Annual Sponsors' Program Campaign Marred by Accident

Dr. Edmund Orgill H'56, 1963 Chairman of the Annual Sponsors' Program, and Dr. Alfred O. Canon, '44, Dean of Development and Alumni, ended a day of solicitation with a "bang" August 19 by being involved in a serious automobile accident in Memphis. Dr. Orgill received four broken ribs plus cuts and bruises; Dean Canon suffered severe lacerations of the face and scalp, requiring plastic surgery, and an injured knee.

Both remained in Baptist Hospital for about a week, then were incapacitated at home for another week to ten days.

The accident, caused, incidentally, by the other driver, culminated a fruitful day for the Annual Sponsors' Program, which presently runs well ahead of the same period of last year. Dr. Orgill and his enthusiastic workers, including many alumni, are to be congratulated for their tireless efforts in this campaign. The significant results of their intense interest and determination are shown in the box totals on this page.

Solar Expedition Termed "Successful"

By Dr. Jack Taylor '44 (Physics Department Chairman)

As part of its continuing program to extend the frontiers of knowledge in the infrared, the Southwestern Physics Department sent an expedition to Gulkana, Alaska to study the total solar eclipse of 20 July, 1963. The Southwestern expedition, consisting of 13 people, was one of the largest to study this recent eclipse. This work was done under contract with the Air Force Cambridge Research Laboratories, and the purpose was to measure the amount of infrared radiation coming from the sun's corona.

Not only does the Physics Department enjoy a well-known reputation in the field of infrared physics, but it has also recently been singled out for national recognition of its undergraduate program for training future physicists in the field of optical physics.

The Physics Department has excellent capabilities for such expeditions as this. In addition to thousands of dollars worth of infrared spectroscopic and optical apparatus, it also has a mobile infrared observatory which can be carried to all parts of the world. It should be pointed out that the idea of such a mobile infrared observatory was conceived, designed and built in the Southwestern Physics laboratories.

The mobile infrared observatory and mobile infrared laboratory were hauled by tractors from Memphis to Seattle where they were put aboard a barge and taken to Anchorage. They were then hauled by tractors to Gulkana (about 180 miles northeast of Anchorage).

The camp site for the expedition was set up next to the air strip which is maintained by the Federal Aviation Agency in Gulkana. Food for the expedition was given by Malone & Hyde (of Memphis) and the camping equipment, including tents, air mattresses, blankets, stoves, etc., was given by Sears-Roebuck & Co. The expedition force remained at Gulkana for three weeks.

Solar Expedition

Five undergraduate physics majors took part in the expedition: Jack Aldridge, Shannon Ball, W. S. Boyd, Charles Brandon and Charles Robertson. Aldridge, Boyd, Brandon and Robertson participated under the National Science Foundation program designed to encourage research during the undergraduate curriculum.

Charles Brandon, who is an amateur radio operator, maintained almost daily radio contact with Memphis. Running the Memphis end of the communications was Mr. Claude Bass, W4DQH, who was most helpful in relaying messages to the wives and mothers and in setting up telephone-patch conversations with them.

During the three weeks, the expedition had a considerable number of visitors, many of whom were scientists who had come to various locations along the path of totality in Alaska to study the eclipse. The expedition was particularly grateful that the Governor of Alaska, William A. Eagan, paid a visit. It would also like to express its appreciation to Mrs. Joseph Fialla, Anchorage representative of International Welcome Wagon, for her generosity and courtesy in Anchorage.

Professors Conduct Seminar

Southwestern professors Dr. Jameson M. Jones, Larry Lacy and Jack Farris conducted a seminar at the Tenth Annual Southern States Faculty Conference at Lake Junaluska, North Carolina, August 26-30 on "Recent Literature with Religious Themes."

This conference, which was jointly sponsored by the Presbyterian Church (U.S.) and the Methodist Episcopal Church, had as its central theme this year "Christian Political Responsibility in the Modern World." The basic intent of this year's conference was to study and think seriously about the responsibilities the university Christian community must accept in time of world turmoil.

Innovation: New Course in Oriental Humanities

A new interdepartmental course entitled "Oriental Humanities" will begin at Southwestern this fall under Dr. James E. Roper and Dr. Robert G. Patterson. Dr. Patterson spent much of his early life in China where his parents were missionaries for many years, returning to this country just before World War II. In the summer of 1962 he was a Fulbright appointee in India where he studied Indian culture and religions at Osmania University in Hyderabad. Professor Roper is a member of the English department at Southwestern.

This course gives an introduction to the literature, philosophy, and religion of the Far East, with some attention to the fine arts. Primarily to broaden the student's liberal education, these courses also offer a useful approach to non-Western culture for the citizen of today's world in which the East is playing an increasingly important role.

The first semester is devoted to India and Persia and the second semester will be devoted to China and Japan. The course will be three hours a week and merits three credits a semester. Credits may be applied toward majors in Bible and Religion, or in English, but is not open to Freshmen.

Nashville Alumni Meeting Well-Attended Schedule of Fall Meetings Announced

A meeting of the Nashville, Tennessee Alumni and parents was held Sunday evening August 11, 1963 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Cooper on Granny White Pike.

The new Southwestern movie was shown, and the highlight of the evening was a showing of color slides taken during the Alaskan Solar Eclipse Expedition by Dr. Taylor; these included some beautiful slides of the Northern Lights received by Dr. Taylor from a fellow scientist in Alaska.

Following the entertainment, members of the group enjoyed refreshments on the terrace of the Cooper's home.

Those attending the meeting included the following: Mrs. A. B. Cooper '30 (Elizabeth Williams) and Mr. Cooper; Mr. and Mrs. James O. Finley '62, x'64 (Mary Lou Carville); Mrs. Alfred Q. Campbell '35 (Dorothy Schoolfield) and Mr. Campbell; Mrs. John C. Hight '50 (Betty Jane Robinson) and her husband, the Reverend Mr. Hight, a Methodist minister; Mrs. M. Wills Oglesby '51 (Mary Jane Millard) and Mr. Oglesby; Mr. Lewis T. Nicholas '34 and Mrs. Nicholas; Mr. J. W. (Jasper) Wood '41; Mr. W. C. Montgomery '29 from Franklin, Tennessee, and Mrs. Montgomery.

