Joe Louis, unfortunately, as a child had very little formal education—but as everyone knows, he earned over a million dollars with his thundering fists.

These speeches were always worded perfectly, but coming from the mouth of Joe Louis, they lacked sincerity.

Once, however, at a patriotic rally, Joe was scheduled to speak. He stood up with his prepared speech but was so flustered that he mumbled the line: "We are on God's side."

Its becoming an accepted fact for a Negro to poll among the leaders in the Boys Athletic League Survey of New York.

Eddy: My old lady says she's going to put me down if I don't stop running around.

Sally answered the door. She had been doing the laundry all the morning and she was tired and she was evil.

"Good morning," said the man who had knocked. "I'm from the electric company. I understand there's something here that doesn't work."

The Birmingham, Alabama chapter of the NAACP is still waiting an answer from their Red Cross blood bank.

Miss Katherine Dunham runs a school of dancing from which she has more than once selected a pupil to join her world-renowned troupe.

Sam turned sad, grief-filled eyes on his friends. "My wife," he said, "ran off with my best friend in my car."

The friend's mouth popped open in disbelief. "Not your brand new car?" he exclaimed.

IS IT NERVES? "Doctor, there is a patient in the office that looks to me as though he has something catching."

"Who do you think so?" queried the doctor. "His scalp is raw in places and he says it itches him so that he can't keep from tearing it with his nails."

After a careful examination, which required several days, it was found that the nerves were not the original cause of the trouble, though the patient had grown very nervous.

Do not self-diagnose your case as nerves.

"For Women" CEREAL CONFECTIONS Try homemade cereal confections as a means of effecting a legitimate saving of the holiday budget.

Cereal Molasses Puffs are made by pouring a syrup over thrifty breakfast cereal. You can have your choice of three grain flavors by using puffed wheat, puffed rice, or crisp corn puffs.

You can form the syrup-cereal mixture into balls which have many uses. Hang as they are for tree decorations or tint the syrup with food coloring.

Use these cereal puffs as place cards by attaching a name to each one. For children, roll a little "prize" into the center of each ball.

Another recipe is for Cereal Marshmallow Squares—they're so easy to make that even youngsters can take over. Peanuts, chocolate, and oven-popped rice cereal are held together with a marshmallow mixture.

CEREAL MOLASSES PUFFS 3-4 cup light corn syrup 1-4 cup light molasses 1-2 teaspoon salt 1 teaspoon vinegar

SIGMA GAMMA RHO'S SUPREME BASILEUS FOUNDER'S DAY SPEAKER

Mrs. Sallie Edwards, national supreme basileus of the Sigma Gamma Rho sorority, was guest speaker Sunday on the local Sigma's Founder's Day Program at the Centenary Methodist Church. In a soft and charming manner, Mrs. Edwards chose as her subject, "Modes of Travel." In her discussion she brought out the fact that fools wander while wise men travel with a map for guidance -- Education not being a place but a way to a place -- She pointed out the great need of cooperation among greek organizations instead of the strife that sometimes peeps up -- All Greeks are the same, she pointed out -- your organization is just the mode of travel that you have chosen.

Mrs. Edwards, whose appearances all over the country as Grand Basileus of the Sigma Gamma Rho Sorority and a board member of the YWCA, have established her as one of the country's leading women and speakers. In her introduction of the guest speaker, Miss Harry Mae Sims, basileus of the local graduate chapter, stated that we were fortunate in having such an outstanding personality as Mrs. Edwards who is also a well known civic leader in St. Louis and serves as Chairman of the State Committee of Missouri for the White House Conference on Children and Youth.

It has been announced that Manassas and Douglass High Schools will meet in the fourth annual "Nursery Bowl," a charity game for the benefit of the Orange Mound Day Nursery.

The original plans were for the city-champion Thunderbolts of St. Augustine to appear in the post season classic but the Catholic high school's officials, coaches and varsity voted against playing a city team again in the season when they had already soundly trounced all local opposition.

The Manassas Tigers, runners-up for city-champ honors with Douglass, will have a chance to garner the second-place berth if they manage to thrash Douglass which upset them a few weeks back to take them out of a first-place tie with St. Augustine.

The game will be played in Melrose Stadium on November 29. Last year's game netted about two

DuBois' Wife, Shirley Graham, Calm At Trial

BROOKLYN — (ANP) — Shirley Graham, attractive author playwright wife of the scholarly octogenarian, Dr. W. E. B. DuBois, was pale but firm last week during an interview in her new duplex home in Brooklyn's exclusive residential section.

Mrs. DuBois stressed the thought that her husband is no traitor to his country but a devoted democratic American. The U. S. Department of Justice has charged that the now defunct Peace Information Center with headquarters in New York, once headed by Dr. DuBois, acted in behalf of a foreign principal.

Dr. DuBois and several associates and employees, including Elizabeth Moos, former school executive, Kylie Elkin, business man and Harvard graduate, Sylvia Soloff and Abbott Simon, because of their work there, are on trial for failure to register as foreign agents.

The plaintiffs say that they failed to register as agents of a foreign principal because they were not agents of any foreign principal.

Miss Graham said that every expensive and will continue to be pursued at great cost of both finance and loyalty of friends.

Speaking of her husband, Miss Graham said he was "brave, courageous unflinching and unretreating in his fight for peace and the alleviation of the oppression of colored peoples everywhere," she said.

"My husband is uncompromising in his fight for freedom. During his 50 years on the American scene his cry has been the same. The breaking of the chains of the downy-browed dark peoples everywhere. I will be at his side throughout the trial with an unswerving faith."

Mrs. DuBois was particularly encouraged by stands taken by J. A. Wachuku, African lawyer and founder of the New African Party.

"The indictment of Dr. DuBois shocks the conscience of humanity," said Dr. Wachuku in a letter to the wife of the defendant.

Student groups have rallied to his defense. The Defend Dr. W. E. B. DuBois is having a dinner in honor of the scholar, judge of Mercer county court, dismissed the appeal of Samuel Sukup, operator of the Hightstown Swimming Club, from a state order directing him to admit Negroes to the place.

Thomas B. Cook, deputy attorney general, moved for dismissal on grounds that Sukup had failed to pursue an appeal from the order. No further appeal is possible under New Jersey's recent court revision unless by special consent.

Charges of discrimination were leveled against Sukup when Negro school children were not allowed to take swimming lessons in his pool.

He refused to allow the colored children use of the pool. He testified he was operating a club and the Negroes lacked sponsors and physical examination certificates.

However, the Anti-Discrimination Division ruled on July 30 that he had discriminated and issued a re-

New Tax Forcing Numbers Men Out

CHICAGO — (ANP) — The new government occupational tax requiring operators of wagers, pools and lotteries conducted for profit, and the 10 per cent tax on his earnings, is working a hardship on police men throughout the country.

