellows are appointed in the spring of 1960, they will be given a set of readings which is being prepared by Dr. Ross Pritchard in the Department of International Studies at Southwestern, in consultation with a group of outstanding experts. The first session of the Seminar will be held from June 17th to 23rd, 1960, at a retreat area in the Mid-South. Lectures and discussions during the six day program will center on three areas: "The World Today," "National Security Problems," and "Community Issues." The purpose of the session is to establish a broad perspective for each area, with a subsequent follow-up investigation of one particular problem in each field during the winter and spring of 1960-61. The summer program also aims at developing a certain critical competence among the alumni fellows in regard to various types of reading material.

Lecturers for the summer program will be Dr. James Hadley Billington, Professor of History and member of the Russian Research Center staff at Harvard University, Dr. Harry Howe Ransom, Associate Director of the Defense Studies Program at Harvard University, and Dr. Gregory Wolfe, Economic Consultant with Arthur D. Little Company, Cambridge, Mass.

In the fall, winter, and spring of 1960-61, the alumni fellows will participate in three conference workshops to be held on the campus of Southwestern at Memphis. These workshops, which will run from Thursday evening through Saturday morning, will deal with a specific problem or issue, such as nationalism, international trade, the underdeveloped areas, the United Nations, inflation, the budget, defense policy, labor-management legislation, city-county consolidation, urban renewal, public education, etc. Both the retreat session and the conferences will employ selected reading material (which will be distributed in advance) and the lecture-discussion method. Observers from the alumni and alumnae groups in Memphis participating in the program will be invited to the three workshops.

It is obvious that this American Alumni Seminar does not provide a "complete education" for the alumni chosen to participate in it. It is hoped, however, that the participants will become more conscious of their responsibilities as leaders in a free democratic society and will return to their homes, business or professional areas, and civic duties with a deeper commitment for public service.

This project might well become a pilot model for other programs in communities, such as Richmond, St. Louis, New Orleans, Atlanta, Birmingham, etc. It is a concept which can obviously be tailored to the needs of a specific area, while providing an increasing group of alumni who are seeking, with the assistance of their alma maters, to prepare themselves for the anticipated and unexpected problems which our local communities may face in the decade ahead.

IV. Summary

Karl Jaspers has written that "The most compelling element in our lives is the fact that we do not know the future, but contribute towards its realization and see it loom before us incalculable in its entirety." It is somewhat axiomatic that we shall determine the course of history—even if we do nothing! We shall inexorably seal our fate if we refuse to accept responsibility for the decisions which our society must make as it emerges into the new "space age." As the Rockefeller Report on Education pointed out so forcefully, we must provide the type of education (both formal and informal, undergraduate and adult) which will give meaning to life—the type of education which will offer our democratic society great objectives and great convictions. Otherwise, we shall settle for shallow and trivial meanings in our prosperous drift towards security, comfort, and luxury.

Southwestern at Memphis and other liberal arts institutions accept as the very cornerstone of their educational program the basic principle of the Rockefeller Report that the individual in a democracy should be free and morally responsible—the two are inseparable. Professor Merle Fainsod of the Harvard Russian Research Center recently closed an address at Duke University with the warning that "The task before us then is not an easy one. It calls for bold and imaginative leadership, steady nerves, and an awareness that we shall be living in the shadow of danger for the rest of our lives." (Bold face mine.) It is in this sobering but stimulating spirit that the liberal arts college attempts to offer the democratic citizen of today education for the unexpected of tomorrow. Its greatest contribution to a free society will be not only the specialist of the space age, but also the informed citizen who has the capacity for moral leadership and public responsibility and the sense of commitment which must be the motivating force for dedicated men and women.

with the Alumni

News has reached the NEWS office belatedly of the death of one of class of '99's most distinguished members, John F. Frierson, lawyer, Bible student and church leader who had made his home in Okolona, Jackson, and Columbus.

"Mr. John," as he was affectionately known to friends all over the state, was with the Mississippi Tax Commission for many years. He remained a scholar throughout his lifetime, and he helped a number of students both at Southwestern and Davidson to complete their college educations.

