Rhodes, Hughes Stars In Double Feature

There's nothing like a two month old kitten to liven things up—and this was the final ingredient that was tossed into an already bubbling Homecoming potpourri Oct. 19.

The lawn decorations were never more ingeniously nor elaborately done. The weather was just nippy enough to give spectators that football feeling. And the crowd approached that final luncheon meeting in the new Catherine Burrow Hall with high expectancy.

Barney Gallagher did not disappoint them. Barney, as president of the Southwestern Men of Memphis and emcee for the luncheon, proved himself quite a showman. (His sideline is plywood and doors. He is regional manager for the Simpson Logging Co.)

First feature attraction on the memorable double bill was an address by Dr. John Davis Hughes, who most aptly demonstrates the end product of the kind of education he describes.

Quality, he said, is the hallmark of Southwestern. "It is found everywhere here, in the buildings, the faculty, the student body, and the supreme test, in the accomplishments of the alumni.

Chips of Stone

"Recently I watched an old stone mason working on the north wall of this beautiful Catherine Burrow Hall in which we now dine. Holding a fine piece of stone in one hand he banged it with his hammer to the approximate shape needed, then tapped it gently and patiently around its perimeter for what seemed to me an astonishingly long time. I was about to go when he skillfully slipped the stone into the wall. It fitted perfectly. He mortared it in place in a most interesting and careful manner, running his trowel parallel to the ground under the lower margin of the stone and sloping the mortar outward to the upper margin of the stone below. I was informed that this technique prevents rain water from puddling on the mortar eventually causing cracks."

"It would be easier to lay factory made bricks," I observed.

"But they are not as strong or as beautiful," the stone mason replied. "We mean this wall to last for centuries."

"As I drove away I thought of his perfectionism and his patience, and of how, by analogy, he could be compared to the wise professor shaping the future of his pupil, the stone. The analogy could be carried farther, for are not the heads of some students very hard, and do not the professors have to beat

LOYALTY FUND REACHES NEW HIGH PARTICIPATION UP ONE-HALF IN '57

Alumni giving reached new heights in 1957 with a total of $19,734.85. Added to this $2,321.78 in contributions from non-alumni, including husbands, wives, parents, and friends, the Loyalty Fund total comes to $22,056.63. The 1956 total was $14,149.18.

Gratifying, too, to Goodbar Morgan, alumni secretary, Alfred O. Canon, dean of alumni, and various class agents whose efforts are reflected in these happy figures, was the 50 percent increase in participation.

In 1957, 16.1 percent (17.3 percent in Memphis and 15.3 out of town) of Southwestern's alumni shared in the alumni giving. In 1956 it was only 10.5 percent.

The class of 1932, which held its 25th reunion in June, led the field with participation of 39.3 percent.

Classes of 26, 27, and 33 came next, each with more than 23 percent.

All gifts to the college from alumni are included in the Loyalty Fund total, though they may be allocated to any one of many projects, including the new Southwestern Science Fund.

This year's gains promise permanent benefits for the college because it is an established fact that once the giving practice is begun, it usually becomes a habit. There's a downright satisfaction in it. Furthermore, it brings Southwestern within shouting distance of the national average in alumni giving. But, of course, Southwestern alumni do not want to be average. They want to excell. And there is still ample opportunity for future record-breaking.

Much of the fund's success is attributed to the efforts of class agents, who got in touch with their former classmates, says Goodbar Morgan.

The 1957 fund officially closed December 31 and some contributions made in January were not received in time to be included. They will be credited to the 1958 fund.

Following are percentages of participation by classes and a list of contributors. Many gave several times during the year but the percentages are figured by persons, not by number of gifts.

Mamas and Papas On Receiving End

Mamas and papas, whose function in the college picture is too often limited to signing checks, participated in a big way in the annual day now allotted them at Southwestern.

Last year for the first time they came to Parents' Day, they saw, and they loved it. This year more than 300 converged on the campus from nine states for happy reunion with their sons and daughters and for a sampling of a typical college day.

Dr. R. P. Richardson again chairmanned the event, which has been hailed as "one of the best things ever," on Nov. 16.

They came, registered, visited, and attended classes with their students during the morning. Many came in time to sit in on the 8 o'clock "Man" class.

They thronged the Adult Education Center for the morning social hour where they were greeted by members of the faculty, Dr. and Mrs. Rhodes, Miss Jane Leighton Richards, Mrs. R. P. Richardson, Mrs. Charles I. Diehl, and Mrs. Jameson Jones.

E. B. LeMaster, Memphis real estate man and church lay leader, master of ceremonies for the luncheon in the new Catherine Burrow Hall, was billed for this day as "Beth LeMaster's father." Mrs. LeMaster and Beth, a senior, were seated together at the luncheon.

Mr. LeMaster termed Southwestern, "the best manufacturing plant in Memphis, producing the most important products."

Another Southwestern parent, Dr. Peyton N. Rhodes, father of Joseph C. Rhodes, who is also a senior this year, brought appreciative smiles from the luncheon assemblage as he read a quotation from an Assyrian clay tablet dated about 2800 B.C.