The tax which became effective November 1, requires that all operators purchase a $50 stamp. In addition bookies and others paying the tax now are required to register with the local collector of internal Revenue the following information: name and place of residence; places of business, and the names of place and residence of each person receiving wagers for them.

Only two persons in the Chicago area have purchased the tax stamp to date. One of them is James Lloyd, 34 Negro dining car waiter. Here is what happened to him:

Lloyd was seized as soon as Capt. Patrick Groak of Maxwell St. police learned of the stamp purchase, but was released when he told his story.

Lloyd said he wasn't actually in the gambling business. He told Capt. Groak he bought the stamp because he thought it might be well to get into the policy racket while everyone else was lying low because of new federal regulations over gamblers.

Capt. Groak's men visited Lloyd's home and reported it was empty. Lloyd explained that he was depending on his mother to set him up in business and that she is a veteran of the racket. He denied that he had been "put up" to the purchase by someone anxious to test the new law in Supreme court.

Capt. Groak then told Lloyd that he would land in jail if he opens a policy wheel. He was told that he could get his money back for not engaged in gambling since the law went into effect.

Similar experiences have been reported throughout the country, and has resulted in some numbers men reported willing to give up the business.

United Nations News

BY SAMUEL P. PERRY, JR., FOR ANP

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — (ANP) — Before leaving this week for the sixth session of the UN General Assembly in Paris, Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, Director of the UN Trusteeship Division, along with UN Assistant Secretary-General Benjamin Cohen, greeted a group of 30 Korean veterans, representing 19 nations.

Dr. Bunche told the veterans: "In Korea you have been engaged in the most unique, and quite probably the most significant, war in human history. A limited war, undertaken at the behest of the international community acting through the United Nations."

Madame Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, sister of India's Prime Minister Nehru a retiring Indian Ambassador to the United States will be best remembered for her stand as India's delegate to the United Nations back in 1947 against the late General Smuts of South Africa over the treatment of Indians in the Union of South Africa.

Madame Pandit has announced that she is returning to India primarily to seek election to the Indian Parliament because in such a role she could best serve her country.

SOUTH AFRICA HAS 12,000,000 PEOPLE

The population of the Union of South Africa on May 8, 1951 was 12,437,227, an increase of 1,088,187 over 1946.

The breakdown of the population is as follows: Europeans (whites), 3,588,033; Natives (Bantus), 8,410,135; Coloreds, 1,016,019; Cape Malays, 32,602; Asiatics, 358,738.

Asiatics now form the largest population group in Durban with a total of 157,951, as compared with 49,980 Europeans, 143,863 Natives, 5,025 Coloreds, and 798 Cape Malays. Durban has the third largest population in the Union following Johannesburg and Cape Town.

The apartheid (racial separation) policy of the Malan administration has been directed primarily at depriving the Union's Colored population of what little political rights they had ever in advisory capacities. As for native rights, the Union's white politicians had already minimized what little political strength that Bantus ever had, even in the mixed trade unions.

The sum of $7,500,000 is being spent in Jamaica on bauxite mining and processing by the Kaiser Bau-

Kansas Hotel Bias Seen As On Way Out

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — (NNPA) — The opening wedge in breaking down the practice of downtown hotels in refusing accommodations to colored persons after accepting their reservations was made last week as the result of an out-court settlement of a suit filed here last March 9 by A. Maceo Smith of Dallas, Texas, against the Hotel Phillips.

Carl R. Johnson, attorney for Smith, said it was the first such settlement made in Kansas City against downtown hotels and one of the first in the Midwest.

"From now on, hotels in Kansas City and in other cities will think twice before accepting reservations of persons and later refusing them when it is discovered that they are colored," Johnson predicted.

Smith, a staff member of the Federal Housing Administration, sought 5,000 damages against the Hotel Phillips for its refusal to honor a reservation which Smith has made in advance during the Tri-convention of Greek letter organizations here last December.

Smith, a delegate to the Alpha Phi Alpha convention, was one of two men who were refused accommodations by the hotel when the management discovered that they were colored. The other delegate refused was Earl E. Pruitt, housing manager of the Beach Terrace housing project in Louisville, Kentucky.

Smith said the hotel denied him accommodations by telephone upon his arrival in Kansas City.

The FHA official said he sent the following telegram to the Hotel Phillips on December 22:

"Please provide hotel accommodations December 27-31. Single with bath preferred. Wire confirmation today collect. 2011 N. Washington Street. (Signed) A. Maceo Smith, Federal Housing Administrator."

On the same day, Smith stated, he received the following reply from the hotel:

"Single reserved for arrival K. C. Dec. 27. Hotel Phillips."

Smith said he arrived in Kansas City about 8:35 a. m., December 27, and that he telephoned the hotel for room assignment because he planned to visit the local office of the FHA before going to the hotel.

Smith said he arrived in Kansas City about 8:35 a. m., December 27, and that he telephoned the hotel for room assignment because he planned to visit the local office of the FHA before going to the hotel.

He added that his engagements and conferences were thrown out of order and he was embarrassed and subjected to ridicule and scorn in the presence of persons standing at the receiving desk of the hotel, only one of whom, Victor I. Hicks of Detroit, was known to him.

He branded the conduct of the hotel as "malicious and unwarranted" and charged that the refusal of accommodations to him was done to hold him up to "disrepute and disparagement" because of his color.

As a result, he alleged that he was damaged in the sum of $5,000, demanded for which had been made upon the hotel and refused.

The suit was filed by Johnson on behalf of the American Council on Human Rights.

A number of American business men, some of whom have recently acquired interests in the Republic have announced their intention of attending the ceremonies. Numerous Liberian officials in America and other countries are returning home for the occasion.

In addition to several state department attaches there will be a number of colored Americans on hand in addition to the numerous colored Americans already here working on Point 4 and various government programs.

Dr. Raphael O'Hara Lanier, President of Texas State University and former U. S. Minister to Liberia is attending as guest of the Liberian government.

He was informed that he had been assigned to room No. 1607 and that the reservation would be held until 5 p. m. that day.

But when he arrived at the hotel prior to 6 p. m., Smith said, he was told by the desk clerk that a "mistake" had been made and that Room 1607 had been rented, although the clerk had informed him a short-time before that the room was available to him.

Smith stated that after much discussion and his protests he was informed that the hotel did not and could not accommodate him because he was colored and that the hotel did not serve colored people.

Smith said he had come from his home in Dallas with full plans and arrangements to stop at Hotel Phillips and that he had advised his executive associates and other persons with whom he had appointments in Kansas City and that the refusal by the hotel to furnish him the facilities and services for which he had contracted left him without housing accommodations in Kansas City for more than twenty-four hours.