Three currently enrolled students from Nashville, Christina Alston, Judy Moody and Arthur F. Klein, Jr., were present.

Also attending from Nashville were Mr. and Mrs. Morton B. Howell, Jr.; Mrs. David Wilson; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Wray; Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Parrent; and Mr. Howard Reed.

Southwestern representatives were Dean of Alumni and Development Alfred O. Canon '44 and wife Betty (Brown '49); Chairman of the Physics Department Dr. Jack Taylor '44 and wife Sara (Sparr x'46); Director of Public Relations Ken Berryhill; and Southwestern Field Representative Brady Puryear '63.

The schedule for Southwestern's Fall Alumni meetings is as follows:

Date	Location	Chairman
Mon. Oct. 7	Chattanooga, Tenn.	Richard Park
Tues. Oct. 8	Huntsville, Ala.	Frank Perrin
Wed. Oct. 9	Columbia, Tenn.	William Dale
Thurs. Oct. 10	Florence, Ala.	Wayne Todd
Sun. Oct. 20	Decatur, Ala.	Joe Walker
Mon. Oct. 21	Jackson, Tenn.	John Reilly
Tues. Oct. 22	Jackson, Miss.	James C. McNees
Wed. Oct. 23	Mobile, Ala.	John Crowell
Thurs. Oct. 24	New Orleans, La.	Ed Stock
Mon. Nov. 4	Clarksville, Tenn.	Ed Atkinson
Tues. Nov. 5	Louisville, Ky.	Henry Mobley
Wed. Nov. 6	Nashville, Tenn.	Morton Howell

Mon. Nov. 11	Little Rock, Ark.	J. H. Bowen
Wed. Nov. 13	Shreveport, La.	Mrs. William Hall
Thurs. Nov. 14	Greenville, Miss.	Frank England
Mon. Nov. 18	Dallas, Texas	John M. (Mike) Quinn
Wed. Nov. 20	Houston, Texas	Don A. Ramier, Jr.

New Members to Hall of Fame to Be Announced

Robert A. Elder '40, President of the Southwestern Alumni Association, announces that selections for the Hall of Fame from classes 1926 through 1937 will be revealed at the luncheon on Homecoming Day November 2.

Normally selections are made as the class celebrates its 25th anniversary; however, this anniversary had passed for each class between 1926 and 1937 before the Hall of Fame was established. The selections to be announced at Homecoming this fall, based on 5% of each class, will bring the Hall of Fame up to date. Those from the Class of 1939 are to be announced at Alumni Day next spring.

Adult Education Center Celebrates Tenth Anniversary Harding Announces Fall Courses

This fall marks the TENTH ANNIVERSARY of the opening of the Adult Education Center on the ground floor of Burrow Library at Southwestern. Appropriately, an anniversary celebration was held on Tuesday, September 24 at 8:00 p.m. Following this, on Monday, September 30, Dr. Jack H. Taylor, Professor of Physics, gave a report on the ALASKAN SOLAR EXPEDITION which several faculty members and students made to study the sun's atmosphere during the July 20 solar eclipse. Dr. Taylor was introduced by President Peyton N. Rhodes, who was also a member of the expedition. Slides, tape and film were used in the presentation of the exciting scientific discoveries made by the group.

May Maury Harding, Director of Programs for the Adult Education Center, announces that many new study discussion courses will begin this fall.

Dr. Granville D. Davis, Dean of Continuing Education, will lead discussions of "The Essential Lippmann," a new collection of writings by one of America's leading political theorists, on alternate Monday nights beginning October 7. He will also conduct a course centered on Lawrence's "The Seven Pillars of Wisdom" on successive Monday mornings beginning October 14.

"Exploring the Universe," a study of scientific processes and the political and philosophical issues involved in the growth of modern science, will be offered on alternate Tuesday nights beginning September 30 under the leadership of Frank E. Faux and H. R. Graham, Jr.

"The Film Takes a Stand" will feature ten motion pictures concerned with important problems and issues. It will meet on alternate Thursdays beginning October 3 under the guidance of Professor Ray Hill. There will be both morning and evening sections.

Morning and evening sections of "Approaches to the Arts" will also be offered, the evening group on Mondays beginning October 7 and the morning group on Tuesdays beginning October 8. Leaders are Professors Lawrence Anthony and Ray Hill.

"Aeschylus Through Disney: A Study of the Tragic Tradition in Drama" is set for Tuesday mornings beginning October 1 and will be led by Mrs. Samuel M. Tickle, instructor in English at Southwestern.

"Contemporary Moral Issues," a new discussion series prepared under the auspices of the University of California, will meet on Tuesdays beginning October 1 with an afternoon group led by Frank E. Faux and an evening group led by Mrs. Henry Boudolf beginning October 8.

"The Individual in Modern Society," combining articles by social scientists with novels, will be led by Mrs. Boudolf and Mrs. H. R. Graham, Jr., on alternate Tuesday nights beginning October 1.

Dr. Quincy Wolf, Professor of English, is conducting a course on folklore and folk music on Thursday nights, which began on September 26; and Professor Ray Hill and Mrs. Marvin Ratner are leading a survey of German literature on alternate Thursday mornings which began on September 26.

"Understanding the Bible" will be led by professors of the Department of Bible and Religion at Southwestern including Dr. Fred W. Neal, Dr. Robert G. Patterson, Dr. Milton P. Brown and Dean Jameson M. Jones. It will meet on Wednesday nights beginning October 2.

"The City: A Search for Meaning" will seek answers to problems of urban living. Frank E. Faux will lead the discussions, which will be based on both modern and ancient writings, beginning Monday, October 14.

In addition to the above mentioned discussion groups the Adult Center conducts The Institute for Executive Leadership, The Memphis Urban Policy Institute and the Great Books Program. It assists organizations in planning and obtaining leadership for study-discussion programs, and from time to time throughout the year presents outstanding lectures, panels and films.