"Our earth is degenerate in these latter days", the ancient scribe had, written. "Bribery and corruption are common. Children no longer obey their parents. Every man wants to write a book. The end of the world is evidently approaching."

Dr. Jameson M. Jones, academic dean, spoke of the distinction between true education and training for a career.

Education, he said, is preparation for achieving life's chief aims—freedom of mind and service of God.

"We teach economics (and various other subjects) because we believe they are valuable steps toward these objectives. Many of them have vocational significance, but this is not the chief end.

"Jobs and professions are made for men. We are not made for them. They should be the means by which we fulfill ourselves and free ourselves and serve God."

Dr. Richardson announced appointment of eight parents to the newly formed Parents Council, which will function in an advisory capacity to the administration on an annual basis.

Appointees are Claude H. McCormick '33, Mrs. J. B. Coleman (Janie Cobb '29), Mrs. Ed Lipscomb, Dr. L. C. Templeton, Albert Rickey, Mrs. Ben Waller (Virginia Finch '32), E. B. LeMaster, and Mrs. John H.

Disjecta Membra

Word trickles back now and then from the Kelsos at Converse and always welcome word it is. They are living at Spartanburg, S.C., this year, where Dr. A. P. Kelso is teaching on a Whitney Fellowship.

Dr. Kelso switched allegiance back to Southwestern when, on Dec. 6, he officially represented this college, along with Dean Jane Leighton Richards, at the inauguration of Dr. Oliver Cromwell Carmichael, Jr., as president of Converse.

This was something of a switch for Miss Richards, too, returning to Converse, where she was formerly dean of students, representing another college.

Dr. Kelso was also speaker for Converse's opening convocation in October.

The Kelsos enjoyed a family reunion at their Memphis home during the Christmas holidays.

Plot Plan Coming

A reader has written to say that alumni would like to know where the proposed new buildings will be located on the campus. It is so exciting and gratifying to have readers that we'll do anything they suggest. The plot plan is in the making and will appear sometime in the future in this publication.

Actually, the plan has long been contemplated and will be useful in many ways. It had not occurred to anyone that NEWS readers would like to see it. The suggestion is appreciated.

Lynx Future

Rick Mays is really looking to the future! Southwestern's fourth annual Kid Football

Quinn.

Family groups went on from the luncheon to the Southwestern-Sewanee football game on Fargason Field and many stayed on for the Kappa Delta All-Sing that night.

Clinic early in September was enthusiastically received by members of the youngest football leagues. The youngsters were invited out for the day, given lectures and demonstrations of football fundamentals by the coaching staff and members of the Lynx eleven. Memphis high school coaches helped, too.

Rick is also a popular speaker to young people and their parents at church, school, and scout groups and is currently doing a TV series on WKNO.

In all these contacts, he is always on the alert for promising Lynx football material, no matter how many years removed.

History in Limerick

Prof. James E. Roper, moving slowly toward his goal of reducing all history to limerick, has consented to give the News a preview of his opus.

Here are the first of several samples which, it is hoped, may be passed along to his fellow alumni from time to time.

Former SW Pre-Med Students Push Drive for US Scientists

EVERYBODY'S happy about the new Southwestern Science Fund. and NOBODY looks on this as just another fund raising gimmick. It's a natural—and already has met with enthusiastic response.

Dr. John Davis Hughes and officials of the college who have been working together since last spring on a long range program to give new emphasis and new stimulus to the science department, aver that this is no sudden outgrowth of sputnik.

This is the way Johnny Hughes sees it. Everyone understands the nation's critical need for scientists. Everyone is aware that their production is going to be expensive, that colleges must step up their science teaching programs to accommodate increasing numbers. Who knows better the advantages of scientific study in a college like Southwestern than those who have experienced it? And how can they better improve the American science picture than by helping to support and expand this teaching program?

This is the way he has presented his plan, clearly and simply, to a group of doctors, dentists, and others in allied professions and businesses who share his Southwestern heritage.

COMMITTEE NAMED

On the committee working with him are Dr. Robert K. Armstrong, Russel Wiener, Dr. William W. Taylor, and Dr. R. P. Richardson.

Johnny envisions the fund as an on-going, increasing, annual bonanza for the Southwestern science department and an appealing opportunity for busy men of science to actively help in this national crisis.

No organized campaign is this. The initial group expects it to grow by its own momentum, by individuals talking to other individuals, who in turn will draw their friends into the plan. The chain reaction is expected soon to cover the entire Mid-South area and to include Southwestern alumni scattered all over the nation.

FOR NEW EQUIPMENT

There are only two iron clad rules. The proceeds must be used strictly for science. And the amount of no individual's gift will be revealed without permission. The fund was initially planned for the purchase of new equipment for the Science Building. But it may also be used for supplementing the faculty—just so it's all for science.

Needless to say, the fund has been more than enthusiastically received by Dr. Peyton N. Rhodes, president and former physics professor, by Dr. R. P. Richardson, vice-president for development who has worked with the doctors in their meetings, and by the science professors — not only as a new source of financial help to the college but as a heart warming example of the awareness of responsibility, the generosity, and the loyalty of Southwestern alumni.

