Phelps-Stokes Fund Survey

Improved Instruction At $5 Per Pupil, Dr. Aaron Brown Reports

16 Negro High Schools in Georgia, Ala., Miss. And N. C. Used For Experimental Test Study

NEW YORK (UPI)—A group of educators showed Tuesday how the level of instruction in public schools can be strikingly improved at a cost of only about $5 per year per student.

Operating on a modest budget, the Phelps-Stokes Project for the Improvement of Instruction in Secondary Schools began an experimental study four years ago to see if the schooling of secondary school students could be improved through proper guidance and supervision.

The test area comprised 16 typical Negro high schools in Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, and North Carolina. About 10,000 students are participating in the project.
The life of the original study was extended through a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation. When the project ends in the summer of 1959, it will have cost a total of $450,000.

ACADEMIC STANDARD UP
Dr. Aaron Brown, project director, said in a progress report that the objective of raising the level of instruction in the schools appears to have been reached.
He listed these main accomplishments of the first four years:
Students have improved their academic standard and are better equipped in the basic high school subjects.
They have learned to read better, make more use of the library and participate more in extracurricular activities.
Student attendance has taken a sharp upturn.
More students plan to go to college and are better equipped to do so.
Student achievement in the Negro schools has climbed to within the national norms of white pupils.
Noting that no state or federal funds are being used, Brown said that a major objective of the project was to secure the maximum impact on school standards with minimum resources.

AUDIO-VISUAL AIDS USED

Cooperating college officials visited the high schools, consulted with teachers and principals and offered suggestions and advice.

The teachers received special help in modern teaching methods and techniques. In some cases, instructional materials were provided.

There was a greater use of audio-visual materials, including films, radio, maps and other equipment.

The entire program was coordinated by a board of 17 top educators from the U. S. Office of Education, state departments of education and colleges and universities.

House Panel Approves Tax Relief Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Legislation to grant special tax relief to self-employed persons building retirement funds sailed through the House Tuesday over administration protests that it would cost 300 million dollars a year.

The measure now goes to the Senate where it was expected to wind up in a committee pigeon-hole in the congressional rush for adjournment. The House passed it by overwhelming voice vote under a procedure requiring a two-thirds majority.

The bill would permit self-employed persons to put off paying income taxes until age 70 on sums up to $2,500 a year which are placed in retirement funds. Persons above 50 would get an even bigger tax break because they have less time to build up pension funds.

The lawmakers spent most of the 10 minutes allotted for debate on the legislation praising the bill, its chief sponsor—Rep. Eugene J. Keogh, D-N. Y.—and the Ways and Means Committee which approved the measure by a vote of 18-7.

The only challenge to the measure was leveled by Rep. John W. Byrne, R-Wis.

Sudan Gets $39 Million From World Bank

By SAMUEL J. PERRY, JR. UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (ANP)—The World Bank has made a loan equivalent of $39 million to the Republic of Sudan for the development of transportation in the African country.

The loan is the first made to the Sudan since the country became a member of the World Bank in September 1957.

Proceeds of the World Bank loan will finance the important equipment and materials needed to increase capacity and improve the operating efficiency of the railways and of river transport service on the Nile. Also, the loan will be used for the builder of new railway extensions into productive zones in the southern and western parts of the country.

The loan documents were signed by Sayed Mamoun Beheiry, deputy permanent under-secretary of the ministry of finance and economics, on behalf of the Sudan and by J. Burke Knapp, vice-president, on behalf of World Bank.
Total cost of the railway development project has been estimated at $65.5 million during the period of 1958-60.

According to some historians, the Sudan is the country from which the first African slaves were brought to America during the colonial period. The Sudan is bordered by Egypt, Ethiopia, Uganda, Kenya, the Belgian Congo, French Equatorial Africa, and Libya. Its area is almost a million square miles, roughly one third that of continental United States, but its population is only 10 million.

The Republic of the Sudan, which gained its independence on January 1, 1956, had an import trade in 1957 of $180.3 million and an export trade of $138.1 million.

Coconut Fruit Salad

Sometimes a simple meal can become almost elegant with a really special salad. One that's so fancy it can double as a dessert is COCONUT FRUIT SALAD, made with my Pet Milk recipe.

We like it at our home because it's bright and colorful as a fruit salad, yet delicately flavored. There are two touches that make this salad so special. One is with the fruit—orange and pineapple—shredded coconut mixed right in cup chunks and bits of maraschino cherries.
The second is the rich, creamy-whipped cream, but with whipped looking dressing, made not with Pet Evaporated Milk. Pet Milk whips even higher than cream, and gives your dressing a rich yet light quality that's just right. After you fold the dressing into the fruit, coconut and quartered marshmallows, COCONUT FRUIT SALAD is ready to chill. At mealtime, you just spoon it onto lettuce leaves for a salad, or into sauce dishes for dessert. Either way, I know your family will ask time and again for COCONUT FRUIT SALAD. Try it and see!

COCONUT FRUIT SALAD
1 cup Pet Evaporated Milk
2-3 cup cut-up shredded coconut
1 cup orange chunks
1 cup pineapple chunks
10 marshmallows, quartered
1 cup maraschino cherries, cut in half
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Put Pet Evaporated Milk in ice tray of refrigerator and chill until ice crystals begin to form around edges. Meanwhile mix together in a 1 or 1 1/2 quart bowl, coconut, orange chunks, pineapple chunks, marshmallows, and maraschino cherries. Put ice cold milk into a cold quart bowl and whip with cold rotary beater by hand, or with electric beater at high speed, until fluffy. Add lemon juice and whip until stiff. Fold into fruit mixture. Chill in refrigerator and serve on lettuce. Makes 4 servings.

Tenn. State Bids Farewell To Mrs. Johnson, Retiring Bursar

NASHVILLE — More than 200 faculty and staff members gathered to bid farewell to Mrs. Emma P. Johnson, Tennessee State University bursar for the past 17 years last week in the University's cafeteria.

At the banquet the University family presented Mrs. Johnson with a fabulous five-piece silver service, many telegrams and a lifetime pass to all university sponsored activities as mementos for the lady who has parcelled university spending during her long tenure. Mrs. Johnson retired on July 1st but spent two weeks breaking in the new bursar.

"In her 17 years, Mrs. Johnson has handled more than 40 million dollars in university funds, and not one dime has ever been out of place," President W. S. Davis praised during his presentation remarks.
At the same time, President Davis presented the replacement, Paul G. King, Jr., who came to Tennessee from South Carolina State College, Orangeburg, S. C., where he had been comptroller for the past seven years.

Touched by the tributes and choking back tears, the stately, orchid-laden, retiring bursar whispered to well-wishers, "This reminds me of the hymn 'Give Me My Flowers While I Yet Live.' I am too full to say anything except thanks to each and every one of you."

Of the many telegrams she received Mrs. Johnson seemed most touched by one from the executive secretary of Tennessee's Board of Education, Mrs. Maude M. Holman, that read, "Best wishes for a happy vacation and leisure. It has been a genuine pleasure to work with you."

TRINIDAD PROTESTS PAYS ALLOWANCES FOR SOLONS

PORT-OF-SPAIN, Trinidad, W. I.—(ANP)—The Trinidad Government formed by the Peoples' National Movement of which Dr. Eric Williams, Chief Minister, is Political Leader, has disagreed with the Federal Government on the amount of allowances being paid to Members of Parliament of the New West Indies Federation.

The local government's view is that the allowances are too high, and in fact, four members of the Federal House of Representatives, refused to draw any of the new travel allowances approved by the House at its last sitting. They are members of the P. N. M.

These travel allowances at their maximum, are worth $360 per month for a Minister with a portfolio, and $1200 a year for an ordinary M.P., for the purpose of travelling round his constituency. The four Members who refused to draw the allowances are in agreement with Dr. Williams who has condemned the allowances as being too high.

LETTER OF PROTEST

When Dr. Williams found out what the new allowances were, on the eve of their presentation to the House, he wrote a strong letter of protest to the Prime Minister, Sir Grantley Adams.

It is not, however, only the travelling allowances that some MPs are criticising. There is a feeling among a minority that practically every privilege given the federal legislators has been granted at too high a cost to the very limited finances of the Federation. Ministers with portfolios are paid $1,000 a month, excluding the maximum $360 a month for travelling and chauffeur, and also get a house fully furnished in Federal Park, Port-of-Spain.

Individual MPs while not rating the expenses of Ministers, receive $5,520 a year, in addition to the maximum $1,200 for travelling in their constituencies, $5 extra a day for travel while in Trinidad for sittings of the House, and $30 a day extra at that time for subsistence.