To be placed on the Center's mailing list to receive the brochure giving full details about courses and programs offered, call 274-6606 or write: The Adult Education Center, Southwestern at Memphis, 2000 North Parkway, Memphis, Tennessee, 38112.

Homecoming and Parents' Day Set for November 2nd

Dr. Ray M. Allen '44, Southwestern's new Dean of Admissions, announces an event-packed schedule for the combined Homecoming and Parents' Day on November 2, 1963.

8:30-9:30 a.m.—Registration and Coffee—Adult Education Center (lower level of Burrow Library) sponsored by Southwestern Women's Club.

9:00 a.m.—Judging of Fraternity and Sorority Homecoming displays.

9:30-10:15 a.m.—Faculty Seminars:

1. Department of Psychology, featuring Dr. E. L. Queener. This includes a dramatic presentation of a parent-student situation.
2. "The Alaskan Solar Eclipse Expedition," featuring Dr. Jack Taylor. Movies and slides will be shown, followed by a discussion period.
3. "The Ancient and Modern in the Near East," featuring Dr. John Davis, who has just returned from Israel.

10:15-11:00 a.m.—Faculty members in assigned locations for consultation and conversation with parents.

11:00-11:30 a.m.—Movie on "Southwestern" in Hardie Auditorium.

11:30 a.m.-1:00 p.m.—Lunch followed by Dr. Peyton N. Rhodes' speech. (Sponsored jointly by the Southwestern Men of Memphis and Southwestern Women of Memphis for Alumni and parents.)

Students are invited to eat with their parents at this luncheon. $1.00 per person. No charge for boarding students. Neely Mallory Memorial Gymnasium.

1:30 p.m.—Buses will be available to take Alumni, parents, students and friends to Hodges Field for the Homecoming Football Game.

2:00 p.m.—Football Game—Hodges Field
Southwestern vs Sewanee
Adults $1.50—Children 50c

4:30-6:30 p.m.—Fraternity and Sorority Open Houses and Snacks sponsored by the Alumni and parents of fraternity and sorority members.

Independent Club Open House—Tuthill Hall.

8:00-12 midnight—Homecoming Dance—Mallory Gymnasium. (Alumni and Parents' participation encouraged through floor show and talent contest.)

Dance sponsored by the Student Body.

1963-64 Session Under Way

CLARK E. McDONALD '38, shows daughter Ketti Kathleen around the Campus. Miss McDonald, from Arlington, Virginia, entered as a freshman in September.

From the Ivy-Covered Tower

By Alfred O. Canon, '44, Dean of Alumni and Development

"What a change! I hardly know the place!"

This is the typical comment of alumni (especially those of the pre-1949 era) who return to the campus for a visit in 1963. Things have changed. The original impressive structures—Palmer Hall, Neely, Science, Robb, White (formerly Calvin)—have mellowed with the growth of ivy and the passage of time, but these are now surrounded by a dozen new buildings in the same Gothic pattern which completely change the face of the campus.

In these days of the inflated New Frontier dollar, it may amaze alumni to recall that the five original buildings were constructed at a total cost of less than $900,000. At the end of World War II Ellett Hall for men and Voorhies Hall for women were built for approximately $560,000.

Dr. Canon

In the ten-year period 1953-1963, however, ten buildings were added for a construction cost of $4,000,000. These included the Burrow Library (1953), Mallory Memorial Gymnasium (1954), three residence halls (Townsend, 1955, East, 1960, and Bellingrath, 1961), Catherine Burrow Refectory (1957), Moore Moore Infirmary (1962), Tuthill Hall (1962), Richard Halliburton Memorial Tower (1963), and the Tower Building (1963). In addition, the President's residence at 671 West Drive was purchased in 1956, and other relatively less expensive facilities were constructed or acquired.

Physical change has been only a part of the transformation which the college has undergone. An example of the changing pattern is the composition of the student body. In 1949, just after the influx of G.I.'s and prior to the decline brought about by the Korean War, 671 students were enrolled. Of this group 235 (men and women) lived on campus with 436 commuting from their Memphis homes. With an upper limit of 1,000 or 1,100 contemplated as the optimum future enrollment, the Admissions Committee has allowed a gradual expansion of the freshman class until the total student body reaches about 850 this fall. Of this number, however, 500 will reside on campus with the remainder living in the city. This obviously represents a shift in the number of resident students from 35% to 59%.

As part of the selective admissions process of the late 50's and early 60's, the College Entrance Examination was initiated in 1957. The "board scores" are used as one factor in an admissions formula which includes high school grades, class standing, recommendations of principals and other factors. An indication of the steady increase in the "intellectual level" of the freshman class may be found in the average verbal and mathematical scores of the entering classes for the years shown below:

	1957	1959	1960	1961	1962
Verbal	475	490	520	527	531
Math	488	505	524	539	546

With rising costs of food, services, utilities, etc., and the urgent necessity to increase faculty salaries to a more competitive level, the cost of a college education has steadily risen, although not at a rate comparable to many other goods and services in an inflationary period. For example, the Southwestern student in 1949 paid approximately $1,000 in tuition, room and board; the residence hall student in 1963-64 will pay about $1,700, which represents a 70% increase over a 14-year period.

The faculty has also changed in several respects. In 1949-50 there were 47 regular full-time academic faculty members with 51% holding the Ph.D. degree. In the 1963-64 session there will be 60 on the faculty of professorial rank of which 68% will have their doctorates. Eighteen of the 1949 faculty remain, approximately half of the present faculty being added in the past six or eight years as the result of retirements or additions to expanded departments.

Alumni are undoubtedly aware of the tremendous effort which President Rhodes and the Board of Directors have made in recent years in bringing faculty salaries to a more adequate basis. The salary of the full professor has been increased almost 250% from 1950 to 1963. In addition, the Board has added a major medical insurance plan which is of great benefit to faculty members and their dependents. Unfortunately, in one sense, other colleges have also increased salaries in the same period to such an extent that Southwestern salaries are probably still on an average with other liberal arts colleges, but are certainly not higher than the average.