Checks may be sent to Dr. Rhodes at the college, designated for the Science Fund.

EDWARDS AMONG FIRST

Among the first to come forward with a voluntary contribution to the Southwestern Science Fund was Fleet Edwards, '43. His check was for $500.

This seems to demonstrate the qualities to which Dr. C. L. Townsend referred when he spoke of Fleet as "a man of unusual gumption and independence of character."

With the whole country talking about the need for scientists, what should be done about it and by whom, the answer to these questions seem pretty clear to him—and to several other Southwestern alumni who already have taken positive action.

"In Russia," he points out, "this can be accomplished by government decree. In this country where individual liberties are our most cherished possession, it becomes the duty of private individuals both to encourage and provide scientific education for more college students."

Fleet was accustomed to assuming leadership even during his college days. His contemporaries will recall that he was tapped by O.D.K. and was elected captain of the 1942 football team, but by that time so many players had gone into military service that it was impossible to field a team and football was discontinued until after World War II.

After graduation, Fleet entered the air force and served as a weather observer in the European theatre for 30 months.

On his return he spent several years with pharmaceutical firms and went into business for himself in 1953. He is president of the Edwards Pharmacal Co., 1474 S. Trezevant, still an avid football (and other sports) fan.

"Papa" Tuthill Plans Twentieth Choir Tour

The Southwestern Singers, exams behind them, will take off Friday, January 31, on their 20th annual between-semester concert tour of the Mid-South. The itinerary this year will include engagements in three states.

Traveling with Dr. Burnet C. Tuthill and the 40 selected singers will be Mrs. Tuthill, who is also a member of the music faculty, and Jack Funkhouser, assistant choir director.

Their repertory will include Southwestern's Alma Mater, American spirituals, and sacred music from the ancient to the contemporary.

Alumni and friends of the college are invited to the concerts, all of which are sponsored by churches or schools.

They will sing in the following cities:

Cleveland, Miss., 7:30 p.m. Jan. 31 at the First Presbyterian Church.

West Monroe, La., 7:30 p.m. Feb. 1 at the Memorial Presbyterian Church.

Monroe, La., 11 a.m. Feb. 2 at the Covenant Presbyterian Church.

Shreveport, La., 7:30 p.m. Feb. 2 in the Broadmoor Presbyterian Church.

El Dorado, Ark., 11 a.m. Feb. 3 at the El Dorado High School.

Pine Bluff, Ark., 7:30 p.m. Feb. 3 at the First Presbyterian Church.

Hot Springs, Ark., 11 a.m. Feb. 4 in the Hot Springs Senior High School.

Little Rock, Ark., 7:30 p.m. Feb. 4 in the First Presbyterian Church.

Sleek Young Siamese Beauty Steals Homecoming Show

Dr. Rhodes with bride

With Mayor Orgill

With Erma Reese

Rhodes, Hughes Stars

knowledge into some of them?

"The quality of these costly buildings is not wasteful as maintenance is so low. Yet were it much higher Southwestern would be more than justified in erecting these inspiring Gothic structures, for man does not live by bread alone and students are guided to higher planes by more than words.

Lights of Gems

"As we alumni get older, or, to express it more kindly, mature, I trust that we finally begin to truly appreciate the remarkable faculty which has been the heart of Southwestern for many a decade. I know that we felt this partially and in a youthful way as we studied here, but how many of us realize that Southwestern has more Rhodes Scholars percentage wise than any other college in the United States; that three-fourths of Southwestern's professors are Doctors of Philosophy; that Southwestern insists on one professor for every nine or ten students? Or that Southwestern's faculty was the first in the United States to make the study of Bible a required course; the first faculty in our country along with Harvard to introduce the tutorial system of teaching whereby the student has an unlimited opportunity to pursue the study of an important subject as widely and deeply as his talents permit, being guided by an outstanding member of the faculty, an authority on that subject, who counsels and encourages and evaluates him? Can you think of a more fruitful teaching relationship than a ratio of one professor to one student?

"What a contrast to many colleges where the professor lectures to a great mass of students, never learning their last names, much less their first, their hidden talents which ought to be discovered and developed, their strengths and their weaknesses.

"Southwestern does not go in for mass production; it contributes to our culture fine hand tooled, precision educated young men and women; inculcated constantly with high ethical and moral values. Small wonder that its alumni have made such tremendous records in so many fields of endeavor."

Johnny was introduced by Oscar Hurt, Jr., president of the Southwestern Alumni Association, as the "younger of the Hughes twins".

Your Life, P. N. R.

At this point in the program Barney Gallagher trickled backstage to launch the surprise feature of the day—a free wheeling, joshing, but nevertheless sincere tribute to Southwestern's president, Dr. Peyton N. Rhodes in a parodied version of the TV show, "This is Your Life." This was made complete by perfectly timed musical cut-ins and projection of pictures from Dr. Rhodes' own scrapbook deftly handled by Jimmy Springfield.

And who could better handle the narration than Southwestern's own Trent Wood?

(For the benefit of readers who live beyond the reaches of WMCT Television, Trent has been for some years one of Memphis' outstanding TV personalities. Most of the recorded music also was furnished by the Trent Wood Record Shop.)