He added that his engagements and conferences were thrown out of order and he was embarrassed and subjected to ridicule and scorn in the presence of persons standing at the receiving desk of the hotel, only one of whom, Victor I. Hicks of Detroit, was known to him.

Dr. Bethune, Sampson May Attend Tubman's Inaugural

MONROVIA, Liberia — (ANP) — Mrs. Mary McLeod Bethune, president emerita of the National Council of Negro Women and Mrs. Edith Spurlock Sampson, former alternate delegate to the United Nations, may officially represent the United States at the inauguration of President William V. S. Tubman on January 4.

Both names have been proposed to the White House but no official announcement has been forthcoming as yet.

Eta Moten, the well known mezzosoprano, has been invited to sing during the inauguration exercises which will include a series of events, soirees and receptions occupying a solid week.

Plans for the inauguration have the entire populations standing on tiptoe. It is expected to be one of the most dramatic and colorful celebrations ever seen in West Africa. Secretary of State Gabriel L. Dennis, a past master at protocol, is in charge of arrangements.

Chiefs from the interior areas of the country with their retainers, drummers and singers will be much in evidence. President Tubman, a man of the people, is idolized by the natives. It is he who led the indigenous people to complete citizenship. He fought successfully for the enfranchisement of people who formerly could not vote. His efforts to expand educational opportunities have also added to his popularity.

Dignitaries from many foreign nations will be present for the occasion. Liberians are racking their brains to arrange adequate accommodations for the expected guests.

Months of festivity even normally for his gay ceremonies and lavish, exotic parties, is expected to surpass all previous records.

Labor Congress Lauds Randolph For Leadership

ROME — (ANP) Daily paper disapproves did not give an adequate picture of the important party which was played by A. Philip Randolph, a delegate to the World Congress of the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions.

The congress, held in the great hall of the Ice Palace at Milan and delegates from more than 50 countries. There were men of brown, black and yellow skins mingling indiscriminately with those of white.

The suspicion and opposition to Africans on the part of many delegates was noticeable. This was especially true as efforts were made to include Yugoslavia in the membership.

The attitude of the other delegates was softened if not completely removed, by the extemporaneous address of Randolph, Negro delegate and president of the International Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters.

Randolph, in line with American strategy, did the greater share of representing the combined U. S. delegations and made an eloquent plea to accept the fact that the Americans were "on the level" and in the movement for all it was worth and not just for themselves. He said they had no desires for leadership or domination of the other members.

There was much better spirit in every way toward the closing of the sessions and Mr. Randolph himself was the object of considerable interest and attention.

400 Escape Death In Louisiana Hospital

JACKSON, La. — Four hundred Negro inmates of the Louisiana Mental hospital here were carried to safety last week following the setting of fire to three buildings by a Negro pyromaniac.

A 21-year-old mental patient whose identity has not been made known, admitted to starting the blaze because he "didn't want to be locked up."

The suspect, according to a hospital official, though a mental patient, is well aware of what he did. He will be transferred to the colony for the criminally insane patients about four miles from the main patient area.

The pyromaniac, it is said, got out by breaking a window with a shoe. He then found some old papers and started a fire in an abandoned ward building. Later he set fires to a paint truck parked near the hospital's maintenance shops.

He next walked about two miles to an outlying farm colony of the hospital and went to sleep in a building where he was found the next morning and readily confessed.

The patient, it is said, was first committed to a New York mental hospital where he attempted to escape by setting fire to a door in a building. He was transferred to Jackson because of his Louisiana citizenship.

The estimated damage is more than $60,000 and fire apparatus from several communities raced to the scene to help extinguish the blaze.

An official said that there are three types of patients to contend with: suicidal, runaway alcoholics and firebugs.

General Grant Refuses To Pose With Confederate Flag

NEW ORLEANS — (Major Gen. Ulysses S. Grant III, (Ret.)) upheld the principle of his "Dama Yankee" grandfather when he refused to pose for a picture holding the Stars and Bars of the Confederacy here last week.

The general gave as his reason: "I am refusing because I believe this entire craze for displaying the Confederate flag on automobiles and elsewhere is cheapening the flag of a people who had a sincere and deep conviction.

"And will one of you reporters please tell me why they insist in calling the Civil War, the War Between the States?"

Gen. Grant said the South should hold nothing against his grandfather who, was very careful to write the terms of surrender so that officers would retain their side arms and so that General Robert E. Lee would not be humiliated by having to part with his sword.

The retired Engineer Corps paid respect to Lee, and to Gen. P. T. G. Beauregard. The latter will be remembered for ordering the flag of the Union fired on at Fort Sumter in the harbor at Charleston S. C.

SCIENTIST SAYS SMOKING IS LIKE "SUCKING THUMB"

BY CLAUDE V. WARREN International News Service Staff Correspondent

DURHAM, N. C. — After five years studying the problem Dr. Geolo McHugh of Duke University tonight believes parents fall behind in teaching youth intelligent use of tobacco.

McHugh, a psychologist at the University in Durham, came to the conclusion after studying smoking histories of 600 Columbia and Duke University students.

Psychologically, the Duke scientist says, smoking can be classed with other tension release habits such as chewing gum, biting nails and sucking thumbs. He maintains that "smoking is far more acceptable."

Since tobacco use is a "national pastime," McHugh adds, "it is going to be with us a long time, and adults should teach young people to use it right instead of becoming victims to it."

Excessive tobacco use was found to induce inefficiency in living habits of cases brought under scrutiny. The researcher commented: "For example, the constant demand for a cigarette under the slightest conditions of stress causes cigarettes to hinder efficient living and working."

McHugh leaves it to the doctors to decide if smoking can be proven more harmful than useful. But for smokers who "want to cut down but still enjoy cigarettes," he has this bit of advice:

"Set aside an hour or two at the beginning of each day and don't smoke no matter how much you want to. After that, smoke as much as you like for the rest of the day." He said the technique has been proven to get results.

McHugh finds that most youngsters take up smoking for two main reasons. He puts it this way: "Smoking relieves the part of the adolescent's tension feelings and inadequacy at the time. And it fits in with so many different situations."

"In all cases, the answers were negative." Which means that psychologically parents fall short.

The professor observed: "All of them used either scare techniques or a moralizing approach rather than constructive teaching."

He said the parent who tries to scare a child into quitting smokes has little chance of success and stands to cause even more problems.

Hubbard said a nationwide survey shows a let-up in state action to help schools during the past two years.

He placed part of the blame on higher federal taxation and increased costs of local and state governments which have "tightened" the public's attitude toward taxes.

