

Youth for Youth: an UnDocumentary

Christiana Haynes

2012 Rhodes Institute for Regional Studies

This project involved the creation of a documentary film, which explores the new faces of the group called Youth for Youth in Memphis. This group advocates for equal educational opportunities for undocumented students by focusing on spreading awareness of the plight of undocumented youth and attempting to get the Dream Act passed. Through interviews and research, the documentary film brings visual awareness to this problem and communicates the group's message to a larger audience by putting a human face on the issue of immigration in the Memphis community.