The life story of the precocious young Virginian who delivered a dissertation and ultimatum to his stunned parents at the age of 13 months, who was aware from the very start of his destiny to become president of

"Sauoothwestern," unfolded in words, pictures and music to the complete astonishment of the principal and the apparent delight of the assemblage.

The first voice from his past, heard from offstage, was that of former University of Virginia classmate, now Mayor of Memphis and Southwestern honorary alumnus, Edmund Orgill, who proceeded to the platform to the strains of that great jazz classic, "Memphis Blues."

The first bar of Mendelssohn introduced the Virginia beauty who came to Memphis after P. N. R.'s first year at Southwestern, later to become first lady of Southwestern. Mrs. Rhodes joined him on the platform as a series of former students appeared to haunt him.

Musical Punctuation

Trent Wood got into the period when P. N. R. was best remembered by many present.

"Dr. Rhodes expected his students to be as sharp and eager as he had been as an undergraduate and held fast to his theory that if you just made it tough enough, something in the undergraduate mind would respond."

And here the first three notes of Rachmaninoff's Prelude in C Sharp Minor fairly rocked them out of their chairs.

"It was during this period that he brought to Southwestern a number of innovations which have added distinction and prestige over the years. He added to the curriculum a course called Physics 6-3:6-4. This was really tennis and was required of all physics majors."

And one of the louder, more vigorous versions of "Hound Dog" suddenly boomed from the loud speakers.

Happy Crowd Sees Football Game, Lawn Decorations

With Dr. W. E. French

With Mary Allie Taylor

With Albert Johnson

Some of the ad lib quips of participants brought the biggest laughs. Albert Johnson, librarian, made an impromptu announcement that the city had decided to change the name of North Parkway to Peyton Place. And Jameson Jones, dean, recounted that Dr. Rhodes, in inviting him to come to Southwestern to fill that post, told him that he thought of himself, head of the college, as the shepherd and he wanted Jameson to be his crook.

The parade of faces from his past and present also included Dr. W. E. French, Erma Reese, Mary Allie Taylor, Scudder Smith, and Jack Howard Taylor.

Feline Finale

After expressing on behalf of the audience gratitude "for the many forces which you have set in motion and which will work for the continuing good of our college and our children," Trent launched into presentation of "token restitution of just a few of the losses which P. N. R. is known to have sustained in the line of duty."

For his lost youth he received a bottle of vitamin pills—in lieu of his beloved tennis for which he no longer finds time, he got "an executive size tennis racket" (a dime store batball) — and a fine German made fountain pen to replace one special green fountain pen whose loss has evoked "colossal accusations and recriminations."

Mrs. Rhodes was presented with a white orchid corsage and then something kin to chaos broke loose in typical Gallagher tradition.

A can of cat food was offered as a gift to the Rhodes' treasured Siamese cat. It was discovered that this cat had sometime back joined his illustrious ancestors. Well rehearsed confusion and embarrassment gripped the scene for a few suspenseful moments until Barney appeared with the most appealing little 2 month-old Siamese aristocrat that ever upturned a household—or stole a Homecoming show.

The happy crowd adjourned to Fargason Field, where the Lynx team capped the day with a smashing 32-7 victory over Austin College.

Oscar Hurt presented the traditional red roses to Homecoming Queen, Anne Underwood of Oak Ridge, Tenn., who was flanked in her position of honor by Marilyn Smith of Holly Grove, Ark., football princess, and Clara Stephens of Laurel, Miss., "S" Club princess.

Also at halftime, awards were presented to the lawn decorations winners. Sigma Nu and A.O.Pi won firsts, and seconds went to Kappa Sigma and Tri Delta.

Fraternities held open house after the game and, needless to say, the stage was set for a gala Alumni Student Ball in the evening at Mallory Memorial Gymnasium.

SPRING BRINGS BUDDING ATHLETES TO SOUTHWESTERN PLAYING FIELDS

It's half-time in the basketball season and Lynxcats are flexing their muscles preparatory to a full spring sports schedule.

Track coach Freeman Marr, in his third season at Southwestern, and new field coach Bill Lawson have their charges working out on a daily schedule.

Returning lettermen who will be counted on this year include Dick Brankstone (discus, shot), Finnis Carrell (quarter-mile), Bill Carrell (hurdles, dashes), Travis Casanova (distance), Mike Cody (middle-distances), Sam Cole (dashes), Don Cross (pole vault), Bill Harris (high jump), Ed Horton (high jump), Dan Logan (pole vault), Richard Park (middle-distances), Don Pollard (discus, shot), Morton Waller (high jump), and Bob Welsh (distance).

These men were the nucleus of last year's squad that compiled a 4-2 won-lost record in dual meets. Marr-coached teams at Southwestern have lost only three dual meets in two years, two losses coming at the hands of Mississippi College, and one to Arkansas State. Also during this two-year period the school records in the one mile, high jump, broad jump, and javelin have been broken, and new unofficial records in the two-mile and one half-mile events have been established.