Hubbard added: "Reluctance to increase local and state taxes in turn impairs efforts to meet the need for higher teachers' salaries, new school construction, and recruitment in teacher education."

Hubbard said the survey indicates the problem will become worse in the future.

He reported: "Because of birth rates and population mobility, the shortage of buildings for elementary school pupils is likely to continue for several years after 1956-57, the estimated year of peak enrollment."

He stated that 400,000 of the nation's pupils, not on a full-time basis, are attending in double sessions "or under other inadequate arrangements."

Classroom teachers are receiving an average annual salary of $3,167, according to the survey. Three per cent receive less than $1,500 and 21 per cent from $1,500 to $2,399.

The NEA has recommended a minimum annual salary of $3,200 for teachers, but Hubbard said "even this would be below the sum necessary to restore the average salary of teachers to the pre-war status in relation to earnings of all gainfully employed persons."

Court To Rule On Aged Couple Marriage Okay

ARLINGTON, Va. — (NNPA) — A wife might be too expensive for the Rev. Harrison Galloway, 88, who recently sold his shack and the and on which it was built to the Hestek Company, a department store, for $25,000. Arlington Circuit Court Judge Walter T. McCarthy said last Friday.

Judge McCarthy delayed his ruling on whether or not the aged minister may obtain a license to marry Mrs. Rose Lewis, 64, Washington, D. C. widow, until legal authority for such a ruling can be found. P. H. Harris, the Rev. Mr. Galloway's attorney, said he expected to present legal authorities to the court Wednesday morning.

Judge McCarthy last October 30 ruled that the minister was mentally incompetent to manage his own affairs and appointed J. Charles Young, an attorney of Alexandria, Va., guardian of Mr. Galloway's estate.

Rev. Galloway and Mrs. Lewis applied for a marriage license on November 7, but H. Bruce Green, Arlington County Clerk, asked for a court order to issue the license in view of the incompetency ruling.

Judge McCarthy said last Friday that he was not inclined to issue the order since he believed Mr. Galloway to be insane, according to a legal definition, and marriage licenses cannot be issued to insane persons.

"I am of the deepest opinion that this old man should be allowed to spend his own money on himself before he dies," said the judge.

"But he needs someone to cook for him and wash for him," said Mr. Harris.

"Can't he get someone to cook and wash for him without getting married?" asked Judge McCarthy.

"That's quite expensive," replied Mr. Harris.

"It might not be as expensive as a wife might be," remarked Judge McCarthy.

Sight School Fund Shortage

WASHINGTON — The National Education Association declared yesterday that shortages of teachers and facilities are robbing thousands of students this year.

NFA research director Frank W. Hubbard said schools throughout the country are caught in a "cross-fire" of rising costs, rising enrollments and reduced purchasing power and manpower.

Hubbard said a nationwide survey shows a let-up in state action to help schools during the past two years.

He placed part of the blame on higher federal taxation and increased costs of local and state governments which have "tightened" the public's attitude toward taxes.

Brooklyn Negroes Give Blood To Red Cross For Korea Boys

BROOKLYN — (ANP) — Brooklyn Negroes have been doing an "outstanding job" in support to the Red Cross blood program and other activities, but, like the rest of the community, "they must increase their blood donations and other volunteer activities" if the Red Cross is to meet its steadily-growing commitments to armed forces, civil defense and the community. This message comes from Mr. Richard B. Loomis, Chairman of the Brooklyn Red Cross chapter, who said that "since the early days of World War II, the Negro population of Brooklyn has become an integral part of our Red Cross operation." He cited particularly Negro support of the Red Cross campaign to collect blood for the United Nations forces in Korea and for military needs. "The Concord Baptist Church, for example, he said, "has already been visited several times by our mobile blood donor units and has compiled a record of donations that is not equalled by any church in the borough."

COMPETITORS HONORED—New York—Two Kentucky ministers competed for $5,290 in cash when they appeared as contestants on Bristol-Myers' radio quiz show "Break the Bank" (ABC-11:30 to 12:00 Noon, EST—Mondays thru Fridays).

Quered by emcee Bud Chally were Reverends D. E. King (left), 2818 West Chestnut St., Louisville, Ky., and E. B. Dunbar, 209 Jefferson St., Georgetown, Ky. They won $100 in a category called "Famous Georges." Just two correct answers shy of breaking the bank, they were counted out for failing to identify two authors whose pen names are George. Answer: George Sand and George Eliot.

Reverend King is minister of the Zion Baptist Church at 22nd and Walnut in Louisville, and Reverend Dunbar is minister of the First Baptist Church in Georgetown. They were on a short visit in New York City after having attended a convention at Howard University in Washington, D. C. Both are married. Rev. Dunbar has three children and Rev. King, two.

Powerless To Act In Stork Club, SLA Says

NEW YORK — (SNS) — Although the Alcoholic Beverage Control law of New York State affirms, in Article V, Section 65 that service "shall not be refused, withheld from or denied to any person on account of race, creed, color or national origin," the State Liquor Authority has informed the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People that it "has no jurisdiction in cases involving discrimination."

In a letter addressed to Walter White NAACP executive secretary, who had filed a complaint with the authority against the Stork Club, George P. Buttery, Jr. SLA acting chief executive officer, said that the Authority has "no power under the Alcoholic Beverage Control law to institute revocation proceedings against licensees on basis of complaints of discrimination."

Following discourteous and discriminatory service accorded Miss Josephine Baker at the Stork Club on the night of October 18, Mr. White wired the SLA asking that it "investigate and hold public hearings at which we request permission to be present and present witnesses regarding possible violation of the state's ABC and civil rights laws. The SLA reported that it was investigating the complaint. However, no public hearings were held.

to carry out his pledges to the people.

But the social forces which operate in a metropolitan city were too much for him. With each step he made toward his goal, Lockwood found that he had to compromise with his principals. He soon became trapped in political intrigues from which there was no escape. When confronted with the challenge of supporting labor in a decisive strike, he ordered the police out to break it. It left him the political ruler of the city, but he had completely degenerated. In the end he lost his wife and his friends.

Motley has given us a keen insight into life in Chicago during the past 10 years. In Aaron, the Jewish boy, we are able to see the Jewish problem; in Dave, the Neblem, and in Lockwood, the Polish problem as well as on-over-all picture of Chicago machine politics. This overall picture may at times seem harsh, but it is never lacking in plausibility.

"We Fished All Night" may well be compared to "All the Kings Men." It is certainly as powerful and pulls no punches. The central characters in both stories start out as idealists who are desirous of working for the good of the people, but who in the end become victims of forces beyond their control. Both stories make one wonder if it is possible to remain honest and be a public figure.