As the college has expanded in physical facilities, student body, faculty, curriculum, etc., the administrative structure has reflected the changes in several ways:

1. Since 1949 a complete admissions organization has evolved with the addition of an Admissions Counselor, a Field Representative, and the Dean of Admissions.
2. In 1953 the Adult Education Center was created to develop facilities, personnel, and programs for discussion groups, lectures, film series, etc., which now attract over 2,500 adults to the campus each year. The Center staff at present consists of the Dean of Continuing Education, the Coordinator of Mass Media, and the Director of Programs, with other faculty and administrative people serving in a part-time capacity.
3. In 1956 a Vocational Guidance Center was established to provide counseling services for Southwestern students as well as for high school seniors in the Presbyterian Church of the four synods which help support the college. A Director and an Assistant Director of the Center administer the program and offer tests, interviews and counseling to over 500 high school students during the year, sent to the center by their local churches.
4. In 1951 the Office of Development was created to coordinate the public relations and fund-raising activities which had formerly been handled by the Secretary of Public Relations. The office now has responsibility for alumni activities, church relations, publicity, and all fund-raising programs such as the Annual Sponsors' Program, Loyalty Fund, etc. It also cooperates with the Admissions Office in organizing the student recruitment activities of the Alumni Advisory Committees of 20 cities throughout seven states. At the present, the Office of Development is staffed by the Dean of Alumni and Development, the Director of Public Relations and the Director of Alumni Affairs.

While some of these changes have been apparent to the alumnus, the most fundamental evolution at Southwestern has been in the curriculum—courses, content, and technique. When one compares the bulletin of 1949 with that of 1963, he may note that geography has been dropped; Latin and Greek are now combined in a Department of Classics; and the old Department of Fine Arts has become the Department of Art with a major offered. The two new additions which reflect the change in our total world outlook are the Departments of International Studies and Russian. A major is not offered in the latter subject, but it obviously becomes increasingly significant as one of the modern languages with which one must deal. Several graduates with majors in International Studies have entered the diplomatic service, and courses in the area are sought by many students who will major in other subjects such as history, economics, etc.

With the increased interest in the non-Western world, more attention is now being directed at Southwestern (as well as at many other colleges and universities) to courses involving the culture, history, literature, language, and politics of such areas as India, China, Japan, etc. In 1963-64, six semester hours of courses in Oriental Humanities will be offered in what may become the basis for an expanded course comparable to Man in the Light of History and Religion, which is concentrated largely on the history of religion and philosophy of Western civilization.

There is not sufficient space at this point to outline the tremendous changes which have taken place within the course content of such subjects as mathematics and physics. Entire courses in some cases have been rewritten or replaced and new ones added. New teaching methods have been adopted: in the languages with use of tapes plus conversation laboratories and in other subjects such as the Man Course, Senior Bible, etc., with discussion groups of 15 to 25 students supplementing and individualizing the large lecture section.

Another change in the teaching of science has been the increased emphasis on research. In the last six years a series of grants from the Air Force Cambridge Laboratories, the National Science Foundation, the National Institutes of Health, and other sources has enabled the college to add at least seven persons to the science faculty and staff and to acquire much additional laboratory equipment. The research projects not only provide important services to the nation and to the local community but also stimulate and challenge the teacher-researcher and his students. Although the research could be justified on the basis of a "pure quest for knowledge," without any practical applications, one of the most important consequences is the intellectual atmosphere which it creates on a liberal arts college campus. (Note elsewhere in this issue an announcement of new grants in this area.)

This has been an impressive record of change and achievement. It is a tribute to many people including President Emeritus Charles E. Diehl, who accepted the challenge to develop a first-rate liberal arts college in this community in spite of the obvious obstacles which had to be overcome during the 1920's and 30's. It would be impossible to record the names of those who labored faithfully over the years to build up the endowment, pay off existing debts and somehow go on to construct new buildings and to recruit the excellent faculty which has always distinguished the college from average or mediocre institutions. Of course, the names of Mallory, Neely, Voorhies, Ellett, Burrow, Bellingrath, Halliburton and others will stand out through the centuries as a mark of devotion to the finest in Christian higher education through the landmarks which they established.

Acknowledgment can never be made adequately, moreover, to the thousands of alumni, business leaders, church members and other interested friends who sustained the college in its most difficult days through their annual gifts. A few brief figures tell this story so graphically:

In the fiscal year 1949, the church in the four supporting synods contributed $31,119.61; in the last fiscal year for which records are complete, 1962, the church gave $149,481.81. In 1949, approximately 400 Southwestern alumni gave $3,165.50 to the Loyalty Fund. Last year (1962) 1,287 alumni contributed $44,926.45. From 1946 to 1959 a relatively small group of business firms and "friends of the college" made annual contributions totaling from $10,000 to $40,000. These funds were essential in a most difficult time when enrollment of students was down due to the Korean War and other factors and the budget was in the red each

New Director of Public Relations

Mrs. Ballenger

Ken Berryhill has been named Director of Public Relations for Southwestern, succeeding Mrs. E. G. Ballenger, who ably served as News Director for a number of years. Mrs. Ballenger, who resigned in June, will be missed by all of those associated with her; but it is anticipated that she will continue to be active in campus activities.

Mr. Berryhill received his B.A. in English Literature from Vanderbilt University and comes to Southwestern with a varied background in radio, television and newspaper. He grew up just off of the Southwestern campus and was a member of Evergreen Presbyterian Church for many years. Father of two boys (Wayne 8 and Dale 5), he is married to the former Mary Lea Morris of Ripley, Tennessee. Ken was an ATO while a student at Vanderbilt.

June in spite of curtailed expenditures and faculty salaries which were far too low.

In 1960 the Annual Sponsors' Program was initiated under the able leadership of the college's executive committee and Dr. R. P. Richardson '17, Vice President for Development. With gifts from 430 firms and individuals in 1960 reaching a total of $109,430, the program has been progressively expanded until over 800 donors have contributed already in 1963 for a total of $140,000.

It would be quite misleading, however, to paint the picture of change and growth only in terms of buildings, grants, budgets, and contributions. The true educational progress of any great institution is measured by its teaching faculty and administrative leadership. Time and space again do not allow the opportunity at this point to record the quiet but effective contributions of men such as Kelso, Shoemaker, Cooper and many others who have really made Southwestern what it is today. When a definitive history of Southwestern at Memphis can be written for this period (i.e. 1926-1963), these teachers will be among the central figures in the narrative.