Mr. Frierson was 81 when he died in December, 1957.

CLASS OF 1899

Dr. Jack P. Montgomery of Tuscaloosa, Ala., was given honorary membership in The American Institute of Chemists at a dinner Sept. 26 in Tuscaloosa. "Dr. Jack," Professor Emeritus of Chemistry at the University of Alabama since his retirement, has been active as consultant, guest lecturer, laboratory researcher, and civic leader. He has also appeared in plays with the Tuscaloosa Little Theatre and University Theatre.

CLASS OF 1901

Deceased: Dr. William Briston Gray of Brownwood, Tex. News of his death was published in The Presbyterian Outlook.

CLASS OF 1929

Luther Southworth and Mrs. Clara Coffield were married in early September at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman W. Siebras, 350 St. Andrews Fairway. Luther is news editor of The Memphis Press-Scimitar. They are at home at 860 Ivy Road.

CLASS OF 1931

Deceased: William Lamar Pittman of Milan, Tenn., Sept. 10, at his home. He was vice president and cashier of Milan Banking Co., a member of Milan Board of Education, chairman of Gibson County Board of Education, a leading member in West Tennessee athletic councils, and interested in Little League baseball and junior golf tournaments. He was also ruling elder of the Milan First Presbyterian Church. He leaves his wife and two sons.

CLASS OF 1932

Dr. Norman B. Gibbs represented Southwestern at Macalester College, St. Paul, Minn., for the inauguration of its new president, Harvey Mitchell Rice. Norman, who received his Ph.D. degree from Duke in 1953, is a member of the faculty at Macalester.

CLASS OF 1933

Harvey Creech has recently been promoted to general sales manager for the E. L. Bruce Company in Memphis. Mr. Creech has been with the company for some 36 years, and was for a time the advertising manager. He is a member of the board of directors and has been marketing manager since 1954.

CLASS OF 1936

William L. Blue, executive director of European affairs for the State Department, was called to special duty in the fall as advisor and liaison officer for the Bureau of European Affairs with the United States delegation to the United Nations. He served a three-month period in this capacity and was present for Khrushchev's United Nations talk.

CLASS OF 1939

S. Shepherd Tate, partner in the law firm of Martin, Tate & Morrow, is the newly elected president of the Memphis and Shelby County Bar Association. John S. Porter '31, is second vice president.

Class baby:

To Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Montgomery, James Abbott, Aug. 15. James has two brothers, Robert Williams, 9, and John Walker, 4. The Montgomerys live in Memphis.

CLASS OF 1941

The Rev. Campbell G. Long of Temple, Okla., was named Oklahoma Rural Minister of 1959 by Progressive Farmer magazine. A scholarship to Emory University's community workshop was included with the honor. Campbell is pastor of the Southwestern Oklahoma Larger Parish, Presbyterian churches in Grandfield, Temple and Waurika. He is also stated clerk of the Washita Presbytery, comprised of 54 churches. He and his wife have five children, Campbell, Jr., Barbara, Beverly, Brenda, and John.

CLASS OF 1942

William R. Maybry, Southwestern's athletic director, has been named assistant director of the Senior Conference at NaCoMe, Tenn., next June, which means that he will, by tradition, succeed to the directorship. Bill is on the Committee of Christian Education of the Synod of Tennessee, teaches a Sunday School Class of first year Juniors at Evergreen Presbyterian Church, where he is also a deacon, and is committeeman for Boy Scout Troop 275. In addition there's his own "youth work" at the home which he and Mrs. Maybry co-habit with Mike, 12, David, 9, and Debbie, 2. He's been on the NaCoMe staff for 10 years.

Class baby:

To Mr. and Mrs. Richard B. Maury, Frances Louise, Jul. 29, in Memphis. Richard and his wife have two other daughters, Mimi, 3 years old, and Anne, 2.

Dr. William R. Atkinson '17, former Southwestern professor who is "Dr. A" to two generations of students now, retired this fall as chief administrator of Miss Hutchison's School for girls, which he and "Mrs. A" have headed for 12 years.