Whether or not the corruption lies in our lack of moral principals or is inherent in our methods of selecting our political representatives is open for debate. Still such novels as "We Fished All Night" force us to think about it.

A native Chicagoan, Motley writes well, but I think at times he is a little too windy; that is he takes up a lot of space in repeating himself. However, his latest book should win, as many readers as "Knock on Any Door" which was made into a movie.

Seasonal Workers Add To Nation's Economy

NEW YORK — (SNS) — In dusty trucks and battered jalopies, more than a million seasonal workers and their families moved up and down the country this year, a tide driven by the harvests, north in the summer, south in the winter, following the crops.

Men in overalls, barefoot children women wearing trousers under their skirts to protect their knees in the fields, they picked the urgently ripening crops for U. S. markets, canneries, frozen food processing plants, cotton gins, tobacco warehouses. Vital to the national economy—they supplement local labor in the weeks when crops must be harvested or rot in the fields.

A nation-wide survey released here today by the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U. S. A. showed that this year the migrant workers had helped bring in for example $48,000,000 worth of cotton in New Mexico; $700,000,000 in fruit, vegetables and other crops in Washington; $1,500,000,000 in nuts, fruits, vegetables and cotton in California; $311,000,000 in tomatoes and other crops in New Jersey, $121,587,000 in fruit and vegetables in Florida.

Contributors to the nation's prosperity, the migrants themselves are often jobless and hungry, shut out of local school and churches, ignored or resented by the communities where they work for a little while. Their plight was given nation-wide recognition on last spring in the report of the President's Commission on Migratory Labor.

Says Discrimination May Cost U. S. Victory Over Communism

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. — (ANP) — Racial discrimination in America may result in the democratic forces losing their battle against Communism.

That was the warning Elmer W. Henderson, national director of the American Council on Human Rights, gave the local chapter of the organization.

Speaking last week at Winston-Salem Teachers College auditorium on the subject "Human Rights and the World Crisis," Henderson said: "The world is being divided into two opposite camps. World Communism, led by Russia, and World Democracy, led by the United States. Then there is a vast mass of people outside of these two great aggregations who have not yet made up their minds to which camp they belong.

"Many thoughtful people believe the balance of power is still in the hands of the undecided people who are in general the brown and black skinned people of Southern Asia, the Pacific Islands, Asia Minor, Africa and the Negroes. If they want to be free, but not necessarily to adopt Communism or Democracy, if there is not real freedom under these ideologies.

"They are saying, if we accept the offer made us by America we may find ourselves in the same situation as those Negro citizens in America who are constantly being segregated and discriminated against in various ways. Turning to allegations on discrimination against the Negroes, the speaker said: "We saw the race question become a dominant issue in the last national and state elections. The Dixiecrat situation was mainly a try for a new Confederacy. "We are seeing now, in the prelude to the elections of next year, the same type of development. There seems to be a feeling that it would be better to go down in defeat than to give all citizens full equality."

Little Gambling Seen In Detroit

DETROIT — (ANP) — There is a lot of "wallowing and gnashing of teeth" by the big gambling fraternity here since Uncle Sam has put the bite on them in the form of a $50 occupation tax.

The law seems to hit the numbers backers here harder than any other type of gambling. Many of the smaller numbers barons have folded up saying they can not pay the tax. Whether they intend to resort to "bootleg" operations could not be ascertained.

Only a few, 36 out of a possible 200, according to police records, have registered for tax stamps. Most of the operators balk on the government supplying the local police with the operator's record. As for the numbers backers there is some talk of reducing the rate of payoff from 500-1 to 300-1 and the writer's percentage from 25 percent to 15 percent.

The law has been tight on the numbers backers here for a long time, but Tuesday was the first time in the history of the numbers game here that there was no number for the day.

Among bookies Negroes stand a better chance of operating without the government stamp than any other. All of them now operate on a walking pocket business. He will write your ticket in a pool room, alley, barbershop or any place. His favorite spot is a telephone booth in any convenient store.

Overprotection of Indians Cause of Maladjustment

Overprotection of the Indians in which attitudes of despair and dependence are widespread are a permanent contributor to their slow progress and retardation, according to a report in the American Indian Quarterly Magazine of the Association of American Indian Affairs.

Observers of Indian life like those of African life (particularly South Africa) claim the people are crying for greater freedom of opportunity and stamina to manage their own affairs and destiny. Tribes wish to learn by their own experience, according to experts.

Leaders Ask For Six-Power Parley

CHICAGO — Calling upon Americans to recognize the necessity of convening a peace conference of the major world powers, including China and India to work out a stable peace settlement, Dr. Anton J. Carlson, Distinguished Service Professor Emeritus of Physiology, University of Chicago, today headed a copy of a statement for World Peace which 40 national leaders submitted to the State Department yesterday.

"War is one of the most stupid activities of an enlightened humanity," declared Dr. Carlson. "It puts us on the level of the snake, the hyena and the tiger." The statement, prepared by Dr. Carlson, goes further than any peace pleas recently issued. It calls for "Abandoning of war as a means of settling or settling international differences" and warns that "no lover of peace can fail to see that events are bringing not peace but a sword — the sword of expanded warfare in Korea, of the threatened bombing of China, of new military alliances, of arms for Germany and Japan, of atomic armaments races."

Urging "agreements and concessions for peace, not alliances for atomic war," the statement calls upon the major powers including India to make a "supreme effort to find a peaceful agreement before it is too late."

In an attempt to break through the difficulties and delays which have made exchange between nations so lengthy, the distinguished signers have asked the State Department to forward the appeal to the heads of the governments of the United States, the Soviet Union, Great Britain, France, China and India "to meet and in the name of humanity to initiate negotiations for a peace agreement to settle differences that threaten to plunge the world into atomic war."

In addition to the complete abandoning of war, the statement asks for: Peaceful settlement in Asia guaranteeing independence and self government for the people of the Pacific; Banning of atomic and biologic weapons and provision for progressive disarmament; Economic agreements sponsored by the United Nations.

Negroes Remain Loyal To Firm Facing Bankruptcy

DETROIT — (ANP) — Many Negroes were among the 175 employees of a Detroit meat-packing firm who worked without pay to keep the company from declaring a state of bankruptcy.

Last week this loyalty paid off when each man and woman who volunteered to stay on the job to keep Hammond, Standish and Co. from going broke received a check for one week's wages. "It marked the first payday in three weeks for the employees. — Many of them said they had expected to work even longer without a check.

The company began having its trouble when the price for pork on the hoof soared. It found itself caught between rising prices and government ceilings for processed pork.

When the president of the company, Joseph Strobl, told the employees that the company was in trouble, the workers, with the approval of the United Packing-house Workers Union, CIO, volunteered to work nine weeks without pay until the company got back on its feet. "Most of all, it was a successful experiment in human relations and in union-management labor relations," Strobl said.