Returning intact is the Distance Relays team which won the trophy in the Memphis Relays last year. Individual stars include Morton Waller, who tied for first in the Memphis Relays high jump last year, and was second in the high jump at the Southwest Relays at Lafayette, La., and Mike Cody and Bob Welsh, distance runners. Welsh was fourth out of 22 men in the two-mile event at these same Southwest Relays, and Cody was seventh.

Promising freshmen include Stewart Whittle (distance), Bert Tuggle (distance), Mac Koehler (middle distance), Tommy Clinton (dashes), Bill Howard (middle distances), Glenn Williams (shot), Rogers Warren (shot, discus), and John Kimbro (shot). Also working out with this group is Dick Foster, a transfer from Sewanee. Dick runs the 100-yard dash in 9.7 seconds, and will probably be the number one boy in that department this year.

The schedule for 1958 is as follows:

Date	Opponent	Location
March 22	Mississippi College	Away
March 29	Memphis Relays	Hodges Field
April 11	Lambuth	Home
April 16	Lambuth	Away
April 19	Arkansas State	Home
April 22	Union	Away
April 25	Southwestern Invitational
26	Track Meet	Home
April 30	Howard	Away
March 3	Austin Peay	Home
March 10	Tennessee Intercollegiate Athletic Conference Meet
	Middle Tennessee State College, Murfreesboro

BASEBALL

The picture in baseball is rosy but unsettled. Returning to bolster new head coach Woody T. Johnson's squad are lettermen Joe Weeks (infield), Joe Boals (infield), Andy Gandy (infield, outfield), Bill Young (infield), Jack Hoelscher (infield), Tom Reed (catcher), Shep Crigler (infield), John Dunlap (outfield), Jettie Bowen (outfield), Bobby Rose (pitcher), Woody Forbes (pitcher), Jerry Peters (pitcher), and Bob Mansfield (pitcher).

The unsettled quantity is the freshman crop. John Kinas (pitcher), David Kring (catcher), Sam Drash (pitcher), Tommy Clinton (first base), George McCormick (pitcher and outfield) and others will be out for the team but haven't yet had time to demonstrate their potential.

TENNIS

Coach Derrick Barton starts this year with four lettermen and some fine freshmen to build a top-notch tennis team. On hand for repeat service are lettermen Walker Wellford, Jack Biedenharn, Hal Henderson, George Crabb, and squad member Dave Wilson. Talented freshmen include Sam Hays and Bill "Frostie" Roberts. Sam comes to the Lynxcats with an outstanding record in prep school, and upheld this reputation with his recent win in the Southwestern Intramural Tournament.

The Southwestern Invitational Tennis Tournament will be held here April 24-26.

GOLF

Coach William Maybry starts this year with the enormous problem of building a team strictly from scratch. With no lettermen returning, Coach Maybry will count heavily on Harrison Herron, Bill Harris, Bob Brown, and Tom Wescott, all of whom were team members last year. This difficult situation will be alleviated somewhat by the addition to the squad of Stewart Thames, a freshman who was runnerup in the Alabama Prep Tournament last year, Hal Roe, and Bailey Weiner.

BASKETBALL

Southwestern's basketball team is off to its best start in several seasons. Coach Woody Johnson's five has compiled a 7-5 record through January 14. Included among those victories are a 68-65 win over Arkansas State Teachers and a 72-69 decision over Mississippi Southern, which was ranked as the 12th best small college basketball team in the nation by the United Press just before the Lynx beat them.

Four of the starting five players have been averaging in double figures, with guard Bill Young and forward MoMo Waller leading the scoring parade. As a team the Lynx are hitting better than 40 percent of field goal attempts.

The climax of the season will come Feb. 20 through 22 when the Lynx go to Sewanee for the eight-team Sewanee Invitational Tournament. All indications are that Johnson's crew has an excellent chance to take the title, barring unforeseen injuries to key personnel. But before the tournament the

Kopsinis Makes Three On Little All-America

John Kopsinis, a standout guard for the Lynx this year, was picked as an Honorable Mention choice on the Williamson Little All-America team.

John Kopsinis

His selection brings to three the number of Southwestern players who have received All-American honors in the four years of Head Coach Rick Mays' tutelage.

Kop, a Memphis 210 pounder who did his high school playing at CBHS, during his football career at Southwestern has played every position in the line except end. He started the 1957 campaign at guard but was shifted to center before the Howard game when the first two centers were sidelined, and performed very well. He also played middle guard, linebacker, guard, and tackle on defense. Besides being a dangerous blocker on offense, Kop was most outstanding on defense, and one special defensive pattern was named the "Kopsinis Defense". This name was appropriate because it placed Kopsinis in a position where he was likely to catch the brunt of the opposing attack.

Players previously tapped by Little All-America were quarterback Bill Young and halfback Jimmy "Digger" Higgason. Higgason graduated in 1956 and Young will graduate this year. Bill played the first half of this year's campaign, but was forced to retire after sustaining a knee injury in the Homecoming game with Austin College.

Lynx still have important games left with Arkansas State, a return engagement with Mississippi Southern and the following night a game with Spring Hill. All these clubs are highly respected in Southern basketball circles. Spring Hill nearly upset Memphis State last season and regularly schedules big-time opponents.