Insists He Wasn't Shot, Man Dead On Arrival At Hospital

TOLEDO, Ohio. — (ANP) — A 33-year-old man, who claimed he had not been shot in a quarrel with another party goer, died last week as companions were rushing him to a hospital.

The victim, Robert Hughes, was shot above the heart. He had been involved in an argument with Willie Felton, 62, who was held on a second degree murder charge.

The two men were being driven home by Marshall Robinson. Mr. Robinson stopped his car and the men got out, continuing their argument.

Mr. Robinson's wife, Mabel, said she heard a report of a revolver but both Felton and Hughes got back in the car, with Hughes insisting that he had not been shot.

MEALTIME MELODIES!

When schools re-open this fall children again will be able to drink plenty of milk. Summer camps, child-care centers, and similar institutions also are eligible for this program.

The special milk program of the United States Department of Agriculture has been extended for three more years and authorized to spend up to 75 million dollars in each of the three years to encourage increased milk consumption among children.

This staggering figure is proof enough that federal legislators are interested in the health and well-being of our children.
As a preview to the school milk program we mothers and home Leola Gammon makers can help children to form good eating habits. This can be done even during school hours. Every one likes sandwiches to take advantage of good ideas for sandwich combinations. Fix up plenty for the family, serve them with refreshing milk and rest assured that your family is going in the right direction food-wise. The following sandwich is delicious.

SMOKY APPLE:
3 eggs, beaten
1-2 cup milk
1-4 teaspoon salt
8 slices enriched sandwich bread
Butter
1 pound smoked sausage links
1 cup hot applesauce

To beaten eggs, add milk and salt. Mix thoroughly. Coat bread slices with egg mixture. Then fry in a small amount of butter until golden brown on both sides. Meanwhile, cook smoked links until browned. To serve, place one piece of French toast in shallow ramekin or on plate. Cut a second slice French toast into 4 triangles and arrange around sides of toast slice. Place 2 smoked links over center piece of toast. Spoon hot applesauce over top of open-face sandwich and serve immediately.
Make: 4 sandwiches.

Labor Dep't Reports Job Decline In Three Cities

WASHINGTON—U P.—The Labor Department added three cities Tuesday to its list of major industrial areas with "substantial" unemployment but said signs point to a slight job pickup in the months ahead.

Added to the list of areas with 6 per cent or more of the total labor force unemployed were Los Angeles-Long Beach, Calif.; Birmingham, Ala.; and Milwaukee, Wis.

The department said 89 of the nation's 149 major labor markets now fall into the substantial unemployment area and added that this situation probably would continue or the next few months.
But it said its bi-monthly job survey, which is based on interviews with employers on future hiring plans, indicated there would be a slight pickup in employment centers.
In addition to adding Los Angeles, Milwaukee and Birmingham to the substantial unemployment list, the Labor Department reported that the job situation had become worse in seven other big industrial centers.
Port Wayne, Ind., was classified as having 9 to 12 per cent of its labor force unemployed, compared with 6 to 9 per cent in May, worst possible rating indicating 12 per cent or more unemployment. They were Bridgeport, New Britain and Waterbury, Conn.; Grand Rapids and Muskegon, Mich.; and Buffalo, N. Y.
The department noted that 60 other areas remained in categories representing only moderate unemployment. Included were such cities as Boston, San Francisco, Oakland, Atlanta, Dallas, Seattle, New Orleans, Denver, Cincinnati and Washington, D. C.

DR. J. E. WALKER'S DEATH has shocked thousands of his admirers, employees and friends all over the Nation. A gracious Gentleman, was definitely a credit to Memphis, to our Race and to the Nation at large.

The Philanthropist and Business Wizard's life has been radiant with courage, vision and sympathy for humanity. The Universal Life Insurance Company Building (the white Egyptian Marble Building) will stand for years as a monument to Dr. Walker's untiring works.

His life has been devoted to services to four Christian Churches that stand as a monument to the race leader's life. The Mississippi Blvd. Christian Church (where the Walker family members attend) show the works of the late Mrs. Lelia Walker and Dr. Walker. Dr. Walker was National Treasurer of the Christian Churches of America for over 40 years.

It has often been said that simplicity of his gentleness has always shown his greatness. Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Walker (she a very charming bride of about 12 months) had just returned from a honeymoon in California where they were joined by their daughter, Mrs. Julian Kelso who arrived here from the West Coast on Tuesday morning after her father's death.

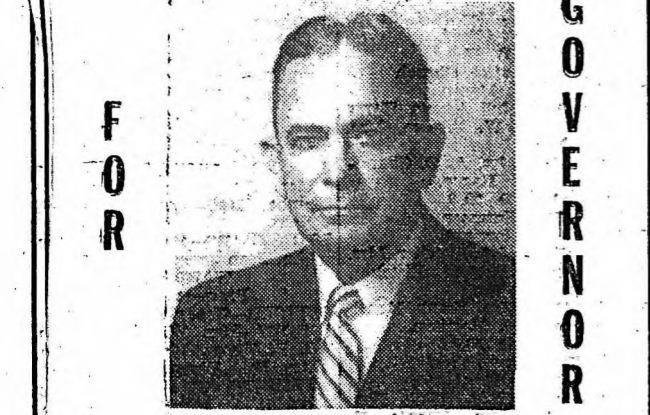

Mr. Maceo Walker's family was vacationing in Europe, but Mrs. Maceo Walker arrived here on Wednesday after talking with Mr. Walker in Florence, Italy Monday night.

Dr. Walker was known by two trademarks that were characteristic of him. One was punctuality. The other his devout attention to his church at all times.

He was a great man. Few people were ever respected more. While his death on Monday saddened our hearts, we can be thankful always that we were privileged to claim him as a Memphian and to associate with such a noble character. We will remember his other lofty virtues for a long time to come. The greatest memorial to him will be in our devotion to the Universal Life with offices as far as California) the Tri-State Bank of Memphis and to the many Christian Churches that he has aided in building (along with the other business that he built in the state of Mississippi in which he spent so much time in making them the finest places in Memphis (or any place) to work... to worship and to bank.

Dixie Communist Probe Turns Into "Fifth Amendment" Orgy

By EDDIE WILLIAMS

ATLANTA, Ga.—(SNS)—Five witnesses repeatedly invoked the Fifth Amendment of the U. S. Constitution Tuesday to avoid answering whether or not they were communists when they appeared before a subcommittee of the House Committee on Un-American Activities which is convened here to probe into the Communist Party's infiltration into Dixie.

The group failed to get any concrete answers concerning the operation of communists in Georgia and several other Southern states. However, the hearings will continue today and Thursday. The committee is interested in accumulating information about communists in order to enable it and Congress to appraise the administration and operation of the Smith Act, the Internal Security Act of 1950, the Communist Control Act of 1954 and other measures relating to espionage, sabotage and subversion.

5 WITNESSES TESTIFY
One Georgian and an ex-Georgian were among the five witnesses to testify in Tuesday's hearing in a Federal courtroom in the Old Post Office building. No Negroes appeared before the subcommittee and indications are that none have been summoned.

However, much of the testimony Tuesday concerned integration in the South, much to the dismay of the investigating committee which resisted its intent not to touch on segregation or integration, but on communist activities.

Several witnesses accused the committee of persecuting them because they were avowed liberal Southern whites who were working for peaceful integration. Appearing on the first day of the scheduled three-day hearing were: Don West of Douglasville, Ga.; John E. Hester, Jr., formerly of Atlanta and Douglasville and now of Chicago; Eugene Feldman and Perry Cartwright of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Sabers of Roanoke, Va.

All except West, who was excused from testifying Tuesday, pleaded the Fifth Amendment when asked if they were or had been connected with the Communist Party.

FBI MAN ON STAND
Interrogation of the witnesses followed the testimony of FBI man Amando Pena, who said he had been a communist for the FBI for eight years. Beside presenting the names of a number of communists operating in and about North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and New York, Pena presented to the committee a survey of his findings while in the party.

He reported that a hard core of well trained communists have infiltrated the South and are wending their way on economic and political strife. Most of them have come out of Northern states and are in Dixie to organize and colonize for the party, he said.

The South... is a virgin territory for their activities, he said. There are indications that the spread of Red activity parallels the move of industry from the North to the South, he averred.

Another witness for the committee was Irving Fishman, agent of the Bureau of Customs of the U. S. Treasury Department, who said communist propaganda has also infiltrated the South in subtle committee scores of publications bearing Red propaganda.

Poem Written On Slaying Of Dr. Walker

By CHARLES L. WESLEY

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (SNS)—The tragic slaying of Dr. J. E. Walker, insurance tycoon, has brought many remarks of shock and horror from the community. One man, Charles L. Wesley, a local gospel singer, has expressed his feelings about the tragedy in a poem, which he brought to the Memphis World this day after the shooting. Following is that poem:

"DR. WALKER HAS BEEN SLAIN"
By CHARLES L. WESLEY
576 Beale Ave., Memphis

It was early Monday morning
About eight-thirty a.m.
There sat a man in his office
Awaiting on him.