The remarkable achievements of the post-World War II era, however, reflect the vision, energy, and executive ability of one who has given practically his entire adult career to this institution. As professor of physics from 1926 to 1949 and president since that time, Peyton N. Rhodes, has been a part of the progress just outlined. A man of considerable charm, wit, and tact, he along with Sidney W. Farnsworth, Chairman Emeritus of the Board and A. Van Pritchard, the present Chairman of the Board has guided the destiny of the college at a time when the greatest building program has been carried out, over 42 current faculty members appointed, and the financial status of the college vastly improved.

He has also consistently held before faculty, students, and supporters of the college the vision of genuineness and excellence which has guided the growth of Southwestern since its Clarksville days. The integrity and beauty of the architecture, the character and quality of the faculty, and the significant educational contributions which the college has made to Memphis and the Mid-South are the results of dedicated time and talent which President Rhodes and his colleagues on the Board and administrative staff have generously contributed to the college.

These are the reasons why the returning alumnus remarks today—"How things have changed!" Southwestern—like any good college or university—is in a constant state of change. It cannot be anything less than a dynamic institution which reflects in its curriculum and campus life the modern world in which change is inevitable. It has been consistent, however, to its basic principles which form the only true foundation on which a church-related college of liberal arts and sciences can be erected.

FACSIMILE OF GUTENBERG BIBLE

Funds received by the Southwestern Burrow Library in memory of the late Dr. Alexander P. Kelso have been used to purchase a magnificent facsimile edition of the famous Gutenberg Bible, according to Albert M. Johnson, Librarian.

Of the original edition of the two hundred copies, only forty-seven are definitely known to be in existence, and so rare and costly have these become that a single page brings around $600 in the rare book market.

The Gutenberg Bible, the first major book in the West to be printed from movable type, was produced between the years 1450 and 1455. This majestic first printing of the Book of Books was characterized by superb press work, a distinguished Gothic type face, and elaborately beautiful illumination. In 1956, the directors of Cooper Square Publishers undertook to recreate this book for posterity. In order to assure the finest reproduction possible, they devoted themselves untiringly for over five years to the undertaking, and limited the edition to 996 copies. The result attests to the excellence of American craftsmanship.

This book, like the original, should endure for centuries, and is an eminently fitting memorial to Dr. Kelso. It is presently on display at Southwestern's Burrow Library.

SW Grants Show Impressive Total

President Peyton N. Rhodes announces that Southwestern at Memphis has been named recipient of a $98,000.00 research grant from the National Institute of Arthritis and Metabolic Diseases.

Principal investigator named in the grant is Dr. Harold Lyons of the Southwestern Chemistry Department, who is utilizing the funds for extensive research in the chemical changes involved in "slipped discs," as well as the chemistry involved in the normal aging process of the discs. Since the study involves typical connective tissue components, the results obtained in this study could cast new light on the normal aging process as well as a number of degenerative diseases of other parts of the body.

Dr. Lyons points out that "slipped discs" under study are those which occur without apparent outside cause.

This outstanding grant is a continuation of the $56,000.00 in project support allocated Dr. Lyons three years ago by the same agency. This additional grant will support the research for the next 6 years. Also announced by President Rhodes is a grant awarded to Dr. Helmuth M. Gilow, Associate Professor of Chemistry, on synthesis of potential anti-cancer agents in the amount of $6,429.00. This is the second year of the grant received from the National Institutes of Health which is a part of Health Education and Welfare. Dr. Gilow will use part-time student help during the school year and one full time student during the summer. About fifteen or twenty of the samples prepared by Dr. Gilow are being tested for anti-cancer activity.

For the fiscal year 1962-63, besides sizable bequests made to Southwestern, we have also received the following grants:

- $25,000.00—Ford Motor Co. Fund.
- 5,000.00—Union Carbide Educational Fund—science in general.
- 5,000.00—E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.—any aspect of chemistry.
- 3,500.00—Esso Education Foundation—Chemistry equipment.
- 8,787.50—Three alumni made matching gifts equaling a $12,000.00 National Science Foundation grant for chemical equipment made in May, 1962.
- 8,500.00—National Science Foundation equipment grant for biology which must be matched.
- 12,000.00—Research Corporation—for any use to strengthen the chemistry department.
- 1,650.00—Research Corporation—Assistance to eclipse expedition.
- 15,450.00—National Science Foundation grant for student summer research in Biology, Chemistry and Physics. (11 students involved).
- 10,540.00—National Science Foundation Institutional grant to strengthen any phase of science.

Southwestern Women of Memphis

Meetings of the Southwestern Women of Memphis for the coming year have been announced by Club President Mrs. John W. Flowers (Sarah Loaring-Clark '51).

Slated for Thursday October 3 is a dessert meeting at the A O Pi House at 1:30 p.m., while the other meetings are scheduled for Friday January 31 and Tuesday March 31.

The Evergreen Presbyterian Church Nursery will be available for all meetings.

Officers for Southwestern Women of Memphis: (l to r) Mrs. Jack C. Jayroe (Virginia Clifton '29), treasurer; Mrs. James L. Ries (Julia Marie Schwinn '34), vice-president; Mrs. Robert O. Blecken (Ann DeWar '50), secretary; and Mrs. John W. Flowers (Sarah Loaring-Clark '51), president.

New Professors and Staff Members

With the beginning of the 115th session Southwestern welcomes 16 new Professors.

Mrs. Miriam E. Buckman joined the faculty as Lecturer in Anthropology. She received her B.S. degree from Eastern Mennonite College and M.A. from University of Chicago. Mrs. Buckman's father was a missionary and she spent fifteen years in Africa as a child. Mrs. Buckman and her husband, Robert, have one child and attend Raleigh Presbyterian Church.

Joseph Franklin Carroll will be Assistant Professor of French. He received his B.A. degree from the University of Virginia and M.A. from Princeton and was a graduate assistant in instruction at Princeton. He received the Lincoln Foundation Scholarship and Dupont Scholar at the University of Virginia and the Herbert Montgomery Bergen Fellow at Princeton. Professor Carroll is married and has one child.

