

What is Common Ground all about?

Common Ground is an opportunity for Memphis area residents of different races to have honest discussions about race relations, starting with our own stories and examining the inequities that remain between people of different colors.

But more important than the conversations is what comes next: Action. It's up to the Common Ground participants to define the change, and make it happen. The change can happen individually, or collectively, but the participants will be the ones to change the tenor of race relations in Memphis.

Common Ground starts with you.

When you come to Common Ground, you're committing to make this shared space better for all of us. We'll begin with conversations and words, but we'll be judged by the intentions of our hearts and our actions.

For more information and/or to sign up to participate, go to commongroundmemphis.org.