Isn't it a shame
To kill the good man
Words said over and over
And over and over again.

A man who allowed things
To linger within
That would make him kill
His one-time friend.

They say he did it
To get some revenge
I'll say it was things
That should've gone with the wind

But any old grudge
Is hard to handle
When a man allows
His mind to ramble

WDIA Disc Jockeys Move To Check Darryl's Threat

In what some teenagers have called a move to check the new threat posed by WLOK Disc Jockey Darryl Bailey, WDIA teen-age DJs William Terrell and Wash Allen have inspired a fan club to strengthen their allegedly interfering No. 1 rating.

Terrell and Allen, both Hamilton High School students, are the stars of a WDIA program called "Teenage Beat." When they signed up for the program approximately a year ago, they were the first yearling deejays on the Mid-South. They were the only teen-age radio stars until early June, when WLOK signed Darryl Bailey for a Monday, Wednesday and Saturday 4:15 p. m. slot.

The two WDIA radio deejays reportedly still have the highest rating for their type of program in this area. However, Darryl's program is gaining strength, according to reports, and is steadily backing up at the Terrell and Allen rating. Darryl reportedly expects to surge into the No. 1 position come September when school starts, in that he is on the air three times a week compared to T & A's weekly show.

PURPOSE OF FAN CLUB
The purpose of the Terrell and Allen Fan Club, according to the organizers, Miss Laura "Angel" Holmes and Miss Barbara Anderson, is to show the young deejays "just how much they are appreciated." The advisor of the club is A. C. "Moohah" Williams, one of WDIA's top personalities.

The deejay with the top billing, William Terrell, better known to friends as "Chilly", is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Amos Terrell of 1504 Michigan. He is a junior at Hamilton where he is vice-president of the Student Council. An outstanding basketball and baseball player, he is the business manager of the city-wide library association.

Terrell's buddy, Wash, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Fate of 1783 Keltner Circle. He is reporter for the Student Council and is editor of the "Hamiltonian", the school paper. Like "Chilly", he is a junior. It was not known whether their competitor, Darryl Bailey, would also start a fan club. Darryl is expected to announce his plans soon.

space research under President Eisenhower's personal day to day supervision.
But the Defense Department will continue to have jurisdiction over space activities primarily involving weapons and defense. Here, too, the President, as now, will have the final word.

Eisenhower said the space bill "provided the authority needed for an effective national effort in the fields of aeronautics and space exploration."
The bill establishes a civilian-military liaison committee to discuss space activities of the Defense Department and the ASA. The President will have the ultimate authority to coordinate the work of the two agencies.

The measure also sets up a new National Aeronautics and Space Council to advise the President. It will be similar to the National Security Council which advises the President on defense and security matters.

Census Bureau Reports 14 States To Lose House Seats

WASHINGTON—(UPI)—The Census Bureau predicted on Wednesday that 14 states will lose seats in the House of Representatives as a result of the 1960 census while nine will increase their representation.

According to preliminary estimates, fast-growing California will register the largest gain—seven seats—to give it a total of 37, second only to New York. California also gained seven seats as a result of the 1950 census.

On the other hand, New York and Pennsylvania were expected to be the biggest losers, dropping three seats each to give them a post-1960 representation of 40 and 37 seats, respectively. Until the rise of California, Pennsylvania ranked for years as the second most populous state.

Under the constitution, the size of the House remains constant at 435 members, except under extraordinary conditions.
The membership is apportioned among the states every 10 years on the basis of population as disclosed by the census.

As a result of the 1950 census, nine states lost seats and six gained.
The Census Bureau, which conducts the 10-year count, estimated that the 1960 population will show about 180 million people in the United States and its territories, compared with a 1950 total of 151,132,099.

Besides California, the bureau said, other large gainers in the House were expected to be Florida, three seats, and Michigan and Texas, two seats each.

States due to gain a single representative were Arizona, Indiana, Maryland, Ohio and Oregon. A single representative will be assigned to Alaska as the 49th state.

Inasmuch as Alaska plans to enter the Union before the census, Congress specifically provided that the membership of the House would be raised temporarily to 486 members, pending the 10-year reapportionment.

According to present estimates, Massachusetts and Arkansas would lose two seats each, and 10 states would lose a single House seat: Maine, Illinois, Minnesota, Iowa, Kansas, West Virginia, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi and North Carolina.

The other 25 states would retain the present size of their House delegations.

Under the law, the new census will get underway on April 1, 1960. The bureau has eight months to complete its survey.

Roscoe Williams, Not Harris, Head Boxing Manager For YMCA

Coach "Shocked" When He Read Article In Hospital

BY MELVIN GREER

Tom Harris, who told this reporter that he was one of the boxing managers for the Abe Scharff YMCA in an article dated July 19, was said this week "to have nothing to do with YMCA boxing" by Roscoe Williams, who is the head coach of the YMCA pugilist group.

A representative from the boxing squad, Clayton Palmore, also issued a protest. He said that Williams was the head coach and that it was "a shame" to give a man credit who had "done nothing" for the team.

Harris, who said he is a golf instructor at the Qualls Golf Course at Fuller State Park, told this reporter: "All I am concerned about is the present is getting my (YMCA) boys in shape. I hope to have six fighters in the open division and perhaps a couple of novices. Only three fighters have shown up for workouts—Aargh Hackett, Willie Harrington (His real name is Harrington) and Elijah Wallace."

Williams continued, "Tom Harris has nothing whatsoever to do with boxing at the Abe Scharff YMCA. I'm the head coach and Herbert Hunt is my assistant. Williams, who has been head boxing manager at the YMCA for three years now, got his start at the age of 15 in Chicago, Ill. He spent three years as an amateur and seven years as a professional fighter. He says he has worked under such greats as Lou Ambers, Willie Joyce and other top-rated boxers.

Williams credited his team with having a successful year. They won tournaments at Jackson, Tenn., Paducah, Ky., and the Tri-States Boxing set-up here. His charges lost out only at Chicago, where they were forced to represent Paducah because of local technicalities.

Boxing on television

Williams said his boxers will be on television as soon as they are in shape. He says that he has lost contact with training of the team since he has been in the hospital, and would have to see his assistant, Hunt. He continued to express "shock and regret" over Harris' statements. Harris could not be reached for comment.

It was learned from Palmore that temporary matches have been for the YMCA boxers for the Saturday night boxing show on WHBQ-TV (Channel 13). Palmore will take on Lightweight Aaron Hackett, "somebody I have been wanting to get for a long time." Tony Davis will clash with Blonde Trent of the Rendezvous Club in the bantamweight division.

YMCA Heavyweight Elijah Wallace and Lightweight Willie Harrington will have to be matched. Wallace is reportedly trying to persuade Bobby Joe Rapier of Hamilton to oppose him. Wallace 189 pounder, knocked 236-pounder Rapier out in the Tri-States Tournament.

Announcement as to when the Negro boxers will make their television appearances will come next week.

Not Enough Tennis Courts

When the recently organized Memphis Tennis Association held a meeting earlier this week, discussion centered around the non-availability of tennis courts for Negro in most sections of the city; non-lighted courts and the inadequate number of courts in Orange Mound.

Secretary of the club, Dr. John E. Jordan of 1933 Chelsea Ave., where the meeting was held explained "lights are being installed at Lincoln Park tennis court." Other courts, many are in process of being constructed there.

He pointed out "North Memphis is in bad need of courts in this area, which would be available to Negro players. There are courts for whites." Further, "the one court at Orange Mound playground is in woeful condition."

Also discussed was the participation of local members in the National Champion Tournament which is scheduled to be held at a local invitational tournament.

Dr. Jordan said anyone interested in joining the tennis club should call BR 6-6104 between 8:30 a. m. and 12 noon. He said interested persons should know how to play the game. "But they don't have to be outstanding at it."

Next meeting of the club has been set for 9 p. m. Monday, AUG. 14 at 1936 Chelsea Ave.

Along The Sports Trail

BY SAM BROWN

WILL THE AX FALL?

One of the hot topics of discussion along the Sports Trail just now is not whether the axe will fall on the head of Walter Alston, manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers, but when will it fall? True, it is being whispered in baseball circles that Alston, the only manager to win a world championship for the Dodgers, is barely hanging on, yet the Dodgers still trying to get out of the cellar.

For the past several seasons the Dodgers have been pennant winners or at least contenders, and now for most of the season have been in last place of the cellar. Usually, when a team is not going so good, the manager generally is the one to blame, regardless of the other causes.