College Heads Seek Means Of Curbing Sports Evils

WASHINGTON — (INS) — A committee of 10 leading college presidents met Monday to find a way to "eliminate the evil" from intercollegiate sports and pledged there will be no "whitewash."

President John A. Hannah of Michigan State College, which has one of the nation's top football teams this year, give the no-punches-pulled promise and said a solution will take "weeks or months."

The college heads comprise a committee formed by the American Council on Education following revelations of scandals among college basketball players and charges of over-emphasis on football. They opened sessions in Washington by questioning three sports writer and followed up by calling Asa Bushnell, Commissioner of the Eastern Colleges, and Tug Wilson, Commissioner of the Big Ten.

Hannah said that improved job security for athletic coaches was explored as one possible solution to the "evils" in college sports. He said this was "one of many" proposals discussed with Bushnell and Wilson and emphasized that "no specific conclusions were reached."

The Michigan State president said sentencing of 15 basketball fivers in New York today as "another indication of the need" for the committee of college presidents.

Hannah, chairman of the committee, declared that "if the American people have the right to expect integrity anywhere, they have the right to expect it in colleges and universities."

He said the committee is starting on the assumption that there is "much good" in college football and other sports and that they should be "part of the overall educational program."

Strassner Inducted As Shaw's Sixth President

RALEIGH, N. C. — "For 86 years, this institution has sent forth thousands of young men and women with the basic equipment for educational, professional, social and religious services to people across the nation and in foreign lands. The spirit of Shaw is the spirit of service, and may it spirit never die," stated the Reverend William R. Strassner, sixth president of Shaw University upon the occasion of his inauguration during impressive 86th Founder's Day ceremonies in the Raleigh Memorial Auditorium, last Friday night.

Recognizing and commending the presence of three former presidents in attendance, Dr. Strassner accepted his responsibility as head of this historic educational institution with a pledge of the faithful performance of the duties involved to the best of his ability.

The Reverend Edwin McNeil Poteat, vice-chairman of the board of trustees presided over the ceremonies. Representatives from 52 colleges and universities, 15 learned societies and educational organizations attended and took part in the entire Founder's Day exercises and induction proceedings.

The new president praised the building program of Shaw's former presidents; he espoused "the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina for their support to and interest in the progress of the institution; he paid special tribute to Henry Hartin Tupper as founder and said, "Shaw was born of the spirit of service. It is therefore the purpose of Shaw not to prepare young men primarily to make a living, but rather to make a life of service to mankind."

Broadening the scope of his administration at Shaw, the Reverend said, "We have already entered upon an intensive study and evaluation of all phases of our University program, including the immediate objectives of this institution, faculty status, curricular offerings in the light of present day needs, physical equipment, economic resources and student life and activity. Upon this study we shall address ourselves to a program designed to gain added strength and stability to Shaw University for its task of providing the best possible education for our youth."

Closing the brilliant address, he advised the students to make the most of their opportunity.

WE FISHED ALL NIGHT, BY WILLARD MOTLEY; PUBLISHED BY APPLETON - CENTURY - ROBERTS' INC., N. Y. 500 pp. Price $3.75

MOTLEY'S LATEST NOVEL HOLDS MIRROR ON CHICAGO POLITICS

The author of "Knock on Any Door" has come up with another power-packed social novel. Unlike many Negro writers, Willard Motley does not confine himself to writing about Negroes. "We Fished All Night," has its setting in the near Northside of Chicago. Its central character is Don Lockwood, a Polish boy who is ashamed of his impoverished family background, and who aspires to be someone.

His noble ideals and aspirations were stifled by social forces produced by World War II and corrupt politicians. Returning from the war minus a leg, Lockwood caught the attention of Thomas McCarran, unscrupulous politician of the old school who saw in him someone to further his reign as Czar of Chicago politics on the near Northside.

McCarraan decided Lockwood would be an ideal candidate for state representative. Lockwood previously had stated that he was in favor of a liberal program for the Negro, the Jew, and labor. And since he was a veteran, McCarran felt that he could win the election. However, newspapers saw through his scheme to use Lockwood as a cat's paw to catch the huge minority and labor vote. They denounced Lockwood as being a tool of McCarran; consequently, he lost the race for state representative.

Embittered, but unable to realize the truth in the accusations, Lockwood directs his disappointment at the Jewish people, the Negro people, and labor. He accuses them of having let him down.

When finally he was made to realize that McCarran was using him, and there fore, had no intentions of allowing him to fulfill his campaign pledges for public housing, FEPC, and liberal labor legislation, he began to work to oust McCarran as political leader.

Lockwood worked diligently to end the reign of McCarran and as some leadership himself. He kept telling himself that once he was in control of things, he would be able

Cop Loses Finger
Tip As Woman
Resents Arrest

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—A Florida Highway patrolman lost the tip of his finger Tuesday. It was bitten off in a struggle with a Negro man and woman whom he had arrested for fighting alongside the road.

Patrolman Wallace Smith said that state highway officer, Jack Dorsey found the couple fighting just off the road side near Sopchoppy. The woman had a razor and the man had a knife and both had been drinking "plenty."

Dorsey put them in his patrol car and started to Crawfordville. The irate couple, Smith said, attacked the officer and after a bitter struggle he managed to stop the car without a traffic mishap.

But still unable to get away from the couple, a passerby happened up and found the man, Willie Andrews trying to choke Dorsey and the woman Ruby Wilson kicking at his head. The couple is reported to have fled the scene, but were later tracked down by bloodhounds and are being held in the Crawfordville jail.

The cop wound up in the Tallahassee hospital with head, chest, and leg burises, and minus the end of a finger.

High Churchmen To Attend
Atlanta Convocation

The question of religious freedom as challenged by the President's proposal to appoint an Ambassador to the Vatican, the selection of a suitable headquarters for the National Council of Churches, and a large scale program of interchurch cooperation for the South will be the key topics in a series of church conferences in Atlanta next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, November 27, 28 and 29.

The three-day gathering will be attended by representatives of churches and church councils from Alabama, North and South Carolina, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia.

The Southeastern Convocation, which is backed by the Southeastern Advisory Committee, and sponsored by the National Council of Churches will meet at St. Luke's Episcopal Church, November 27 to 29.

The Rev. Ernest J. Arnold, Director of the National Council's Southeastern office in Atlanta, said the convocation will deal with issues of Church and state relationships, human rights in reference to under privileged people, church cooperation and moral issues involved in exposures of public corruption.

"This historic convocation, marking the first anniversary of the creation of the National Council of Churches will seek fresh and untried ways of bringing God back in to our American life," Mr. Arnold said.