John Harlan Christy, a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a candidate for the Ph.D. at Vanderbilt will be an assistant professor of mathematics. During the summers of 1959 and 1960 he did research work in the theoretical physics division of the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory at Los Alamos, New Mexico. He and his wife, Nancy Carol have one child, Katherine Anne.

Dr. Ray Maxwell Allen, a Southwestern graduate of 1944 comes back to the college this month as dean of admissions and associate professor of Bible and religion. Dr. Allen is an ordained member of the Methodist ministry. After graduation from Southwestern, he went to Duke University and earned both B.D. and Ph.D. degrees. While there he directed the Methodist Student Movement and served several rural churches in North Carolina. Later he combined teaching and ministry as assistant professor of religion and director of religious life at Wofford College in Spartanburg, S. C. and, in Memphis as associated pastor of St. Luke's Methodist Church and director of the Wesley Foundation at Memphis State University. He returned to Memphis from Jackson, Tennessee where he had been a professor of religion and philosophy at Lambuth College since 1956. Dr. Allen is married to the former Julia Wellford, also a Southwestern graduate, and they have three children, Julia, Ray, Jr., and Katherine.

Athletic Department

William R. Maybry
Director of Physical Education and Athletics

Veteran Director of Athletics, William R. Maybry, ably co-ordinates all athletic activities on campus and successfully encourages the participation of virtually every student. He is also head golf coach and cross country coach. A 1942 graduate of Southwestern, he received his M.A. degree in Physical Education from George Peabody College in Nashville. Coach Maybry is secretary-treasurer of the College Athletic Conference and a member of the NCAA Basketball Tournament Selection Committee. Active in community and church affairs, Coach Maybry has been on the staff of NaCoMe Senior Conference for eleven years. A member of Second Presbyterian Church, he also does Sunday School and Boy Scout work. His hobbies include golf, bridge and gardening. He and his wife, the former Dona Kraemer, have three children, Michael, David and Debbie.

The intercollegiate athletic program is an integral part of the total educational picture. It is the responsibility of the Department of Physical Education, which has the same structural relationship to the college as the fully academic departments have.

Athletics are viewed as a part of the student's entire college experience rather than as an obsessive goal in themselves. Both intercollegiate and intramural programs are designed to provide the student with maturing experiences in team activity. The athletic program is encouraged without overemphasis or sacrifice of educational objectives and conducted in strict compliance with the rules of the college, the College Athletic Conference, and the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Southwestern policy requires an athlete to meet the same entrance requirements and maintain the same scholastic standards as other students. Southwestern coaches exemplify the educational background and spirit that they are attempting to develop in the young men they are training. "We realize that athletics can be the show window of a college. We want our teams to be a cross-section of the student body and to reflect the progress made by Southwestern in its basic function—of educating our youth."

The aim of our physical education program is to interest each student in at least one indoor and one outdoor recreative sport or activity that will have carry-over value in his post college days.

Intramurals is an integral part of any full sports program. It is that phase of the program that affords competition to those unable to make a varsity team.

Southwestern at Memphis believes that a full varsity athletic program is an integral part of a college student's life. Bearing this in mind the college has geared its athletics to include students and students only. There are no athletic scholarships offered at Southwestern. The teams are composed of athletes who play for the love of playing. This does not mean that the athletic program is not emphasized, as we have competent coaches, excellent equipment, and full schedules in seven sports: football, cross country, basketball, track, baseball, golf and tennis. The Athletic Budget comes from the General College Fund.

Southwestern's intramural program includes 12 sports: flag ball, basketball, softball, volleyball, track, golf, badminton, hand ball, Ping-pong, horseshoes, and tennis plus an indoor athletic meet. This is to afford competitive activity for those students not engaged in varsity athletics. It is set up on fraternity and independent group basis, except for the school tournaments which include Ping-pong, badminton, handball, tennis, golf and horseshoes.

Two years of physical education are required for graduation from Southwestern. Recreational type activities are offered in the physical education courses with the idea of giving each student enrolled in PE the skills and interests in a sport which has carry over value that may be pursued after completion of the course. Tennis, golf, handball, badminton, volleyball, bowling, softball, track, weight lifting, physical fitness and judo are offered in Physical Education.

Physical education and intramurals continued to meet the need of the bulk of the male enrollment for physical fitness and competitive activity. In 1962-63 the Athletic Department of Southwestern reached 433 men out of 472 men enrolled in college for a percentage of 90%.

College Athletic Conference—Starts second year with memories of a very successful first year of operation. To win the conference championship is now the aim of every coach and every athlete on Southwestern's campus.

Football—Round Robin
Basketball—Feb. 20, 21, 22 at Southwestern
Spring Sports—May 8, 9 at Centre