CARRY THE LOAD

With the team unable to get going, and maybe Alston is not to blame, the owners must have something to show the fans why, and for the lack of anything else more tangible, the blame falls on the head of the manager.

During the years Alston has been with the Dodgers, the team was one of the top teams in the league, of course there were outstanding players who helped to carry the load. The team was thought by some of the experts during spring training to be much better than what they have shown so far this year.

Perhaps, the biggest blow was the loss of Roy Campanella due to that tragic accident last winter. We don't say that the Dodgers would be leading the league if Campanella was able to be in there everyday, but we do believe that the team would not be in last place if the roly poly catcher, and superb handler of pitchers, was available. It could be that Campanella's accident is having repercussions and all of them zooming around Alston's head.

CHOPPED OFF

Although the Dodgers are in last place nine games off the league leaders, they are not so far back as the second place club in the American League. So as long as there is the possibility of the team moving up and seemingly it will not move up with Alston at the helm, owners could feel that a new man at the throttles might mean a better position in the standings.

We sometimes say it is the manager is dismissed because the team is not making the showing the owners and fans feel it should be making. For the lack of something better the head of the manager is usually chopped off, whether there is any improvement or not.

It has often been noted that sometimes in a game the pitcher might be doing a good job on the mound, when suddenly a hard-hit ball caromes off a fielder's glove, an error or two by some other fielders and a misjudged play by still another fielder, then what do we get? A new pitcher and we forget all about the fine work of the previous hurler. We put the blame on the pitcher, when all the time it was someone else.

THERE MUST BE FIRE

It was announced a few days ago that manager Alston had received a vote of confidence from the front office, but how many other managers have received the same, maybe this week when a few days or weeks later they are being replaced? We guess it takes all of this to make baseball the exciting and intriguing game it is.

The rumors that have been going the rounds regarding the dismissal of Alston have become so loud that they have reached the ears of the quiet Alston himself. It is reported that he has said that regardless of what happens, he has a clear conscience. He is quoted as saying: "I have done the best I can, I can sleep soundly at night. My conscience is clear."

So, where there is smoke, there must be some fire.

Dodgers Win Big One Over Federal Blues

BY J. D. WILLIAMS

What is wrong with the Blues? Who is really the manager of the team? Or who runs it?

If these questions could be answered, some solution could be arrived at as to why the Blues can never win the big games. For six years the team has finished among the top three. Potential leaders at the start of the season every year in division one, they come down with the leaders and choke up.

Let us take Sunday's game, although they had several chances to pull ahead of the Dodgers earlier in the game. Last of the seventh inning the Blues, the home team, got a hit on the first man up. He hit a grounder to the short stop who fielded the ball properly and threw wild to first. Wooten stops at second and was pulled for a pinch runner. Next man, attempted a sacrifice on the pitch, but failed, and then hit a pop fly that could have been caught by a player in the Pee Wee League. A pinch hitter was brought in instead of trying to get the runners in scoring position, and this man pops out.

MAN ON SECOND

The man was still on second base, and there was an argument about "foul territory." The umpires' judgement, as usual, upheld two outs.

The man on second seemed to have been nailed down at second, the man who could have scored the trying run. Up comes Mr. Cecil who was once regarded as one of the surest hitters in the league. He must have left his glasses at home because he wiffed at three straight pitches without even hitting a foul. And the Dodgers won it.

Until the Blues can win the big ones, a championship.

The Memphis Greyhounds settled an old score by stopping the helpless Warriors, 2-1, while the South Memphis Chicks added insult to injury by punishing the Magnolia Eagles, 7-6. Other results were: Beavers, 8; Cardova, 2; Hardwood, 5; Orange Mound Tigers, 4; Magicians, 9; Humko, 8; Trojans 8; Orange Stars, 3; Klondyke, infuriated by recent upsets, trounced Goldsmith, 12-1.

The rain washed out the Saturday games in Division One.

Saturday at 4 p. m., at Lincoln Park will be an important game when the Letter Carriers meet the

L. A. DODGERS READY AXE FOR WALTER ALSTON

NEW YORK — (UPI) — Walter Alston's days as manager of the last-place Los Angeles Dodgers are numbered unless the club does a complete change and starts winning during the next 10 days, United Press International learned Monday on excellent authority.

Charley Dressen, now a Dodger coach, appears owner Walter O'Malley's choice as Alston's successor, although Leo Durocher and Bobby Bragan also are under consideration.

Dressen won two pennants during the three years he managed the Dodgers in Brooklyn but was let go after the 1953 season when he demanded a two-year contract.

If the Dodgers do not show considerable improvement during the next 10 days, a new manager is almost certain to be named around the time the club returns to Los Angeles, Aug. 8, according to sources.

NCNW Presented "Historic Pen"

WASHINGTON — (ANP)—Senator Jacob Javits (R., N. Y.) last week presented the National Council of Negro Women the pen with which President Eisenhower signed into law a bill exempting the organization from real estate tax. The New York Senator, who sponsored the measure, also presented an enlarged photostatic copy of the original act which was approved by Congress last April.

The act specifically stated that the Council's headquarters would be "exempt from all taxation so long as the home is owned and occupied by the National Council of Negro Women and is not used for commercial purposes."

The mementoes were presented to Vice President's Capital office and were received by Dr. Dorothy Ferebee, president emerita of the council, in absence of the president, Miss Dorothy Height. Dr. Ferebee was accompanied by Miss Elsie Austin, executive director of NCNW and Mrs. Marion Jackson, national treasurer.

Capt. Mulzac To Seek New York Comptroller Post

NEW YORK — Capt. Hugh N. Mulzac, first Negro to take command of an American merchant vessel, will be among five persons seeking state posts on an Independent-Socialist slate.

A statewide campaign begins Tuesday in an attempt to get 12,000 signatures which must be filed by September 9 before the November election.

Mulzac of New York City has accepted the nomination as Independent-Socialist candidate for the office of comptroller of the State of New York. He was captain of the Liberty Ship, "Booker T. Washington," for five years.

Corliss Lamong, Columbia University lecturer, is running for the U. S. Senate; John T. MoManus, former president of the New York Newspaper Guild, for governor; Annette T. Rubinstein, author and educator, for lieutenant governor; and Scott K. Gray, Jr., attorney and farmer, for attorney general.

The figures tabulated by L. R. Taylor, N. I. A. Statistician, and actuary for the Mammoth Life Insurance Company, were released in a telephone interview with the 32nd president of the association, J. W. Goodloe, Secretary for the N. C. Mutual Life Insurance Company, Durham, N. C.

Mr. Goodloe pointed out, during the course of the interview, "The past ten years have witnessed the greatest expansion among our member companies in the nearly forty year history of our association. Our companies' assets have increased by more than 250 per cent since the end of World War II. We have greatly increased our services to policyowners both in kinds of policies offered and in the skill and service of our more than 6,000 agents as insurance counselors. Much of this is attributable to the training programs of our individual companies as well as the joint activity in training in agency management throughout the association."

"Fifteen N. I. A. companies participated, last June, in our 4th annual training institute in agency management at Tennessee State A. and I. University. The convention will consider a proposal to next year, extend this kind of management training to department heads and junior executives. All this augurs well for the future — continued growth, development and expansion of N. I. A. companies and it is the kind of organization for growth that will be discussed in Columbus the week of August 4th.

An Ode To The Atlantic

(Dedicated to all my co-workers of the Atlanta Daily World)

O Atlantic, Atlantic such a mighty ocean,
Seething and heaving in perpetual motion!
Treasures and secrets, you hold in your breast
With millions of diamonds upon your huge chest.
Do you, too, grieve about man's inhumanity to man?
Such are my thoughts, as I gaze from the land.
Magnanimous God, who scooped out this great ocean,
Fill all our hearts with sweetest devotion.

Gratitude

(Dedicated to my four daughters, Angela, Ruth, Mary Elizabeth, and Charlotte Ellis)

A jolly little fisherman, around sixty-four,
Suddenly knocked upon our door.
"Hey, hey there! He said, "anybody at home?"
Along the great ocean, he habitually did roam.
Mom and I were just about to break our fast
I said "Mr. Jackson when did you eat last?"
We had sausage, toast, cantaloupe, coffee and cream.
A right tempting variety this menu did seem.
"O ma'm, I eat whenever I can."
He was truly a short and funny little man.
So he sat and ate breakfast and chatted away,
But summarily speaking, very little did say.
He ate rather hungrily and cleaned every dish,
But he surprised us at sun-down
With a large tray of fish.
NOTE: These two poems were inspirations of Eleanor while vacationing at Bethune Beach in Florida. Next week, Eleanor's regular Column will be resumed.