Because of the consistent high caliber of play and the rugged schedule basketball has become a top sport at Southwestern and more fans each year are being attracted to Mallory gymnasium. Although the Lynx have no home games remaining this season, many of the regulars on this team will be back next season and Coach Johnson can promise another top-notch squad to represent Southwestern on the court.

GEORGE McCORMICK REPORTING

George McCormick, Southwestern freshman and son of two alumni, Claude and Dorothy Smith McCormick, is your new Southwestern News sports writer.

George has also worked with senior John Farris in reporting Southwestern sports during the current season for the Southwestern News Service, which distributes news stories to the Memphis newspapers, to cities in which Lynx teams play away-from-home games, and to numerous towns and cities in the Mid-South area.

Southwestern's Board Meets; TWO FORMER STUDENTS FIND EMPLOYMENT

Two Southwestern alumni got themselves jobs in October, both involving short hours but heavy responsibility, with good pay if you reckon in terms of inner satisfaction and gratification.

Walker Wellford, Jr. '29, who has been a member of Southwestern's board of directors since 1951, was elected its secretary to succeed Dr. Moore Moore, Sr., who had served in this capacity from the time of the college's move to Memphis in 1925 until his death last June.

Walker is chairman of the board of the J. E. Dilworth Co.

Alvin Wunderlich, Jr. '39, was named to replace Dr. Moore on the executive committee. Al is president of the National Burial Insurance Co.

The board of directors at its annual meeting Oct. 17 also elected James L. Ross, president of the National Bank of Commerce, to succeed the late William B. Pollard on the investment committee.

Erma Reese, who is billed as one of the "Clarksville Saints" though she was little more than a cherub when she made the move, received two new titles at the October meeting. She was named executive secretary to the president and assistant secretary of the board, which she has been in effect for years.

Erma came to Memphis with Southwestern as secretary to Dr. Diehl and has remained secretary to the president under Dr. Rhodes' administration while continuing to handle Dr. Diehl's secretarial work.

Another familiar figure assumed a new title. C. L. Springfield, who has been known for years as bursar and business manager (or more informally as watchdog of the treasury or the ultimate yes or no man) is now known as comptroller.

The designation doesn't really seem important. No matter what you call him he's one of the most effective and busiest men in the whole college administration. It would be difficult to find him a title commensurate with the almost infinite variety of his activities.

The board also pinned an impressive new title on Dr. Marion L. MacQueen '19, who was already loaded!! He is now, in addition to many other things, college archivist.

Dr. MacQueen's appointment puts into motion a project which was initiated by the Class of '32. During its 25th reunion in June it established a fund for the collecting, cataloging, and preservation of documents with the Alumni

Class of 1933, it's later than you think. Nature in her kindly wisdom gives you certain subtle directional signs along the way.

You've probably already put in brighter light bulbs, started treasuring that "sleep before eleven," learned to take stairways one step at a time, and even become somewhat content in your quiet, shady spot as your children gradually take over your former place in the sun.

So by now you're partially prepared for this announcement.

This June will mark your 25th college class reunion.

Alumni Day is Saturday, May 31. A fine, full day of celebration is planned. Any of your elders in the class of '32 who attended their reunion last year will tell you this is a terrific experience—one you shouldn't miss. They had a wonderful time and went away talking enthusiastically of future reunions.

You can't beat it—so you might as well join it and enjoy it.

and materials pertaining to the college's history. And who could do this better than the meticulous Dr. MacQueen?

The board spent a full and busy day at this, its "annual" meeting. (It meets twice a year but, for reasons which seem clear to the academic mind, the fall meeting is known as the annual one.)

It considered the President's Report, attended to numerous matters of business, and had lunch for the first time in the private dining room of the new Catherine Burrow Hall.

On the afternoon preceding the meeting Dr. and Mrs. Rhodes entertained at tea for the board, the executive committee, and the investment committee and their wives, and afforded an opportunity for out of town board members to get acquainted with the Memphis committees who carry on the business of the college between their semi-annual meetings (and their annual ones, too.)

CLASS OF 1900

Deceased: Col. Owen S. Albright, Palo Alto, Calif., died suddenly October 11 of a cerebral hemorrhage at the age of 76. A graduate of West Point (United States Military Academy) in 1905, he served with the Second Division signal corps in France during World War I and was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal and Croix De Guerre. He then returned to the United States and was with the Corps Service Area until his retirement in 1943. He is survived by his wife, a sister, a brother, and two grandchildren.

CLASS OF 1905

Deceased: The Rev. Rudolph Miller of 3491 Buchanan, Memphis, died at Baptist Hospital November 12 after an illness of about a year. He was 74. Before his retirement ten years ago, he served pastorates at Collierville and in Texas. After his retirement, he did home mission work in various communities. He is survived by two daughters and nine grandchildren.

CLASS OF 1931

George Painter of Gallatin, Tenn., who has served as secretary of the Tennessee Wholesale Grocers' Association since 1948, has joined the Colonial Coffee Co. as executive vice president and general manager. This appointment means that George is the active manager of the company's entire operation.

