Monday, July 28, 2008 - (Meditation: I Peter 4:9-10)
Dear God, I know that a life of faith is more than just what I believe. It is also how I live, what I do, and in whom I put my trust. Make me a doer of the Word and not a hearer only. Help me to bear fruit by sharing the good news and by serving those whom You love. Help me to hear the cries of those in need, and to reach out and love them. Through Jesus Christ, my Lord. Amen.

Tuesday, July 29, 2008 - (Meditation: Philippians 4:12-13)
God, when I accept whatever You have in store for me -- whether it be joy or disappointment, health or sickness, popularity or alienation -- I accept salvation. It comes to me as a gift from the One Who accepted both hosannas and betrayal, adoration and crucifixion. He redeemed them all. Thank You, O God, for Your gift of life, and Your gift of salvation. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Wednesday, July 30, 2008 - (Meditation: Matthew 6:24-34)
God, our society teaches that you cannot be happy without money, success, power, and approval. It teaches that you should cling to these things like barnacles to a boat. "Focus on approval." "Succeed at all costs." "Do whatever it takes to make money." But You, O God, teach us that anxiety and worry take over when we cling to anything other than You. Your Word says that when these things become more precious than You, we become emotionally dependent on them, and their yoke is heavy. God, free us from this bondage and make us slaves of Christ, for His yoke is light. Amen.

Thursday, July 31, 2008 - (Meditation: John 14:27)
God, we are an entertainment-oriented society. HDTVs, I-pods, Gameboys, Wiis, DVRs, sportscasts, parties, talk shows and politics fill our time with diversions and entertainment. We have become a "What's next?" society. We have forgotten the beauty of silence, and the peace of meditation. God, forgive our addiction to entertainment and diversions, and grant us Your peace. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Friday, August 1, 2008 - (Meditation: Matthew 6:33)
Heavenly Father, I search in vain for fulfillment. It cannot be found in anything transitory. Nothing earthly lasts. The world cannot bring fulfillment. Life is incomplete until we find completeness in You. God, my heart is restless. Forgive me and help me to rest in You. Through Jesus Christ, my Lord. Amen.