Americans Under 40 Are Warned To Get Polio Shots

WASHINGTON — Dr. Leroy E. Burney, Surgeon General of the Public Health Service, Monday issued a new warning to the 40 million Americans under 40 years of age who have not yet been vaccinated against poliomyelitis.

"We are now entering the season when the number of polio cases customarily reaches a peak," Dr. Burney said. "Last week, 52 cases of paralytic polio were reported, making it the highest week so far this year. The figure for the first time is higher than the corresponding week in 1957, when there were 50 cases. As of July 19, there was a total of 438 paralytic cases so far this year as compared with 739 cases for the same period in 1957."

"Even before the development of the vaccine, there were years when the incidence of poliomyelitis was naturally low. We know that 1956 and 1957 were such years because there was relatively little polio among the unvaccinated portion of the population. Should 1958 prove to be a year of natural high incidence, it is possible that there will be many cases among the 55 percent of the population under 40 who are not fully vaccinated."

NEED THREE SHOTS
For maximum protection the full series of three shots are needed. Physicians in practice and in health departments are urged to make every effort to provide the full course of three injections. "While the Public Health Service has recommended a series of three shots on a mass basis as a public health measure to give high levels of protection to the greatest number, physicians in individual cases may well recommend and parents may wish a fourth or booster injection of vaccine to be given a year or more after the series of three. This added protection will be particularly important in individuals living in or going to high incidence areas or where other personal factors make the greatest margin of safety desirable."

The American Academy of Pediatrics has recommended to its membership that a fourth shot of vaccine is advisable this year for those persons who received their third injection a year or more ago.

Juvenile Delinquency

By The NNPA News Service

The overwhelming evidence indicates that the mass media, including the movies, definitely shape attitudes and, therefore, in varying degrees, definitely shape youth.

While the Motion Picture Production Code was developed on this assumption, the code administrators seem to be giving it up in favor of so-called "realism."

This surrender to "realism" involves not only the actual provisions of the code, but the spirit of the code.

The regulatory body, with flimsy half-successful attempts at covering up the main theme of the story, is indeed violating the very code they are supposed to be enforcing.

VIOLENCE NOTED

Reasons advanced for the increase in motion-picture violence were:

1. With the increased threat of encroachment on box-office receipts by television, the movie people feel that their presentations must be on a par or superior to television and therefore they take greater license in their efforts to meet.
2. The feeling on the part of many motion-picture people that these types of presentations are indeed what the public desires to see. This may have, in part, been supported by the box-office successes of certain foreign films which dealt with the intimate or sordid type of content.
3. The increasing resistance on the part of certain Hollywood producers and directors against what they feel to be unfair restrictions and limitation put forth by the Motion Picture Producers Code.
4. The feeling that television today appeals to more of the very young people who used to dedicate themselves to movies.

Therefore, the same kind of responsibility to safeguard this very young audience, as exercised previously, has been relaxed. The mature audience is given consideration.

Trial Asked In Two Race School Cases

ATLANTA, Ga.—(SNS)—An Atlanta attorney Tuesday filed separate motions in the U. S. District Court here requesting that the trial date of two suits involving desegregation be advanced.

One motion was filed by Atty. E. F. Moore and asked that a suit of several Atlanta Negro parents against the Atlanta Board of Education be tried at "the earliest possible date on which the court can hear this case."

Moore said that the "single, uncomplicated issue to be tried in this case . . . is whether the defendants are in fact operating the public school system of Atlanta, Ga., on a racially segregated basis."

The suit was filed Jan. 11, 1956, and seeks an injunction against the board to stop it from operating segregated schools.

In a separate motion, Atty. Moore moved that an order be granted to advance the trial date for a suit against the University System of Georgia. He requested that trial date be set the first week in September.

Desegregation Gain Noted In Louisville

LOUISVILLE — (ANP) — Integration in public schools has made tremendous strides in the past two years, a progress report on the desegregation of Louisville schools revealed last week.

Dr. Omer Carmichael, superintendent of schools, said in his report that only eight of the city's 75 schools are still all-Negro. He also said disciplinary problems had been relatively few in the first year, and although the second year brought more, this was because the newness had worn off and the effort was not so intensive as during the first year.

"In my judgment," Dr. Carmichael asserted, "the second year of the program is more nearly a normal year than was the first."

The school head further stated that throughout the South with the exception of Kentucky, political leadership had been responsible for most of the interference with education. "Political leadership," he said, "has served the South rather badly."

Richmond School Board "Passes Buck," Seeks State Placements

Member Concerned About Violation Of Office Oath

RICHMOND — (ANP) — The school board decided last week to refer three applications from Negro pupils seeking entrance into a white school to the Virginia Pupil Placement Board.

The board acted on the advice of city Atty. J. Elliott Drinard who told the board in a seven-page letter that state law strips the board and the division superintendent of all powers of pupil placement.

The three Negro students, Onslow Mirnis, Jr., 7, Sylvester Smith, 9, and Jerome Smith, 7, are seeking entrance to the Nathaniel Bacon white elementary school.

"It is clear, Drinard said, that the school board and the superintendent have no power whatever to assign any pupil to any school."

The city attorney also told the board it should require white parents to fill out and sign pupil placement forms. In the case of Negro parents, he added, "The officials should obtain and forward to the Pupil Placement board registration information."

LAWS CONFLICT
The only board member to express any reaction to Drinard's opinion was Booker T. Bradshaw, who said, "Objectively, and aside from any racial implications, it is ant to Officer Oliver A. Cowan, Founder and Director.

Mr. Brown assumes his duties to help curb juvenile delinquency by promoting better citizenship qualifications in young boys and girls and to assist juveniles in understanding their duties and responsibilities to the community. He will head the 17 field units that comprise the Corps.

The organization is composed of integrated volunteer workers and boys and girls 7 to 17 years of age operating under the philosophy that destructive performance can be turned into constructive activities.

Mr. Brown holds a Master's degree from Columbia University and has had extensive experience in the fields of Education and Sociology.

He is married to the former Geraldine E. Powell and is the father of two daughters.

Baptist Leaders Touring Europe

RICHMOND, Va. — (ANP) — Dr. Samuel D. Proctor, president of Virginia Union University, is on a goodwill mission in Europe.

The Baptist World Alliance, of which Dr. Theodore F. Adams of Richmond, is president, was asked early in the year to send a team on such a mission among Russia and the Baltic Baptists during the month of July. Dr. Proctor was invited through the Baptist Alliance to join representatives of the Southern Baptist Convention, the American Baptist Convention and the Baptist World Alliance to tour Russia, Poland, and other Baptist Communities in the Baltics.

Support for the trip is being borne by several Baptist groups and will take President Proctor to many of the Iron Curtain countries and cities. His itinerary includes Paris, Prague, Moscow, Warsaw, Berlin, Frankfurt, Brussels to the World Fair, Zurich, Switzerland, Leningrad, Minsk, Kiev, Riga (the latter four cities named are all in Russia.)

appears to me there is a conflict between state and federal law. We are bound by our oath of office to uphold both the state and federal constitutions."

Bradshaw, the board's only Negro member, expressed concern about a possible violation of the oath of office, and about the scope of a federal court injunction prohibiting city authorities from denying enrollment to Negro children simply because their parents have refused to sign pupil placement forms.

In the meantime, the attorney for the three Negro children, Oliver W. Hill, informed of the board's decision, said he would take "whatever steps necessary" to get the children into the white school. Commenting on the board's decision, Hill said, "It's time that public officials begin to act with intelligence, integrity and realism, to challenge this so-called policy of massive resistance to bring the matter to a head."

Contract Cancellation Urged To Enforce Bias Ban Clause

WASHINGTON — The President's Committee on Government Contracts has been urged to recommend cancellation of contracts with employers who refuse to comply with the contract provisions against racial discrimination in employment.

Herbert Hill, NAACP labor secretary, made this request of Major General C. E. Ryan, executive vice chairman of the committee, and Dr. Joov Seldenberg, executive director, on July 18, when he filed new complaints charging violation of the contracts by the Atlantic Steel Company, Atlanta; Glenn L. Martin Company, Orlando, Fla.; U. S. Industrial Chemical Company (a division of National Distillers Corporation), Ashtabula, Ohio; and the American Banner Lines, Inc., New York City.

The complaints were filed on behalf of NAACP members in Georgia, Florida, Ohio and New York who alleged that they had been denied employment by the firms solely on the ground of race. A complaint against the American Banner Lines was also filed with the New York State Commission Against Discrimination.

In his conference with General Ryan and Dr. Seldenberg, Mr. Hill reviewed 20 complaints filed by the NAACP now pending before the committee. He noted that "in the five years since the inception of the Committee not a single contract has been cancelled because of proven charges of racial discrimination. Major industrial corporations with large multi-plant operations," he said, "continue blatantly to violate the anti-discrimination provisions of the federal government contract."