"Our purpose is to bring the churches an awareness of what they can achieve together in helping to solve the crucial issues of our times," he said. "The churches ed." However, an interesting note was made in a later statement of former Secretary of State and Justice of the U. S. Supreme Courts, Governor James F. Byrnes, when he encouraged the training of more colored men for training in the medical field.

In answer to the Mississippi Governor's statement on segregation, Harry S. Ashmore, executive Editor of the Arkansas Gazette spoke his mind in a speech to the Governors in the afternoon session. Ashmore called for a realistic step toward dealing with the race problem in the South.

The Arkansas editor pointed out the tragic and internal political struggle of the region in 1948, and said "If race was not in fact a prime factor, it was, as in 1860, the emotional issue of the hour." Ashmore pointed out that the South should meet the demands of the constitution which called for and "demanded full civil liberties, and full equality of opportunity be extended to all citizens without discrimination."

Mr. Ashmore further stated that his understanding of civil rights was that which involved "the right to vote, the right to serve on juries, freedom of worship, protection of person and the like."

The conference also heard several other Governors including Governor Herman Talmadge who sat throughout the meeting, without difficulty, at a non-segregated table of leaders of both races. Governor Gordon Browning of Tennessee presided over most of the meeting. Governor Sid McMath of Arkansas also spoke.

Governor Browning presented the new Negro members of the Board of Control for Southern Regional Education. They included Doctor Lawrence A. Davis, AM & N College, Dr. Martin D. Jenkins, president

The primary objective of the Blues Bowl is to raise funds for the poor, and at the same time to give the public the best teams that we can.

When St. Augustine won in the Manassas Game, Father Capistran Haas came to my office, he said that he had talked with Prof. Hunt, and he thought a game between Booker T. Washington in the Blues Bowl would be a great drawing card.

When I put the question of St. Augustine playing on the 29th for the Nursery Game and again on the 3rd for the Blues Bowl, the Blues Bowl Committee agreed.

Last year, the game sustained heavy losses. A team was brought from Oklahoma. It snowed and steered the night of the game.

"Look at the chart..." He already had it in his hand; reading it, he began to chuckle, then to roar with laughter.

"Shut up," she said finally. "But this is the best joke—" "I suppose you know that you're the father of the child?"

"How many will know that?" "And even those who do—Oh, Nicholas, can't you do something for me?"

"He made a business of hanging the chart to the bedrail. 'What is there one can do about gossip?' he asked quietly.

"But we have to do something! How can I stand up before my next class of medics? Or maintain the proper nurse-doctor relationship over at Children's and Orthopedic when I go back to work?"

She sat straight up, away from the sloping back rest. "I told you weeks ago to warn Peter Shepherd against Clara Wayne!" she said tensely.

Doctor DuBois Acquitted

A United States Federal District Court, sitting in judgment of Dr. W. E. B. DuBois for "failing to register the Peace Information Center as a foreign agent," decided that there was no evidence which could be substantiated on which to base such a charge. Naturally we are gratified over the decision and regret exceedingly that such a flimsy charge could ever be blown up to such proportions in America against so distinguished a man. Indeed, America owes to Dr. DuBois, more than to any other living Negro American, a great debt of gratitude for his contributions to the spiritual and intellectual life of this nation. He is no ordinary student of human relations. The work of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is strong today because of the pioneering leadership—intellectual and spiritual—given to it by DuBois. Race relations have advanced in the direction of brotherhood because of the work of Dr. DuBois.

It is unfortunate, therefore, that after laboring so long so well in the cause of freedom and for a great America, we have citizens among us who are so fickle as to fall prey to such insidious propaganda. The pattern for such nonsense, of course, heads up in what we Americans have sadly come to know as the Red Hunt. No opportunity should be lost in running down Communists in the Nation. But it is equally as important that the Government protect its honest and upright citizens from assassination by headline hunters. Dr. DuBois had no reason for being arraigned.

We Endorse Principles, Not Party

That we should not think of the 1952 presidential election merely as a political party or candidate affair, was sound advice coming from President Truman in his speech recently. The President intimated that too often we forget the real issues in a political campaign and direct our attention to "party" and "candidates."

It should strike us with force, an impelling force, the undesirable and regrettable "race-friction" propaganda being hurled into the air by members of both the Democratic and Republican Party. If we were to make our choice by party affiliation we can't help but recall that it is the Democratic party that has done so many things to keep us below the full status of citizenship; or that it is the Republican party who helped these Democrats keep us from making civil rights in the government a practice, instead of a theory.

Or, we can say that Roosevelt was a Democrat and so is Truman, and these two have done more to promote improvement in our general welfare than any body; and that Lincoln was a Republican; so was Willie and others who have contributed to the type of public service we admire.

If we are to choose by party, we would be so mixed up as to which party to choose we probably would end up choosing the wrong party.

The issues in this coming election extend beyond the scope of political party label.

History tells us that religion and race, when issues in a national election, have been the most upsetting factors in our national life. The only times that the south has revolted from the ranks of the Democratic Party were in 1928, when they bolted against Al Smith because he was a Catholic and in 1948 when the Truman civil right proposals were included in the Democratic platform. Foreign policy, taxation, farm stabilization, and the many other issues that play a part in party political maneuvering does not hinder or help the election of a party candidate as does the racial or religious issues.

Since we are main prey in one of these issues, our objective in the coming election should be to choose the candidate whose reputation and concern bespeaks consideration for our general welfare.

The history of party makes no difference, since both parties have been in our corner, as well as, our foe. Let us look to the future with a new insight of political affiliation.

Our vote is the only bargaining power we have to accomplish those advantages and guarantees of rights in this commonwealth. We owe that vote to nobody but the future, our future in America. Our full objective is to guarantee as far as possible, by our action now, that our posterity will be enhanced by the process of government—not by men, and not by parties.

We should have come to know and realize that, although we cannot change our present form of government, nor does it seem likely that we can get our just deserts through its present mode of operation, we can change the ways and means by which we can get justice in this form of government.

That method is undeniably one that impels us to against those who talk and act against us and to vote for those who are inclined to want to give us justice, just as long as they contend for justice for all the people of this nation irrespective of color.

We, too, must cast aside our tradition and expediency, in voting, and vote our sincere convictions—for complete justice and freedom.

Gov. Browning

Further stated that the Legislature's appropriation for the school's budget merely provided an avenue of expression of the real school, "born in the hearts of people who have interpreted what was in the hearts of other people."
Dr. Davis, in responding to Governor Browning's speech, praised him as "a great governor" and said that the state's Chief Executive's struggle to elevate the college to University status is merely one phase of his liberal program of progress—including betterment of economic and social conditions of the populace.
State education officials praised Dr. Davis for his ability to carry the school from a moderate college

By Silas P. Washington
An example of the good will we had in mind in last week's article was supplied in Harry Ashmore, executive editor of the Little Rock (Arkansas) Gazette, at the annual Southern Governor's Conference at Hot Springs.

