“Poetry is language in orbit.”
– Seamus Heaney

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course aims to help participants broaden their understanding and appreciation of the craft of poetry. Keeping in mind that the English word “poetry” derives from the Greek poēsis (i.e. an act of “making”) we will approach writing as a means of producing new ideas—not just expressing past experiences or preexisting views. Throughout the semester our work will focus on elements of craft such as imagery, diction, rhythm, and form. We will read a broad sampling of contemporary poetry; we will do a lot of writing, from weekly exercises to more polished poems; and we will discuss this writing in workshop format and learn how to make it better.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

• Eight writing exercises
• Four poems and a final portfolio
• Memorization of fourteen lines of poetry
• Active participation in workshop and written responses to poems

Writing exercises. You will complete eight writing exercises, many of which will begin with an activity in class. These exercises will push you to experiment with different registers and forms, and they may serve as a springboard for later poems.

Poems and final portfolio. In addition to the exercises mentioned above, you will write four poems, all of which will be discussed in workshop and revised as part of a final portfolio at the end of the term. This portfolio will include the original versions of the four poems, your most recent revisions, and a narrative statement (two double-spaced pages) describing your writing and revision process.
Memorization. You will memorize at least fourteen lines of poetry (a sonnet or a few stanzas of a longer poem). Recitations are scheduled for Thursday, 12/4.

Workshop
During workshop weeks, we will discuss 4-5 poems in a class period. The formats for specific workshops may change as the semester progresses, but this is how the submission process will work:

1) The day your poem is due, you will email it to me before class. I will compile three or four workshop packets and post them to Moodle later that day. You must submit your poems on time, and they must be a complete draft. Late and/or incomplete poems will receive a 0.

2) Prior to workshop, everyone will read the poems in the packet and write a one-page letter to each author critiquing his or her poems.

3) You will print out and bring to class the workshop packet and two copies of your workshop letters (one copy for the author and one copy for me).

Participation
Active participation is an essential component of this course. A workshop cannot succeed unless everyone in the class attends and participates. Even if you are the quiet type, you will be expected to contribute to class discussions and to critique the work of your peers with thoughtfulness and respect. If you come to class without the required materials (stories for workshop, workshop letters, handouts, books, and so forth), you will lose points from your participation grade.

Additionally, I may give quizzes. These will be short (3-4 questions), and if you have done the reading you should not have trouble passing them.

Policies
Assignments
All work must be typed, and assignments must be submitted at the beginning of class on the scheduled due date. Late work will receive a 0 unless you have made specific arrangements with me beforehand. This is a firm policy. With the exception of poems submitted for workshop, I will not accept work via email.

Attendance
You are allowed three excused absences but no unexcused absences. An absence is only excused if you have contacted me before class to explain the circumstances. For each unexcused absence, your final grade will be deducted by 1/3 of a letter grade. After three excused absences, your final grade will be deducted by 1/3 of a letter grade as well. If you miss more than six workshops, you will fail the course.

Because this course is workshop-based with an emphasis on revision, you will not receive letter grades for many assignments. I will assign midterm grades to give you a sense of where you stand, and you are always welcome—and encouraged—to discuss your progress with me.

Academic Honesty

All work in this course should be original and individual, unless I have made a group assignment. Evidence of collusion (someone helped you write the assignment), plagiarism (using someone else’s published or unpublished words without acknowledgement), or multiple submissions (handing in the same work to different classes) will not be tolerated. All students are expected to honor their commitment to the Honor Code.