And who do you suppose was campaign manager for Mayor Hartsfield of Atlanta in this fall's heated election? Mrs. Andrew Gardner (Jennie B. Puryear), of course, and a landslide victory it was. Jennie and her husband and son, David, live at 1951 Graystone Road, N.W., Atlanta, in case any of her classmates want to get elected something.

CLASS OF 1933

"Memories are made of this" is a reminder to Mrs. Eugenia Weeks Guess (Eugenia Weeks) and Mrs. Maurice Moore (Lillian Gautier '35). October 13, 1957 was the 25th anniversary of the 1932 football game between Southwestern and Sewanee, reported The Commercial Appeal's "News of Bygone Days" column recently. Lillian and Eugenia were the sponsors (similar to football queen) for that game. For another reference to this column see the '34 class notes.

Class baby:
David Michael, born 10-19-57 to Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Myer in Memphis.

CLASS OF 1934

October 30, 1957 was a special date for Mrs. Forrest McDowell (Corinne Gautier) and Delta Delta Delta Sorority. It was on this date twenty-five years ago that Corinne, as president of the active chapter, turned the first spade of dirt in breaking ground for the new sorority house on the campus.

Class of 1936

Dorsey J. Barefield started the Dorsey J. Barefield Printing and Office Supplies Co. in Jackson, Miss., as a one man concern in 1947. This year, as the company celebrates its tenth anniversary, it is credited with having developed into one of the South's largest dealers in office supplies and accessories. There is now a staff of 23 busy people in three stores. Dorsey attributes Barefield and Company's success in the last decade to hard work and to the faithfulness of the customers and employees.

Class of 1940

Rick Mays found himself a king size rabbit's foot this year in his former schoolmate and fraternity brother T. Herbert (Billy) Smith. Billy and his family are such enthusiastic Lynx fans that they rarely miss an out of town game, much less one at Fargason Field.

This year, Billy started coming out to practice the

Derrick Barton Presents Top Tennis Pros

No matter how the matches turn out when the touring Jack Kramer professional tennis troupe plays at Ellis Auditorium Friday, February 21, Southwestern will be the winner.

Derrick Barton, Lynx tennis coach and University Club pro who is bringing the Kramer tour to Memphis, has announced that all proceeds will be used to recondition and provide new tennis courts on the campus.

Pancho Gonzales, world professional tennis champ, will meet Lewis Hoad, former Australian National and Wimbledon champion, in the feature match at the auditorium. In a preliminary match, tennis fans will see either Tony Trabert, Ken Rosewall, Jack Kramer or Pancho Segura. Pairings have not as yet been made.

The matches will start at 8 p.m. Here is an outstanding opportunity not only to see the greats of the tennis world in action here in Memphis but to boost Southwestern's own tennis team.

Advance tickets may be had by writing Derrick Barton at the college.

OMICRON DELTA KAPPA CANE GOES TO JUDGE BAILEY '84

New holder of the O.D.K. cane is Judge Thomas Jennings Bailey of Washington, D.C. The handsome, silver trimmed walking cane is given by the national leadership fraternity to Southwestern's oldest living alumnus.

Judge Bailey, born in Nashville in 1867 and graduated from Southwestern at Clarksville in 1884, is not only the oldest but one of the most distinguished.

After Southwestern he attended Harvard University and Vanderbilt Law School. His record of service as judge of the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia dates back to 1918.

Judge Bailey was guest of honor at Southwestern Alumni Day in 1934, the 50th anniversary of his graduation, and was awarded an honorary degree at that year's commencement.

Class baby:
Carroll Fourmy, born 9-24-57 to Mr. ('32) and Mrs. Oliver P. Cobb, Jr. (Joye Fourmy) in Memphis.

The teamwork which James R. Gillis '56, and Burton E. Henry '54 developed in college was extended this fall to a business enterprise. They are now partners in the Whitehaven Furniture Company, offering a complete line of furniture and appliances for the home.

Jim and Burton were football teammates at Southwestern and also teamed up as promoters of social events. So it developed naturally that they should think of doing things together when Burton returned to Memphis after his service in the Marine Corps.

Jim was familiar with furniture, having been associated with his father in the manufacturing end of the business. So all they needed was a good location and they seem to have found it, reporting after two months' experience, "business good."

Burton has only a financial interest. He works at First National Bank while Jim is active head of the business.

Jim is married to Genevieve Featherstone, also a member of the class of '56. Burton is still a bachelor.

CLASS OF 1943

Class baby:
Charles Wright, born 8-24-57 in Memphis to Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Ham (Frances Cash) of Greenville, S.C. Their second son.

CLASS OF 1944

One of the most active men we know in civic affairs is Bill Dowdle. He has been elected a vice president of the Memphis Kiwanis Club. Bill, his wife (Jeanne Carey '45), and two children live at 69 Fernway Road.

Class baby:
Jill, born 10-4-57 to Dr. and Mrs. John M. Jemison in Memphis.

