Church Problem

There is no denying the fact that Christianity's churches face alor problem in the field of church attendance and the loss milesis and ministers. Figures released recently showed that holic Ghurch, for example, lost over 300 priests who man in 1966 and 1967 and over 700 because of all reasons, not including deaths, in the United States alone.

Church attendance is a problem in many greas of the world, pecially in churches where rigid attitudes and dogmas are or reformers is not in progress. It seems that millions today mand mars in the way of enlightenment, scientific proof of Eurocy and the correctness of certain long-accepted beliefs ly concerning the Old Testament and its teachings and dillonal interpretations.

Churchmen of all faiths agree a problem exists. And most of today's distinguished theologians agree that the "old-time re ligion" may not be perfect after all, and that serious study, in-visitation, reasoning and challenge inside churches is preferble to similar efforts on the outside.

Encouraging Self Reliance

The Atlanta Daily World)

A number of public officials have stated from time to time that the westrare program could be improved. U. S. Senator Ed-word Breaks stated during his visit here in May to address the dembers of the Delta Sorority that the system should be revised to reduce to a minimum the charity aspects.

Recently William Burson, Georgia's director of the Departat of Family and Children services (Welfare) has come forweerd with the idea of providing a job training program for ers on welfare so they can get a part-time job when

Mr. Burson has run into conflict with some powers that dd to because of his enthusiasm and vigor in insisting that fand pregram to instituted in some counties where the people seded the program, but for various reasons local officials fare did not want it.

THE MASTER CONSPIRACY

I now hold.

In a volume published by the University of North Carolina Press entitled "What the Negro Wants" and placed on the market in the 1940's, ten Negroes were asked to write a chapter each, and express from his point of view just what he thought the Negro wanted Various shades of thought were represented from the most radical to the most conservative and strongly enough, all of the Negro writers wanted the same thing and that was first class citizenship for the Negro! Of course there was a variation in words and tones, but it all amounted to the same thing. Of all the writers I alone in line with a proposal made by Members, including the three stu- mentioned the subject of propaganda.

MEMO TO MERCHANTS:

How to Cope with Looting

Looters reach for bottles through grating of Milwankee liquor store.

NEW YORK, N.Y.—This year countless thousands of retail stores in the U.S. will be looted during the course of riots resulting directly or indirectly from racial demonstrations.

Damage and losses are likely to be awesome. Following the nightmare of last summer's violence, insurance companies were confronted with claims totaling a whopping $50-million. Losses in the future, however, can be greatly reduced-and in some cases completely eliminated -if certain common-sense precautions are taken, according to law enforcement officials. If "trouble" is expected, tempting merchandise, such as cameras, appliances, jewelry, furs and TV sets, should be removed from display windows. The presence of a large dog on the premises of a retail establishment often deters looters from breaking and entering. Last year, in riot-torn Newark, N.J., several pawnshops guarded by German shepherds emerged unscathed from the surrounding violence.

Protective gates that can be extended across display windows and locked in place keep looters from entering a shop but fail to suferiard merchandise displayed in windows and offer little protection against rocks and fire deflection temperature greater that than 270 degrees Fahrenheit, ----Lexan polycarbonate has been rated "self-extinguishing" by the Underwriters' Laboratory. Following the precautions that have been outlined, merchants can, in terms of theft and damage, look forward to a cooler summer in '68. F"3555

Your professional beautician, knows the answer....

Should every woman be a blonde?

Blonde hair is beautiful for those women whose natural color ing it flatters. But not everyone should be a blonde.

Expert beauticians know that complexion and hair color must complement each other to glamorize and bring out all the natural beauty that was meant to be. They also know that very coarse and dark hair often is resistant to drastic celor changes. However, there's no doubt about slightly lighter hair adding excitement to a woman's appearance. SUBURBIA, U.S.A.—Mary L., a 63-year-old widow, is being sued for nearly a quarter of a million dollars today-and all because ah wanted to help two nice young men work their way through college, The suit dates back to 1966, when the students, one married and the father of three children, approached the widow and asked if the wanted her house painted. She did.

Working for a modest hourly rate, the boys began painting. They started at the peak of the roof. On the accord day, the scaffold mounted between their ladders gave way.

The boys plunged to the concrete driveway below. Both suffered disabling injuries, one permanently. Families of the victims filed suit, holding the widow liable because the accidents occurred on her property. In settling the claim, it is likely that the widow will have to sell her house and surrender the proceeds, along with her life The widow's mistake, however, was not in hiring college students to paint her home; a similar accident could have befallen professional painters. Her mistake was in not hiring

World Of Religion

By LOUIS CARSELS
(United From International)
Major Protestant denominations in recent years have greatly improved their programs of sex education The are now taking a "person centered" approach which emphasizes positive human values. It is far more meaningful to young people than the "negative and judgmental" teaching of the past.

That is the finding of Dr. John H. Phillius of Duke University, who has just completed a six-month study of the sex education programs of eight Protestant denominations. The denominations are: The

Lutheran Church in America: The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod; The United Methodist Church; The Southern Presbyterian Church; The Southern Baptist Convention; The United Church of Christ, and the United Presyterian Church, Together they have about 30 million

A NEW IMPRESSION

Phillips found that Protestant children no longer are given the impression that sex is inherently sinful or "dirty." Instead, sex is presented as "a God-given way of relating to people."

While affirming the goodness of sex, when used as God intended, Proestant churches point out that abuse of the sexual relationship can have destructive consequences for the persons involved.

All of the denominations make a strong case for premarital chastity, not as an arbitrary rule that must be obeyed but as a way of showing that love and respect for other human persons which is the basis of all Christian ethics. Episcopal youths, for example, are taught that; "When one seeks to use another person to gratify his Phillips' main criticism of present Protestant sex education programs is that they need to be more realistic and forthright in dealing with such "tough and sticky problems as premarital pregnancy, contraceptive knowledge for the unmarried the unwed mother and her place in society."