HUMAN RIGHTS COUNCIL RAPS ARRAIGNMENT DELAY

WASHINGTON — (ANP) — The American Council on Human Rights has called upon the Senate Judiciary Committee to reject any proposal that would allow delay in arraigning an arrested person.

Speaking for the Council, Belford V. Lawson, Jr., a Washington attorney, argued that "delaying arraignment places the arrested at best under duress even though he may not be physically punished."

And, secondly, he contended that good police work determining "probable cause" makes undue delay unnecessary.

Finally, said Lawson, "the present provision does not rule out all delay but only requires no unnecessary or undue delay."

Lawson's testimony was given in opposition to bills under consideration before the subcommittee on Improvement of the Federal Criminal Code, which propose to change the law requiring no unnecessary delay in arraigning the arrested.

The bills are aimed to override a Supreme Court ruling that an unnecessary delay in arraignment of prisoners is a violation of his constitutional rights.

Sunday School Lesson

GUARDING OUR FREEDOMS
International Sunday School Lesson for August 3, 1958.

MEMORY SELECTION: "If you continue in my word, you are truly my disciples, and you will know the truth, and the truth will make you free." (John 8: 31-32.)

LESSON TEXT: Amos 7: 10-17; John 8: 31-38; Acts 4: 15-20; 5: 27-32; Galatians 3: 23-28; 5: 1-25.

The purpose of today's lesson is to show that without justice and moral responsibility there can be no true freedom.

The emphasis in today's study is on freedom and brotherly love. Studying Galatians 5: 1-25, we read "For freedom Christ has set us free; stand fast therefore, and do not submit again to a yoke of slavery." And again, (Galatians 5: 14: 15) "For the whole law is fulfilled in one word, 'You shall love your neighbor as yourself.' But if you bite and devour one another take heed that you are not consumed by one another." These exhortations are especially applicable today, when, almost daily, we see one country violating the freedom of another.

In America we are blessed with many freedoms; we have political freedom. In recent decades this political freedom has become more precious than ever, for mankind has experienced the cruelties of persecution and war brought upon it by men who became leaders by major acts of violence and greed. This freedom we American guard justly, and, as Christians, we must respect and uphold political freedom on a worldwide basis.

We have economic freedom—a greater economic freedom than any other people on the face of this earth. In Biblical times Jesus, leading the five thousand, spoke thus: "But whose bath this world's good, and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him?" (1 John 3:16) "The missionary programs which play such a major role in churches of all denominations do much to help persons enslaved to poverty and disease, and they afford us a wonderful opportunity for expression of brotherly love at the international level, through generous foreign economic aid to less fortunate countries and nations."

FREEDOM FROM ERROR
Another valuable freedom we enjoy is freedom from error. In the Fourth Gospel we read, "you will know the truth and the truth will make you free" (John 8: 32). As Christians, we believe that all truth comes from God. God is truth as well as love. God shows his scientific truths to us through man-made scientific equipment—microscopes, telescopes and test tubes, and such revelations deserve both respect and honor "they supplement the religious truth given us by the Bible. But there is another very important aspect of freedom from error. It concerns information placed about other peoples and other groups. Before passing judgment upon someone else, we should seek to know all the facts about his conduct and his motives. When we judge another nation, God desires us to have a clear and complete picture of that country and its circumstances."

We have moral freedom, each one of us has a great personal responsibility in guarding this particular freedom; its concepts are so vast that they afford all too many opportunities for humans to abuse it through the insidious onslaught of bad habits, Jesus talked much about freedom from anger (Matthew 5:22), adulterous desires (Matthew 5:28), the spirit of revenge (Matthew 5: 38-39), and hate (Matthew 5: 43-45). True Christian living provides a bulwark for man against temptation to abuse his moral freedom.

We have our present-day freedom from the shackles of tradition. After Paul had founded the church in Galatia he had to fight zealously to free his followers from many traditional rites and customs which he regarded as unnecessary, for our faith today, as a result, "there is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither slave nor free, there is neither male nor female; for you are all one in Christ Jesus." (Galatians 3:28.)

TRUE CHRISTIAN LIVING
But, no matter how valuable these freedoms are—political and economic freedom, freedom from error, moral freedom, freedom from a self-centered life into a God-centered life. This is alive of release from bondage of worries and anxieties into a life of trust and hope.

A mature Christian has put fear and anxiety behind him. He has put his trust in God. Such a faith causes us to be concerned about the rights of persons, and thus leads us and our nation into political freedom. It causes us to care about the poor and the down-trodden, and thus leads us and the whole world into freedom from want and injustice. It directs our feet toward the spiritual kernel of our faith, renewed spirit and motivation, a love of Christ, and there-by frees us from unworthy emotions, selfish desires, and adherence to superficial customs.

All the freedoms mentioned in this lesson are valuable, and true Christian living is the surest safeguard we have for all of them.

A Victory For Confusion

After the tumult and the shouting die around Gov. Faubus' landslide out in the state of Arkansas where he broke a long precedent in being returned to the governorship for a third term, there will remain in the sediments, the dregs of a confused people.

Months ago, it was a general consensus that Gov. Faubus took the stand in trying to forestall the orders of a federal judge who had ordered the nine Negro students admitted to the Central-High School, for political reasons; This would afford something unusual for political fodder for a third term.

The question, already settled by the courts, was fused in as an issue. All three candidates stood for segregation, only differing in slight degrees.

Therefore, in Gov. Faubus' going a bit further than the rest might determine how greatly all candidates have been able to confound and keep the white people confused.

It would stand to reason, although his margin of victory was more than we expected. We say this because some politicians have misleadingly sold the white voters on segregation being a political issue to be voted up or down—when such is not the case.

Regardless of the results, there will be influence exerted on the courts; the presence of a great constitutional question in any area is self-suggestive that neither local nor state influences can subdue it. The whole thing adds up to the fact that politicians still see thrift in complicating questions with issues and confusing the voters that something can be done about it at the ballot box.

We shall see what we shall see in this victory for confusion and the long road back which the people will eventually have to travel if they would envision the promised land of reason and discover the futility of political confusion challenging an occasion on which the glow of a powerful constitutional verdict is holding the torch.

Marian Anderson Mounts The United Nations

The appointment of Marian Anderson of contralto fame to the United Nations by President Eisenhower, brings to mind the suggestions that problems coming before that international body would be in the environs and atmosphere of music. These functionaries, but hardly has there been in the company of that famed array of talent, one with such native endowments and symphonic achievements as Marian Anderson.

The Negro race in America has made many wholesome contributions to the annals of state; high churchmen, educational career men and the business genius all have registered their attainments on the forum of state. Now comes the day of Marian Anderson, who, doubtless would have never been heard of, but for her musical prowess.

Maybe the atmosphere of song, the fine personality of one whose countenance has lighted candles of faith around the world will come in to help in the solution of those grave problems now affecting world order. Who knows but that such magic and spiritual essence, such rhythmic flow in her turn of a speech around the council table, and that swollen sentence imbedded in the hidden skeins of a voice that has swayed the millions in its soothing caressing tenderness, will at last suggest the key by which the nation and the world will draw out the ambles of the hymn of hate and fly up Miss Howe's "Battle Hymn of the Republic"—"Mine eyes have seen the Glory of the coming of the Lord."

Anyway, Marian, somebody has said long before your time—"Let me sing a nation's song and I care not who writes its laws."

SEEING and SAYING

By WILLIAM A. FOWLKES Managing Editor Atlanta Daily World

Can't Love God And The Devil . . .

ONE OF THE GREAT TRUTHS of the ages is that one cannot worship God and the Devil at the same time. The substance of this would carry over into the relationship of man to man, or brother to brother. The Man of Galilee himself answered in reference to the greatest commandments, that love of God ranked first, and of neighbor, a close second, all other notwithstanding.

THIS THOUGHT was suggested the other day as the meanderings of Georgia's so-called Commission on Education began to come to light.

Ever since it was set up, the commissioned unit of state-sponsored racism had been harassing Negro leadership and whites who dared stand up for Negro first-class citizenship and justice. The average citizen has no idea of the tape-recorded telephone calls, photographic intimidation and "plants" perpetrated by those who wish to further divide the races under the heading of "Georgia Commission on Education."

But, as the state political campaign developed, there appeared a "magnificent" picture release, purporting to be a truthful representation of a candidate's association with Negroes and his alleged "softness" to segregation.

It is such a "concoction" that it made to boil even some of the employees used to put it together. Resignations sprang up all over the place, because the lie of hate had turned over on much of what is left of Georgia's political decency and the powerful "better" forces aligned behind it. As long as "only" Negroes and a few "liberal" whites were maligned, it had been all right, apparently. But, now the soul-burning "concoction" has splashed too far!