CLASS OF 1947

CLASS OF 1949

Evin L. Perdue is enrolled as a member of the June 1958 class of the American Institute for Foreign Trade in Phoenix, Ariz., where he is specializing in Latin America and the Far East, in preparation for a career in American business or government abroad. His wife, the former Patricia Ann McBride ('51), is with him at the Institute, where she has the opportunity also to study the languages and customs of the countries in which her husband plans to work.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene M. Schaeffer (June Morrow '46) are the proud parents of a daughter, Susan Morrow, born 10-24-57 in Rangoon, Burma. The baby was born during the magnificent Festival of Lights, a celebration, comparable to our Christmas, observing the return of Buddha to the earth. Gene is with the American Embassy in Rangoon. The Schaeffers also have a three year old son, Eric.

Susan Dorris of Bloomfield, N.J. and Clifford Tucker were married November 29 in New York City. The wedding was solemnized on the 53rd anniversary of the marriage of Clifford's parents. The bride is an executive secretary with the National Broadcasting Co. in New York. Clifford is organist and choirmaster of Calvary Baptist Church, where the wedding took place.

Mary Allie has been with the Rotarians for so long and made so many staunch friends among them that they've come to think of her as one of the group. So when a travel program was suggested, they naturally turned to her as their own expert.

In her widely read column, Mary Allie reports the interesting experiences of many globe trotting Southwestern alumni.

Recently she told of Col. Robert D. (Red) Forman's ('34) home and family. He is in command of Evreux Air Base, one of America's largest and most important bases in France.

"Col. Forman's name is well known in Air Force and diplomatic circles," she wrote, "his brilliant military career having taken him all over the world. The Forman youngsters—John, 8; Jane, 6; and Susie, 4—are in French schools and Betty (Mrs. Forman) says she has to study hard to keep up with them. Red says he doesn't, with a house as well as an office full of interpreters.

James William Young, we hear, is in his first year of study at Louisville Presbyterian Theological Seminary. After receiving his A.B. degree from Southwestern, Bill went to the University of North Carolina and received his M.B.A. degree in 1954. He married the former Sarah Bounds last September.

Charles Sullivan married the former Alice Diggs of Germantown October 19 at First Unitarian Church in Memphis. There were a number of Southwestern-ers in the wedding party—William Sullivan ('55) and Joe Sullivan ('59), brothers of the groom, and Ray Welman ('53) and Don Ramier ('53), fraternity brothers (KA). Charles' family might be thought of as a "Southwestern family". Besides his brothers, his parents, Mr. ('29) and Mrs. Charles C. Sullivan, Sr., (Martha Tabb '33), claim Southwestern as their alma mater. After a southern wedding trip, Charles and Alice will live in Memphis where he is associated with his father in the food distribution business.

Harriet Walker and William Raney pledged their marriage vows in October at Mullins Methodist Church. Bill, who attended Southwestern for one semester, is associated with the Radio Corporation of America in the guided missile testing program at the White Sands Proving Ground, N.M. For the past two years Harriet has served as administrative assistant in the Vocational Guidance Center on the campus.

Deweys Find Freedoms In Sporty Volkswagens

You might say Bill and Ed Dewey fell in love with an idea in Europe and came home and married the thing.

At least they seem to be permanently committed.

The "idea" is that the small European sports car has many practical features which Americans appreciate. And some 20 Americans each month now are proving their theory by buying Volkswagens from the Deweys' Memphis agency, Sportscars Ltd.

In fact, Bill and Ed, who claim they "aren't making any money but are having lots of fun," are currently sold out for four months in advance.

It all started back in 1951 when they toured Europe in a similar sportscar. They found several new freedoms in the experience — freedom from bulk, expense, and complicated mechanical troubles.

When they got home they kept thinking about it. Then they began investigating the various makes. They became sold on the Volkswagen because of its long and distinguished record of service and its sound parts and service policy. So here they are—in business—and planning soon to move into their own building on Union Avenue automobile row.

Bill chooses for his personal use a sleek black Sunroof model with sliding top and whitewall tires and Ed gets around in a brick red Micro-Bus, the German equivalent of the American station wagon.

Both sing the praises of the car's economy (about half the cost of the average of the "low cost three")—its gasoline mileage (30 miles to the gallon in town, 35 on the road, cross their hearts)—its roadability (70 miles is both top and cruising speed)—and dependability (these same engines were proved and tested in North Africa during World War II and have been improved without radical changes since.)

The air cooled engine is in the back and luggage compartment in the front, which seems backwards to Americans at first but they soon get the hang of it.

These little black "beetles" or "bugs" are becoming a familiar shape on the Memphis streets. A few have signs in the back window which read "Made in the Black Forest by Der Elves" and occasionally you see one with a large key on the rear. This was developed by a California accessory manufacturer who heard about a Volkswagen owner who drove into a filling station and was asked by the attendant: "Where do you wind this thing up?"

Ed and Bill, who graduated from Southwestern in 47 and 49 respectively, brought one out to the campus one day recently and were fairly swarmed by interested students.

The Deweys have become enthusiastic participants in the local sports car rallies, won the Five States rally last year with Ed as driver and Bill as navigator, and are looking confidently toward the 1958 rally in February.