At Hutchison's he has steered the preparatory education of many daughters of his former Southwestern psychology students.

Dr. A. was surprised at his retirement by gifts of a portrait from the student body and a handsome leather lounge chair from the faculty—a symbol of relaxation which is hardly a fact. For he remains as vice chairman of the board and psychological assistant at the school and also is still associated with the Psychological Service Center. There are his active hobbies of gardening and fishing, too.

Mrs. Atkinson (Amelia Appleton '25) is still headmistress at Hutchison's and the new president is Robert D. Lynn. The Atkinsons bought the school in 1947, but it was chartered as an educational foundation five years ago and placed under the administration of a board of trustees.

Dr. Atkinson, after attending Southwestern at Clarksville, got his B.S. degree from Peabody College, an M.A. from Columbia, and then a Ph.D. from Peabody.

The class of '31 is full of distinguished grads and three of these figure in news that has gone the rounds of the campus recently.

Nate White, points out Dr. A. Theodore Johnson, is one of those rare students who knew exactly what he wanted to do and has done it. In college he announced his intention of getting on the staff of The Christian Science Monitor. He is now business and financial editor of that distinguished daily.

Nate recently did a story on the shocking financial plight of most retired college professors, who are poorly paid during their careers but even more poorly compensated in retirement. The story appeared in EMERITI, official news letter of the American Association on Emeriti.

From Atlanta Jefferson Davis writes assurance to Dean of Men Charles I. Diehl that he (Charlie) is, indeed, a "skilled human." The note accompanied a magazine clipping which stated that nobody yet has beaten the electronic tic tac toe game, which Dean Diehl tied in a public demonstration at their class' 25th reunion. "A skilled human can tie it, but he can't beat it," the article says.

Jeff Davis, who is general counsel for Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co., brought the machine to Memphis to accompany his talk on Alumni Day 1956.

Jeff, who practiced law in Mississippi before joining Southern Bell in 1947, also turned author recently to do a feature article entitled "Should I Consult a LAWYER?" for the Southern Telephone NEWS.

CLASS OF 1943

Class baby:

To Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm V. Hinson, Oliver Ann, Aug. 14, in Memphis. The Hinsons also have three sons, James, 9 years old; Billy, 7; and David, 4.

CLASS OF 1944

Class babies

To Dr. and Mrs. John M. Jemison, John Montgomery, Jr., Aug. 20, in Memphis. Jack and his wife also have a daughter, Jill, 2 years old.

To Dr. and Mrs. Ray M. Allen (Julia Wellford '47), Katherine Martin, July 31, in Jackson, Tenn.

CLASS OF 1945

Class baby:

To Dr. ('51) and Mrs. Robert P. Sayle (Georgianne Howard) of Tunica, Miss., Mary Abbey, June 30, in Memphis. Bob and Georgianne have three other children—Robert Peel, Jr., 11 years old; Anne Elizabeth, 9; and Elizabeth Howard, 4 years old.

CLASS OF 1946

Dr. William McDowell Ramsay became on Oct. 1 the Associate Director of Adult Education for the Board of Christian Education. Dr. Ramsay received his Ph.D. from Edinburgh University.

Southwestern Anticipates Another Stellar Spring Sports Showing

With the football equipment all packed away and the basketball gear in full use, Southwestern's spring sports athletes are already beginning to draw their equipment although the first competition is still weeks away.

Coach Derrick Barton's defending state tennis champions are already practicing informally; a host of Coach Freeman Marr's tracksters have begun extensive work despite the brisk weather; Coach Bill Maybry's golf team is already taking its knocks on the Memphis Country Club course, and even a few of Coach Woody Johnson's baseball candidates can be sighted whipping the ball around the gym.

With such interest and enthusiasm mounting, Southwestern can almost be sure of posting another stellar spring sports record. The talented tennis team will be in search of its fourth straight state championship; the track and golf teams will each be striving for another winning season, and the baseball squad expects to enjoy one of its better campaigns.