IT IS IMPOSSIBLE to hate one group without hating another. The virus inevitably spreads, because one cannot love God and the Devil; one cannot hate one brother and truly love another. Those who try it usually end up hating all their brothers. They are the ones who spread the venom and the lie of discord. 'T would be better that they were not tolerated to prosper!

CHAPTER 23 ONCE HOME, I turned my horse into the corral with the others. The house was bright with lamplight. Ma and Edna were home; the buggy was parked by the porch, forgotten. And Luther was home; his horse stood weary and three-footed, head down. As I crossed the yard, I could hear Cord's angry voice.

Ma and Edna were in the kitchen and Ma was crying, with Edna trying to comfort her. Cord paced up and down the parlor, his face like a Kansas twister, dark and forbidding and full of danger. I looked at Luther, who sat like a whipped hound, his face dejected, eyes cast to the worn rug.

Cord gave me no more than a glance, then went on with his lecture. "A damn snot-nosed kid, that's what you are! Something don't suit you, you run off, then come crying back. Where did you go after you left Overland's place?" "I told you," Luther said wearily. "Just riding around. You act like I done it!" "Well, somebody did," Cord said. He glared at me. "Not you, Smoke; anybody'd know that. You don't even like to spur your horse."

"You can take your spurs out of me right now," I said, "and your mad to somebody else." Cord's eyes got wide. "Well, now you just have your little heart set on crossing me tonight, don't you?" "Ain't we got enough trouble?" I asked. "You got to make more?"

Cord slapped his thighs and went on pacing. Finally he stopped and stood in front of Luther. "Now listen to me. I know you wouldn't do a thing like hanging a man, but those farmers don't know it. O'Dare is a filthy word with them right now, and of all the damned times to go wandering around the country, this has to be it."

"I wasn't anywhere near Everett's place," Luther said. "I swear it." "All right, all right," Cord said, waving his hand impatiently. "I believe you, but we've got to do something. Randolph wasn't fooling when he said he'd send for the marshal. There's going to be a stink over this."

"Ain't someone going to think about Everett's widow?" I asked. Cord flipped his head around. "Smoke, you've got enough to worry about right here. I'm going to have to hire a lawyer before I'm through. You know what they cost?"

"Maybe three hundred dollars?" I asked. "The price of a half-section of good land?" He swore loud enough to startle Ma and Edna, and he started to leave. Always before, I'd stood and taken my licking, but this time was different, the turning point or something. When he got within reach, I grabbed up a vase from the table and broke it across his forehead. Cord went down to one knee, bracing himself with his hands. He wasn't out, but he was seeing the prettiest stars a man could see.

Ma rushed over and flung her fat arms around him. "Son! Son, are you hurt?" She helped him up, her plump hands patting his face, brushing back that lock of hair. Cord sort of staggered a little when Ma helped him into a chair and he sat for a few minutes with his head held between his hands. Ma looked at me as though she was ashamed I'd ever been born.

"Smoke, the devil's in you, striking Cord that way!" "Walking out on people isn't my habit, but I suddenly had a crawl. I wheeled and stomped down the hall and slammed the door of my room behind me. A moment later I looked up as Edna opened the door and stepped inside, closing it gently. "So you're revolting, Smoke."

"Is that a cuss word?" She smiled faintly. "No, it might be a compliment." She came over and sat beside me. "Smoke, what's happening to us?" "We're coming apart," I said. "The O'Dare glue ain't as good as we thought."

"It was bad enough when Cord lit into Luther. Now you," she put her hand over mine. "I saw you with Julie tonight. You haven't quarreled?" I shook my head. "Then that's good. I wish I could believe like that."

"What do you mean?" I asked. "I mean, I wish I knew Luther better. Believing would be easier then." She paused. "Smoke, that day he came home dusty, he told me what really happened."

"Well," I said, "he never could keep his mouth shut." "That doesn't matter now," Edna said. "If there's a trial, and there surely seems to be one brewing, can you put your hand on the Bible and lie for Luther?"

I'd never thought of that and now that I had, I didn't want to consider it further. But I had; there was no way out. "I could slip the country," I said. "And be blamed for that man's death? That's no good and you know it."

"I don't know." Her voice was listless. "Smoke, I love my husband. Really love him. But I can see how bad this is going to look in court." "But maybe it won't get to court," I said. "Edna, maybe something will turn up, the real killer caught."

"That's a slim hope, Smoke, and you know it." She stood up and stepped to the door. "I want you to help my husband. For me. Will you promise me that?"

I nodded. "Sure, Edna. Luther didn't do it. There's no evidence to prove that he did. Not a bit."

"Let's hope you're right," she said and stepped out. Later I lay on my bed, staring at the ceiling, trying to find the straight of it all, but I could only see frazzled ends. There was no use denying that Luther had had a fight with Wade Everett; Everett's wife would testify to that and I'd have to back her story. Right then I wished that I was the world's worst liar, someone who couldn't be believed under oath. But I wasn't. Whatever set of principles I had was cemented pretty solid and there wasn't much I could do about them.

Sleep refused to come to me; I tried for an hour. Cord, Ma, Luther and Edna had all gone to bed and the house was quiet. I slipped out and walked across the yard to the barn. I saddled my pony and led him clear of the place before mounting. Dawn wasn't far away and the wind was starting to die down. Being in no particular hurry, I eased toward Wade Everett's place, out didn't go too near. Starting it, I rode on toward Vinegar. Randolph.

There wasn't any real purpose to this wandering, and I began to understand how Luther could have killed so much time just easting along, working out his problems. About a mile away from Randolph's place I saw a light come on. Someone was up and getting breakfast. I walked the horse, not taking any pains about being quiet, and suddenly the back door opened and Randolph popped out. He didn't stand with his back to the light but stepped aside and covered himself with the pre-dawn blackness.

"Who's there?" "Smoke O'Dare! I come to talk."

"The hell you have!" Randolph yelled, then a bright blossom of orange bloomed momentarily and the echo of the shot split the silence, rolling across the prairie. . . .

"And then I found the rope. It was a rope that pointed a finger, just as surely as if Wade Everett were doing it from the grave." Continue Smoke's story tomorrow.

Director Arens accused O'Dell of throwing "a facade" around himself by thrusting up the racial question.

Others, cited as communist organizers and colonizers in the South, who appeared before the probing group were: Carl Braden, of Louisville, Ky.; Frank Wilkinson, of Los Angeles, Calif.; William J. Williams is president and Dombrowski is executive director of the organization.

Wilkinson, former Los Angeles housing director, was accused by Arens of being a hard core communist who has worked in a number of Red organizations and who was dispatched to Atlanta to agitate about the subcommittee's hearings.

In refusing to answer the director's questions, Wilkinson said, "This committee stands in direct violation of the First Amendment of the U. S. Constitution."

WORKED AS WAITRESS Mrs. Cole, holder of a Master's degree in Science Education, testified she held jobs as a waitress in New York and as a spinner in a Durham, N. C., textile factory because they paid "good money."

Arens indicated she was the type person FBI man Amanda Pena referred to Tuesday when he said the infiltrating communists are a hard core of well-trained men and women.

Arens said Mrs. Cole has been identified as a communist colonizer in the South.

Robertson, a Chicago science writer, fell somewhat in the same category. He said he held degrees from the University of North Carolina and that he had worked in North Carolina textile mills in which Agent Pena said a communist group operates.

Asked if he were now a communist, Robertson said, "I am a loyal American," and later invoked the First and Fifth Amendments on the question.

Greensboro, N. C., businessman Karl R. Korstad, holder of the Master's degree and former teacher at Syracuse University was charged with being a member of a "Conference For Peace" which convened in Chicago in 1951 to urge the withdrawal of American troops from Korea. He denied this but said "I may have loaned my name and prestige" to a labor group which was behind this move.

Van Camp, 25-year-old former University of North Carolina student, was given a chance to receive immunity from criminal prosecution for any information he might give about communist activities in and about the state of North Carolina and the university he attended. The opportunity was promptly withdrawn when he indicated he would not cooperate with the investigators.

The House Un-American subcommittee goes into third and final day today with at least three witnesses remaining to be called to investigation of bombings, school segregation and the activity of the White Citizens Councils.

It further charged that the House committee was more interested "in harassing and labeling as 'subversive' any citizen who is inclined to be liberal" than in the "stated subversive activities."

Rep. Jackson said the letter had been placed in Congressmen's circular file "because it was 'quite obvious' that the names of some of the signees 'have been closely allied with the Communist Party'."

He later said the stimees could petition the subcommittee to have their names removed from the letter before it was admitted in the official record of the hearings.