Mr. Ashmore said: "All too often, segregation has meant denial of essential human dignity to members of the Negro minority. We cannot continue to turn our backs upon justice simply because a black man is its victim nor can we find a safe retreat in the sort of legalistic buck-passing that recognizes the existence of an evil but insists that it is somebody else's responsibility."

Though the applause was "decorous," as Thomas L. Stokes reported (the governors of Mississippi, Texas and one other state abstaining completely), the indictment is bound to have had its effect.

That such a spirit in time will sweep the whole south-land is inevitable and inherent in our form of government.

Also, The Memphis World editorially on November 16: "Arkansas, led by its liberal Governor, Sid McMath, is in the vanguard of southern states seeking a more equitable and peaceful solution of the white-Negro relationship. It was the first and only southern state to voluntarily, without a court fight, open its doors of higher educational institutions to Negroes. Negroes and whites vote together without indictment and with mutual acceptance."

Such good will is obviously stronger than fight, and it should, for that reason, be cultivated. Again, Thomas L. Stokes, writing from Washington for Scripps-Howard says: "There is a buoyant new generation in the South that knows only the South and it sees that all about it. The younger generation, which exuberantly waves Confederate flags at college football celebrations, also rises up against its elders and welcomes Negro students among it to break down old barriers."

This is another illustration of the kind of good will we had in mind. It may be clarifying to mention in this connection that Mr. Stokes is a native, but liberal and transplanted, Southerner. Consequently, he should have a pretty good idea of the situation. Besides, he has only recently returned from the Southern Governors Conference at Hot Springs and is, therefore, fresh from a great and varied-exchange of ideas.

Good will, like anything else, must be mutual to be effective. Fortunately, an example, rather than a need for it (that is, the other side of it), appeared in Bibb's column of the Pittsburgh Courier for November 17. "Then, too, colored people are too insecure, economically, to play cooly and independent. The job opportunities are too few and in too much of an experimental state for them to destroy good will and alienate friends."

There you have it. And, brother, it is real and don't you forget it! Think it over!

FIGHT TO CURB HEART DISEASES WELL PAST THE WISHING STAGE

Approximately 9,200,000 persons in the United States have cardiovascular disease. The majority suffer from heart disorders and the remainder from high blood pressure or kidney ailments. It is from this sizable army of men, women and children that the grim reaper took 727,000 lives in 1949. This is 51 per cent of all deaths.

Hypertension and arteriosclerosis account for 89 per cent of these cases. Many were oldsters who had come to the end of their days and had succumbed to wear and tear.

In this respect the picture is not as alarming as it appears on the surface, but the medical profession does not regard this as an excuse; they realize that more must be done if our life expectancy is to be lengthened. This means the institution of preventive measures as well as better treatments for heart trouble.

Prevention has gone beyond the stage of wishful thinking. Progress has been made in lessening the incidence of rheumatic and syphilitic heart disease. We also know why some children come into the world with defective pumping apparatus which suggests ways to avert the mishap in future generations, but such cases account for only a fraction of the cardiovascular deaths.

Arteriosclerosis and arteriosclerotic heart conditions occasion more fatalities than any other malady; almost 300,000 deaths annually are traceable to this source. Prevention is more difficult here because we must return to arteriosclerosis as the basic cause in 57 per cent of these cases. It produces hardening and thickening of the inner wall of the coronary arteries and the narrowing that ensues reduces the circulation to the cardiac muscle and impairs the efficiency of the pump.

Slight curtailment brings on chest pain on walking (angina pectoris). A sudden blockage of the artery (coronary thrombosis) results in a heart attack, the seriousness of which depends upon whether a small branch or the main trunk is involved.

Arteriosclerosis is not controllable at the present time, although research centers about the role played by fat and cholesterol in the diet and on the stress and strain of living. Overweight also fosters arteriosclerosis. Herein lie two potential trouble makers that can be avoided.

Many remedies are being used in the treatment of coronary disease. The most controversial at the moment are the drugs that discourage blood from clotting immediately after an attack of coronary thrombosis—they ward off extension of the clot to other vessels. If the products are continued there is a chance that future attacks will be forestalled.

MEALTIME MELODIES!

BY GRACE WATSON

Well, you served roast turkey Thursday, and roast turkey Friday—What kind of turkey are you serving today and tomorrow? Don't start the family to complaining, so let's vary the turkey some. There are many ways to use cooked turkey that will please the appetite of the most discriminating family.

An excellent main dish for the lazy Saturday meals is a turkey salad. Fill it full of that leftover celery, green peppers and add an egg or two if your supply will allow it. Then serve this salad piled high on crisp lettuce leaves. Complete the menu with a tomato soup, topped with grated cheese, carrot sticks, toasted bread with butter and a tall glass of milk.

That is a time saver luncheon or supper menu. It can be prepared with the greatest of ease in thirty minutes.

If you are one of those homemakers with a small family and a fourth of the Thanksgiving bird on hand, you are fortunate indeed. Your meat for Sunday's dinner is in your refrigerator. Here's an excellent way to prepare a tempting main dish that loses its identity as a Thanksgiving leftover and takes on Sunday airs. Serve turkey a la king on crisp waffles. If you don't have a waffle iron, crisp dry toast or pancakes will do just as well. When pancakes are used, the turkey a la king should be fairly thin. Foods that go well with this dish are buttered peas, baked potatoes, cranberry-apple salad, coconut cake and milk.

The secret of serving leftovers successfully lies in the ability to disguise them so that family members will not feel that they are eating the same food over and over. There will be no complaints about leftovers when your Thanksgiving turkey struts back to the table in turkey a la king.

Whites Walk Out When Cafe Rejects Negroes

PORTLAND, Ore.—(ANP)—Several white patrons walked out of a restaurant here recently when the manager refused to serve two Negro soldiers in uniform.

The soldiers, Sgt. Frank Tillie, 36, and Sgt. Walter Carter, 21 both of San Bernardino, Cal., have been recalled to active duty and are serving with the 35th engineers at Ft. Lewis, Washington.

Sgt. Tillie said that when they sat in a booth at the Porky Pig restaurant, a waitress told them, "We can't serve your kind of people here."

The other patrons left with the soldiers, leaving only two or three patrons in the restaurant, he added. "I believe the only reason they stayed was because they were in the middle of their breakfast."
Leo Boyce, manager of the restaurant, said service was refused