Last year, the Lynx baseballers were a young team which were downed in late innings with close scores by more experienced clubs. However, with a host of holdovers the Lynx will be a year older and will have the experience which they lacked a year ago.

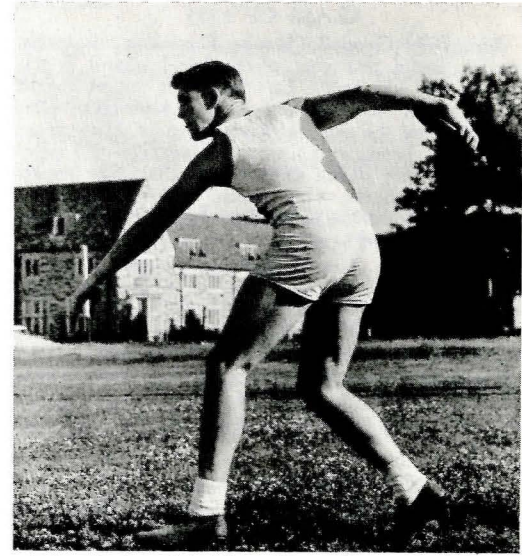

Pitchers Bob Mansfield, Jerry Peters and Sam Drash, infielders Billy Landers, Robert Echols and Robert MacQueen, and outfielders Pat Burke, George McCormick and Gene Botsford, are all returning lettermen. Coach Johnson is also counting heavily on one of Southwestern's top frosh crops which is headed by Buddy McAfee, Jerry Manley, Tommy Johnson and Bob Chaney.

Returning from last year's golf team which was only Southwestern's second winning team since World War II are five of six lettermen. Captain Bill Harris, Ted Mohns, Jim Stowers, Pete Cornish and No. 1 man Stewart Thames are the veterans who will form the nucleus of the squad. Doug Janss tops a list of freshman hopefuls.

Although the track team was hurt heavily through graduation, Coach Marr has a dozen returning lettermen and a large group of promising freshmen on hand. Holdovers are sprinters Glenn Hays and co-captain Tommy Clinton, hurdler Bill Howard, distance runners Travis Casanova, Finis Carrell, Keith Arman and Bert Tuggle, high-jumper Bob Gay, and weight men Ray Henley, Don Pollard, Doug Newman and co-captain Wes Busbee, who last year won the shot put and discus throws in the state meet in which the Lynx finished fourth.

Among the much welcomed freshman candidates are John Frist, Hugh Harwood, Bill Harwood, Kirk Groome, Bill Taylor, Mallory Chamberlain and Roy Wrather. A trio of promising cross country runners who are also counted on to strengthen the team are Frank Weathersby, Richard Ward and Bert Rin-

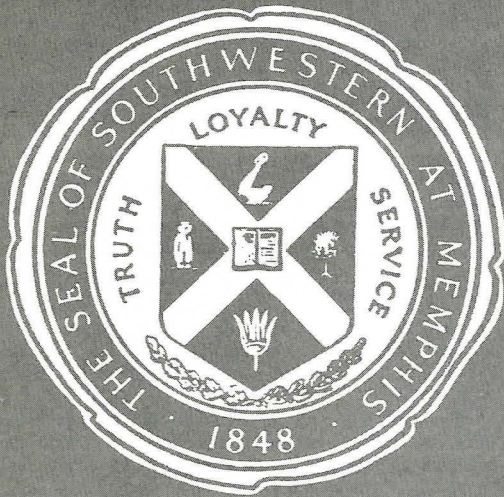

Wes Busbee, Meridian, Miss., junior, is a three-event man, with the discus, shot put and javelin throw all his specialties. He won both discus and shot in the state meet last year.

Coach Derrick Barton's tennis crew has a strong chance of retaining its championship with five of last year's top six men back. Mike Truscott, the South American sensation from Uruguay, heads the list of returnees which includes Bill Davidson, Tommy White, John Daniel and captain George Crabb. Freshman Bill McLean is expected to bolster the already sound outfit.