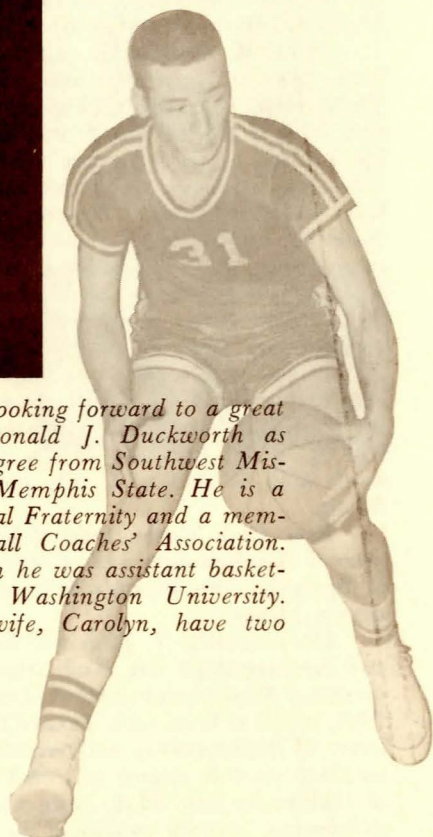

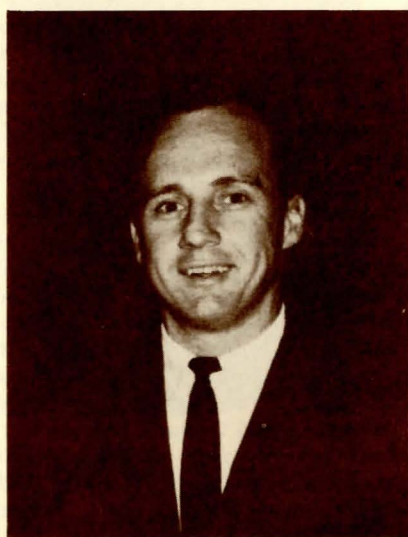

Southwestern's new head coach for football and baseball is enthusiastic and determined Jesse L. Johnson, who comes to us from Arkansas State where he has been assistant football coach for the past seven years. He is looking forward to increased interest in football and baseball in the coming season and leans heavily upon the support of alumni in seeking prospects for both teams. Coach Johnson received his B.S. and M.A. degree from Arkansas State and is a member of American Coaches Association, Phi Delta Kappa and National Educational Association. He is married and has two children. He enjoys golf, fishing and baseball.

Freeman Carl Marr begins his 9th season as Coach of Track at Southwestern having had two undefeated seasons. He attended Sewanee and Southwestern and received his LLB degree from Southern Law University and is a member of ODK. While at Southwestern he was a member of SAE and on the track team that went to Purdue, Kansas and Texas relays. The team ranked nationally in the mile relay at that time and still holds the Southwestern mile relay record. Since he has been track coach at Southwestern, his team has broken and tied records in high jump, broad jump, javelin, 440 yard dash, 880, mile, 2 mile, 220, high and low hurdles. He and his wife, Nelda, have three children and are members of St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

William Derrick Barton has been tennis coach at Southwestern for eleven years and has a record of winning ten consecutive years. He was born in London, England and attended Southwest College there. Coach Barton was tennis coach at Davidson College for five years before coming to Southwestern. He is also Athletic Director at the University Club of Memphis and a member of the Memphis Rotary Club. He and his wife, Martha, have one child. He enjoys handball, squash and golf.

The athletic department is looking forward to a great season of basketball with Donald J. Duckworth as coach. He received his B.S. degree from Southwest Missouri State and M.A. from Memphis State. He is a member of Kappa Alpha Social Fraternity and a member of the National Basketball Coaches' Association. Before coming to Southwestern he was assistant basketball and football coach at Washington University. Coach Duckworth and his wife, Carolyn, have two children.

New Professors

Donald J. Duckworth comes to Southwestern as coach of basketball from Washington University where he was assistant basketball and football coach. He received his B.S. degree from Southwest Missouri State and M.A. from Memphis State. He is a member of Kappa Alpha Social Fraternity and a member of the National Basketball Coaches' Association. Coach Duckworth and his wife, Carolyn, have two children.

William Rolland Hackleman will be an instructor and research associate in physics. He received his B.S. degree at Southwestern and M.S. from the University of North Carolina. He graduated with honors in physics from Southwestern and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and associate member of Sigma Xi.

Jesse L. Johnson comes to Southwestern as Coach of baseball and football from Arkansas State College where he was assistant football coach there for seven years. He received his B.S. and M.A. degrees from Arkansas State College, is a member of American Coaches Association, Phi Delta Kappa and National Educational Association. He and his wife have two children.

Marshall Phillip Jones, a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Southwestern in 1959 with a B.S. degree and honors in mathematics, will be an assistant professor of mathematics. He is a candidate for the Ph.D. degree at the University of Virginia where he is studying on a National Science Co-operative Fellowship. Professor Jones and his wife, Lynn, who is a Southwestern graduate of 1959 also, have one child, a boy, John Marshall Jones.

Dr. David Henry Likes comes to Southwestern as Associate Professor of International Studies, bringing with him a diversified background of studies of the Middle East and NATO. He recently retired as director of the Concepts Division of the Air Force's Aerospace Institute at Maxwell Air Force Base, Alabama. He did his undergraduate work at Johns Hopkins University and received his master's and doctorate from Georgetown University. Dr. Likes has worked extensively in the war plans division of the Air Force and was a member of the planning staff for the Normandy Invasion. His first book "Role of Air Power in Guerrilla Warfare" was published in July, 1963. He is married and has two teenage daughters.

Dr. W. Theodore May will be Psychological Consultant at Southwestern this year. He is also associated with Gailor Psychiatric Hospital here in Memphis as teacher, in research, diagnosis and treatment. Dr. May received his B.S. degree from the College of the City of New York and Ph.D. from University of Tennessee. He was Assistant Professor of Psychology at University of Tennessee Medical College for a number of years.

Julius W. Melton, Jr. an ordained Presbyterian minister who holds the B.A. degree from Mississippi College, the B.D. and Th.M. from Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Virginia and M.A. from Princeton will be an assistant professor of Bible. He studied at the graduate school of Ecumenical Studies of the University of Geneva, Switzerland. He is a member of the American Society of Church History, Presbyterian Historical Society and National Association of Biblical Instructors. He and his wife, Ann, have one child, Mary Cambria Melton.

Class of 1894

DECEASED: Dr. John W. Dicks, Glenspring Road, Wilmington, Del., on March 3, 1963.

Class of 1902

DECEASED: John W. Childress '02, of Washington, D.C., who died June 21, had many distinctions in his later life, but one achieved at Southwestern was dear to his heart—that of having captained Southwestern's first football team in 1898.

Mr. Childress, who was 84 when he died, retired five years ago from his post as public relations man with the U.S. Steamship Line. Before that he had been in the real estate business, been associated with the Emerson Pump Co. in Alexandria, Va., and had helped organize the Home-Owners Loan Corp.

In 1958 Mr. Childress sent Southwestern a treasured photograph of his undefeated team, which appeared in the Southwestern News along with some of his reminiscences. He also played on the baseball team during 1899, was a well rounded athlete who was still playing golf in his 80's and retained an active interest in sports, and in the college, until his death. He attended several meetings of Washington's Southwestern Club in recent years.