"There is a very strong possibility that that letter may have been prepared by a communist," Rep. Jackson said. This shows how subtle the communist Party is in duping non-communists, he continued.

However, he made it clear that the Negro leaders may not have been unaware of what they were signing.

A photostatic copy of the letter was presented by Director Richard Arens in connection with the testimony of Carl Braden. Arens said the copy of the letter indicated it had been connected with the Southern Conference Educational Fund, Inc., an organization which was cited as questionable by the subcommittee.

Arens said SCEF, for which Braden and his wife are field secretaries, is the successor of the Southern Conference For Human Welfare which has been cited as subversive. He said the structure and leadership of SCHW took over SCEF.

However, he did not definitely state that SCEF has been considered subversive.

A brochure put out by SCEF lists among its members on the board of directors: Dr. James B. Braxley, of Georgia; John Wesley Dobbis of Georgia; Dr. E. Franklin Frazier of Washington, D. C.; Charles G. Gomillion of Alabama; Bishop S. L. Greene of Georgia; Bishop C. Eubank Tucker, counsel for Braden and several other witnesses, of Kentucky; other outstanding leaders.

The brochure said the conference works toward that day: "When second-class citizenship will be a thing of the past in the United States, when racial segregation will no longer place its life-long blight on the bodies of Negroes and the spirit of white people . . . when Negro and white Southerners will build together . . . toward greater opportunity for all."

MINERAL SUBSIDIES The House Interior Committee approved a new five-year program of government subsidies for mineral producers. The bill would provide a one-year program of stockpiling copper and five years of subsidy payments to supplement depressed market prices for lead, zinc, acid-grade fluorapatite, tungsten, beryl, chromite and columbitum-tantalum held personally liable. Another one of the harassment statutes requires annual registration of any corporation which advocates racial integration or raises or spends funds to employ lawyers or pay court costs of racial litigation.

In order to register, the corporation must supply for public inspection the names and addresses of its members, the source of each contribution or item of income received during the preceding calendar year, and the object of each expenditure.

The penalties for noncompliance with this law are the same as for the other one. In addition, each day's failure to register is a separate offense.

The third law creates and punishes the offense of barratry. Barratry is defined as instigating litigation, that is, bringing about a suit in which all or part of the expenses of the litigation are paid by a "nonparty" (a person or corporation which has no direct interest, right, or liability) in the suit, and occupies no position of trust in relation to the plaintiff, and is not a duly constituted legal aid society approved by the Virginia State Bar.

Desirable as it may be for the state to be able to detect law violators, suppress racial violence and tensions, and avoid racial antagonisms, the NAACP argues in its motion, such ends may not be achieved by denying constitutional rights.

NAACP attorneys state that the trial record discloses that persons identified with the association or seeking the betterment of the status of colored people "have been subjected to harassment, intimidation, loss of employment, and other manifestations of public hostility."

RIGHT TO PRIVACY Under similar circumstances, the NAACP notes, the court in the Alabama case upheld the right to preserve from disclosure the names and addresses of its members.

In addition, the motion asserts, to make the law applicable only to persons who advocate racial integration is in effect to penalize them for such advocacy in violation of the right of free speech protected by the First Amendment to the Constitution.

In Virginia, since both the legislative and executive branches of the government oppose elimination of state enforced segregation, the NAACP says, the only avenue of redress for one seeking to remove segregation is access to the courts.

Implied in the right of access to the federal courts, NAACP lawyers state, is the right to assist and to accept assistance, when necessary, to present adequately the issues to the courts.

Litigation attacking racial segregation is too costly for the average person to bear, the motion asserts, but state law would deny colored persons the right to obtain financial or legal aid in such litigation.

"To leave the federal courts open only to litigants able to finance such cases is to effectively close the door to the great majority of aggrieved citizens," the NAACP maintains.

Attorneys for the NAACP are Robert L. Carter of New York, Oliver W. Hill of Richmond, Va., Thurgood Marshall of New York, and Spotswood W. Robinson, III, of Richmond.

"NEGRO HAS BEEN USED"

"The Negro in the South has been 'used' for 300 years now. It's time for him to stand up on his own two feet and say 'I'm a man or I'm a woman.'"

"You don't have to send your children to Jim Crow schools," Mrs. Hurley continued, reminding her audience of the Supreme Court decision of May 17, 1954. And Jim Crow schools are inferior—every segregated school in this country is inferior—for white children as well as Negro children.

OSTER OF MINISTERS The church audience mumbled with cheers of approval as Mrs. Hurley suggested the ouster of disloyal ministers from their pulpits. "This is the only way to get these preachers to straighten up and fly right," she said.

Mrs. Hurley admitted that she was "a bit confused" as to the white man's conception of "a Negro's place" here in the South. "I go in one place," she said, "and they tell me to go upstairs; I go to another, I'm directed downstairs. I get on one vehicle, and they tell me to go to the back; and on another, they tell me to go to the front. I'm confused."

CUT THROUGH APATHY Finally, Mrs. Hurley warned her audience against "not to be satisfied. We've got to cut through this Negro apathy to stimulate these ignorant and dumb people so we can get all these people registered to vote. The day of Uncle Tom's is over. Our people ARE ready. We're ready to fight for, to pay the price of freedom."

Other speakers appearing on the program, who gave brief remarks, were Rev. Alexander Gladney, Rev. H. C. Bunton, Frank Kilpatrick, Earl W. Davis, John M. Brooks, Rev. W. L. Varnado, W. C. Patton, who conducted the Non-partisan campaign, Attorney S. A. Wilburn, Rev. E. W. Williamson, and Mrs. Ruby D. Spight who introduced Mrs. Hurley and J. T. Walker, master of ceremonies.

Atty. Wilburn, candidate for the seat in the state legislature praised the civic workers for their part in the campaign, and decried misrepresentation of the Negro in our city government "where the Negro population is 37 percent."

"DO IT FOR WALKER" Earl W. Davis praised Dr. Walker, urging Negroes to honor their leader by going out to the polls in droves. "That's the way he who started this movement would have had it," Davis said.

John W. Stiles, told of the "Miracle of 1950"—when we expect to have 3 million Negroes registered to vote in the South."

Entee Walker also threw in praise for Dr. Walker, urging Negroes to turn out and vote in huge numbers to pay tribute to the late insurance executive, and for all to attend a Shelby County Democratic Club, rally which was slated for last night. Dr. Walker was the club's president.

Leaders in the community who were cited along with ward workers were Thaddeus T. Stokes, of the Memphis World, Kilpatrick, Jesse Turner, cashier for the Tri-State Bank, M. I. Reid, Tri-State Defender staff writer, Rev. Vernado, Alex Wilson, Defender managing editor, W. I. Atkins, Rev. Bunton, Earl D. Davis, and Gladney.

A posthumous award went to Dr. Walker.

HUMAN DEEDS OF BRAVERY ON BEHALF OF DOGS

By Bob Bartos Prominent Dog Authority

Nearly every day of the week, some dog, somewhere in the country, becomes a hero, alerting his family to fire in the home, dragging a child out of the path of an oncoming locomotive, or performing some equally courageous deed. Many of these dog heroes are feted, medaled and achieve national fame.

It's relatively rare, however, to hear about people who express devotion for their four-footed friends through deeds of valor at the risk of their own lives.

To stimulate greater interest in the heroic acts of humans on behalf of their four-footed friends and to bring honor where honor is due, the Friskies Research Kennels have initiated the Friskies Fidelity Award. The first recipient was Victor Brand of Huntington, Long Island, who earned it by risking his own life to return to his burning home and rescue Timber, his dog.

If you know of anyone, who with courage and selflessness has recently performed a similarly brave deed on behalf of a canine friend, he may be eligible for a Friskies Fidelity Award. Send the name and address of your candidate with a brief description of the act to the Friskies Award Board, 124 East 38th Street, New York, New York.

Feeding Tip: It is not necessary to add meat to a good, commercial all-purpose dog food, such as Friskies, which already contains meat and bone meal in scientifically balanced proportions.

praval at this session of Congress. But committee sources said they expected the bill to influence VA policy anyway.

The committee approved the bill after Veterans Administrator Sumner G. Whittier said he had not completed his proposals on the problem of non-service-connected hospital care.

The committee requested his proposals last month after Whittier warned that under existing law VA hospital beds would have to be increased by 70 per cent to handle the expected load by 1968. He recommended that current policies be reviewed.

When Whittier told the group he did not have the proposals ready, it went into a closed-door session and stamped approval on a bill based on its own ideas.

Under present law, veterans' ailments traceable to their military service are treated free at VA hospitals. Non-service-connected illnesses are treated free when beds are available if the veteran says he cannot afford private care. Non-service-connected cases in VA hospitals outnumber service-connected cases 71,000 to 39,000.