He leaves his wife, two daughters, Mrs. William Urquhart of Washington and Mrs. Gray Foster of Palm Beach, a brother, Avert Childress of Scarsdale, N.Y., four grandchildren, and a niece, Mrs. John C. Tune, Sr. of Nashville.

Class of 1910

Dr. Haller S. Henderson, 1910 graduate of Southwestern, and retired Presbyterian minister of Tutwiler, Mississippi died August 24th. Dr. Henderson was a straight A student at Southwestern and received his Honorary Doctor's Degree in 1948. Rev. Denton O'Dell, only other remaining 1910 graduate, was visiting minister.

During his lifetime Dr. Henderson was Moderator of Mississippi Presbyterian Synod, Head of Presbyterian Young People's Conference of Tennessee, Secretary-Treasurer of Home Mission Committee, Royal Arch Mason, Shriner, and Rotarian.

Dr. Henderson's granddaughter, Dawn Henderson, is presently a student at Southwestern, and a grandson, H. S. Henderson III, graduated in 1959.

Class of 1929

Oscar Hurt Jr. has received notification of membership in the 1963 Million Dollar Round Table of the National Association of Life Underwriters. Oscar also served as chairman of the nominations committee for the 1963 slate of candidates of the Southwestern Alumni Association.

Wilson Mount, 103 East Lafayette Circle, music director of St. Luke's Methodist Church, suffered a hip fracture and ankle injuries in a crash on the expressway in May.

Class of 1931

Thad Hall, principal of Brogden Junior High School in Durham, N.C., spent four days in Pittsburgh at the national convention of Secondary School Principals, taking part in a discussion of junior high athletes. Thad is a longstanding Rotarian, teaches a married couples class at Watts Street Baptist Church. He and his wife, Mary Elizabeth, are the parents of three children: Mary Elizabeth (8), Bill (11), and Edna Jo (14).

Harold Ohlendorf, Ohlendorf Farms, Osceola, Ark., received an Honorary Doctor of Laws degree from the University of Arkansas in June.

News comes from Mrs. Henry Whitcomb Smith (Mary Moore) in San Diego that daughter Jennifer graduated from high school in June, 26th in a class of 808; entered the University of Redlands with Honors at Entrance in September.

DECEASED: Henry C. Rodgers, 3239 Richmond, El Paso, on March 1.

DECEASED: Auvergne Blaylock, prominent attorney and land developer, died on June 20 after suffering a heart attack earlier that morning at his home, 100 Lombardy Lane. A graduate of Southwestern and the University of Memphis Law School, he was married to the former Pauline Barton, had served as an Air Force Captain in counter-intelligence during World War II, was assistant district attorney general under both Will Gerber and John Heiskell, and for the past ten years had been a partner in the developing firm of Blaylock & Brown.

Class of 1933

Mary Allie Taylor, Press-Scimitar staff writer, had a broken knee cap as a result of an in-town collision which also seriously damaged her cherished 1947 Ford convertible (a gift of Ford Motor Co. after she accompanied the Maid of Cotton on her first international tour.)

Class of 1934

30th Reunion Coming up in April!

Charles Crump has been named to the reorganized Chamber of Commerce aviation committee seeking improved airline service for Memphis and the Mid-South.

Elected vice president of the Memphis Chapter of the Society of Chartered Property Casualty Underwriters June 26 was Jack B. Kelly, Jr. Jack is married to the former Beverly Booth, '37. They live at 119 Devon Way. (For further Kelly news see classnote for 1962.)

Class of 1936

Maurice I. Carlson, President of Reliance Life & Accident Insurance Company of America, with home offices in Dallas, was the subject of a recent lengthy Dallas newspaper article praising his intense interest in local civic and political affairs. The article also points out Maurice's achievement as an author. Not only has he assisted in writing a Persian grammar book, but also has written "Aubrey Beardsley: A Study of Decadence."

Class of 1937

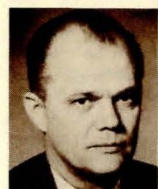

Henry Watkins has been elected executive vice president of Universal C.I.T. Credit Corporation, the nation's largest diversified consumer installment financial institution. Henry, who had been a vice president since 1950 and Western regional manager since 1954, will assist in the executive direction and development of all the company's business activities. He joined Universal C.I.T. in Memphis in 1936. A native of Memphis, Henry served as a lieutenant commander in the U.S. Navy during World War II and is married to the former Pauline (Polly) Orgill. The Watkins and their two daughters, Pauline Darnell and Mary Maria, live at 80 Woodcut Lane, Manhasset, N.Y.

DECEASED: James L. Meadow, in Chicago on June 4, after a long illness. Graveside services were held in Shaw, Miss.

DECEASED: The Rev. Newton H. White III died June 4 of a heart ailment, at his home in La Jolla, Calif. A Presbyterian minister in Tucson, Newton had retired, due to poor health, after Easter Sunday. Before going into the ministry he had studied piano and composition at the University of Arizona, the Philadelphia Conservatory and the Juilliard Graduate School of Music in New York and had served as a Red Cross field director during World War II. After receiving a Bachelor of Divinity degree at the Louisville Theological Seminary in June, 1951, he was the organizing minister of Northminster Presbyterian Church in Tucson. In 1959 he became pastor of a new church, St. Andrew's, which was completed and dedicated last fall. It is widely noted for its architecture, which features mosaic metal doors given to the church by Newton in memory of his wife. He was the son of Mrs. Gardner White of Pulaski, Tenn. and the late Mr. White, and the brother of Mrs. William Regen and Mrs. Jack Bixler of Lebanon, Tenn.

Louis W. Chenault, manager of the Bemis Bros. Bag Co. plant and sales division at Houston, Texas, has been named to the new position of assistant director of sales.

His new post will be at the firm's general offices in Minneapolis. Louis joined the diversified packaging company in 1938. He advanced through sales management positions prior to becoming manager of Bemis' Houston plant and sales division in 1960. In his new post as assistant director of sales, Louis will be responsible for developing sales programs, methods and procedures. He is married to the former Effie Ola Anthony '38.
